BSISD to set tax rate approval election in special meeting Monday

By ROGER CLINE
 Managing Editor

In a special meeting Monday, the Big Spring ISD board of trustees will consider calling an election to ratify its approved property tax rate for the 2022-23 fiscal year. The meeting will be at 5:15 p.m. Monday in the Board Room at Big Spring High School, 707 E. 11th Place.

The proposed tax rate, approved at the most recent regular school board meeting Aug. 12, is $0.9609 per $100 valuation, including a Maintenance and Operations rate of $0.8846 per $100 and an Interest and Sinking rate of $0.0763 per $100.

The rate exceeds the No-New-Revenue rate of $0.729981 per $100; that is, the rate required to bring the same amount of revenue into the district's coffers as it raised this year. Although the new tax will bring in more money for BSISD, the rate is less than that paid by district residents this year, which was $1.016 per $100 valuation. This year's $0.9609 is $0.0551 less than that.

"That's not a fair comparison, because this year, our values went up a billion dollars," BSISD Superintendent Jay McWilliams said. "We're bringing in a whole lot more money than we did last year. So yeah, that number's going to go down. But that is not your tax rate. Your tax rate, for the fifth year in a row, is going down."

Ordering the election is the only substantive item on Monday night's agenda, although it will be preceded by a time for public comment.

You Asked... "How can I learn better?"

The short answer is to Maximize Your Time. Some slightly longer answers on how to Maximize Your Time are:

1. Budget how long it will take you to start and finish an assignment or task and then stick to your budget. Taking twice the time needed to start and finish a project does not make it twice as good and now you don't have that wasted time to do other important things. Time is your most precious commodity.
2. Look at every task and ask yourself, "Is it important?" If it's not important, don't do it. If you hesitate, then the answer is also, "No! It's not important."
3. Do important things before they become urgent. Urgent-important things demand more resources.
4. Get up early and study then while your brain is fresh. Studies have proven that people retain more information this way.
5. Avoid distractions and the people who cause them. When you can't avoid them, learn how to ignore them.
6. Study until you feel your brain starting to drift and then do something physical and productive. For example, get up early, read, take a shower, read, prepare some food, read, take out the trash, read, go for a walk, read... You do not retain much if you are trying to force it in. Staying up late and cramming does not work and actually has negative results.
7. Do it now and procrastinate later. Start the assignments as soon as they are given. Start by making a budget (a task list complete with estimated times to complete each subtask). Set your deadline for the assignment sooner than the professor's due date.
8. Wrap your brain around the fact that you have more than 100 waking hours each week. Entertainment is important, but make it quality entertainment and not bulk mindless dribble. The people who make entertainment, design it to hook you, pull you in, and keep you there. Don't let them win. Set aside a few hours each week to entertain yourself with quality and then stick to your budget.

COL. ALLEN MORRIS

9. When you look at anyone who has been successful at anything, you will see that s/he knew how to Focus. Develop this one skill and everything else will fall into place.

10. Do not spend a moment of your time working at a job for things that you want but don't really need. Focus on getting all of the education that you need now to support your goals beyond graduation. When you do this, you will have more things that you want once you are gainfully employed.

11. Avoid drugs, alcohol, sugar, over-sleeping, nicotine, and personal relationships that distract you. If the other person is not supporting your efforts at developing yourself, then that person is not for you. You are better off alone than with a person who consumes your time needlessly, and

12. Don't take on debt that will distract you. Sure, a puppy or a kitten might seem like a nice thing to have, but it can be a very costly thing while you are in school. Don't buy that expensive anything when you really don't even need it. Learn to recognize the difference between needing something, really needing it, and just wanting it. Focus now and you will have much better things and experiences later.

Discuss all of these points with your study group and your Board of Directors. Your board consists of those who care the most about you, your future, and your success there.

A Moment in History A Big Spring Dynasty is Born: Fishers, Part 2

Bunette "Nettie" Kaufman Fisher

William Fisher

Joseph Fisher

Anna "Annie" Kaufman Fisher

By TAMMY SCHRECENGOST
 Heritage Museum of Big Spring

Once Joseph's divorce from Lillie was final, he packed up little Lester and returned to Sanford Indiana to visit his brother William and his wife Nettie. Nettie had a younger sister named Anna Kaufman. Joseph didn't waste any time, he and Anna married on November 14, 1883. Anna was the same age as Lillie Fisher but she appeared to be more mature and ready for the duties of a faithful wife and mother. The two brothers, Joseph, and William and the two sister wives, Nettie and Anna boarded the train on the long journey back to Big Spring. William and Nettie had their son Bernard age 2 and Joseph had Lester who was 4 months younger than Bernard.

William and Joseph were forming a partnership, The J.&W. Fisher Store was born. This partnership helped relieve Joseph substantially. He now had help in his younger brother. The stress of an unfaithful wife, raising a baby alone, and building a new business was taking a toll on Joseph's health.

In addition to building the business, Joseph and William continued investing in properties as their families grew.

On September 17, 1885, Anna gave birth to Albert Montefier. He was born in the tent they were living in, right next to a tent that housed saddles and tack. Albert always claimed to have been born in a manger!

During the same year, the Fishers enlisted a gentleman to bring stone from Mitchell County to build a two-story store located at 112 Main. Both couples lived on the second floor of the mercantile until their two homes were completed at 107 and 109 Scurry Street.

As soon as they moved into their

Foot found in Yellowstone hot spring linked to July death

By AMY BETH HANSON and THOMAS PEIPERT Associated Press

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Part of a human foot found in a shoe floating in a hot spring in Yellowstone National Park earlier this week is believed to be linked the death of a person last month, park officials said Friday.

The July 31 death is being investigated but officials do not suspect foul play, park officials said in a statement. The statement did not disclose details about how the death is believed to have happened, identify the person who died or say why officials do not suspect foul play.

The shoe was recovered from the park's Abyss Pool on Tuesday after an employee spotted it, park officials said.

News of that discovery led a man from Maryland to contact the National Park Service to report that he and his family had spotted a shoe, floating sole up, in the hot spring on the morning of Aug. 11.

Chris Quinn of Pasadena, Maryland, said in an interview that he sent a photo of the shoe to the park service.

Park spokesperson Linda Veress said in an email that officials could not confirm whether the shoe that was found was the same type of shoe

Abyss Pool, west of the West Thumb area of Yellowstone Lake, is 53 feet (16 meters) deep and the temperature is about 140 degrees Fahrenheit (60 Celsius), park officials said.

Park visitors are warned to stay on the boardwalks and trails in thermal areas, where some of the pools and springs have a thin, breakable crust covering the scalding and sometimes acidic water.

At least 22 people are known to have died from hot spring-related injuries in and around the 3,471-square-mile (9,000 square kilometer) national park since 1890, park officials have said.

The most recent death happened in June 2016 when a man from Portland, Oregon, left a boardwalk in the the park's Norris Geyser Basin, slipped on gravel and fell into a boiling, acidic spring. No significant human remains were recovered.

The nation's first national park has drawn more than 4 million visitors annually in recent years, with the exception of 2020, when it was briefly closed due to the pandemic.

Historic flooding forced the closure of the entire park for part of June. The park's northern and northeastern entrances are still closed to vehicles.

newly built home on Scurry, William's wife Nettie gave birth to a son Joye in 1887. Then Anna gave birth to daughter Zadee on April 9, 1888. William and Nettie had another child, Irma who was born on January 2, 1897.

Together, Joseph and William continued to build a successful business, serving a vast trade territory around Howard County. Customers came from more than 100 miles in all directions, and many were from central New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle. Among their customers was Col. C.C. Slaughter, of the Long S ranch empire. Slaughter ranch sprawled northwest from Big Spring to Cochran and Hockley Counties with headquarters maintained roughly 20 miles north of Big Spring at "German Springs." Slaughter would send his freight wagons for supplies, each one pulled by 16 yokes of oxen. Each freight wagon held the equivalent of a railroad box car. Sometimes it would take a month to deliver all the supplies to his various headquarters. The average ranchman's order often ran as high as $500.00 which then was a fortune. There would often be wagons that were pulled by oxen, lined up on Front Street. They were loaded at night and left unprotected until morning. Nothing was ever stolen. The Fisher slogan was "J&W Fisher, The Store that Always Welcomes You and The Store that carries everything"

The Fishers had built their inventory to include almost anything anyone would need to survive on the plains. Leather goods of all types, coal, seed, feed, horses, mules, barbed wire, tools, hardware, lamps rifles, ammunition, stoves, clothing, and even hides. The drought of 1886-87 was so bad that cows were worth more dead than alive. Fishers paid $2 for a good "green hide", as opposed to a live cow that would bring only a dollar a head. Many hides were shipped to tanneries in New England from the Fisher loading docks. Pioneer, W.T. Roberts claimed to be the first customer in Fisher Store. He purchased a spade, and the second pioneer of Big Spring, Dave Rhoton, made the second purchase in the new store, of a pair of trousers.

Bernard Fisher recalled the first-time thieves tried breaking into the wood frame building. "The floor was high off the ground and one night some men crawled under the store with an auger and bit. They began boring a hole in the floor. They struck a vinegar barrel and by the time the bit pierced the barrel its contents emptied on the would-be robbers as they called it quits." The first delivery truck for the store was a pushcart. Later, they bought a wagon for deliveries and Will Crawford was the driver.

The railroad and ranchers paid their employees once a month, so there was a need to have large sums of money available to cash employees checks. During those paydays, the Fisher store stayed open until midnight, as many people filled their wagons with supplies, spent the night in town and left for their ranch homes at early light.

The J.&W. Fisher Store had a large vault that served as Big Spring's first bank for several years, or at least until the First Bank of West Texas was established.

On a warm summer Sunday morning, Joseph and Anna locked the door to the old store and started down the alley on Main to their home on Scurry Street. It was around 1:30 am and the streets were dark. Joseph told the story to his son Albert, "You could hear yourself breath as a man came out of the shadows. He yelled to Anna, "Give me your purse!" Joseph answered "Son, there is a lady in your presence." They then heard the man place his pistol in his scabbard and say, "pardon me mam." As the Fishers finally reached their home safely, they recounted the money that was still in Anna's handbag. All $1500 was accounted for. Joseph concluded that men of the old west respected ladies.

Many ranchers settled their accounts whenever they sold their livestock. No interest was ever charged, as the customers good will was worth more than the percent of interest. Everything in the store had a firm set price. There was no haggling allowed.

During the flood of 1902, there was 11 foot of water covering the railroad tracks that ran along the Beals Creek and adjacent to the Fisher store. Unfortunately, a train car of salt had just arrived the day of the flood and a carload of green hides awaited the outbound train. All was destroyed, not everything was pure profit for the Fishers all the time. The Fisher's had a livery stable across 1st street. Many men stayed in the stable a time or two and always for free. The only charge was for hay and oats. The Fishers continued to grant credit to anyone that appeared to have need. Grandson Ed Fisher said, "The policy was to help others get a start in this harsh land so if they could weather out a few years, they would trade with us in the future." This faith in mankind built a steady stream of customers who could always depend on getting a fair deal.

Russia's Gazprom to shut gas pipeline to Europe for 3 days

Associated Press

MOSCOW (AP) — A key Russian natural gas pipeline will shut down for three days of maintenance at the end of this month, the state-owned energy company Gazprom announced Friday, raising economic pressure on Germany and other European countries that depend on the fuel to power industry, generate electricity and heat homes.

The latest shutdown will come a month after Gazprom restored natural gas supply through the pipeline to only a fifth of its capacity after a previous shutoff for maintenance.

Russia has blamed the reductions through the pipeline on technical problems but Germany has called the shutoffs a political move by the Kremlin to sow uncertainty and push up prices amid the conflict in Ukraine.

Natural gas prices rose on Friday after the announcement, and are now more than twice as high as a year ago.

In a statement posted online, Gazprom said the planned shutdown from Aug. 31 to Sept. 2 is for "routine maintenance" at a key compressor station along the Nord Stream 1 pipeline, which links western Russia and Germany.

Natural gas prices have surged as Russia has reduced or cut off natural gas flows to a dozen European Union countries, fueling inflation and raising the risk that Europe could plunge into recession.

Germany's Economy Ministry said in an email to The Associated Press that it had taken note of Gazprom's planned downtime for Nord Stream 1.

"We are monitoring the situation in close cooperation with the Federal Network Agency" that regulates gas markets, the ministry said. "Gas flows through Nord Stream 1 are currently unchanged at 20%."

The newly announced maintenance shutoff raises additional fears that Russia could completely cut off the gas to try to gain political leverage over Europe as it tries to boost its storage levels for winter.

Germany recently announced that its gas storage facilities had reached 75% capacity, two weeks before the target date of Sept. 1. Germans have been urged to cut gas use now so the country will have enough for the winter ahead.

Gazprom said once the work is completed, the flow of gas through Nord Stream 1 will resume at its prior level of 33 million cubic meters, or just 20% of the pipeline's capacity.

McGuire hopes to 'accelerate process' for Texas Tech title

By STEPHEN HAWKINS
AP Sports Writer

Joey McGuire describes himself as a high school coach who gets to coach college football. He is, after all, a Texas native who won three state championships under the Friday night lights.

McGuire is now head coach at Texas Tech after his transition to college coaching the past five years as an assistant at Baylor, one of the state's other Big 12 schools and the reigning conference champion. He has brought an infectious enthusiasm to an already passionate fan base desperate for a title of its own.

"People have said, 'How long is that going to take?' Well, it's my job to accelerate the process," McGuire said. "You know, I want it to happen this year, no doubt, and I know the team does too."

That would be quite a turnaround, considering the Red Raiders haven't had a winning record in Big 12 play since Mike Leach's final season on the Lubbock campus in 2009. When Tech was 7-6 last year after a convincing Liberty Bowl victory over Leach-coached Mississippi State, it was the first time in six seasons it finished above .500 overall.

Regardless of their record this year, McGuire is already building a solid foundation in his first college head coaching job.

His kinship to Texas high school coaches is having a big impact in recruiting. The school has announced plans for a $200 million project with a new locker room and offices in a new four-story building in the stadium's south end zone, along with a new, two-story training facility. And the current players have embraced their new coach.

"I believed that (players) would buy in to what we were going to do, but I didn't think it was going to be as fast as it has been," McGuire said. "It's just been incredible, the trust that the players have put into us and how hard they've been working."

THE QB'S

Former Oregon transfer Tyler Shough threw for 872 yards and six touchdowns in his four games last season before a broken collarbone. Donovan Smith started the final four games, including the bowl victory, and redshirt freshman Behren Morton is also in the quarterback mix.

McGuire described "a three-horse race" to be the starter, but anticipates using multiple quarterbacks.

"If Donovan Smith doesn't win the job, I would be crazy not to have a 6-5, 240-pound quarterback not running quarterback power on the goal line," the coach said.

MORE ON McGUIRE

Cedar Hill High, in the Dallas area, had never won a playoff game before McGuire's three championships in 14 seasons. He joined Matt Rhule's staff at Baylor in 2017, and the Bears were in the Big 12 title game two years later before Rhule left for the NFL.

McGuire stayed with the Bears on coach Dave Aranda's staff, and they were on way to winning the Big 12 championship when Tech hired him in November to replace the fired Matt Wells. McGuire left immediately to start work in Lubbock while interim coach Sonny Cumbie finished the season on the field.

BACK AT TECH

New offensive coordinator Zach Kittley is familiar with Lubbock, and big-scoring offenses.

Kittley was OC last season at Western Kentucky, which averaged 535 yards and 44 points a game, after big numbers at Houston Baptist the previous year. His dad is Tech's longtime NCAA championship-winning track coach. The younger Kittley worked with Kliff Kingsbury from 2013-17, going from a student assistant to graduate assistant and then assistant QBs coach in a span that included Patrick Mahomes starting for the Red Raiders.

"He'll say we have Air Raid concepts but we're not a true Air Raid," McGuire said of Kittley. "In the interview, he said, 'Coach, I'm going to find our best 11 players, I'm going to get them on the field, and we're going to score a lot of points.'"

THE GAMES

The season opener Sept. 3 against Murray State is the first of seven home games for the Red Raiders. Five of those are Big 12 games, including No. 9 Oklahoma, No. 10 Baylor and Texas visiting Lubbock. There are back-to-back non-conference games against Top 25 teams when they host future Big 12 team No. 24 Houston on Sept. 10, then go to No. 13 North Carolina State the next week.

Texas unranked and hoping to ride Robinson to turnaround

By JIM VERTUNO

AP Sports Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bijan Robinson and his Lamborghini sum up what most believe Texas football should be: flashy, fun to watch and faster than anybody else out there.

Far too often, however, the Longhorns find a way to run themselves into a ditch.

Texas starts the season unranked after a 5-7 finish in 2021 with no bowl game and the longest losing streak since 1956 in coach Steve Sarkisian's debut. Years of legacy votes that presumed Texas was deserving of preseason rankings have finally vanished after too many seasons of unmet expectations.

And yet, there is optimism in Austin. At least the kind that assumes last season was so bad, this one has to be better.

For starters, there is talent on campus in the form of some of college football's best playmakers. The fluid and powerful Robinson (in and out of that Lamborghini courtesy of a name, image and likeness sponsorship deal) is one of the top backs in the country. Wide receiver Xavier Worthy had an explosive freshman season in 2021 and should be among the favorites for the Biletnikoff Award.

The rest is anyone's guess.

Sarkisian mined the transfer portal about as well as anybody, and even landed a starting quarterback in freshman Quinn Ewers, who beat out Hudson Card for the job. But that road has been bumpy with one transfer receiver (Isaiah Neyor from Wyoming) lost for the season to a knee injury and another (Agiye Hall from Alabama) suspended indefinitely.

And an offensive line already strapped for depth also lost starter Junior Angilou, who could play multiple positions, for the season to a knee injury.

Texas hasn't won the Big 12 since 2009 and most pick the Longhorns for the middle of the pack again. Still, that would be a step up from last year.

QUARTERBACK

Ewers is a huge arm talent, he just lacks college experience. He was the quarterback everyone wanted out of high school near Dallas and Ohio State signed him. But a freshman season of sitting around Columbus prompted a transfer. That put him in a fight for the job with Card, who started the first two games in 2021 before getting benched. Sarkisian had a quick hook on his QB last year with struggles, so is Card still in play or would he consider a transfer?

SECOND HALF FOLLIES

The Longhorns lost five games last season they led at halftime. Texas has to shake off a bad combination of second-half adjustments and suspect conditioning if they don't want to get dominated in the third and fourth quarters again. Hiring former TCU head coach and defensive guru Gary Patterson as a special assistant may prove to be Sarkisian's shrewdest move of the offseason.

Having Coach Patterson on board has excited me the most out of a lot of things we've done this off-season," Sarkisian said. "I've always admired his defensive mind."

ROBINSON & CO.

Sarkisian will lean heavily on his dependable run game while he sorts things out at quarterback. Robinson is the star after rushing for 1,127 yards and 11 touchdowns in a season cut short by a dislocated elbow. Behind him are workhorse Roschon Johnson and speedy Keilan Robinson.

HOT SEAT

Sarkisian may have felt some heat from Texas fans during that dismal debut season, but not so much from the administration and Board of Regents that approved his original six-year, $34.2 million guaranteed contract. But Texas likely won't abide another years-long skid like it endured under Charlie Strong from 2014-2016.

LOOKING AHEAD

A blockbuster matchup with No. 1 Alabama on Sept. 10 will determine if Texas is ready for prime time. Then comes a matchup with rising UTSA, where coach Jeff Traylor, a former Longhorns assistant, could snag a huge statement win. The Big 12 schedule starts Sept. 24 at Texas Tech and the annual Red River Rivalry game with Oklahoma is Oct. 8 in Dallas.

No. 10 Baylor shaped QB situation long before fall camp

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Sports Writer

WACO, Texas (AP) — Baylor settled on its top quarterback in the spring, giving sophomore Blake Shapen time to adjust to his new role and letting the 10th-ranked Bears prepare for this season knowing their starter.

"I'm not the backup quarterback anymore, so I've got to take full control of everything that's going on in the field," Shapen said. "I think I learned a lot of things being the backup. Stepping up into a leadership role is key for me right now."

The quarterback competition last year went into fall camp before Gerry Bohanon was named the starter over Shapen and Jacob Zeno (now at UAB) only two weeks before the first game. Shapen beat out the incumbent junior in spring practice this time.

"He's a slinger," said junior receiver Gavin Holmes, who is back after missing last season with a knee injury. "Blake's a stud. He's got an arm, accurate quarterback, but we put in the work together to get that timing right."

Shapen was 62-of-86 passing (72.1%) for 596 yards with five touchdowns and no interceptions in limited action last season, but that included being the Big 12 championship game MVP in one of his two starts when Bohanon had a late-season hamstring injury. Bohanon was back for the Sugar Bowl victory that capped Baylor's record 12-win season after Shapen hurt his shoulder.

Coach Dave Aranda said it was apparent in the spring that Shapen was the better passer and should be the starter. But it was still difficult personally for the coach who has photos at home of his kids posing with Bohanon.

"There is no me without Gerry, there is no last year without Gerry," Aranda said. "Wanting the best for him, I think it was the fair thing to do, was to make that move early."

That gave Bohanon just enough time to get into the transfer portal. He went to South Florida, and is now the No. 1 QB for the Bulls.

"I have a lot of respect for (Aranda), and him doing that for me and Gerry," Shapen said. "That means a lot to both of us. ... The opportunity to move on and do what we need to do in the future."

NO MORE SURPRISES

Plenty of people were surprised by Baylor's 10-win improvement and Big 12 title, which came a year after Aranda's 2-7 debut in the pandemic-altered 2020 season. Not the players.

"Once you've put in that work, you put in the work all summer ... you know what you have, you know the foundation you set," fifth-year cornerback Mark Milton said.

There will no sneaking up on anyone this year. Along with their top-10 ranking, the Bears are the preseason Big 12 favorite for the first time.

"Coach has reiterated that we're going to have a target on our back," Holmes said. "We've got to go out there with something to prove still."

part to muddy the waters for the opposition by leaping to four spades.
East could have taken any of several actions at this point, but chose the conservative course by passing, hoping her side had nothing big in the offering. The undoubled contract went down three for a score of plus 150 to the Dutch, but this scarcely made up for what happened at the other table, where the bidding went:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♠ Dble
Redble 4♥ Pass Pass
4♠ Pass Pass 5♥
Dble

The bidding:
South West North East
1♠ Pass 4♠
Opening lead — queen of diamonds.
One of the biggest swings of the 1989 Venice Cup final between the Netherlands and the United States occurred on this deal.
When Beth Palmer and Lynn Deas of the U.S. held the North-South hands, the bidding went as shown. Deas, South, consistent with the partnership style, opened a marginal one spade at favorable vulnerability. Palmer then did her

Here, with room to operate, the American East-West pair, Kitty Beth and Margie Gwozdzinsky, were able to find their heart fit and determine that their side had the balance of power. Beth had no trouble carrying on to five hearts after South bid four spades. South then doubled, no doubt thinking her side had the balance of strength. With the trumps divided 2-2 and the heart king inside, Gwozdzinsky easily made the contract with an overtrick for a score of 1,050 points. The 900-point difference between the two tables gave the U.S. a 14-IMP pickup on the deal.

America's Newspapers

Today is Monday, Aug. 22, the 234th day of 2022. There are 131 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Aug. 22, 1851, the schooner America outraced more than a dozen British vessels off the English coast to win a trophy that came to be known as the America's Cup.

On this date:

- In 1787, inventor John Fitch demonstrated his steamboat on the Delaware River to delegates from the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia.
- In 1910, Japan annexed Korea, which remained under Japanese control until the end of World War II.
- In 1914, Austria-Hungary declared war against Belgium.
- In 1922, Irish revolutionary Michael Collins was shot to death, apparently by Irish Republican Army members opposed to the Anglo-Irish Treaty that Collins had co-signed.
- In 1968, Pope Paul VI arrived in Bogota, Colombia, for the start of the first papal visit to South America.
- In 1972, John Wojtowicz (WAHT'-uh-witz) and Salvatore Naturile took seven employees hostage at a Chase Manhattan Bank branch in Brooklyn, New York, during a botched robbery; the siege, which ended with Wojtowicz's arrest and Naturile's killing by the FBI, inspired the 1975 movie "Dog Day Afternoon."
- In 1989, Black Panthers co-founder Huey P. Newton was shot to death in Oakland, California. (Gunman Tyrone Robinson was later sentenced to 32 years to life in prison.)
- In 1992, on the second day of the Ruby Ridge siege in Idaho, an FBI sharpshooter killed Vicki Weaver, the wife of white separatist Randy Weaver. (The sharpshooter later said he was targeting the couple's friend Kevin Harris, and didn't see Vicki Weaver.)
- In 1996, President Bill Clinton signed welfare legislation ending guaranteed cash payments to the poor and demanding work from recipients.

In 2000, Publishers Clearing House agreed to pay $18 million to 24 states and the District of Columbia to settle allegations it had used deceptive promotions in its sweepstakes mailings.

In 2003, Alabama's chief justice, Roy Moore, was suspended for his refusal to obey a federal court order to remove his Ten Commandments monument from the rotunda of his courthouse.

In 2007, A Black Hawk helicopter crashed in Iraq, killing all 14 U.S. soldiers aboard. Hurricane Dean slammed into Mexico for the second time in as many days.

Ten years ago: Ousted Penn State president Graham Spanier and his lawyers attacked a university-backed report on the Jerry Sandusky sex abuse scandal, calling it a "blundering and indefensible indictment." (Spanier was later convicted of child endangerment for failing to report a child sexual abuse allegation against Sandusky.)

weaknesses, the better you'll know yourself. And the better you know yourself, the easier it is to arrange your life in the way that leads you to be the person you want to be.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You've learned from the best teachers, and you've learned even more from the worst teachers. Examples of what you don't want are extremely valuable and memorable, too. Your body automatically steers away from them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Decide where you are and are not willing to go with another person. The closer the relationship, the more potential it has to alter the course of your life for better or worse. You'll be very careful in this regard.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Indulgence can be self-love or self-denial, depending on the situation. When you've been very strict, letting yourself relax can be the sweetest kindness. When you've been too lax, pulling in the reigns is the loving move.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You are in the process of becoming. The cause that captures your curiosity and heart will soon capture your identity as well. As you dedicate more of your attention in this realm, it will shape you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Try not to get too frustrated with the situation, even if nothing about it seems to yield to your influence. The only thing you can change about this is your attitude -- but that will change absolutely everything.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Options abound. Some seductive routes are dead wrong for you; others intrigue you for a reason. Don't worry, you'll know in the earliest stages. Just make sure you act quickly according to the information your gut provides.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). If you don't know what the competition is doing, you'll be at a disadvantage. If you obsess about what the competition is doing, it will affect your productivity. You will now strike the perfect balance of awareness in this regard.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 22). You've been practicing and preparing. This is a year to show the world what you can do! New resources will be made available to you, including a keen assistant. The social scene is filled with easygoing fun balanced by enough competition to make things interesting. Your financial picture brightens with an exciting side gig. Aries and Libra adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 3, 38, 44, 1 and 15.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: This day in 1893 brought the wisecracking wit of Dorothy Parker into the world. The Algonquin Round Table founder went on to write screenplays in Hollywood. This Jazz Age Leo writer was born when the sun and Mercury were in entertaining Leo, and lucky Jupiter was in verbose Gemini. She famously advised, "Take care of the luxuries, and the necessities will take care of themselves."

Virgo Sun Directive

The change of sun brings a change of cast. For a bigger network, or more special relationships, celebrate any tie that's working for you. It doesn't have to be perfect; just focus on what you love about it, and you'll start seeing more of the same from different sources. Happiness with one relationship leads to more feel-good connections.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Every move has a price. While weighing one action against another, the cost may be easily assessed. The cost of inaction won't be so obvious but is equally important to consider.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You'll follow a whisper of curiosity. Before you know it you're in a different world and enjoying work that widens your interests, grows your skills and evolves your worldview.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Very few people are lucky enough to be surrounded by support. Many must advocate for themselves or seek out circles of support. You have a talent for encouraging and lifting others, and it's very valuable indeed.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). There's really no point in arguing with people who are already 100% convinced they're right. Certainty takes up the mental space needed for learning. Respectfully agreeing to disagree may be the best you can do.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The more honest you are about your feelings, strengths and

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
