BSPD arrests three in car chase shooting

BRITTNEY JO HILGER
 Special to the Herald

JENNIFER YANEZ

ANTONIO PENA

The Big Spring Herald received the following press release Wednesday morning from the Big Spring Police Department:

"On the 8th of January 2022 at approximately 3 a.m., Big Spring Police Department officers were dispatched to the area of the 500 block of North Birdwell in an attempt to locate shots being fired at a vehicle. Upon officers arrival, contact was made with multiple subjects who were recent occupants of a red Dodge Charger. The subjects informed they were being chased by a black Chevrolet Camaro and a small white passenger car. The subjects informed the sole occupant of the Camaro was shooting at them. As a result of the chase and the shots being fired, the driver of the Charger wrecked into a concrete pillar in the 500 block of North Birdwell. Officers located several shell casings in the area of the wrecked Dodge Charger. None of the occupants in the red Dodge Charger were hit with any bullets, though all sustained minor injuries from the crash and each were transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center for treatment.

"This investigation was turned over to the Criminal Investigations Division. Detectives followed leads given during the preliminary investigation, and found that the altercation started at FM 700 and South Gregg Street when the occupants of the small white passenger car broke the front windshield of the red Dodge Charger. The red Dodge Charger left the scene and was followed by the small white car. The black Camaro joined in the pursuit of the red Dodge Charger and began firing at the red Dodge Charger at the intersection of North Service Rd IH-20 and Hwy 350. Both the black Camaro and small white Community support is vital when it comes to achieving goals and positively impacting lives. The D.A.V. (Disabled American Veterans) Chapter 47 of Big Spring once again welcomed a new partner in support of veterans located in Big Spring and Howard County. A donation presentation, in the amount of $7,000, took place during the recent D.A.V. meeting, where the Big Spring Area Community Foundation's Executive Director George Bancroft presented a check from Twin Eagle Sand Logistics.

"A lot of companies want to donate money, but it has to go through a foundation. In this case, we are just a conduit for that and are happy to serve in that capacity," Bancroft said. "The ones who truly deserve the recognition here is Twin Eagle."

According to Bancroft, Twin Eagles donates funds on an annual basis through the GBACF, with the intention of supporting veterans in the local community.

"The foundation exists to do special things for the communities that are within Howard County and surrounding area," Bancroft said. "The foundation has been operating for the past 20 years, and in that time has supported the community through grants, scholarships and other donation presentations."

The presentation is one of the first monetary donations received by the D.A.V. Chapter 47 for 2022. The funds are utilized to support veterans with a hand up when needed, whether it be in rental assistance, utility bills, food, clothing or other necessities. In addition, the D.A.V. honors veterans throughout the year with several community

By law, veterans may salute the flag, in or out of uniform

Stand tall ... shoulders back ... salute.

All military servicemen and women - those in and out of uniform - now have the right to salute the American flag. According to Senate Bill 1877 - under US Code Title 4, Chapter 1 - veterans and servicemen not in uniform should place their hand over their heart without clarifying whether they can or should salute the flag.

United States Code

"Members of the Armed Forces not in uniform and veterans may render the military salute in the manner provided for persons in uniform."

— 4 USC Chapter 1: The Flag, Sec. 4

The Bill was introduced by U.S. Senator of Oklahoma Jim Inhofe in an effort to clarify the law as to whether or not veterans not in uniform could salute the flag. According to local veteran Danny Martinez, during their time of service, soldiers had it ingrained - whether you serve three years or 30 years - that saluting the flag is an honor only afforded to soldiers in uniform.

"As a 23-year-veteran, it was hard to do that (salute the flag). You get it ingrained that when you are in civilian attire you never salute. You can only salute when in uniform ...there are a lot of protocols and restrictions," Martinez said. "It took several times of encouragement from Mr. Tarpley, and him showing me the (new) law before I would begin to salute the flag."

Martinez continued, "Over the 23 years, anytime the flag would pass, I would place my hand over my heart when in civilian clothes. I was always very proud, and it took me a while to break away from what I had been taught. Once I started doing it, it felt weird, but way past that now."

Martinez recalled attending a Dallas Cowboy game, after reading the new legislation, and as they stood for the National Anthem he stood and saluted.

"I could feel the eyes on me ... when you are saluting your eyes can move, but your head can't. However, you could feel those around noticing," Martinez said. "Now, I'm glad I did it. It makes me that much prouder to let people know that I did serve."

The legislation, which passed unanimously on July 25, 2007, provides clarification and allows for veterans and servicemen to salute the flag whether they are in uniform or not. According to Mike Tarpley, local Vietnam Veteran, this is a piece of legislation that all veterans need to be aware of.

"The pride of being able to say 'Hey, I served.' That pride never goes away and people don't know that you served, but when you have the opportunity to salute... As a community we need to remind our veterans, at every event, whether it be a school function, community event or any other event where they are going to salute the flag, that they are allowed to salute the flag," Mike Tarpley, local Vietnam Veteran, said. "As a veteran you have the right; in uniform, out of uniform."

In several instances Tarpley recalls the demeanor or change that takes place in a veteran when they know they have that honor.

"There have been many veterans who I have spoken to, some who are down and out, and I let them know about this legislation and the rights it gives them. You see them snap up," Tarpley said. "Then, you have those older veterans who find out that they have that honor still, and you see the pride in their eyes."

Tarpley continued, "There have been people over the years who have stopped me and extended their appreciation, their gratitude, for my service, and that means a lot. To them I say, 'Thank you for being someone worth serving for, and always remember to be someone worth serving for.' Countless men and women have sacrificed for this country, not only for family and friends, but for strangers. May we never forget that sacrifice and the importance of that service. As a community we should extend our appreciation to veterans, and one of the best ways to do so is to live a life worth fighting for."

Community members are encouraged, next time they are at an event honoring the flag, look around and see who the veteran is.

Lady Steers fight hard against top ranked team

In a key district matchup Tuesday night the Levelland Lobos proved to the Big Spring Lady Steers just why they are ranked No. 3 in the state, cruising to a 58-23 win at Steer Gym.

Both teams entered 3-0 in league play, tied for first. But this was new waters for the upstart Big Spring team and Levelland made sure they sunk fast - and in a hurry. Levelland is 20-1 for the season, it's only loss was close contest to Argyle, the state's No. 1 4A team. Meanwhile the Lady Steers came in riding a six-game winning streak, already having defeated district foes San Angelo Kake View, Lubbock Estacado and Snyder. What they Lady Steers got was a heavy dose of defense and some pin point passing from a team that has won six state titles over the years.

The only times the score resembled a close contest was when Big Spring's Tristen Smith made two free throws, cutting Levelland's lead to 4-2 two minutes into the game. Levelland outscored Big Spring 12-0 the rest of the quarter to lead 16-2 heading into the second. Big Spring's only basket in the second quarter came from Ryen Terrazas. For all practical purposes the game was over at the half, Levelland led 35-4.

Levelland's halfcourt zone defense simply suffocated Big Spring's offense. The Lady Steers turned the ball over 19 times in the first half alone.

"They're solid, they are as solid of a team there is," said Big Spring coach Eric Tuttle of Levelland. "They got after us really good. We responded and played a little better in the second half. We have to go to work and keep working. I'm extremely proud of our girls as they continued to battle. We've got to push over the mountains, We still have a lots to climb."

Levelland used all of its 13 players throughout the game. it scored the Lady Lobos never within a beat. Point guard Emma Kent paced the win with 21 points and nine rebounds. Laci White was the only other Lobo in double figures with 13 points.

Senior guard Tristen Smith paced big Spring with eight points. With her two three-pointers, Alex Enriquez scored six points

Big Spring will try to get back on the winning track by hosting Sweetwater Friday at 6 p.m.

Chris Martinez made a shot that changed the game. The shot they will be talking about for a while to come. The shot that propelled the Big Spring Steers into first place in the district race.

With time running out in the first quarter and the score tied 11-apiece, Martinez unleashed a 55-foot bomb that banked in off the backboard, in the pro

The bidding:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♠ Pass
2♥ Pass 2♠ Pass
3♠ Pass 4♠
Opening lead — king of hearts.
B. Jay Becker, the former editor of this column, liked to tell this story about the time he was playing with Helen Sobel in the Masters Team-of-Four many years ago.
The bidding went as shown, and Becker became declarer at four spades. West led the K-Q-J of hearts, South trumping the third.
Becker's principal problem was how to avoid losing two trump tricks. Several approaches were possible. If West had the K-J-x of spades, for example, declarer could not afford to play the ace and another spade, which would allow West to score the king and jack.

Alternatively, if East had the K-J-x and South led the ace and another trump, the contract would still be in danger if East took the second spade and returned the jack. In that case, Becker would not be able to ruff his losing club.
Then there was also the possibility that the club loser could be averted by taking a diamond finesse, or by cashing the A-K of diamonds and ruffing a diamond, hoping the queen would fall.
As Becker sifted these options in his mind, he took lots and lots of time. After a while, Sobel got up from the table, wandered around the room, came back to see whether her partner had played a card yet (which he hadn't), went off again and eventually settled down at a nearby sofa to read a magazine.
Meanwhile, Becker's opponents chatted amiably, occasionally getting up to stretch or get a drink of water. Time went on.
Finally, after more than 15 minutes, he decided to play the ace and another spade. When the trumps divided 2-2, he claimed the rest. Every other conceivable line of play would also have worked.
Sobel returned to the table shortly thereafter and asked anxiously, "Did you make it?" "Sure," said Becker, "it was a laydown!"

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

Drive While High, Get a DUI
Dear Annie: I had a high school boyfriend 47 years ago but left him. He came to my house the day before I was marrying someone else and begged me not to marry him, but I did. Long story short, after getting divorced, I tried to find him, but I couldn't. I married again and got divorced again. I then focused on trying to find him again only to find out he's been dead since 2007. I don't know how to process my guilt and grief and wondering what might have been. He never got married nor had any kids. Missing him after all these years. -- Nostalgic and Regretful

Dear Nostalgic and Regretful: It's easy to romanticize the things we don't have, the relationships that could have been, the ones who got away. But think back to 47 years ago: There was a reason you left him. There was a reason you married someone else. You did the best you could with the information you had. Stop beating yourself up.

Dear Annie: My wife and I recently found out that our 19-year-old son has been smoking pot for about a year. We had been suspicious but didn't have proof until last week. He says that it helps his anxiety (something we didn't know he had), keeps him focused and helps him to have a decent appetite. He insists that it is not addictive, yet he does not want to give it up. He says that he usually smokes it in a remote area and then drives himself to wherever he is going. This is crushing to us on so many levels!
No. 1: We would like to see him deal with his anxiety through some other, safer means (a therapist maybe?); No. 2: He is not legally old enough in our state to have marijuana; No. 3: He insists that he doesn't drive stoned, but it sounds like he has. What if he hurt someone?; No. 4: He has a friend whose sister, just a few years ago, used pot for her anxiety, and when that didn't work, she went to stronger street drugs and eventually overdosed and died. When that happened, we had long talks with our children about drugs, and we thought they were smart enough not to get involved.
We don't know what to do. Right now, we are switching health insurance, so we cannot see a doctor or therapist until he can be added to our new insurance. What should we do? I would love to turn in his supplier to the authorities, but he won't give up the guy's name. Any suggestions? -- Worried for our Son

Dear Worried: If your son gets pulled over while under the influence of marijuana, he'll get a DUI. And the fact that he's underage could result in high fines or even jail time, depending on state laws. A lot of teenagers are under the impression that driving high isn't an issue, so make sure he's aware of the consequences.
His use of marijuana to self-medicate is a different problem entirely. He needs to address his underlying anxiety issues, rather than mask them with a drug. Contact the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration until you are able to find a good therapist for your son.

...cess he was fouled. He completed the four point play to give Big Spring a 15-11 lead heading into the second quarter. It energized the Steers to go on a take a decisive 62-38 win over the Levelland Lobos Tuesday night at Steer Gym.

With the win Big Spring, 15-10 for the season and 2-0 in league play, stays in first place in the district race.

"That puts us in the driver's seat right now," said Big Spring coach Bobby Cash. "We want to go into the Estacado game at 3-0, we have to beat Sweetwater first on Friday. Estacado is the district favorite and it will be hard to do down there (Lubbock) and beat them. I've never been there but I hear it's great basketball atmosphere."

Martinez's shot created a great atmosphere at Steer Gym. A fired up Steers squad charged to a 34-19 halftime lead and Big Spring never looked back. "The kids were so fired up in the locker room at halftime, building each other up It was huge," said Cash.

Big Spring played lights out in the second quarter. From forward. Kaegen Mitchell finding his teammates for open shots to Eli Cobos coming off the bench to hit two big three pointers, undersized post player Isiah Holloway patrolling the boards and Martinez and Gavin Greathouse torching the Lobos defense from the outside. Big Spring led 34-19 at intermission.

It was a game where Big Spring converted a unheard of three four-point plays. Another by Martinez in the second half to go along with another by Aaron Yanez. Yanez added spark in the second half as he promptly came off the bench to nail two three pointers.

"I don't think I've ever heard or seen a team make three four point plays in a game," said Cash. "The kids have brought into what we're doing. In the 46-44 win over Snyder Friday, the kids played out of their minds. They never stopped fighting. Gavin Greathouse hit a jumper at the foul line with three seconds left."

The Steers didn't need a last second jumper for this one. Martinez and Geathouse led the way with 19 and 15 points respectively. The 5-10 Holloway, who's going to play football for Hardin-Simmons University in the fall, controlled the boards, getting 10 rebounds to go along with 12 points on a 6-for-9 shooting night.

The Steers host Sweetwater at 7:30 p.m. Friday.
