REVELATION AT HAND

Among the most vociferous opponents of tax reform, as might be expected, are representatives of the public electric power projects that have long enjoyed freedom from tax and interest charges normally applied to commercial business enterprises. These "loop-holes" in the tax laws have enabled public power projects of all kinds to create an illusion of super-efficient, low cost operations.

With growing pressure to equalize the nation's tax burden in as fair a manner as possible, major changes have been suggested or proposed in the tax laws. Among these proposals are some having to do with eliminating the privileged status of the public power projects. Tax free municipal bonds, for one thing, have become a target of tax reformers on the grounds that they have become a sanctuary for persons seeking to escape the reach of the revenue collectors.

A spokesman for a leading public power group has spoken in opposition to any imposition of federal income taxes on municipal bond interest. The spokesman expressed his views before the House Ways and Means Committee of Congress which is currently considering proposals for a federal subsidy to help municipalities market tax-free bonds, as well as a proposed federal bank through which municipalities can borrow at low interest rates. One congressman noted that there is a $1.8 billion revenue loss from tax-free bonds.

Regardless of the arguments for and against the tax-free municipal bonds, it is hard to see how this particular fiscal problem of government can be solved without revealing the "trade secret" that makes government business operations appear so fantastically efficient.

The National Association of Manufacturers was noted as posing the question, "What does it cost to create a job in industry?" And, then they went on to answer, "A lot depends on which industry you're talking about. The average investment behind each job for all U.S. manufacturing companies is getting close to $25,000. In some fields, such as chemicals and petroleum, it's nearer $75,000 for each production worker."

Only electricity gives you FLAMELESS clothes drying

So clean and gentle... easy on you ... easy on your clothes

Women who dry clothes electrically agree it's the cleanest of all methods of drying. Clean flameless electric heat adds nothing but warmth to the inside of the dryer, so white clothes stay white, colored clothes stay bright. And electric heat is so gentle and precisely controlled that even the most delicate fabrics dry with complete safety. See your electric dryer dealer soon.

HAIR-RAISING CUSTOMS

Tressed for the Occasion

A fortnightly shampoo was enough for the well-groomed woman of fifty years ago who believed that combing and brushing—not washing—was the last word in hair care.

In the 20's, flappers washed and set their bobbed tresses once a week while today's cool mods spend so much time shampooing, tinting, frosting, and combing their free-swinging locks that men wonder how they have any time left over for homework and hobbies.

But no matter how lovely a girl looks, she spoils her good appearance every time she combs or fusses with her hair in public.

"Of course, every girl must carry a comb wherever she goes, but she should use it in the ladies room not in a library—and never, never at a restaurant or near food," cautions Ann Evans, grooming consultant for Ace Comb Company.

Miss Evans adds the following useful tips to young men and women who are job hunting.

1—Take a comb with you but don't let it show at the interview.

2—Don't run your hands through your hair when being interviewed, as this indicates a lack of interest or confidence.

Whether you're looking for a job or just want to make a good appearance, it pays to pay attention to your hair. People may be looking you over with a fine-tooth-comb.

'SHARE IN AMERICA' '69' BOND DRIVE SLATED HERE

A "Share in America '69" campaign to promote sales of U.S. Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares will be held this spring in Wichita County, according to an announcement by the Department of the Treasury in Washington, D.C.

Bill Donnell, vice president of Times Publishing Co., Wichita Falls will serve as general chairman of the campaign, the Treasury said. He was appointed to the post by Rex Brack of Dallas, chairman of the Savings Bonds volunteer committee of Texas.

Other community leaders, representing business, banking, labor, communications and other fields, will serve with Mr. Donnell on the local committee.

Dates of the campaign will be June 9 through 30th.

In accepting appointment as chairman, Mr. Donnell stressed the need of increased Bond sales to counter inflationary pressures in the economy and protect the value of the dollar. He said that particular emphasis would be placed on encouraging savers to buy the 5% savings notes, "Freedom Shares," in combination with their Savings Bonds. These securities are available on a one-for-one basis with regular E Bonds, both over the counter at financial institutions and through regular purchase plans like Payroll Savings in industry and the Bond-A-Month Plan at banks. "Buying Bonds and Freedom Shares is the best way I know of for the ordinary citizen to help both himself and his country," Mr. Donnell said. "It's a safe and rewarding way to save, and every dollar goes directly to work for a stronger America. That ought to be incentive enough for all of us to get behind this campaign in Wichita County."

Some 140 counties throughout the nation — including Wichita in Texas, will be holding "Share in America" campaigns this spring, the Treasury said.

A Shotgun Approach to "Uplift"

Ever since Congress approved legislation for the Model Cities Program as part of the "Great Society," there has been a somewhat hazy public picture of exactly what this would entail (besides many million dollars a year, that is).

The term "model cities" conjures up beautiful, futuristic images and one might have assumed this to be a new, super urban redevelopment program.

As the government periodically announced certain cities had been selected for grants under the program, there was little inkling how each would spend the money. The target in each case became clear—to improve a downtown section of a city and turn it into a much nicer place to live. But how? Each chosen city was busy devising programs of its own, the public was informed.

Altogether, 150 U. S. cities were selected for participation in the Model Cities Program. These were obviously blessed, having submitted "winning" proposals to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, otherwise affectionately known as HUD.

Planning continued. Now, at last, after four years, the public is getting some definite word on how billions of dollars will be spent. For HUD has given "final approval" for cities to proceed.

In Waco, Texas, the goals for the chosen neighborhood include: to improve streets, sewers and drainage systems; to work for better building code enforcement; and to train Negro residents to start and manage home-building firms.

Seattle will use some Model Cities money to plan a model grammar school as the first step toward socio-economic integration of the city school system. Also, to form a union of existing civic groups to develop new resident-owned businesses.

Denver's program has 119 projects in 12 problem areas. These include a new college, oriented to the poor and minority groups, and a rehabilitation center for hippies.

Most surprising of all, a survey of all Model Cities planning shows that the unemployment problem is the biggest, most-frequent concern of the planners, ranking above housing and physical improvements. The Federal government, and U. S. taxpayers, are already supporting more than 30 employment programs, in job training, job placement, vocational education, etc., including the ill-conceived Job Corps which the new Administration says will be "phased out."

So Model Cities is many things to many people, a shotgun approach to city problems. It begins to look like another War on Poverty with "community uplift," social experiments, and the like. If the Model Cities program does follow the devious path of the War on Poverty, then everyone's in for disappointment. Especially the taxpayers.

PEOPLE

By Rebecca Catherine Lay
Section 4-2

People are what make a town or a country. We need people to help each other not to fight and destroy each other. Our country doesn't need any more violence. We should try to love and help each other as different people help each other no matter if we're black or white people.

AMERICA

By Rebecca Catherine Lay
Section 4-2

Burkburnett, Texas

America. In all American's eyes is a loving country. To our country peace is the only answer. For keep in America there has to be an answer. Every day we see people killed on our own streets and as well as in our own country, but still we search for the answer. Who knows if we ever will find it. But some how the only thing to do is to wait, hope and pray. For without peace our country will cry.

... and God bless Mother

This little one is aware of his mother's tender care, and responds with love. It would be wonderful if all of us showed our love for our Mothers all of the time. Even if we have been a little neglectful, we have an opportunity to go all out this Sunday, and express to her our love and appreciation for her goodness to us. The Bible tells us to "Honour thy Father and thy Mother."

On this special Mother's Day attend church and share in celebrating this time with others.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Ask any girl scout wearing a Skater's Badge in Burk Burnett and it is sure she can give service in it because she has earned it! And has a new healthy sport-kill to enjoy.

HOW TO HAVE A BETTER LAWN... IN 25 WEEDS OR LESS!

Gardeners trying to cope with the problems of weeds need not be "for-lawn". There are several modern ways of weeding out the unwelcome. The Antrol Lawn Research Bureau lists 25 weeds in three major groups and recommends controls for each.

Common among garden "gangsters," broadleaf weeds include the Dock, Dandelion, Plantain, Yarrow, Purslane, Wild Onion, Shepherd's Purse and Buckhorn. Because these varieties tend to be easy targets, the most economical control is a "squeezing" type killer such as Squeeze 'N Weed.

Viney weeds—those that spread by root runners—create a net over a lawn, literally choking out good grass. To kill these weeds—chickweed, ground ivy, henbit, bur clover and their relatives—a weed killer that sprays a fine mist in a wide patch is essential. Normal 1-shot aerosols and granular weed killer only kill a section of the weed root, and the weed promptly recovers and continues to spread. Specifically a wide stream aerosol chickweed killer is recommended.

By themselves are the summertime grassy weeds—crabgrass and its many relatives including goosegrass, barnyard grass, foxtail, quackgrass and orchard grass. The sooner after they are sprayed—the easier it is to get total kill. Still 2 sprayings with a new aerosol jet stream crabgrass killer—10 days apart are needed. For a handy FREE BOOKLET, illustrating the 25 most common weed problems in your area—and how to cope with them—send a self-addressed stamped envelope to ANTRON, Box 2275, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103.

Wild Onion, Shepherd's Purse and Buckhorn.
