Five ATC officers get new assignment

Air Force officials in Washington announced last week that the commander of the U.S. Air Force Recruiting Service and four Air Training Command colonels have received new assignments.

Brig. Gen. William J. Porter, who is also deputy chief of staff for recruiting, ATC, is moving on to MacDill AFB, Fla., where he will serve as director of resources, U.S. Special Operations Command.

General Porter's replacement has not been named.

It was also announced that Col. John C. "Clark" Griffith will become Air Training Command's Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel. He replaces Col. Gary E. Clark who moves to Comiso AS, Italy to serve as base commander.

Colonel Griffith is currently the commander of the 47th Flying Training Wing at Laughlin AFB, Texas, responsible for the management and leadership of the undergraduate pilot training program. He served as Reese's Air Base Group commander from March 1985 to July 1986 before taking command of the 47th FTW at Laughlin AFB, Texas.

Col. Joseph S. Bleymaier Jr. replaces Colonel Griffith at Laughlin. He currently serves as commander, U.S. Air Force Officer Training School at Lackland. He assumed those duties in August 1986.

Col. John R. Morrison Jr. replaces Colonel Bleymaier as commander of OTS.

Senior Airman Charles Jennings tapes down over-spray covering on the 01 T-38 before re-painting the nose and the new wing commander's name. The Philadelphia, Pa. native is assigned to the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron Corrosion Control Branch.

35 graduate, 6 win awards

Thirty-five United States Air Force and three Air National Guard officers completed a year of pilot training last Friday. Award winners for class 87-06 were:

Second Lieutenant Darren T. Champlin received the Air Training Command Commander's Trophy as the classes top overall graduate. He also received the Distinguished Graduate Award and the Flying Training Award. Lieutenant Champlin will begin his career flying the F-15 at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska.

Captain Charles W. Phillips received the Leadership Award as well as Flying Training and Distinguished Graduate Awards.

Captain Rene Rodriguez, Jr. also received the Leadership Award.

Second Lieutenant Joseph T. Smith received the Academic Training Award.

Other Distinguished Graduate Award winners are 2nd Lt. Christopher G. Knehans and 2nd Lt. Craig D. Cady.

Members of the Air National Guard were 2nd Lts. Bruce C. Briney, Charles R. Kinslow, Jr. and Vikki L. Sprain.

Change of commands

The leadership of the 64th Student Squadron changes hands Wednesday, 9 a.m., during a change of command ceremony at Simler Theater.

Lieutenant Col. William S. Ford will take the reins from Lt. Col. Steve Maddox, who will take over as Assistant Deputy Commander for Operations.

A reception will follow at the Officer's Open Mess.

That same day marks Lt. Col. Ken Hess's first day as Deputy Commander for Operations as Col. William Drennan leaves for the National War College, Ft. Lesley J. McNair, Washington, D.C.

Col. Mark H. Lillard took command of the 64th Flying Training Wing yesterday, as Col. James McIntyre left for the Pentagon. Story and photos next week.

Bits and Pieces . . .

Commander
says thanks

Greetings to the 64th Flying Training Wing. Needless to say that by the time you read this, all the hubbub of Thursday's change of command ceremony will be behind us. I'd like to begin this short note with a heart felt "thank you" to every single one in the Wing — from those of you who marched, to all of you behind the scenes who spent so much time and energy making the event happen.

Col. Mark Lillard, III

And a special thanks to Lt. Col. Tom Hardie and his hard working staff comprised of Major Greg Jolda, Captains Andy Frechtling and Eric Treland, and SMSgt. J.T. Washington who really went that extra yard ensuring every detail was taken care of.

Upon completion of the change of command, I will obviously find myself in a very different position—one that I feel extremely honored and proud to hold.

I consider myself very fortunate to remain a member of such a successful team. But I must admit that my job should be a bit easier commanding a wing which continues to ride the crest of the wave, so to speak.

Much of the credit goes to a long line of talented Wing Commanders, like Col. Jim McIntyre, who have inspired our people with the pride and ideals which help focus attention on the mission. Colonel McIntyre did quite a lot for Reese in terms of improving every facet of mission accomplishment, for which we are all thankful. But the key piece in the equation of mission accomplishment is you—all of you.

In my book there is no greater challenge than that of training our young men and women for the awesome responsibilities they will face as officers and aviators in our Air Force. And everyone at Reese adds a bit of himself or herself to each and every young officer who pins on those wings—you can count on it.

From the line IP who gets up at 4:30 a.m. to start a 12-hour trip - turn day, to the dedicated maintainers who work tirelessly fixing and launching the jets—at all hours and in all weather conditions, to all of you in Resources, Air Base Group, and the Hospital who provide the critical support necessary in keeping Reese, and our people, operating like a finely tuned watch—you are all absolutely essential. Never forget that.

Greetings from the White House

Are any of your relatives or friends nearing a 50th wedding anniversary or/ and an 80th (or more) birthday?

If so, you can surprise them with a card from the president, even though you may be stationed far from them at the time.

To request a White House greetings from someone, send the recipients name, address and date of the occasion, two weeks in advance of the date to:

Resources — not just money!

by Colonel Donald J. McCullough
Deputy Commander for Resources

Every day we read and hear about budget constraints and decreasing resources.

It always seems that when we speak of resources we center our comments on the "money" leg of the tripod of mission support.

It is definitely a critical leg; however, it is my belief that through our most important resource, our people, we have overcome the obstacle of "not enough money" time and time again.

Each and every person in this Wing, military and civilian, has responded without fail when called upon to put forth an extra effort to accomplish a worthwhile task, even though funding may have been severely limited or nonexistent.

This Wing has benefited immeasurably from the untold number of "donated" man hours to professionally renovate many work and recreation areas, such as our picnic grounds, contributing to increased potential for awards when evaluation teams visit, and certainly contributing to the excellent ratings we have enjoyed from numerous evaluation and inspection teams.

More importantly, these efforts have improved the morale and the work environment of those people who made the contribution. The outdoor areas of our base have never looked better, due to a great extent to the many, many hours of freely given time and effort by our people during their off-duty time; time which I am sure could have been spent in activities that would have given them a break away from their everyday workplace.

The examples could go on and on of individual and collective contributions toward making Reese AFB the show place of Air Training Command, and the "winner" of numerous awards in recognition of our truly outstanding performance. From the lowest grade and rank up through the highest in our work force, this dedicated, loyal, hard-working resource that takes extreme pride in a job well done is what makes Reese Air Force Base a special place to work and live.

As the Resource Manager for Reese AFB, I salute the men and women who make up this priceless resource!

Diamonds make a difference

by CMSgt. Coy K. Martin
64FTW Senior Enlisted Advisor

Master Sergeant Everybody, how would you like to serve in an Air Force specialty where your day-to-day performance can have a tremendous positive influence on your organization.

Every senior NCO is a key leader in their squadron, and every one of their jobs are important to mission accomplishment.

However, this particular senior NCO is tasked a little different than most of us. They are expected to work all hours of the day and night, weekends and holidays included, and without any extra pay, whatsoever. We ask them to lead the way in every unit, base, wing and community program. They wear this job identification on their sleeve—it's a diamond—and we call them first sergeants.

The Reese first sergeants are a super group of NCOs, and there is not a more dedicated and caring group of men anywhere in the Air Force. They do a great job every day—day in and day out.

The Air Force needs good people to take on this demanding, yet the most rewarding job a senior NCO can undertake. We have some super master sergeants at Reese that would be outstanding first sergeants.

So, MSgt. Everybody, if you are interested in a challenging job that really makes a difference, give me a call. We said good-bye to one of the Air Force's finest first sergeants last week—MSgt. Mike Custy. If you don't think a first sergeant can make a difference, just ask the folks in OMS. So long, Mike.

What is most difficult mission?

by Capt. Kevin L. Reinart
Kelly AFB, Texas

Since joining the Air Force, can you recall your most difficult mission?

Perhaps you flew in combat or worked around the clock to fix a broken aircraft engine during an operational readiness inspection. Maybe you stood guard over a parked aircraft as freezing temperatures and fierce winds ripped through your body.

Everyone gets put to the test at some time.

I vividly remember my toughest assignment. It was a mission unlike any I'd ever known—casualty notification duty.

When the telephone woke me on a frigid and gray Saturday morning in February, I immediately suspected trouble. A sober voice on the other end identified himself as a representative from the casualty assistance office. My mission was clear: "Report to the base immediately in dress uniform, pick up a message; drive to an Air Force member's home and inform the parents their son is dead."

The airman was killed the previous evening when his motorcycle was struck broadside by a car. Witnesses said the young man, riding without a helmet, was weaving his bike between traffic and got hit when he entered an intersection after failing to stop at a red light.

An incomplete emergency data card complicated my already tough task—no house number. I had only a street name and a note saying that the house was located near a school.

I located the family home around 8 a.m., but only after asking neighbors if they recognized the name. The father was in the driveway working on his car. He had no idea why I was there as I approached him with message in hand.

Identifying myself, I requested to speak to he and his wife on an urgent matter. I was immediately invited inside. The mother welcomed me too, seemingly unaware of my mission.

The mood changed instantly as my heart began beating at an incredible speed. My legs started to shake, my voice nearly cracked and I spoke the words, "I regret to inform you of the death of your son..."

Years later, I can still hear the screams and the parents' cursing of their son's motorcycle. The father told me he didn't want the boy to have it because they were just too dangerous.

The five or 10 minutes I spent with the family seemed a lifetime. It was a mission I'll never forget. Perhaps that is why I always buckle my safety belt and, when I see a motorcycle rider without a helmet or taking unnecessary risk, I wonder why.

Not all accidents are preventable, but injuries are often avoidable. Maybe if everyone drives a little more carefully and uses their automobile safety belt or their motorcycle helmet, no one will have to tell your family, "I regret..." (Courtesy MAC News Service)

'Bugle Boys' dance way to USAF Academy

by A1C Robin Reams
Staff Writer, Roundup

Three first term airmen got a close up look at some of the opportunities the military has to offer outside of their normal duty section.

Airman Dennis Howell and A1Cs Jimmie Smith and Tyrome Grey formed the group Bugle Boys and danced their way to the Air Training Command Talent Show World Preliminaries, competing for a slot in 'Tops in Blue.'

"I didn't really even know what 'Tops in Blue' was," said Airman Howell of the 64th Supply Squadron.

The trio began dancing together at a nightclub in Lubbock. "We weren't really serious about dancing, we were just out to have fun," Howell said.

The group chose the name Bugle Boys after a shopping trip for stage costumes yielded shirts the dancers liked with Bugle Boys written on the front.

The group entered and won first place in a talent show at the Lubbock Civic Center. After that, they began to take their dancing a little more seriously.

"We started practicing and researching dance routines that might look good on stage," said Howell.

The Bugle Boys entered and won first place in the dance category at the Reese talent show in April, with the help of SrA Jimmie Watson, also of the 64th Supply Squadron, who put together the music mix for the dancers.

"We didn't think we would advance," Howell said, "but after winning the Air Training Command preliminaries, our attitude changed. We looked back at Reese and the preliminaries and decided we wanted to go all the way," Howell added.

A1C Tyrome Grey had received orders to PCS to Germany, so the group was determined to give it their best shot.

"The competition was tough," said Howell. "We were competing against people older than us that had been trying for at least five years to get as far as we had already come," Howell explained.

The Bugle Boys took first place in the Air Training Command finals, held at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, giving them enough points to advance once again to the World Preliminaries at the USAF Academy, Colo.

"That is where the buck stopped," Howell said. "We didn't feel bad, the talent that won deserved to go on," he added. Since the final competition the group participated in on June 17, the Bugle Boys disbanded, as Airman Grey, formally of the 64th Supply Squadron, left for his new assignment in Germany.

"If I can find some more people interested in dancing, I'll put the group back together next year," Howell said. If not, he intends to give the potporri or special categories a try.

"Anyone with a little talent should give it a try," Howell encouraged. "I met people from all over the world, and had a lot of fun," he added.

Get jump on PCS

The next "Smooth Move" program is Wednesday, 6-9 p.m. at the Base Chapel. The seminar will address the most frequently encountered questions and problems faced by a military family during a PCS move—whether stateside or overseas.

One of the programs special features is that it pairs personnel who have been previously stationed at a particular overseas base location with persons currently on PCS orders to that overseas location. Overseas information packets which describe customs as well as common problems and special needs are also distributed.

Child care is available at your expense. For more information, call Family Services, 3305.

Commanders/First Shirt breakfast

A Unit Commander's and First Sergeant's breakfast is at the Caprock Cafe Wednesday, 6:45 a.m.

Wive's Club meets

The Reese Officer's Wives Club honors Marie-Jacques Lillard as wife of the new Wing Commander at a tea Thursday, 10 a.m. to noon at Reese Manor. All members are invited and no reservations are needed.

The 1958th Communications Squadron holds a Polish Sausage sale today at Windmill Park, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Earn a A&P License

The Federal Aviation Administration certified airframe and powerplant program is now open to all Reese personnel. Regardless of AFSC, you can now complete all requirements for the license by attending the Houston Community College (HCC) program. This is the only base with a FAA approved program for personnel without prior aviation maintenance experience. Stop by the Education Center, Bldg. 920, Room 139, or call 3634, or 3087 for more information.

Lost and found

The Security Police Investigation Section has the following lost or abandoned property: one key ring with four keys and a AM/FM clock radio. If any of the property belongs to you, call 3999.

Spouses return to country

Foreign-born spouses can return to their native country at government expense while their sponsor serves a dependent restricted tour. The program, Designated Location Move (DLM) was revised in 1985, and applications are only approved when it is clearly documented that the spouse will be unable to function independently in the CONUS during the sponsor's absence. Members who volunteer for their spouses native country based on the assumption that the DLM will be approved should consider the possible disapproval of the request.

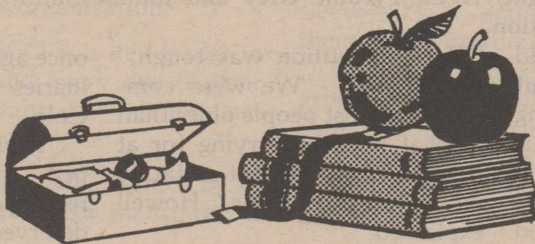

ASTRA board meets

Information and eligibility criteria for the Calendar Year 1987 (FY89 entry) Air Staff Training (ASTRA) program has been received. The Headquarters Air Force central Selection Board meets Nov. 2-6, 1987 at HQ Air Force Military Personnel center. Application deadline is Oct. 1, 1987. For more information, contact CBPO. Any questions concerning the ASTRA program can be directed to Sgt. Bob Gil or Sgt. Lueticia Kimbrough, AUTOVON 487-4053.

College courses available

A Master of Engineering program is offered through Texas Tech University in September. Deadline for enrollment is Wednesday.

Several four-week Industrial Engineering courses are available Monday through Aug. 7. These can apply towards the new Master of Engineering degree. For more information, call the Education Center, 3469.

Registration begins

Registration for the second summer term for Texas Tech is today. Tuition assistance paperwork can be completed at the Education Center, Bldg. 920, Room 139. For more information call 3634.

Child care available

The heat is on

Working and playing in the summer sun is a natural part of our lives. Harmful effects can occur, however, when the body becomes overheated, and cannot eliminate the excess heat.

This usually happens when large amounts of water, salt, or both are lost due to heavy sweating following work or strenuous exercise in an extremely hot atmosphere. The two most common conditions are Heat Exhaustion and Heat Stroke. Don't mix them up!

Heat Exhaustion—Symptoms of heat exhaustion include pale and clammy skin, fatigue, profuse sweating, dizziness, nausea (and perhaps vomiting), head ache, and sometimes fainting.

First aid for Heat Exhaustion is to move the victim to a cool room if possible, loosen any tight clothing, apply cool wet cloths to the victim, and elevate his feet slightly.

Heat Stroke—is a very serious condition. Symptoms are a very high body temperature, skin is hot, red and dry.

First aid for Heat Stroke requires that you call for medical help first, then proceed to try to cool the body as quickly as possible. Undress the victim, sponge off the bare skin with cool water or rubbing alcohol, or place the victim in a tub of cold (not ice) water. Do not give the victim any stimulants, stimulants increase perspiration. You want to retain fluid, not lose it.

(USAF Photo)

Keep cool! It may not be 20 degrees outside, but keeping cool is something to sweat about. Safety has a few tips to follow for summer heat.

Some other tips on being safe in the sun.

- Drink at least six eight-ounce glasses of water every day. Drink them before you start to feel thirsty.

- Don't take salt tablets except under a doctor's orders. Most experts agree that people consume enough salt in their normal diets to avoid heat-induced illnesses.

- Some medicines may increase your sensitivity to the sun, leading to sunburn. Others may make you more susceptible to heat illnesses such as sunstroke. Not everyone experiences these reactions, but if you've noticed that summer sun doesn't agree with you, check with your doctor.

Services expand officer exchanges

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The staff officer exchange program is so successful that the Army and Air Force want to expand it.

In 1984, the two services began exchanging headquarters staff officers. Air Force officers spend a year on the Army staff and Army officers spend a year on the Air staff.

Gen. Larry Welch, Air Force chief of staff, and Gen. John Wickham Jr., Army chief of staff, called the exchange "The single most successful initiative within the joint force development process."

In a joint memo June 15, the Generals said it is important to expand the officer exchange program now. They told their staffs to expand into as many areas as possible by Sept. 30.

Staff exchanges have been limited to the operations area. The two services want to look at expanding into other areas such as logistics, intelligence and research and development.

Exchanges involved experienced staff officers, normally majors and lieutenant colonels. They spend a year on their own headquarters staff before crossing over to the other service.

The Navy, in the last three years, has also participated in the Officer Exchange Program.

Health alert

Taking proper steps cuts mosquito problem

by Capt. Charles Sinclair

West Texas has been "blessed" with an unusual amount of rainfall this year. The lawns are green. There is a lot of standing water around the base, and we have been provided with a bumper crop of mosquitoes.

Mosquitoes can carry various diseases. In Lubbock, we are particularly vulnerable to viral encephalitis, a disease of the nervous system. In times past, malaria and yellow fever were big problems in America. In fact, we had malaria in the 13 colonies, the South and in the midwest. The disease spontaneously went away in these areas, as man's settlements grew and mosquito eradication projects went into effect.

You will enjoy your summer more if you take simple actions:

- Wear insect repellent when outdoors in the evening or early morning. Ensure that children wear insect repellent when playing outdoors in the evening hours.

- Dogs should be receiving heartworm prevention pills daily throughout the year in Texas. The disease is spread by mosquitoes. It is not communicable to people.
- Empty cut flower pots, outdoor toys, children's swimming pools, and other places where stagnant water can accumulate. These are excellent breeding grounds for mosquitoes.

- When the mosquito fogging truck comes, children should be kept inside for about an hour. The fog is safe but may be irritating to some children.
- DO NOT use chemicals for mosquito control. Only Civil Engineering Entomology and Grounds people are authorized to use pesticides on Base.

- Fogging will be done as soon as possible after the mosquitoes arrive. Atmospheric conditions have to be right (no rain, low winds) for fogging to be effective. Please don't bug the CE folks!

Some spider bites can be deadly

The months between April and October bring more spider bites. Only 50 of the 30,000 species of spiders are known to bite humans, but two types of spider bites can be deadly.

The most dangerous is the black widow, identified by its shiny black coat and red hourglass marking on its back. The black widow has limited vision but is aggressive and may attack after only slight provocation.

The black widow's bite resembles a pinprick. Initial symptoms include slight swelling and faint red marks. Within a few hours, intense pain and stiffness begin. Other symptoms may include chills, fever, sweating, nausea and severe abdominal pain.

Treatment for this type of bite may require a hospital stay for persons younger than 16 and older than 60, particularly those with a heart condition. An antivenom works well in many cases, but black widow bites have caused death from heart and lung failure.

A second dangerous spider, the brown recluse, is not aggressive but its bite also can be fatal. This spider is identified by its body color, ranging from light yellow to dark chocolate, and a violin-shaped marking on its back.

Severe pain occurs within two to eight hours after a brown recluse bite. Other possible symptoms include fever, weakness, vomiting, joint pain and a rash.

The brown recluse bite can cause disfiguring results to the skin. Within 24 hours, the bite site can erupt into a hole in the flesh that results from damaged tissue.

An effective antivenom is not generally available, but one possible treatment combines high doses of cortisone-type hormones with surgical removal of the damaged tissue.

Appointments cancelled

The cancellation or a no-show of an appointment hurts everyone. The military provider is paid professional pay in order to retain their specialty in the Air Force.

A late cancellation, that cannot be filled, or a no-show, results in lost time. A cancellation or no-show in the civilian community may incur a fee. The cost of medical care is expensive, even in the military. In addition, any unused appointment hurts the individual that could have used the appointment and been treated.

If for any reason you must cancel, do so as soon as possible to permit the hospital staff to schedule another patient in your place. A 24-hour cancellation recorder is available seven days a week. You may cancel your appointment by calling 885-3151.

Hospital holds 'Career Week'

USAF Hospital-Reese hosts a High school Career Week. The dates are July 20-23.

On July 20, beginning at 8 a.m. and ending at 2:30 p.m., a hospital and base tour will be conducted.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of that week, class sessions will be held beginning at 10 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m. The class sessions will be taught on different medical career fields.

Thursday the hospital will sponsor a "Shadow Program" where any teen can be paired up with a provider at the hospital, to get a closer look at actual medical responsibilities and patient care.

The purpose of this high school career week is to help teens learn more about medical careers and decide whether or not they might wish to pursue a medical career.

For more information on High School Career Week, contact Carolyn Johnson at the Patient Affairs Office, 885-3521.

Call by Thursday to sign up for this program. Only a limited number of spaces are available.

Gospel concert Sunday

by Chaplain (Cap.) Robert C. Stroud

On Sunday, at 7 p.m. the chapel here at Reese will be filled with spirited music of praise and worship.

A talented group of musicians, representing the United Support Christian Organization, will share the gospel in song. Working from their home base in Greenville, Texas, they have ministered in numerous states and locales. According to Janice Luke, executive director of USCO, "We are very excited about coming to Reese to share God's love. We try to offer a wide variety of talent so we can minister to as many men and women as possible." She states that the driving force behind USCO is a "desire to share some of the blessing that God has given us."

The program is being offered to the Reese community without charge. No offering will be taken. And, childcare is free.

Tips cut down injuries

Wing Safety Office

Since the 1987 softball season started, 30 softball injuries have been reported. Sprains, cuts, bruises and on occasion, broken bones are the types of injuries sustained.

Over one-fourth of these injuries occurred as a result of individuals sliding or being slid into. One injury resulted in an individual tearing a muscle in his knee due to another player sliding into him. This individual is presently at another base awaiting surgery. The most common cause of these injuries was overaggressive play.

So what can we do to reverse this unfavorable trend?

•All personnel who participate in sports should do warm up/cool down stretches before and after sports activities to increase flexibility, reduce muscle tension and soreness and lower your chance of injury.

•Be sure you are in proper physical condition for the sport you choose.

•If you see any problems on the playing fields, relay them to the gym staff.

•Don't over do it when you're out there. Remember you're out there to have some fun, and get some exercise, not to take out your frustrations on other players.

•Don't let the competitiveness of the game get you in a position where you will be injured or injure someone else.

Follow these tips and you're guaranteed to be SAFE.

Tennis clinic held

A free beginning tennis clinic for youth 6-18-years-old is July 18-19, 9-11 a.m. both days. It will be held at the courts across from the Officer's Open Mess. Bring racquets, and balls will be provided. For more information, call the Youth Center, 3820.

Kids go to camp

The days of summer are passing by, and so is the opportunity to enroll your child in the Reese Youth Center Summer Day Camp.

Only two sessions are left for children 6-12 years old. The next session will be July 20-31 and the final session, August 3-14. The camp is held from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Tennis lessons, racquetball lessons, trips to Water Rampa, Buffalo Springs Lake, Show Place 6 and tours of a T-37 and T-38 aircraft are all a part of summer day camp.

The cost for the camp is $60 per child, or $105 for two children. To sign up, contact Christine Jowid, program director, 3820.
