Dormitory fire forces early holidays

A noon Friday fire at Western Texas College which destroyed the top floor of a dormitory wing has caused officials to dismiss regular classes until after the Thanksgiving holidays.

College President Dr. Harry Krenek said Friday that classes will be dismissed until Monday, Nov. 27 at which time it is hoped that use of most of the 192-bed dormitory can be resumed.

Classes were to have been dismissed for the holidays at noon Wednesday, Nov. 22.

The fire was reported at 11:58 a.m. Friday in a third-floor room in the west wing of the dormitory and was under control by 12:25 p.m. The third floor was severely damaged.

"It looks like the only ones effected will be those on the third floor of the west wing which are all members of the women's basketball team," said Krenek. "There is some water damage on the second and first floor but it looks like that can be repaired by the Monday when students will return."

Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said Saturday that the blaze was ignited by a short in an electrical extension cord.

"The room that the fire was in was totally gutted," he said. "There was medium fire damage to the adjoining rooms and the lobby and heavy smoke and water damage to the rest of the floor."

McDowell said there was medium smoke and water damage to the bottom two floors of the west wing and light smoke damage to the rest of the dormitory.

"We were very fortunate that nobody was asleep in the dormitory, that nobody died," he said. "Smoke just puts you in a deeper sleep. It doesn't wake you up."

"Some of the students told me that somebody hollered 'Fire!' and everybody was hollering 'Get out!' so everybody was coming out of there."

The fire department responded to the call with six regular firemen and 24 volunteers in five trucks and returned to the station at 3:20 p.m.

Snyder coach no longer on SHS staff

Snyder school officials remained tight-lipped Friday concerning the conspicuous absence of a high school teacher and coach from duties Thursday and Friday.

Supt. Dalton Moseley would not comment Friday as to why a substitute teacher was used Thursday and Friday for biology teacher Phillip Lee Wester nor why the varsity assistant football coach was not on sidelines Friday night when the Tigers played their final game of the season.

The superintendent would not say whether the teacher-coach had resigned, had been suspended or had been dismissed, saying only that he would not comment and was obligated to communicate only with the teacher's attorney. Moseley also would not identify the attorney.

Members of the varsity football team apparently were told Thursday afternoon that the "coach would not be back." No details were given team members.

Discussion of the teacher's situation circulated through the school system Friday, and the newspaper received inquiries Friday asking about the situation.

The Snyder Daily News learned Friday night that the substitute teacher had been hired on an indefinite basis and that Wester had submitted a letter of resignation effective at the end of the fall semester.

Dulaney criticizes court's inquiry into trip expenses

District Judge Gene L. Dulaney Saturday released the contents of a letter written to county commissioners in which he accused the court of "harassment" for raising questions about a trip last summer to a national judges' school in Reno.

The 132nd district judge also criticized the commissioners for hiring an out-of-town attorney to represent the county in a suit that is being contested in federal district court in Lubbock over his refusal to reappoint County Auditor Bernhard Bartels and the dismissal of the auditor's chief deputy, Ann Walton, early this year.

Commissioners said Friday that the letter would be read and discussed in its regular court meeting, but Dulaney released the letter Saturday with the stipulation that the entire letter be published.

"It has come to my attention that you have recently requested from the auditor copies of my telephone bills for review," Dulaney wrote in the Nov. 9 letter. "This completely meets with my approval, and I am happy to accommodate you."

"I have also been informed that you have requested copies of receipts, bills and reimbursement check payable to me in connection with my July 1989 trip to attend the National Judicial College of the University of Nevada at Reno."

Dulaney went on to say he was using his $1,200 annual travel allowance to pay for the trip and that expenses incurred by his wife, Mary, were not paid by the county.

Dulaney said the county's 1990 budget provides him with a $1,200 allowance and travel expenses of $500 while giving County Judge Bobby Goodwin a travel allowance of $2,400 and travel expenses of $2,500.

"I can only surmise that you are singling me out for scrutiny because of your desire to harass me for ordering, in accordance with the law, an outside, independent operational audit of county affairs," the district judge wrote.

Dulaney Friday afternoon declined comment on his impending decision on whether to have a Lubbock accounting firm perform an operational audit of the county government.

Dulaney said Friday that he would not have any immediate comment about the operational audit nor on what his final decision or having it done will be based on.

Scurry County United Way

$1,700 needed to go over top

Scurry County United Way was just $1,700 short of its goal Thursday and officials have extended the deadline until Dec. 1 in an effort to reach $78,000.

"It sounds like we might make it," beamed Blanche Butler, drive coordinator. "We still have some out there that haven't turned anything in."

The local effort generated some $12,400 over the past week, bringing the current total to $76,300.

Anyone wishing to donate to the local United Way effort may do so at the chamber of commerce, or by mail at P.O. Box 1411.

The goal of $78,000 — which equals the amount raised last year — would allocate $28,000 to Scurry County Boy's Club, $15,000 to Snyder Child Day Care, $13,000 to Noah Project, $5,500 each to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and $500 each to Red Cross and The Salvation Army. Also included is $5,000 for local expenses.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The right to be heard is constitutional, but the right to be listened to must be earned."

The 1989 football season will not be soon forgotten in Snyder. If nothing else, the Tiger football season which ended Friday night will go down in the record books as one of the oddest in history.

David Baugh, in his second year as head coach of the Tigers, may have possibly rebuilt the locals into the best 2-8 team in Texas.

The strange season has included three losses by a single point, a loss by two points and that unforgettable loss to Sweetwater with no time left on the clock.

Unlike some previous years, the Tigers were in every game but one. That was the season opener against Class 5-A Lubbock Coronado which the Mustangs won by a 16-point margin, 24-8.

Then came three consecutive one-point losses to Levelland, Littlefield and San Angelo Lake View. Next came an upset victory over pre-season favorite Andrews by a 9-6 margin. Next was Snyder's biggest win of the season, 34-8, over the Fort Stockton Panthers.

At this point in the season, the Tigers could, with a little luck, have been 5-1. Just a little more luck and the Tigers would have made it 6-1 with a 13-12 win over Sweetwater. But almost every grid fan in Texas knows about the Sweetwater TD interception with no time remaining to give the Mustangs their 12th consecutive victory over the Tigers.

The Tigers dropped a two-pointer to the Pecos Eagles and basically had the Big Spring Steers down for the count before the Steers rallied for a 12-point victory.

Going into Friday's game, which the Tigers lost by 21-0, Snyder opponents had scored 149 points compared to 140 for the defensive-minded Tigers.

Normally, the coach of the district champion is awarded coach of the year honors. But this has been anything but a normal year—and the Tiger coach is deserving of strong consideration for that honor.

Q—Who is the out-of-town attorney who has been hired to represent the county in the Bernhard Bartels-Ann Walton lawsuit, and why is County Attorney Pete Greene not representing the county?

A—The attorney is Bruce Magness of Lubbock, a 1971 graduate of Texas Tech University Law School who gained wide attention with his 1986 federal lawsuit in behalf of the Farm Aid movement, to get the Farmers Home Administration to release funds to farmers. Greene said the necessity of pursuing his private law practice in District Judge Dulaney's court made his representation of the county in the suit against Dulaney and the county unfeasible.

Grand jurors say they'll return to duty

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) — Five grand jurors say they will be back in their seats on Tuesday after walking off the jury this week in a protest over the grand jury's decision clearing an Anglo policeman in the shooting death of a Hispanic rape suspect.

The grand jurors met for about 30 minutes with District Judge Weldon Kirk Friday to explain why they had threatened to resign, said Ruben Sandoval, attorney for the parents of Sammy Gomez.

Gomez was fatally shot May 13, 1988, by part-time police officer Billy Ray Williamson during an attempted arrest. Williamson said he fired three shots in self-defense after Gomez lunged at him with a knife.

Sandoval said the jurors elected to keep serving on the panel "under protest" because that allowed them to register objections with Kirk.

"We advised they go ahead and pour everything out and say on the record everything that went wrong inside that jury room," Sandoval said.

But what transpired between Kirk and the grand jurors is not a matter of public record because secret testimony was discussed, Sandoval said. Grand jury proceedings are not a matter of public record either.

The judge declined to comment.

A grand jury cleared Williamson soon after the shooting. But the Gomez family and the League of United Latin American Citizens contended Williamson had threatened Gomez in the past, and noted that two autopsies showed Gomez was shot once in the side and twice in the back.

Thornburgh returns seized cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Richard Thornburgh says the Justice Department's decision to return $4.6 million in laundered drug money to Houston is proof that crime actually can pay.

Thornburgh signed the check Friday in Washington, sending the money to the Houston Police Department, which seized the money in a joint investigation with the Internal Revenue Service earlier this year. Another $1.69 million was taken from a vehicle and the money was forfeited to the U.S. government.

"We're here to illustrate a new twist on an old maxim — that is, to illustrate the notion that crime does pay for effective law enforcement," Thornburgh said.

"There's a certain amount of poetic justice when we can seize the illegal profits made by drug traffickers and turn them back into effective law enforcement," Thornburgh said.

But Thornburgh refused to say whether the Justice Department would recommend Houston and the Texas-Mexico border be declared a high-intensity drug trafficking zone, which would make the region eligible for increased federal help in attacking the narcotics trade.

Galveston police officer resigns

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A police officer who married a murder suspect by proxy earlier this month has resigned, saying she thought "it was in her best interest," authorities said.

Elona Stinson Herron, 31, offered her resignation Wednesday, said Police Chief Freddie Poor.

Mrs. Herron had been under investigation for possible violations of police regulations in conjunction with the Oct. 21 shooting of her former boyfriend Kelvin King, 50.

King, a longshoreman, was found suffering from a gunshot wound to the chest as he lay on Mrs. Herron's front porch. He later was pronounced dead on arrival at a Galveston hospital.

Police say Mrs. Herron's .357 Magnum Colt Python revolver was used in the shooting.

Emanuel Tyrone Herron, 44, has been charged with murder and held at Galveston County Jail in lieu of $60,000 bond since the shooting.

Because of her resignation, departmental disciplinary action, but remains subject of a grand jury probe, said District Attorney Michael J. Guarino. Guarino said the grand jury heard several witnesses Thursday. The officer, an internationally recognized police olympics athlete and a four-year veteran of the Galveston police force, married Herron on Nov. 3.

Tornado survivors live with nightmare

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — First-grader Megan Lambert wanted to go to her school Friday, even though it was closed and she had nightmares about the cafeteria wall that was toppled by a tornado and killed seven of her schoolmates.

"Something like this happens, your mind can never get off it," said the 7-year-old who escaped injury in Thursday's storm at East Coldenham Elementary School.

"Some of my friends are dead and some more may get dead," Megan said.

A tornado slammed into the 30-foot concrete-and-glass wall during lunch hour, killing seven children and injuring 18 others seriously enough so they were taken to hospitals. More than 100 first-, second and third-graders were eating at the time.

The National Weather Service had posted a tornado watch for large parts of the East Coast from Maryland to New England, including the Newburgh area and metropolitan New York, as storms along a rapidly moving cold front caused tornadoes, high winds and heavy rain from the Southeast to New England.

The two-day toll from the storms was at least 29 dead and hundreds injured, including 17 dead and 1,000 homeless in Huntsville, Ala., which was struck by a large twister Wednesday evening.

President Bush issued a disaster declaration Friday for Huntsville, making the city eligible for federal relief programs, said Gov. Guy Hunt's press secretary, Terry Abbott.

Hunt said he believed damage exceeded $100 million.

Another tornado Thursday knocked over trees and ripped roofs off houses in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle, the National Weather Service confirmed. And a tornado ripped the roof off an office building in King of Prussia, Pa., outside Philadelphia.

Storms also caused flooding in Washington, D.C., blew windows out of skyscrapers in Philadelphia, destroyed a house in Piscataway, N.J., and blew the roof off a shopping mall in Quebec.

At Newburgh, National Weather Service meteorologist Roland Loffredo said wind blew about 100 mph near the school during Thursday's storm.

Federal relief gets go ahead

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Federal aid was approved Friday for tornado-ravaged Huntsville, where 17 died and several hundred were injured or lost their homes, and Gov. Guy Hunt toured hospitals and visited with grieving families.

"I've been around a lot of tornadoes, but I've not seen the type of damage on as broad a scale as I've seen this morning," Hunt said after a helicopter tour of the 10-mile-long path of destruction.

State emergency management officials estimated the damage in excess of $100 million in the agency's letter to President Bush requesting a disaster declaration, said Terry Abbott, the governor's press secretary.

"I've never seen as much rubble from a tornado before," said Danny Cooper, the state agency's director.

He listed 119 houses destroyed, 125 with minor damage, and three churches, two schools, 35 businesses and 10 public buildings either destroyed or suffering heavy damage.

Wind in the tornado was estimated at 250 mph when the twister hit Wednesday afternoon.

More than 400 people were injured, with about 80 still under care in hospitals when Hunt visited patients' rooms Friday. City officials said about 1,000 were left homeless.

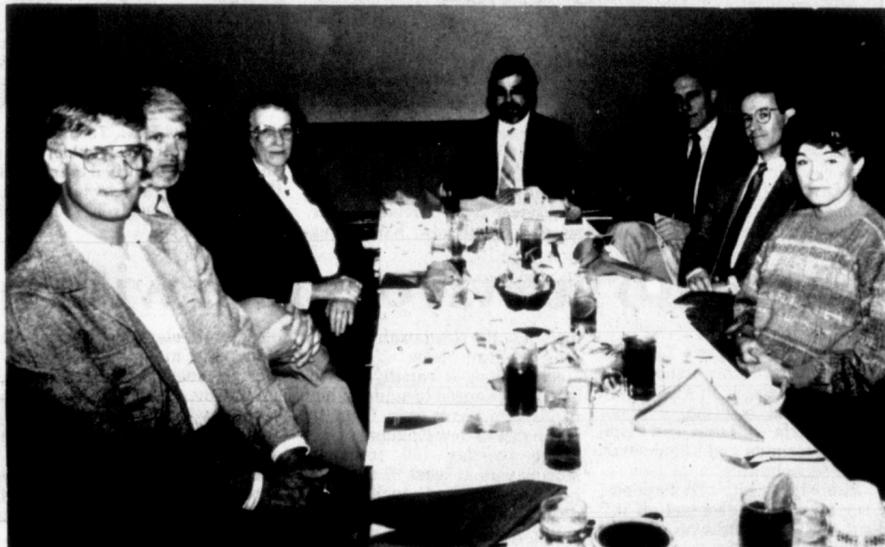

President Bush issued a disaster declaration Friday morning to clear the way for tornado victims to receive federal relief. Cooper said about $1 million may be needed in the form of individual and family grants to provide clothing and temporary housing. The federal government pays 75 percent of the cost and the state 25 percent.

Grant Peterson, associate director of the federal Emergency Management Agency, said Friday he hopes that offices can be opened Sunday to take applications for disaster relief. He said assistance checks may be in the mail within a week. FEMA's reaction time was criticized after South Carolina was struck by a hurricane.

Police spokesman Ronnie Fudge said several truckloads of food had arrived but the city is running out of places to store the goods. He urged that people donate money to relief agencies rather than send food.

Lufkin paper sues...

Prison bids may be opened

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — An east Texas newspaper wants the Texas Department of Corrections to release bids from 20 communities considered finalists for state prisons after six of those bids were discussed in a public meeting.

The Lufkin Daily News filed a formal request for the information Thursday under the Texas Open Records Law.

Six of the 20 bids were discussed in a public meeting Monday, when the Texas Board of Criminal Justice awarded prisons from a list of 12 finalists. The 14 bids that were rejected may be considered for placement of two more prisons if construction is authorized by the Texas Legislature in its special session.

In its Open Records request, the Daily News argued that TDC could not plausibly conduct a bidding process in which some bids were secret while others were exposed to public scrutiny.

The six communities that made presentations on their bids are Angelina, Polk and Bell counties and Lamesa, Pampa and Wichita Falls.

Dust ... How It's Affecting Our Lives

Scientific researchers, doctors, and health agencies say that airborne dust may be man's worst enemy. It aggravates breathing problems, causes itching and burning of eyes and skin, and makes allergy problems worse. All in all, dust is "BAD STUFF."

Common house dust is more dangerous than outdoor dust. It contains dirt, textile fibers, pollen, hair, skin flakes, residue from chemicals and household products, decaying organic matter, dust mites, bacteria, fungus, viruses and a variety of other contaminants.

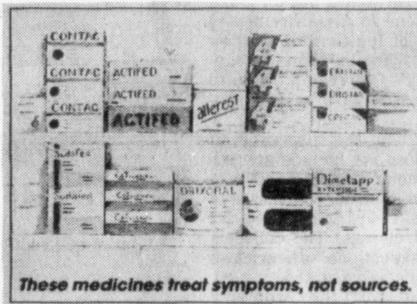

Besides the health costs of dust, dirty air also makes upholstery, carpets, wall coverings, and clothing get dirty quicker, causing more cleaning and premature replacement. How much of a problem is this? "The average six-room house or dwelling collects 40 lbs. of dust each year," says Discover Magazine.

House dust — a formidable foe.

Your House May Be Endangering Your Health

Back in the good old days we didn't need a lot of antihistamines and decongestants ... we could breathe. But today, Americans spend literally billions of dollars each year in health care and medications just to help us breathe. It makes you wonder what has changed.

These medicines treat symptoms, not sources.

What has changed is not people but the lifestyles and environments in which we live and work. The American Lung Association estimates that we now spend 90% of our time indoors. Homes and offices of today, the tightly closed, energy efficient kind, actually trap dust and contaminants inside to settle on our furnishings and to be breathed into our lungs. National statistics show indoor pollution levels can average 2 to 3 times higher than outdoor levels. It's easy to see how your own home may be detrimental to your family's good health.

Airtight homes trap impurities inside.

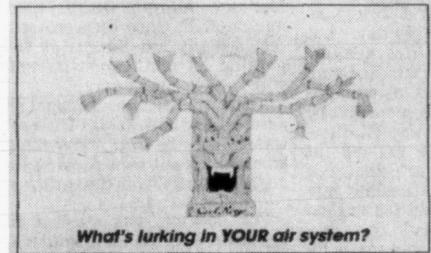

Central Heat and Air Ducts ... A Haven for Dust and Disease.

In your home and office you are literally surrounded by dust. It collects in your carpets, on furnishings, on drapes and window coverings, and worst of all, in your central heat and air system.

The most frustrating part is that even frequent filter changes cannot stop the contamination. This is because the average disposable filter traps less than 20% of the dust and pollen in the air. The other 80% passes through the filter into your air ducts.

Inside your air ducts, over time, these particles build up. When heat and/or moisture is introduced (during both the heating and cooling seasons) an incubator effect is created that causes dust mites, germs, bacteria, and fungi to grow, feeding on the organic particles in the dust. Vacuuming alone cannot take care of this contamination layer. Sealing/sanitizing is necessary.

Hundreds of sick building incidents, including (according to the National Centers for Disease Control) the Legionnaire's outbreak that killed 29 people in 1976, have been traced to improperly maintained ventilation systems.

What's lurking in YOUR air system?

How You Can Tell if Your Ducts May Be Contaminated

- Do your vent covers or the areas around them look darkened, dusty, stained, or corroded?
- Do the surfaces of tables and furniture get dusty shortly after cleaning?
- Do you use disposable filters as opposed to high efficiency filters in your central heat and air conditioning system?
- Is your return air compartment or fan area dirty?

NOW! - SNYDER HEATING & AIR CONDITIONING, your authorized LENNOX Heating & Air Conditioning dealer for 40 years is proud to announce the addition of their AIR DUCT and VENT CLEANING SERVICE. You can now depend on us for all your heating and air conditioning sales and service as well as controlling your INDOOR AIR POLLUTION.*

Cocaine trade $70 million per day in city of El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Cocaine smugglers were able to carry up to $70 million worth of cocaine in big cars across the U.S.-Mexican border daily, and the smugglers are telling investigators that immigration workers helped, a drug investigator says.

Immigration officials say this is the first they've heard that workers on the two international bridges that link Mexico to El Paso could have been involved in helping smugglers in a cocaine operation that brought an estimated $5 billion worth of pure cocaine into the United States since 1987.

The cocaine was headed toward Los Angeles in an operation that led to the seizure in September of 21.4 tons of cocaine, the largest such haul in U.S. history.

At the time, officials said the smuggling ring had brought in 60 tons of cocaine. But Robert Sternaman, Drug Enforcement Administration supervisor in El Paso, said the number is more than four times that — 250 tons since 1987.

And, Sternaman said, the smugglers are telling agents that they had help from immigration employees at the two bridges that link El Paso to Mexico.

"That cocaine entered the United States concealed in vehicles," Sternaman said. "The information is that the organization had (at least) six vehicles that they used to run dope across the border with loads of 310 kilos per vehicle. They'd bring as many as they could per day," but usually made eight trips, he said.

A kilo equals 2.2 pounds. Using Sternaman's figures, as much as 5,656 pounds of cocaine could be transported per day to El Paso. And with cocaine valued at $10,000 to $12,000 per pound, one day's work could translate into $56 million to almost $68 million in cocaine shipments.

Based on statements made by defendants in the case, the cocaine crossed at the Bridge of Americas and the Zaragoza Bridge.

"The information being furnished by the traffickers, or one of them at least, is they were assisted by immigration," Sternaman said Friday. "They were always crossing at a particular time either at morning or at night."

Sternaman said no Immigration and Naturalization employee has been arrested in connection with the case.

Kenneth Pasquarell, INS deputy director in El Paso, said he was surprised by the allegation.

"I'm not aware of any suspicion or allegations against any immigration officers. As far as national investigations into any immigration employees," Pasquarell said.

"Our officers have seized over $5 million worth of drugs and turned them over to Customs people between Oct. 1, 1988 and September 30, 1989."

Pasquarell said the Department of Justice policy is to refer allegations that involve department personnel to the Inspector General. A woman who answered the phone at the Inspector General's office in El Paso said she was not permitted to speak to the press and that all supervisors had left for the day. She referred calls to the Washington, D.C., office which had been closed for the day.

The ring that moved the cocaine across the border was believed to have been masterminded by Rafael Munoz Talavera, who is being held in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico. He has been indicted by Mexican federal judges on charges of drug trafficking and firearms possession.

His arrest and the arrest of six people in the United States stemmed from the Los Angeles cocaine seizure.

The couriers who brought the cocaine across the border drove Mercury Marquis cars, Sternaman said. Once they crossed, they usually left the car in the parking lot of Cielo Vista mall with the keys in the car.

"The drivers who brought it across, they had no idea where it was going," he said. "They only knew to take it to a parking lot and walk away from the car."

The cocaine was stashed in warehouses in El Paso until the warehouse contained an estimated 20 tons to 25 tons, Sternaman said. Those six warehouses, including one in which a 20-foot deep shaft was being excavated, were raided and seized by DEA officials. No cocaine was found inside them.

Once the cocaine reached the 20-ton to 25-ton level it was shipped to Los Angeles by tractor trailer. Tractor trailer drivers were paid $5,000 a trip, according to the suspect who spoke to investigators, Sternaman said.

A primary arranger of the smuggling told investigators he was paid $150,000 per vehicle that crossed the border, Sternaman said. Sternaman said he did not know what the arrangers paid the drivers.

"The people we are dealing with are involved only in transportation not the buying, not the selling," Sternaman said.

through the window, out of which orange flames were bellowing, and a nearby metal door that they had forced open and "knocked down" the blaze initially with 1,000 gallons of water at one truck was carrying.

Then hoses were attached to water hydrants to complete the job.

A department spokesman said TU Electric sent a bucket truck to the scene to raise firemen to the level of the flaming window and a "cascade" system was supplied by Chevron USA to replenish firemen's oxygen supplies.

Krenek said the suspension of classes does not include any extension center classes, to include the prison, high school classes in vocational fields or cosmetology and LVN classes. The college's Nov. 21 correctional officer class also will not be disrupted.

Housing for the women's basketball team was being arranged in private homes by members of the college booster club. Krenek said the college will find housing for the team for the remainder of the semester. He said "about 16 people will be most drastically effected" by the damage.

Housing was also being arranged for students who were to remain in town to take a TASP test Saturday morning. The test had been scheduled to be administered at the coliseum, and was to go on as planned.

"We've had tremendous response from the people in the community with offers to provide clothing and housing and donations to help," said Krenek. "Response has come from businesses as well as individuals, I understand."

The president indicated that the amount of damage to the dorm will be determined next week by an insurance adjuster.

"I'm afraid I'd be so far off that I'd rather not give a figure related to damages," said Krenek. "It depends on if there is any structural damage or damage to the plumbing and what-not."

Personal effects in the dorm rooms are not covered by the college's insurance, said Krenek. Student's parents will need to check their homeowner's policies to see if the effects are covered.

"We are so pleased that there were no injuries. It could have been a lot worse," Krenek said. "We appreciate the quick response of the Snyder Fire Department and volunteers. They quickly got the situation under control. Major damage was limited really to that one floor on that one wing."

While classes will not be held for a week, faculty and staff will be at work this Monday and administrative offices will be open.

Dulaney releases letter to court

Although Dulaney earlier denied that any "rift" existed between he and the commissioners court, the district judge on Oct. 16 ordered the Lubbock accounting firm of Coopers and Lybrand to do an operational audit. Two members of the firm were in Snyder Tuesday and Wednesday and indicated four areas of county government that might be subject to a more intense review. These included the airport, the county hospital, the Board of County Development and the hospital's agreement with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Commissioners have objected to the forced audit, saying it is a needless expense and duplication of audit work already performed and contracted to be performed.

Dulaney has said his decision to order an audit has no connection with a Jan. 20 roll-back election on county taxes, nor is there any connection with the lawsuit filed against him and Scurry County.

The following is the complete letter sent the commissioners court by Dulaney:

"It has come to my attention that you have recently requested from the auditor copies of my telephone bills for review. This completely meets with my approval and I am happy to accommodate you.

"I have also been informed that you have requested copies of receipts, bills and reimbursement checks payable to me in connection with my July, 1989 trip to attend the National Judicial College of the University of Nevada at Reno.

"The National Judicial College is a national school for judges. It is attended by judges from all over the country, including a great many Texas judges, several being from West Texas, and is an intensive and rigorous course which requires attendance at classes from eight until five o'clock daily for one week.

"The curriculum is designed to improve the efficiency, productivity and knowledge of the judges who attend. I am sure that you, as county officials, and the people of Scurry County are pleased that their District Judge is making every effort to preside over the best possible court.

"As you know, every end of the month report prepared by the County Auditor, Linda Franklin, for 1989 from January through May shows me to have an annual travel expense of approximately $1,300.00. The reports for September and October show the same. I also have a $1,200.00 travel allowance per year, which travel allowance is paid at the rate of $100.00 per month.

"The cost of this trip was approximately $1,800.00, including tuition and room and board at the Judicial College dormitory. I used my travel expense money and the balance is being paid by withholding, at my request, my monthly $100.00 travel allowance until the county is repaid in full.

"In this regard, I note that the 1990 budget provides a travel allowance for me of $1,200.00 and travel expense of only $500.00, while it gives the County Judge a travel allowance of $2,400.00 and travel expense of $2,500.00.

"I am well aware that you have referred to my Reno trip as my 'Las Vegas Trip.' This is certainly not true. When my wife and I left Snyder we spent the first night on the road in Gallup, New Mexico, the second night at Las Vegas and arrived at Reno the third night. This is the shortest and fastest way to drive to Reno from Snyder. All of my wife's expenses and a one day side trip to Lake Tahoe were paid for by me personally.

"I am sure you are interested, as am I, in saving money for the taxpayers of Scurry County. However, in reviewing my small expenditures and neglecting to do the same for other larger departments with expenditures many, many times the size of mine, you are doing a great disservice to the people of Scurry County.

"I can only surmise that you are singling me out for scrutiny because of your desire to harrass me for ordering, in accordance with the law, an outside independent operational audit of county affairs, which audit is much favored by the people.

"In particular I question the wisdom of your going to the great expense of hiring an out of town attorney to not only file an answer to the Bartels and Walton lawsuit against Scurry County, but also to file a cross-action against your District Judge. In my opinion this needless expense is frivolous and is viewed with great disfavor by the taxpayers of Scurry County.

"I cordially invite each of you to visit my office in order to view my framed diploma from the National Judicial College of the University of Nevada at Reno. I am proud of it."

Young people, demanding reform, bloodied by police

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Thousands of young people on Friday turned a memorial service for a student killed by the Nazis 50 years ago into the largest anti-government rally in more than 20 years.

Five hours later the ceremony ended in a bloody melee when club-swinging riot police attacked demonstrators trying to march from the memorial at Vysehrad Cathedral to downtown Wenceslas Square. At least 13 were reported admitted to a Prague hospital.

Many of the demonstrators, bleeding from blows by police, fled down side streets. Witnesses said scores of people were arrested but they did not have an exact number.

They also said police used tear gas to disturb marchers chanting slogans against the hard-line Communist regime of party chief Milos Jakes.

Reporters said tens of thousands of people were at the rally. The state news agency CTK estimated the crowd at 15,000.

The memorial was organized by the official students' organization in honor of Czech student Jan Opletal, killed during an uprising 50 years ago against the Nazi occupation.

During the rally the protesters shouted, "Dinosaurs, resign!" and "We want freedom and free elections! Communists get out! End to one-party rule!"

It was the largest public protest since August 1969, when crowds gathered in downtown Prague a year after a Soviet-led invasion crushed the liberal "Prague spring" led by Alexander Dubcek, then Communist Party leader.

In Bratislava, the capital of Slovakia, about 500 students walked from Peace Square to Comenius University and placed flowers where a young woman reportedly was killed during the 1968 invasion. Police did not interfere.

Michael Schwarz, a staff photographer of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, told The Associated Press he went with the crowd trying to march to Wenceslas Square but was beaten on the head by police and chased away.

18 lawyers being probed for possible ambulance chasing

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A lawyer who sent a grieving family a condolence letter with a contract attached is one of 18 attorneys being investigated for alleged illegal solicitation after the state's worst school bus accident took the lives of 21 South Texas students, officials said.

Lawyers from as far as Dallas — 500 miles away — descended on Hidalgo County Sept. 21 after a soft drink truck hit a school bus, knocking the bus into a flooded roadside pit in the town of Alton, said District Attorney Rene Guerra.

The attorneys and their representatives, known as "runners," were allegedly soliciting clients to get a cut of millions of dollars in potential damages from personal injury lawsuits, Guerra said.

Other lawyers involved in the lawsuits, however, obtained the business through legitimate means, such as referral by friends and relatives, Guerra said.

In Texas, lawyers and their agents are prohibited from soliciting business from victims or their families. The practice, known commonly as "ambulance chasing," is a criminal offense called barratry.

Barratry in Texas is a Class A misdemeanor on the first offense, punishable by up to a year in jail and a fine of up to $2,000; and a third degree felony on the second offense, under certain circumstances, punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

The State Bar of Texas also has sanctions for barratry, including disbarment.

Suits on behalf of victims' family members and a total of more than 50 students have been filed in the case, with McAllen-based Valley Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Inc. the main defendant. A Valley Coca-Cola truck, driven by Ruben Perez, 25, of Mission, was the truck that failed to stop at a stop sign and slammed into the bus on Sept. 21.

In addition to the 21 junior and senior high students from the Mission school district who were killed, 60 students were injured.

Burney said the board will purchase a play back only VCR from Kmart and that both machines will be set up in the county's social services office. Tapes on nutrition and other helpful topics will be played throughout the day for the benefit of all clients. (SDN Staff Photo)

Closings set at senior center

The Senior Citizens Center will be closed Thursday and Friday for the Thanksgiving holiday. The Thanksgiving meal will be served on Tuesday starting at 11:30 a.m.

Hoss Clayton's band will be playing in the center's dining room starting at 11 a.m. Tuesday. On Wednesday morning, Snyder Cablevision will provide a movie, "My Darlin' Clementine," for showing in the center.

The Kitchen Band will go to Sweetwater to play for senior citizens on Wednesday morning.

Meetings in the center this week include the American Association of Retired Persons at 1 p.m. Monday and the Golden K Kiwanis Club at noon on Tuesday.

Senior citizens who participate in swimnastics are reminded that there will be no meeting on Thursday due to the closing of the pool at Western Texas College for the Thanksgiving holiday. Those who are part of the weight control group will weigh in at 10 a.m. Tuesday and others who would like to join the group are invited to join that day.

Senior citizens will be assisting the Snyder Goodfellows by accepting donations at local banks in December. Senior citizens who would like to work with the Goodfellows are invited to contact Nancy LaRoux at the senior center.

Program to air

ATLANTA (AP) — Singer Kenny Rogers' Christmas program is coming to television, a year after it played to a concert audience at Atlanta's Fox Theater.

"Kenny Rogers in Concert," will premiere on Georgia Public Television Dec. 2, and will air on PBS stations across the country later in the month.

The show includes a version of "O Holy Night" performed by Rogers, the Forester Sisters and the Lee College Singers from Cleveland, Tenn.

"There are Christmas songs and there are Christmas songs," Rogers said. "This song, to me, really typifies what Christmas is all about."

Financial Focus

If your child is an above-average academic achiever, don't start packing his or her bags for college just yet. These days it takes more than good grades to get a degree.

If your child will begin attending a state university within the next four or five years, you'll pay roughly $26,000 for a four-year education. That's quite a burden when you consider the average annual income per two-salary household is less than $45,000.

Worse yet, college costs continue to climb. If your child won't start college for another 15 years, you'll pay nearly the same amount, $24,000, for one year of college education. Remember, these are the costs of state universities; the price tag on a four-year education at a private school is even steeper.

While there's no way to completely eliminate the sting from saving for your child's education, a number of investments are available for making the savings process as painless as possible, including zero-coupon bonds, certificates of deposit, annuities and mutual funds.

There are two types of zero-coupon bonds. Both offer tax advantages.

The first type of zeros, zero-coupon government bonds, are backed by the U.S. government. With this investment, you set aside a smaller sum today. The money grows as a compounded rate to a much larger sum by the time your child finishes high school. The interest from zero-coupon government bonds is automatically reinvested, so your money grows more quickly than if you take possession of your earnings. Best of all, you don't have to pay state income tax on the earnings.

The other type of zeros is zero-coupon municipal bonds. These bonds are backed by the city, state or local government that issues them or are guaranteed by an insurance company. Zero-coupon municipal bonds work similarly to zero-coupon government bonds, and like the government bonds, zero-coupon municipal bonds save you tax dollars. All zero-coupon municipal bonds are exempt from federal income taxes.

Another tool available for saving for your child's education is certificates of deposit. These familiar and very safe investments allow you to earn a higher rate of interest than you can earn from savings accounts. CDs are fixed-income investments that are available in both short and long-term maturities. However, you may suffer a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

Although annuities aren't as familiar to us as CDs, they also provide an excellent means of accumulating wealth over a longer period of time. Plus, with annuities all taxes on your earnings are deferred until you begin withdrawing them.

There are basically two types of annuities. Both combine insurance coverage with the opportunity to invest. Fixed annuities guarantee the return of both principal and interest. The return of variable annuities, on the other hand, fluctuates because it is dependent upon market performance.

Yet another type of investment that offers potential rising income and appreciation of principal is mutual funds with growth or growth and income objectives. Because mutual funds represent the pooled investment dollars of many investors, you gain the advantages of professional management and diversification. Many conservative funds have excellent records of staying ahead of inflation and the costs associated with higher education.

Depending upon your situation, any one or a combination of these investments can provide an opportunity for you to save for your child's college education. Although it may be some time before your child picks up his or her first college text book, it's vital that you begin studying the costs of your child's education now.

Dusters nab eighth win of '89 vs. TJC

Tami Wilson exploded for 28 points as the Western Texas College Lady Dusters popped Temple Junior College, 65-55, in Friday's game at the Crossroads basketball tournament in Big Spring.

Wilson's numbers came on 11 goals from the field and a 6-6 free-throw performance.

Bobbie Brown was the only other of the Dusters to finish in double figures. She punched out an even dozen in the win.

WTC held an 11-point lead at the half.

The Dusters were to have played Blinn College at 4 p.m. in their final tilt of the Big Spring tournament.

In other games at the Howard College-hosted event, Odessa College waxed Weatherford 76-59 and Howard pounded Blinn 76-59.

WESTERN TEXAS COLLEGE—Jones 1 0-0 3, Stockett 2 2-7, Edmunds 1 0-0 2, Williams 1 1-2 3, Forrest 1 0-0 2, Rome 2 0-1 4, Wilson 11 6-8 28, TOTALS 26-9-17 65.

3-point goals: WTC 4 (Brown 2, Stockett 1, Jones 1), CJC 2 (Martin 2). Total fouls: WTC 12, Temple 14. Fouled out: none. Technical fouls: Temple coach Lee. Halftime score: WTC 34, Temple 23. Records: WTC 8-1.

WTC falls to Cisco 100-96 in Levelland

The WTC Westerners' season-starting win streak ended at six games as they lost, 100-96, to Cisco Junior College in a non-conference battle at the South Plains College McDonald's Classic Friday.

WTC was able to close the gap, somewhat, from the halftime advantage of 61-39 held by CJC.

Kenneth Critton, 6-8 sophomore post player, scored a whopping 34 points in the loss.

Critton poured in a dozen field goals from the floor and hit 10 of 12 free throws.

Four other Westerners were in double figures on the evening.

Dominick Byrd and Allen Smith ripped the cords for 13 points followed by Jeff Shelley's 12 and Alfredo Porter's 11.

The WTC men were to have played against Ft. Sill Army in a 4 p.m. tilt Saturday to end the tournament for Western Texas.

Snyder cagers begin

Tigers bring back four starters from '88-89

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

The Snyder Tigers basketball team returns to the court Tuesday at Midland Lee.

Coach Larry Scott and his squad are preparing to improve on last year's 17-10 overall mark. They ended the district season at 10-4 in third place.

If experience counts for anything the Tigers should be on their way to a banner season as four starters return from last season.

Two-time All-District performer Tracy Brazier, a 6-1 senior, paces the Snyder attack from his wing spot.

Brazier, besides being named All-District twice, was the sophomore of the year in District 4-4A two seasons ago.

All-District honorable mention honoree Hayward Clay will anchor the post position for the Snyder cagers in 1989.

Clay is a 6-3 sophomore. Brazier and Clay both made the TABC list of outstanding players in 4-4A for the basketball season.

Jason West and Lee Hamilton round out the list of returning starters for Scott and the Tigers.

West, a senior at 5-10, will hold down one guard spot while Hamilton plays the other. Hamilton is a 5-11 senior.

Other returnees for Snyder include Toby Goodwin, a 6-0 guard, Edward Rios, a 6-3 post, Paul Anderson, a 6-0 wing, Carlton Sanders, a 5-11, guard, Bay John Long, a 6-1 forward and Joe Martinez, a 6-0 guard.

A pair of "move-ins" are expected to see considerable action, according to Scott.

Robert Gray recently moved into the Snyder school district from Delhi, La. He is a projected post player at 6-1.

Jeffery Wortman, moving from San Angelo, is a 6-3 sophomore.

Managers for the team are senior Jon Herring, senior Marcus Greene and sophomore Benji Felan.

Snyder is picked by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches, the largest such organization in the country with membership numbering 2,250, at second in District 4-4A in the 1989-90 season.

"I was a little surprised," said coach Scott. "I'd seen some of the other pre-season rankings and we were listed third or fourth."

"Andrews is the definite favorite in our district. Us, Big Spring and Pecos will probably all be in the thick of things for that second spot."

The projected order of finish is Andrews, first, Snyder second followed in order by Big Spring, Pecos, Sweetwater, San Angelo Lake View, Monahans and Ft. Stockton.

The loop schedule starts with the Tigers hosting Andrews Dec. 19.

Snyder won their opening contest last Tuesday against Westbrook. The Tigers took a 75-48 decision to begin the campaign at 1-0.

Local cowgirl captures title

Leslie Ward of Snyder was named All-Around Cowgirl at the World Finals Rodeo in El Paso recently.

Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ward of Snyder, took home $3,253 for her work as a barrel racer at the event.

Prizes, besides the cash, included a new cowboy hat, a brass belt buckle, a saddle and a new horse trailer.

"I've been competing at the rodeo for 11 or 12 years," said Ward, 20.

"Winning here is really a big deal."

The title was the first All-Around crown for the Snyder native.

"Just getting to the finals makes me satisfied," she said.

Ward is a college student at Texas Tech who hopes to become an elementary school teacher.

Graf advances in Va. Slims

NEW YORK (AP) — Because her ankle was hurting, Steffi Graf rushed off the court Friday night, trampling Helena Sukova on her way to the semifinals of the Virginia Slims Championships.

Graf took only 42 minutes to crush the tournament's seventh seed 6-2, 6-1 and set up a semifinal meeting with defending champion Gabriela Sabatini.

Earlier, fourth-seeded Arantxa Sanchez of Spain outlasted Bulgaria's Manuela Maleeva 7-5, 7-6 (7-5) in a baseline battle that was seven minutes short of two hours.

"My ankle hurts me," Graf told the Madison Square Garden crowd of 14,731. Later she said:

"It's alright. I'm happy I'm still playing. I've done so well I've loosened up."

Sukova didn't stand a chance against the world's top-ranked player who is seeking her second Championships crown in three years. Graf won 61 points to just 39 for the tall Czechoslovak.

And Sukova reached deuce on Graf's serve just twice.

Time and again Graf jumped on Sukova's big serve and slammed back winners.

Graf, the top seed, twisted her left ankle in practice a week ago and was a doubtful participant in the 16-player, season-ending tournament until her first-round match on Wednesday. Yet, she showed no signs that the ankle bothered her — at least not when she was on the court playing.

As soon as the match was over, however, Graf limped slightly.

State spike tourney seeking champions

AUSTIN (AP) — Defending champions East Bernard and Plains will get their chance to repeat Saturday after moving into the finals of the 23rd University Interscholastic League State Girls Volleyball Tournament.

In Class 2A, East Bernard—making its 16th trip to state in 23 years—will try for its 10th championship and third in a row against Crandall.

East Bernard, 32-4, defeated Poth Friday in the semifinals 15-12, 9-15, 15-10 despite the presence of 6-7 Heidi Gillingham and 6-6 Gwendolyn Gillingham. Crandall, 32-3 and a state titlist in 1981, defeated Marfa handily 15-5, 15-9 in the other semifinal.

In Class A Plains, which has recorded seven state titles in 14 trips including five straight from 1967-71, fought back from an opening game deficit to beat Iola, 15-17, 15-2, 15-2, in the semifinals.

Plains, 29-5, will face Round Top Carmine, 29-3, which defeated Aspermont 15-6, 15-6, in the finals.

In Class 3A, unbeaten Kountze and Coppell will battle for the state championship. Kountze, 31-0, destroyed Edna 15-9, 15-6 in the semifinals, while Coppell, 26-5, got past Lamesa 13-15, 15-11, 15-3.

In 4A and 5A, Dumas is hoping to repeat as state champions while Houston Cypress Creek will be trying to keep a perfect season intact.

Dumas, a 15-6, 15-9 victor over Denison, was the state 4A title holder last year and must get by New Braunfels Canyon to make it two in a row.

New Braunfels Canyon defeated Santa Fe 15-13, 15-6 to reach its second state finals in school history.

Cypress Creek, 40-0 on the season after posting an 11-15, 15-2, 15-2 win over Katy, will face San Antonio Clark in the 5A finals today.

Clark, 34-1 on the year, lost its first game of the year, but since has won every one, including a 15-11, 11-15, 15-10 victory over Amarillo Tascosa Friday in the semifinals.

Lady Tigers beat Permian

The Snyder girls' basketball team stretched their season mark to 2-0 following a Friday night 54-46 win over Odessa Permian.

Evette Housden paced the Lady Tigers with 21 points on ten field goals and one of two free throws.

Liz Greathouse contributed 10 assists in the win and Ann Osborn grabbed five rebounds and Vinnie Clay snatched four.

The girls will see action next as they host Abilene Cooper Tuesday with the junior varsity game beginning at 6 p.m. and the varsity tipping off at 7:30 p.m.

SNYDER—Greathouse 4 0-0 8, T. Brazier 4 0-0 8, R. Brazier 1 0-0 2, Osborn 2 0-0 4, Housden 10 1-2 21, Ware 0 2-4 2, V. Clay 2 1-1 5, F. Clay 2 0-0 4, TOTALS 25 4-7 54.

ODESSA PERMIAN—Speers 1 1-2 3, Nelson 1 3-6 5, James 2 3-4 7, Reyes 2 0-0 4, Washington 3 0-0 10, McSwain 1 0-0 2, Williams 1 0-0 2, Wright 6 1-1 13, TOTALS 19 8-13 56.

Total fouls: SHS 16, PHS 12. Records: SHS 2-0.

Mavs' Tarpley faces charges

DALLAS (AP) — Criminal charges, including driving while intoxicated, were being filed Friday against Dallas Mavericks' forward Roy Tarpley, said police who described the alcohol content of his blood as high in a test following his arrest.

Police said test results Friday showed the alcohol content of Tarpley's blood was sufficient to charge him with DWI.

"Today, we filed two charges, driving while intoxicated and resisting arrest," said Dallas Police Sgt. Jim L. Chandler. "The drug screen was negative — no indication of drugs — in Mr. Tarpley's blood."

"But the alcohol level was high enough to file charges, which in Texas must be above .10."

Investigators said the tests showed no trace of drugs in Tarpley's bloodstream.

The Dallas County district attorney's office did not immediately return phone calls Friday to The Associated Press for details on the charges.

Tarpley, who has been treated twice for drug and alcohol abuse, was arrested Wednesday night. He faces possible lifetime suspension from the league if tests show he took cocaine or other illegal drugs.

If suspended for life, Tarpley could apply for reinstatement after two years.

Snyder falls 21-0...

MHS blanks Tigers

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

The final football game of the 1989 season for the Snyder Tigers saw the Monahans Lobos do something no other team has been able to accomplish this year. They kept SHS off the scoreboard for 48 minutes.

The Lobos 21-0 win sends the 4-4A runners-up into the play-offs with an 8-2 season record and a mark in district play of 6-1.

While the defensive unit of the Tigers did an excellent job of containing Joey Munoz, the loop's third leading rusher, they allowed Wayne Carter to rumble and stomp for 149 yards on 14 carries.

Munoz was limited to 16 yards on just six carries.

Sal Sanchez, sophomore tight end for Monahans, snatched six passes for 70 yards from quarterback Steven Ward.

Paul Anderson was the leading ground gainer in the Snyder camp with 38 yards on seven attempts.

The game started out as if neither team really wanted to win.

Each squad fumbled the pigskin three times in the first half and Snyder's Ed Rios tossed three interceptions while Ward threw one of his own.

Rios' performance was marred Friday by dropped passes.

On at least four occasions Snyder receivers had the ball seemingly tucked away for gains and the pumpkin slipped through receivers' hands.

At 10:13 in the second quarter, Monahans ended the frustration with an eleven yard scramble by Ward for the game's first score.

Nile Martinez tacked on the extra-point and Monahans took a 7-0 lead.

The score was set up by Snyder's third fumble.

Tailback Anderson and Rios misconnected on a hand-off and the ball fell to the ground to be retrieved by Monahans.

The TD run was preceded by a nine-yard pass from Ward to Munoz to the Snyder 11.

Following the TD Snyder accepted the Monahans kick-off at their own 23 where they went to work.

Shelby Bufkin gained seven on first down followed by three from Anderson for the needed 10.

Rios ran for four on first down from the Tigers' 34, Presley ran for one and Bufkin added four more to put the Snyder squad in a fourth and one situation.

Anderson got the call and ran to the right side of the offensive line and picked up four for a fresh set of downs.

Dwayne Cato pushed for two yards before Rios, rolling right, found Anderson ranging to the left for a gain of 21 to the Monahans 30.

Rios threw the football away two plays later with the Lobos' John Williams claiming the first of his two interceptions on the evening.

Williams' second snatch came at 2:13 in the half.

The turnover started a short drive that stalled on the Snyder 33 where Martinez attempted a 50 yard field goal.

The kick fell short, but only by a few feet.

Monahans went into the intermission with a 7-0 lead.

The Tigers received the second half kick-off but were able to gain just 15 yards and one first down before having to give up the ball via Jody Iglehart's punt.

MHS took possession of the football at their 27 yard stripe and began a seven play offensive assault that ended with Carter pounding the final 11 yards for the Lobos' touchdown.

The PAT gave Monahans a 14-0 advantage.

Snyder held the ball just three plays before being forced to punt it back to the Green and White offense.

Monahans scooted 51 yards on 10 plays for the game's final tally.

Sanchez collected an 11 yard strike from Ward in the SHS end zone and once again the Martinez kick was successful.

Monahans, by now, had an insurmountable 21-0 lead at the 11:56 mark in the contest's final stanza.

A last desperate attempt to score by the Snyder crew saw Rios and Toby Goodwin rotating at quarterback.

While the final drive of Snyder's season picked up three first downs, no one got into the MHS end zone and on fourth and 12 from the Monahans 17 Dwayne Cato was dumped for a seven yard loss on a screen pass from Rios that the Lobos' defense played perfectly.

Ranked teams in play-offs get bumped in first round

by The Associated Press
West Orange-Stark was undefeated, ranked No. 1 among Texas' Class 4A high school football teams, and seeking its second state championship in three years.

But the Mustangs are out of it now, ousted by Houston C.E. King, which rallied in the second half for a 27-15 victory in Rice Stadium Friday night after a controversial field goal gave West Orange-Stark a 15-14 lead on the final play of the second quarter.

Several other ranked teams also were bounced out of the playoffs. San Antonio Sam Houston, ranked eighth in the final Class 5A poll, suffered its first loss in a 23-6 drubbing at the hands of San Antonio Roosevelt.

Calallen, ranked second in 4A, fell to Uvalde, 13-12, and Belton, ranked sixth in 4A, was eliminated 32-6 by Stephenville, which was making its first high school football playoff appearance in 37 years.

Two Class 3A highly ranked teams were beaten Friday night. Cameron Poe, undefeated and ranked third, lost to Navasota, 18-12, and 10th-ranked Barbers Hill was beaten by Montgomery, 34-26.

Two 1A ranked teams also were knocked out of the playoffs. Normangee, ranked sixth, lost to Frost, 41-32, and Flatonia, ranked seventh, lost to Charlotte, 17-7.

C.E. King beat West Orange-Stark behind the passing and running of quarterback Pete Archie, who threw touchdown passes of 28 and 41 yards in the first half as the Panthers took a 14-12 lead. Archie also ran for 105 yards, and he turned back a West Orange-Stark drive late in the first half by intercepting a pass at the C.E. King 20. But King fumbled the ball back.

West Orange-Stark lined up for a 22-yard field goal by Roy Mazzagate, and C.E. King fans and players thought time expired before the Mustangs snapped the ball. But Mazzagate's kick was good, and officials ruled the play got off in time.

Dune Dudley gave C.E. King the lead again on a 41-yard field goal in the third quarter that hit the left upright and bounced through. Then in the fourth quarter, Jonathon Peters scampered 61 yards to the West Orange-Stark 4, gained three more yards to the 1, then plunged over one play later for the touchdown.

Another field goal by Dudley, from 19 yards out in the fourth quarter, gave Houston C.E. King its final points. C.E. King raised its record to 7-3-1.

In its stunning upset of Calallen, Uvalde used a trick play to score in the opening drive of the game, stopped Calallen's two extra-point attempts and scored a controversial touchdown on a crucial fourth-down situation late in the game.

Aikman may need equipment change

IRVING, Texas (AP) — For Sunday's game against the Miami Dolphins, Troy Aikman could use a longer face mask, a thicker chin strap, and a flak jacket.

He's learning that life in the NFL for a rookie quarterback is dangerous.

The Dallas Cowboys quarterback returned to the lineup last week after missing five games with a broken finger on his non-passing hand, to take the highlight film hit of the year from Phoenix linebacker Anthony Bell.

Bell's helmet caught Aikman flush on the jaw and knocked out Aikman for five minutes.

"He's a tough kid," said Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson. "He should be OK by game time."

Aikman worked part of the week with his helmet off because of headaches and a sore jaw.

"We weren't going to have anybody hit him in practice," Johnson said.

Aikman will get some more on the job training by watching Miami quarterback Dan Marino, who missed practice Thursday because of a bruised elbow but is expected to start against Dallas.

"Troy is just starting out and I think he will be a great quarterback in the league some day," he said. "Marino is already great. It will be a good chance for Troy to see him work."

The 6-4 Dolphins are still very much alive in the playoff chase while the 1-9 Cowboys are last in the league.

Attention in Miami has focussed on the reunion of the Shula family, as well as the interconnected coaching and playing staffs of the two teams.

Rebels blast Cal in NIT

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Larry Johnson scored 25 points and top-ranked UNLV blew open the game in the first half Friday night to beat California 101-81 and advance to the semifinals of the preseason NIT.

Johnson had 17 of his points during the first half, when the Runnin' Rebels used two 11-0 runs to put the game away before halftime.

Anderson Hunt added 16 for UNLV (2-0), which cleared its bench midway through the second half while leading by as many as 33.

Keith Smith had 22 points for California (1-1), while Roy Fisher added 15.

UNLV, with Johnson scoring 11 of his points during the spurt, outscored California 33-12 the last 9:30 of the first half to turn a 2-point deficit into a 48-28 halftime lead.

NFL preview

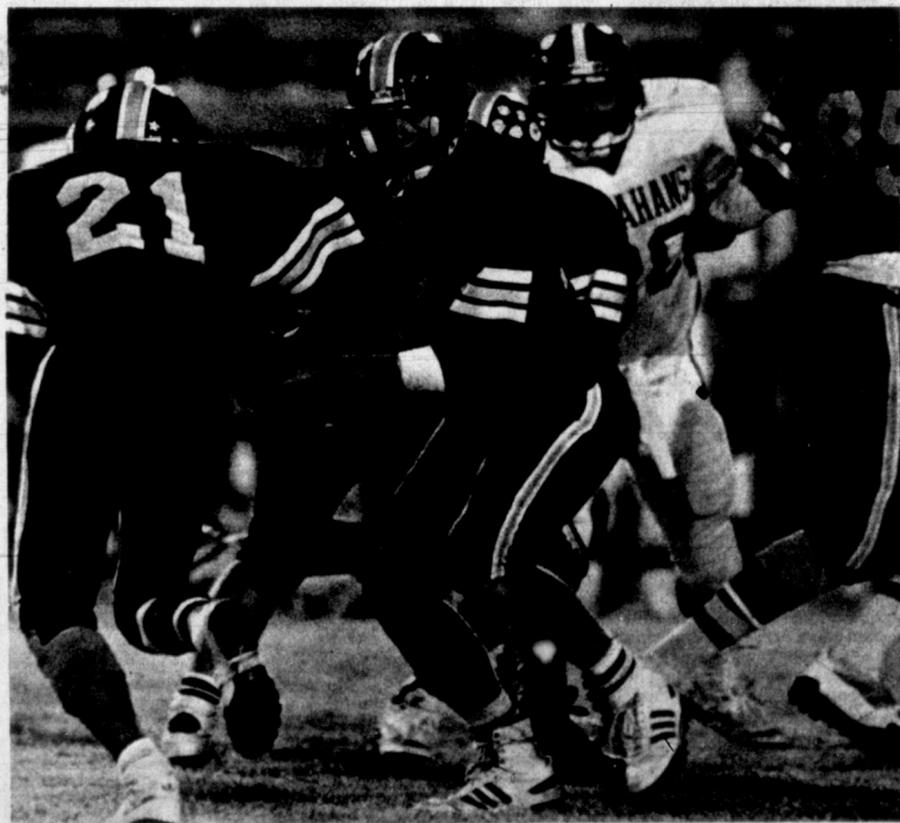

By The Associated Press
Coach Marty Schottenheimer returns to Cleveland Sunday, where his Kansas City Chiefs will try to shut down a Browns' offense he was not allowed to run. Schottenheimer left as Browns head coach after last season because he wanted to run the offense. Club owner Art Modell insisted on a separate offensive coordinator.

The Chiefs (4-6) are first in the American Football Conference in overall defense, with an average yield of 256.1 yards and first in pass defense with a 143.8 average.

Cleveland (7-3), holding a one-game lead over Houston in the AFC Central, has won four straight games. The Browns' attack is geared to the passing of Bernie Kosar, who did not throw an interception in the last two games nor in six of 10 games, to Eric Metcalf, Webster Slaughter and Gerald McNeil.

On the other hand, Schottenheimer's offense will have to solve a defense that is second overall in the AFC with a 276-yard average yield, first against the rush, 93.5, and third against the pass, 182.5. It also has allowed an NFL-low 150 points.

The Minnesota Vikings and Buffalo Bills (each 7-3) also will be trying to protect one-game leads Sunday — the Vikings over the Chicago Bears in the National Conference Central and the Bills over the Miami Dolphins in the AFC East. Minnesota plays at the Philadelphia Eagles, and Buffalo plays at the New England Patriots.

SENIOR QB — Toby Goodwin, with ball, in his last football game for the Tigers fakes a hand-off to tailback Shelby Bufkin, 21, and prepares to pass during Snyder's 21-0 shut-out loss to Monahans Friday. Goodwin shared the quarterbacking duties with junior Ed Rios on the night. (SDN Staff Photo)

ONE INJURED—Kristi G. Wright, 20, of 4400 Ave. U is in stable condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle collision

Snyder woman injured in two-car collision

A 20-year-old Snyder woman was listed in stable condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital Saturday with injuries suffered in a 5:23 p.m. Friday traffic accident in the 500 Block of 37th St.

Kristi G. Wright of 4400 Ave. U had multiple contusions and complained of pain in left shoulder, back and the right side of her neck, a hospital spokesman said.

Police said she was driving a 1988 Mercury east on 37th when it was in collision with another 1988 Mercury, driven by Garland M. Green of Fluvanna, that was coming onto 37th St. from the south.

Both cars had to be towed from the scene.

The first accident investigated by police Friday was at the scene of the Western Texas College dormitory fire at 12:25 p.m., where a TU Electric bucket truck driven by Franklin Bryant of Rt. 3 hit a parked 1989 Chevrolet owned by Dr. Duane Hood of 3000 Crockett Ave.

An unknown driver and vehicle hit a parked 1988 Subaru owned by Marcelo Alvarez of Colorado City in an incident discovered at 12:44 p.m. in the WTC gymnasium parking lot.

At 6:08 p.m. Friday in the 3700 Block of College Ave., a 1978 Ford LTD driven by Jennifer K. Reese of 2113 O'Neal was in collision with a 1985 Cadillac driven by Virginia W. Bethel of 2700 42nd

St.

A 1981 Chevrolet driven by Amy D. Camp of 2912 Ave. U was in collision with a 1984 Chevrolet driven by Shawn D. Hays of Arah Rt. at 10:45 p.m. Friday in the Sonic Drive In parking lot at 4100 College.

Snyder man said suspect in harassment complaint

A Snyder man has been identified as a suspect in a misdemeanor harassment case that reportedly involved obscene telephone calls.

Police said the Class B misdemeanor case, carrying a maximum possible penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine, has been forwarded to County Attorney Lealand "Pete" Greene for a determination on whether

WTC meats team ends with win

The Western Texas College meats judging team ended the fall season on a high note, finishing second in the Garden City, Kan. collegiate competition sponsored by Beef Empire Days.

The team was first in beef grading, third in questions, and fourth in placings, Jim Judah, coach, said.

Mark Faulkenberry of Snyder was high individual on the team and finished third in the overall contest. He tied for high individual in beef grading and was seventh in questions.

Derrick Bruton of Frankston was third high individual in beef grading. Shad Cox of Hobbs, N. M. was ninth in beef grading and Michelle Cox of San Angelo was 10th in beef grading. Quenna Shubert of Seymour judged as an alternate and was fourth high individual among the alternates.

The meats team will compete next in January at the National Western Stock Show in Denver. This contest is a major national competition for meats judging.

charges should be filed.

A telephone company "trap" had been placed on the telephone of the victim, a Snyder woman, and a completed trace on an obscene call was noted by police at 10:12 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 9, a city policeman said Saturday.

Tires, wheels, purse stolen

Police are investigating the theft of all the wheels and tires from a 1980 Ford pickup owned by Howard Jones.

Jones told officers at 1:45 p.m. that the incident took place in the 800 Block of 20th St.

Georgene Cobb at 12:02 p.m. Friday reported that her purse had been stolen from a vehicle parked in the 2300 Block of Ave. R.

Youngster falls

A 12-year-old Snyder boy was held for 23-hour observation at Cogdell Memorial Hospital after he fell in the north end of the west grandstand at Tiger Stadium Friday night.

Tommy Moss of 308 31st St. was taken to the hospital at 8:50 p.m. by Snyder EMS Ambulance Service after he fell while descending the stands and hit his back and head, according to reports.

Obituaries

Millie Cade

QUITMAN--Services are set for 3 p.m. Sunday at the Rock Hill First Baptist Church for Millie Cade, 86, who died Friday in a Quitman Hospital.

Survivors include her daughter, Ima Emerson of Snyder; two sisters; five grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Mary Pearson

DUBLIN--Graveside services were held Saturday afternoon at Lowell Green's Creek Cemetery for Mary Ellen Pearson, 54, who died Thursday at her home in Brownwood.

She was the sister of Milburn Matthews of Snyder.

Born in Springtown, Okla., she had been a resident of Brownwood for the past five years. She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Ray Pearson of Brownwood; a son, Phil Wayne Pearson of Fort Worth; a daughter, Brenda Erwin of Sparta, Wis.; three sisters, Grace Perkins of Lovington, N.M., Ethel Gunter of Azle and Gloria Fredrick of Hobbs, N.M.; four other brothers, Jim Matthews of Hobbs, N.M., Tom Matthews of Oklahoma, Bill Dolen of Azle and Don Dolen of Raleigh, N.C.; and six grandchildren.

Victims' organs will be donated

GARLAND, Texas (AP) — Baylor Medical Center officials say the shooting of a 4-year-old girl saddened the medical workers who cared for her, but they were heartened by news that the girl's organs would be donated to others.

The girl, Christy Condon, was declared brain dead Friday after being shot in the face with a .20-gauge shotgun in a shooting spree that ended in four other deaths, including that of a police officer, Wednesday.

Daniel J. Hittle, a 39-year-old parolee from Minnesota, was being held in the shootings.

Police say a gunman late Wednesday stormed into the east Dallas home of Christy's mother, Mary Alice Goss, 39, and opened fire, killing Ms. Goss; Richard Joseph Cook Jr., 36, and Raymond Scott Gregg, 19. Christy was shot in the face.

A few minutes later, about two miles away, Garland police officer Gerald Ray Walker stopped the gunman for a traffic violation and was shot as he approached the car. A firefighter spotted Walker's body and used the officer's police radio to call for help.

Later, Hittle engaged in a gun battle with three other Garland officers and surrendered when he ran out of ammunition.

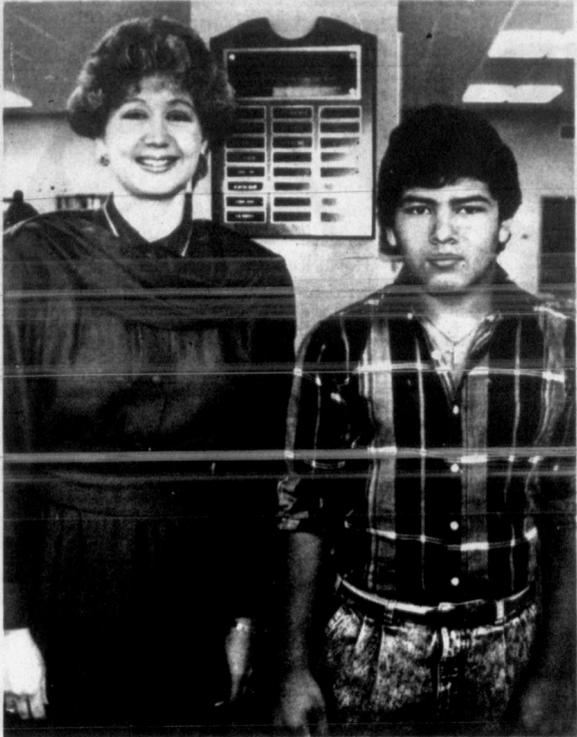

He has been charged with capital murder in Walker's death and three counts of attempted murder in the shootout with Garland officers.

Dallas police had not filed charges by Friday in the house shootings, which they speculate was revenge for an earlier altercation.

Arrest, fight are reported

An 18-year-old man was arrested for public intoxication and disorderly conduct after city officers were called to the scene of a reported fight late Friday outside the Sonic Drive In at 4100 College Ave.

The fight was reported at 11:35 p.m., and officers made the arrest at 11:44

EDUCATIONAL EXCELLENCE—Jeronimo Ruiz, freshman, is the latest recipient of the Council for Educational Excellence's six weeks academic award. He was nominated by Pam Gibson, algebra teacher. Each six weeks high school teachers nominate students and the final selection is made by the committee. Gibson said she nominated Ruiz because of his "attitude and excellent work." The committee will also donate a book to the high school library in Ruiz's name. (SDN Staff Photo)

Decision expected

DALLAS (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge is to decide Monday whether to convert William Herbert Hunt's Chapter 11 bankruptcy reorganization case to a Chapter 7 liquidation case if creditors can't agree on a plan of reorganization. But Hunt's attorney, Stephen McMartin, has asked the court to delay signing the liquidation order so he could file an amended plan of reorganization. He said both Minpeco and the Internal Revenue Service had agreed to support the plan. "We think we can have a confirmable plan by Christmas," he said. U.S. Judge Sidney A. Fitzwater denied a motion Wednesday by creditor Minpeco S.A., which asked that the case be moved to federal court for a decision on the priority of repaying Minpeco's $250 million claim against Bunker and William Herbert Hunt.

Negotiators okay catastrophic repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate negotiators agreed early Saturday to repeal catastrophic medical insurance for retirees and the surtax and premiums that finance it.

Tax-writers in both chambers continued efforts past midnight to wrap up work on a deficit-reduction plan, one of the major obstacles standing in the way of adjourning Congress for the year. The chairmen of the two tax-writing committees agreed on a plan Friday night.

Agreement on repealing catastrophic coverage was announced by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, after a closed session with senior members of the panel. "There was a lot of deep disappointment (in the committee) starting with me," Bentsen said.

The repeal agreement is subject to final approval by the House and Senate, probably on Sunday. But approval is a foregone conclusion, Senate aides said.

Repeal of catastrophic coverage, which was designed to protect retirees against being bankrupted by a major illness, had been demanded by the House following a year of complaints by many of the people that the program was created to help. Some retirees complained that they already had such coverage, while many higher-income older people were upset at having to pay a special income surtax of up to $800 a year.

The Senate had proposed to repeal the surtax but to retain coverage for hospital bills, several minor benefits and a flat $4-a-month premium on most retirees. Through weeks of negotiations, the House would not budge, and the Senate finally yielded.

President Bush is expected to sign the repeal legislation. The repeal bill and details of the deficit-cutting plan were thrashed out by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Bentsen during a 12-hour closed session Friday.

Scurry County Folks

By Shirley A. Gorman

Collecting antiques and other things seems to run in the Tony Hayley family.

Hayley, who has managed Cinema I and II for the past 10½ years, collects antique bottles, movie posters, and antique ads while his wife, Josie, collects vases, and he has started a doll collection for daughter, Jamie, 10. He has also spent the past 25 years as a snake hunter.

A native of Sweetwater, Hayley started collecting antique bottles some 15 years ago when he realized that two days of digging could bring him as much as $150 while his regular job only paid $100 a week.

One day years ago, while out hunting snakes, Hayley said he discovered broken bits of glass bottles near the railroad track in Sweetwater. That whetted his appetite and before long he had acquired one of his first pieces: a cathedral pepper sauce bottle.

Since then his collection has expanded to include pickle bottles, pepper bottles, sauce bottles, and soda bottles. Most of his pieces date from 1900-1940 with 1900 "probably being the oldest."

Hayley said he finds many of his pieces while out hunting for snakes, or in cisterns and old dump grounds.

"I entered a cistern one day looking for snakes and found bottles stashed there also," he said. "It was a toss up to see which one of my passions would win out."

Most bottles in his collection, which numbers around 1,500, were either embossed or else sported a paper label. Most of the companies represented in his extensive collection are now defunct, he explained.

Sweetwater, in the 1930s, was famous for a mineral water company which was located two blocks from Hayley's boyhood home. It closed when he was around 7 years old, but in its heyday, the company offered the same water in bottles as was available in mineral baths.

Mineral water or "crazy water crystal" was also known as "pluto water," and advertisements led people to believe that drinking six to eight ounces a day would "flush their systems."

Hayley said the product was more of a "gyp water," and that it probably just gave people diarrhea.

Antique food bottles for pickles, etc., came in assorted sizes while medicine bottles were either big or sample size.

During the Prohibition Era when all alcohol and all products containing alcohol had been taken off the market, Hayley said doctors invented a medicine called "bitters" which contained from 40-50 percent alcohol. Twenty-five cents usually could purchase a big bottle of so-called iron tonic which "made people feel better."

Bitters came in brown bottles and many were manufactured to look like log cabins. Food bottles were either clear or aqua.

Dark bottles, brown or blue mainly, usually contained poison.

Hayley prefers purple bottles which, strangely enough, turn from white to purple after being exposed to sunlight. The same effect can also be achieved with a barber's light.

In the 1920s Hayley said the formula for making bottles was changed so that they no longer changed color after being exposed to sunlight.

Hayley said bottle shows are conducted similar to gun shows and coin shows but he said he mainly finds his pieces from digging in old dump sites and browsing through flea markets. Most bottles come from the north, he said.

Hayley said he has scouted the surrounding area for potential sites and recently located one in Colorado City — a former dump ground. He is at present leasing the land he is digging on, but he said in general if you approach people and ask them up front then they will usually let you hunt for snakes and/or dig for bottles on their property.

He said the dump grounds have to have the top layer cleared away with a front end loader and then the real work of digging piece by piece begins.

When Deep Creek was widened several years ago, he said it yielded a large supply of antique bottles. He said digging in old dump sites can be difficult because so much debris has collected on top of the land.

Hayley also does a lot of searching in the country, especially along river banks where early trash dumps were once located.

He also has six dotted snuff bottles. Dots on the bottom of each bottle indicated the strength of the product.

Since more and more plastic bottles are being used by today's companies, Hayley said antique glass bottles like those in his collection will become more scarce and probably more valuable in the long run, too.

Occasionally, Hayley said he has to buy a truly rare bottle to add to his collection.

He advises bottle collectors to beware of fake bitters bottles which are sometimes passed off as the real thing. Current law, though, now states that reproductions must be so labeled on the bottom of the bottle.

Before automatic bottling machines were invented, Hayley said bottles had to be sealed with a wire. Sew top bottles usually get tossed away, he explained.

Occasionally, these dump sites yield other treasures such as antique signs which Hayley said he treasures very highly.

He prefers the pre-1940 signs and bottles.

He said he likes to collect bottles because they remind him of what life was like years ago. "I just like the era represented by the bottles," he said recently.

Hayley has learned much of what he knows about bottles simply through collecting and studying about the treasures he finds. He said a large collection of books are also available on the Bennett, Richards...

Couple wed in afternoon ceremony

Tonya Ann Bennett and Jonathan Blake Richards were joined in matrimony at 2 p.m. Oct. 7 at First Baptist Church. The Rev. Keith Berryman officiated the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Roy and Jean Bennett of Snyder, and the groom is the son of Joye Richards of Bend, Ore., and the late Carl Richards.

Vows were exchanged before a brass arch decorated with fresh greenery. Barbara Mott provided traditional wedding music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an informal gown of ivory imported English lace over satin. The wedding band collar of Venice lace highlighted the sheer lace overlay edged in Venice lace.

The dropped-waist was finished with an ivory satin sash, accented with a satin bow on the hip. The full, intermission-length skirt was also highlighted with a matching overlay of English lace.

A headpiece of ivory lily-of-the-valley and seed pearls completed the bridal attire. She carried a bouquet of ivory, peach and pale blue rose buds with baby's breath.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore an ivory cross necklace, belonging to her grandmother, Eula Ulmer of Hamlin, for something old. Something new was a pair of opal earrings given to her by the groom's mother, and she borrowed a string of cultured pearls from a friend, Lana McMillan. The traditional blue garter completed the ensemble.

Linda Lee of Apache Junction, Ariz., served as matron of honor. She wore a tea-length dress of peach satin, overlaid with peach lace. The rounded neckline and elegant puffed sleeves highlighted the two-tiered ruffled skirt. She carried a bouquet of ivory, peach, and pale blue rose buds.

Marc Richards of Los Angeles, Calif., served his brother as best man. Ushers were David Bennett, brother of the bride, and Chris Richards, brother of the groom.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with an ivory shirt and peach accessories. He wore an ivory boutonniere. The best man wore a black tuxedo with accessories matching the groom's.

Rebecca Bennett and Melissa Bennett, nieces of the bride, and Raven Taylor of Sweetwater, cousin of the bride, registered guests.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

The two-tiered white wedding cake featured cascades of peach and pale blue flowers. The cake was topped with a ceramic bride and groom encased in a heart with wedding bells cascading from the center.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and Western Texas College. She is a licensed vocational nurse. The groom is a graduate of Gresham High School in Gresham, Ore. He completed four years in the U.S. Air Force, and is currently employed with Lear Siegler, Reese AFB, Lubbock.

The couple resides in Lubbock.

4-H TRAINS YOUTH FOR LEADERSHIP ROLES
Youths across Texas have many opportunities to observe and study others in leadership roles, as well as performing as leaders and role models for other young people.

Among some of these challenging potential leadership assignments are showing an avid interest in 4-H Club activities and serving as a club officer.

As 4-H members advance through various projects and activities, many also will have an opportunity to serve on a county or district 4-H Council and later compete for an officer position with one of the youth councils.

At the state level, some 32 youths serve annually on the Texas 4-H Council, which guides and coordinates activities across the 14 districts of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Each year, a new set of young leaders is elected to represent the state's 388,493 4-H Club members.

A young person can set a goal to excel in leadership and be a part of some of these exciting efforts.

The Texas 4-H program is the youth leadership development organization of the Extension Service.

West would have promoted his club holding to another trick.) But declarer won this in his hand. He now played to dummy's ace of clubs, came back to his hand with another heart, and cashed the K-J of clubs, picking up the remaining trumps from West. On this K-J of clubs, East threw two diamonds, retaining the J-7 of hearts. Declarer now cashed his other high heart, hoping the suit would divide. When East was left with the high heart, the last spade was played. East of course threw a diamond, knowing that he could not relinquish the winning heart. Declarer knew that West had started with five spades and four clubs and only two hearts. Since East had begun with four diamonds, it was likely they included the king. So declarer played to dummy's ace, dropping East's king and making his contract.

No kudos on this deal to defender West. He can defeat the contract after winning the king of hearts by playing a diamond.

The Rottneros Cup is a special team event held in Sweden for Scandinavian contestants. Last April the event was won by a team from Denmark. In a match against Norway, Danish player Thorvald Aagaard played and made six clubs after a bidding sequence similar to the one shown.

Declarer won the club lead with his nine, played ace and ruffed a spade, and then played a heart from dummy, inserting the 10. This was won by West's king. West, thinking it possible that his partner held the spade king, played another spade. (If this had to be ruffed in dummy with the club ace,

Kentuckians are using horse mane texturizer

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — Frazier traces his sales of Forget what Madison Avenue says about shampoos, mousses, conditioners and gels for fine hair, curly hair, dry hair and oily hair.

Get it from the horse's mouth. Well, almost.

For years, Frazier's Farmer Supply store in Whitesburg has been selling Mane 'n Tail to lengthen and texturize a horse's mane.

Then word spread that it was good for human hair, too.

"It's been going on about two years, but this year it's really caught on," according to store owner Doug Frazier, who says he sells about 10 cases a month here in Southeastern Kentucky.

Mane 'n Tail as a hair care product to a beauty school at Prestonsburg.

"They started buying it at first," he told Ben Gish of The Mountain Eagle, "and now they're coming from Perry County and Knott County to buy it."

Phyllis Hill, an employee of Straight Arrow Products in Phillipsburg, N.J., which makes Mane 'n Tail, says people from around the country are using horse mane conditioner on their hair. But she says it hasn't caught on quite the way it has in Southeastern Kentucky.

Women swear that Mane 'n Tail, at $8.95 a quart, makes their hair grow faster.

Sisters rival in KC

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — As the news anchor of one midday Kansas City television news show wraps up her broadcast, her sister faces the cameras on a rival station.

But Lili Bliss, who anchors the noon news on KCTV, says she doesn't consider her sister a rival — even though Katherine Bliss anchors the 11:30 a.m. news show on WDAF-TV, as well as a 6:30 a.m. show.

"We want us both to be rated number one," she says.

The Blisses are believed to be the only sisters in the nation who come within 30 minutes of being head-to-head rivals on local network affiliates.

Katherine Bliss, 28, is finishing her first year at Channel 4 and Lili Bliss, 30, has spent six years with Channel 5.

Instead of feeling competitive, Lili says, "It's a wonderful support to have. If you have a bad show or a bad day, there's always someone in the business who understands. We pick each other up."

"It's really nice to be able to call up and say 'Boy, you'll never guess what happened today," says Katherine, who is known to family and friends as Kitty.

While both women have anchor and interview duties, Lili books her own guests. Because of her 6:30 a.m. anchor duties, Katherine works closely with producers to arrange her interviews. Lili wakes up watching her sister each morning.

While their lives have taken similar professional paths, their personal lives are different. Lili and her lawyer husband have a 2-year-old son, Curtis, and another child due in November.

Lili had co-anchored the noon and 5 p.m. newscasts on KCTV until March. But she cut her hours to spend more time with her growing family.

Katherine is single, and jokes that her social life suffers because her only free time is in the afternoon.

After growing up together, with two older sisters, Lili and Katherine can size each other up easily.

Workers' comp splits long-time allies in Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The workers' compensation reform debate has split two political allies, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and state Sen. Carl Parker, in a feud that has grown increasingly bitter.

The two Democrats are opposites in personality, but that hasn't seemed to stop them from getting along in the past.

Hobby is a self-deprecating man whose style is low-key. He is known as a negotiator and consensus builder in the back rooms of government. He generally runs from the spotlight.

A multimillionaire, Hobby's father was former Gov. Will Hobby and his mother, Oveta Culp Hobby, directed the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps during World War II and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare during Dwight Eisenhower's administration.

Parker, a trial lawyer, is the son of a Port Arthur mayor. He is cocky, confrontational and smart-alecky, with a wit often aimed at the midsection.

Hobby has made Parker chairman of the powerful Education Committee and has often helped his Democratic colleague push through legislation.

But on workers' comp, the two have gone in different directions.

Parker says Hobby has abandoned the working man by pushing a reform bill favored by the insurance industry,

Republicans and unsafe employers.

And he has trotted out the common criticisms of Hobby — rich kid, country clubber. Hobby cannot understand the working people, Parker said.

Hobby and his lieutenants pushing the bill are "born rich, raised rich, raised in a sheltered environment," Parker said.

He challenged Hobby to a debate over their competing comp reform bills. Hobby said he would, but because of a previous commitment couldn't during a Thursday night local television show.

The two have had a run-in before.

In 1979, Parker was one of 12 senators who bolted to bust the Senate quorum and block a Hobby-backed split presidential primary bill that many thought would benefit Democrat-turned-Republican John Connally. The senators became national heroes known as the "Killer Bees."

Hobby has been in frequent conflict with liberals, with Democratic activists saying that he usually sides with conservative Democrats on business issues.

But Parker said he doesn't believe his current argument with Hobby will produce lingering bad feelings. "There are no permanent friends and enemies on political issues," he said.

Experiment hardware worked

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Hardware for the 12 experiments that fell from the sky in an aborted rocket launch this week worked as planned despite the failed mission and can be reused for the next try.

"We don't know if we got any useful scientific data, but we do know the hardware works," Rick Mould, spokesman for the flight sponsors at the University of Alabama at Huntsville, said Thursday.

The half-ton payload broke off 17 seconds after the Wednesday morning launch and parachuted to a soft landing after the Consort

2 rocket spun off course. The flight was terminated by flight controllers at White Sands Missile Range 30 seconds after the launch. Mould said flight sponsors plan to prepare the payload for another flight in the spring.

Accident investigators for the commercial rocket builder's Space Services Inc. of Houston are focusing on the onboard guidance system, which they believe went haywire shortly after launch.

Safety officials at the range aborted the launch after receiving data indicating the rocket could leave the missile range boundaries, Debbie Bingham, range spokeswoman, said Friday.

The experiments were switched on by an automatic timer.

DIVERTICULITIS

It occurs when tiny pouches form in the wall of the colon and become inflamed. Avoid constipation and bowel straining. Don't take laxatives, which can irritate the large bowel. The U. of Cal. Wellness Letter advises adequate dietary fiber, obtained from eating more fruits and vegetables (raw and unpeeled are best) -also whole grains. Wheat bran in casseroles and bakery is very helpful. These are good practices for the health of any digestive tract, whether diverticulitic or not.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
©1989 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Jim," had an affair with a neighbor I'll call "Carol." Two neighbors told me about it. One said Jim would park his car on the side of her house and walk to Carol's. (Carol's husband worked nights, which made it very convenient.)

When I heard about this affair, I approached Carol (which I now regret) and asked her what was going on between her and my husband. She said if there was anything I wanted to know, I would have to ask Jim.

When I asked him, he denied it, but I could tell he was lying. I know this affair would never break up Carol's home, because her husband is an easygoing guy and an excellent provider. She has never had to work, and they get along with each other like a pair of newlyweds.

How should I treat Carol? Our children are about the same ages, they play together, and our husbands are good friends. Carol has always been very nice to me, and I see no reason why I shouldn't be nice to her. After all, it takes two to tango, and I think it's over now.

Please tell me how to handle this.
NEEDS GUIDANCE

DEAR NEEDS: It's history. Don't mention it to Carol or Jim. And if one of your neighbors brings it up, say it's a closed chapter and there's nothing to talk about.

Orchids to you for your sensible attitude. Your husband is lucky. And so is Carol.

DEAR ABBY: I need a quick answer about whether to attend a family wedding or not. A very close relative buried his wife 14 months and six days ago. They had been married — and very happily — for 42 years.

We do not approve of this second marriage because he met this woman when a friend brought her along to pay him a condolence call when he was sitting shiva for his wife (the first week of mourning). Have you

Study finds:

3 of 4 big-city crooks use cocaine

ATLANTA (AP) — More than half of the criminal suspects in many of the nation's big cities had used cocaine within a few days of their arrests, a federal study shows.

The study indicated that three-quarters of the criminals in New York and Philadelphia, and 65 percent of those in Washington, D.C., use cocaine.

One official said it showed that "the real drug problem" is in the nation's criminal sector.

"We could find the large bulk of drug users by looking at the 13 million arrests made each year," said Eric Wish of the National Institute of Justice, an arm of the Justice Department that conducted the survey.

The Centers for Disease Control released the study Thursday.

Since 1986, the institute has monitored drugs in selected cities with tests that detect cocaine use within the previous two to three days, Wish said. Those surveyed included people arrested for most crimes except traffic violations and vagrancy.

ever heard of such a thing? We think this all happened too fast and need your opinion.

CLOSE RELATIVES IN JERSEY

DEAR CLOSE: According to Jewish law, the official mourning period is one year. Judge not. Wish them both well and go to the wedding.

DEAR ABBY: I have been told that when meeting people, stay away from subjects such as sex, politics and religion.

An Englishman once told me that Americans are considered rude because the first question they ask is, "What do you do for a living?"

I have also been told that it's very poor taste to ask what race or nationality people are. For example, if a person looks Oriental, you should not ask if he or she is Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Cambodian, Thai or Hawaiian.

Abby, I was taught that in order to make friends with people, you need to show an interest in them and find some common ground. So please tell me what to say after, "What's your name?" and, "My, that's a lovely dress" — or tie, or whatever.

It is frustrating to sit next to someone on a bus, plane or train without saying a word. Can you please help me out with a few suggestions on how to break an awkward silence? I'm friendly, not pushy.
SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: The safest subject to initiate a conversation is, believe it or not, the weather. If you get a chilly response, cool it.

If you're traveling, you could ask, "Where are you heading?" Or, "Where's home?"

If the stranger is reading, or appears to be deeply engrossed in work, leave him or her alone. Most people appreciate a show of friendliness from a stranger, but not all do, so after you've initiated a conversation, where it leads will be up to the other party.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I (both working parents) raised three wonderful children while holding onto the principle that we were 100 percent responsible for bringing those children onto this earth and, therefore, were 100 percent responsible for their upbringing and care. What we could not do ourselves, we paid others to do for us. Now we have a grandson, "Mike." Our daughter-in-law, "Nan," started early to take him regularly to the homes of three relatives. When Nan returned to work, she and our son, "Rick," took Mike to day care, but we three relatives continued to receive equal-time baby-sitting many weeknights and weekends. Nan would apologize if we missed our turn and faithfully made up any missed baby-sitting "privileges."

We explained to our son, Rick, that since my career keeps me extremely busy, we need to indicate when we are able to give some time grandparenting. This has worked well on the calendar, but not on the issue. I am very resentful because our two-hour "visits" with little Mike have become overnights that extend to 16 hours! I don't want this to spoil my relationship with my son and daughter-in-law, but I can't help bristling every time Nan smiles and says, "Mike, if they promise not to spoil you too much, we might let you stay with Grandma and Grandpa for a while." How should this be handled?
LOVING BUT NOT BLIND GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER: Since you have already explained to your son that your career must come before the "privilege" of having your grandchild for extended overnight visits, be sure that he and Nan see this letter.

Also, remind them of your philosophy of child-rearing, but don't expect them to be good sports about it. Reliable, free, supplemental child care is hard to find, and they may resent losing yours.

DEAR TRYING: Call your local rape treatment facility and tell the people there your story. It's never too late to get counseling and join a support group. You have never learned how to deal with the memories of that traumatic experience. You must face it in order to put that nightmare behind you once and for all.

For now, do not wear sleeveless dresses. An exposed scar invites questions. Should anyone ask how it happened, simply say it happened years ago and you'd rather not talk about it. You might also consider cosmetic surgery to make the scar less conspicuous. But first, counseling is imperative. I wish you well.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I (both working parents) raised three wonderful children while holding onto the principle that we were 100 percent responsible for bringing those children onto this earth and, therefore, were 100 percent responsible for their upbringing and care. What we could not do ourselves, we Fewer than 25 percent of those tested in the survey were arrested for drug crimes, officials said.

The survey indicated that fewer criminals use marijuana than cocaine. Marijuana use ranged from 44 percent of those tested in San Diego to 13 percent in New York and Washington.

The survey also tested for opiates and amphetamines; all cities reported less than 20 percent for each except San Diego, which reported 35 percent using amphetamines.

Odessa American to switch from afternoon to morning publication

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — The Odessa American, now an afternoon-published newspaper, will switch to morning publication beginning Jan. 1, according to publisher David F. Lyons.

"The trend in readership nationwide and here at home is to pick up a morning paper to start the day fresh with news, information and advertising," Lyons wrote in a front-page letter in Thursday afternoon's paper.

For years, the newspaper has published in the morning on weekends and in the afternoon Monday through Friday.

Lyons said the switch to morning publication will benefit readers by ensuring they get up-to-date news.

"With the current afternoon publication, there often is not enough time in the mornings to arrange for publication of the stories and pictures that you want," he wrote.

Researchers also asked arrested men about their drug habits. Between 38 percent (in San Diego) and 15 percent (in Dallas) reported that they had used injectible drugs at some time.

In 11 cities, more than 20 percent of those using injectible drugs said they were sharing needles with other users.

That, according to the CDC, "indicates that a substantial proportion of the arrestees engage in behaviors that put them at increased risk for transmission of HIV," the virus which causes AIDS.

Outside counsel hired to probe solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outside counsel will investigate five senators who intervened with banking regulators to help a political contributor, a source says, indicating an intensified probe by the Senate Ethics Committee.

The source, speaking on condition of anonymity Thursday, did not say whether a counsel had yet been hired to investigate the senators, who aided Charles H. Keating Jr. when he was the chairman of the failing Lincoln Savings and Loan of Irvine, Calif. But the New York Times reported today the committee had decided to hire prominent Washington attorney Robert S. Bennett for the investigation, as well as for an unrelated review involving Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y. A source says the Senate Ethics Committee is reviewing allegations that D'Amato violated rules in the Department of Housing and Urban Development scandal.

Until now, the Ethics Committee's only known interest was a letter asking the five whether Keating's contributions — $1.3 million to the senators' campaigns or political causes — prompted them to question regulators about their examination of Lincoln.

The senators are Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.; John Glenn, D-Ohio; John McCain, R-Ariz., and Donald Riegle, D-Mich. Cranston responded to the committee Thursday as DeConcini and Riegle did earlier, all denying any improprieties. Glenn and McCain have not yet filed formal responses but have denied wrongdoing.

Bennett earlier this year was selected by the committee to investigate accusations that Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., laundered $100,000 in campaign contributions through a book contract.

The Ethics Committee does not formally announce a decision to proceed from an initial expression of interest to the first formal stage of a case known as a preliminary inquiry. The inquiry determines whether there's a "reason to believe" rules violations occurred.

If the committee so decides, it would begin an initial review to determine whether there is "substantial credible evidence" of violations.

The final step is a full investigation to decide if there is "clear and convincing evidence" that standards were violated, and whether discipline should be recommended to the Senate.

A standing Senate order says that Ethics Committee investigations "shall be conducted by outside counsel ... unless the select committee determines not to use outside counsel."

The congressional watchdog Common Cause had urged the outside counsel so that the results of the inquiry would be credible and accepted by the public.

Cranston, the Democratic whip, told the committee

Thursday that "no further action ... is warranted," in a formal response prepared by his attorney.

McCain's office issued a statement saying, "I am confident that an investigation will vindicate my repeated statements that I never abused my office nor took actions that were improper."

Telephone calls to a spokesman for Riegle were not answered.

Grand jury in Alton bus case to continue Tuesday

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A grand jury will reconvene next Tuesday and may wrap up its investigation into a school bus accident that killed 21 students.

The jury recessed on Thursday after two days of deliberations.

Hidalgo County District Attorney Rene Guerra said he originally expected the grand jury to spend only two days on the case, but the panel came up with important questions that merited investigation.

"This is one of the most sensational, sensitive investigations we've ever conducted in this county, and I don't want them to rush into anything," Guerra said Thursday night.

He said the grand jury heard from three witnesses Thursday, with more planned for Tuesday.

A soft drink truck ran into a school bus in the September accident, knocking it into a water-filled pit. Most of the students who died were drowned, authorities said.

The grand jury is considering whether the truck driver, Ruben Perez, 25, of Mission, should be indicted in the case, Guerra said.

Grand jurors visited the accident scene in the town of Alton last Thursday.

The 21 junior and senior high school students died after the truck failed to stop at a stop sign in the South Texas town of Alton and knocked the bus into a flooded caliche pit. Perez has said his brakes failed.

The Texas Department of Public Safety investigated the accident and presented its report to Guerra. An investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board is not expected to be completed for as long as a year, although Guerra said a preliminary NTSB report will be presented to the grand jury.

Guerra said the most likely charges stemming from the bus crash are involuntary manslaughter, carrying a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine; or negligent homicide, which carries a maximum one year in prison.

Perez, the truck driver, has been under 24-hour private security guard protection provided by his employer, Valley Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Inc., since he reportedly received threats after the accident.

He has been on suspension with pay from the company since the Sept. 21 wreck.

Bowing to pressure from irate customers, Coca-Cola Co. said in 1985 it would resume selling its old formula for Coke, while continuing to sell its new Coke.

Asia may be the future...

Eastern Europe opening up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Perestroika could spell profit for American businesses, whose sympathetic cheering for the reformers in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe isn't entirely humanistic.

The tentative moves under Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev to convert to an economy adaptable to Western trade and investment have sent American lawyers and entrepreneurs to Moscow in the search for profit.

With the energy of a Harriman or Rockefeller, they will slice their way through the red tape, and if new emigration legislation causes President Bush and Congress to waive 14-year-old tariff barriers, the current $3 billion a year in two-way trade will multiply like fast-food joints on the Via Veneto and the Champs d'Elysee.

Glory be. Before too long, Russians, Poles, East Germans and Hungarians could be gobbling hamburgers and greasy French fries like most of the rest of us.

And as Konstantin Katushev, the Soviet minister for foreign economic relations, said in signing a new commercial agreement Thursday with Commerce Secretary Robert A. Mosbacher, American women will be wearing Russian furs.

But if the truth be told, it is Asia where opportunity beckons.

Already, U.S. trade with the Asian countries exceeds trade with Western Europe by a cool $100 billion a year.

Japan's phenomenal growth is apparent. The next car that passes yours on the way to Thanksgiving dinner at grandma's is likely to be Japanese. And the Japanese are buying Rockefeller Center.

But the prosperity is much broader than that. South Korea, Taiwan and Singapore are all growing by leaps and bounds.

And East is where the State Department has been looking lately.

Responding to an invitation

from Australia, Secretary of State James A. Baker III went to Canberra last week to proclaim U.S. support for a new grouping of 12 nations known as the Pacific Rim.

They are committed to free trade and to the proposition that it will bring with it political democracy.

Bullock says...

Job growth reaches 134,800

AUSTIN (AP) — The number of non-farm jobs rose by 134,800 in Texas in the 12-month period ending in August, lifting the total of non-agricultural jobs in the state to a record 6.8 million, the state comptroller's office said.

Border areas recorded the highest rate of job growth, with the Gulf Coast metropolitan areas accounting for more than one-third of all new jobs in Texas, Comptroller Bob Bullock said.

"Chemical industry expansion and increased trade and manufacturing along the border have been leading the job growth in Texas over the past year. Overall, the state's economic expansion remained on track providing new jobs, higher income and more state revenues," Bullock said Thursday.

The Plains region, covering the Panhandle and much of West

The 12 countries, including the United States, that met in Canberra are determined to make trade among themselves easier — and to fan out from their club to the rest of the world.

The strength of Japan and the United States has been built on a world in which we've been able to trade free," Prime Minister Bob Hawke of Australia said afterward.

The initial results were modest. The ministers agreed to improve communications among the 12 nations and to make smoother transportation arrangements for the delivery of goods.

Follow-up meetings were scheduled for Singapore and Seoul.

"I don't know whether I would use the term historic yet," Baker said. "But I think this has the potential to qualify for that type of description."

Compared with the riveting events at the Berlin Wall, the conference in Canberra received scant attention.

But Hawke pronounced solemnly: "There is no doubt that we have already moved into the Pacific century."

It would be foolhardy to disagree.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Barry Schweid covers diplomacy for The Associated Press.

Texas, was hit by oil company consolidations and reported job losses.

Twenty of the state's 28 metropolitan areas gained jobs during the 1989 fiscal year. The five metro areas with the highest rates of job growth were Laredo, up 5.2 percent; Brazoria, up 4.2 percent; Texarkana, up 4 percent; El Paso, up 3.4 percent, and McAllen, up 3 percent.

Although manufacturing growth continued to drive the Texas economy in 1988, the job growth during the past year has been more diverse, Bullock said.

Maquiladora-related businesses, including manufacturing of components and trucking and warehouse operations, prospered along the border.

Petrochemicals, metals, plastics and electronics industries expanded on the Gulf Coast, and high-tech expansion continued in the central corridor. Transportation and telecommunications led job growth in the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex.

Rock 'n roll event slated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A rock 'n' roll extravaganza to aid earthquake victims will unite some of music's biggest movers and shakers in a daylong, three-site marathon, promoter Bill Graham announced.

"Here in Northern California, we always thought we had the best vibrations anywhere, until Oct. 17," said Graham, who compared the disaster to "a 15-second war."

A separate show, featuring the Grateful Dead, will be held at the Oakland Coliseum on Dec. 6.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Nov. 19, 1989

Constructive relationships will be established in the year ahead with several people you'll meet through the work of your career. These associations will also help enhance your social standing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could wear out your welcome rather quickly today if you're too assertive with your friends. Pleasing, not pushing, should be your mode of behavior. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you do not do things in accordance with your high standards today you might have an ambiguous experience where you'll win and lose at the same time. The loss could have the most impact.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) People who are too strong today are likely to irritate you more than usual and there's a chance you'll respond in kind. Strive to avoid confrontations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Misunderstandings could develop today in a joint arrangement where there is something of value at stake. Both parties may have to make some unwelcomed adjustments.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Although you're apt to analyze situations with reasonable care today, you might still make bad judgments owing to preconceived opinions. Be open-minded.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even if asked today, think twice before getting in the middle of a sticky problem of two pals. This situation could be twisted around to make you look like the heavy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to skirt issues today you know from experience automatically puts you and your mate at opposite poles. If you both look horns, things could get nasty.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Companions will be willing to lend you a helping hand today, provided you request them to do so in a polite manner. If you are demanding, you'll be left on your own.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do lots of comparison shopping today if you are thinking about purchasing a costly item. Impulsive buying could deprive you of your best deal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be extremely careful today that you do not step on the toes of others in order to achieve your objectives. If you are not considerate, someone may put their foot out and trip you up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is one of those days when your sharp, critical faculties may be working overtime. Unfortunately, however, what you see in others may be only their faults and not their virtues.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take a breather from commercial concerns today and try to involve yourself in some of the other great things life has to offer. There's more to living than trying to earn a buck.

Your Birthday

Nov. 20, 1989

Conditions in general should be more hopeful for you in the year ahead than they have been for the past few years. New avenues for happiness will open in rather unexpected ways.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is a possibility you might put something interesting together with a person who presently resides a considerable distance from your abode. It could turn out to be extremely fortunate for both parties. Major changes are ahead for Scorpio in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This should be a very productive day for you today, primarily through the efforts of people with whom you'll be associated rather than your own. Don't get in the way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your skills as a negotiator or middle person are likely to be superior to those of your peers today. You'll know how to put something together for everyone's benefit, including your own.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't get uptight today if you're subjected to some unexpected shifts in circumstance. Changes tend to work for your ultimate benefit, so just ride things out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Inside information given to you today by entrepreneurial friends could be beneficial, especially the tips that come to you from a person you think has the Midas touch.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If there is an important matter relating to your work or career you've been anxious to advance, this could be the day when you start making big strides. Luck will be the booster rocket.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Developments where elements of chance play an intricate part should work out rather well for you today. Calculated risks are okay, foolish gambles are a no-no.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't put off until later things you can now do which could enhance the material well being of your loved ones. These are priority matters that should be given attention.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions look good for you today in matters that require mental prowess. However, it's important to remember to be a doer rather than one who delegates.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Let people who are working on your behalf have a reasonably free hand today, especially in situations where they are trying to help you generate additional income.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're presently in a cycle where you could be luckier than usual where new ventures are concerned. If there are enterprises you're hoping to get off the ground, try to get them airborne today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Some happy surprises could be in store for you at this time. You should now be able to achieve heights you were unable to reach previously. Think success.

'Housewife' decides to try for state Senate position

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The first woman to serve on the Public Utility Commission says she will challenge state Sen. Tati Santiesteban in 1990.

Santiesteban has not faced serious opposition in 17 years.

Peggy Rosson said Thursday that Santiesteban's record on consumer issues and his many elections without an opponent prompted her to enter the March primary.

"Nobody has run against Tati in so long that there's never been a debate on his record and what he's been doing in El Paso," Mrs. Rosson said.

"And I think it's time that people in El Paso had a choice and a chance to look at the record and to be advised of the record and to decide if that's the kind of representation they want," she said.

Santiesteban, D-El Paso, faced his last primary opponent in 1982 when he easily defeated Dan Ponder. His last serious challenger was Rep. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, whom he defeated 17 years ago.

Santiesteban was surprised at Mrs. Rosson's plans. "She's a very competent, capable lady," he said. "She's a very close friend of mine. I had a lot to do with getting her appointed to the PUC. Our philosophies are very similar ... I don't think she will run against me."

Mrs. Rosson was appointed to the PUC by Gov. Mark White, a Democrat, in 1983. White had focused on high utility rates in his first campaign against Republican Gov. Bill Clements and had promised to appoint a "housewife" to the commission.

Since her term on the PUC expired two years ago, Mrs. Rosson has monitored the Legislature this year for public interest groups.

Mrs. Rosson said she will officially declare her candidacy soon.

Rap musician has an accident

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rap musician Tracy Lynn Curry of The D.O.C. was in stable condition after losing control of his car on the Ventura Freeway, authorities said.

Curry, 21, suffered injuries to his face, including damage to one eye and his nose, said California Highway Patrol Officer David Grajeda. He was in stable condition Thursday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, said spokesman Ron Wise.

Gramm says...

Navy won't dock battleship to be berthed in Corpus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the House Armed Services committee says the new Corpus Christi homeport would be crippled if the Navy decides to mothball the USS Wisconsin and three other World War II battleships.

Rep. Albert Bustamante, a San Antonio Democrat, said he believes the battleships will be mothballed as part of a "tremendous shift" in priorities next year that reflects world events and a slow down in defense spending.

The Wisconsin, one of four battleships put back into service during the Reagan administration, is supposed to arrive at the $142 million Naval Station Ingleside, which is still under construction, next fall.

The effect of taking the Wisconsin out of service would "cripple" Naval Station Ingleside, Bustamante said. "It cripples that area and reduces the mission there. But those missions are going to be reduced everywhere."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said he was also increasingly concerned about the vulnerability of the battleships to future budget cuts.

But Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said he was assured Thursday by Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett that "there are no plans in the Navy to mothball the battleships; the battleships are currently in the 1991 defense budget at the Navy level."

Navy spokesman Bruce Cole said no final decisions have been made on that budget with the service. The average cost of operating a battleship in fiscal 1988 was $36.7 million.

"Clearly there will be a debate about it (the ships' future)," Gramm said. "But talk about pulling down ships we just put into the fleet is unreasonable and wasteful. I believe we have a lot of good life left in the Wisconsin and the other ships, at least for remainder of the century."

The Corpus Christi homeport is scheduled to open next fall, creating 900 permanent jobs, with another 4,000 sailors expected to be stationed at Ingleside.

Bentsen, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he is attempting to pass legislation to reduce the deficit, which in turn would repeal across-the-board budget cuts in place since last month under the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law.

"But if the president insists on automatic cuts and vetoes that budget bill, those across-the-board Gramm-Rudman cuts would surely endanger the entire homeport program," Bentsen said.

The Navy testified last week that the Gramm-Rudman cuts could force it to slash 76,000 people from active duty by next September — one out of every eight people in the Navy, Bentsen said.

Gramm, a sponsor of Gramm-Rudman, said he does not see the law "as a factor" in the ships' future.

If the cuts remain in place, Gramm said, they will "marginally affect every program, project and activity of the federal government, with a marginal impact on the ships."

Although Congress is conducting hearings to review safety in the Navy following a series of accidents since an April 19 explosion on the Iowa killed 47 men, Gramm said, "there are no plans in the Navy to take down the battleships, including the Wisconsin, which will be in Corpus in late October 1990."

Adm. Carlisle A.H. Trost, the chief of naval operations, told the Senate Armed Services Committee, however, that "everything is up for grabs today as we face a smaller out-year budget."

He said the four battleships — the Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and New Jersey, have made a major contribution to the nation's combat readiness.

"That doesn't say they're guaranteed to stay and they'll take their shot with everybody else" in the Pentagon as military budgets tighten, he said Thursday.

Bentsen said he would continue working to maintain the Corpus Christi homeport.

"After all, even if we become less concerned about a Soviet attack in Europe, we should be more concerned about having conventional forces ready for contingencies in other parts of the globe," Bentsen said.

LONDON (AP) — Novelist John Le Carre, whose best-known books powerfully evoke the Berlin Wall, said the breach of that Cold War symbol has left the West uncertain about how to react.

"The West, having got what it's been saying it wanted all those years, doesn't know from Adam what to do with it," he wrote in Thursday's Guardian newspaper.

But Le Carre said the changes in the East bloc present no obstacles for spy writers: "Don't imagine for one second that, just because the Cold War's over, the spooks aren't having a ball."

The 58-year-old Englishman, whose real name is David Cornwell, said his first best seller, "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold," emerged from the anger he felt on first seeing the Berlin Wall. In it, his two main characters are shot to death as they try to get over the wall to West Berlin.

National cancer study to concentrate on gas pipeline, electric power crews

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center Friday announced the start of a $2.8 million five-year cancer risk reduction study that involves more than 18,000 workers at gas pipeline and electric power companies in 19 states.

"Our goal is to evaluate the effectiveness of a comprehensive health promotion and cancer prevention program in an effort to modify the dietary and tobacco use habits of primarily male, blue-collar field workers employed in the energy transmission industry," Dr. Michael P. Eriksen, director of behavioral research at the cancer center, said.

"We are excited about the challenge of working with this population, which has been difficult to reach with traditional health promotion messages."

The 18,095 workers are employed at 36 natural gas pipeline workites and 37 rural electric cooperatives. The pipeline firms include Houston-based Enron Corp., The Coastal Corp., Transco Energy Co., and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. The rural electric cooperatives include some members of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

Smoking and nutrition habits are to be the focus of the study, officials said.

Eriksen said a preliminary study of Enron workers showed field workers are more likely to be cigarette smokers than office workers and thus have a higher risk of cancer.

The first year of the study will include surveys to gather information about current smoking and eating habits, he said.

"We believe that the intervention program will result in a reduction of tobacco use, as well as an increase in workite policies that support positive dietary and non-smoking behaviors," Eriksen said. "In addition, we hope to reduce the amount of fat in the diet and increase the amount of fiber consistent with the National Cancer Institute's dietary recommendations."

The project includes 19 sites in Texas, nine in Georgia, six each in Florida, Louisiana and Kansas, five in Mississippi, three each in Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky, two in Oklahoma, North Carolina and South Carolina, and one in Nebraska, Wyoming, New Mexico, Missouri, Indiana, Virginia and Alabama.

"People who live in rural areas are less likely to have systems for health education and programs for preventive health care," Eriksen said. "Programs in cancer risk reduction that target this population can play an important role in reducing the incidence of cancer in the future."

Wants film to help

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — An attorney for Indian activist Leonard Peltier, who was convicted in the 1975 slayings of two FBI agents, says he hopes a film by director Oliver Stone may help get his client out of jail.

William Kunstler, who heads the legal team handling Peltier's appeals, said Stone, whose film credits include "Platoon" and "Wall Street," is working on a movie about Peltier.

Got a call from an old friend the other day. Wanted to do some rabbit hunting.

It's been quite a while since I took up a .22 and went after rabbits. My heart isn't in it anymore frankly, and besides, I didn't know of any place to go.

I might have guessed my friend had it all mapped out. He suggested my great uncle Elber's place.

You know Elber. Sure. You hit that farm-to-market road west of town, head south 12 miles, turn back east two miles, then north a quarter of a mile, the west again over a dry creek bed. Make a sharp left just after the second bridge. You can't miss it.

Elber's place would be a great place to go rabbit hunting. Lord knows there's enough of 'em out there.

But I had to nix the idea real quick. Elber won't allow any rabbit hunting on his land. He gets downright upset about it.

It was a rabbit, according to Elber, that once saved him "from reunitin' with my Lord and havin' to face that ol' mule-drivin' woman again."

That "ol' mule-drivin' woman" is Elber's first wife, Edna, who died in 1956 and who keeps him going from day to day. You see, Elber can't stand the thought of dying and maybe meeting up with Edna again. He's just sure she's up there waiting, ready to stick a hoe in his right hand and a hammer in his left.

But that's another story.

A number of years ago, but still A.E. — that's After Edna — Elber was determined to get rid of the rabbits that stripped his garden on a routine basis. He was particularly concerned about his spinach crop, since Elber is more than a little fond of the stuff.

After some trial and error, Elber fashioned a bunch of wire basket-looking things to fit over the young spinach sprouts and whatever else he was growing at the time. The baskets were round, about two feet across, three to four feet tall and made out of pretty stout chicken wire. Each one was big enough to cover several plants. Crude, but purpose-serving.

Still, the rabbits somehow managed to get to the spinach.

One day, Elber, who had been feeling poorly and was thinking about driving over to see Doc Jones, looked out his window just in time to see a jack rabbit push his nose between the dirt and the bottom edge of one of the baskets and slip underneath. Enraged, Elber stormed out of the house and ran into the garden. The rabbit heard Elber coming and tried to scoot away, but in his panic couldn't slip back under the edge of the basket.

Just as Elber got there, he felt a deep pain in his chest.

"Like I'd been shot with a deer rifle," he later recalled. "I couldn't breathe and things begin to get dark and I knowed I was heart-attackin' and I knowed I was a goner and I knowed Edna was gonna be waitin'. But the Lord was watchin' over me, Boy.

"With all the strength I had left, I reached out and grabbed that basket, put it square on my chest and bit that rabbit on the butt. That big buck went beserk, jumpin' up and down, up and down, on my chest, preformin' pull-my-nary re-cess-uh-tay-shun. In a few minutes, I was able to get my wind again. And when I finally got up, I tied the rest of the spinach around that rabbit's neck as a present and let him go.

"That big jack got my heart pumpin' again, Boy, and I'll never forget it."

Now you can believe his story or not. But I'd be remiss if I didn't warn you: don't be hunting rabbits on Elber's place.

SDN Letters to the Editor

To the editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the fine individuals who contributed time and money to the perfect attendance savings bond drive during the month of October.

Although not every student had perfect attendance, each and every one of us sincerely appreciate the efforts of the people of Snyder to offer an incentive to be in school. Because of your savings bonds, attendance was up 1.1 percent in the district, netting Snyder schools over $60,000 in state education monies.

If by some chance the people of Snyder think that all we care about is money, take heart. Every day that a student was in school they learned something. That is the important thing and that is why I applaud the sponsors of the savings bond contest. Believe it or not, you have made a difference for someone. Thank you!

Sincerely yours,

Dear Tiger fans,

I have always been proud to be a Snyder Tiger and as an ex, I always keep up with the Tigers. I've always said that if they cut my arm off, I'd bleed black and gold until the day I die.

When my family returned home to visit recently, I was filled with emotion and relieved to see Snyder spirited behind the Tigers, and excited about football again.

The attitude of everyone I talked to was upbeat and they seemed to "believe" again. Coach Baugh and his staff are to be thanked and encouraged by anyone and everyone who cares. The win-loss record can always be deceiving and does not reflect the competitiveness displayed. I know the real battle has been won in the hearts and minds of next year's Tigers and all those to follow in this program.

They believe in themselves and will work hard enough to become champions, and soon. If you ever had the urge to say something positive to the coaches or players, for gosh sakes, take the time to say it!

We were district champs in 1974, and the number one ingredient was the feeling of everyone pulling together as one. Parents, players and fans need to keep following the excellent leadership of Coach Baugh and his staff. A championship next season is yours for the taking! Never surrender, keep the goals alive!

By Deanie Francis Mills

For the next few days, I plan on doing nothing but lay around, scratch myself, and belch.

I might make me some popcorn, if I'm in the mood. I might even watch some TV. You never know. I hear there are some hot young bods on the soaps, er, I mean, some intriguing storylines.

What I'm doing is rewarding myself. (You can do that when you're self-employed and therefore not in the habit of receiving rewards of financial nature.) Today, I typed the word "END" on page 435 of a book manuscript that has sucked the life out of me for the past year and a half.

My own fault. I coulda written children's books. I coulda written sweet little romances. But noooo. I chose to write about such things as satanic cults and ritualistic crimes. I hope the result, a novel of suspense called "Spellbound," is worth it, because it's made me a raving nutcase this whole time.

There's something about reading about this stuff that makes you heartsick and angry and paranoid. Then after a while, you realize that not all the information floating around out there is necessarily accurate or even true. You learn to be discerning. Somewhere along the line you make a rather uneasy peace with it.

(By the way, even after sifting through some extraordinarily difficult material, much of it made available to me by law enforcement agencies, I have to agree with Bill McClellan's Halloween editorial. I took my kids trick-or-treating and they had a ball. Giving kids a chance to dress up and trick-or-treat or attend even a school or church carnival is harmless in and of itself. After 16 months' ongoing research into that sort of thing, that's my fairly educated opinion.)

Anyway, once I settled down to the story, it wasn't much easier. The main character, Faith Daniels, doesn't remember the ritualistic abuse she suffered at the hands of her foster parents as a preschooler, but by the time she hits her twenties and is teaching English in a small town high school, she starts suffering terrible flashbacks and nightmares—without understanding what is happening to her. When she discovers a horribly mutilated body, the police search far and wide but find NOTHING—which makes her really believe that she is losing her mind.

(Meanwhile, my husband told me that he was somewhat concerned on account of how it was so easy for me to write from the point of view of a crazy person. I told him I'd had lots of practice.)

Alternating chapters of the book were written from the point of view of a male detective who investigates the situation and who can't decide what's going on for sure, especially when REAL bodies begin showing up. That was a lot harder to write. I had to think like a man AND a cop.

Even worse, right? (Just kidding, guys.)

I had lots of help with that from my good friends, Lieutenant Steve Warren and Sergeant Robert Harbin of the SPD, who read the manuscript-in-progress and had no hesitation about calling me up and saying, "On page so-and-so? You got your two ligature marks, right? But if you want this to be a homicide made to look like a suicide, you'll have to consider this..."

So it has been, basically, a madhouse around here for a while. My children are aware that their mother is not normal but they're used to it. Plus, for the last few weeks, I've been blaming everything on the excuse that, "I'm not finished with the book yet! When I'm finished, I'll DO it already!" (Accompanied by lots of arm waving and yelling.)

Now I'll have to think up another excuse.

Of course, I've still got several weeks' worth of revisions facing me, and that's BEFORE my editor gets hold of it. She made me rewrite the climax scene of "Darkroom" four times. Lord knows what she'll make me do with this one.

And I've already started researching the next book. What's the expression? There's no rest for the wicked?

Ah well. Couple days of scratching and belching and staring at sexy young actors oughta keep me on the straight and narrow.

Pain clinics help chronic sufferers

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 64-year-old male, and my head has hurt for half my life. I've tried doctors, psychiatrists, psychologists, chiropractors, acupuncturists, biofeedback, neurologists and one dealing in neuropsychiatry, with no help from anyone. I've been on 52 different medications since 1955. If this happened to someone in your family, what advice would you give?

DEAR READER: I assume from your question that, despite your extensive exposure to the medical community, no one has diagnosed the cause of your headaches. This is curious.

I would have predicted that one of your many practitioners would have come up with the reason for your pain.

I gather that your case is as tough as they come. Therefore, if you have exhausted the doctors and their therapies, you may be left having to deal with 32 years of unexplained head pain. You could be helped by a pain clinic.

Many hospitals now offer special clinics to teach people how to live with (and control) chronic pain, using medicine, hypnosis, biofeedback and other methods. Arthritis, cancer and osteoporosis are common causes for chronic pain. Headache is one of the most troublesome forms of chronic pain, because it may start in relatively young people.

Ask your family doctor to refer you to a pain clinic at a teaching hospital.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Managing Chronic Pain." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it true that people with breathing or respiratory problems should not have blooming plants in their rooms, because the plants require oxygen? Do lighted candles have a bad effect on people with my condition?

DEAR READER: Living plants utilize carbon dioxide for photosynthesis and release oxygen as a "waste" product. Consequently, they are welcome additions to homes for biochemical, as well as aesthetic, reasons. The amount of oxygen given off by house plants is too small to raise the level of the gas in the air we breathe.

On the other hand, the amount of oxygen released into the atmosphere by free-growing plants, particularly those in the great forested areas of the globe — such as the Amazon rain forest — is very significant. This is the reason many ecologists are so concerned about man's destruction of vast wilderness tracts.

Blooming house plants are another matter. They often release air-borne pollen which, when inhaled, can worsen asthma and other chronic lung disorders. Therefore, physicians often prohibit blooming plants in houses populated by allergic persons. Specific advice about such house plants is best given by the patient's doctor.

Lighted candles, like any burning material, consume oxygen. However, the insignificant amounts required by burning candles do not affect people with respiratory problems.

The major concerns for patients with lung diseases are tobacco smoke, smog, wood smoke and other air pollutants, because the particulate matter in these fumes leads to further lung irritation, inflammation and spasm of bronchial passageways.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Along with failing eyesight and hearing, elderly people suffer yet another indignity: failing taste. This deficiency has not received the publicity and recognition it deserves.

Obviously, poor nutrition and anorexia (loss of appetite, distinguished from the emotional illness called anorexia nervosa) are caused by the same factors in the aged as in the young. Diseases and depression are common. So, too, are the side effects of many medicines. For example, drugs used for heart disease — such as digitalis — can drastically diminish appetite. Doctors often forget this (or overlook it) when attempting to improve the nutritional status of their patients.

Now, according to an article in the September 1989 issue of the medical magazine Patient Care, studies at Duke University Medical Center in North Carolina have provided a physiological explanation for age-related anorexia. When elderly people say food doesn't taste as good as it used to, they're not imagining the difference. To them, it doesn't.

Experts have discovered that an average 75-year-old has about half as many taste and smell receptors as does a 20-year-old.

Taste depends on free nerve endings (in the nose) and taste buds — called bipolar olfactory neurons — on the tongue. These receptors normally undergo a constant process of decay and regeneration. The Duke studies showed a markedly decreased turnover of receptors, causing a sensory deprivation that became worse with age.

In order to help elderly people overcome this handicap and savor food more fully, the investigators suggested the following tips to enhance enjoyment of food:

- Chew thoroughly. This releases the natural flavors of food.

- During a meal, switch from one food to another, rather than finishing one at a time. For instance, eating some meat, some green vegetables, then some potatoes helps keep the taste buds stimulated by different foods.

- Herbs — such as basil, dill and thyme — often give rather bland foods a distinctive taste. Use these herbs; they may improve appetite.

- Be careful of hot, peppery spices that can cause stomach irritation.

- Bottled flavorings, such as banana and vanilla often enhance bland foods.

- Because chocolate is a favorite flavor for many people, you may find that sprinkling a non-fat chocolate flavoring on certain foods, such as oatmeal, may make them more palatable.

- Try other flavor-enhancers, such as cheese, bacon, tomato or apple. Many artificial flavors are available in supermarkets. These substances enhance the flavor of food to make it taste the way it used to.

- Blunting of the sense of taste may be an inescapable consequence of aging, but it needn't result in an unappetizing diet. By picking sharply flavored foods or by using imitation flavors, the older consumer can maintain good nutrition, while continuing to enjoy food that is attractive and aromatic.

Controversial exhibit opens

NEW YORK (AP) — Organizers hailed a last-minute decision by the National Endowment for the Arts to fund an art exhibit on the AIDS epidemic as a split decision in favor of free expression.

NEA chairman John E. Frohnmayer, who earlier this month had rescinded a $10,000 grant awarded in May, said Thursday that he would release the grant.

The exhibit at the Artists Space gallery features paintings, photographs and sculpture by 23 artists, and contains several explicit depictions of male genitals and controversial religious images.

Frohnmayer had disputed the program's catalog, which includes derogatory references to Cardinal John J. O'Connor, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, and to lawmakers who supported a bill restricting funding of art considered obscene.

But after seeing the exhibit, he relented.

"After consulting with members of the National Council on the Arts, several of whom have also seen the show, I have agreed to approve the request of Artists Space ... and will release the grant for the exhibition only," he said.

Show organizers accepted the money but stood by the catalogue.

"We are pleased to accept the grant, that the show is receiving the press attention it deserves, and the issues of free speech, free expression, public funding for the arts, censorship and self-censorship are becoming clear to the American public," said Susan Wyatt, executive director of the gallery.

She said Frohnmayer's decision was made possible by a technicality — the grant was awarded in 1989, before passage of the bill banning grants to art deemed "obscene."

"We were unwilling to compromise, and I don't believe we as a people should either," she said.

The show, which had a total budget of $30,000, opened to the public Thursday night.

"We won a battle, but the war is still on — the war against homophobia, AIDS phobia and any undermining of our freedom of speech," said Nan Goldin, organizer of the exhibit, "Witnesses: Against Our Vanishing."

103 families honored

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Department of Agriculture is saluting 103 Texas families who have maintained their farms and ranches for a century or more.

"These 103 families, representing the full ethnic diversity of Texas, are symbols of the year-in and year-out stamina, the pioneering spirit, and the entrepreneurial drive that has made Texas the enduring and innovative state it is today," Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Thursday.

"At a time when the average person moves at least five times and makes three or more career changes during a lifetime, we celebrate 103 Texas families who have maintained their farms and ranches in continuous agricultural production for 100 years or more," he said.

Hightower's comments came during the TDA's 16th annual Family Land Heritage Ceremony.

"You and your ancestors have nourished the land to produce crops and livestock for a hundred years, and in some instances for longer than Texas has been a state," added Rep. Dudley Harrison, D-Sanderson, chairman of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee.

"Your devotion to the land proves you are protectors of the land — keeping it productive for future family members to inherit," Harrison said.

Fifty-eight farms and 45 ranches from 60 counties were honored this year.

The oldest property honored this year was the Cameron Ranch in Zapata County, founded in 1833 by Pedro Jose and Maria Bustamante.

The second-oldest property recognized was the Reichardt Farm in Colorado County, founded in 1849 by Carl Reichardt.

Since it was begun in 1974, more than 2,400 properties across the state have been enrolled in the land heritage program.

Edwards and Bullock duel over utility rates

AUSTIN (AP) — The Democratic candidates for lieutenant governor are dueling over utility rate regulation, with each accusing the other of being too cozy with utility companies.

Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, opened fire by accusing Comptroller Bob Bullock of being "in the utilities' pocket."

Bullock responded that Edwards has taken campaign contributions from utilities in past years and now as a candidate for lieutenant governor is "proving that you can bite the hand that feeds you."

Focusing on what he said will be a key campaign issue, Edwards on Thursday proposed electing members of the Public Utility Commission as a protection for ratepayers.

"The people of Texas have shown better judgment in electing regulatory board members than governors have in appointing them," he said.

Edwards accused his primary election opponent, Bullock, of being an ally of utility companies.

He displayed a 1988 letter to Bullock written on Houston Lighting & Power stationery by HL&P Vice President Ray "Popeye" Snokhous promising "total commitment and support" in the race and saying "the folks at HL&P will work both sides of the streets" for Bullock.

"I think with the high utility rates we have today, what we need is a lieutenant governor who's not walking both sides of the street with utilities but someone who is standing up for utility ratepayers," Edwards said.

A spokesman for Bullock, Tony Proffitt, said Snokhous and Bullock have been friends since grade school. "I don't believe it (the letter) refers to any corporate contributions at all," Proffitt said. "It refers to Popeye's personal commitment to help Bullock in his election."

Bullock later issued a statement saying Edwards has misused his position in the Legislature "to grab headlines and further his personal political career by bashing utility companies at the expense of ratepayers ... Chet voted three times against electing Public Utility Commission members in the past, but now he's flip-flopped on that."

Edwards likened the need for utility reform to efforts to overhaul workers' compensation insurance, a problem some officials say is keeping new businesses from moving to Texas.

"If we are going to talk about economic development in Texas, we must talk about utility rate reform. High utility rates can hurt economic development just as much as high workers' compensation rates," the lawmaker said.

In other political developments:

Former Gov. Mark White told the Houston Chronicle that his long-discussed political comeback bid will begin on Nov. 29, when he makes a two-day tour to announce his third run for governor.

White, who won the Governor's Mansion in 1982 and lost it in 1986, will run a campaign oriented toward television advertising, with personal campaigning devoted to winning back rural voters who deserted him in 1986, the newspaper said.

White joins a Democratic primary field that includes State Treasurer Ann Richards and Attorney General Jim Mattox.

State Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, a candidate for attorney general, said more than 300 city councils, county commissioner courts and school boards back his proposal to require the state to pay costs of programs it imposes on counties.

Morales wants Gov. Bill Clements to place the issue on the agenda of the current special legislative session, but Clements has limited it to workers' compensation.

2 of 3 re-evaluating news re-creations, ABC says no to idea

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "Saturday Night With Connie Chung" is set this weekend to air another reconstruction of a news story, using actors to help tell it. But at both CBS and NBC, the technique could prove the wave of the past.

CBS News officials, whose lowered Chung series has been hit by criticism and even cartoon ridicule for re-creating news stories with actors, may cut back such re-creations or even drop them, network sources say.

"They're back-peddaling," says a CBS executive who spoke on condition of anonymity. "Whether they cease to do re-enactments or do fewer of them and are more selective is a subject of discussion."

NBC News, which has used news re-creations in the first three of its "Yesterday, Today & Tomorrow" specials, is also considering whether to end their use in the next three YTT specials it has ordered.

At NBC News, Tom Ross, senior vice president for news planning, says the network is satisfied that YTT's re-creations were accurate and handled well. "But ... we're re-evaluating the future of them here," he says, declining to elaborate.

Andrew Lack, executive producer of Chung's series, did not return phone calls. CBS spokesman Tom Goodman declined to comment when asked if the show's re-enactments are being scaled back or eventually will be dropped.

Several have been completed, though, and likely will be broadcast.

New study looks at farm loss problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report by the Agriculture Department says the financial crunch of the early 1980s in which many farmers were forced from the land produced fewer lasting problems than were predicted at the time.

But the consequences of "involuntary exits" from farming because of financial failure have been varied and are difficult to fit into a single pattern, according to the department's Economic Research Service report.

The consequences of farm loss have been somewhat less negative than early press reports, although interviews reveal the anguish of farm loss," the report said. "Many former operators retained all or some of their farmland property."

It added: "Nearly all found other jobs, most remained in their home counties, and a sharp rise in disposable family income was common. However, many retained high debt loads and tax liabilities from their farm operations."

The USDA analysis was based on independent case studies of "farm exit" in all or parts of Wisconsin, Texas, North Dakota and Georgia.

Research in those areas was conducted or supported by land-grant universities, along with other state and federal agencies, sometimes with the financial support of private foundations.

In most cases, the studies covered 1981 to 1987, although some were for shorter periods within that time frame.

The USDA analysis of the research studies noted that "the farm crisis of the 1980s was forecast to hit medium-sized family farms the hardest, but the data ... show considerable variation from one study to the next, cautioning against simple conclusions about the fate of family farms."

Further, the report said there are "serious concerns about the financial state of many farmers" who have been able to keep operating, suggesting that the process of going broke is often complex and slow.

"Farmers cut off from further credit did not necessarily cease production immediately, but continued operating with funds from off-farm income, short-term credit from suppliers and personal loans," the report said. "Some farmers have stayed in operation despite non-payment of debt for five years or more and may face foreclosure in the future."

The study showed that between 2 percent and 3.4 percent of the surveyed farmers "involuntarily left farming annually" during the early 1980s.

German Texans follow the fate of their relatives

WALBURG, Texas (AP) — In this Central Texas hamlet, where the German accents are as thick as the foam on the beer, residents are closely following the dramatic events in their native land.

"I've probably got a $500 phone bill because of all the calls to Germany," said Herbert Schwab, who emigrated from West Germany in 1985, becoming chef and co-owner of the Walburg Restaurant.

A few nights ago, Schwab, who has relatives on both sides of the now-tumbling Berlin Wall, said he spoke to a friend in Munich:

"He said there are 100,000 East Germans in Munich, and there is a big party going on 24 hours a day," Schwab, 30, recounted. "He said they are drinking beer and schnapps in the street, and the police are on duty around the clock."

Residents of Walburg and dozens of other Texas communities established by German immigrants have relied on television as well as telephones to keep up with the changes sweeping Eastern Europe.

"We are very interested," said Ethel Mickan of Walburg. "We've been watching TV all weekend to see what's going on."

Mickan is a direct descendant of Henry Doering, who founded Walburg in the 1870s, naming it after a village in his native Germany.

Schwab is part of the more recent stream of German immigrants to Texas.

He came in 1985 to visit American relatives, then returned the same year to investigate job offers he received during the three-month vacation. A butcher in New Braunfels told him about Walburg.

Schwab and Ron Tippelt, a Munich native, co-own the restaurant. It is housed in the century-old Walburg Mercantile building, which Doering himself established in 1882.

But Schwab is more concerned about the history unfolding in his homeland.

Schwab remembers East Germany as a grim, austere place whose inhabitants were starved not only for foodstuffs but contact with the outside world.

In April 1978, when Schwab was 19, an uncle in West Berlin arranged for him to visit the city for two weeks. To reach the divided city, Schwab had to drive through a fenced corridor across East Germany.

At a rest stop on the highway, East German police chased away people who tried to talk to Schwab.

"They asked me for chewing gum and chocolate, but the police came, and they didn't want us to talk to the East people," Schwab said. "They told me I could make my rest stop and smoke a cigarette, but I could not talk to the people."

"I found this a little bit disgusting."

His tour of East Berlin was disheartening.

"When you go over and see the city, it hasn't changed a lot," Schwab said. "It looks like Germany in the 1950s. When you go over, it looks like a time change — like going back 30 years."

Schwab's two great-aunts and a great-uncle had been unable to leave East Germany. Schwab said he did not know whether his relatives in the East have been reunited with those in the West.

Schwab believes the Soviets loosened their grip on East Germany because they can't underwrite the economic recovery of the country needs.

"From what I've heard, business people from Germany are already in East Germany to see about opening department stores," Schwab said.

Bush cable expresses his hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush has sent a cable to Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev expressing hopes for "a calm and peaceful period of change" in Eastern Europe as democratic reforms are adopted, the White House said Friday.

The message echoed the theme of a cable that Gorbachev sent to Bush last Friday.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater told reporters the president "indicated his support for the changes in Eastern Europe and the reforms under way in the Soviet Union."

"He said the United States wants a calm and peaceful period of change in Eastern Europe as Poland, Hungary and East Germany seek to implement their reforms," the spokesman said.

"The president said he believes these historic steps will make a positive contribution to a Europe that is whole and free," Fitzwater said.

Live donor transplant slated

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 21-month-old girl suffering from a life-threatening disease is expected to make medical history when she becomes the first American to receive a partial liver transplant from a living donor.

Teri Smith, 29, will donate part of her liver for transplantation to her daughter, Alyssa.

The tot is afflicted with biliary atresia, an often-fatal liver disorder that is the leading reason for pediatric liver transplants. The disease blocks liver bile ducts, backing up bile in the bloodstream and the liver.

Alyssa's father, John Smith, 27, and brother, Ricky, 4, will accompany the mother and daughter to the University of Chicago Medical Center for the historic procedure Nov. 27.

"We feel very confident," Ms. Smith said Thursday. "We're confident about the surgeon's ability. They've provided us with all the statistics."

Insurance will help pay for the procedure, and local groups are raising money for the family as well.

While living donors often give one of two kidneys — and recently, some pancreas segments — transplanting part of a living person's liver is a new step. Doctors at the University of Chicago Medical Center have been working for more than a year planning the procedure.

Alyssa will receive the right lobe of her mother's liver, a medical center spokesman said.

The six- to eight-hour dual operation has been performed only three times in the past — twice in Brazil and once in Australia. One of the Brazilian patients reportedly died earlier this year.

John Smith said he is confident about the operation's success, but a little afraid of the plane flight to Chicago.

"That scares me the most, but I have complete faith," he said.

Tiny post office delivers everything

REDS SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — It wasn't rain or sleet or snow or even gloom of night. It was the dollar that almost cost Red Springs, Texas 76378, its hometown post office.

The 100-square-foot post office here is in the 1,750-square-foot Red Springs Country Store, one of only a smattering of buildings — a few homes, a cotton gin and co-op and a Baptist church — at this spot on U.S. 82 eight miles west of Seymour in Baylor County in North Texas.

The only thing missing here is a potbellied stove. It's a place where men and women gather to sit and chew the fat at a lone table with chairs made from rusty tractor seats painted flat black.

And sometimes at lunchtime they munch sandwiches bought here. And chili and stew on cold days. And they buy groceries. And gas and tires and oil and batteries. And stamps. This truly is a general store.

The store has had several proprietors over the years. When the most recent owner, Peggy Allen, decided to get out of the business and started looking for buyers, they, like the residents of this town of 81, were few and far between.

Losing the store, which is the only one here, would have been bad enough. But losing the post office would have been terrible. With it, in a way, would have gone Red Springs.

Enter Kenny Hibbitts of Seymour.

"I'd always wanted the store," said Hibbitts, who took over the store and the post office in October. "About a year ago, I talked to her (Ms. Allen) about it and tried to talk her into selling it. But these deals — it's so hard to get commercial loans for small businesses, and I told her to go ahead and sell it if she could find anybody."

"Then she called me up about the first of September. They were either going to close the store down or have it sold by Oct. 2," he said.

But the 27-year-old Hibbitts still was unable to get a loan.

"I told them it'd probably be better for them and for the store if I could take it off their hands and just pay it out," Hibbitts said. "I didn't like the idea of the store closing down. It's been here so long I can't remember."

If the store had closed, and the post office with it, then as far as the postal service is concerned, the residents of Red Springs would be part of Seymour, or at least on a rural mail route from there. And no more Red Springs postmark.

The mail would have been brought from Seymour and put in a unit of boxes similar to those at large apartment complexes.

It would have saved the postal service Hibbitts' small salary and the rent it pays him each month for 100 square feet of space. And maybe some of the customers would actually have gotten their mail sooner. But it would have been an identity lost.

That's already happened to many towns in Texas, several of them in Baylor County.

Rest in peace: Westover post office, born Jan. 18, 1907, died Sept. 30, 1956; Mabelle, established Dec. 13, 1906, closed April 30, 1959; Bomarton, opened Nov. 9, 1905, closed Nov. 6, 1978.

Many of the towns still live, but since 1980, 1,542 small post offices have been closed, according to Mike Lilly, research associate for postal history at the U.S. Postal Service in Washington, D.C. Texas has lost 21 post offices since 1984, the last year for which figures are available, Lilly said. Many of them were like the one here.

A rural mail carrier brings the mail here from Seymour each morning, and some customers in Red Springs, who technically live on a rural route of Seymour, get their mail before the post office here gets its mailbag at about 8:15 a.m., Hibbitts said.

Officially, the little post office is open for only two hours a day, from 8:15 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. Monday through Saturday, but Hibbitts said, "If I'm around during the day and someone needs something I open it up."

Nine postal customers live on Route 1; five live on the "Star Route," now officially known as a Highway Contract Route. Only about 25 of the post office's 60 boxes are used.

But Hibbitts said townspeople would miss the little post office if it were to close.

"I've had people to come in here and tell me they're so thankful I opened it up," Hibbitts said. "I don't know if they'd have anywhere to buy their stamps. And a lot of people send packages out here."

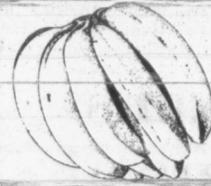

Louise Brown, the world's first "test tube baby," was born in 1978 in Lancashire, England.
