Prepare to go smokeless

by A1C Robin Reams
Editor, Roundup

In 1976, the first Great American Smokeout was observed in California. The following year it went nationwide.

This year, from midnight Wednesday, Nov. 18 to Midnight Thursday, Nov. 19, the Great American Smokeout will again challenge Americans to "Take a breather" and prove to themselves they can abstain from smoking for 24 hours.

The goal of the 1987 smokeout is to get at least one in every five smokers to give up their cigarettes for one day.

Smokeout 1986 set an all-time record for participation. The 23.8 million smokers who tried to quit during the day-long event represented more than 43 percent of the nation's 54.5 million smokers.

For smokers who are serious about making the attempt to quit for good on Nov. 19, the Fresh Start Stop Smoking Clinic will be held beginning Monday.

The clinic will meet again Nov. 12, 16 and 18. The meetings are held at 3:30 p.m. Wing Regulation 160-5, Health Promotion, permits the use of duty time by civilian employees to attend the stop smoking clinic.

These four one-hour sessions offer education, motivation and group support. There are no magic cures for smoking, but help is available. To sign up for the class, call 3536.

For the first time since the Great American Smokeout began, Reese will compete with the other three Undergraduate Pilot Training bases for best participation in the Great American Smoke Out (GASO). Air Training Command Headquarters, will be the judge.

Here are some tips provided by the American Cancer Society giving different ways smokers have used to retrain themselves to live without cigarettes. They may be helpful to those who hope to take the first step towards quitting smoking, and proving Reese is the best in ATC on Nov. 19:

- Before you quit smoking, try wrapping your cigarettes with a sheet of paper like a Christmas present. Every time you want a cigarette, unwrap the pack and write down what you are doing, how you feel and how important this cigarette is to you. Do this for two weeks and you'll have cut down as well as developed new insights into your smoking.

- On a 3 by 5 inch card, make a list of what you like and dislike about smoking. Add to it and read it daily.

- Never carry matches or a lighter with you.

- Always ask yourself, "Do I need this cigarette or is this just a reflex?"

- Each day try to put off lighting your first cigarette.

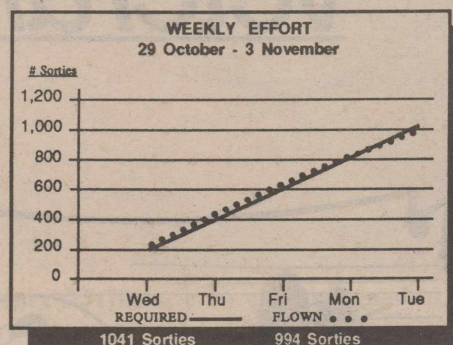

- Decide arbitrarily that you will smoke only on even or odd numbered hours of the clock.

McGruff greeted trick or treaters outside the haunted house in Reese village. Trick-or-treaters were not the only ones dressed up Saturday night, see page 12.

Mission Milestone

The wing is taking advantage of the unseasonable weather and continuing to fly numerous missions although we fall slightly short of the goal.

Did you know

Did you know the P-19 Crash Rescue Vehicle will accelerate to 50 MPH in 25 seconds?

Reese AFB's fresh water source is artesian wells located in Bailey County (between Muleshoe and Sudan, Texas) about 70 miles northwest of the base. The city of Lubbock operates the wells in Bailey County and pumps the water—some 10-40 million gallons per month—to Reese through a pump station at Shallowater directly to Reese AFB.

As of November 3, $140,000 has been donated to the 1987
Combined Federal Cam- paign
1987 goal: $134,000
Total raised: 104%

Auction held on base

Morale, Welfare and Recreation will hold an auction of Non-appropriated Fund Properties Nov. 13, 4-6 p.m., and Nov. 14, 1-3 p.m. in Bldg. 37. Civilian and military personnel may participate. Terms of the auction are check or cash at time of sale, sold as is, no refunds and no guarantees. Items up for auction include miscellaneous stereo items, chairs, couches, sprinklers, dryers, scales, pool vacuum and numerous other items. The items will be available for review on Nov. 9-10, 3-5 p.m.

Civilian payroll changes

by 1st. Lt. Russell A. Roberts
Chief, Accounting and Finance Branch

The Air Force has begun a major upgrade of the civilian payroll system.

The Air Force Standard Civilian Automated Pay System (AFSCAPS) is a redesign of the original Air Force civilian payroll system. With the aid of personal computers, optical mark readers, and a lot of hard work, AFSCAPS will catapult the civilian payroll system out of the stone age.

The main thrust of AFSCAPS is directed at the elimination of punch cards and keypunch machines. The most practical way of doing this is through the use of computers. This modernization will be accomplished in two phases.

Phase I will eliminate punch card input. Punch cards will be replaced by direct input through the personal computer.

The first step involves using an optical mark reader to process a new computer-generated time and attendance form. The data on this form will be scanned by the sensitive optical mark reader and then transmitted to the mainframe computer to produce the payroll.

Ultimately, AFSCAPS will reduce the amount of time spent on tedious tasks and allow us to save through manpower reductions. We are hoping to implement this at Reese in November 1987.

Phase II involves merging the personnel and pay systems by means of a direct system-to-system interface. This means the Personnel Data and the Civilian Pay Automated Data Systems will talk to each other, will compare data, and update the systems as necessary. This will greatly improve timely and accurate updates of the pay system on personnel actions. Phase II is expected to be completed by early 1988.

These improvements are part of a major effort to improve the payroll system and eventually centralize civilian payroll functions Air Force-wide.

Bits and Pieces . . .

Rocky Mountain High . . .

I thoroughly enjoyed my visit to the United States Air Force Academy this past Friday and Saturday. For those of you who have not yet had the pleasure of this memorable experience, I can assure you it is certainly worth a future visit. The base/campus is located on 18,500 prime acres at the base of the Rocky Mountain Rampart Range and is just magnificent. Of particular interest is a statue of a mother eagle and her fledglings, presented by Air Training Command to the USAF Academy. It has a powerful inscription on the front that reads, "Man's flight through life is sustained by the power of his knowledge." Being among the majestic mountains, coupled with the modern architecture and prolific writings, it is easy to envision where most of a cadet's inspiration is derived.

We went there with the purpose of presenting Reese Air Force Base and the Lubbock community to the Academy cadets, in concert with the other UPT bases. The intent of the visit was to pass information to the cadets to enable them to decide at which base they desire to attend UPT. I want to thank Capt. Terry Friend, Lt.'s J.C. Curran and Rudy Tessnow for presenting a most interesting and informative brief. As a direct result, I am certain that Reese will again be the most popular choice among the cadets.

Down The Street . . .

Class 88-05 is the latest group of "fledglings" to successfully graduate from the T-37, and earn the privilege to walk down the street to the white rocket.

The instructor pilots of the 35th FTS, C and F flights, should be congratulated on a job well done. The Phase II Graduation went well and my hat is off to those who made it possible. The student section leaders, Capt. Paul Fazebaker and 1st Lt. Eric Harnish have successfully managed to foster strong cohesion and positive attitudes within their respective sections. You, the class of 88-05 have had good progress thus far, but remember that much work remains to be done in order to achieve your goal of wearing the wings of a military aviator.

Calling All Officers . . .

We had our first officers call yesterday and I hope it was an informative meeting for all in attendance. It is my intent to have an officers call at least once each quarter, and to try and hold it on a Friday afternoon. My purpose for having the call is to air-out common concerns and to allow you the opportunity to hear directly "from the horse's mouth" some of the rationale for policies that affect the members of this wing. I especially want to stamp out WOM (word-of-mouth) rumors and misinformation. So, if you have a desire to ask a question of me, I am presenting you an opportunity and forum to do so. If you are concerned enough to express opinions and to ask questions in front of your supervisors and peers, I feel I must do my best to answer completely and frankly. I also am encouraging you to pass questions through your chain of supervisors.

I want to thank Pauline and her staff for putting out a great spread of food and lots of refreshments. I want this to be standard at all future calls. If you think of an idea that would make future calls better, please pass it along. I want your ideas, interest, but most of all your support. I appreciated the large turnout. Thank you. Let this be the beginning of a new Reese tradition of building cohesion among our officer corps at Reese. Remember, cohesion is the key to teamwork, and teamwork is the key to success.

Col. Mark H. Lillard, III

Veterans Day message

The freedom guaranteed by our constitution has been preserved for over 200 years because of sacrifice and commitment given freely by a special group of Americans in each generation. Veterans day is a time for America to honor those special people. Her sons and daughters in uniform who fought her wars and kept her peace. Since Concord Bridge, they have answered her call when needed and served the nation well.

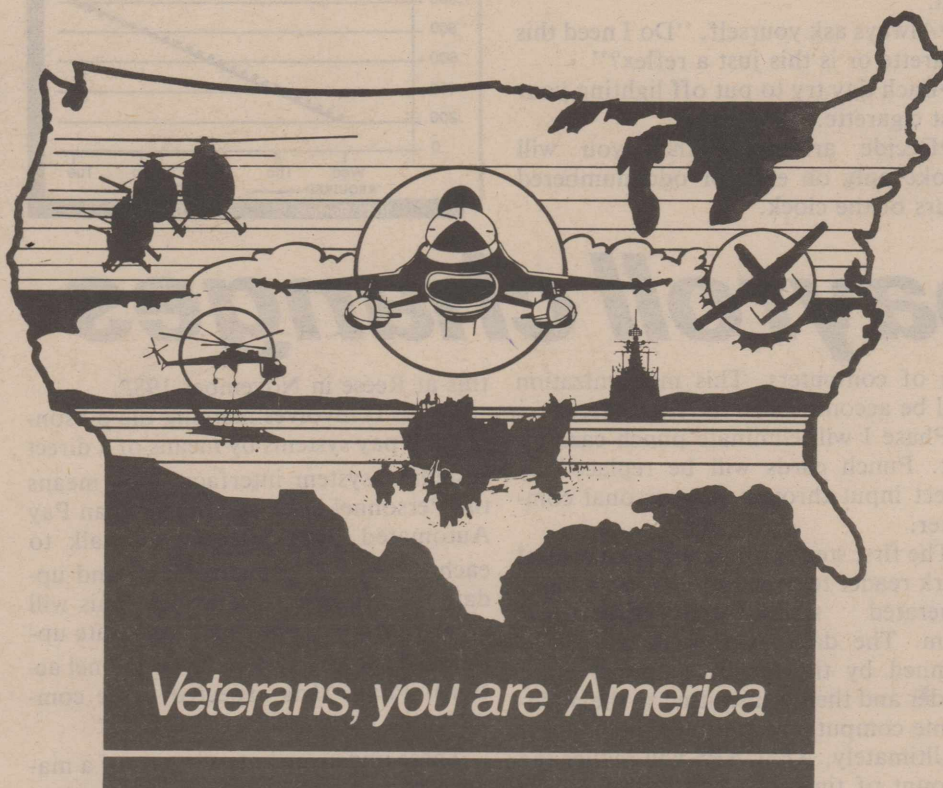

Today's young Americans are no exception, and we in Air Training Command have the privilege of shaping their energy and potential as they become a part of this marvelous tradition. As we fill the Air Force's ranks with quality, well-trained people, we ensure they are able to make their individual contributions to the security of this great nation as have so many earlier veterans.

All who serve in America's armed forces today can proudly follow in the footsteps of the patriots and heroes who have gone before. Our common link to them, and to those who will come after us, is one of duty, honor and country. Veterans day should be a day of pride—a day in which we salute the past and rededicate ourselves to a future of continued peace with freedom.

*Lt. Gen. John A. Shaud
Commander, Air Training Command*

Veterans Day

Nov. 11

The Readiness Question of the Week: Scenario: You are walking down a street on Reese and you are approached by a member of the Base Exercise Evaluation Team (BEET), or an inspector that is on the Headquarters, Air Training Command Mission Capability Inspection (MCI) Team. The inspector presents you with a card that reads "Situational Problem Input — You have just heard an explosion and seen flames coming from the Communications Squadron Building, take the appropriate action." What actions do you take?

Answer to the Readiness Question of the Week: The most important thing to remember is that a Situational Problem Input is always forwarded to the Contingency Support Staff (CSS). You should immediately send the input through your chain of command to the CSS. No other actions are required. Once the Situational Problem Input arrives at the CSS, the CSS will treat the input as a discussion exercise only. For more information call the Readiness Division at 3638 or the BEET office at 3033.

Exercising Reese capabilities

Emergency units at Reese Air Force Base wrung out their training techniques on the 27th of October as they responded to a simulated crash of a T-38 training jet.

In the training exercise scenario, the T-38 cleared the south fence, encountered a bird strike and crashed. The student ejected from the trainer, while the Instructor Pilot went down with the jet. The student sustained various injuries, and the instructor was declared a fatality at the scene.

The scenario was staged by the Reese Base Exercise Evaluation Team to test response capabilities of Reese units. In the drill, all units that would respond to a real crash ran through their predetermined procedures as though a T-38 had actually crashed.

The on-scene commander heading activities from the mobile command post, directs the actions required to save lives and property. He keeps in radio contact with the Wing Commander, who is in charge of overall activities, and the Contingency Support Staff.

Reese crews effectively responded to the exercise by putting out the fire, caring for the casualties and providing damage assessment reports.

The Texas Department of Public Safety assists the Reese team at the scene of the accident (off-base).

Commander's Column

Making things work

by Col. James L. Higham
64th Air Base Group Commander

I hope everyone had a great Halloween weekend. The Security Police Women's Group was very successful with their "Haunted House." Some 300 people enjoyed it including me!

After parting from the clutches of two scared girls ahead of me, I was o.k. until Dracula (a.k.a. Sgt. Conrad Butzer) jumped out of the coffin just as I was going past it. Then to end it all, a member of the Chainsaw Massacre Team put a chainsaw, minus the blade, to my chest. It was enough to turn my hair white!

The Enlisted Open Mess had a Halloween party and awarded "Best Costumes" to Sgt. Butzer, Sgt. Lisa Landtrip, Linda Clouse and Kim Real.

My thanks to SrA Felix Saenz and his crime prevention helpers for the candy check they provided Halloween night. As I went by the candy check trailers, there were two long lines of kids with candy to be checked. A safe Halloween was had by all.

Looking forward towards Thanksgiving and a possibility of cooler weather (don't you all love this 70-80 degree weather we're having?), I had our civil engineering folks turn off the cool air vents in most buildings... occupants in Reese Village can still control their individual units. This is a period of "no cool-no heat" in the buildings, a real opportunity to save energy. As soon as the cold weather comes to stay, TSgt. Duane Bronson and his crew will be working around the clock to get heat turned on in all base buildings.

We had an off-base Major Accident Response Exercise (MARE) last week—our Services Squadron took the initiative to expand the drill and exercise the mortuary affairs program by performing a complete search and recovery of the accident scene. According to Capt. Chuck Hatcher, 3500th Service Squadron Commander, this was the first time the team has ever exercised this as part of a MARE. My "hat's off" to Chuck Hatcher and his team.

Another "hats off" to Pat Sprow, BX Manager, for getting a water dispenser with purified and distilled water set up outside of the BX Shopette. Another customer-oriented service!

Autumn is a big time for intramural sports—congratulations to the Security Police Intramural Golf Team for coming in in first place: SMSgt. Clayton Spahr, SSgt. Robert Marquis, SSgt. Gordon Couffer, SSgt. Charles Harris, AIC Tim Carlson, and Capt. Danny Thomas. Capt. Ken Simpson from our Readiness Division is playing in the Reese-hosted Air Training Command Ping-Pong Tournament. Good luck Ken! And thanks to the Recreation Center staff for volunteering to host this ATC event.

There is a lot going on right now. People like those I mentioned in this article make things on this Base work. We all need to take time out of our day to say "thank-you" to those around us.

Continuing our safe foundation

by Lt. Col. Phillip S. Marzolino
Chief, Safety Division

Today, I would like to give you a little different perspective on the safety business at Reese. We've just finished compiling the wing statistics for FY 87 and there is some very encouraging news. In virtually every category we track, there was a material improvement over the previous year. This means that considerably fewer people on our base were hurt this past year.

Whenever there is a large drop such as this, the obvious question is, "What are we doing different?" A review of unit inspections and discussions with assigned personnel clearly shows the biggest difference is involvement. We are seeing quality involvement on the part of not only commanders and supervisors, but everyone in the wing to do things smarter. In short, everyone is looking out for one another better than we have done it in the past. The results are far fewer accidents, although the potential still remains.

This type of attitude provides a tremendous foundation on which to build and also provides a very serious challenge. The one essential truth of the military is that nothing remains static. The change over of personnel each year results in a virtually new unit each four years. Consequently, if the safety foundatation we have built is going to continue to bear fruit, it is essential we insure the new people coming in are convinced of our commitment to a safe operation—both on and off duty.

I'd like to congratulate each of you on the record you compiled during the past year, and urge each of you to make sure you're properly emphasizing the things that are important to our new people. Let's make sure they help us continue making a tour at Reese a safe one.

News Briefs

Lease conflicts

Housing Referral has recently received several complaints of landlords failing to return security deposits or charging for rent after the tenant has moved. After investigation, it was discovered that most often, the lease was not fulfilled to its entirety or a written thirty day notice was absent prior to vacating the property. The law states that you are obligated as a tenant to complete your signed lease agreement or pay the penalty. To avoid these problems, read your lease. If you do not agree with the conditions of the lease and the landlord is unwilling to change them in writing do not sign the agreement.

Questions concerning your lease could be directed to Housing Referral at 3601, or stop by the Base Housing Office, bldg. 6100, between 7:30 a.m. and 4:15 p.m.

Vet office to close

The veterinary services staff are on vacation for the first two weeks of November. The next clinic day is Nov. 16.

Attention joggers

The base running track is presently under construction, during the construction period and until further notice, all personnel are required to stay off the track and surrounding area, with the exception of applicable contract personnel.

Effective Jan. 1, 1988, there will be a charge to park vehicles in the Morale Welfare and Recreation, Recreational Vehicle parking lot. The fee is $7.50 for on-base residents and $12.50 for off-base residents. A discount will be offered if paid six months or 12 months in advance. Payment of parking fees are due prior to Jan. 1, 1988. For more information, contact MWR Logistics Support Branch, 3815.

This is to inform you of unsuitable locations in the Lubbock commuting area or any rental agency with which there have been continuing problems. Also it is to advise you of restrictive sanction against establishments, if any exist.

Housing Referral Services has a listing of all suitable apartments in the city of Lubbock and several two, three and four bedroom duplex and single family houses for rent. # How hot must it be?

Ninety percent of the cost of running a washing machine is for hot water. You can save 95 percent of this cost by using a cold wash/cold rinse cycle and 65 percent by using warm wash/cold rinse cycle. Your washing machine uses 39 gallons of hot water on a hot wash/warm rise set, as opposed to only 13 gallons for warm wash/cold rinse.

To get your best results for cleaner clothes and low energy use, set your wash cycle on warm wash/cold rinse. Since cleaning ability increases only slightly as water temperature goes above 80 degrees Fahrenheit, your warm water temperature should be set on 80 degrees Fahrenheit. For cold water wash, the water temperature should not fall below 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Below 60 degrees Fahrenheit detergents become ineffective and do not clean clothes properly.

For best cleaning results in cold water use a liquid detergent or predissolve powdered detergent in warm water before adding to your wash. The temperature of the water entering the tub of the clothes washer should be checked seasonally in cold water supply. An inexpensive candy thermometer will help in adjusting the mixture of hot and cold water for best savings and cleaning. The water temperature does not effect the removal of bacteria. A study conducted by the University of Michigan School of Public Health declared 90 percent of the bacteria in clothes are removed by using chlorine bleach and nine percent are removed by the clothes dryer.

Physical security awareness

by TSgt. Joe Osburne
1958th Communications Squadron, Security Manager

Awareness, physical security and accountability are the three major areas that can combat threats to Air Force assets and information. Limiting computer terminal access to trustworthy individuals who do not have financial, personal, or security problems and who have a need to know may prevent violations of computer security.

Computer security is NOT just aimed at those systems processing classified data. It also includes software security and personnel access. Secure terminals. Don't leave them on and unattended for long periods of time. Do not place computer access instructions over the terminal. Divulging password and access codes to personnel without a need to know is a major security violation that may open the door to spies, sometimes literally.

W.O.C. notes

The Roundup

Looking back on the past

by Capt. Joe Kormanik
and 2nd Lt. Mike Johnston

It is November, 1986. Wang Chung is topping the charts with their hit "Everybody Have Fun Tonight". The news of an arms deal with Iran is just beginning to leak out. The Mets have won the World Series, and in Lubbock, Texas the cotton is just about ready for harvest. For the world, 1986 is slowly coming to a close. For Class 88-01 at Reese Air Force Base, the year is just beginning.

Take a bunch of guys from varied backgrounds with one common goal—that is to become United States military pilots—and you've got a typical Undergraduate Pilot Training class. 88-01 is no exception. Some are single, some married, some went to "The Academy", most went to other colleges, but no one in the group had a clue of what to expect from the program, or what was to be expected of them.

After the initial formalities and paperwork, the fire hose was turned on full force. Initial academics formed the basis of our aviation careers and we learned some very important things. Like the fact that porpoising is not really a bunch of sea creatures on the runway.

Dodging cactus and cow pies while parasailing was good fun, the object being to keep your skull intact. But if you land too softly you may have to do it again; no one gets off that easily. Phase I was a lot of fun, but the Christmas break came none too soon.

It's a new year, January, 1987. Penn State is the national champion of college football. California's ski resorts are hurting for snow. Dave and Maddie's relationship is beginning to heat up. In Lubbock, Class 88-01 heads for the flight line. "Have a seat, Capt. Peterson. Lt. Rittman, what would you do?" "Sir, I'd do the same thing as Capt. Peterson." "Okay, have a seat Lt. Rittman." It was an auspicious start. "Sir, I will chair-fly that till the day I die, just please don't hook me!" What do you expect? We were only budding aviators; naive in thought, fearless in action.

One of the big events in "Tweets" is the initial solo ride. Who could forget the thrill, and the constant fear of being told to "make the next one a full stop". Following the contact category, there's still instruments, and then navigation. Somehow we made it, and as we were finishing in the 35th, Reese was nearly hit by a tornado.

As we walked up the street to the 54th, "Dragnet" is about to open at the box office, and Whitney Houston is making us all sick with her hit "I Want to Dance with Somebody (Who Loves Me)". In Lubbock, Studabaker's has closed down. But finally summer comes to the South Plains, and the weather turns from bad to worse. Thus we experience the joy of Saturday flying.

The lightning reflexes which we developed in T-37s turned to mush in the fast-moving T-38 as we experienced supersonic flight on the "boom ride". But we were aviators, and quick to adapt. We soloed the "white rocket" after only eleven sorties, and after only eight more we took our contact checks. After contact, we eventually mastered formation and navigation on the way to our coveted silver wings.

Yes . . . it's been quite a year. Lieutenants Brown and Pingrey are still on time hack SMS, and Lt. Stewart is on permanent gradebook, 1500, and general paper work SMS. On the whole we're all glad we did it, although few of us would want to do it again. Of the 56 officers who originally started with Class 88-01, 33 remain. We made some new friends along the way, and lost some others. But we always kept in mind that "what doesn't kill you makes you stronger". We'll always look back on the year, and the people we've met. We wish them, and each other, the best of luck.

Dr. James C. Miller asked to speak

The guest speaker for today's graduation is James C. Miller III, Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Prior to taking over his current position on Oct. 8, 1985, Mr. Miller was the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission for four years.

Miller was born in Atlanta on June 25, 1942 and was raised in Conyers, Georgia. He received a B.B.A. in Economics from the University of Georgia in 1964 and a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Virginia in 1969.

After teaching economics for a year at Georgia State University, he served from 1969 to 1972 as Senior Staff Economist at the U.S. Department of Transportation. From September, 1972 until June, 1974, he was Associate Professor of Economics at Texas A&M University, during which period he also served as a consultant to the Department of Transportation and the National Bureau of Standards.

From July 1974 until October, 1975 Miller was Senior Staff Economist for the President's Council of Economic Advisers, where he specialized in transportation, regulation and antitrust policy. During 1975 he was named an Adjunct Scholar at the American Enterprise Institute.

In October, 1975 Miller was appointed Assistant Director of the U.S. Council on Wage and Price Stability, where he monitored the impact of the public sector on inflation and served on President Ford's Regulatory Review Group.

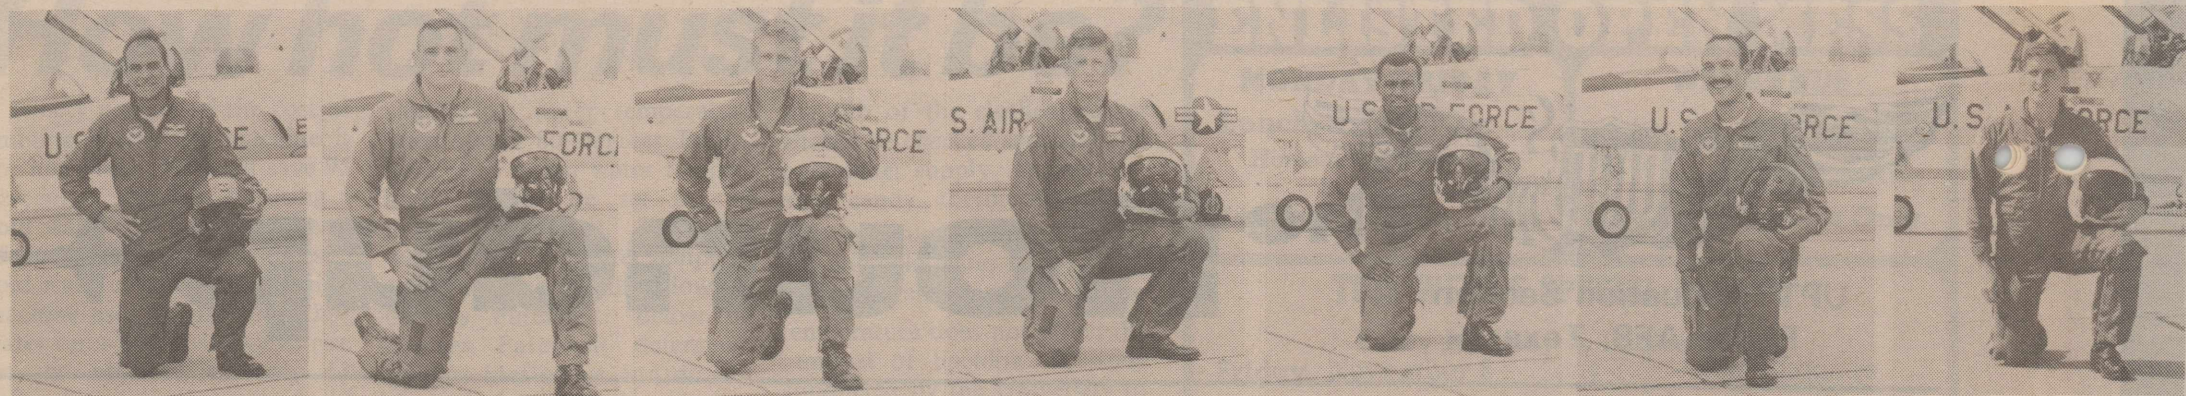

From early 1977 until early 1981 Miller was a Resident Scholar at the American Enterprise Institute and Co-director of AEI's Center for the Study of Government Regulation. From that post he was named by OMB Director David Stockman as the first Administrator for Information and Regulatory Affairs, where he also served as Executive Director of the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief, chaired by Vice President George Bush.

Miller became Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission in October, 1981.

He is married and resides with his wife and three children in Washington, D.C.

Veterans Day: "Veterans, you are America"

by Donna Miles
American Forces Information Service

In the summer of 1787, George Washington and 22 other veterans of the Revolutionary War signed the Constitution that has governed the United States for 200 years.

They brought to the Constitutional Congress in Philadelphia a special insight about what America could be—an insight that had sustained them through a bloody war for independence.

Washington and his men knew the need for a strong central government that would protect the newly formed United States against its enemies. But equally important, they recognized, was a form of government that safeguarded the liberties for which they and their co-patriots had sacrificed so dearly.

Their insight is embodied in the U.S. Constitution, a document that philosophers and political scientists alike still marvel over, the longest-surviving constitution in world history.

Throughout America's history, veterans have done far more than lay the foundation for a government of the people, by the people and for the people. They have stood ready to give freely and unselfishly of themselves, even their lives, in defense of the democratic principles represented in the Constitution.

From Valley Forge to Vietnam, through war and peace, America's veterans answered their country's call. They left their homes and loved ones to serve their country, defending the freedoms that have made America great.

In recognition of the vital role veterans have played throughout the history of the United States, the theme for this year's Nov. 11 Veterans Day observance is "Veterans, You Are America."

Veterans Day gives Americans a special opportunity to pay tribute to those men and women who, throughout America's history, have served with honor, pride and a belief in country. It is a time to pay special tribute to nearly 28 million living veterans who have served their country in uniform and to more than 1 million who died during wartime service.

"On this special day, our hearts and thoughts turn to those whose sacrifices preserved our freedom and our way of life," said President Ronald Reagan. "With a spirit of pride and gratitude, let us recall our heroic accomplishments and thank them for their unselfish devotion to duty. They are indeed worthy of the solemn tribute of a grateful nation."

Reese invaded by goblins

Halloween night, witches, ghosts, and many other strange faces were seen about the base and Reese Village.

McGruff, assigned to the 64th Security Police Squadron was on hand to ensure that no tricks were played at the Haunted House in Reese Village.

The Enlisted Open Mess awarded prizes to Count Dracula, Spuds MacKenzie and the Wretched Witches of Reese to prevent any tricks from being played upon them.

The spirit of Halloween has left Reese, for now, but not before it motivated members of Reese Village to do a little fancy decorating around the houses.
