Child abuse awareness event planned April 21

By AMANDA DUFORAT hosting the eighth annual Stand Up Howard County

Contributing Writer

A voice is a powerful thing, and during the month of April, members of the community are encouraged to use their voices and speak out against child abuse. National Child Abuse Prevention Month is recognized in April, and offers an opportunity for communities to raise awareness for the often overlooked issue.

“Children may not be able to voice what is happening to them, but as a community, we can show a united front and be their voice,” April Arms, Executive Assistant at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, said. “If you suspect something, say something. Be the voice for those who feel that they don’t have one.”

A rodeo full of Bulldog Cowpokes

Coahoma youngsters rope and ride in the 44th Annual Kindergarten Rodeo

Thursday morning, Coahoma High School’s gymnasium turned into a rodeo arena, as dozens of five- and six-year-olds rode stick horses, roped welded-steel cattle, sang with the legendary Jody Nix, and received pointers from real-live rodeo stars and princesses. The 44th Annual Quail Dobbs Legacy Kindergarten Rodeo was not only great fun for the kids and adults involved, but a tradition well worth observing for years to come! Good job, ‘lil pardners!

Off-duty deputy killed in shooting near Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — An off-duty deputy sheriff was killed in a shooting on the northern outskirts of Houston when he interrupted three men apparently trying to steal the catalytic converter from his vehicle, authorities said.

Deputy Darren Almendarez, 51, was fatally shot Thursday night in a grocery store parking lot, according to Harris County Sheriff Ed Gonzalez.

Two of the suspects were shot and wounded during an exchange of gunfire with Almendarez and were hospitalized Friday in custody, Gonzalez said.

Joshua Stewart, 23, and Fredarius Clark, 19, are charged with capital murder, according to court documents. Clark remained hospitalized Friday in stable condition, while Stewart was discharged and booked into Harris County Jail, said Senior Deputy Thomas Gilliland. It was unclear from court documents if they had attorneys.

A third person, believed to be a male teenager, fled the scene and was being sought.

Gonzalez said Almendarez had been shopping with his wife to buy groceries for a Friday cook-out for Almendarez's sister, whose birthday was Thursday.

"We're tired that people aren't even safe to go out to the grocery store. This is a cop. This is a cop that's just out with his family. It could be any one of us — and it happened to be him," Gonzalez told reporters.

Almendarez told his wife, who was not injured, to run away before he was shot, Gonzales said.

Texas Gov. Greg Abbott offered prayers for Almendarez's family in a statement Friday.

"Deputy Darren Almendarez lost his life while answering the call to serve and protect his fellow Texans, and this tragedy is a heartbreaking reminder of the sacrifices our law enforcement officers make both on and off duty," Abbott said.

Man kills self after shooting girlfriend at San Angelo beef plant

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A man fatally shot himself after shooting and injuring his girlfriend Friday at the West Texas beef processing plant where they both worked, police said.

San Angelo police said officers responded to the shooting at Lone Star Beef Processors at about 8:30 a.m. The 57-year-old man and 49-year-old woman were both taken to a hospital, where he died and she was in stable condition, police said.

Police said the man and woman had been dating.

After they got into an argument at their workplace, the man produced a firearm and shot the woman near her left shoulder, police said.

Police said the man then shot himself.

who provided services to children involved in cases involving abuse, including Howard County Children's Advocacy Center, Victims Services, C.A.S.A. of West Texas, B.A.C.A. (Bikers Against Child Abuse), just to name a few.

"We would like to think that child abuse doesn't exist in our community, but the reality of the matter is that it does. Child abuse exists and the only way to put a stop to it is to stand up and stand together," Arms said. "As a community we need to be educated on signs to recognize what to do if we notice something, and then be encouraged to speak up. We are in this together, and our youth need us."

There is no cost to attend the event, but those who would like to bring a new stuffed animal to donate are encouraged to do so.

The donations will be provided to local organizations to be used as needed.

ALTON

The town has been real supportive of the park, but it's also been supportive of us. And of course, my wife and I, we've done our share to support also, to reciprocate. So for now, we're going to stay around here," he said. "At Thanksgiving, we were over at Hot Springs. That was quite beautiful. And when I asked the Lyft driver who took us back to Little Rock to the airport to fly back here, there was a little house on the lake, and it was cheaper rent than Big Spring. So there's that. But for now, here."

Alton is a native of Northern California, he said.

"What they call the San Francisco Bay area, or if you've heard that song 'Do You Know the Way to San Jose?' That was the area where I was raised," he said. "My dad was an aerospace engineer for NASA there where they have that location."

Alton said he worked at two state parks before moving to Big Spring.

"Just before here I was in - people probably haven't heard the name of the town - Sheffield, down by Ira and Ozona," he said. "I was there six years at a small historic site, an old fort on an old wagon trail that went through Texas. Or the ruins of an old fort...Fort Lancaster. So there six years, and then a year at my first job starting out with Texas Parks and Wildlife, was on the coast by Sabine Pass, which was also a pretty small town.

Alton said his Sabine Pass posting was at Sea Rim State Park.

"As far as parks go, it was kind of interesting, we had three miles of beach, and then thousands of acres of marshland, like a duck hunter's paradise. I'm talking about farther than nationwide, people came to hunt the ducks there. And some geese."

Sea Rim had its own brand of excitement, he said.

"There's a skinny little two-lane road that runs in front of the park headquarters, but the gators, every once in a while, they'd come out of that marsh and crawl across the two-lane road and onto the beach where moms and dads and kids were," he said. "People didn't appreciate the gators on the beach."

Alton said it was mainly the game wardens' job to deal with the beachcombing reptiles, but the rangers would assist upon occasion.

In college, Alton discovered the park ranger gig at his schools vocational center, he said.

"I was in a community college and looked in their vocational center. That was back when you didn't look on a computer, you looked in books," he said. "When I saw that job, I felt attracted to it. I didn't even know it existed."

Alton credits his parents' influence with his interest in a career as a Park Ranger.

"That was kind of my parents' passion, backpacking and going back into the woods and the wilderness. And living so close to that beautiful beach with sea lions and sea otters and every kind of thing," he said. "Great white sharks there, too. So being outdoors a lot and taking those kinds of trips, that's what influenced me to get into this business."

During his time in Big Spring, the support of the local community has been great, he said.

"The town has always been so supportive. They've donated...we upgraded our playground equipment. Also - and this is Midland/Odessa and Big Spring - they donated to build that $50,000 newer trail that goes around the park property," he said. "Also, maintenance of the facility, which seems mundane, but new roofs on the various facilities. With our agency it's kind of a big deal, because we have a lot to take care of, so it may be a while before you get a new roof. It may not sound like news to everybody, but it's news to us. Same thing with a new truck or a piece of equipment because, again, it may be quite a while before we see another one."

Another milestone involves a project to catalog historic rock carvings in the park.

"This has probably been five or six years ago, but we hired a group that's kind of experts at this to look over it. They spent hours - days - looking for all the carvings, and they cataloged them. That was quite interesting," he said. "They definitely found some we didn't know where there. Of course, not all of those are addressed in the Carving Guide. That guide was submitted to a national association of interpretation group, so out of five states, that publication here at Big Spring State Park took Number One. So that would have been Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Louisiana, and maybe New Mexico. Five states and we took Number One. So I'm proud of that."

Alton said the guide is available at the Heritage Museum of Big Spring, the Chamber of Commerce, and the State Park.

"It helps you locate where some of the neater ones are," he added.

So what has been Alton's favorite part of his career?

"For sure, teaching the young kids - students, both homeschooled, public, private, whoever shows up - about nature and the outdoors," he said. "It's easy to tell, even in my own household, I have to tell my kids 'Hey, let's get outside!' We're seeing less of them maybe than when I was a kid. Of course, they help keep the parks business going, but it goes beyond that for me. I believe you have to have a bit of a heart for conservation and all that, or how are you going to preserve what we have? The public land and how to conserve it properly. And possibly, the next generation of park rangers too."

The excited faces are a thrill for him, he said.

"Kids with their faces glued to the TV or whatever technology they've got, they may or may not learn about this plant growing here...the Indians and the pioneers used it for a type of medicine or they used it for food. They may not get that off of what they're typically looking at," Alton said. "So when I get them up there with the classes and hiking around, and showing them the carvings, to see the look on their faces, they really are kind of pumped up and psyched when I tell them the information, the history or the animals. So that is one of the neatest things to me. Not every kid, or adult for that matter, has a ranch or a farm - some kind of open space to wander around in - and that's why I'm glad we have this State Park here. 385 acres so folks can get out. Really, it's been proven that it helps kids with their education even. I know the classroom helps, but the outdoor classroom is good, too. Also, even mentally, to get outside it's been proven, helps too."

South Africans find a home in Texas

A restaurant in Winnsboro serves the traditional menu items like steaks, seafood and smoked chicken but also serves some South African dishes.

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Jackie and Phillip Strydom have the restaurant called Liefie (Lee-Fee) a popular Afrikaans word meaning sweetheart. They came to the US in 1999 after running a successful real estate business in Johannesburg, a city with a high crime rate. The Re-Max Company invited them to Dallas for training with the idea of going back and opening Re-Max offices in South Africa. They considered the offer. “We were young and ambitious and our kids were small so we thought it was a wonderful opportunity,” says Jackie.

They got to the US after a 21-hour flight. “We landed in New York with two babies and eight suitcases and we were really tired. We found out the plane tickets to Dallas were eight hundred dollars apiece. And if you convert that into South African money, that’s a lot of money. We took the Greyhound bus to Dallas and enjoyed the trip because it gave us a chance to rest and see the countryside. It was a beautiful ride.”

Jackie says in Dallas, they started a real estate business and after a few years the kids became thoroughly Texanized and spoke English fluently. “We just couldn’t stand the thought of taking them back.” At a South African Dutch oven cooking festival in 2009 they met a man with South African roots who invited the family to his farm near Winnsboro. “My kids had such a good time on the farm and in the little town. On the way back to Dallas my 15 year-old daughter said, ‘Mama, you know we’re gonna have to move there.’ I told her I would love to but it’s too far from Dallas where we make a living. She said ‘Mama we just have to follow our hearts and God will provide.’”

They did move to Winnsboro in 2010, bought a home and a downtown building that they turned into a small mall. They set up a real estate office in the front of the building. “We went to Canton and solicited successful vendors with funky apparel, furniture and home décor to rent space in the mall,” says Jackie. “Eventually we started serving wine and cheese plates. That just sort of morphed into the restaurant. We didn’t plan to open a restaurant, it just happened. We added kitchen and patio and Phillip got out his smoker and started smoking chickens. It’s one of our best menu items. Phillip manages the cooking and our son Jet helps.” They opened the restaurant in 2012 and don’t plan to go back to South Africa. “What we do now is get enough money together and send it over to our friends and family. They come here and we all go places we have not been.”

Liefie has been called the best restaurant in East Texas. It seats 44 inside and 44 outside. Musicians entertain on weekends. It’s open Thursday thru Saturday from 11 AM to 9 PM. Reservations are recommended. (903 347-1111)

Jackie grew up in the Kalahari Desert where her mother had a large general store. In college, she waited tables. She and Phillip always liked the rural areas, preferring them over big cities. “Maybe God wants us here.”

Seniors and Their Discounts...

In the course of human history, there’ve rarely been days like current ones when bottom lines on price tags have been so convoluted, confusing, confounding and-in some cases-perhaps even conspiratorial.

There may be a few more “con” words that apply, but these seem adequate to describe runaway prices, some of which are indeed “con jobs.”

yon.

It is tempting to cite the memorable words quoted by Pogo creator Walt Kelley: “We have met the enemy and he is us.” (It was based on a similar quote attributed to American Admiral Oliver Perry during the War of 1812.)

We seniors are “chase-cutters,” hereby declaring renewed intent to claim what is already ours: senior discounts....

By AARP standards, I have reached my 35th year of eligibility for such discounts, and-with renewed vigor---am determined to ask about discounts at every retail stop.

The time has come for “backbone-stiffening” by seniors, many of whom have incomes more fixed than television wrestling matches.

If favorable answers result from our questions, let us add requests that such discounts (military and veterans, too) be prominently displayed on signage and/or menus....

Allow me to share recent personal experiences. (I no longer apologize for reference to personal experiences, since they’re the only kind I’ve had.)

During visits to the same chain restaurant three times in recent months, I asked waitpersons about senior discounts. One waitperson “didn’t know,” the second said “no” and the third “would need to check with the manager.”

All three times, the manager was summoned. Every time, he was red-faced and apologetic, haltingly admitting that senior discounts are indeed offered....

At another fast-food place--this one locally owned--I did a double-take upon examination of my receipt for three hamburgers. The charge was north of $30, including almost $9 for three waters.

I asked the cashier, who explained that I had been given three cups, “free to fill them with water or the soft drink of my choice at the dispensing machine.”

I hailed down the manager. She seemed embarrassed, removed the drink charge and moaned about good help being “hard to find.” (There are many such moanings these days.)....

A few weeks later--at the same burger place--the same employee took my order. I asked about senior discounts. “I don’t know, and my manager is not here,” she responded.

Her next utterance fueled my resolve. “She’s in the bathroom.”

I waited until the manager was back on duty, asked about the discount, and was granted 10% off....

My first memory of inflation--or whatever they called increased costs 75 years ago--concerned soft drink prices. Seemingly overnight, prices jumped from five cents to six cents.

No one picketed--at least they didn’t in my little town--but grumbling prevailed. The same wordage appeared on signs in restaurants and drug stores, as well as near soft drink machines.

This attempt at humor probably softened the blow: “Our drinks are all sick scents.”...

OK, so there’s little we can do, except: Admit that good help is hard to find, commiserating with management.

Ask about discounts. Suggest that such discounts be posted and/or shown on menus....

Coming to mind is the story of two country mice--starved out on the drought-stricken farm--seeking employment in the city.

At day’s end, one still hadn’t found work, but learned that his friend was elated about signing up for the next rocket launch to outer space. “Why would you do that?” he asked.

“I had to make a choice,” the other mouse said. “It was either that or cancer research.”....

Falcons announce fall football schedule

Special to the Herald

This year's UT Permian Basin Football schedule features six home games and four first-time opponents. The Falcons will open Lone Star Conference play in week three after a pair of non-conference foes. Season ticket information will be announced in the near future.

Week 1 vs Southwest Baptist Bearcats
2021 Record: 4-7 | Last Meeting: September 4, 2021, W 24-16

The Bearcats come to the Permian Basin for the first time to open the year. Last year the Falcons went to Missouri and came away victorious after a last minute scheduling change brought on by COVID. The Bearcats went on to win four games including a 27-21 victory over Truman State who had been a victory over Truman polls. Quarterback Cooper Callis has won back-to-back Great Lakes Valley Conference Offensive Player of the Year Awards, after finishing in the top three nationally in passing yards, yards per game, and passing yards per game.

Week 2 vs Western Colorado Mountaineers
2021 Record: 10-2 | First Meeting

The Falcons welcome the Mountaineers who were Co-Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference Champions and reached the Division II playoffs in 2021. The Mountaineers made the postseason for the first time since 1997 after losing just once in the regular season, to Colorado School of Mines the eventual regional champion. It was the team's first winning season since 2016 and is looking for back-to-back winning seasons for the first time since 2001-02.

Week 3 vs Angelo State Rams
2021 Record: 11-3 | Last Meeting: October 16, 2021, L 14-34

The Rams went all the way to the Super Region IV finals in 2021. The Lone Star Conference's leading rushing offense and defense returns after team finished second in the league standings last year. The Falcons look for their first win in the series in the first game at UTPB since 2018 between the schools.

Week 4 at Western Oregon Wolves
2021 Record: 4-6 | First Meeting

The Falcons first road game is a trip to the Great Northwest against the Wolves. The Wolves will compete for their first LSC crown after a scheduling alliance between the league and the Great Northwest Athletic Conference allowed the three remaining GNAC football schools to play for the conference championship. Last season against LSC opposition, the Wolves went 1-1 including a home win over West Texas A&M.

Week 5 at West Texas A&M
2021 Record: 7-4 | Last Meeting: September 11, 2021, W 42-31

The Falcons head to Buffalo Stadium in Canyon for the first time in 2022 for what the Buffs have already announced as their homecoming game. The Falcons beat down the Buffs in 2022, leading by as many as 25 as the Falcons picked up their first victory in the series. The Buffs finished the season winners of five of their last six games, including an upset win over No. 15 Midwestern State to stay alive for the LSC title heading into the final week of play.

Week 6 vs Simon Fraser

2021 Record: 1-7 | First Meeting

The Falcons trip across the border was canceled due to COVID in 2021, but this time the Falcons welcome the lone NCAA team from Canada. Simon Fraser's lone win in 2021 came on the road against Montana State - Northern, a 30-3 final. The team is looking for their first winning season since 2008.

Week 7 at Texas A&M - Kingsville Javelinas
2021 Record: 5-5 | Last Meeting: November 6, 2021, L 22-29

The Falcons travel to Kingsville in the fall for the first time since 2018. These teams last met in Kingsville in the spring of 2021, where the Falcon defense dominated. The only score the Javelinas had was a safety after a goal line stand by the Falcons. Last season the Javelinas were better on the road than they were at home, going 3-2 versus 2-3.

Week 8 vs Midwestern State Mustangs
2021 Record: 7-3 | Last Meeting: November 13, 2021, L 30-36

Despite taking home the Lone Star Conference trophy in 2021, the Mustangs were left out of the NCAA Division II playoffs after a late season slide. The Mustangs narrowly escaped the Falcons in the 2021 season finale, 36-30, after the Falcons had the ball inside the red zone on the team's final possession. The Falcons welcome the Mustangs back to the Permian Basin for the first time since the spring of 2021 when they beat them on a two-point conversion in overtime to finish the spring undefeated.

Week 9 at Eastern New Mexico Greyhounds
2021 Record: 4-7 | Last Meeting: October, 23,

Barnes scores 25 in Kings' 2nd win over Rockets in 3 days

By JORDAN GODWIN

Associated Press

HOUSTON (AP) — Harrison Barnes scored 25 points, and the Sacramento Kings beat the Houston Rockets 122-117 on Friday night.

The Rockets and Kings were playing each other for the second time in three days following Sacramento's 121-118 win on Wednesday.

For Sacramento, Damian Jones had 17 points, 17 rebounds and six blocks, Donte DiVincenzo had 19, and Chimezie Metu had 18. Barnes made 10 of 16 from the field, including 4 of 6 from 3-point range.

Houston rookie Jalen Green scored a career-high 33 points and had six 3-pointers. He was coming off a 32-point night on Wednesday and topped 20 points for a fifth straight game.

Kevin Porter Jr. had 27 points and 11 assists for the Rockets, and Garrison Mathews had 22 points on 6 of 10 shooting from 3.

The Kings finished the third quarter trailing 91-86, but opened the fourth on an 8-0 run to take a 94-91 lead. Sacramento outscored Houston 36-26 in the fourth quarter.

Hot first-quarter shooting helped the Rockets to a 41-26 lead early and they led by as much as 19 points in the first half, but Sacramento came back to tie the game late in the second quarter.

Houston led 62-57 at halftime.

Tempers flared from the sideline throughout the game. Kings coach Alvin Gentry received a technical just 1:14 into the game after yelling at the officials. Rockets coach Stephen Silas received a technical later in the third quarter following a foul call against the Rockets.

TIP-INS

Kings: Sacramento was without De'Aaron Fox (right hand soreness), Domantas Sabonis (left knee contusion) and Richuan Holmes (personal). ... The Kings made 12 of 28 3-pointers for 42.9%.

UP NEXT

Rockets: Host Golden State on Sunday.

Porzingis scores 24 against Mavericks as Wizards win 135-103

By PATRICK STEVENS

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once introductions for the game against the Dallas Mavericks were complete Friday night, Kentavious Caldwell-Pope delivered a direct message to Washington Wizards teammate Kristaps Porzingis.

"We called up the huddle and I told him, 'KP, since they let you go, we're going to beat them up for you,'" Caldwell-Pope said. "That was the first thing I said to him, and we did exactly that."

Porzingis had 24 points and nine rebounds in his first game against his former team, helping Washington roll past Dallas 135-103.

Caldwell-Pope scored a season-high 35 points and Rui Hachimura added 21 for Washington, which won for the fourth time in five games despite being eliminated from playoff contention a day earlier.

Luka Doncic had 36 points, seven rebounds and six assists for Dallas, which fell a half-game behind Golden State for third place in the Western Conference. Jalen Brunson had 21 points for the Mavericks, who fell short of moving 20 games over .500 for the first time since their 2010-11 title season.

Dallas coach Jason Kidd was ejected when he was called for two technical fouls with 8:47 remaining and the Mavericks trailing 105-85.

"Tony (Brothers), he's thrown me out as a player and now he's thrown me out as a coach," Kidd said. "What I said to him was, 'Whose ball is it?' And he took that personal, unfortunately, and threw me out. It happens."

Washington acquired Porzingis in a Feb. 10 trade deadline deal for forward Davis Bertans and guard Spencer Dinwiddie. Porzingis averaged 20.0 points and 8.8 rebounds over parts of three seasons with the Mavericks.

"Everybody had my back today," Porzingis said. "They knew it was — I don't want to say it was a personal game, but it's always fun to compete against your former team."

Dinwiddie had eight points in 23 minutes in his first game against the Wizards since the deal, while Bertans played 10 scoreless minutes.

Washington's postseason hopes ended Thursday when Atlanta defeated Cleveland, the third time in four years it has missed the playoffs. But the Wizards wasted little time taking control against Dallas, as Caldwell-Pope scored the first five points to take a lead Washington never relinquished.

"He got going early," Wizards coach Wes Unseld Jr. said of Caldwell-Pope, who was 6 of 11 from 3-point range. "He didn't force the issue. He just took advantage of the shots that were presented to him. Once he sees a couple go in, now he's shooting into a big basket. He's had nights like that throughout his career."

"When you get hot like that, it's good to take a heat check."

The Wizards led 67-53 at the half and eventually extended their advantage to 26 after a 3-pointer by Porzingis made it 88-62. Dallas cut the deficit in half with a 16-3 run, but Washington then sealed it with a 21-7 burst that included Kidd's ejection to send Dallas to a loss two days after it locked up a playoff berth.

"Sometimes (when you) clinch, there's a time to relax, and I think we relaxed," Kidd said. "We didn't play very well. Luka scored the ball, but defensively we have to get back to the way things were before the (All-Star) break."

INJURIES

Dallas was without Gs Sterling Brown and Trey Burke, who are in the league's health and safety protocols. G Frank Ntilikina (sprained right ankle) had two points in three minutes after missing Wednesday's game at Cleveland.

Washington remained without F Kyle Kuzma (knee), who missed his eighth consecutive game.

UP NEXT

Mavericks: Continue a four-game road trip Sunday at Milwaukee.

Wizards: Play the first of three consecutive road games Sunday at Boston.

Palmer holds 2-shot lead after 2 rounds of Valero Texas Open

By TIM PRICE

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ryan Palmer shot a bogey-free round of 6-under 66 at the Valero Texas Open to lead by two shots over Kevin Chappell, Dylan Frittelli and Matt Kuchar after Friday's second round.

Palmer, at 10 under, surged into the lead with consecutive birdies mid-way through the back nine.

Chappell, the 2017 tournament winner, had the day's low round of 65. Frittelli also got away with no bogeys during his 66, and Kuchar shot 69 with four-straight birdies on the back.

Palmer's last Tour win came in 2019. He took the lead with a 5-foot birdie putt at the par-5 14th. At 15 he converted another birdie putt inside 10 feet.

"It's a golf course, if you get it off-line, you're going to struggle," Palmer said. "I was able to keep the ball in front of me. When I've missed fairways, I've gotten fortunate breaks, I think. So the weekend, it's a matter of just avoiding those big misses."

Hideki Matsuyama withdrew after nine holes Friday with a sore neck, leaving early ahead of his Masters title defense next week.

Defending champion Jordan Spieth was making a move, getting to 4-under for his round after a short birdie putt on his 14th hole.

He was in good shape for par at the next after chipping to three feet away— where he three-putted. The double-bogey put him on the projected cut line, ultimately making the weekend by two shots at 2-under.

It wasn't as good for some other notable names. Bryson DeChambeau triple bogeyed the first hole and missed the cut. Rory McIlroy failed to break par in his two rounds and missed the cut.

J.J. Spaun is in a group of players three shots back of Palmer. He led during the morning at 10-under when he dropped an 18-foot birdie at his 14th hole. He finished with three bogeys.

"I'm still in a good position — there's a lot of golf left," Spaun said. "It got kind of tough with the finish, and two bad swings made me make a couple bogeys. Still happy to have a shot."

Those joining Spaun at 7-under include U.S. Open champions Lucas Glover (66) and Gary Woodland (67), Charles Howell III (67) and Brendon Todd (69).

Crushing Cancer...

One outfit at a time

By AMANDA DUEFORAT
Contributing Writer

The morning was almost perfect and yet bittersweet. Members of Cancer Crushers Relay For Life team welcomed guests to the annual Fashion Show at The Courtyard. The annual event has served as a kick off for Relay For Life season, but this year, while the crowd was abundant, there were some vacant seats.

“This past year we had to say goodbye to some very important people – Beverly Grant, Vicky Stewart and Howard Stewart – not only were they special people in our lives, but they were great contributors and supports for Relay,” Sally Grant, one of the event organizers, said.

The fashion show has been taking place for the past few years, and this year was no disappointment. There were more than 30 models highlighting outfits provided by several local boutiques. This was the first year that men’s fashion was included through the addition of DL Clothing, Big Spring’s only men’s clothing store.

Models ranged from seven months old to adult, and all presented some fun spring and summer outfits to be added to the wardrobe.

“The Fashion Show was one of Beverly’s favorite events. We are thankful to all of those who turned out and helped make this year a success,” Grant said. “We had a true representation of a community coming together through the donations and monies raised at the event.”

During the event there was more than $800 raised to start off Relay season. Those attending enjoyed a brunch meal. A special guest speaker and cancer survivor, Serenity, shared her story. For the past several years Serenity and her family have been fighting cancer, and during the event they reported that she is cancer free.

“We want to continue Beverly Grant’s passion and continue to let people know about Relay For Life,” she said.

Those who would like to know more about Relay for Life in Howard County may reach out to any member of the Cancer Crusher team or Julie Alvarez. For the past couple of years, Howard County has been one of the largest fundraising efforts during campaign season.

“The fight against cancer is something that we all need to take part in. When we stop and think about it, we all have been impacted by cancer in our lives. Maybe not directly, but we know a family member, friend or co-worker who has traveled this journey,” Grant said. “Cancer is a word that nobody should have to hear, and with a unified effort and continued research, we are striving for the day that cancer no longer exists.”

New vehicles must average 40 mpg by 2026, up from 24 mpg

By TOM KRISHER

AP Auto Writer

DETROIT (AP) — New vehicles sold in the United States will have to travel an average of at least 40 miles per gallon of gasoline in 2026, up from about 24 mpg, under new federal rules unveiled Friday.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said its fuel economy requirements will undo a rollback of standards enacted under President Donald Trump. For the current model year, standards enacted under Trump require the fleet of new vehicles to get just over 24 miles per gallon in real-world driving. The new requirements increase gas mileage by 8% per year for model years 2024 and 2025 and 10% in the 2026 model year.

Agency officials say the requirements are the maximum that the industry can achieve over the time period and will reduce gasoline consumption by more than 220 billion gallons over the life of vehicles, compared with the Trump standards.

Transportation Secretary Pete Buttigieg, whose department includes the NHTSA, said the rules also will help strengthen national security by making the country less dependent on foreign oil and less vulnerable to volatile gasoline prices. Gasoline nationwide has spiked to an average of more than $4.22 per gallon, with much of the increase coming since Russia, a major oil producer, invaded Ukraine in late February. It cost $2.88 per gallon just a year ago, according to AAA.

Gas prices also have helped to fuel inflation to a 40-year high, eating up household budgets and hitting President Joe Biden’s approval ratings.

“Transportation is the second-largest cost for American families, only behind housing,” Buttigieg said. The new standards, he said, will help keep the U.S. more secure and preserve “the freedom of our country to chart its future without being subject to other countries and to the decisions that are being made in the boardrooms of energy companies.”

But auto dealers say more stringent requirements drive up prices and push people out of an already expensive new-car market.

Trump’s administration rolled back fuel economy standards, allowing them to rise 1.5% per year, which environmental groups said was inadequate to limit planet-warming greenhouse gas emissions that fuel climate change. The standards had been rising about 5% per year previously.

But the new standards won’t immediately match those adopted through 2025 under President Barack Obama. NHTSA officials said they will equal the Obama standards by 2025 and slightly exceed them for the 2026 model year.

The Obama-era standards automatically adjusted for changes in the type of vehicles people are buying.

When they were enacted in 2012, 51% of new vehicle sales were cars and 49% SUVs and trucks. Last year, 77% of new vehicle sales were SUVs and trucks, which generally are less efficient than cars.

Some environmental groups said the new requirements from NHTSA under Biden don’t go far enough to fight global warming. Others supported the new standards as a big step toward reducing emissions.

“Climate change has gotten much worse, but these rules only require automakers to reduce gas-guzzling slightly more than they agreed to cut nine years ago,” said Dan Becker, director of the Safe Climate Transport Center at the Center for Biological Diversity.

He said the final rule is about 2 mpg short of the strongest alternative that NHTSA considered.

Officials said that under the new standards, owners would save about $1,400 in gasoline costs during the lifetime of a 2029 model year vehicle. Carbon dioxide emissions would drop by 2.5 billion metric tons by 2050 under the standards, the NHTSA said.

Automakers are investing billions of dollars to develop and build electric vehicles but say government support is needed to get people to buy them. The companies want government tax credits to reduce prices as well as more money for EV charging stations to ease anxiety over running out of juice.

Stellantis, formerly Fiat Chrysler, said Friday it’s investing $35 billion on electric and hybrid vehicles and to become carbon neutral by 2038. “These aims are critical to a sustainable future, and are more likely to be realized with government support for a widespread EV recharging network, point-of-sale EV purchase incentives, and inducements to expand electric-vehicle manufacturing in the U.S.,” the company said in a statement.

The NHTSA sets fuel economy requirements, while the Environmental Protection Agency develops limits on greenhouse gas emissions.

Vegan twist on popular lunch sandwich

The bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich, commonly known as the BLT, is a classic. People who avoid meat for health or other reasons can enjoy the essence of a BLT in a wholesome sandwich full of tasty ingredients all their own.

A "Tempeh, Lettuce and Tomato Sandwich (TLT)" is a worthy stand-in for the traditional BLT. Toasted bread and tempeh add bite to the sandwich and tangy mustard gives it an extra kick. Try this recipe, courtesy of "The Contented Vegan" (Head of Zeus) by Peggy Brusseau.

Tempeh, Lettuce and Tomato Sandwich (TLT)
Makes 1 sandwich

1 tablespoon untoasted sesame oil

3 1/2 ounces tempeh, cut into slices no more than 1/2 inch thick

2 slices favorite bread

1 teaspoon extra virgin olive oil

1 teaspoon favorite mustard

2 lettuce leaves

1 tomato, sliced

Dash of tamari and/or hot sauce

Heat the oil in a frying pan (skillet) set over medium heat.

Add the tempeh slices to the pan and cook for about 7 minutes on each side, until they are golden brown, aromatic and with a hint of crispiness.

Meanwhile, toast the bread. Drizzle both pieces of toast with olive oil and then spread a thin layer of mustard onto each slice.

Arrange the lettuce and tomato on one of the slices, and top with the cooked tempeh.

Sprinkle a little tamari and/or hot sauce onto the hot tempeh.

Close the sandwich and serve hot.

low. West won with the queen and returned a club, dummy's queen losing to East's king. East then led the five of diamonds.
South would have gone down two had he taken a second diamond finesse. But, sensing what fate had in store for him, South went up with the ace and later lost a diamond to the king to finish down one — 50 points.
The bidding at the second table was far more spirited:
South West North East
2♠ Pass 3♦ Pass

South opened with a dubious strong two-bid and, as the bidding progressed, allowed his imagination to run wild. He hoped to find his partner with the ace of clubs and K-Q-J-x-x of diamonds, in which case a grand slam in spades would be virtually laydown.
North should have passed six spades, but he also got caught up in the spirit of things. West should have led a trump against seven spades, but instead led the king of diamonds. South won with the ace, drew trump, conceded a diamond to the queen and wound up down one — 50 points!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Today is Sunday, April 3, the 93rd day of 2022. There are 272 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 3, 1973, the first handheld portable telephone was demonstrated for reporters on a New York City street corner as Motorola executive Martin Cooper called Joel S. Engel of Bell Labs.

On this date:

In 1865, Union forces occupied the Confederate capital of Richmond, Virginia.

In 1882, outlaw Jesse James was shot to death in St. Joseph, Missouri, by Robert Ford, a member of James' gang.

In 1936, Bruno Hauptmann was electrocuted in Trenton, New Jersey, for the kidnap-murder of Charles Lindbergh Jr.

In 1942, during World War II, Japanese forces began their final assault on Bataan against American and Filipino troops who surrendered six days later; the capitulation was followed by the notorious Bataan Death March.

In 1944, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Smith v. Allwright, struck down a Democratic Party of Texas rule that allowed only white voters to participate in Democratic primaries.

In 1948, President Harry S. Truman signed the Marshall Plan, designed to help European allies rebuild after World War II and resist communism.

In 1968, civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. delivered what turned out to be his final speech, telling a rally of striking sanitation workers in Memphis, Tennessee, that "I've been to the mountaintop" and "seen the Promised Land. I may not get there with you. But I want you to know tonight that we, as a people, will get to the Promised Land!" (About 20 hours later, King was felled by an assassin's bullet at the Lorraine Motel.)

In 1974, deadly tornadoes began hitting wide parts of the South and Midwest before jumping across the border into Canada; more than 300 fatalities resulted from what became known as the Super Outbreak.

In 1978, at the Academy Awards, Woody Allen's "Annie Hall" was named best picture of 1977; its co-star, Diane Keaton, won best actress while Richard Dreyfuss was honored as best actor for "The Goodbye Girl."

In 1996, Unabomber Theodore Kaczynski (kah-ZIHN'-skee) was arrested at his remote Montana cabin.

In 2014, David Letterman announced during a taping of the "Late Show" on CBS that he would retire as host in 2015. (Stephen Colbert (kohl-BEHR') was named as his replacement a week later.)

In 2020, President Donald Trump announced new federal guidelines recommending that Americans wear face coverings when in public to help fight the spread of the coronavirus, but Trump immediately said he had no intention of following that advice himself; he said he could not envision himself covering his face while sitting in the Oval Office greeting world leaders.

Ten years ago: Mitt Romney tightened his grip on the Republican presidential nomination, sweeping primaries in Wisconsin, Maryland and Washington, D.C. In a speech to the annual meeting of The Associated Press, President Barack Obama accused Republican leaders of becoming so radical and rigid that even the late Ronald Reagan could not win a current GOP primary were he running. Baylor finished off an undefeated season with an 80-61 win over Notre Dame in the NCAA women's basketball championship game.

Five years ago: A divided Senate Judiciary Committee panel voted 11-9 along party lines to favorably recommend Supreme Court nominee Neil Gorsuch to the full Senate. A suicide bombing aboard a subway train in St. Petersburg, Russia, left 16 people dead and wounded more than 50; authorities identified the bomber as a 22-year old Kyrgyz-born Russian national. The NHL announced it would not participate in the 2018 Winter Olympics in South Korea. North Carolina scored the last eight points for a 71-65 win over Gonzaga and an NCAA title.

One year ago: Gonzaga beat UCLA 93-90, while Baylor roared to a 78-59 victory over Houston, to advance to the championship game of the NCAA basketball tournament, which would be won by Baylor.
