Joseph Cobble To Attend Science Meeting

Joseph Earl Cobble of 410 Elm Street, a student at Burk Burnett High School, has been selected to attend the Ninth Texas Nuclear Science Symposium for High Schools at the University of Texas at Austin, June 3-6.

He will be accompanied to the symposium by Roger Ray Box, science teacher at the high school.

They will be sponsored by Texas Electric Service Company, a member of the Texas Atomic Research Foundation which is joining with the university in putting on the symposium. The foundation is made up of ten investor-owned electric power companies in Texas.

Some 500 outstanding science students and their teachers, selected by their schools, will attend the four-day meeting. They will have the opportunity to hear scientists from the fields of both industry and education discuss nuclear physics and related topics, according to B. J. Vincent, Company Manager.

The participants will spend two afternoons touring the science laboratories at the university, including those where experiments are being carried on in thermonuclear (fusion) research by the university for the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation.

"This is an excellent opportunity for students interested in careers in science to hear about and to see the latest achievements in nuclear science," Vincent said. "We are pleased that we can make this opportunity available to them."

James T. Ramey, a member of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission from Washington, D.C., will speak at a banquet during the symposium. Dr. Norman Hackerman, president of the university and a professor of chemistry, also will address the gathering.

VALEDICTORIANS of the Burk Burnett Junior High School graduating classes are Jeanette Mack, Teri Garland and Morgan Moore. Parents of the honored trio are M Sgt. and Mrs. Raymond Mack, Mr. and Mrs T. K. Garland, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore. (Burk Star Photo)

Clara-Fairview Club Has Meeting

Miss Thelma Wirges gave a most educational program on Fabrics when the Clara Fairview Club met at the home of Bobbie Klinkerman on May 1. The only way to know a fabric is to read about its use and care since there are so many different fabrics and same fabrics under different names on the market now days. There are two different types of bonded fabrics — sold together by heat or thread. There are many different woven fabrics with different fiber contents. A fabric needs to have 25% of blended fiber as polyester to have quality of perm press. A 10% nylon blend, however, is satisfactory. Zelon is a new water repellent finish that can be laundered at home. However if it is done at the laundry or professional cleaners you must have the water repellent finish put back on. Look for Perm-Moth proof for woolens. Roxel denotes fire resistant fabrics.

Refreshments were served to: Mdms. Ida Beckman, Mary Blanner, Lois Crane, Dorthy Harris, Jolene Ludeke, Loretta Roebuck, Lilly Simons and Dona Stimpson.

The May 15 meeting of the Clara Fairview Club was at the home of Mrs. Loreen Ludeke. The roll was answered with: "My First Meal After Marriage." The club decided to hold a bake sale on May 17 with each member baking 2 cakes or 4 pies.

Ida Beckman presented a most interesting program on picture and wall arrangement.

The door prize was won by Ida Beckman with Loretta Roebuck winning the game prize. An amusing game "I Have Done Something No One Else Has Done," was enjoyed by the following members present: Dona Stimpson, Lilly Simons, Loretta Roebuck, Clara Palmer, Bobbie Klinkerman, Ida Beckman, Peggy Holderness, Mary Blanner and one guest Joy Klinkerman. The next meeting will be at the home of Clara Palmer, 605 Reagan.

THE WRONG MEDICINE

Whenever government enters into commercial business competition with private citizens, the whole nation loses—it loses the advantage of private initiative, it loses sources of tax revenue for government as they are absorbed by tax-exempt government operations, and it loses the endless quest for improvement that is a necessary part of private enterprise development. Now, according to an authoritative spokesman for nearly forty steamship lines operating some 500 ships—half of the dry cargo and tanker vessels in the active U.S.-flag merchant fleet—the very real threat exists that the federal government may be entering merchant shipping on a major scale in competition with the private merchant fleet.

Mr. Ralph E. Casey, executive vice president of the American Institute of Merchant Shipping, calls attention to a Defense Department proposal for construction of 30 regular cargo-type vessels to be built by private industry, but then to be turned over to the government for government operation, government supervision and government decision as to cargo movements. In addition, there is the prospect that these ships also may be manned by government crew. In the words of Mr. Casey, "The ships will be highly competitive; this could spawn a government-versus-private industry situation . . . the proposed 30 ships for MSTs (government) use will be operating busily in peacetime between United States and foreign ports which . . . puts them in direct competition with the private merchant fleet."

The maritime needs of the U.S. call for a revitalized private enterprise U.S. Merchant Marine—not for more government in business.

FACT AND OPINION

In an Address entitled "Crisis in Seapower," Mr. Ralph E. Casey quoted the Commanding Admiral of the Soviet Navy as stating, in reference to Russia's growing maritime might, "The flag of the Soviet Navy now proudly flies over the oceans of the world. Sooner or later, the U.S. will have to understand that it no longer has mastery of the seas."

U.S. motorists drove a total of one trillion, ten billion miles in 1968—the equivalent of more than 40 million trips around the earth—a new high record. The publication "Oil Facts" reports that in the course of this travel, drivers used 81 billion gallons of motor fuel and paid more than $2.5 billion in special state and federal taxes on the fuel. State gasoline taxes average 5.8 cents a gallon; the federal tax is 4 cents a gallon.

SENSING THE NEWS

By THURMAN SENSING
 Southern States Industrial Council

AN ALLIANCE FOR CONFLICT

The labor union movement, which has lost ground in recent years because of blue-collar disenchantment with union bosses and their political plans, is trying for a comeback by forming new alliances with street militants.

The most significant development in this connection is the establishment of the Alliance For Labor Action, a union conglomerate launched by the United Auto Workers and the Teamsters Union.

The ALA, a product of UAW President Walter Reuther's mind, aims at harnessing the "new politics" of community action groups that flourish in the big cities. The Alliance hopes to organize minority voters in so-called "ghetto" areas, pack them on the voter rolls, and apply direct pressure on city councils, school boards and businessmen.

To beef up its operation, the Alliance is fashioning links to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Ralph Abernathy street army organization that specializes in commotion. Walter Reuther already has made a substantial financial contribution to a combined union-SCLC effort to force unionization of public hospital workers in Charleston, S.C.

The Southern States are likely to be the main targets of the first Alliance drives. Union strategists apparently believe that these states, many of them with right-to-work laws, represent a formidable obstacle. If they can be crushed by the Alliance, if their public services are virtually taken over by unions, then resistance in other states of the Union will rapidly crumple. Thus, in a very real sense, the Southern States are in the first line of defense against a new and dangerous form of unionism that threatens the liberties of all Americans.

It should be borne in mind that the United Auto Workers has a long history of industrial strife. The UAW was at the heart of grave industrial disturbances in Detroit a generation ago, when the "sit-down" strikes threatened a form of industrial communism in America.

The Teamsters, the other principal partner in the Alliance For Labor Action, is synonymous with union corruption. Vast quantities of evidence have been produced before Congress and state investigating bodies, showing its infiltration by gangster types. The last two presidents of the Teamsters Union have landed in prison.

Therefore, the prospect for U.S. cities and states subjected to Alliance campaigns is not a pleasant one. It is rendered all the more unpleasant by the involvement of the SCLC in union organizing efforts. What SCLC can furnish the Alliance are the bully-boys of civil disobedience, the professional militants who abuse the right of assembly and create a climate of tension and strife while professing "peace" and "non-violence."

Cities and states face the danger of paralyzing disturbances that require the use of police and National Guardsmen on a large scale and at great expense. Even relatively small bands of marchers, protesters and placard-waving union organizers can interrupt the normal life of a community and deflect a state from important business.

Small businessmen — operators of retail stores and manufacturing shops with a limited number of employees — are likely to feel considerable harassment from the operations of the Alliance. Merchants may be exposed to intimidation and to shake-downs for contributions. One trick may be a "request" that a merchant buy advertising in a special "strike" newspaper issued by a union-street demonstrator organization.

The time to deal with threats is before they mushroom and get out of hand. Business groups would be well advised to carefully consider now what new laws will be needed to assure a wider measure of community peace and to handle the more subtle types of intimidation and

ESA STATE CONVENTION IN HOUSTON

The Royal Coach Inn of Houston was the scene of the 29th annual convention of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International held last week. Mesdames Clodella Bridges, Helen Easton and Marilyn Howard from Theta Epsilon chapter attended.

Awards were announced at the first general assembly on Saturday, with Dist. VI taking first place in History and third on scrapbook. Both were prepared by LaDonna Sheperd. A chapter award was given for perfect yearbook prepared by Clodella Bridges and Marilyn Howard.

During the second general assembly held Sunday morning, awards were given for educational programs with recognition to economic blackmail that organizers and protesters may resort to in the year ahead.

State legislatures may find it useful to conduct in-depth investigations of alliances between union organizers and demonstrators and to hold public hearings at which disruptionists are subpoenaed to testify. A basic need is public understanding of the new plans being made to disrupt peaceful, progressive states.

The ambitions of the Alliance For Labor Action could only hamper the orderly economic and industrial growth of America and retard the progress of our society, which is based on evolution rather than revolution. Thus the Alliance is bad news for the American people.

NUTRITION AND CELL DEVELOPMENT

We've talked before of the influence nutrition may have on mental development. Research findings both here and abroad have stirred up interest in this field until now it is regarded one of the most exciting areas of research.

Why? Because it is one of mankind's nobler ambitions to help the underprivileged, especially in so tangible a way as to help people reach their fullest potential. And equally important, because the very survival of mankind may also be at stake.

The Path To Wars

Hungry peoples, and populations with less than desirable intelligence easily fall prey to those who would exploit them. History shows us this is the path to wars, not to peace. Such people also perpetuate and increase problems such as overpopulation, disease, and malnutrition. It will be better if we can help equip them to be of more help to themselves.

What better way than to make sure people have the best chance for realizing their maximum mental potential!

Just this past spring at a large scientific gathering scientists reiterated their faith that we may be on the track to just such a possibility.

We now know that the nutrition of the mother-to-be is terribly important to the development of the baby even before it is born. And then the first months of life, too, are critical. Cell development occurs in two ways — size and/or numbers of cells.

Cell development in the human brain is about complete at six months of age. Therefore, the number of cells a baby will have in its brain is determined by nutrition during pregnancy and the earliest months of life. If during this time the baby doesn't get enough protein, he simply will not develop as many cells as otherwise. A better diet later on won't make up for the loss.

What It Means

Scientists don't know whether this actually means the person will be less smart. Brain cell numbers may not determine that factor. But there's a good chance that this may be the case and researchers are hard at work to find out. They do know that undernutrition can affect the size and health of the individual. And we know that people who don't feel well learn less easily and they may be apathetic in their desire to learn.

So we are excited about this kind of research. There's a weight control angle to this cell development thing, too. Next week, we'll go into it.

WE KNEW YOU COULD DO IT...

Land Fill And Trash Disposal New Necessities

After July 1, state law will prohibit the burning of trash by municipalities, and a new landfill system will be inaugurated by the city of Burk Burnett.

The new law bans burning of trash in any municipal refuse ground, no matter what size the city, or the distance from the city.

A trip to Austin by city manager Gary Bean of Burk Burnett, seeking relief from this law, due to the distance of the dump from the city, was of no avail.

The City of Burk Burnett is considering three bids for a front-end loader for use at the disposal grounds. A committee of J. L. Caffee, Irv Smith and J. R. McCluskey is considering the bids.

A city ordinance which prohibits burning of trash within the city limits has been in force for some time, and will remain unchanged.

In some circumstances, persons wishing to burn trash may secure a permit to do so, without cost, from the city office.

COUNTY H-D AGENT NEWS

Major remodeling and repairing jobs in older homes call for home improvement contractors, but homeowners continue to report unsatisfactory experiences with them, according to the Business Bureau.

Most of the complaints are a result of promises which did not materialize and poor workmanship which can be avoided if homeowners are better informed about the sales practices of home improvement contractors, and if they are more careful to select a competent and responsible contractor.

Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent, reports these suggestions to the consumer in choosing and using the services of a home improvement contractor.

1. Obtain competitive bids from at least three contractors. Compare the cost of the work to be done, quality of materials and the financing cost.
2. Check the contractor's reputation. Be sure he operates in a business-like manner and takes care of complaints called to his attention.
3. Do business with a contractor who is financially responsible. Call his bank for financial information and check with his suppliers and sub-contractors to determine if he pays his bills.
4. Demand a written contract listing all work to be performed and materials to be used. Require any oral promises be included in the contract.
5. Read and understand any contract, including the cost of financing, before signing; then demand a copy. Never sign a blank or partially completed contract.
6. Be sure the contractor has full liability coverage. Ask for evidence that he is insured.
7. A guarantee is only as good as the company or manufacturer that gives it. Understand all conditions and limitations and be sure the guarantee is in writing. Read carefully all provisions of any so-called 'life-time' guarantee.

Mrs. H. E. Clayton recently planned and completed a remodeling project in her home. By removing part of one wall, adding storage, arranging furniture and refinishing walls and wood work, Mrs. Clayton has the illusion of twice the amount of space. The kitchen is more convenient, as well as more attractive. The living room has added beauty and space.

Mrs. Clayton served as a demonstrator for the Cooper Home Demonstration Club.

A person will spend months choosing property, paying just a little extra to get what he wants. Then he gets as cheap a title for the property as possible.

Invest a little extra to be protected and know what you are getting is actually yours, advises Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Two of the biggest causes of law suits involving land today are real estate people who write their own contracts of sale and people who want to save money by not consulting a lawyer. To insure yourself a good title get a good conveyance of title, one saying you own the property outright with mineral rights and be assured against forgery.

A lawyer can provide accurate information on the title's legal matters. There is always a chance an incompetent person handled the property at some time. You could have violated restrictions on the property.

The lawyer draws up an abstract of title, a copy of the instruments affecting the property title going back to when the soil was first dealt with.

With title insurance, the second means of protection, a company guarantees you that the title is good. Two disadvantages of this are: the policy guarantees you only the price of the property when you buy it, not accounting for appreciated or inflated value; and the policy is not transferable. When you sell property, you have to buy another title policy.

BAROMETER for the FUTURE

Webster says that a barometer is an instrument measuring the weight or pressure of the atmosphere, foretelling and measuring changes of weather and altitude.

If God were to place a barometer on our lives, would we be cold, lukewarm, or on fire for the Lord. The past we can not change. . . the future is up to us.

"... what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways, and to love Him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul." ATTEND CHURCH REGULARLY

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

HOUSEKEEPING A-Z

Springtime Household Hints

A basket, a basket, an old tired basket. If you're spring cleaning and have unearthed some old and odd baskets, don't throw them away. Restore them by first washing with a pine cleaner solution. Then rinse and air dry the baskets and they will be ready for flowers, fruit, bread, or collector's items. Paint the baskets if you like, but the scrubbed, unfinished look is popular, too.

Old stone crocks, sipping jugs and other pottery items are decorative and can be practical, too. They can hold pussy willows, flowers or greenery, serve as planters, doorstep ornaments or, when large enough, as umbrella holders. If you have acquired old, grimy pottery items, clean them up before you display them. Use a pine oil cleaner to clean, disinfect and deodorize all at once.

The old butter churn is here to stay if you make good use of it. The body makes an unusual umbrella holder. The churning unit itself holds a bottle of wine in smart fashion. If you fall heir to an old butter churn, wash it first in a pine cleaner solution. Starting clean, you'll be better able to see what the next steps will be. If there is a heavy old finish, use turpentine and #3 steel wool. Then sand smoothly with the grain of the wood, wipe off the dust and smooth with fine steel wool. Finish off with a turpentine-moist cloth.

THIS WEEK IS SELECTED AS MAILBOX IMPROVEMENT WEEK

Postmaster W. T. Zimmerman announces the Department designates a week during May each year when patrons on rural, city motorized, and box delivery star routes are encouraged to examine, and improve where necessary, the appearance of their mailboxes. The week of May 26-31 has been selected this year. The purpose of Mailbox Improvement Week is to call attention to the need for providing mail receptacles which are designed to protect the mail from the weather, and which are neat in appearance, conveniently located, and safe to use. Neat, attractive mailboxes will make a significant contribution to the appearance of the countryside and the streets in suburban areas.

Mailboxes that meet the above four important requirements contribute to a more efficient delivery operation, and the result is an improved service to the entire route. There are two approved styles of boxes: (1) Traditional design in three standard sizes, (2) contemporary design.

Rural Routes
Mailboxes of the approved traditional or contemporary design are required, whenever a mailbox is newly installed or a present receptacle is replaced. Patrons still using obsolete, top-opening boxes may continue to use them at the same location, provided they are kept in serviceable condition and otherwise meet the requirements outlined above.

and the box number must be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped. Patrons should be encouraged to group boxes wherever this is practicable, especially at or near crossroads, at service turnouts, or at other places where a considerable number of boxes are located.

Where the use of street names and house numbers has been authorized the house number will be shown on the box. If the box is located on a street other than one on which the patron resides, the street name and house number will be inscribed on the box. In these instances, the placing of the owners name on the box is optional. (NOTE: These requirements will be especially important to the success of the joint post office-census activities in the spring of 1970.) Height of boxes depends on the type of vehicle used by the carrier, but requests to change the height or position of boxes should be kept to an absolute minimum.

City Motorized Routes
On motorized routes with curblin delivery, the box may be either the approved traditional rural type, the approved suburban box of contemporary design, or any mail receptacle which is conveniently located at the curblin and which affords protection for the mail against the weather. Boxes should be installed with the bottom of the box between 3 1/2 and 4 feet from the roadway. Where boxes are not lo-ated directly in front of the owner's residence, the patron's name and house number must be shown on the box. Attractive protective housings may be used where boxes are grouped.

Box Delivery Star Routes
Where a mailbox is newly installed or a present receptacle is replaced on box delivery star routes, an approved box of either the traditional rural type or contemporary design must be installed.

General Requirements
Mailboxes on both rural and star routes must be located on the right-side of road in the direction traveled by the carrier wherever it would be dangerous to serve the boxes on the left or where this would be a violation of State or local traffic laws or regulations. Boxes and supports should be kept painted and free from rust.
