As many of you already know, Raymond will be back next week. Before he does take this column over again there are a few things that I would like to correct.

Some of these things aren't important, but I feel that Raymond wouldn't understand since he was gone, and I feel it my duty to Burk Burnett to correct the situation.

First of all, I wish to extend my sincere apologies to Pat Patterson. I didn't know, Pat, that you were a member of the fire department, and that you were driving that VOLT WAGON to where all the fires weren't, AND that you hadn't found the last four fires. I'm sure sorry if I called attention to you. I hope this corrects that situation.

Another rumor that has been going around is about T. M. Cornelius having a suntan from all the flash bulbs. You people will have to understand that some people are just naturally dark.

And a big NO for those of you who have asked. Gary Bean, after getting a city ordinance passed requiring trash can racks, cannot SELL trash can racks!

Tuesday morning after the Tipton, Okla., Livestock Show, I had the pleasure of drinking coffee with Jack Aaron and several other Burk Burnett businessmen. Jack looked down at his shoe and stated, "Just look at my shoe if you don't think that I'm a country banker." I just wanted to make it clear that whatever it was on Jack's shoe, he picked it up at the Livestock show the night before, not in his office.

Being a married man, I can't help wondering what happened to Roy Majors after he got home from the Evening Lions Club supper, which he jokingly called Halloween night instead of Ladies' night. I wonder if he got that lovin' he was talking about at the meeting, after making a statement like that. I hope that I don't bring any undue pressure on Roy by telling about his joke. All the men at Lions club thought it was funny.

In closing this column, I would like to thank the merchants and the people of Burk Burnett for the cooperation that they have given me. I have never worked in a town with the spirit and enthusiasm that Burk Burnett has.

I have enjoyed working with the people of Burk Burnett, and am looking forward to working further in a different capacity.

Christian Church Celebrates 50th Anniversary Sunday

Christian Church Anniversary

The Christian Church will celebrate its 50th anniversary this Sunday with a fellowship meal at 1:00 p.m. Also included in the celebration will be an anniversary service at 3:00.

The program includes Dr. Cecil Jarman, professor of religion at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth; Don Burks, minister of JanLee Baptist Church, Burk Burnett; Bryan Rose, minister of Park Place Christian Church, Wichita Falls; Walter Naff of the Brite Divinity School, Texas Christian University; Jim Kincaid, president of the congregation of the First Christian Church, and David Stout, minister of the First Christian Church.

The First Christian Church traces its beginning back to the year 1907. At that time a community church met in a one-room schoolhouse which was located on the property where the present church structure stands. The Reverend A. J. Bush drove every two weeks from Wichita Falls by horse and buggy to preach to the members of what was then known as the Central Christian Church.

The group grew in numbers and spirit until 1909, when the community church became the Methodist church, erecting a building at the Methodist church's present location.

The members of the Disciples of Christ moved to the Dreamland Theatre, where Sunday school was held until the time of the oil boom. In the winter of 1920-21, the members of the Disciples of Christ movement met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vann, 115 North Avenue D.

The original membership of this group was said to be 18-21. However, there are 31 people listed as charter members of the congregation of the church chartered and The First Christian Church of Burk Burnett, Texas.

In February, 1921, the congregation called its first minister, the Reverend McKinney. He led the members for one and one-half years. It was during this ministry that the church moved from the theater to its present location. The land was given to the church members by Burk Burnett philanthropist, John G. Hardin.

During the ministry of John D. White, who followed Reverend McKinney, an annex was added to the original building. This annex supplied the needed Sunday school rooms.

Just as it was the oil boom of the early 1920's that gave strength and substance to the Burk Burnett community and its newly formed Christian Church, so it was the East Texas oil boom of the 1930's that took a greater percentage of the church membership away. The church in this period had to struggle just to keep the doors open for Sunday school. It did not attempt to provide preaching services.

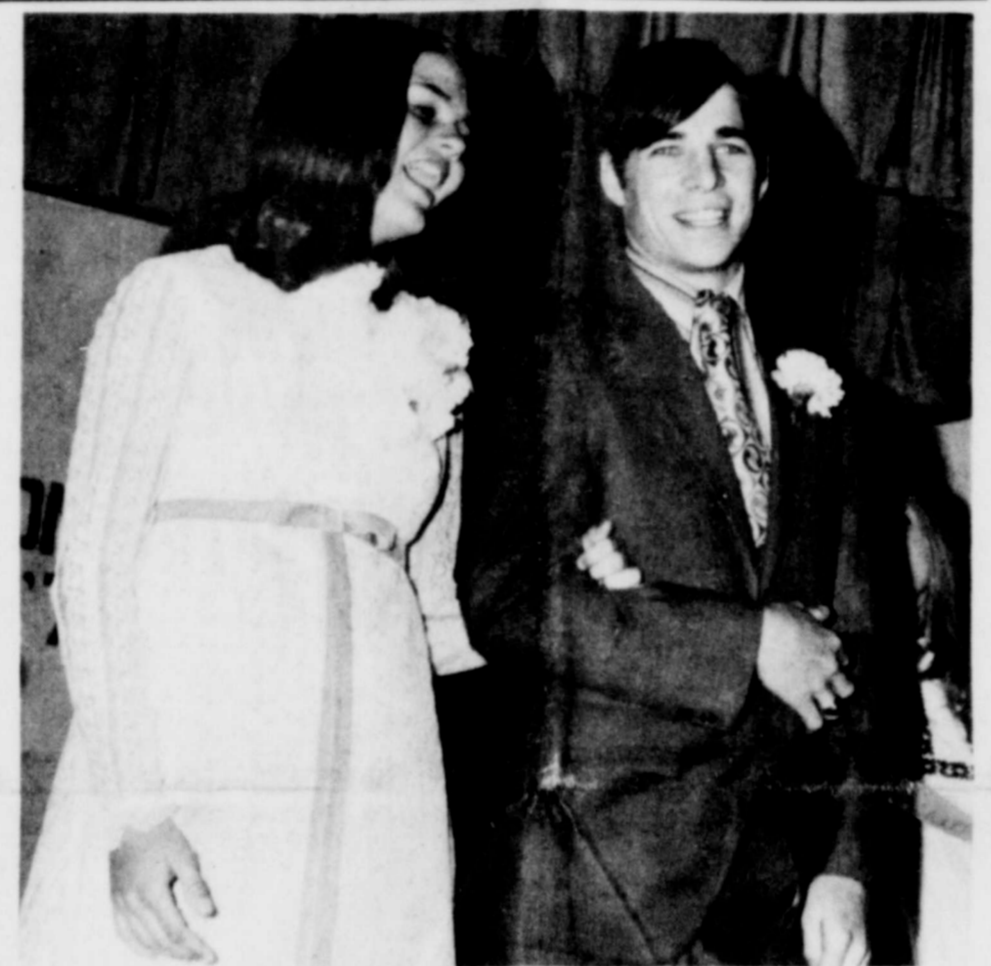

It was in this setting that a bold step was taken in 1936. The group that had almost suffered defeat undertook a new project. On the corner of Second St. and Avenue D stood an old building. The group decided to attempt the con-

Filing Deadline For City Council Election Mar. 5

The filing deadline for citizens wishing to be listed as candidates in the Burk Burnett City Council election is 5:00 p.m. March 5. The election will take place April 6. Three Council seats will be contested at that time.

Election of the Councilmen is staggered; three are elected one year and four are elected the next, with each member serving a two year term. This insures the council's having veteran councilmen on hand each year to lend the benefit of their experience to the new members, thus keeping operations of the Council running smoothly.

Incumbents whose terms have expired and who are running for re-election are Irv Smith, F. R. McCandless and A. H. Lohofener. The four Councilmen whose terms will continue until next year are Billy Smith, Albert Dillard, Joe Ray McCluskey and J. L. Caffee.

Burk C of C Directors Give Approval To Proposed 1971 Budget

Approval was given to the 1971 Chamber budget of $18,434.40 by the Chamber of Commerce Directors at a noon luncheon meeting Monday. The budget consisted of $475.00 for Agri-business, $150.00 for community development, $500.00 for industrial development, $500.00 for the Oil Park, $100.00 planning, $665 special affairs, $280.00 tourist promotion, the salaries for chamber manager Gene Allen and the chamber secretary, and general expenses.

President Jerry McClure reported that the January banquet, featuring Miss America, Phyllis George, was a great success. McClure then read a letter from Bob George, Phyllis' father. The letter read as follows:

Dear Gene,

Thanks for the expressive description of the capabilities of our daughter.

Louise and I were very much impressed with the warm friendly atmosphere which we were shown on our visit to your city. The unbiased attitude which we felt was prevalent in not only the people as a whole, but was shown in your Chamber activities also. It is our feeling that should we select a town other than Denton in which to live, Burk Burnett would be our choice.

In closing, we would like to use this letter as thanks for the tour through the Sheppard Base Hospital, for the gracious way in which my wife and daughter and myself were entertained before and after the Banquet. Mr. and Mrs. Rhea Howard were most entertaining during the dinner.

Kindest Regards,
Louise, Bob & Phyllis George

Anyone wishing to make such a donation to the project is urged to do so by contacting Bill Vincent, Chuck Crumpler, James Easter or the Burk Burnett Chamber of Commerce.

Guidelines Of Life

By Max Dowling, Pastor
Central Baptist Church

The question whether parental influence and example have much to do with today's drinking is being discussed freely by many concerned individuals. Some parents see no harm at all in parental drinking in the presence of the children; some others, like this pastor, see no good in it.

A majority of divorced persons I have tried to help named drinking as one of the causes of divorce. Whiskey and home life never went together. The prevalence of liquor, with father or mother as bartender, is the worst of possible influences on growing children. We know that of every ten persons who start to drink, one will end up either a problem drinker or an alcoholic (a problem drinker is an alcoholic in the making). Parents who drink beer, wine or whiskey induct their children into a social custom and habit which is inspired by the Devil, and which has a 10 per cent chance of being fatal to them physically, morally and spiritually. The Bible definitely states that the drunkard will not enter the Kingdom of Heaven (I Corinthians 6:9-10). The chance of a child dying of polio is one in several hundred; from drinking, one in ten.

Parents: "If you don't drink, DON'T START; if you do drink, STOP NOW!"

struction of a new building, using the best parts of the old building and the annex. This was accomplished, and it is certain that more was gained than lost in the experience. The present church building is a result of this effort. The fellowship hall and the church school rooms which are presently connected with the church building were added more recently. The church is purchasing the property to the east of the building, thinking of future building needs.

The church annex was used for many years as a service building. The various service organizations of the community met in the annex and the women of the church provided meals, the balance of the income going to the building project. Among the groups who used the facility were the Lions' Club and the Rotarians.

The Reverend David Stout serves the congregation at present.

Burk Bulldogs Contenders For District 4-AAA

The Burkburnett Bulldogs became primary contenders for the District 4-AAA crown Tuesday night when they defeated Brownwood 62-58. They now share the number one spot with Hirschi.

The varsity team ran circles around the giants (6'6", 6'4" and 6'3") of Brownwood in the first period. Burk was first on the scoreboard with a freethrow by Steve Cremeens, who later added two points to the Burk lead. Mike Britton of the Lions put Brownwood on the scoreboard with his field goal late in the first period. The Bulldogs had a comfortable 14-5 lead at the end of the period.

Brownwood came alive for a few moments in the second period to score heavily on the Bulldogs. Burk's lack of success on freethrows began to take its toll as the Lions moved within four points of the lead at the end of the half.

The third period saw the Lions tie with Burk early in the quarter until Larry Van Loh broke it up with a superb jump shot. The Bulldogs maintained a margin of a few points for the next few minutes until the Lions began an all-out effort to score.

The score shifted this way and that in the fourth period as the Bulldogs and Lions battled for points. Freethrows on fouls and bad passes played key roles in the scoring of both teams.

With 4:20 left on the clock, it seemed all was lost as Brownwood moved ahead for the first time in the evening with a score of 52-49. This lead was whittled away by Tom Bloodworth's two freethrow shots and a brilliant defensive move by Randy Aaron, who scored two points. Freethrows by Bloodworth and VanLoh added a safe margin, which Brownwood quickly destroyed.

With a mere 45 seconds left Burk scored the winning four points on freethrows by Bloodworth and Jim Sims and a fieldgoal by Cremeens.

BASKETBALL QUEEN CROWNED--Miss Pat Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Zimmerman, was crowned Basketball Queen for 1971 at the game against Brownwood Tuesday night in Bulldog Gym. Pat is president of the high school Pep Squad, and is also a member of the student council, FHA, FTA, Derrick Staff and National Honor Society. She served as vice president of her freshman and sophomore classes and was a member of the Spanish Club. Steve Cremeens acted as her escort.

April 3 Date Set For School Board Election

At its regular meeting Monday night, the Burkburnett School Board set April 3 as the date for the election of new school trustees.

Trustee positions to be filled at the election are Places 1, 2 and 3. These places are presently held by incumbents Norman Roberts, Weldon Nix and Gene Bankhead.

The deadline for filing as a candidate was set at March 3. Absentee balloting is scheduled for March 12 through 30.

Polling will take place in the high school building, with Francis Felty serving as election judge.

Also during the meeting the board determined that cafeteria workers are to be placed on a basic hourly wage of $1.60 and cafeteria supervisors on a monthly basis of $250.

The board approved the employment for the current school year of Marla English, Landis Hogue, Suzanne Humphrey and Sandie Pickett. Resignations were accepted from Jeanne Holly and Paula Sampson, and a leave of absence was approved for Mrs. Sara Seagler.

Discussion of supplementary salary aid for teachers was tabled until such time as more comprehensive analysis of the matter can be completed.

In other board action, discussion of employing an assistant superintendent of schools was deferred to a special board meeting set for 7 p.m. this coming Monday. It was also decided to postpone until that special meeting discussion of approval of contracts of other personnel, including school principals.

Dental Health Week Observed By Grade School

The third grade classes at Hardin Grade School observed Dental Health Week Tuesday with a program on the care of the teeth, which was given by Dr. Bill Boardman.

In the presentation, Dr. Boardman, a local dentist, explained the use of disclosing tablets. He also showed the students pieces of dental floss and demonstrated its use.

To highlight the program, a student was chosen by each third grade teacher to represent his class. From these students Dr. Boardman, with the aid of his assistant and Mrs. Moore, the school nurse, selected the two students with the best smiles.

Selected as smile champions were Anthony Walker, of Miss Reed's 3-1 room, and Cindy Bolbach, who is a special education student.

Ropes should not in themselves be very hazardous, but playing with ropes can be fatal.

During the past decade 33 children, mostly boys, have died in accidental hangings in Oklahoma.

There were five such deaths each in 1961 and 1966, and only one each in 1960 and 1965. There were three last year.

This type of accident usually comes about when a youngster playing with a rope in a tree falls out and becomes entangled in the rope. The result—a broken neck or strangulation.

Tangled and strangled is a safety watchword!

SPORTS SIDELIGHTS

by Robert Sturges

It's another of those "do or die" situations now. We have to beat our long-time rivals, the Hirschi Huskies, in order to take the District 4-AAA title this season. As it stands now, we are the co-holders of the number one slot with Hirschi. So we come down to that most basic of issues--can we do it?

Well, first off the team have already met on the basketball battlefield once this season, and Hirschi thrashed us 73-56. In that meeting the Bulldogs were uncoordinated in their plays and strategies. Confusion reigned supreme.

Now the varsity is at the top of conditioning, with a full season of experience behind them. Can they put this experience to work against Hirschi?

I should think so. While watching the games this season, I observed how some tactics were used repeatedly under the same circumstances which occurred in previous games. This shows the use of experience. Add to this the veteran players Tom Bloodworth Larry VanLoh, Randy Aaron, and others, plus the swiftness and accuracy of Steve Cremeens and Danny Furmanek and you have a well-rounded team.

So much for back slapping. The team knows the problem before them. They have to face a long-time foe, who is favored to win district (as usual) and has beaten them before. We the fans must also face that problem. Often when the team is doing well (which they are) we tend to think they don't need our support. This is not the case.

We need to be there at the Hirschi game, not only to support our team, but to show Hirschi that we back our team-win or lose.

If you don't know where Hirschi High School is, find out and be there Friday night at 6:00 to watch Burk's biggest game of the year.

Mrs. Willmon read Genesis 13:1-4 and led the prayer for missionaries and local shut-ins. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Mabry, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. H.S. Butts.

Mrs. Ola Quattlebaum, bible teacher, read from the book of Luke, Chapter 10:25-37, and ably analyzed "The Good Samaritan." Three different translations of this passage were read by Mmes. Mabry, Raymond Smart and Howard McCrary.

Those present and enjoying refreshments were: Mmes. L. D. Hardeman, I.C. Evans, Thaxton, Willmon, Butts, Quattlebaum, Kathleen Bowles, Smart, McCrary, Lillie Williamson and the hostess.

Meeting Held By Friendly Homemakers

The Friendly Homemakers Home Demonstration Club met Thursday, Jan. 28, in the home of Mrs. Pearl Draper. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Jane Latour.

Members answered the roll call by telling what they notice first about a person.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, and the treasurer's report was given. Mrs. Ellen Morris volunteered to be the new council delegate.

The program was entitled, "A Good Breakfast" and was given by Mrs. Mary Matteson. A safety bin on good heater ventilation was given by Mrs. Mattie Cheney.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Myrna Ballard.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served to: Mmes. Bachtel, Ballard, Bangs, Cheney, Draper, Latour, Matteson, Morris, McBride, Mannen and two guests, Mrs. Bonnie Bean and Mrs. Marge Eaton.

CYF Conducts Service At Christian Church

The members of the Christian Youth Fellowship were in charge of the morning worship service Sunday at the First Christian Church.

David Norwood gave the invocation and led the congregation in The Lord's Prayer. A poem, "The Fence or an Ambulance," was read by Kathy Kincaid. Kathy Paulsen was in charge of the silent meditation and morning prayer.

Jo Wayne Scroggs, Troy Rogers, Gay Froman and Tom Bloodworth passed the communion emblems. Karen Paulsen gave the official speech.

The contributions of the young people, in addition to the special music presented by the choir under the direction of David Year, added much to the message by Rev. David Stout, "A Fence or an Ambulance."

How To Keep A Battery Up
If you have a battery or several batteries in storage during the off season, don't just forget about them. The engineers at Champion Spark Plug Company say that the wise farmer periodically checks each battery in storage. And if a weak one is found, it should be charged before it loses all its power.
Remember, too, that as the temperature drops, a battery's ability to take a charge drops proportionately. So you want to keep batteries in a cool, dry spot -- but a spot that's not too cold.

We Salute SHEPPARD AIR FORCE BASE

UP, UP & AWAY
Eddie Laxson

Last week's column concerned overheard conversations between WAFS and male flight students. The WAFS were based at Kerrville, Tex. The mentioned conversations would take place at Kerrville when a flight of 10 to 15 bi-planes, with WAFS soloing, would land for fuel before continuing on to San Antonio, then back to their base.

This week's writing reveals an experience when one of the planes did not show up at Kerrville on schedule.

As I recall the deal, all the planes waited and waited two or three hours and still no Stearman and WAF pilot. Afters had been notified and phones were kept busy. Each plane had less than three hours of fuel aboard when leaving their base.

After two hours of waiting we pilots were ordered to take to the air in a planned search for a probably wrecked plane. Some 15 planes crisscrossed the rough mountainous and timbered terrain surrounding Kerrville.

Then San Antonio planes became involved. One of the San Antonio pilots found the downed yellow craft about one hour before sunset. The pretty pilot had obeyed her instruction and stayed with the plane.

No available landing fields were within miles of the plane. The disorienting pilot brought the location back to Kerrville and help was dispatched. Could not get near the plane in cars or trucks. Wagon, then horseback reached the plane before dark.

The WAF student did not have a scratch. The plane was not harmed in any way. To get the plane down from the side of the mountain, it had to be completely disassembled and hauled out on a road made by heavy equipment.

I listened to officers while they asked the pilot preliminary investigating questions.

Her side of the story was that she became lost and kept thinking she would orient herself or find a suitable landing spot. Neither happened and she stayed in the air until the engine stopped for lack of fuel.

She gave the Good Lord credit for her safety, and officers were fast to agree when she told them she did not know what to do and put both hands over her eyes as she could not bear to see the plane crash.

"Yes," one investigator said, "He sure had his arm around you on that landing."

Another one of my observations over the years is that planes are damaged more by flying them out of forced landing fields than when flying into the spots. Another observation (not many will agree with this one) -- mechanics had rather repair a plane after a student force lands it than after an instructor has been in command of a plane forced down. I can cite one instance, just north and a little west of Sheppard AFB in 1943.

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--SAFETY AWARD--Patrolman Ralph Briscoe, a safety officer with Region 5, Texas Department of Public Safety, receives a plaque in appreciation of his support in the traffic safety program at Sheppard AFB, from Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Page, Sheppard commander. Patrolman Briscoe has presented safety programs at Sheppard since 1962. He is being transferred to Waco, Texas, to be the safety lieutenant there.

Decorations Presented To Mrs. Reams

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--The Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, and two Oak Leaf Clusters (OLC) to the Air Medal were awarded posthumously Friday morning at Sheppard Air Force Base.

The decorations were presented to Mrs. Terry D. Reams, whose husband, Staff Sergeant Reams, was killed in a helicopter accident in Thailand, Aug. 14, 1970.

Awarding the medals was Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Page, commander of Sheppard Technical Training Center.

The DFC was awarded for Sergeant Reams' heroism while participating in aerial flight as a flight mechanic on a CH-3E helicopter in Southeast Asia, July 17, 1970.

The citation read, "On that date, Sergeant Reams was in a formation of four helicopters launched deep into hostile territory to supply reinforcements to a battalion of friendly indigenous troops in contact with a superior hostile force. Despite marginal weather, ground fire, and intense hostile activity in the landing zone, Sergeant Reams steadily pursued the accomplishment of the mission until it was no longer feasible to continue."

The basic Air Medal and First OLC were presented for his meritorious achievement while participating in sustained aerial flight as a crew member in Southeast Asia from July 2, 1969 to June 21, 1970 and from June 22 to Aug. 10, 1970, respectively.

The Second OLC was awarded for his achievement in sustained aerial flight on Aug. 13, 1970.

"On that date," the citation read, "Sergeant Reams participated superbly in accomplishing highly intricate missions to support Free World Forces that were combatting aggression."

Mrs. Reams and her son, Robert, 8, are residing in Wichita Falls.

Chaplain (Col.) Richard D. Trapp

Trapp Assumes Position Of New Center Chaplain

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Chaplain (Col.) Richard D. Trapp, a former infantry officer in the European Theater during World War II, has assumed the position of center chaplain at Sheppard Air Force Base.

Chaplain Trapp entered the Air Force chaplaincy in December, 1953, two years after his graduation from Wartburg Theological Seminary in Waverly, Ia.

Prior to his assignment at Sheppard, Chaplain Trapp was wing chaplain at Hickam AFB, Hawaii from August 1968 to January 1971.

He was also stationed at Headquarters, Air Training Command, Office of the Command Chaplain, where he worked in the Professional Division and later in the Personnel and Training Services Division. He was at ATC from May 1965 to August 1968.

Chaplain Trapp began his pre-seminary education at the University of Dubuque in Dubuque, Ia. Following a tour of duty with the U.S. Army from February 1942 to March 1946, he continued his education at Wartburg College, where he received his bachelor of arts degree in 1949.

The Lutheran chaplain is a veteran of World War II where he served in the European Theater for 18 months as an infantry officer. While there, he received the Purple Heart.

Among his other decorations are the Bronze Star, the Meritorious Service Medal, Air Force Commendation Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and several World War II decorations.

He and his wife, Helen, reside at 205 Polaris at Sheppard, with their two sons, Paul, 13, and Mark, 12. Both boys will attend Burkburnett schools.

Thompson Is Airman Instructor Of The Year

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Sgt. Jimmy W. Thompson, a computer programming instructor, has been named Airman Instructor of the Year (staff sergeant and below) from Sheppard's 3750th Technical School.

Sergeant Thompson received the Tech School nomination for his outstanding and exemplary performance as an instructor with the school's Department of Comptrol Training.

He will compete with a nominee from the Medical Service School for the chance to represent Sheppard Technical Training Center in Air Training Command competition.

The Airman Instructor of the Year program was initiated in 1963 to honor the top enlisted instructor in the command. This year officials realized that younger less experienced instructors could not be expected to compete with higher ranking,

Area Air Traffic Ranks 12th Heaviest In U.S.

By Lt. Col. (USAF Res.) Joe Calvit

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Air traffic around Sheppard AFB and Wichita Falls ranks among the heaviest in the United States--exceeded at only 11 other terminals.

But you don't get the complete picture until you scan the flight control radar screens at Sheppard. On an average day the scopes are peppered with blips, showing a surprisingly high concentration of aircraft within 35 to 40 miles of the base.

Sheppard's student jet training areas northeast, northwest, southwest and south of Wichita Falls, all clearly marked on all standard aeronautical maps, carry the heaviest traffic, with altitudes from 10,000 to 23,000 feet generally reserved for student pilot training.

Traffic of the magnitude around Sheppard necessitates close cooperation between military and civilian authorities, especially since Sheppard officials do not want to impose a burden on civilian aviation in the area.

Fortunately, Sheppard and the Wichita Falls terminal are served by a fully equipped control center -- a facility operated on Sheppard's north side around the clock by the 2054th Communications Squadron.

Commanded by Lt. Col. John M. Monk, Jr., a former Strategic Air Command pilot, the squadron controlled 94,461 aircraft movements during 1970, a total up 55 percent from 1969 and likely to be exceeded this year.

"The marked gain was the result of increased support given the Sheppard flying training mission due to expanded capability of the facility," Colonel Monk said.

The 2054th Squadron operates Sheppard's radar approach control (RAPCON) facility as well as the traffic tower, serving aircraft coming into and flying out of Sheppard and the civilian terminal as well as planes overflying the area. The squadron is a "guest" at Sheppard, being part of the U.S. Air Force Communications Service and assigned to the Southern Area with headquarters at Oklahoma City Air Station.

Chief responsibility in the RAPCON operations is to vector pilots of Sheppard's T-37s and T-38s to designated training areas, monitor their zones during their exercises and guide them safely home. Although on priorities is instrument and radar control assistance to civilian aircraft within a 30-to-50 mile radius of the base.

During 1970, T-37 and T-38 flights from Sheppard came under positive control of RAPCON crews here, and brought even closer cooperation between the Air Force controllers and the civilian Federal Aviation Administration center in Fort Worth, which has traffic control responsibility for all aircraft flying over a huge area of North and West Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

Flights out of Sheppard are radar controlled from the time of takeoff until reaching hand-off points 15 to 20 miles out, where the Fort Worth center takes jurisdiction. After transfer, the center is responsible for control of aircraft in the designated training areas. The center attempts to keep civilian traffic out of the areas at the training altitudes during time of use.

On return flights the Fort Worth center releases control of Sheppard's aircraft at pre-

World War II Stearman PT-17 Flown By Dodge

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--If you should see an open-cockpit bi-plane diving out of the sun at 12-o'clock-high, have no fear. The Red Baron has not returned.

It's just Capt. Tom Dodge turning back the calendar in his vintage World War II Stearman PT-17.

A T-37 instructor pilot in the 3631st Pilot Training Squadron, 3630th Flying Training Wing, Captain Dodge takes to the air for fun in the Stearman whenever weather and time permit.

"The plane tends to bring out the Walter Mitty in you," says his friend Capt. Chet Sevilla, also of the 3631st PTS. "There is the wind in your face, the hum in the wires, the exhaust smell, and the roar of the engine. It sends your thoughts back to WWII, wearing your white scarf and looking for the Red Baron," he says dreamily.

This particular plane -- N63896 -- was manufactured by Boeing in Seattle, Wash., in 1941. It, and many like it, were used as a basic trainer for the Army Air Corps. After WWII many were available for private sale for as little as $500. Captain Dodge's plane is currently valued at $9,000. N63896 is based at Wichita Valley airport on the western edge of the Wichita Falls city limits. There it is maintained in excellent condition by Captain Dodge and his wife Norma, who also flies the plane. She has her pilot's license and solos in the Stearman. Husband and wife spend many hours lavishing tender loving care on their old aircraft.

They frequently go to air shows in the PT-17. Although Captain Dodge flies mainly for pleasure, he spends many hours flying acrobatics for practice. He enjoys taking people for rides. Passengers have ranged from some who have never flown in a small aircraft to fellow instructors who want to see how much the plane can take.

Some of its credentials are modest. Others are mighty impressive. It is rated at plus or minus 10 Gs (10 times the pull of gravity) compared with the T-37 which is a 6.67 plus and 2.67 minus G rating.

The Stearman is a two-seater with a 12,000-foot ceiling. It climbs at 700 feet-per-minute, cruises at 95 miles per hour, has a normal maximum speed of 195 miles per hour but makes 186 miles per hour in a dive. Stalling speed is 55 miles per hour. Gross weight is 2,820 pounds with a 46-gallon fuel capacity. The power plant is a Continental R670/220 horse power, seven cylinder radial engine.

Among the acrobatic maneuvers it can manage are loop, immelman, hammerhead stalls, snap rolls, split-S, cloverleaf, barrel roll, aileron roll, spins (upright and inverted). "Captain Dodge flies them all well," asserts Captain Sevilla.

"When flying in inverted flight you are happy to abide by FFA requirements to wear a parachute. One feels an urge to check seat belts. There is nothing between you and the ground but air," Captain Sevilla observed.

Top Officials Commend Domestic Program

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Sheppard's Domestic Action Program, headed in part by Betty J. Dickens, has been commended for its job by the Secretary of Defense and other top defense officials.

Commendations were received recently from Melvin A. Laird, Secretary of Defense; Robert C. Seamans, Jr., Secretary of the Air Force; Gen. John D. Ryan, Air Force chief of Staff; Lt. Gen. George B. Simler, ATC commander; and Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Page, commander of Sheppard Technical Training Center.

Secretary Laird's letter read in part, "I was pleased to learn of the impressive record compiled... Your success in substantially exceeding both the domestic action goals for the past summer and the 1969 level of activities is commendable."

"I, too, share Secretary Laird's feelings of personal satisfaction in the successful use of our very great capabilities to help improve the quality of our domestic society," added General Page.

The local program consisted of two parts. One portion was run in conjunction with the local Community Action Corporation. It provided courses in the refrigeration and nurse's aide fields.

Additional jobs were provided during the summer by the Summer Employment Program. There were two phases to this portion of the over-all program.

The first phase was the stay-in-school program. Nine area teenagers took part in this program during which they worked part-time during the school months and full time during the summer.

The second phase was the summer employment program. This program employed more than 100 disadvantaged teenagers on a temporary full-time basis through the summer. Jobs performed included routine office duties, grounds keeping, janitorial work and food services aides.

Included in that number were 34 recruited by the Fort Hill Indian School in Oklahoma. "We received some excellent performance reports from supervisors," according to Miss Dickens, "and as far as I know, all the kids returned to school in the fall."

While here the summer workers were given tours of various points of interest at Sheppard and were counseled in both their job and education.

Miss Dickens said that although plans had not yet been finalized, she was looking forward to a similar program next year.

Mid Tex Farm And Ranch Show Planned For Feb.

Texas farmers and livestock men have been assured of being able to inspect a big collection of the latest agricultural equipment at the two-day Mid-Tex Farm and Ranch Show in Waco, Feb. 16-17.

o' Texas Coliseum has been filled up.

A full complement of the latest in tractors, combines, forage handling equipment, livestock haulers and handlers, agricultural chemical and fertilizers, and hundreds of other items will be on exhibit.

Sponsors of the show are the Waco Chamber of Commerce, Texas Power & Light Co., The Texas Farmer-Stockman magazine, and the Waco Farm and Ranch Club. Admission will be free.

Jerry Singleton, chairman of the event, said it's hard for farmers and ranchers to beat the combination available to them with the show -- comparison of the latest equipment from major manufacturers at one time and place during the mid-winter slack weather. That, plus the fact that weather can't interfere, makes the Waco show something special.

Doors will be open both days from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

TOGETHER

Brothers — together — helping one another. We are our brother's keeper and his helper. Comfort, cheer, and encouragement should be given to each other.

There should be a willingness on the part of each to sacrifice for the other.

A Divine Example was sent to us, and these are His words: "This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

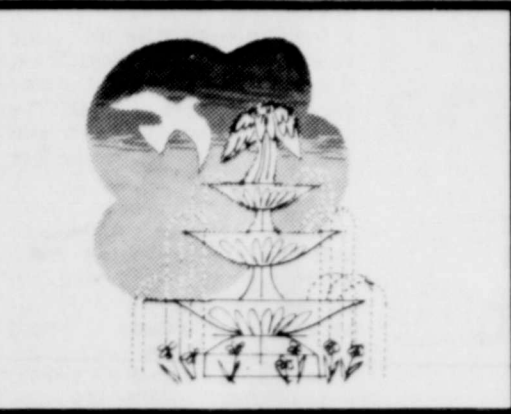

You are invited to attend church Sunday to learn more of the One who gave us this commandment.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every man should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Windbreak Planting Stock Protects House

The effects of winter winds are much worse if your house is poorly protected when temperatures drop below the comfort level. One of the best ways to protect your house, barns and other enclosures from high winds in the summer as well as in winter, is to plant a windbreak of selected trees and shrubs on the windward side of your farmstead.

A properly designed windbreak will deflect the wind up and over buildings and livestock enclosures, decreases snow drifting and increases the efficiency of wall and roof insulation in buildings.

Applications for windbreak planting stock are available from your County Agricultural Agent and Soil Conservation District offices.

Information on windbreaks, including tree and shrub selection, design, planting, and maintenance, may be obtained from the Texas Forest Service, College Station, Texas 77843.

and chops, shoulder roasts and steaks, hams and picnics. Chicken prices remain about the same as for the past weeks and the supply is still plentiful. Grade A large eggs continue to offer the best value for your egg money.

Best fruit choices include Texas grapefruit, oranges, tangelos, and bananas and avocados. Apples are still good values, by the pound or by the bag.

Vegetable items in ample supply and with low prices are carrots and sweet potatoes. Some markets are featuring special prices on tomatoes. Broccoli, cabbage, celery, turnips, rutabagas, yellow onions, and both red and russet potatoes are also good choices.

Market Reports Food Prices To Increase In 1971

Retail food prices are expected to increase again in 1971, but the rise won't be as great as in the past two years, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

To stretch your food budget, combine good judgment and market knowledge in selecting foods.

Attractive specials this week in the meat market on beef include chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, liver, and round steaks and roasts. Pork values include end-cut loin roasts

1971 Leaders In Rodeo Events Are Announced

Non-title holders are leading the 1971 rodeo season in all but one event, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said in Denver recently.

The only reigning world champion in the lead as of Feb. 1 for his event title this year is Paul Mayo, of Grinnell, Iowa, the 1966 and 1970 world champion bareback bronc rider. The 28-year-old cowboy, who won $26,644 in bareback riding last year, has won $4,456 in the event so far this season.

Mayo, who also competes in bull riding, has won an overall total of $5,701, placing him in the lead for the 1971 all around championship.

World championships are based on winnings; the annual all around championship goes to the cowboy winning the most money in two or more events.

In steer wrestling, Joe Watkins, 32, of Montview, Calif., leads with $5,282. Watkins, a native of Arkansas, is off to the best financial start of his professional rodeo career.

Another top cowboy who has yet to win a championship is 34-year-old Olin Young, of Peralta, N.M. Young, who has won more than $200,000 in the past 15 years, is in the lead for the calf roping title this season with $9,010 in winnings.

In bull riding, 21-year-old Sandy Kirby, of Woodstown, N.J., leads with $3,204. Born in Salem, N.J., Kirby has been a top-ranked contestant in the event for the past three years.

Canadian Mel Hyland, of Surrey, B.C., leads the saddle bronc riders with $1,936. Hyland finished the 1970 season in second place in the event, with winnings of $2,453. Team ropers Rucky Bradford, of Tucson, Ariz., and Gary Gist, of Lakeside, Calif., lead their event with $748 each in winnings.

Winter Feeding Is Important For Beef Herd

The cow-calf operator in the Rolling Plains area is annually faced with the problem of supplemental feeding. His goal should be to maintain the breeding herd in a productive, thrifty condition, says Dr. Roy Miller of Vernon, area range and brush control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Studies have shown that maintaining excessive body weight in cows tends to reduce production efficiency and to shorten their productive life span. On the other hand, cows that are permitted to lose excessive amounts of weight may be poor milkers and slow to breed or may not breed at all. This will result in light calves and poor calf crops.

Research conducted in the Rolling Plains indicates that a 1,000 pound cow can lose from 100 to 125 pounds during the winter months without detrimental effects on her productive capacity, points out Miller. However, mineral and vitamin nutrition must be adequate.

In developing a supplemental feeding program, ranchmen should consider the kinds and amount of forage plants available, breeding or calving season and current weather conditions, particularly the amount of rainfall and its distribution.

Looking at the forage picture, the specialist points out that grasses in the Rolling Plains are generally high in protein, vitamins and phosphorus and low in fiber when they are young and succulent. As they mature they become lower in protein, phosphorus and Vitamin A and increase in fiber.

On a dry matter basis, the energy content of grasses is fairly constant with a slight reduction in value after maturity. Warm season grasses such as grama grasses, buffalograss and the bluestems will be deficient in protein, phosphorus and possibly Vitamin A during the dormant season but will furnish adequate amounts of energy. Therefore, primary concern is for furnishing protein, phosphorus and Vitamin A.

On ranges that have a good complement of Texas wintergrass, palatable weeds and winter growing annual grasses, supplemental feeding may not be necessary since the winter growing grasses furnish adequate amounts of both protein and Vitamin A. However, a phosphorus supplement should be provided at least during the late fall and winter months.

Calving and the nutritional demands of milk production put cows into a period of stress during the winter, says Miller. In years when the fall and winter period is dry, herds that calve early (October, November) may derive more benefit from supplemental feeding than those calving later in the season.

Ranchmen should consider carefully the breeding and calving seasons as they relate to the seasonal supply and quality of forages and nutritional stress periods experienced by cows. Weaning weights and conception rates are of prime importance in the development of supplemental feeding practices.

When dry conditions thwart the growth of winter grasses, supplemental feeding of protein is dictated, Miller points out. The most significant results of such feeding show up in conception of the following year's calf crop rather than in increased weaning weights of the current calf crop.

Thus, the livestock operator should be well acquainted with his forage resources and growing conditions. Supplemental feeding may well be justified one year and not another. The stockman needs to be prepared for the exceptional year if he is to make economically sound decisions, advises the specialist.

Burk Students Enter Houston Livestock Show

Twelve members of the Burkburnett FFA Chapter have entered livestock in the 1971 Houston Livestock Show February 24 through March 7, to be held in the Livestock Exposition Building, adjacent to the domed stadium.

They are as follows: Rick Beard - 2 barrows; Clint Swinford - 2 barrows; Rick Shaffer - 2 barrows; Craig Crumpler - 2 barrows; Richard Clark - 2 barrows; Steve Kinnard - 2 barrows; Tommy Kerr - 2 barrows; Vernon Smith - 2 barrows; Rick Bradley - 2 barrows; Bill O'Rourke - 1 barrow; Rusty Mullens - 1 barrow; Brett Nether - 1 barrow.

The Houston show is the largest livestock show in the world, and this year entry figures and premium money are expected to exceed all previous years. Last year's 17,756 livestock entries set a record. Classes are provided for 9 beef breeds, 4 dairy breeds, 5 swine breeds, 11 sheep breeds, 5 horse breeds, 5 rabbit breeds, 22 poultry breeds and Angora goats.

Among other programs benefiting youth on a statewide basis are the scholarship and research programs. The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo annually presents scholarships to outstanding FFA and 4-H Club members in the amount of $4,000 each. More than 40 students are currently attending college on scholarships provided by this non-profit civic event.

The research program was established in 1970 by the show to be conducted in nine Texas agricultural colleges. Much of the work is done by students, thus providing jobs for those college students who need to work.

The knowledge that is shared through this $100,000 research program directly benefits Texas agri-business.

Dates for the 1971 Houston Show are February 24 through March 7, with the first two days set aside solely for livestock judging and sales.

The rodeo will open on Feb. 26, with Johnny Cash headlining matinee and evening performances on Feb. 26, 27 and 28; B. J. Thomas at evening performances on March 1, 2, 3 and 4; and Glen Campbell at the evening performance March 5 and the matinee and evening performances March 6 and 7.

Tickets may be obtained by writing the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, P. O. Box 20070, Houston, Texas 77025.

weaning weights of calves can result when control measures are not used.

Range seeding should be considered as a means of increasing the productivity of abandoned cropland or rangeland that is in extremely poor condition. Range seeding will not work miracles but with careful planning and good management, it can greatly increase forage production.

The loss of a calf crop can result from the use of a non-breeding herd sire and that could amount to a sizeable disaster. The chance for such a happening can largely be eliminated by having a fertility check of the sire or sires.

The local veterinarian can make the check and predict with a high degree of accuracy the breeding potential of the herd sire before he is turned out with the cow herd.

The semen evaluation of the sire should be done a few weeks before the breeding season. In cases of substandard breeders, this allows for sufficient time to find and test replacements.

Bulls which do not meet minimum standards can be sold or held for retest depending upon the advice of the veterinarian.

Semen testing also provides an opportune time for a complete physical of the bull, which should include the feet and legs.

Uninhibited weed and grass in fence rows, around buildings, signs, ditches, etc., causes major problems for many farmers and homeowners. These weeds are unsightly, serve as a natural habitat for insects and diseases and are a potential fire hazard. These weeds will also produce enough seed to infest large parts of adjoining fields, gardens or flowerbeds.

The control of these weeds can be accomplished by either pre-emergence or post-emergence treatments. Post-emergence treatments with contact materials such as MSMA or paraquat will kill existing plants but regrowth will occur. Consequently, further treatments may be necessary the same season. Pre-emergence treatments with approved soil sterilants can last from two to five years. A mixture of both types may be applied to kill existing weeds and also prevent regrowth.

Employers who made timely deposits of social security taxes on wages paid to hired labor must file Form 943 and pay remaining social security tax due by February 10.

If a declaration of estimated tax was not filed by January 15, the 1970 income tax is due March 1.

All farm businesses must report payments of rents and interest amounting to $600 or more to any one taxpayer other than a corporation. This is reported on Form 1096 and Form 1099, which are information returns.

There is no profit in feeding cattle lice. These parasites are among the most damaging to beef cattle. Infested cattle spend a lot of time rubbing against fences, posts and other objects due to the annoyance caused by these pests. More feed is required to maintain the condition of breeding cattle and to keep feedlot cattle gaining.

Infested cows lose weight and their calves become prime targets for the pests. Reduced Several species of grasses are adapted and available for use in the High and Rolling Plains. These include western wheatgrass, blue grama, kleingrass, King ranch bluestem, little bluestem, sideoats grama, sand lovegrass, weeping lovegrass, indiangrass and big bluestem. Selection of species or group of species is extremely important and should be based on soil characteristics, climate, class of livestock to be grazed and the season in which it is to be used.

Planting may be done by broadcast methods or with an appropriate drill. Stand success is best when seed are drilled about one-half inch deep, into a good firm seed bed and decreases accordingly as conditions become progressively poorer.

Planting is best done during a period of the year when temperatures are adequate for germination and the probability of rainfall is high. Generally the best time is around April 1 in the spring and from mid-August on into the summer and fall depending on moisture conditions.

Seeded areas should be deferred for one full year after planting and lightly grazed the second winter. Weed control should be used as needed during the first year. Management thereafter should be designed to perpetuate the stand while harvesting forage crops.

Assistant State 4-H Club Leader Lanny Bullard will be in Wichita County Feb. 15 and 16 to lead two 4-H workshops.

The workshops will be held at the ASCS Building in Iowa Park beginning at 7:30 p.m. The workshop on Monday will be on "4-H Method Demonstrations." Method demonstrations are an important part of 4-H to help develop well-rounded young people. On Tuesday the workshop will be on "Keeping 4-H Records." All Wichita County 4-H'ers and their parents are urged to attend.

Lanny Bullard is a native of Longview, Texas. He joined the Texas Agricultural Extension Service staff three years ago as Assistant State 4-H Club Leader. He is chairman of the 4-H International Farm Youth Exchange Program and the 4-H Teen Caravan.

He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in Sociology from Texas A&M University and is currently working toward his Ph. D. in Adult Education.

For a New Kind of Stew, Serve Tuna Burgoo!
The French have their bouillabaisse, the Hungarians, their goulash - and the Kentuckians, their Burgoo! Usually this delicious stew takes hours to prepare. But savory Tuna Burgoo takes only minutes - and is inexpensive, too.
Tuna, of course, has the same complete protein found in lean beef. And it's lower in cholesterol and lower in calories, as well as lower in cost. (There's no waste with canned tuna in vegetable oil!)
For a delightful recipe booklet that's just like money in the bank, send for TUNA AS YOU LIKE IT. It's FREE! Send your name and address to: TUNA RESEARCH FOUNDATION, Box 501, Ferry Building, Terminal Island, Calif. 90731.

Styles from Suzanne

Today a woman leads a busy, multi-faceted life and needs a hairdo that will see her through the day and night. Whether you are a housewife or career girl, you probably don't have the time to redo your hair into an elaborate evening style after a day's work.

Suzanne Hardin

If you take a little time, you can find a flattering hair style that will allow you to look neat and well-groomed all day, but can be touched up at a moment's notice for evening.

Here are just three ideas for you. Each one can be dressed up or down. Using an electric hair-setter for ten minutes gives alluring fullness and curls to hair that was sleek and neat all day.

One thing you must remember though . . . the basis of any style is clean, healthy hair. Daily brushing and frequent washing are a must.

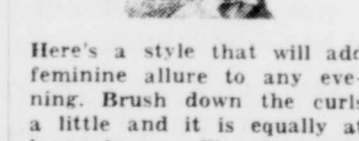

Winter sometimes finds us with dull, lifeless hair and flaky scalp. Regular use of a medicated shampoo - and Sebulex is the one I prefer - will keep your scalp healthy and your hair shiny. Sebulex is recommended by many doctors for stubborn cases of dandruff, but it is available without prescription wherever drugs are sold. The best time to start using a product like Sebulex is before dandruff and itching ruin your hair's looks.

Here's a style that will add feminine allure to any evening. Brush down the curls a little and it is equally at home in an office or supermarket.

Elegant enough to go dancing, but pin back the side wave with a small barrette and the same hairdo is neat and pretty for a busy day.

Revival of the classic mansard roof has meant added headspace and distinction for homes such as this handsome residence. Silver-gray heavyweight asphalt shingles, which blend with the pale blue walls, are fire and wind resistant.

Old French Roof Makes Comeback

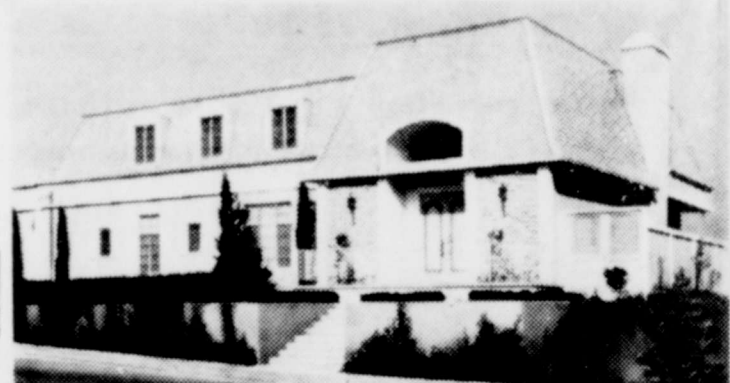

French students used to live their Bohemian lives in cold rooms in the "mansard," or garret, of those old Parisian buildings with steeply-slanted roofs wrapped around the top floor.

The attics were named after a 17th Century French architect, Francois Mansard.

In the 19th Century, mansard roofs became a nice tax dodge for landlords, since Parisian buildings were taxed according to the number of their stories. The almost-vertical mansards - actually false roofs - allowed the top floors to be spacious but untaxed because officially they contained only attic space. Dormer windows provided light and air.

Today American builders have revived the mansard roof, not as a tax dodge, but to add grace and extra top-floor space to private homes, townhouses and commercial buildings. This puts the roof more than ever on display, since the mansard is actually the wall around the top floor.

Attractive roofing is a requisite for a mansard roof, but more than looks should be considered when roofing material is selected. A quality roof must also be fire resistant, wind resistant and durable.

or more per 100 square feet of roofing area, meet all these requirements.

Because of their greater mass, they have an interesting, textured appearance, enhanced by the color of the protective mineral granules that coat asphalt shingles. Most popular colors for mansard roofs are the relatively new earth tones that have a warm natural appearance.

Heavyweight asphalt shingles that bear the label of the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., provide protection from fires caused by sparks and burning brands landing on a roof. The National Fire Protection Association, which lists flammable roofing as the leading cause of conflagrations, recommends fire-resistant roofing that meets at least the UL Class C rating.

The UL wind-resistant label is another indication of quality found on most heavyweight asphalt shingles. A factory-applied adhesive on the shingles is activated by the sun's heat to form a wind-resistant bond. Self-sealing asphalt shingles are tested to withstand gale-force winds.

A roof of heavyweight asphalt shingles is durable - the shingles are designed to last up to 25 years.

When is a door an important part of the decor? When it's new paneled or louvered wood door, finished in glowing wood tones or smart decorator colors.

Maybe you haven't looked at the doors in your home recently. And maybe there's a good reason - like they're too innocuous to notice.

There's a cure for this dull-door syndrome no farther away than your local building supply center. There you can see many styles of ponderosa pine doors, paneled or louvered - or both. Factory-made doors of ponderosa pine have the appearance of expensive custom carpentry, but the quality control is better and the cost is lower.

Stock wood doors are available in many styles, including Early American and many-paneled Mediterranean designs.
