

Red Ribbon Week begins as sellout; dance marks finale

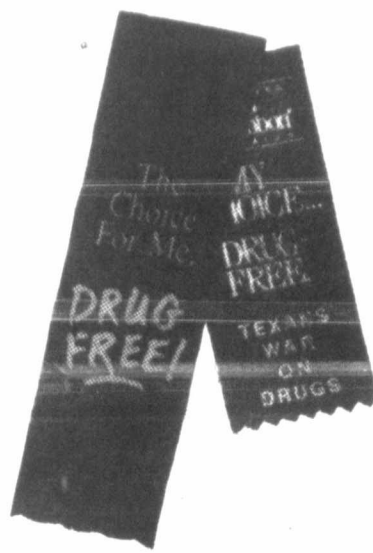

Red Ribbon Week began as a sellout, but thanks to members of the Lions Club, Classmates in Action (CIA) has a few more ribbons to sell.

The local red ribbon campaign, a unified effort with Texans' War on Drugs, is being held in conjunction with the Texas Red Ribbon Campaign. The red ribbon signifies a pledge to remain drug free for a week.

Club members received ribbons to sell a week ago, and by the weekend they had sold out of the 1,000 original ribbons. To fill orders at local elementary schools, 12 CIA members got together Sunday afternoon and made 1,200 more ribbons, which sold quickly Monday.

club members received approximately 40 ribbons from the Lions Club, and sponsor Kim Collier said this morning there are only a few ribbons left.

Collier attended the Texans' War on Drugs Adult Leadership Conference in Austin Sunday through Tuesday, so club members took care of the ribbon sales themselves. "I'm proud to be their sponsor. We've got a fantastic group of kids here," Collier said.

"The students handled it so well with me being gone," she added. Students decorated the high school with red ribbons.

CIA will sponsor a dance Friday night after the Snyder varsity football game with Sweetwater. Admission to the red ribbon dance will be $3, or $2 if the student is wearing a ribbon.

Proceeds from red ribbon sales and the dance will be used to purchase McGruff programs for the elementary schools.

"That's where we feel like we can really make a difference, with elementary level students," Collier said.

With the Snyder-Sweetwater rival, and Sweetwater's colors being red and white, Collier said coaches have been very cooperative about all the red around the school.

Other Snyder residents who attended the Austin conference with Collier were Sherrolyn Vestal, Sue Eiring, Carolyn Glaves and Janice Brown. Collier said she got a number of ideas for next year's campaign, which will be held the last week of October.

In Brief

Abortion bill

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The state House approved a strong abortion control bill that advances Pennsylvania toward becoming the first state to take advantage of new restrictions allowed by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The state Senate delayed discussion of the bill until after it returns from a two-week break for elections. The state's Democratic governor, Robert P. Casey, has said he supports new controls on abortion.

"Pennsylvania sent to the nation this message," said Rep. Stephen Freind, a Republican and sponsor of the anti-abortion proposal. "Pennsylvania is, Pennsylvania always will be down the road pro-life."

City hall fire

ALVARADO, Texas (AP) — An Alvarado City Jail inmate died early today and another inmate was critically injured when a fire swept through the city hall building.

Police Chief Frank Williams identified the inmates as Jose Ortiz, 25, who died early today at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth, and Willie Rodriguez, 19, who was in critical condition early today at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas.

Both men were being held on traffic violations, Williams said.

Libyan leader admits to backing terrorists; says he's stopped now

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Libya's Moammar Gadhafi has admitted for the first time that he sponsored international terrorism but says he stopped when he discovered the terrorists were working for themselves and not for all Arabs.

He also told Cairo's state-owned weekly magazine Al-Mussawar, published today, that he wants no confrontation with the United States and would welcome a dialogue toward friendlier relations.

Al-Mussawar said the interview was conducted a week ago, a day after Gadhafi met with President Hosni Mubarak in Tobruk on Libya's Mediterranean coast to discuss improving relations after 16 years of friction.

Gadhafi spoke about a reversal in his policy toward terrorism in reply to a question suggesting that support of "groups that practice terrorism in the name of revolutionary violence" may have harmed Libya.

"At one point, we supported some of these groups without meticulously examining their aims and role," he told Al-Mussawar editor Makram Mohammed Ahmed, a Mubarak confidant. "But when we discovered that these groups were causing more harm than benefit to the Arab cause, we halted our aid to them completely and withdrew our support."

Sounding apologetic, Gadhafi added: "We erroneously thought that these groups could be part of the (Arab) national liberation movement. But we found out that they were practicing terrorism for the sake of terrorism and for other objectives that had nothing to do with our national cause."

In the past, Gadhafi insisted he helped only national liberation movements.

"Let me tell you frankly that hijacking planes and killing civilians are acts of murder that have nothing to do with combat," Gadhafi said. "(Libya) should not be called to account for any of these acts, because we have withdrawn our support of such groups."

Gadhafi's sponsorship of international terrorism was the principal cause of his rift with the United States. In September 1987, U.S. officials presented to the United Nations a selected chronology specifying 60 cases of what they termed Libya's terrorism and support for various terrorist groups.

A crime victim on request would have the right to be notified of court proceedings, to be present at all public proceedings, to confer with a representative of the prosecutor's office, to receive restitution, and to receive information regarding the accused's conviction, sentence, imprisonment and release.

Additional Information
The proposed amendment would also give the state, through the prosecuting attorney, the right to enforce the rights of crime victims. Western Texas College...

Attendance up 18%; among best in Texas

An increase of 18.43 percent enrollment from the fall of 1988 to the present has been reported at Western Texas College, the third highest of community and/or junior colleges in the state.

WTC ranks behind American Educational Complex, which reported an increase of 23.05 percent, and Collin County Community College District, with an increase of 22.73 percent.

The information was compiled and released by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

In the fall of 1988, some 966 students had registered at WTC. That figure jumped to 1,114 this past fall, with 95 new students being enrolled from the newly opened Price Daniel Unit.

Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, indicated that college officials were "pleased" with the report. He attributed part of the increase to Price Daniel inmates, adding that he expects more inmates to enroll in the future.

He also said that at this time the college's dormitory and fine arts department and fine arts division were two areas that have shown a definite increase in enrollment.

"The increase of full-time students really pleases us," he said, adding that "the agriculture department and fine arts division were two areas that have shown a definite increase in enrollment."

Dr. Krenek said that no new programs are planned at the college at this time, but he noted they are hopeful enrollment at the extension center will continue to grow as it traditionally does each summer.

Other increases reported at area community colleges include Howard College in Big Spring, 4.70 percent; Midland College, 5.30 percent; Odessa College, 0.68 percent; and South Plains College in Levelland, 11.72 percent.

The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board also reported that Texas college and university enrollments are up this fall by more than 3.1 percent. Preliminary figures for the 1989 fall semester indicate the combined enrollment at all institutions of higher education in Texas is 858,331, an increase of 25,865 students from last fall. Enrollment at public junior colleges and universities totaled (see ENROLLMENT, page 9)

The following letter, complimentary of the Snyder business community, appeared recently on the editorial page of the Odessa American:

"...I'm one of millions of Americans who suffers from asthma. Because of this I depend on bottled oxygen. It has reached the stage that I can no longer walk through the grocery stores, department stores and malls.

"Many others have physical impairments that limit their mobility. We could regain some of our self-sufficiency if local stores provided electric shopping carts.

"I was amazed to learn that none of the major stores in Odessa provide this service. A major grocer told me they did not know such a cart was made. "During a recuperative visit with my daughter in Snyder, I discovered that two of the three supermarkets have these electric carts.

"Is Snyder more progressive than Odessa?" "The next time you go to the grocery or the mall, look to see if they furnish electric shopping carts.

"If they don't, suggest they might be losing sales because there is a segment of society with physical limitations."

Responding to the needs of customers is another good reason for shopping with home-town friends.

'No pass, no play' affects only a few

Snyder High School was bit again by "No Pass, No Play," but the impact affected less than 10 percent of those participating in extracurricular activities.

The area hit hardest was the band program, which lost 18 of 140 members. Two were also lost in drama and in choir.

According to the University Interscholastic League, in compliance with House Bill 72, students who made a failing grade will not be permitted to participate in extracurricular UIL activities for a six weeks period which began Oct. 14 and ends Nov. 22.

The Tiger varsity football team lost two players, as did the junior varsity unit. Four students on the freshman squad will be off the team.

Those eight players come from a total of 95 out for football this season.

Varsity and freshman volleyball were untouched by the six week's grading period. The junior varsity squad lost two team members.

In other sports, boy's basketball lost two of 22 while the girl's program lost four of 18. Those total figures of 22 and 18 do not include athletes currently participating in football or volleyball. Also, there is no basketball breakdown as to varsity, junior varsity and freshman because coaches have yet to determine which players will be on those teams.

Girl's golf lost three players and the combined tennis team lost one. Boy's golf was not affected.

Snyder Junior High lost one seventh grade football player and six eighth graders.

Other programs at the junior high do not compete in extracurricular activities until the spring.

Bakker given 45-year term

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A judge sent evangelist Jim Bakker directly to jail to start a 45-year sentence for defrauding followers of millions of dollars, saying people were "sick of being saps for money-grubbing preachers."

U.S. District Judge Robert Potter on Tuesday also fined the defrocked PTL founder $500,000, concluding that Bakker had continued to milk the faithful even after his conviction for overselling memberships in a Christian vacation retreat.

The 49-year-old television evangelist left the courtroom in leg irons and handcuffs on his way to federal prison in Alabama. Depending on the outcome of an appeal, he will serve at least 10 years before being eligible for parole.

Prosecutors said the man who founded the once mighty PTL religious empire raised thousands of dollars since his Oct. 5th conviction and needed to be imprisoned to stop him from using TV and the mails to raise more.

"He's able to walk out of this courtroom today and continue to perpetuate this fraud," Assistant U.S. Attorney Jerry Miller told the judge. "He hasn't blinked."

Potter read a letter that Bakker and his wife, Tammy Faye, mailed last month from their new TV ministry in Orlando, Fla., asking 300 supporters to send in $1,000 apiece to alleviate a financial crisis.

"Those of us who do have a religion are sick of being saps for money-grubbing preachers and priests," Potter said. "Worst of all, it appears that Mr. Bakker feels he was deserving of his gains from the little people who sent in their savings."

Potter refrained from ordering Bakker to make restitution to his victims, saying that issue needed to be resolved in bankruptcy court.

Bakker's fall from power began in 1987 with revelations about a sexual encounter with former church secretary Jessica Hahn, who received hush money, leading to the unraveling of the ministry.

"I'm deeply sorry for those I have hurt," Bakker said before sentencing. "I have sinned. But never in my life did I intend to defraud anyone."

Prosecutors didn't accept his apology.

"This man is a con man, a common criminal," said Miller. "He's ready, willing and able to pick it up where he left it off. He's ready to go back to the henhouse."

Bakker stood and stared straight ahead as the sentence was read. Potter then sent him to the medium-security federal prison at Talledega, Ala., where he arrived late Tuesday.

Warden Don Southerland said Bakker was to spend the night in a cell with another inmate, and remain there a few weeks before being assigned to another institution.

Defense attorney Harold Bender had asked that Bakker be freed on bond pending an appeal. But Potter said he posed a substantial flight risk.

"He has supporters who think he can do no wrong and who say they are willing to do anything for him," Potter said. "I believe them."

Bakker's 19-year-old daughter, Tammy Sue Chapman, was led sobbing from the courtroom. Mrs. Bakker did not attend the trial.

Zsa Zsa Gabor gets three day jail term

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The law slapped back at Zsa Zsa Gabor with a three-day jail term for slapping a policeman, ending a circuslike case that left the actress unrepentant and her husband fuming.

"Yes, I'm upset," said Miss Gabor's eighth husband, Frederick von Anhalt, as he stormed down the steps of the courthouse after Tuesday's sentencing. "I will ask the court if I can go to jail instead of my wife."

Miss Gabor, a one-time Hungarian beauty queen believed to be in her mid-60s to early 70s, snickered, smiled and made quips as Beverly Hills Municipal Judge Charles Rubin announced the sentence, peppering his statements with rebukes and warnings.

"Now you laugh," the judge said, before lecturing Miss Gabor about the 25,000 Americans who die yearly in alcohol-related accidents. Among Miss Gabor's misdemeanor convictions was driving with an open container of alcohol.

"The law applies to everyone, whether they are rich or poor and whether they are famous or not," Rubin said before sentencing her.

"In the absence of extremely mitigating circumstances ... if you strike a cop, you go to jail."

Along with the jail term, the judge ordered Miss Gabor to pay $12,937.50 in fines and restitutions and to perform 120 hours of community service in a women's homeless shelter, where she may not talk about her case or give media interviews. Miss Gabor, who returned home after the verdict, was given until Dec. 29 to complete the jail sentence.

She also was ordered to be interviewed by a psychiatrist and to refrain from driving until she gets her real age on her driver's license. During the trial, Miss Gabor claimed the license was stolen and altered by someone else.

The judge repeatedly attacked Miss Gabor's demeanor inside and outside of court, saying she was "milking this case for publicity" at the expense of the taxpayers who paid for the trial.

"She has demonstrated an attitude continually of contempt for law and order and these proceedings, without a hint of remorse or contrition of any kind," the judge said. "And that is very relevant to sentencing."

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with a sick cornea. I often get the feeling something is in my eye. One eye doctor suggested I postpone cataract surgery to give eye surgeons time to accumulate experience with possible complications. Since my doctor practices in a small town, he can't have much experience with my problem. What can I do?

DEAR READER: The cornea, the clear covering over the front of the eye, is richly supplied with nerves. Therefore, a corneal abrasion (scratch), speck of dust or infection can often be very uncomfortable. Your cornea may be too dry (from lack of tears) or, if you wear contact lenses, they may be improperly fitted. Also, you could have a chronic virus infection of the cornea that needs treatment.

Cataracts are caused by clouding of the lens, the portion of the eye behind the cornea that focuses light on the retina. Many eye specialists are proficient at performing cataract surgery. If you need a cataract operation, you should have it done. The procedure is safe and can be performed quickly under local anesthesia by a qualified ophthalmologist.

I am unclear about your eye difficulty. From your description, you seem to have two conditions: an irritated cornea and a cataract. Ask your doctor to refer you to an ophthalmologist for a second opinion. You may have to travel several miles from your town, but good vision is important and the trip would be a small price to pay to preserve your sight.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: The areas around my husband's eyes get very dark when he is tired. Why is this?

DEAR READER: Fatigue-induced darkening around the eyes is due to pooling of blood in the tissues. I do not know why this happens or why some people have a marked tendency to develop black circles under their eyes. The reaction is apt to run in families and is not a health hazard.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you publish information on cancer of the cervix? What are the causes and cures, if any?

DEAR READER: The cervix is a small doughnut-shaped muscular structure at the opening of the uterus. It is a relatively common site for cancer cells to appear. Fortunately, these cells are usually slow-growing and can be identified by a simple scraping called a Pap test, named after Dr. George N. Papanicolaou, the doctor who first described it.

The cause of cervical cancer is unknown, but the malignancy is more frequent in women who begin intercourse at an early age and have multiple sexual partners. Some cervical cancers appear to be caused by sexual transmission of the human papilloma virus and herpes virus type 2.

Early cervical carcinoma (carcinoma in situ) is treated with surgical excision, by freezing the cells (cryotherapy) or by laser.

More advanced cases require extensive surgery, such as hysterectomy, to remove malignant tissue. X-ray treatment, with or without surgery, is often effective.

Like many cancers, cervical malignancies are much easier to treat when discovered early. This is the reason doctors urge sexually active women, in particular, to undergo annual examinations and Pap tests. Cervical cancer is ordinarily easy to diagnose; early treatment is almost always successful.

Kids Growing Up Together Must Learn to Play Apart

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: A mother signed "Frustrated" asked, "Is it rude to invite only my child's playmate, even though there are three other children in his family?"

You replied, "It's not rude to invite only your child's playmate — regardless of how many siblings he has."

As a teacher, I think your answer was right on target. We do our children a disservice when we fail to teach them that they are not a package deal, but individuals, with separate friends, interests, activities and lives.

Life isn't always fair or equal, but invitations usually balance out. If one child is consistently excluded, it may be because he (or she) has a problem (behavior, personality, etc.). If so, perhaps the parents need to give that child more time doing special things and let that child choose a special friend for an outing.

DEAR SINGLE AND SHORT: Right on! The world is full of towering midgets and "giants" from the eyebrows up. Women, give a little guy a break. You could get the prize (and surprise) of your life. Trust me.

DEAR ABBY: You almost scored a direct hit. The name of the person who invented the flush toilet was not "John" — it was Thomas Crapper. (Really!) He lived in Chelsea, England.

You can find the story of this invention in Mr. Crapper's biography titled "Flushed With Pride."

As to where the term "John" came from, I'm afraid you'll have to come up with another explanation.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Oct. 26, 1989

Things look better than usual for you in the year ahead where your material interests are concerned. This could be a year when you'll be able to get a number of luxury items for which you've been longing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have an idea you feel could be of benefit to you, it's better not to discuss it with others until you have everything in a "go" position. Someone might steal your brain child. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Steer clear of sales today that are promoting unique or exotic merchandise. There's a possibility you might end up buying gadgets and items for which you'll never have a use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually your tenaciousness enables you to stick to your purpose until you reach your objective. But today you might take yourself out of the running when the goal is within sight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Before springing into action on a flash of inspiration today, put your bright thought down on paper so that it can be studied further. Up close it might not look all that good.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you are presently working on a new project, be patient and take everything one step at a time. You could fall on your face if you try to accomplish your objective with one big leap.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you're a rather independent thinker who is not easily influenced by compromise. Today, however, you might yield to peer pressure and follow counterproductive advice.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be patient with co-workers today, especially those who do not grasp the essence of ideas as rapidly as you do. It won't hurt you to repeat information or instructions for their benefit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's best not to borrow money from friends today if you're uncertain about when you'll be able to repay it. Try to make due with what you have rather than jeopardizing a relationship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are indecisive about making a decision today that affects others as well as yourself, dismiss it from your mind for a while and come back to it later when you have a fresh perspective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It might be wise to temporarily shelve tasks or assignments that are exacting. Your concentration might not be up to par today and you could mess up where details are concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An "easy come, easy go" frame of mind today could lead to the loss of an opportunity where your indifference may let something profitable slip through your fingers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your salesmanship qualities might not be up to par today and there's a possibility you may let your prospects off the hook because you're a poor closer.

Nine to be inducted into R&R Hall of Fame

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Who, The Four Tops, the Four Seasons, the Kinks, the Platters, Hank Ballard, Bobby Darin and Simon and Garfunkel have been selected for induction Jan. 17 to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.

The selections bring to 43 the number of recording acts chosen for the hall and represent "a good cross section" of musical style, rock historian Norm N. Nite said Tuesday.

Issue clouded by limited knowledge

AUSTIN (AP) — Eighty percent of Texas voters say they've heard about workers' compensation problems, but only 30 percent know much about them, according to a new poll.

"The bottom line is Texans have only limited knowledge and limited interest in the workers' compensation debate here in the Legislature," said Paul Harstad, vice president of Peter D. Hart Research Associates Inc. "This is not what you'd call a burning issue for voters."

The firm polled 605 Texas voters for the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, a group of attorneys who represent injured workers, and Texas for Civil Justice, described as a victims' rights group.

Lawmakers will try for the third time this year to pass workers' compensation reform legislation in a special legislative session that begins Nov. 14.

The system has been criticized as combining inadequate benefits for workers with skyrocketing premiums.

Even though Texas voters don't know much about workers' compensation, they do favor fair payments to injured workers, said the survey.

The survey was dismissed as "worthless" by Dane Harris, president of the Texas Association of Business.

Planning the play

By James Jacoby

Forget that there's a play for six clubs. In tournament play, with only 27 combined high-card points and double stoppers in all suits, three no-trump is normal. Since overtricks are important, how should you play with a heart lead? You might plan to cash A-K of spades, throwing a diamond, and intending to try the club finesse next. If that works, run the clubs and see if you want to try for a favorable end-position by exiting with a heart in the hope that a defender will have to lead away from the king of diamonds. The other approach is to simply play ace and queen of clubs, giving up on the club finesse. Now you play out all your clubs, and the defenders are burdened with having to hold spades as well as the king of diamonds. Under those circumstances, something good frequently happens at the finish.

When the deal occurred, declarer decided he did not want to give up on the club finesse working. He won the first heart and played dummy's A-K of spades. What a pleasant surprise when the Q-J dropped doubleton, setting up the entire spade suit! He got rid of all his red-suit losers before trying clubs, and made six for an excellent result.

Note that on this deal East would have greatly improved his score if he had opened with a weak two-bid in diamonds. That's off the wall for experienced players, since East might be making it impossible for his side to play in a heart contract, but unorthodox bids sometimes work. This time West would be leading a diamond, and the defense would get two tricks for sure.

Callers demand start...

Fans want 'Too Tall'

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson has allowed Cowboys fans to override one of his decisions.

The team's switchboard was flooded Tuesday with more than 200 calls from people unhappy with the announcement that defensive lineman Ed "Too Tall" Jones had lost his starting job after 15 seasons.

Taken aback by the reaction,

Johnson compromised.

"OK, we'll start him. If that's what the fans want, we'll keep Ed in there," the first-year coach said. "They want to see him start 200 consecutive games, so we'll do it."

But Cowboys fans wanting to see Jones play had better be on time for Sunday's game against the Phoenix Cardinals.

Jones will play the first several plays at left defensive end before giving way to rookie Tony Tolbert, who is expected to play a majority of the game.

Johnson announced Monday that he had decided to bench Jones in favor of Tolbert, a move that would have ended Jones' streak of 198 consecutive starts in non-strike games. Jones took a year off from the NFL to pursue a boxing career.

"Ed has an injured knee that has kept him out of practice," Johnson said in explaining the reasoning behind the lineup switch. "Ed will be the first to tell you we need to do what is in the best interest of the Cowboys to win football games."

At 0-7, the Cowboys are the NFL's only winless team. They have lost 17 of the last 18 games dating to last season.

Jones, at 38 the oldest defensive player in the NFL, was moved inside two weeks ago but the 6-foot-9 frame that made him so fearsome on the outside has made him an easy target for opposing inside linemen. He has one tackle and one assist in the two games since moving inside.

"It's easy for an offensive lineman to get under you," Jones admitted.

Dean Hammel will start in Jones' spot at one of the tackles, a position depleted by injuries to Mark Walen and Danny Noonan.

Players were off Tuesday and Jones was not available for comment. On Monday, he had defended Johnson's decision to go with Tolbert, who has started at left defensive end the last two weeks.

"Tony is the future of the team and you've got to give him experience," Jones said. "I'm looking at it from a coaching standpoint."

Jones hasn't announced that this would be his last NFL season. He usually waits until the off-season to decide if he will play again.

"Ed is a true pro and a first-class guy," Johnson said. "It was a difficult decision to make."

Gridders honored by weekly awards

Five defensive players for the Tigers got the weekly sack award from the Snyder coaching staff following the SHS grid victory in Ft. Stockton, a 34-8 affair, in which the Tigers' defenders allowed the Panthers just 62 total yards.

Linebacker Tommy Lane led the charge with five quarterback traps. Lane also caused a fumble, recovered a fumble, received the coaches' Big Hit award, was the Snyder leading tackler with 10 and graded out at 96 percent.

Damien Haywood had a pair of QB sacks followed by Jody Iglehart, Clint Haywood and Randy Morris with one each.

Haywood also caused a fumble as did Bart Morton. Morton and safety Charlie Guynes recovered fumbles from the Panthers in the Snyder win.

Willie Garcia won his third consecutive Knockdown award by taking seven defenders off their feet via blocks.

Garcia received a defensive grade from the coaching staff of 100 percent and was 95 percent, offensively.

David Jennings was cited as the other Big Hit winner and quarterback Toby Goodwin and running backs Paul Anderson and Dewayne Cato were recognized for great fakes.

The entire defensive unit received the Special Teams award on a pair of plays involving high snaps to the Ft. Stockton punter. On one play the kick was blocked and recovered by the Snyder defense and the kicker was sacked on the other.

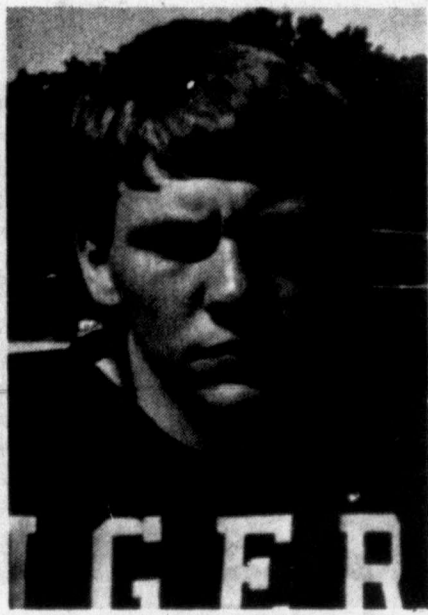

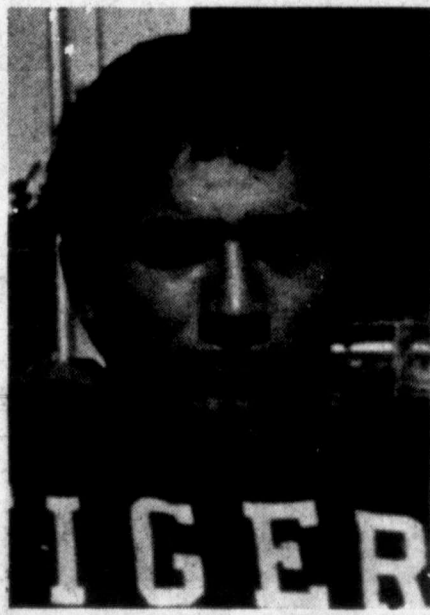

Morton was singled out as getting the block and recovering the football afterward and Morris and Damien Haywood split the sack on the Panther punter.

Other special teamers catching the coaches' attention were Dewayne Cato, for outstanding kick-off coverage and his quick kick that pinned the Ft. Stockton team inside their ten yard line, and Ed Rios who supplied exceptional coverage on kick-offs.

Other offensive players who received grades of 80 percent or higher include Goodwin with 92 percent, Shelby Bufkin with 90 percent, Mark King with 100 percent, Cato with 95 percent, Jayson Presley with 82 percent, Morris with 95 percent and Bill Hodges with 88 percent.

Defenders scoring above the 80 percent plateau include Bert Merritt at 90 percent, Bufkin at 90 percent, Iglehart at 90 percent, Hayward Clay at 84 percent, Hodges at 86 percent, Clint Haywood at 90 percent, King at 98 percent, Damien Haywood at 97 percent, Jennings at 88 percent and Morton at 93 percent.

The awards are presented to the players at weekly social-motivational team meetings, according to head coach and athletic director David Baugh.

NFL owners still deadlocked on Pete Rozelle's successor

CLEVELAND (AP) — Paul Tagliabue, one of Pete Rozelle's closest advisors, is three votes away from becoming Rozelle's successor as commissioner of the NFL.

The question now is whether Rozelle's implied threat to walk out of the job he had vowed to keep until a successor is chosen will be enough to break the deadlock among NFL owners.

The owners met for 11 hours Tuesday and adjourned after four votes with Tagliabue three short of the 19 needed for election. He had 16 votes to 11 for Jim Finks, the New Orleans Saints president and the candidate of the so-called "Old Guard" owners. Finks had seemed to have the job locked up in July until a group of 11 insurgents blocked his election.

Now it's Tagliabue, who is about as old guard as can be after two decades working closely with Rozelle and old-line owners, who seems in position to get the job.

"Jim Finks' candidacy is dead," Philadelphia's Norman Braman, one of the leaders of the insurgent group, said.

It is blunt statements like that made by Braman which have kept the deadlock going through 40 hours of meetings and 10 ballots. What might eventually break it is Rozelle's implied threat to walk out. He announced his retirement on March 22 and has been living in a New York hotel suite since Aug. 1 while his wife, Carrie, prepares for their move to the San Diego area.

Even if Finks lacks the votes for election, he has more than enough to block Tagliabue. Wellington Mara of the New York Giants and Art Modell of Cleveland are owners who like Tagliabue, a 48-year-old Washington lawyer, but don't want to cede control of the NFL to newcomers.

The new commissioner will have to get 19 votes from just 26 voters. The Los Angeles Raiders' Al Davis left town on Tuesday and San Diego's Alex Spanos won't be present for today's meeting. Both were aligned with Finks.

Mavericks beat Atlanta 121-106; improve to 2-4

DALLAS (AP) — Rolando Blackman scored 28 points and Roy Tarpley added 22 Tuesday night to offset Dominique Wilkins' 39-point effort and lead the Dallas over Atlanta 121-106 in an NBA exhibition game.

Wilkins' three-pointer with 2:22 to play got Atlanta to within 109-101, their closest since the first quarter. Wilkins added a three-point play with 1:25 to pull the Hawks to within 112-106.

But baskets by James Donaldson and Blackman and Blackman's two free throws all in the final 1:09 sealed the win for the Mavericks.

Dallas improved to 2-4 in the exhibition season while Atlanta slipped to 2-4.

Dallas led by as many as 22 in the third quarter but Atlanta made a brief rally behind Moses Malone's 10 third-quarter points to cut the Mavericks' lead to 89-75 entering the final period.

Tarpley had 14 points and rookie Randy White added 13 in the first half to send Dallas to a 64-45 halftime lead.

Mavericks starting forward Adrian Dantley was held out due to a cold.

TCU's Clay is SWC player of the week

by The Associated Press
Jim Wacker had no idea what Leon Clay could do. Neither did Leon Clay.

Clay, a redshirt freshman from Gladewater, hadn't distinguished himself in his brief appearances at quarterback for the Texas Christian Horned Frogs. He had two fumbles lost and two interceptions.

But what he did on Saturday to the 19th ranked Air Force Falcons made him The Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week.

With senior quarterback Ron Jiles coming out of the game with a sprained wrist on his passing hand, Clay threw two touchdown passes in the Frogs' stunning 27-9 upset of the high-flying Falcons.

Baylor linebacker James Francis, playing what coach Grant Teaff said was the best game since Mike Singletary held forth for the Bears, earned The AP's Defensive Player of the Week with 19 tackles, 12 of them solo, two quarterback sacks, a fumble recovery, a pass broken up, and a blocked punt for a safety.

"When I told Leon he had to go in he had a big frown on his face," Wacker said. "I told him to show me a big smile and have some fun. His face lit up. I had no idea what Leon would do. I don't think he had any idea either but he came through for us."

Clay, a 6-2, 210-pounder, said it made him nervous to know that just all of sudden he was "it" and that the responsibility for the Frogs' winning rested on his right arm.

Wacker said Clay, besides his touchdown passes of 86 and 23 yards, was clear headed enough to make audibles at the line of scrimmage.

Local group heads to meet

Approximately 15 Snyder children between the ages of 6 and 13 years will travel to Sweetwater for a gymnastics meet, Saturday.

The youth will travel under the auspices of Steve's Snyder Sports, a local gymnastics and tumbling school, Run by Steve Parker.

According to Parker, between 50 and 60 area kids will be at the function to compete in floor tumbling, uneven bars, the vault and balance beam.

The students will compete according to their level of experience in their particular event.

Sirens over car phones lead police to abduction victims

BOSTON (AP) — The wails of a siren over a car phone led police to a wounded pregnant woman and her unconscious husband, who had been abducted and shot. Hours later, the woman died but doctors delivered her baby.

Charles and Carol Stuart had been headed home from Brigham and Women's Hospital, where they'd attended a birthing class Monday night.

But they were abducted by a man who drove them to the city's Mission Hill district, then robbed and shot them, apparently thinking they were police officers because of the car's cellular phone, authorities said Tuesday.

Mrs. Stuart, a 33-year-old attorney, ended up back at the hospital she'd left hours earlier, and died there early Tuesday of a gunshot wound to the head.

Doctors performed an emergency Caesarean section to deliver her son while she clung to life.

The baby — whose parents had planned to call Christopher — was delivered one month before he was due, the hospital said. The infant was in intensive care early today, a nursing supervisor said.

Stuart, 29, the general manager of a fur store in Boston's Back Bay, was in critical condition today with a gunshot wound to the abdomen, a Boston City Hospital spokesman said.

Police have no suspects. The gunman apparently thought the Stuarts were police officers after seeing the car phone, said Joseph Dunford, deputy police superintendent. Before shooting the couple, according to Dunford, the gunman said, "I think you're five-o," slang for police.

Stuart battled for himself and his wife in the minutes after they were shot and left for dead, police said. But as he spoke to police on his telephone, he faded in and out of consciousness while his pregnant wife lay dying next to him.

He cried in pain and confusion. Not knowing where he was, he couldn't tell state police dispatcher Gary McLaughlin where to send help.

"Oh man, it hurts and my wife has stopped gurgling, she's stopped breathing," Stuart called out, according to a transcript released Tuesday by police.

Then there was silence. "Chuck, can you hear me? Chuck, can you hear me, buddy," McLaughlin pleaded. "Pick up the phone, Chuck. Chuck? Come on Chuck, can you hear me, Chuck? Chuck, pick up the phone, I can hear you breathing there Chuck, come on, buddy."

Still, nothing. McLaughlin instructed Stuart at one point to open his door or window to see if he could identify some landmark, so that help could find him.

But Stuart only replied: "I'm blanking out."

"You can't blank out on me, I need you man. Chuck? Chuck?"

In a desperate effort to home in on the car, police in cruisers were told to flick their sirens off and on, one by one. McLaughlin was able to tell which cruiser was near the Stuarts' car by listening to the sirens coming over the phone.

"Get my wife out," Stuart told the officers who found him.

The ambulance crew that came to the aid of the Stuarts had been riding with a camera crew from the CBS-TV series "Rescue 911," which tells real-life stories about rescue operations.

The crew videotaped Stuart regaining consciousness and talking about the attack as paramedics worked on him en route to Boston City Hospital, and was allowed into the emergency room, CBS spokesman Mike Silver said in New York.

Ted Kakas, an owner of the fur store where Stuart has worked for eight years, said the couple had just celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary. The child was the couple's first.

Judge allows Poindexter to try to subpoena papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Poindexter's daily meetings with President Reagan on Iran-Contra may entitle the former national security adviser to subpoena some of the ex-president's notes and diaries, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Court Judge Harold Greene on Tuesday gave Poindexter the go-ahead to seek "relevant" documents from Reagan. He set Jan. 22 for Poindexter's trial on charges of conspiracy, making false statements and obstructing Congress in the Iran-Contra affair.

Greene said Poindexter will assert in his defense that his activities were authorized by Reagan, contentions that suggest that Reagan was far more deeply involved in details of the Iran-Contra scandal than he has acknowledged.

Greene rejected a request by Poindexter for permission to subpoena notes of then-Vice President Bush, saying Poindexter failed to show that Bush might have authorized his activities. But the judge held open the possibility that Poindexter might be allowed to seek documents from Bush later if he can show "a more pressing need."

"If the claims" by Poindexter "are correct ... there is a sufficient likelihood" that the documents sought from President Reagan would be material to the Poindexter defense," the judge said.

"If the defendant submits ... subpoenas ... for specific, relevant documents in the custody of former President Reagan" or the National Archives, "the court will authorize their issuance," Greene said.

Reagan would have to produce any subpoenaed documents by Nov. 23, but such a subpoena could invoke a claim of executive privilege. Theodore Olson, a lawyer for the former president, declined to comment.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard Gesell quashed subpoenas for testimony from Reagan and Bush in the trial of Oliver North, the former White House aide who worked under Poindexter.

Poindexter, Greene said, contends that Reagan met with him "daily, frequently alone" and that they "routinely" discussed such matters as "the role of Richard Secord as a middleman in the transfer of arms to Iran."

Poindexter maintains in sealed papers that Reagan was briefed about a false chronology of the administration's arms sales to Iran involving four of the criminal charges against Poindexter.

The chronology stated that no one in the U.S. government knew before January 1986 that a November 1985 shipment to Iran contained Hawk missiles. The CIA assisted the shipment without a signed presidential finding as required by law.

Poindexter asserts that Reagan, on the inaccurate chronology and other matters, either "formulated the administration's position" or "entertained Poindexter's plans without voicing any objection."

"It appears that notes were taken by the president and others on these conversations and, ac-ording to the defendant, these notes or presidential diary entries ... would support his defense to the charges," Greene said.

Poindexter contends that he and Reagan discussed "the administration's view" of a contemplated House committee inquiry into the then-secret Contra resupply program operated by North.

Poindexter is charged with obstructing Congress by encouraging North to lie in an Aug. 6, 1986, meeting with members of Congress about assisting the Contras. After the meeting, in which North denied aiding the rebels, the proposed resolution of inquiry was shelved.

Poindexter sent a "well done" message to North after the Aug. 6 meeting.

Council rejects Missouri-like abortion ideas

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Even though the U.S. Supreme Court upheld Missouri abortion restrictions this summer, a majority of City Council members rejected a similar ordinance for El Paso saying it was unconstitutional.

The proposal called for the City Council to find that the life of each human being begins at conception. The Missouri law also makes that declaration.

"The Supreme Court so far hasn't been able to find that so I think there is a presumption that this is unconstitutional," said city Rep. Gene Finke. "I have spent a good deal of my life defending the constitution of the United States. I plan to continue to do so and when the Supreme Court decides firmly one way or another I'll be supporting that position."

The ordinance proposed by city Rep. Tony Ponce was rejected 4-2 Tuesday after about 30 minutes of debate.

"All I want is for the citizens of El Paso to stand up for life, not for death," Ponce said after the vote.

But City Attorney David Caylor told the council that issue was not one that should be decided by the enactment of an ordinance. "Ohviously it will be debated on constitutional grounds," Caylor said.

Abortion proponents and opponents sat on opposite sides of the room during the council meeting and often applauded those arguing their side.

Ponce brought about 25 abortion opponents to their feet when he said, "I want life to be sustained in El Paso, Texas, and I want you to stand up right now!"

The proposed ordinance would have required physicians to determine whether a fetus can survive outside the womb by determining the fetus' age, weight and lung maturity on patients who are 20 or more weeks pregnant.

It also would have prohibited physicians from performing abortions for patients 18 years or younger unless they provided their written consent and the written consent of a parent or guardian. Minors no longer living at home and those granted an abortion by court order would have been required to provide their own written consent.

"The issue of the 90s is going to be the pro-life, pro-death aspect and we wanted to bring it to a political issue," said Sam Oppenheim, spokesman for Rescue El Paso, an anti-abortion group.

"This resolution also brought to a reality that a minor under 18 years of age can't even get her ears pierced without parental consent, but she can get an abortion without parental permission."

Mayor Suzi Azar, before allowing debate on the proposed ordinance, said the proposal likely would end up argued in court, becoming a tax burden to El Paso citizens.

But Richard Munzinger, an attorney, disagreed.

"I would point out to you that Ms. Azar is the mayor. She is not a lawyer. She said the proposed ordinance was illegal and unconstitutional. She may have voiced a personal opinion."

Hockey's great 1 escorted by three

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Hockey's great one was escorted down Main Street U.S.A. by the squeaky one, the incoherent one and the goofy one as the Magic Kingdom paid tribute to Wayne Gretzky.

Gretzky, 28, wife Janet Jones and their 10-month-old daughter participated in a parade Tuesday to the Town Square Train Station. Also in the parade were Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Goofy, Disneyland spokesman Bob Roth said.

Texans get ready for battle to win $1 billion plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texans are gearing up for an intense campaign to convince U.S. Memories Inc. to build its $1 billion computer memory chip plant in Austin, creating 3,000 jobs.

Gov. Bill Clements said it is now time to "redouble our efforts — to give it our best shot — and land U.S. Memories for Texas."

U.S. Memories announced Tuesday it had shortened the list of prospects for its manufacturing complex to four cities — Austin, Colorado Springs, Phoenix and Middletown, N.Y.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, wasting no time to begin lobbying for the plant, tried to reach Sanford Kane, U.S. Memories president and chief executive officer.

Gramm said he expects a tough fight among the finalists for the manufacturing complex, which would employ 3,000 people when it begins operation in 1993, with anticipated sales of $1 billion by 1994.

"I intend to continue to let the people at U.S. Memories know that we are strongly supportive of a decision to locate in Texas," Gramm said. "That in coming to Texas they're not just coming to a state where people take pride in their work, but where we have members of Congress who believe in working with and being supportive of the people who invest in our future."

U.S. Memories said the finalists, chosen from 57 locations in 15 states, were picked on the basis of financial, business, and quality of life considerations.

"What set the finalists apart was that they showed a very balanced approach to satisfying our needs," Kane said. "These four locations came closest to meeting most of our site requirements and excelled in several areas."

The consortium of seven companies said its mission is to produce 4-megabit DRAM — Dynamic Random Access Memory — computer chips and to capture the market from Japan, which now holds the edge in the "increasingly critical technology."

DRAMs are a common memory chip found in electronic products that store memory, including microwave ovens, cars, VCRs, computers and supercomputers, and most defense projects.

U.S. Memories said it plans to choose and announce a final site by the end of November, breaking ground by the end of 1989 and to begin shipping its product by mid-1991.

Austin, which nearly two years ago won the Sematech semiconductor research consortium, has offered incentives worth more than $100 million in an effort to lure U.S. Memories.

"Austin is fast becoming the nation's new mecca for the semiconductor industry, making our capital city a natural home for a consortium like U.S. Memories," Clements said. "What's more, Texas has the perfect climate — low taxes, a strong work ethic and able and talented people — to nurture a growing venture such as this."

Austin recently lured another major technology consortium after an intense national competition, the Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corp. or MCC.

The city's competitors are confident, however.

In Phoenix, Gov. Rose Mofford said U.S. Memories had recognized the "unified commitment" in Arizona.

Ms. Mofford said she thought it was "cooperation among the administration, local governments, the universities, the state Legislature, and the private sector that made our package the powerful one that it is."

Gramm and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said they would stress Texas' other high-tech facilities, including Sematech and the super collider, as they make their pitch for the Austin site.

"Texas has made the first cut but it's the final choice that counts and we must continue our efforts. We are a strong contender, however, because we already have Sematech and the technical expertise that goes with it," Bentsen said.

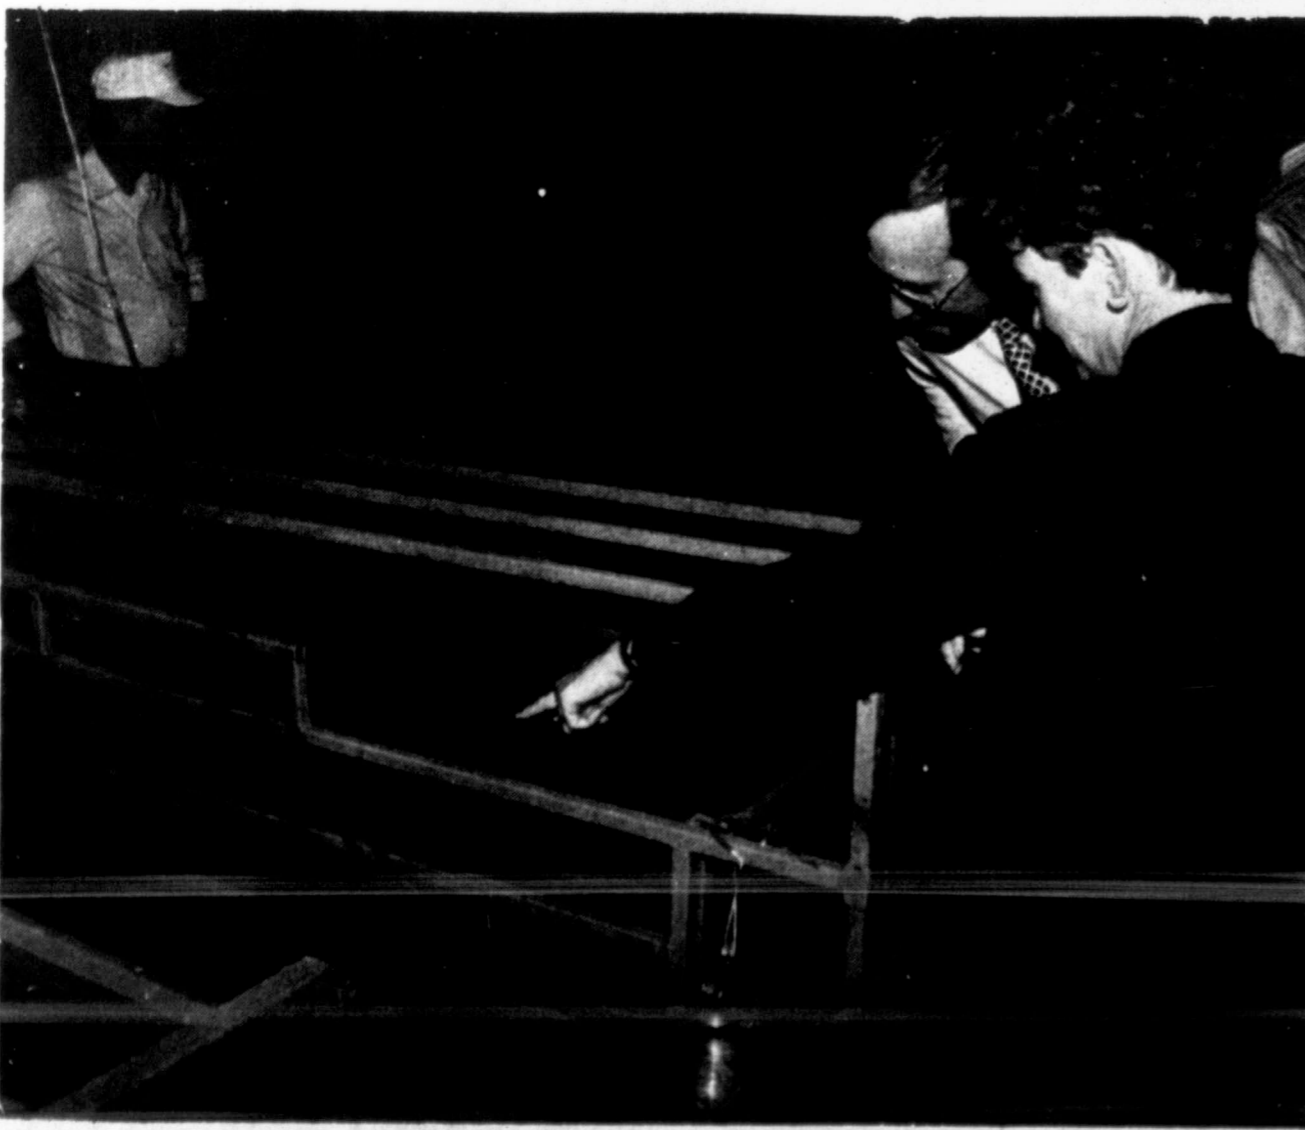

Gramm said he understands the Austin site would be visited in the first week in November.

Tens of thousands killed in 1988 illegally, Amnesty says

LONDON (AP) — Government agents in at least two dozen countries illegally killed tens of thousands of people in 1988 and more than half the world's governments tortured or mistreated prisoners, Amnesty International said today.

The London-based human rights group said in its annual global survey that human rights were violated in 133 countries last year. The violations ranged from death squad killings in Latin America to harassment of church groups in China and mistreatment of jailed Aborigines in Australia.

The 310-page report said the victims of deliberate, illegal killings in at least two dozen countries were government opponents, members of ethnic or religious groups and civilians living in areas of military operations.

It said the victims were gunned down in groups or shot by snipers, blown up by explosives, stabbed, strangled, hacked to death or poisoned. Many were tortured to death.

One-third of the world's governments jailed prisoners of conscience — defined by Amnesty as people locked up for the non-violent exercise of their human rights, the group said.

And it accused more than half the governments of either torturing or mistreating prisoners. Also, 1,903 prisoners were executed under death penalty laws in 35 countries in 1988, the highest number of such executions since 1981, the report said. Amnesty, winner of the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize, opposes capital punishment in all circumstances.

The report was written before many of the sweeping democratic reforms in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Court: Sabine officers may be retried in inmate's death

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled today that three Sabine County law officers may be tried for murder in the alleged beating death of a jail inmate in 1987.

The court reversed a lower court's decision that said the three could not be tried on murder charges in the death of Loyal Garner. The 34-year-old Louisiana man was allegedly beaten in jail on Christmas Eve and died Christmas Day two years ago.

The officers, Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 41, and Sabine County Sheriff's deputies Bill Horton, 58, and James "Bo" Hyden, 35, were acquitted in 1988 on charges that they violated Garner's civil rights. The officers are white. Garner was black.

They were to be tried separately on the murder charges, but a state appeals court dismissed the indictments, holding that trying the men again would constitute double jeopardy.

The Court of Criminal Appeals disagreed with the lower court today, saying there are "other issues that may not have been addressed" in the civil rights trial that could be taken up in a murder trial.

"Contrasting the allegations ... it is apparent that the issues are far from identical," the court said. The jury's verdict, the court said, could have been based on other factors that would not apply in a murder prosecution.

"It is arguable that the jury could have found that Ladner struck (Garner) and caused his death but acquitted (him) because the state failed to prove he did so knowing his conduct to be unlawful," the court said.

"I tend to think that the case is probably going on to the United States Supreme Court," said Ladner's attorney, John Seale. "You can't try somebody twice for the same thing, and that's what they're trying to do."

The Smith County district attorney's office filed murder charges against the officers because Garner died in a Tyler hospital.

Garner was jailed Christmas Eve 1987 on suspicion of drunken driving. Prosecutors allege Garner was beaten unconscious while in the jail and did not receive medical attention for several hours.

During the civil rights trial, Ladner admitted hitting Garner on the head. Garner died Christmas Day.

Hyden and Horton have filed a $6 billion lawsuit claiming two trial witnesses and two lawyers concocted the case against them.

Aftershock of numbers hits earthquake rattled region

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Recovery advanced into its second week today for an earthquake-rattled region feeling an aftershock of numbers — a stronger Richter reading, a 50-50 chance of a new jolt and an infusion of relief money.

Nine people remain missing, and the death toll from the Oct. 17 temblor climbed to 63 with a coroner's discovery of a 39th victim from double-decked Interstate 880 in Oakland. The first damage claim against the state was filed by two motorists injured in the collapse.

In Congress today, the Senate was expected to approve a House-passed bill that would send $2.85 billion to Northern California. Damage estimates have been set at $7.1 billion, making it the costliest natural disaster in U.S. history.

"We were hit by 10 times the amount explosive power of World War II, including the atomic bomb," said U.S. Rep. Nancy Pelosi, who represents San Francisco's hard-hit Marina district.

Santa Cruz County got a $356,460 check from state Controller Gray Davis on Tuesday. The check is 75 percent of the money the county already has spent on earthquake response.

Church bells tolled at 5:04 p.m., one week to the minute after the quake. It packed more punch than first thought, according to the U.S. Geological Survey, which upped the magnitude to 7.1 from 6.9 on the Richter scale after checking 18 seismic stations around the world.

A geologist warned that because of recent rain, huge sections of land in Santa Cruz County cracked by earthquake fissures are in danger of sliding this winter and burying hundreds of homes.

"What's happening today is frightening to geologists who have looked at it," Professor Gary Griggs of the University of California, Santa Cruz, told county supervisors Tuesday. "I think there's a cause for alarm, but not instant alarm until we've had more rain."

Jumpy residents also were told that there is a 50-50 chance of a 5.0 aftershock during the next two months, and there is an 11 percent shot of a 6.0 shock. A 5.0 Richter reading can cause considerable damage; 6.0 can be severe, especially to buildings already weakened.

An aftershock of 4.5 was registered at 6:27 p.m. Tuesday, the latest of about 3,500 aftershocks since Oct. 17.
