Howard College trustees approve Recover Howard tax abatement amendment

By ROGER CLINE

Herald Staff Writer

The Howard County Junior College District Board of Trustees approved an amendment to a tax abatement agreement with Recover Howard HOWARD LLC when it met Monday afternoon.

According to the agreement, Recover Howard will receive an abatement of 100 percent of that college's property taxes for the first year of its presence locally. The company will pay an additional 20 percent of taxes assessed by the college each year for five years – 20 percent the second year, 40 percent the third year, 60 perent the fourth year, and 80 percent the fifth year. After the five-year period, the company would begin paying 100 percent of the college's taxes as usual. The abatement was negotiated to incentivize the company for locating locally.

The modification approved by the board at Monday's meeting involved the starting date of the contract.

"What these folks discovered was, there are some supply chain issues in West Texas, and I think what really surprised them is, even getting dirt work contracted has proved to be more difficult than they thought it would be, and that's what changed the dates," said Big Spring Economic Development Corporation Director Mark Willis. "They thought they could come in and get this stuff done a lot faster. They didn't realize that we have the same issues that every place else has."

According to the new schedule, construction will begin on the project by Dec. 31, 2023, while start of commercial activity by the company will start by March 31, 2024.

At the start of the meeting following the invocation and recognition of guests, the board approved Routine Matters, including minutes of the May 23 regular meeting; financials for May; monthly reports of auxiliary services; personnel matters, and the internal audit report.

In New Business, College President Dr. Cheryl Sparks announced that there a small spike in COVID-19 numbers at the college, but numbers are still "...quite

"We are continuing to operate under yellow alert status, and we are preparing for the Fall semester," she said. Following the COVID-19 update, the board approved the change to the agreement with Recover Howard LLC mentioned earlier. Howard College Vice-President Amy

Burchett reported that the school has received an Upward Bound grant from the U.S. Department of Education. The grant is designed to increase high school and college graduation rates.

County approves bid process for Indigent Health Care program pharmaceuticals

By PATRICK GONZALES

Herald Sports Writer

The Howard County Commissioners Court held a regular meeting Monday to go over standard items of business. Howard County Judge Kathryn Wiseman started the meeting with a prayer, followed by the U.S. and Texas pledges. Following the prayer and pledges, Judge Wiseman announced that both Commissioner Jimmie Long (Precinct 3) and Commissioner John Cline (Precinct 4) were absent, but that the court still had a quorum.

Judge Wiseman announced that she did not have any items of business for this meeting, which led her to open the floor for public comment. There was no public comment as no one chose to address the court.

Howard County Treasurer Sharon Adams then presented the court with personnel considerations, the treasurer's monthly report for May 2022, and the monthly payroll report for June 2022. All items that were presented by Adams were unanimously approved by the commissioners court.

Howard County Auditor Jackie Olson then presented her items of business, which included the approval of invoices, approval of requisitions, and the monthly financial report. The invoices were unanimously approved by the commissioners court, with the exception of the Bayhill Roadway Products invoice.

Commissioner Craig Bailey (Precinct

2) owns Bayhill, and abstained from the vote. With Long and Cline's absence, Bailey's abstention left the court with no quorum for the vote on Bayhill's invoice, a situation that arose at the previous Commissioners' meeting as well. Bailey made the motion to approve all invoices with the exception of the Bayhill Roadway Products invoice, which was approved.

Following after Olson, Esther Hilario with the Howard County Indigent Health Care Program, approached the court for the next item of business. Speaking on behalf of JoAnn Valle, Director of the Howard County Indigent Health Care Program, Hilario asked the court for

Obituaries

John Wayne Minnick

John was born in Big Spring, Texas, to John Edwin Minnick Jr. and Sharon Diane (Minnick) Marcum. John went to Lee High School in Midland where he met the love of his life, Tamara Lorraine Johnson. John and Tamara were high school sweethearts who met in the Mighty Rebel Band and both played cornet. John greatly enjoyed his time as a member of the Mighty Rebel Band. During his senior year the band was invited to march in the 104th Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif. After high school, John and Tamara were married and went on to enjoy many adventures together that included John's love of fishing and shooting all types of guns. John had a huge heart for all animals and loved dogs, horses, and especially his beloved cats, Jasmine and Bam Bam. There was not an animal that he could not befriend. Cooking was also a passion of John's and he was always wanting to create and try new recipes. John loved the mountains of southern New Mexico. The Cloudcroft and Ruidoso areas were visited frequently for camping trips. John loved history and he was greatly involved in studying the Civil War as well as World War II. He also loved Star Wars and was involved in the 501st Legion which is a nonprofit charity-based costuming group. The Texas ties and he enjoyed attending dressed as a pirate captain. In the last three years, the love of hunting became another passion that John enjoyed while visiting his aunt's ranch in Llano. John had a huge heart and was a very caring person. His loyalty to his family and close friends was seen in how deeply he cared for them. John had a charitable heart as he would do anything for someone in need. He was deeply devoted to his wife of almost 24 years and they did most everything together. John was a devoted Christian and his faith in the Lord was a guiding factor throughout his life.

John is survived by his wife, Tamara; his mother, Sharon Marcum and husband, David; his father, Edwin Minnick; his father-in-law and mother-inlaw, Stephen and Bonnie Johnson; his aunt, Sheila McKinney and husband, Gary; and his uncle, Alan Roman and wife, Cathey. He is survived by his cousins, Les Simpson and wife, Crystal, Jeffrey Roman and wife, Kristen, and Jennifer Jobe and husband, Jason. John is also survived by two stepbrothers, Josh and Stephen Marcum; his brotherin-law, Stephen Johnson II; and sister-in-law, Michelle Johnson.

John is preceded in death by his infant brother, Michael Minnick; stepmother, Donna Minnick; and grandparents, John and Lorene Minnick of Midland and Bobby and Merle Roman of Midland. The family would like to express their gratitude to Midland EMS Fire and Rescue, Midland PD, and the Memorial Hospital doctors, nurses, and staff. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations made be made in John's name to the Lone Star Animal Sanctuary and The Make A Wish Foundation.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley Pickle & Welch Funeral Home & Crematory of Midland. Online condolences may be made at www. npwelch.com.

Marlin Briscoe, 1st Black starting QB in

By CLIFF BRUNT

AP Sports Writer

Marlin Briscoe, who became the first Black starting quarterback in the American Football League more than 50 years ago, died Monday. He was 76. His daughter, Angela Marriott, told The Associated Press that Briscoe died of pneumonia at a hospital in Norwalk, California. He had been hospitalized with circulation issues in his legs.

Briscoe, an Omaha, Nebraska, native, was a star quarterback for Omaha University before the Denver Broncos drafted him as a cornerback in the 14th round in 1968. Briscoe told the team he'd return home to become a teacher if he couldn't get a tryout at quarterback. Denver gave him a chance, and the 5-foot-10 dynamo nicknamed "The Magician" nearly rallied the Broncos to victory as a reserve against the Boston Patriots on Sept. 29. He earned the historic first

"He's made an immense contribution to the sport," Marriott said. "I hope that he continues to get recognized for the contributions that he made. He was so proud of that achievement."

Briscoe started five games that season. He was runner-up for AFL rookie of the year after passing for 1,589 yards and 14 touchdowns and rushing for 308 yards and three scores.

Denver didn't give Briscoe a chance to compete for the quarterback job in 1969 and did not offer an explanation, so Briscoe asked to be released.

Booker Edgerson, a Buffalo Bills cornerback in 1968, recalls Briscoe passing for 335 yards and four touchdowns in a 34-32 Denver win. Edgerson, a former AFL All-Star and member of the Bills' Wall of Fame, believes Briscoe could have been a Hall of Fame quarterback if not for racism. Edgerson recalls Briscoe telling him he didn't feel the Broncos were ready to fully commit to a Black

"He would have been one of the top quarterbacks that they'd be talking about right now," Edgerson said. "He would've been another ... he would have been in there before Warren Moon.'

Briscoe switched to receiver and became Edgerson's teammate in Buffalo the next year. James Harris was Briscoe's roommate with the Bills in 1969, and Briscoe helped Harris become the first Black quarterback in the AFL to open a season as a starter.

AFL, dies at 76

"It was at the time when Black quarterbacks were being denied, so you tried to make sure you were best prepared for the opportunity when it came," Harris said. "I was a lot better off because Briscoe was my roommate."

In 1974, Harris played for the Los Angeles Rams and became the first Black quarterback to win an NFL playoff game. He also was Pro Bowl MVP that sea-Meanwhile, Briscoe earned a trip to the Pro Bowl as a receiver for Buffalo in 1970 and won two Super Bowls as a receiver with the Miami Dolphins. He was on the undefeated 1972 Dolphins team.

For all he achieved, Briscoe never forgot the fact that he lost his starting job in Denver with no chance to earn it back.

"It bothered him," Harris said. "Although he made the switch, he was disappointed. In order to still accomplish what he did under those circumstances - frustrated, disappointed - to be focused enough to be a high achiever at another position took a special makeup, a special guy."

Briscoe was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 2016, and the Broncos named a diversity coaching fellowship in his honor before the 2021

Johnny Rodgers, who won the Heisman Trophy as a receiver at Nebraska in 1972, said he and his friends grew up looking up to Briscoe, baseball Hall of Famer Bob Gibson and Pro Football Hall of Famer Gale Sayers, all of whom were from Omaha. Gibson and Sayers both died in 2020.

"We did know them, and because we did see them going further, it gave us hope that we could go further, too," Rodgers said. "They paved the way."

Well after his playing days, Briscoe remained outspoken about racial injustice. He was proud to have moved the needle in 1968, but he told The Associated Press in 2018 he was disappointed that many strides made in his day had been lost.

"I grew up in the '50s and the '60s, when all that stuff was rampant, but you knew where you stood," Briscoe said. "Today, you thought that all those attitudes were nonexistent or filtered away to some degree, but with the Trumpisms, his philosophy has brought out of the woodwork that old-time thought process. That's scary — it really is."

Garver, Calhoun power Rangers to 10-4 win over Royals

By DAVID SMALE

Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mitch Garver and Kole Calhoun each had two hits, two runs and two RBIs, leading the Texas Rangers to a 10-4 win over the Kansas City Royals on Monday night.

Garver's two RBIs came on his eighth homer of the season in the fifth inning as the Rangers won for the third straight season on manager Chris Woodward's birthday.

"I asked for double-digits and they got it for me," Woodward said. "Our team is so talented ... I know hitting is hard. I was a hitter and I know how hard it is."

Every Rangers starter except Marcus Semien had at least one hit, and every starter but Charlie Culberson scored at least one run.

"That's the identity that we have," Woodward said. "We'd love for that to be the identity we have every night. We take a lot of pride in having a 1-9 approach. It's got to be every guy in the lineup. Not that everybody is going to get a hit or score a run every night, but everybody has got to contribute."

Martin Perez (6-2) was shaky early but settled in, allowing four runs on seven hits in the win. He walked two and struck out six.

"That's part of the game," Perez said. "I never lost my focus. I knew we were going to score a lot of runs, so I just wanted to keep us in the game. When they scored four runs, I said, 'Stop it here."

Kris Bubic (1-5) took the loss. He allowed seven runs, five earned, in 4 2/3 innings.

Bobby Witt Jr. drove in Whit Merrifield on a fielder's choice to give the Royals the lead in the first inning. Merrifield and Andrew Benintendi reached on infield singles to open the inning.

The Rangers answered with four in the second, with one of the runs unearned. The Rangers saw their first six batters reach safely. A walk to Nathaniel Lowe forced in the first run, followed by a two-run single by Leody Taveras. The final run scored on a groundout.

The lead didn't last long as the Royals scored three with two outs in the bottom of the second, tying the score at 4, on Merrifield's two-run double and Benintendi's single.

"It was a little frustrating," Woodward said. "Those balls just missed our gloves and were just out of reach. Toward the end of the second inning (Perez) got hit hard. But he does a good job and goes six innings after that. That's what aces do."

The Rangers got another unearned run in the fourth. Taveras rolled a single up the line and Bubic threw it over Hunter Dozier's head at first, sending Taveras to second. He went to third on a wild pitch and scored an unearned run on a sacrifice fly.

Garver put the Rangers up by three runs again with a two-run blast in the fifth. He launched a 3-0 pitch into the bullpen in left field.

The Rangers blew it open in the sixth, adding three more runs. Adolis Garcia doubled home one run and Calhoun singled home two more to make it 10-4.

TRANSACTIONS

The Royals traded 1B Carlos Santana and cash considerations to the Seattle Mariners for two pitching prospects. The Royals received RHP Wyatt Mills and RHP William Fleming. Mills was placed on the 40-man roster and was optioned to Triple-A Omaha. Fleming was assigned to High-A Quad Cities. The Royals selected 1B Vinnie Pasquantino from Omaha, who will make his major league debut when he sees his first action. To make room on the 40-man roster, the Royals designated RHP Ronald Bolanos for assignment.

By JIMMY GOLEN AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Growing up as the son of a major league ballplayer, Terry Francona knew the rules: "Talk only when spoken to, or I'd be

When Francona became a big league manager and his players would bring their kids around, he ran a more hospitable clubhouse.

"There used to be a big sign that said 'No kids,' or whatever," said Francona, who followed his father, Tito, to the majors and is now the Cleveland Guardians' manager. "My rule was: You can come in, but you've got to come in and say 'Hello' to me."

Major league clubhouses are more welcoming to the children of players these days — and not just to toddlers raiding the bubble gum bin. Some of those tykes turn out to big league ballplayers themselves.

In all, more than two dozen major league offspring are on AL or NL rosters this year. The Blue Jays alone have three, the sons of Hall of Famers Craig Biggio (Cavan) and Vladimir Guerrero (Vlad Jr.) and Bo Bichette. whose father, Dante, was a four-time

All-Star with the Rockies.

"Everything I know about baseball, I learned from him," said the younger Bichette, whose dad was the Blue Jays' hitting coach before he stepped down so he could work with his son during the lockout.

"I was super grateful for my dad," he said. "But at the same time, just wanting to be myself out there. Play as hard as I can. Not necessarily make a name for myself, but just be my own player."

With a boost from genetics, access to good coaching and equipment and certainly a little name recognition, too — major league players' offspring have long followed in their dads' spike marks.

According to the Baseball Almanac, 252 sons of major leaguers have made it on their own, from Cubs left-hander Jack Doscher in 1903 to Roger Clemens' son Kody, who made his debut with the Tigers last month.

Along the way have been superstar fathers with forgettable sons — no offense, Pete Rose Jr., aka "The Hit Prince" — and kids who surpassed their dads' careers, including Barry Bonds and Ken Griffey Jr.

"I was certainly proud of my family, and what my brothers or dad or grandpa were able to do in their careers," said former infielder and current Yankees manager Aaron Boone. "But the pressure I had was the guy 60 feet, 6 inches away, and that's how I always approached it. Nothing was going to get in the way of that."

Boone and his brother Bret are the sons and grandsons of major leaguers; Bret's son Jake was drafted but hasn't yet made it as the first fourthgeneration big leaguer. (Gus Bell's great-grandson Luke, the nephew of Reds manager David Bell, is also in the running.) And it's not just baseball: Arch Manning, the grandson of Hall of Famer

Archie and the nephew of Peyton and

Eli, is the top-ranked college football recruit coming out of high school. The NBA champion Golden State Warriors had four players whose fathers played in the league: Stephen Curry, Klay Thompson, Gary Payton

For all of them, being a second-generation professional athlete has its

II and Andrew Wiggins.

After Kody Clemens was called up for the first time, dad's old teammates Derek Jeter and Jeff Bagwell texted to offer advice. Francona said he would ride home from the ballpark in the backseat of the car while his father and Expos reliever Claude Raymond would talk pitching.

"I think I was like the only 10-yearold who knew you pitched up and in, down and away," Francona said. "I just listened to everything. Probably too much."

Cavan Biggio said he inherited a passion for the game from his father. But for the most part, just being around professional athletes was an education. "Seeing how they go about their business and whatnot, I was able to see that as a young kid," he said. "Growing up and being able to see at the highest level what it's supposed to look like, I feel that gave me a little bit of an advantage." Teams seem to relish the connection, with the Blue Jays scheduling a "Vlad and Dad" bobblehead later this season that has both Guerreros on one pedestal. Clemens was given the

No. 21 that his father wore for most

Junior Circuit: Big league sons making own names in majors of a career in which he won a record seven Cy Young Awards; three gen> erations of Bells wore No. 25. But mostly, the kids try to avoid > comparisons. "I'm trying to create my own career path here," said Clemens, whose only pitching appearance was a mop-up role in a blowout. "We always say that I'm glad I'm a hitter, not a pitcher, so I don't have to live up to what he did.

> Half a career as his is unbelievable." The sons of Red Sox players Pedro Martinez, David Ortiz, Manny Ramirez and Keith Foulke — all members of the team that won the World Series in 2004 — are playing together on a summer league team outside of Boston. (Jaden Sheffield, whose father, Gary, played on the rival Yankees that year, is also on the team of college players hoping to attract the attention of pro scouts.)

> Francona managed the Red Sox to their first championship in 86 years that season. Told that the offspring of some of his best players — and biggest clubhouse characters — were all on the Brockton Rox, he shook his head, chuckled and said "Gawd."

"I can remember when D'Angelo (Ortiz) would pop his head in, he and Victor Martinez's son, they would pop in their head every day," Francona said of the boy who is now a 6-foot-2, 200-pound 17-year-old who batted .351 for Miami-Dade High School this spring.

"They would come in, sit on the couch all excited," Francona said. "Now it makes me feel really old."

East

The impetuous player who plays first and thinks later must occasionally pay for his exuberance. Bridge is not the kind of game you can play impulsively and expect to get the best results. There are simply too many different hands and situations where relying entirely on past experience may not guide you to the right bid or play.

Take this deal where it would be very easy to go wrong. Let's say you're East and that your partne leads the ace and another club to your king.

It is not difficult to recognize that West started with the doubleton ace of clubs and that you can give him a ruff. But if your thinking stops right there and you impulsively return a club, declarer make the contract, losing only two clubs a club ruff, a spade and a diamond

While you cannot know exactly what South's trump holding is, you should conclude that if he has the K-Q of spades, your side will finish with no more than five tricks if you return a club at trick three. How ever, you should also see that there' a real chance of stopping the con tract if you play the ace and another diamond instead of a club at trick

If you do this, South can do no better than lead a trump at trick five, which you take with the ace Now you give your partner a club ruff, and he reciprocates by giving you a diamond ruff to put the con tract down one.

You can then "apologize" to you partner for having failed to give him a club ruff earlier.

Today is Wednesday, June 29, the 180th day of 2022. There are 185 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 29, 1613, London's original Globe Theatre, where many of Shakespeare's plays were performed, was destroyed by a fire sparked by a cannon shot during a performance of "Henry VIII."

On this date:

In 1520, Montezuma II, the ninth and last emperor of the Aztecs, died in Tenochtitlan (tay-nohch-TEET'lahn) under unclear circumstances (some say he was killed by his own subjects; others, by the Spanish).

In 1767, Britain approved the Townshend Revenue Act, which imposed import duties on glass, paint, oil, lead, paper and tea shipped to the American colonies. (Colonists bitterly protested, prompting Parliament to repeal

In 1776, the Virginia state constitution was adopted, and Patrick Henry was made governor.

In 1927, the first trans-Pacific airplane flight was completed as U.S. Army Air Corps Lt. Lester J. Maitland and Lt. Albert F. Hegenberger arrived at Wheeler Field in Hawaii aboard the Bird of Paradise, an Atlantic-Fokker C-2, after flying 2,400 miles from Oakland, California, in 25 hours, 50 minutes.

In 1946, authorities in British-ruled Palestine arrested more than 2,700 Jews in an attempt to stamp out extremists.

In 1967, Jerusalem was reunified as Israel removed barricades separating the Old City from the Israeli sector.

In 1970, the United States ended a twomonth military offensive into Cambodia.

In 1972, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a trio of death sentences, saying the imposed constituted cruel and unusual punishment. (The ruling prompted states to effectively impose a moratorium on executions until their capital punishment laws could be revised.)

In 1978, actor Bob Crane of "Hogan's Heroes" fame was found bludgeoned to death in an apartment in Scottsdale, Arizona, where he was appearing in a play; he was 49.

In 2006, the Supreme Court ruled, 5-3, that President George W. Bush's plan to try Guantanamo Bay detainees in military tribunals violated U.S. and international law.

In 2009, disgraced financier Bernard Madoff received a 150-year sentence for his multibillion-dollar fraud. (Madoff died in prison in April 2021.)

In 2018, the Annapolis Capital Gazette newspaper in Maryland kept its promise to put out the day's paper, despite the shooting deaths of five people in its newsroom a day earlier.

Ten years ago: A day after the House voted to find Attorney General Eric Holder in contempt of Congress, the Justice Department said Holder's decision to withhold information about a bungled gun-tracking operation from Congress did not constitute a crime. The younger brother and business partner of disgraced financier Bernard Madoff pleaded guilty to charges of doctoring documents, but Peter Madoff insisted he knew nothing about his brother's massive Ponzi scheme. (Peter Madoff was later sentenced to 10 years in prison; he was released from home confinement in August 2020.) The U.S. Anti-Doping Agency filed formal charges against Lance Armstrong, accusing the seven-time Tour de France winner of using performance-enhancing drugs throughout the best years of his career. (The USADA ended up stripping Armstrong of all his Tour de France titles and issued a lifetime ban from cycling.)

WEDBESDAY JUNE 29, 2022

Feels of a Fresh Moon Cycle

Somewhere in the world, people are meeting for the first time and taking in strong impressions. Someone is falling in love; someone's heart is breaking; someone is elated with good news; someone is relaxing with great relief. A fresh wave of feeling accompanies these early days of the new moon cycle in the first water sign of the zodiac.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You'll review past moves to see what worked and didn't. This is a different energy from the energy of regret. Don't bother with regret. The past is a picture with a million framing options. Choose one you can live with and keep TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Games are just problems in a fun format. You'll turn a problem into a game with but a few tricks, including a playful attitude and the addition of novel criteria. You'll land on a solution and secure an ally, too.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). What's being communicated is not the words that are said, rather it's the message that is embodied and acted on. You can get clues about a person's intention from conversation, but it's the events that follow that reveal the truth.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Altruism involves giving what you have to give, not giving until the others are dependent on you or until you are in a precarious and needy position. You'll set limits that serve the best interest of all.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). When you extend a secret generosity, you won't only be uncredited but you won't be there to see how others react. Just know they'll love it. It will delight them. To be generous is kind. To be generous anonymously is noble.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You've known people to tell you what they want while being entirely unaware of what they need. Sometimes it takes an intuitive other to notice. It is more helpful to speak to needs than want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Kindred spirits will be drawn to the same thing. The only thing that can get in the way is people trying to be cool. Go the opposite way. You'll find out more because you open up, start conversations and ask questions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Trustworthy people are willing to earn your trust over time. They will not rush you or be pushy, nor will they lean on you emotionally. They will not take anything from you without a fair exchange.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You don't prioritize luxury as highly as some, but you'll admire the ideas and craftsmanship that goes into a beautiful thing. It's one thing to appreciate and quite another to buy, which will be a matter of deliberation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). A disciplined investor tests the market before going all in, which is even more crucial in nonfinancial matters. You've much to invest of your heart, time, creativity and hopes. Choose two. If those pay, double down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Someone makes your responsibility feel more meaningful yet lighter. You need more of this energy in your life -- either a bigger dose of this person or more people like this in your world.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). As you choose to see people as interesting, they will become more so. The fact that you have to do this consciously points to less than compelling environs. Make the most of it while considering travel.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 29). Your personal life finds a rhythm of deep satisfaction; what eluded you in your early years finally falls firmly into your grasp. More highlights include an eating style that gives you increased vitality, nights spent in an entirely new landscape and a message you send that helps someone on the other side of the world. Libra and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 10, 7, 18, 5 and

PROFILES: CELEBRITY With over a hundred film credits, Gary Busey has been known to play a lunatic or two on screen, true to the name of his ruling luminary. In folklore, Luna causes mysterious behaviors -- ah, luna-cy! With four luminaries in moon-ruled Cancer, Busey gets a big dose of this mysterious, complex, highly artistic, soulful and ever-changing energy. Listen for his voicing of John C. Calhoun in the documentary "The Gettysburg Address."

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes.

The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
