RAYMOND GREENWOOD

If you don't get much of a newspaper this week--I guess you can blame the flu bug and me. The bug is "bugging" some of our employees and a bad fuel pump on my automobile "bugged" me Sunday afternoon to the extent that my family and I were stranded some 100 miles from here until Monday morning.

The ole car had just konked out and I had the hood up looking for the trouble. I really don't know why I had the hood up cause I don't know one thing about mechanicing, but that's what everybody in the movies always does so I tried it.

After a close look at the motor I decided it was best that I talked my wife into lying down in the middle of the road and see if an on coming car might stop. No sooner had that thought entered my mind than I heard a car slowing down. A young man and his family gave my wife and I a ride into the next town.

On my way in, I asked the fellow where he was from. "On up near Wichita Falls he says, just a little north of it in a town called Burk Burnett." "Ever hear of it he asked me?" I thought of telling him that I had heard of the town and that I had also heard that the newspaper man up there was the sorriest, low-down, worst newspaper man in the state--but I was afraid that he'd agree with me! Instead, I just told him that we too lived there.

It's been said many times how great the people up here are but you never really realize until you are stranded 100 miles from home and a citizen from Burk Burnett takes time out to lend you a helping hand.

Someone told me the other day that President Nixon stated that he wanted the upcoming election year to be non-partisan as possible and for people to consider the right man for the job.

This may be true, but some of his Senators and Congressmen failed to follow, as was evident in the Texas Press Convention held this past weekend in Ft. Worth. My wife and I, attending the convention, heard numerous reports from Texas Congressmen and other political figures. It seems that these fellows took a slap at one another's party affiliation every chance they had. This will prove to be a very interesting election year with as much interest being shown in the numerous races.

What's even more interesting at present is who is running against who and in what district. With all of the redistricting taking place, it's difficult to keep up with who will be a candidate for our district. Guess it'll be fun to watch and see the outcome of not only the redistricting plan but also how some of the current Congressmen fare competing against other long standing Congressmen.

At the meeting Saturday I was told of a large Republican meeting that was held in a county seat in Ohio, which was attended by a small boy who had four young puppy dogs which he offered for sale. Finally, one of the crowd, approaching the boy, asked: "Are these Republican pups, my son?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, then," said he, "I'll take these two."

About a week after this the Democrats held a meeting at the same place, and among the

Record Crowd Watches As Burk's Top Citizens Cited

One of the largest crowds to ever attend a Burk Burnett Chamber of Commerce banquet was on hand Thursday night as this year's event was held in the new Burk Burnett Community Center. The nearly 400 persons present were given the review of the year's accomplishments and they saw installation of the new officers for the coming year. The evening featured a double highlight as five special awards were presented prior to a "speech" made by Cowpokes cartoonist Ace Reid.

Receiving the special awards were: the Outstanding Woman--Mrs. Robert Norris; Outstanding Man--Rev. Lamoin Champ; Employee of the Year--David C. McNeil; Senior Citizen of the Year--Mrs. Florence Trevena; and the Outstanding Club of the Year--the Little League baseball organization. Jerry McClure, retiring chamber president, in turning the gavel over to Reid McClure stated, "In looking back over the past year's accomplishments I'm proud of the progress we've made.

Several new businesses were added to Burk Burnett and I feel Burk Burnett has become a little better place in which to live". McCandless, Incoming president, told the group, "I came to Burk Burnett 12 years ago and opened a little Gun Shop and it prospered as do most businesses in Burk. Our town as a whole has grown well and our downtown area is well kept and is more active than most others in towns of this size. We can all be proud of our business in Burk Burnett, our schools, churches, city government, civic clubs and the history of Burk Burnett, stated McCandless. "Get behind the Chamber of Commerce to show your loyalty to Burk Burnett. To make the best come true we need the best from you, and this year I'll solicit your best for the 1972 Chamber of Commerce," stated McCandless.

The Rev. Lamoin Champ, pastor of First Baptist Church, was presented the award as the Man of the Year. Rev. Champ came to Burk Burnett in 1963 and has served in many church roles. He is a member of the Wichita Falls General Hospital advisory board, president of the Rotary Club, and has been cited by the Senior Citizens Club of Burk Burnett for efforts in aiding the club. A cheerful mail carrier, David C. McNeil, was recognized as Employee of the Year. The citation stated McNeil believed "a pleasant smile and wave on the job are a part of making the world a better place." Member of a pioneer Burk Burnett family, McNeil has been a carrier for 15 years. Mrs. Robert Norris, Outstanding Club of the Year.

and took to the road to sell the sketches to newspapers in the Southwest. After a slow start, he progressed to the point where he says he sells a million copies a year of his cartoon books and calendars all over the ranching country. Discussing his primary cartoon characters, Reid admitted that Jake, the spindly-legged cowpoke who is the focal point of many cartoons, is a "little bit of every cowboy I ever knew." Reid's specialty, as Cowpokes readers well know, is needling bankers and a sketch of Banker friends in the crowd. The cartoonist claimed that he left Wichita County after he failed in the cattle auction business, his oil wells went salty, the price of beef dropped to 18 cents and greenbugs got his wheat. Said Ace: "I decided that if I was going to starve, I was going to do it in the shade."

Reid was raised on a ranch near Electra, where his parents still live. He started drawing Cowpokes in the 1950's. See BANQUET, Page 2

Voter Registration Deadline Monday

Voter registration for 1972 is nearing a close as Monday is the final day. The most dramatic difference in this year's registration to that of past years is the fact that the minimum voting age of eighteen has been set instead of the long standing age of 21. Teenagers of 18 years of age will now be allowed to vote in all city, county, state and national elections providing they are registered voters and providing they are 18 years of age prior to the election they wish to vote in. Thus, teenagers who are actually 17 years of age may register now, but won't be able to exercise that privilege until they are 18 years of age, according to a spokesman. Evidence of the fact that the teenagers are taking serious the right to vote was the election of a nineteen year-old mayor in both Newcomerstown, Ohio and Ayrshire, Iowa. Another big change in voters registration this year is the adoption of the automatic registration. Beginning this year if a citizen registers once, he is registered for three years. Then each time he votes, he is automatically registered for three years. It is possible for an individual to never have to register again due to this factor.

Annual Report Given By Police

Chief of Police Buck Abbott revealed to the Informer/Star Tuesday that the Department has had far from an easy year this year. The Chief cited that the Burk Burnett Police Department has filed 846 cases in court during 1971, which is an average of 70 1/2 cases per month. In addition to this, the Department investigated 125 accidents which included one fatality. The Department placed 68 adults and 11 juveniles in the local jail during the course of the 12 month period.

"We picked up 170 dogs and placed them in the City Pound this past year," stated Abbott. 80 of these dogs were returned to their owners and the remaining 90 were destroyed within five days. The Chief also reported 70 animals had been held for rabie quarantine in the City Pound and also that five horses, two sheep and two goats were also held at various times during the year at the Pound. All of these nine animals were returned to their owners. Intruders broke into West Side Garage located at 709 E. 2nd Street Monday night and escaped with an estimated $1,000 or more in loot. Bill Braley, owner of the firm, reported that several steering wheels, a set of mag rims and tires and numerous automotive accessories were stolen.

In accordance with these changes, the Texas Association of Student Councils has set as their state project the registration of possible eighteen-year-old voters. This is to include anyone who will be eighteen within the coming year.

"It was revealed that the bicycle the boys were pushing had been stolen from the Ronald Patterson's residence at 200 Linden Lane. Attached to the bicycle were two bedrolls, a small suitcase, a zipper pillow case full of clothes, and a hatchet tied to the frame of the bike. The two youths stated they had crawled out of their window at home after their parents had gone to bed and were enroute to Holliday. The youths were returned to their parents and the bicycle to its owner. Tuesday, Jan. 18, a 16-year-old youth from Friendswood was arrested in Dallas on a charge of armed robbery and upon investigation told police that he had stolen a pickup from the Community Public Service of Friendswood and had abandoned the vehicle near Burk Burnett. Dallas officials notified the Burk Burnett Police Department and D. L. Bryan, assistant police chief, See POLICE, Page 2

This activity, supported by the Burk Burnett High School Student Council, calls for three student representatives who are deputized to register anyone wishing to vote--adults as well as teenagers. The three local high school representatives are Mike Dean, Tim Steele and Laura Allison. All persons wishing to register may contact anyone of these individuals or go to the Burk Burnett Chamber of Commerce office or the County Clerk's office in the Wichita County Court House. Remember, Monday is the final day to register for the upcoming election year.

Burk Bulldogs
Finish 2nd
In Conf.

The Bulldogs finished the first round of play in district competition last Friday night with a 68-57 win over Weatherford.

Steve Creemens led all players with 29 points for the night. Donald Patty helped out with 15 points, and Greg Leonard was close behind with 11.

This leaves Burkburnett in a three way tie for second place in the first half of play. Hirschi and Graham ended with a 5-2 district record to tie the Bulldogs. Brownwood came out on top with a 7-0 record. This means that Brownwood, the first half champ, will take on the winner of the second half for the district title. Therefore the Burk team still has an excellent chance to win the district.

From 1040 Form

The amount North Texas taxpayers can deduct for sales tax on Federal tax returns appears in tables printed in the 1040 tax instructions.

Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for North Texas, said the tables show the sales tax deduction by family size and income.

The table is based on consumer spending patterns and shows the average sales tax paid by Texas residents, he said.

The sales tax on automobiles, boats, trailers, and airplanes is not included in the table. Taxpayers who bought these items in 1971 may add deductible sales taxes paid on them to the amount shown in the table.

The table is furnished as a guide for the convenience of taxpayers who do not keep detailed records of payments. Taxpayers who prefer to

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--"Hello, This is HELP."

That is the reply one will get when he dials ext. 4357 (help on any telephone dial) at Sheppard Air Force Base.

In a continuing effort to keep Sheppardites better informed and to help in time of need or emergency, a new program has been instituted. It will allow people to express their complaints, problems and suggestions. If possible and warranted, corrections or solutions should result.

By dialing 4357(HELP) the caller will be greeted by a prerecorded message explaining the use of the system and asking for ideas and suggestions on how Air Force life can be improved.

After the 30-second message there will be a tone signal. This means that the recorder has started and the caller may start talking.

The caller is asked to speak freely and openly on any subject or problem that he may want to see corrected. He is reminded that if he stops talking for more than 10 seconds the recorder will automatically shut off and the line will disconnect.

If the caller wants a personal answer, he is requested to leave his name, squadron and phone number. Answers may be furnished by a return call, by letter, or in person by a responsible official. Also, selected subjects with broad interest will be printed in the Sheppard Senator, the base paper.

HELP will be in operation at all times. Located in the Center Command Post, it will be monitored by the staff duty officer or noncommissioned officer on duty.

In cases of emergency, the caller is reminded to give necessary information so duty personnel may get in touch with him immediately. At present it is impossible for the staff to talk back to the caller on the Code-a-phone system. Therefore a call-back on another line would

Lone Star Gas To Invest $44
Million In Construction In 1972

Lone Star Gas Company and its wholly owned subsidiaries announced plans to invest nearly $44 million in construction projects in 1972, according to W. C. McCord, president.

"Major emphasis during the year will be given to oil and gas exploration and to increasing the company's already favorable gas reserves and gas delivery capabilities," McCord said. Expenditures are also planned to further improve and extend gas distribution services and to broaden the scope of energy service offered through the company.

Of the $44 million 36% will be for oil and gas exploration, 55% for utility operations and 9% for other operations.

McCord said that Lone Star Producing Company will spend approximately $16 million, of which $11 million will be used for exploration, drilling, and deeping gas and oil wells, for secondary recovery in existing reservoirs and for related facilities. Approximately $3 million will be spent to secure lease acreage for minerals exploration.

Lone Star Gas, the parent company, plans to spend approximately $26 million on construction. Of this amount, $9 million is budgeted for expenditure by its distribution divisions for the growing requirements of new and existing customers in the 570 cities and towns served by the utility in Texas and Oklahoma. Among new customers to receive gas service in 1972 is the Dallas/Fort Worth Regional Airport which, upon completion, will be the equivalent in gas consumption of a city of 100,000.

Over $5 million, the major portion of the parent company's budget, will be spent by the Transmission Division for pipelining construction projects, for gas processing plant and compressor stations, and for upgrading of existing lines. The Division plans to construct over 140 miles of main lines in 1972 to meet growing gas sales demands in various areas.

Lone Star Energy Company, a wholly owned subsidiary that provides various secondary energy services, will spend approximately $1 million for the completion of a $3 1/2 million central thermal energy plant to serve the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. Initial operation is scheduled to begin by February.

The chemical fertilizer and plastic pipe subsidiary of Lone Star Gas Company, Nipak, Inc., will spend approximately $1 million for improving plant production and marketing facilities and for expanding its production of polyethylene gas distribution pipe and fittings. Other Nipak products include anhydrous ammonia, ammonium nitrogen solutions, ammonium phosphate and feed and fertilizer grade urea.

$34 Million Invested In Pollution Control

Some $34 million is to be spent on an air quality program by Union Camp Corp. in Savannah, Ga.

This three-year project is aimed at achieving massive reductions of particulates and odor-causing compounds in air emissions at its pulp and paper complex.

Alexander Calder, Jr., president, said, "We believe this represents the largest commitment that has been made to environmental improvement at any existing facility in the industry. This will bring the total committed expenditures for environmental protection at Savannah to $56 million."

The project will involve the revamping of the mill's chemical recovery system and include construction of a new, giant recovery boiler and the refurbishment of two others to effect the major reductions in air emissions that result from pulping operations. The new boiler will permit the closing down of four old, smaller boilers.

The direct foreign investments of the United States exceed $70 billion.

Renew a Committee, Preserve Bureaucracy

On July 18, 1918, the federal government established the National Screw Thread Commission which was designed to establish standards for screw threads. It was officially abolished in 1934. With World War II on the horizon, an informal inter-departmental Screw Thread Committee was set up in 1939. The name was later changed to International Screw Threads Standard Commission. There are three international meetings annually dealing with this subject and a U.S. representative still attends.

This reproduction of an advertisement which ran in 1919 (in a city we serve) makes it pretty obvious that you couldn't always take round-the-clock electric service for granted. You can take it for granted today because Texas Electric has constantly planned and built ahead to provide enough reliable electric power for all of our customers' needs. Needs which continue to grow. Just 25 years ago the average residential customer served by Texas Electric used 1,000 kilowatt hours of elec-

Librarian for Disney Challenges Deafness

Born deaf, and educated in special schools for the deaf, Gregg Brooks has bridged the gap in the world of hearing, through the medium of make-believe.

After receiving a B.S. degree in library science from Washington, D.C.'s Gallaudet College, he joined Walt Disney Productions in Burbank, Cal., in the art props department and the "imagineering" branch of the concern.

He then was permanently hired to work in the Disney studio library as a full-time cataloger and researcher.

Gregg admits that his work at the Disney studios was hard at first. "The main trouble I had was in communicating; I had to adjust to the people here — their speech and their special interests. Most of all, I had to adjust to being with people who could hear. As I 'grew up' in the last 6 years, I found life easier to take by adapting and accepting a lot. Many deaf people become more withdrawn in the world of the hearing, and that is a shame."

1971 Good Year Despite Tight Industrial Money

AUSTIN, TEX.--Preliminary figures indicate 1971 will be the second best year for Texas industrial development in recent history despite a tight national economy.

Figures available for the first 11 months of 1971 show that 338 new industries were located in Texas, compared with 296 for the same period last year.

"We are very pleased with these 11-month figures," Chester Wine of Corpus Christi, chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission, said in revealing the year-end report. "This makes 1971 second only to the record-breaking 1969 total which earned the state the honors of being number one nationally in industrial growth."

Wine said that although the figures are very good on new plant locations, expansions of existing industries were down. The 11-month totals for expansions were 225, compared with 335 for the previous year.

gram coupled with Texas' natural attractiveness in making the state an industrial power.

"First, we concentrate on developing resourceful and progressive localities," he said. "Then an extensive advertising campaign concentrates on the state's ability to support nearly any type of industry."

Since 1960, the double-edged program has matured into a well-balanced system of international proportion, and in 1969 Texas became the national leader in industrial expansion, leading second-place California by a phenomenal 42 percent.

The state has since netted several important awards for its expansion efforts, including the coveted Presidential "E" award for export development.

The scope of the Commission stretches from revitalizing programs for small communities to a national advertising campaign with a computerized site-location service and expanded rural and export development projects among the most recent innovations.

"These additions add both speed and versatility to our operations," Harwell said. "With them we can present an expanded Texas industrial community to a truly international clientele."

Instasite, the Commission name for its computerized location program, provides a mammoth storehouse of industrial information which can be recalled within seconds for businessmen seeking a Texas site.

"Texas can provide excellent locations for virtually any type of industry," Harwell said. "Instasite selects a choice of suitable sites with lightning speed."

Initial bids on the system ran as high as $500,000, but Commission officials enlisted local chambers of commerce in compiling and arranging data and completed the project as a fraction of the estimate.

In addition to bringing industry to Texas, the Commission has begun an extensive export development program to provide international markets for Texas products.

Since 1970, Commission and Mexican officials have been developing a program adding a new dimension to Texas international trade. This was culminated in October with the opening of an industrial development office in Mexico City.

"Of the $1.4 billion in American products Mexico buys annually, 95 percent are available from Texas," Harwell said. "New trade agreements will mean big international revenue for Texas manufacturers."

Commission officials have also contacted German and Japanese officials about trade agreements, and Harwell said both responded optimistically.

Another Commission program could reverse population losses which have drained Texas rural areas for more than 30 years. Several of the declining counties have reversed their population trend within the last 10 years, and a Commission team is trying to find out why.

"If we can discover what has begun to replenish population in these counties, perhaps we can restore the population levels of other rural areas," he said.

Commission Chairman Chester Wine of Corpus Christi views the rural development project and other Commission operations as avenues to future prosperity for Texas.

"The Texas Industrial Commission, with projects like the rural development effort, can literally prevent communities from dying," he said. "An area with jobs and business won't lose its people to a metropolitan center."

Wine said an industry employing 100 people brings 296 residents and $360,000 in retail sales to a community, an amount which could rejuvenate a small town.

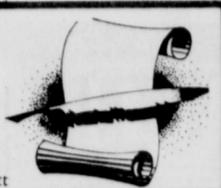

Although some maintain that new industry means increased pollution, Wine stressed that the Commission protects the environment while locating new business.

"Healthy business and a clean environment are not incompatible," he said. "With long-range planning and adequate safeguards, our rivers and air can remain as clean and natural as they are today."

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

"Nearly new nationally-advertised brand zig-zag sewing machine for $24.95."

"Complete brake job for $15.00"

"Four rooms of furniture for $199.95."

Do the above "eye catchers" sound familiar? Most consumers at one time or another have responded to such advertisements, often hurrying to get there so they can take advantage of the tremendous offer before the merchant's supply of the product is exhausted.

Many times these consumers are met with a constant belittling of the advertised product and are purposefully switched to another more costly product by a smooth talking salesman.

Other times they are told the item is sold out even though the ad says the sale is good for three days and the store has only been open for ten minutes on the first day. They just happen to have a similar item, however, at a higher price. What a disappointing experience for the consumers who alertly see through the sales gimmick, and how tragic for those consumers who do not!

"Bait and Switch" advertising is prohibited by both Federal and State law. "Bait and Switch" is a practice whereby an offer is made in order to draw the consumer but rather to sell the consumer to the store to sell them another similar product which is more profitable to the advertiser. The merchant is even unwilling at times to sell his "bait" item to the customer. It is not unusual for a merchant who engages in such tactics to actually fine his salesman if the advertised merchandise is sold.

Remember that merchants are operating their businesses to make a profit, and they cannot afford to give away their merchandise. Certainly not all merchants engage in the "Bait and Switch" form of advertising. There are numerous specials and other sales run each day that are bona fide, and they do not fall within the "Bait and Switch" practice. However, when an ad is just too eye catching to be true, you should carefully analyze it and then scrutinize the salesman's presentation. Don't be victimized by the "Bait and Switch" salesman; be an Informed Consumer!

Whenever you discover a business which engages in "Bait and Switch" advertising, be sure to notify Attorney General Crawford C. Martin, Attorney General of Texas, P.O. Box 12548, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas. By doing so you will help us protect others who are unaware of this advertising gimmick.

Fort Worth Show Gets Underway

FORT WORTH (Sp1) -- Music, the creak of wagon wheels and clomp of horse shoes on the pavement signal the action of the annual parade in downtown Fort Worth at 2 p.m. Friday, Jan. 28, that officially opens the 76th edition of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

This year Stock Show begins Jan. 28 for a ten-day run through Feb. 6.

Participants in the parade are expected to approximate 7,000 individuals, reports Tom B. Saunders, Stock Show vice-president and parade chairman. Last year over 170,000 persons witnessed the "World's longest all-western parade."

"Anyone can participate in our parade," Saunders commented. "We maintain the western flavor by not allowing any motorized vehicles, but anyone who is mounted or on a horse-drawn vehicle or float, or any hand is welcome. There will even be a camel in this year's parade."

He said a size limitation has been placed on horses pulling vehicles this year because of a rather steep grade pull from the assembly area to the parade starting point. "Horses pulling must be at least 13 hands high," he said. "We are not limiting the size of saddle horses."

Movie actors Chill Wills and Gary Madison will be among those riding in the parade, scheduled to move south on Houston Street to Ninth Street and then north on Main. The march will take more than two hours to finish.

"There is a place for anyone in the parade and we urge folks to make plans now to be with us at 2 p.m. Friday, the parade chairman said. "The special events office at the Stock Show is taking parade reservation."

TEEN TALK

By Laura Allison

Although it would be difficult to convince some of the kids at BHS of the fact, semester tests are just as hard on the teachers as they are on us. The students in Future Teachers of America readily agree with this because most of them helped the teachers make up, grade, and record the tests. Because of this the FTA, under the leadership of Irene Frey and Mrs. Cecil McCoy, sponsored a reception for the faculty and administration in the teacher's lounge following the tests. In that way the teachers could relax after the strenuous three days. Steve Goad, chapter president, reported that cookies, brownies, and punch were served. Chairwoman of the committee which planned and carried through the event was Janice Brown.

Last weekend Duncan Brown represented the Burk Band at Hurst, Texas, in Area tryouts in which he placed 14th chair. Duncan worked his way up on his cornet from All-District and All-Region to be able to try out for Area. This is really a high award which takes a lot of practice and hard work. He is the only band member to go this far this year, and Duncan is only a freshman. Congratulations, Duncan!

The First Baptist Church kids went on a retreat to Falls Creek, Oklahoma, last weekend with City View Baptist Church in Wichita Falls. Everyone really had a good time, but someone ought to ask Jimmy Mason why he had a better time than everyone else?!

The Junior Class is sponsoring a basketball game between the high school faculty and the KTRN Dribbling Drops this Thursday, January 27, at the Bulldog gym. The game will start at 7:30. The prices are 50¢ for students under 12, 75¢ for students over 12, and $1.00 for adults. This is sure to be a game you won't want to miss.

Stopping Distance A Key Factor In Auto Mishaps

Although control of a car's stopping distance is a key factor in preventing many auto collisions, the American Automobile Association says that most drivers know relatively little about what determines the length of stopping distances under various conditions.

AAA points out that a car's stopping distance is made up of both reaction time distance, defined as the distance a car travels from the time a driver first moves his foot from the accelerator to the brake pedal, and braking distance, the distance covered between the time the brake is applied and the moment the car actually stops.

Although the average reaction time for a driver is about 3/4 of a second, the following factors can affect it:

FATIGUE. A tired driver is less alert to hazards.

ALCOHOL. Impaired reaction time is one of many adverse affects of alcohol on driving.

AGE. Drivers under 30 have the fastest reaction time.

SEX. Women have a reaction time about 0.10 seconds longer than men of the same age group.

ATTENTION. A driver's reaction time can be greatly reduced if he concentrates on driving, and is especially alert where hazards are likely to occur, such as at street intersections.

SPEED. Higher speeds require greater stopping distances, and so increase reaction time.

AAA says that for speeds under 25 miles per hour, the reaction time distance and braking distance are roughly equal. But braking distances become increasingly longer with higher speeds.

Two factors determine the braking distance: the speed of the vehicle and the "drag" force slowing the car down. Speed can be determined by the speedometer (assuming it is relatively accurate), but the drag force depends on the friction between the brake linings and the brake drums.

The drag force developed by the brakes depends on (1) the condition of the brake drums and brake linings, (2) moisture, oil and other substances in the brakes, and (3) the amount of pressure applied to the brake pedal.

If the brakes are good enough to stop the wheels, then braking force depends on the condition and nature of the tires and the road surface.

Factors affecting the latter are (1) type of surface (asphalt, concrete, gravel, etc.), (2) air and surface temperatures, (3) moisture, snow or ice on the surface, (4) foreign material on surface, and (5) traction devices such as chains.

AAA reminds motorists that if they keep in mind these fundamentals about stopping distances, they will be able to exercise more control over their cars.

Optimist Report

The Optimist Club held its weekly meeting Thursday night at 308 Morning Drive. Ray Olson, president, presided over a short business meeting.

The special guest for the evening was Doyle Cogburn, District Lt. Governor of North Texas. His visit was for the purpose of coordinating district and local club goals for the year.

Cogburn complimented the members on their efforts to renovate the building the club purchased several months ago. It is hoped that work on the building will move ahead and that in the not to distant future it can be utilized for all meeting purposes and club activities.

Roy Magers Gets Honor

A local representative of the Great Southern Life Insurance Company has been honored by being named to the 1970-71 Great Southern Club, it was announced from the home office this week in Houston, Texas. He is Roy T. Magers of Burkburnett. This club is composed of those career life underwriters who meet qualifications in sales, quality business and outstanding service to policyholders and clients.

Gas Co. Contributes Heavily To Education

If grades were given for contributing to the progress of education, Lone Star Gas Company would surely receive an "A."

As part of a continuing school aids program, Lone Star's community relations section provides literature, filmstrips, and films on a wide variety of topics to teachers and principals in schools throughout Texas and Oklahoma.

Heading the project is Jim Christian, manager, community relations, who said the purpose of Lone Star's school aids program is to "provide schools on our distribution system with helpful teaching materials on interesting and timely topics."

Available to schools through the use of "A Guide To Information Resources," a booklet printed by Lone Star which catalogs all the available materials. From this catalogue the teacher can order the desired films and/or literature which are delivered to the school by Burkburnett Lone Star Gas Manager Lester Yates.

Lone Star purchases many of the materials from the American Gas Association and other industry groups that provides them free of charge to the schools.

Each teaching aid is listed in the guide by grade level and subject area, with a brief synopsis following. Topics range from the film "Scientists Work Together," dealing with the working responsibilities of the scientists, for grades 4-6, to a booklet entitled "Advanced Experiments With Gas," for grades 10-12.

The most recent addition to Lone Star's school aids library is drug education materials. "We are vitally concerned about contemporary issues, such as the use and abuse of drugs," Christian said. "Through these films, filmstrips, and booklets we hope to generate a better understanding of drugs and, therefore, a better informed public," he explained. Written in an informative, factual manner, these drug materials are also used as presentations before a number of civic groups. In addition, Lone Star has school aids on other current topics such as ecology and pollution research.

Response to Lone Star's school aids program has been overwhelming. "A Guide To Information Resources" was mailed to principals and school district superintendents in approximately 1,700 schools and colleges throughout Texas and Oklahoma. During the first two weeks, the guide was received in the schools, over 150 of the teachers and principals requested materials. Owing to the Texas Law, effective September 1, 1971, which requires a drug curriculum for grades 5-12, the majority of the requests have been for the drug materials.

Lone Star has sponsored an expanding school aids program since 1959.

"We are quite proud of our school aids program," Christian continued, "because it provides the opportunity for Lone Star as a corporation, as well as Lone Star managers, to become involved in the activities of the communities they serve."

Small Retailers Exempt From Posting Base Price Data

(Dallas, Texas)--Retailers with revenues of less than $200,000 annually are no longer subject to base price posting requirements, Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director for North Texas, said today. This decision was announced Saturday by the Price Commission.

These retailers, while still subject to other Price Commission regulations, do not have to post signs listing the base prices or signs announcing the availability of base price information.

These retailers are still required to make available base price information if asked by customers. They will also be subject to monitoring and spot checking by the Internal Revenue Service, and documentation of base prices must be made available to IRS IF REQUESTED.

Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson, Jr., said, "The Commission believes this decision will remove an undue administrative burden on those small retailers who do not have the personnel or facilities to comply with the posting requirements. This is consistent with the intent of Congress as expressed in the Economic Stabilization Act."

In other action, the Price Commission reported it has informed the American Pharmaceutical Association that the Commission has reaffirmed its position that the sale of drugs is a retail activity. The Commission emphasized, however, that its decision should not be interpreted as an intention to detract from, reduce or remove the professional status of pharmacists.

Additionally, the Commission informed the Association that Internal Revenue Service has advised the Commission that if a pharmacist places a standard compilation of wholesale legend drug prices plus a listing of his professional fee or markup, along with a 22 by 28 inch sign indicating the location of information, the pharmacist is in compliance with the regulations. The list must be in the pharmacy and accessible to the public without the aid of a store employee, however, the Commission reported.

Pharmacists still must post prices of non-legend drug items according to Commission regulations. However, under today's ruling those pharmacists doing less than $200,000 in business annually would be exempt from all posting requirements.

Guidelines of Life

These words by Stephen Grellet, a 19th-Century French missionary and reformer, offer a credo for living:

"I expect to pass through the world but once. Any good therefore that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now. Let me not defer it or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

AERIAL VIEW of parallel terraces. Even spacing spreads water and makes farming easier. (USDA SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE)

Parallel Terraces Spreading In Co.

The idea of parallel terraces is spreading rapidly in the Wichita Soil Conservation District. They are specially designed to fit today's high speed, power farming methods. The old horse and mule days are being replaced by the modern parallel type. According to the Soil Conservation Service, they are designed to fit modern farm machinery and methods.

Besides preventing soil erosion and making farming easier, parallel terraces have other advantages. For example, they keep silt out of our streams and lakes. A terraced hillside is more pleasing to the eye than an ugly erosion scarred field. Farmers who installed parallel terraces during 1971 were: George Streit, Albert Brockreide and Sons, and Lee Roy Palmer, all in the Punkin Center area. Donald and Richard Hill removed an old standard system of terraces and replaced them with the new parallel type on their farm north of Iowa Park.

Other Wichita County farmers who have installed parallel terrace systems in previous years are: Wilburn Glass, M.R. Hanks, and Elmer Klunker of the Clara community; Jack Walser and Dewey Dovel of Electra; Gene Robertson and Mrs. Essie Haley of Burk Burnett; Clarence Mahler of Iowa Park; Dr. R. E. Pace and L. D. Smith of Wichita Falls.

554 Cowboys In Fort Worth Rodeo

FORT WORTH (SpI) -- A record 554 cowboys will have their eyes on a Fort Worth Rodeo purse of $90,400 during the 20 performances of the 54th edition of the World's Original Indoor Rodeo Jan. 28 through Feb. 6 in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum.

Entries have been received from each of the present world champion cowboys and Kent Youngblood of Lamesa, a 22-year-old Tarleton State College student who was the 1971 Rookie of the Year.

Current champs include Phil Lyne, 24, of George West, all around champion cowboy and holder of the calf roping title. Recipient of the coveted Bill Linderman Memorial Award, Lyne is one of the few cowboys who contests in all the rodeo sporting events.

FARM REVIEW

West Texas Farmers Control Carelessweed

LUBBOCK--West Texas farmers have been doing such a good job of controlling the pesky carelessweed that they have generated more problems with other weeds.

Dr. Dudley Smith, weed scientist at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, says that concentration on controlling carelessweed, or pigweed, has allowed such problem species as Johnsongrass, field bindweed and silverleaf nightshade to take over good cropland.

"Today, pigweed is not considered a problem, because effective herbicides are available for most crops," Smith reports, "but we still have the perennials."

Herbicide control of the carelessweed has allowed farmers to forget about such measures as plowing, cultivating and hoeing, which in turn allowed the perennials and other herbicide-resistant species to grow without competition.

"Annual grasses in sorghum and corn, and cocklebur and morningglory in cotton are good examples of weeds that have increased in the past five years," the researcher says.

Smith is cooperating with Dr. A.F. Wise of the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland on studies to control these tough annual weeds, in addition to devil's claw. The research is being sponsored through the "dollar a bale" program of Cotton Incorporated and the Plains Cotton Growers of Lubbock.

Although the fight against the new problem weeds will not be easy, there are some definite weapons farmers can use now.

"Most perennial weeds can be suppressed or controlled by a combination of tillage between crops, cultivation in crops and by post-emergence application of herbicides," he reports.

"We need to look for the weak point in the life cycle or physiological make-up of each problem weed and attack accordingly," Smith adds.

He suggests such control methods as proper cultivation and crop rotation. To control a specific weed, a producer needs to select a crop that produces while the weed is dormant. Small grain can be grown where summer annual weeds make it hard to grow row crops. Or perhaps a different summer crop can be grown if herbicides are available for the new crop that will control the problem weed.

"For example, sorghum or corn fields where grasses are a problem could be rotated to cotton," he suggests.

Preplant incorporated herbicides such as Treflan and Planavin will control annual grass and Johnsongrass seedlings, and MSMA (Ansan) can be used on established Johnsongrass plants. In addition, soybeans can be planted for annual grass control if Treflan and Planavin are used.

Soil sterilants can control small patches of perennial weeds or infestations along fences and around buildings, irrigation wells or tall water pits.

"Careful attention to controlling early infestations may prevent a more troublesome problem in fields later on," Smith concludes.

Information on specific products and practices to control perennials and other herbicide-resistant weeds is available from county agricultural agents.

COUNTY AGENT NEWS

B.T. Haws

Wichita County Agricultural Agent

The coming season's cotton yields in Wichita County can be influenced by soil management and weed control practices during the winter months. Timely land preparation is the first step for a successful weed control program.

Uncontrolled winter weeds are moisture and plant food robbers, both vital to top production. In addition to regular land preparation, there are major weed control methods that can be carried out with machinery or through the use of chemicals. The mechanical methods include bedding and rebedding, bed shaping, row disk, hippin' ridger, and do-all.

Cotton producers have a wide choice of materials available for chemical weed control. Two are soil incorporated herbicides, Planavin and Treflan. Many growers look with considerable favor on these materials. A popular method of application is with the roto-tiller or roto-rotator. The herbicides may also be incorporated into the soil by broadcast disking with tandem disks. The two herbicides keep winter weeds under control if conditions are normal until planting time. Under high moisture conditions herbicide treatment just before planting time is often necessary for control of early Johnsongrass. DSMA alone or in combination with a material such as Karmex is excellent.

Dairymen who are losing more and more calves because of outbreaks of scours will probably find that a weak link or an oversight in their management program is contributing to the costly losses. Figures indicate that U. S. dairymen lose about one out of every 10 calves to scours before the animal is six months old. Clipping the cows udder and flanks before calving and placing her in clean, disinfected, well-bedded stalls is the first step to take in preventing scours. Clean, disinfected calf feeding and watering equipment is another must.

Colostrum milk should be fed immediately after birth and for three days following birth. Liquid and dry rations containing antibiotics are other measures that can be used.

As soon as the calves drinking liquids readily, keep clean, fresh, drinking water available. Once calves are on dry feed, water definitely easily available at all times.

The amount of milk or milk replacer solution fed to each calf should be limited to about eight per cent of its body weight per day. The calves should be kept in individual stalls with clean, dry bedding until liquid feeding is discontinued.

If any calves become infected, separate them from the others and contact your veterinarian.

Ben Barnes Seeks Help For Farmers

Gov. Ben Barnes Friday called on Gov. Preston Smith to include revision of the portion of the "Rules of the Road" law involving trailers in legislation which can be considered by a special session of the Legislature due later this year.

Barnes said the bill -- S.B. 183 -- contained language "which apparently is working hardships on many thousands of Texans who pull trailers behind their vehicles."

The bill requires trailers over 3000 pounds to have brakes on all wheels which can be operated from the towing vehicle plus emergency brakes for the trailers.

"During my travels, I have heard complaints from farmers and ranchers who have to haul farm products and livestock, and from sportsmen who pull boats and trailers," Barnes wrote the Governor. Barnes said these Texans "are being penalized in a manner that was not the intent of the Legislature."

"The cost of this law will run from $250 to $800 per trailer, and that means we are talking about $100,000,000, which I am sure you will agree is punitive," Barnes said.

He said a lesser requirement could be worked out to meet the necessary safety needs, in urging the Governor to include the legislation in matters to be considered.

40th Beef Show Set For Feb. 8

When the 40th Annual Wichita Falls Junior Beef Show opens Tuesday Morning, February 8, approximately 200 boys and girls representing the 4-H and FFA Organizations from 27 Texas and Oklahoma Counties will be ready to show the ultimate products of their hard work.

Starting at 8:45 a.m., February 9, the Judge will commence the sifting of the undesirable steers in the show ring. At 1:30 will be the judging of the Heifer entries. Starting at 8:00 a.m., February 10, the Steers will be judged. At 1:30 p.m. will be the State Elimination Judging Contest.

Again this year the services of Auctioneer Charles Davis will be utilized to conduct the sale. The competitive bidding is scheduled to begin Friday morning, February 11, at 9:45 a.m. The Top Sixty Steers of the show will be up for sale to the highest bidder. As usual, the bidding is expected to be very competitive, producing an action packed sale of great interest. Steers not included in the Top 60 head for the premium auction will sell to packer buyers at 9:00 a.m. Friday.

Business firms and individuals operating in this area pledged some $5,900 for cash prizes and awards to participants in the Junior Beef Show. This money will be distributed at the Annual Times Publishing Company Luncheon at the Women's Forum at noon on Friday. The luncheon honors the various show winners and provides a memorial final event for the Junior Beef Show, one of the outstanding activities of its type in this county.

The Beef Show will be held at the 4-H Barn on Midwestern Parkway in Wichita Falls.

Tax Guide Now Available

(Dallas, Texas)--The 1972 edition of the "Farmer's Tax Guide" is now available from county agricultural agents or the Internal Revenue Service, Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for North Texas, said today.

The booklet, IRS Publication 225, shows how farmers should out the 1940 tax return and which schedules should be attached. A listing of important Federal tax dates for farmers can also be found in the publication.

Written in non-technical language, the tax guide contains many examples of how farm transactions are handled for Federal income tax purposes.

Although primarily written to help farmers prepare their 1971 tax return, the GUIDE is useful as a reference throughout the year.

Big Pasture FFA Wins Another First

The Big Pasture FFA Judging team attended and won the National Chester White Spotlight Show at Duncan, Oklahoma, on January 22, 1972. In the team competition Big Pasture won 1st out of 76 teams.

The Big Pasture team was made up of Rodney Griffin, Neal Taylor, Randy Kirkpatrick, and Tyle Justice. David Adams, Matt Turner, Ricky Griffin, and Darrell Adams also judged as a team.

In the individual contest Tyle Justice won 4th, he was awarded a $35 buyers bond. Neal Taylor placed 5th and won a $30 buyers bond. Sam Woods and John Rupe also judged as individuals.

Altus Classes 26,000

The USDA Cotton Division Office at Altus graded 26,000 samples for the week ending January 21. This may be the peak week of the year, according to C. E. Cox, officer in charge. The season total stood at 113,500 samples graded. Last year at this date 193,300 samples were reported.

Total classed from north Texas counties this year stood at 17,700 samples, compared with 25,900 to this date last year.

Grades on north Texas cotton classed during the week were 73 per cent Light Spotted. The predominant grade was 42, accounting for 50 per cent. Twenty-six per cent was reduced in grade because of bark or grass. Staples were predominantly 30, 31, and 32. Twenty-seven per cent was Staple 30, 36 per cent Staple 31, and 16 per cent Staple 32. Micronaire readings were in the 3.5 to 4.9 range on 81 per cent of the samples. Present readings showed fiber strength mostly in the range 75,000 to 89,000 pounds per square inch, with the average being 81 thousand pounds.

The Consumer and Marketing Service reported market activity increased over the previous week, and demand continued good on all qualities.
