WTC trustees visit farm, okay bids

Western Texas College board members toured the college farm five miles south of Snyder and accepted bids for an extensive stuccoing project Monday night.

The 5 p.m. tour of the 271-acre farm, west of the Big Spring Hwy., was conducted by assistant agriculture professor Bob Doty, who showed the large area of livestock pens that were built last summer.

Doty said a rodeo arena will now be constructed adjacent to the pens, to coincide with the expiration of the college's lease of the county's rodeo grounds next year.

Victims still in hospital; bonds are set

Three people remained hospitalized today and a Roscoe man was being held under a total of $250,000 in bonds in the aftermath of an early Sunday shooting in the 1300 Block of 23rd St.

Larry Barkley, 29, of 1301 23rd remained in critical condition at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock, where the condition of 30-year-old Melody Middleton of Pampa had improved from critical to serious.

James Middleton, 35, of Pampa was listed in good condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The suspect, 26-year-old Einesio R. "Pete" Rivera of Roscoe, was being held at the county jail in lieu of two $100,000 bonds for attempted murder and a $50,000 bond for aggravated assault.

Barkley and Mrs. Middleton were both shot in their upper left abdomens and James Middleton was shot in the right shoulder and upper lip, police said.

Rivera was charged with attempted murder in the shootings of the Middletons and with aggravated assault in the shooting of Barkley.

Investigators said a .22-caliber semi-automatic rifle is believed to have been used in the 2:15 a.m. Sunday incident in Barkley's front yard.

Pennington expected to declare candidacy

John Pennington, Republican candidate for the Texas House of Representatives, District 78, is expected to officially announce his candidacy at 4 p.m. today in a press conference at East Ridge Elementary in Sweetwater.

House District 78 contains 11 counties, including Scurry, Nolan, Kent, Fisher and Garza, and parts of Taylor County. Others are Lynn, Stonewall, Jones, King, Knox and Cottle.

The seat is currently held by David Counts of Knox City, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of then State Representative Steve Carriker last year. Counts defeated Rod Waller in the November election.

Pennington, a 41-year-old native Texan, moved to Sweetwater from Midland in 1977. He has served as Nolan County Republican Chairman for two years and party precinct chairman for eight years. He was a

Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, said during the tour that the farm was purchased two years ago to help strengthen the agriculture department, which is one of the school's stronger departments and a primary source of its support.

Doty showed the covered hay storage area, feeder bins for livestock, modern hog-raising facilities, where sows and numerous young pigs are being kept, and other features of the farm.

Following a steak dinner in the WTC Student Center, the board members held a brief executive session to discuss a real estate matter in the board room of the administration building and then announced that no action would be taken.

Consultant Bert E. Downing of Roanoke discussed the stuccoing project and the bids for various types of masonry repair materials, after which the panel accepted a low bid of $38,302 for 1,900 gallons of Poly-Carb Mark 70 from the Poly-Carb Co. of Cleveland, Ohio.

Maintenance department head Leon Pettitt said scaffolding will be needed for the in-house (see TRUSTEES, page 8)

At plastics plant...

23 missing after explosion

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — The fire at a plastics plant continued to burn today after an explosion that flung debris five miles and shook the ground 25 miles away. At least one employee was killed and more than 100 injured.

Twenty-three people were missing, and firefighters were trying to determine today how far they can go into the burning plant to search for the missing, said Phillips Petroleum Co. spokesman George Minter.

At daylight, a thin column of smoke was visible rising from the plant.

"The fire is just about out. That was the objective overnight," said Jere Smith, another Phillips spokesman at the scene. "With daylight now we can start to account for the unaccounted."

Twenty Phillips employees and three contract workers were missing, Phillips President Glenn Cox said Monday night. He did not have any information about the one confirmed fatality.

"We know these people, we pray for their safety," Cox said. "It's a difficult time for all of us."

Flames and intense heat kept rescue workers from getting close to the explosion center overnight, but officials feared the worst.

"We're betting there's a lot of fatalities, just because of the nature of the explosion and where it happened," said Dr. Paul Pepe, the director of Houston's emergency medical services.

"We don't think there's anybody alive in there."

Phillips officials said today that 109 workers were taken to hospitals, where 35 were admitted and five to six were listed in serious to critical condition.

Seismologists at Rice University in nearby Houston said the blast appeared to be the equivalent of 10 tons of dynamite. The first explosion could be felt as far away as 25 miles. Several explosions followed.

Proposed Amendment No. 12

Below continues the series outlining the 21 proposed constitutional amendments which will be offered for voter ratification on the Nov. 7, 1989, general election ballot.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 53: would authorize the legislature to use the principal and income of the permanent school fund to guarantee bonds that are issued by the state for the purpose of assisting school districts in the acquisition, construction, or improvement of instructional facilities. The assistance may be either in the form of making loans to school districts or in the form of purchasing school district bonds.

Additional Information
The limit on the amount of bonds that may be guaranteed at one time is $750 million, or a higher amount set by a two-thirds vote of the legislature. The amount of any payment made by the permanent school fund would be a general obligation of the state to be paid to the fund from the state (see AMENDMENT, page 8)

Exit-level TEAMS begins Wednesday

The exit level Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) test will be administered at Snyder High School on Wednesday and Thursday.

The test will be given to all junior class students and those seniors who have not passed one or more sections.

Test dates are Wednesday for the mathematics section and Thursday for the English Language Arts portion.

No make-up sessions are permitted, however, students who miss the test, or who do not pass one or both sections of the test, will be tested in May.

Texas state law mandates that students must pass both sections of the TEAMS exit test by the end of the 12th grade in order to receive a high school diploma.

Parents with questions should call high school counselors John Short or Janet Wesson at 573-0132 or Janice Brown, director of curriculum and testing, at 573-9364.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A closet is something in which to store clothes, household supplies, linens, etc. It's the et cetera that causes the problem."

Snyder's Billy Ray Browning learned it is hard to get ahead and stay ahead of the Texas Aggies. In collecting items for the Cancer Society benefit auction, A&M Athletic Director John David Crow responded with a polite refusal letter.

Browning got everything from an autographed football jersey to caps from other college and professional sports teams. Browning then used the letter to shame a bunch of his local Aggie friends.

Browning, however, has a niece who just last year graduated from Texas A&M. Denise Merritt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.V. Merritt of Snyder, picked up on the situation and went straight to the university president's office.

The 1985 Snyder High grad proceeded to show

Uncle Billy Ray that you simply have to know how to ask. And arriving just in time for the auction was a football signed by Aggie head coach R. C. Slocum and all the players, a baseball cap from the Memorial Student Center signed by Aggie team members and a T-shirt from the Corp of Cadets signed by Aggie yell leaders.

Jerry Davis, teacher at Stanfield Elementary, was in the office last week and passed along a tip to Scurry County farmers about how to guarantee a rain.

Back in September, the Stanfield cafeteria workers planned a cookout for students. It rained. Last week, a makeup cookout was planned—and again it rained for the first time in more than a month.

We were also handed a definition of a teacher: "One who takes many live wires and sees that they are well-grounded."

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Members of the board of the Vietnam War Museum have rejected the resignations of the museum's two founders who had falsely claimed to be Vietnam veterans.

Board members said Monday they had tremendous respect for the two men and praised their work for helping make the museum in Alamo Plaza a reality.

Gaylord O. Stevens and Kenneth M. Bonner had claimed to be Vietnam veterans in order to receive support for the museum.

Early dismissal

Wednesday will be an early release day for Snyder public school students in order for teachers to meet and discuss the new Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) test objectives.

All classes will be dismissed at 2:45 p.m. and buses will run at that time. Parents are encouraged to pick up their children promptly so that teachers may attend the meetings.

Turf conference

Registration was to begin this morning at Willow Park Inn for the annual West Texas Turfgrass Conference.

The three-day event continues at 8 a.m. Wednesday in the Western Texas College Fine Arts Theatre, where all sessions will be held.

The event, which continues through Thursday, is under sponsorship of the West Texas Golf Course Superintendents Association.

Grid contest

Daniel Flores of 3409 Ave. U won the $50 first prize money with just two misses in last week's SDN Football Contest.

Four entrants managed three misses each so the tie-breaker method was used to determine second and third place winners. Using the total number of points predicted, Jesse Perkins of 3734 Sunset predicted three over the actual number of 42, while Charles Porter of 3103 36th Pl. predicted three under the actual number. So, each will receive half of the combined second and third place money, giving them $20 each.

Honorable mention goes to Karen Parker and Roger Pavlik. Another contest appears in today's issue.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Monday, 88 degrees; low, 52 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Tuesday, 53 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1989 to date, 10.99 inches.

Winery in area wins gold

Lubbock, Texas (AP) — Even one of Llano Estacado's competitors is happy the winery recently won a gold medal in international competition for its cabernet sauvignon.

Llano Estacado, a 12-year-old winery south of Lubbock, won the gold last week with its 1985 reserve cabernet sauvignon at the International Wine and Spirit Competition in London.

John Lowey, Llano's president, said his winery won't be the only one to benefit from the award.

A gold medal did not mean best of show, but that the judges considered it excellent. Four American cabernet sauvignons won gold; only the cabernet sauvignon from Stag's Leap in northern California scored higher than Llano Estacado's, Lowey said.

Happy Holidays and Endings Are Result of Operation Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last year, through Operation Dear Abby/America Remembers, your readers sent more than 6 million pieces of mail to our troops in Okinawa, Germany, the Philippines, Iceland, Korea, Europe and beyond to tens of thousands of young men and women in the military stationed abroad and at sea during the holidays.

DEAR ABBY: I participated in Operation Dear Abby in 1987, never dreaming what it would lead to. (Given the odds, I thought my chances for winning the lottery were far more favorable than finding a husband!)

I hope that this idea, in addition to the usual Operation Dear Abby deluge of mail, proves successful. With deepest thanks to you, your staff and your millions of readers for all your love and concern.

Our meeting was a dream that had come true. We were married six days later — Sept. 6, Abby, this is the best thing that has ever happened to us. I tease him and call him my "mail-order groom."

DEAR READERS: You have proven yourselves to be generous beyond belief, and I hope this year you will open your hearts to our servicemen and women who will be far from their homes and families for the holidays.

DEAR SHELLY: You just did. Congratulations and best wishes for a lifetime of happiness.

odd jobs. "Parents appear to be encouraging their children even more to reach consumer maturity as soon as possible by giving them a guaranteed income of sorts with which to practice," McNeal said.

That income, for children between the ages of 4 and 12, averages about $4.42 cents a week, said Dr. James McNeal, professor of marketing.

The study involved 1,018 households in the Houston metropolitan area that included at least one child. McNeal said the sampling is representative of households across the country.

The increase in savings is in part a result of parents encouraging their children to be more self-sufficient, he said.

Chase released from the hospital

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Comedian Chevy Chase has been released from a hospital where he was kept under observation after complaining of chest pains during a benefit tennis tournament in nearby Boca Raton.

McNeal said banks in Denver and New York have opened to exclusively serve children. Other banks have introduced special facilities for children, such as their own teller window and savings accounts.

McQueen addresses ABWA chapter

The Deep Creek Chapter of American Business Women's Association met Oct. 19. Guests present included Barbara Scrivner, Margaret Easterwood, Carol Young and Ruby Deavers.

Bettie McQueen was the featured guest speaker. She has been employed with Western Texas College for 13 years. Currently, she is Dean of Instruction.

Because of the depressed economy, WTC has experienced growth. People who are out of jobs enroll in WTC to retrain in a new field or to improve their current skills.

Mrs. McQueen spoke of two projects at the college. One, Project Mainstream, is a joint effort of WTC and West Texas Council of Governments. This program serves youths who will be seniors or those who just graduated from high school. Eligibility for this project is determined by family background.

Students who are eligible participate in a work project. They are placed in a non-profit organization, (most are placed on campus), and work 20 hours a week earning minimum wage. Advantages of this project for the student is that he or she will earn college credits and money, and will be helped with the budgeting of the money. They also take field trips.

As a result of Project Mainstream, WTC has become aware of a similar project called Project Re-entry. This project focuses on the 17-21 age group. To qualify, one must be a high school dropout who wishes to obtain a GED. Financial guidelines must also be met.

Project Mainstream also includes a work program where students work on campus 20 hours per week at minimum wage. This project is limited to 16 students, but there is a perpetual turnover. When one student passes the GED exam, they leave the program entirely, making space for another student.

Carole Bethel was the vocational speaker. She is employed with the Texas Department of Human Services as an eligibility counselor. She interviews people to determine whether or not they qualify for state benefits such as AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) and Food Stamps. She stated that she enjoys being able to help people, and the job is very rewarding knowing that she is helping someone in need.

Soda made to skiers taste specs

By The Associated Press

Marc Johnson's Mad River All Natural Soda is a cold-weather soft drink — but you can drink it year-round. Johnson says his company, Mad River Traders of Stowe, Vt., based its flavor decisions on the preferences of skiers just in from hard runs on the mountains of central Vermont. "The flavors they chose were extra-intense, a phenomenon we can only attribute to the effects of thin air and cold weather on their taste buds," Johnson says. Each flavor is a blend of pure water, real fruit juices, natural essences, spices and sweeteners. There are no artificial additives or preservatives. The soda comes in five flavors: Orange Chill, Revelation Root Beer, Black Cherry Explosion, Canadian Cream and Cola Riot. The product debuted last winter in parts of Vermont and New Hampshire. (Mad River Traders, Box 567, Stowe, VT 05672.)

In 1975, the House joined the Senate in voting to restore the American citizenship of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee, more than a century after his death.

Although a balanced hand is not ideal for competing over an opponent's opening bid, the West cards looked better with the A-Q of hearts over the heart bidder. So West doubled for takeout. That led to a normal part-score battle, with South bidding three hearts over two spades. A defensive mistake gave declarer a chance to make nine tricks, but he muffed it.

On the opening lead, declarer played dummy's club jack, covered by the queen and ace. A spade was led to dummy's king. (If West had not held the ace, he might have led a spade.) When another spade was played, West won the ace and played another club. King of clubs and a ruff were followed by a spade ruff. South now led a heart. West took the A-Q and then got off lead with another club. Eventually declarer had to lead away from the king of diamonds, losing two tricks and the contract.

Declarer could have succeeded after the spade ruff if he had played the jack of diamonds from dummy and let it ride. Even if that lost to the queen, declarer could still lead the king of hearts from his hand with some slight chance that he might smother the singleton queen of trumps in either defender's hand.

And the defensive mistake that gave declarer this chance? It was West's winning the second spade. East should win that trick with his queen and lead a trump. West would take the A-Q and another, and declarer would never enjoy a spade ruff.

Flag-burning: peculiar political issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe, as one senator said, there were just too many lawyers wrapped up in the flag debate. It certainly had more to do with legal and political points than with flag-burning episodes.

By the end of the week, burning the American flag will be a federal crime again, after four unopposed months that passed without a noteworthy episode of desecration.

The flag bill is due to become law on Saturday without President Bush's signature, withheld because he insisted that the Constitution should be amended to declare that Congress and the states can ban desecration of the flag. The Senate rejected the amendment last Thursday. The vote was 51 to 48, 15 short of the two-thirds required to approve a constitutional amendment. Eighteen Democrats voted for the amendment; 11 Republicans broke with Bush to vote against it.

Advocates of the amendment argued that it was vital because the Supreme Court overturned an earlier flag-burning law as an infringement of the right to free speech. Sponsors of the bill said it would stand up in court because, unlike the overturned Texas law, it doesn't mention motives, simply banning the act of burning, mutilating or trampling the American flag, with penalties of a fine up to $1,000 or up to a year in jail.

The bill calls for an expedited Supreme Court review, so the final exam probably won't be long in coming. "There will be a race to test the decision, there will be a race among the flag-burners to put this statute to the test," said Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., who believes the court will uphold the new law.

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole, the confessed lawyer who complained about all the lawyer talk, thinks the whole issue will be back in Congress because the court will overturn the statute.

So ends, or at least pauses, a peculiar political debate, rooted in the campaign of 1988 and revived on June 21, when the Supreme Court held that even an act of dissent so offensive as burning the flag is protected by the Constitution.

Uproar. Both houses of Congress adopted resolutions challenging the decisions. A band of House members staged an all-night speechmaking session denouncing the decision and defending the flag. And Bush urged that the Constitution be amended to undo the decision.

At that point, a flag protection amendment almost certainly would have passed Congress. But legislative wheels turn slowly. House and Senate committees held hearings on flag protection, listening to more than 100 witnesses. Congress spent more than 51 hours debating the issue. Bush, according to his spokesman, "put in an enormous amount of time" trying to gain support for the amendment he sought.

Bush displayed the flag issue daily during his campaign against Gov. Michael Dukakis, criticizing the Democratic presidential candidate for his veto of a 1977 bill to require that Massachusetts schoolteachers lead pupils in the Pledge of Allegiance. Dukakis said he had been advised it was unconstitutional; Bush said he would have found a way to sign it.

Democratic congressional leaders opposed a flag-burning amendment to the Constitution, but they weren't turning the issue over to Bush this time. They backed resolutions and bills giving their side an opportunity to vote the flag. During weeks of hearings and periodic installments of floor debate, they argued that there ought to be a law against flag-burning. The House passed one 317 to 43, and the Senate approved it 91 to 9.

That provided a political alternative to the proposed amendment. While no politician could afford to be against protecting the flag, the question became how to do it. And both sides know that if the court overrules the law, there will be new and probably irresistible pressure to amend the Constitution.

Bush was stuck. He couldn't block the bill he didn't want, especially in view of what he'd said about the Dukakis veto. So the pressure went down and with it, the political risks of voting against the amendment. Voter concern had subsided. So did the concern of senators that a vote against the amendment might be made a damaging issue in the next election.

In the Senate roll call, 13 senators who will be up for reelection next year voted against the amendment, 18 for it.

Dole insisted that "the people who sent us here" wanted the Constitution amended, and said the Senate should have been listening to them instead of to legalistic arguments. "We have too many lawyers in the Senate, too many lawyers who think they're on a high school debate team," the Kansas senator said. Dole said he's a lawyer, too, but doesn't talk about it very loudly.

While Dole said he doubted the opponents would be boasting to their constituents, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said he'd tell his that "we have saved the flag and we also preserved the Constitution."

But the best summation may have been that of Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Nebr.:

"America's political leaders have spent far too much time and have wasted far too much political capital on a subject which in the end will make very little difference to the future of our country."

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please give me an explanation of what zinc has to do with a man's sex life, if anything?

DEAR READER: Zinc is one of many minerals necessary for normal body function; it is an essential ingredient in more than 70 enzyme systems that control metabolism. Zinc deficiency causes stunted growth, taste and smell disorders, night blindness, immune impairment, poor healing, hair loss, dermatitis, diarrhea and male infertility (low sperm count and defective sperm). A rare form of impotence, associated with zinc deficiency, can be corrected by supplemental zinc.

Notice that I've listed many of the complications of zinc deficiency. No valid study has shown that additional zinc — above the Recommended Daily Allowance of 15 milligrams per day — improves sexual performance or aids health. In fact, excess zinc can be harmful. For example, it can cause anemia by interfering with copper metabolism. Meat, eggs, liver and seafood are rich natural sources of zinc.

Impotent or infertile men with normal body levels of zinc often mistakenly believe that supplemental doses of the mineral will improve virility. This is incorrect. As with vitamins and other minerals, an excess is not as helpful as an adequate amount. Although zinc is a vital element, I discourage patients from taking doses exceeding the RDA. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I — Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What would be the cause of my neck, fingers and wrists turning black when I wear good jewelry?

DEAR READER: Certain people seem to excrete substances (in their perspiration) that oxidize metals. To my knowledge, these substances have not been identified; however, gold and platinum jewelry may leave black deposits on the skin of such individuals.

Of course, silver jewelry will commonly cause a black discoloration on most people, as tarnish is rubbed off on the skin. So will copper and brass. Such a reaction to gold is much less common and probably reflects sweat-induced oxidation of trace metals that give gold jewelry its strength. Therefore, if you use high-karat gold, the discoloration should be far less noticeable. In addition, you will want to avoid jewelry made from other metals.

Survey groups Americans into fit, fat

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Young and Reckless" may sound like the name of a soap opera, but a new study says it's the way some 68 million Americans approach diet and health.

On the other hand, the study says 45 million others are "healthy and wealthy" and characterizes other large groups as "fat and frustrated" and even "confused and indifferent" about their health.

The survey done for Prevention magazine found that middle-aged women with college degrees lead the healthiest lifestyles, while white, male, blue-collar workers have the worst health habits.

The report, "The Fit and the Fat," found a sizable group of people who want to be healthy but lack the resources, both personal and financial. Many others know what to do to be healthy but lack motivation, said Thomas Dybdahl, director of the study.

The study, based on a survey of 1,250 randomly selected Americans, was conducted by Louis Harris Associates. A survey of that size has a margin of error of about 3 percentage points.

"Clearly, this report demonstrates the need to deliver health information in a method that can be both heard and understood," added Mark Bricklin, editor of Prevention.

The survey categorized Americans into the following groups:

—The "healthy and wealthy" are tops in health and nutrition behavior. Members of this group are careful with their diets, limit fat and make sure they get enough fiber, vitamins and minerals.

They are about 45 million strong, more than half are women and the group is largely in middle age.

—The "safe and satisfied" tend to have a healthy lifestyle, but show little inclination to do better.

They limit the fat, salt and sugar in their diet but are below average in watching cholesterol. This group has the best record for exercising, and does well at maintaining the proper weight.

There are 13 million people in this group, divided almost evenly between men and women. The largest share is over 50, they are slightly below average in education and income and many hold unskilled jobs.

—The "sedentary but striving" are overweight but want to do better.

They have good records for avoiding salt, fat and cholesterol but still have serious weight problems, with 77 percent of the group overweight. They know it, and about half are trying to lose weight.

Nearly two-thirds of the 14.5 million in this group are women. They are older than the national average, are more likely to be minorities and have the lowest income levels.

—The "young and reckless" know what healthful practices are but make little effort to follow them.

They pay little heed to nutrition, especially fat consumption, are only average at getting medical care and have a poor record for using auto seat belts. They do exercise regularly, however.

This is a large group, 68 million, with males being slightly more than half.

—The "fat and frustrated" want to be healthy but don't know what to do. This group has the most members trying to lose weight, and the fewest who succeed.

In nutritional habits they are about average, yet 88 percent are overweight. Their rate for exercising is less than half the national average.

The 13 million in this group are mostly women, slightly older than average, more likely to be minorities and have the lowest education level of any group.

—The "confused and indifferent" have limited knowledge of what constitutes a healthy lifestyle and don't care.

Men are the majority in this 9 million member group, largely whites, with lower than average education and income levels; many hold blue-collar jobs.

No end in sight for 86-year court battle over oil fortune

ROME, Ga. (AP) — Eleven residents of this north Georgia city are trying to win an 86-year court battle that would make them heirs to a $200 billion oil fortune.

The 11 are descendants of Pelham Humphries, who died in 1835 not knowing that land he owned in Texas would become the site of the most continuously productive oil reserve in the United States. The reserve, known as the Spindletop oil field, was discovered 66 years after his death.

Hugh Swinford of Rome, Ga., who said his mother was a first cousin to Humphries, is a member of the Pelham Humphries Heirs Trust Association, formed three years ago to continue the pursuit of a settlement from companies that have profited from the oil and other mineral resources on the former ranch.

Association members gather each October in Decatur, Ala., for a family reunion and legal strategy meeting.

The lawsuit now is in U.S. District Court in Beaumont, Texas.

Max Wilson, a Mountain City, Tenn., attorney for the trust association, said he couldn't predict when the Humphries claim might be settled, but he contends the case is strong.

"I think this is a case that could wind up in the United States Supreme Court," he said.

Wilson said Humphries was born and reared in Pikeville, Tenn., about 75 miles northeast of Chattanooga. In 1832, he went to Texas, then part of Mexico, and began operating a 5,000-acre ranch. In 1835, on a trip to visit his family, he was killed in a Memphis barroom brawl.

He left no children. His would-be heirs are descended from his sister, who remained in Pikeville.

In Humphries' belongings, his sister found a deed to what is now the Spindletop field, Swinford said.

"It's been said this is the most-producing oil well in the world. It's called 'old faithful,'" he said.

"The first well drilled still produces as much as any well in the world."

Swinford said Humphries' descendants were just beginning to investigate their claim to the homestead when the well was drilled. Early in the fight, a county courthouse containing family records burned down, and family tombstone markers disappeared from a cemetery.

"Things like this just don't happen without a reason," he said, adding that the deed remains in the family's hands.

The present lawsuit, Wilson said, has been fortified by the investigations of British genealogist Brooks Baker, who verified the family history of each claimant and by an affidavit from a man who said he saw Pelham Humphries' gravestone and its inscribed date of death.

"Our contention is that once we establish the date of death at 1835," Wilson said, "then we can prove the subsequent deeds of conveyance are forgeries."

Four deeds exist that allege transfer of the property by Pelham Humphries to W.P.H. McFadden.

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for that cash prize.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.
