Viewpoint

Its been just one of those weeks around the old newspaper. Every thing I've touched has turned to a big pile of . . . (trash, naturally). And just as things started going partially in the right direction, one of the girls in the back tries to muffle a few curse words. (Correction, a whole bunch of curse words.) Seems she walked too close to an open drawer in our work table and tore an unrepairable hole in a pair of $35.00 pants.

Since it seemed just about par for the way things had been going all day anyway, it struck me on the humorous side and I had to laugh a little as she walked out the door toward home to change pants.

When she returned, this ole' editor learned another valuable lesson of life and you would think I should have known.

That lesson is: Of all the things a guy could do when a woman employee tears a hole in a pair of $35 pants, laughin' sure ain't one of em. * * * * *

Crazy days in downtown Burk is going to be the big happening this week. If you want to call it that.

There are two things that shoppers in downtown Burk are oing to do on Friday: 1. They are going to have the time of their life if they participate and dress crazy like the rest of us. 2. They are going to save money like never before on specials offered for Fridays' Sidewalk Sale.

Burk merchants have decided to go all out to make this the best crazy days ever and the effort shows in bargains and fun to be passed on in the shopper. Gifts will actually be given away to crazy dressed shoppers during Crazy days. Nobody knows exactly what yet because the merchants want to surprise as many people as possible.

Downtown Burk merchants invite you and yours to shop downtown this weekend and to come to town dressed as crazy as possible on Friday for the craziest day you've ever spent.

For the first time in my life, I witnessed some real live boxing matches last week here in Burkburnett.

The Boomtown Lions Club Boxing Team and several teams from the area squared off in an invitational tourney here, sponsored by the Boomtown Lions. Impressive is the only way to describe these boys and the effort they give to this sport. And even though each bout produced a winner and loser, when those boys walked out of the ring, they were exactly equal in something called sport sman-Equally impressive was the effort of the many young businessmen from Burkburnett who devoted their time and good hard work to make the tournament a success. These men show a genuine interest in the boys they work with. They realize that these young boys will become men with time and they care about what kind of men they will be. These gusy get no pay, just good ol' satisfaction, from doing something that's really worthwhile. Then there are the coaches from all of the teams who train, teach, and care for their boys. Their sense of duty to the growth and development of all boys can't be measured. They do it because they want to and because they care. The fans certainly can't be left out of this. They are great also. A good crowd each night,

"What Am I To Do With Jesus, Who Is Called Christ?"

(Part 5) We come , finally, to the small group of folk who exemplified love, trust, faith and hope--The Apostles. Yes, Peter denied Christ; Thomas doubted His Ressurection; two failed to recognize Him as they walked to Emmaus. Naturally human traits could be found in all of them. But wait! What would YOU have said or done? How easily we see fault in others and never see our own shortcomings! The Apostles were faithful unto death; all suffering martyrdom for Jesus' sake save one, John. Moreover, Paul was the great persecutor of Jesus until his conversion. What a heritage these men have left us; showing us how Jesus takes five cent human beings and turns them into million dollar saints when they are loving and faithful.

of us answer this question we've disc past few weeks? We have seen how others replied by their words and deeds; and now it is our turn. Do we see and recognize Jesus in ALL that we say, in ALL that we do, in ALL places we go; and if we recognize Him will His countenance be of sadness and suffering because of us; or will it be His smiling look of love and invitation saying: "Come unto Me...and I will give you rest?" Only YOU can answer for yourself. Remember-"Tho, He talked of the Kingdom and all it would bring,

His disciples knew not that they walked with the King. At the evening repast, on the home table spread, He was known unto them through the breaking of bread.

So we wonder, we question, we doubt, and we fear, Seeking Christ in the distance, Who liveth so near. Then back to the hearth-stone at eventide led, He is known unto us, through the breaking of bread.

Through the swife transformations, the movements sublime, That have startled the ages, and still fashion time; The Divine Hand appears, but Its golory is shed, Through acts we count simple, like the breaking of bread."

The Chamber of Commerce each year becomes increasingly more aware of what tourism means to a town. Many things enter into the picture when you try to pin point why people visit your town and especially why they would want to come back to visit, or to possibly move here. One of the best examples of the later two of the above questions is contained in the Carol Blankinship or Anna Harof the later two of the above following letter received by our Recently , my husand and I took a short vacation and chose your town for our stay. We have a relative living at the Triangle Trailer Park.

We wanted to take a special opportunity to congratulate you and your city for having such a friendly atmosphere. It is indeed one of the nicest towns we ever visited. The people were the friendliest.

A lady at one store, "Triple D" gave our little girls free candy and talked with us for awhile. The bowling alley gave away free stamps and took our word on winning them. Plus, several other instances that were very welcoming.

Our relatives will be leaving Trainagle Trailer Park in a couple of months, since her husband is an Air Force man. He will be transferred, but we plan to visit Boomtown U.S.A., Burkburnett, Texas anyway, because we think there ought to be more places like it.

Sincerely yours, Mr. & Mrs. Louis S. Young Teresa & Dee Dee

Directory Of Texas Mfgs. Is Announced

AUSTIN -- Plans to publish a comprehensive directory of Texas' manufacturers and products have been announced by the International Trade Division of the Texas Industrial Commission. The directory is one of several projects developed by the Industrial Commission to promote Texas products in foreign markets. It will help Texas manufacturers develop or expand foreign marketing programs by providing overseas firms with specific information on Texas-made goods.

"Each year we receive literally hundreds of requests for information on Texas' products and services," James Harvey, director of International Trade Division, said. "Information of this nature is available from several sources, but there is presently no comprehensive listing of companies in Texas involved in international trade or those who would like to establish a foreign market."

Havey said the Industrial Commission is currently mailing questionnaires to industrialists requesting information about their company, product and/or service. He urged Texas manufacturers to complete the forms and return them to the Industrial Commission as soon as possible.

Answers from the questionnaires will be used to compile a cross reference of Texas' products with the companies that produce them. Copies of the directory will be available to Texas businessmen from the Industrial Commission when published.

Each person should indicate beneficial use to the environment. Production of forage and animal products is considered to help only the landowner.

With the arrival of warmer weather and rapidlegume growth, bloat may become a problem in your cattle. Texas livestock raisers should remember that bloat is often an important cause

* * * * *

Bloat is basically caused by the failure of gas to escape from the rumen (stomach) of an animal through normal and regular belching. Cattlemn should observe cattle closely for signs of bloat whenever animals are turned in on fresh pastures. There are many land varied causes of bloat and many forms of prevention.

of cattle deaths.

Ranchers should become familiar with preventive measures and first-aid treatments that can be applied until veterinary assistance can be obtained.

Five masures that can help prevent bloat are:

Keep good quality hay in portable racks where cattle are grazing. The dry feed encourages belching.

2. Aboid turning cattle in on wet plants the first day after a rain. More water means more fermentation and results in more gas formation.

3. Be sure cattle are not extremely hungry when turned on pastures. Feed them with good quality roughage first.

Change onto pastures gradually. Allow access to pastures for increasing time periods until cattle have full access to pastures.

available or animals at all times available for animals at all times to help prevent bloat through better digestion.

5. Keep salt and minerals

Another measure for bloat control is the use of poloxalene where cattle have had problems on certain pastures. Limited

> Five first-aid measures that ranchers can practice until veterinary assistance is obtained

1. A 'gag' can be inserted in the animal's mouth. A stick can be tied crossways in the animal's mouth. The stick should be about the size of a broomstick or shovel handle.

2. Some drenches are recommended but must be used with care to avoid getting liquid in the animal's lungs. Drenches can be obtained from your veterinarian and kept for emergency use.

3. Try to keep animals on their feet and walking. 4. Knead left flank vigorously with fists to force out gas. 5. In extreme emergencies to prevent death, it may be necessary to puncture the animal's side so the gas will escape. This should be done only as a last resort since the resulting would usually becomes infected and is difficult to heal.

The proper place to "tap" an animal is high on the left flank about halfway between the hip and last rib. Veterinarians generally prepare the area properly, time permitting, and use a trocar and canula made especially for the job.

Pasture weeds are expensive as they reduce grazing and lower forage quality. Weeds rob pasture grasses of valuable moisture and nutrients. They are also irritating to livestock grazing the pastures. Chemicals usually offer the most effective weed control and are available and safe to use in pastures. Chemicals should be applied when weeds are young and actively growing. Adequate amounts of water should be mixed with herbicides and applied according to directions on the label.

Numerous result demonstrations throughout Texas have shown that two to three times more grass can be grown on the same pasture acre when weeds were controlled as when they were not controlled.

SHEPPARD AIR FORCE BASE

RE-UNITED AFTER EARTHQUAKE DISASTER

An earthquake and international red tape couldn't keep Airman Basic Neflate T. Concepcion of Sheppard Air Force Base and his wife, Martha, apart.

Especially since he had the help of a number of interested persons in the USAF School of Applied Aerospace Sciences, Sheppard, and others at the base and in Central America, as well as the American Red Cross.

Airman Concepcion arrived at Sheppard in mid-January from Lackland AFB, Texas, with a problem. His wife had gone to Managua, Nicargua, to visit her family Dec. 4, the same day he came into the Air Force, and he had not heard from her since the disastrous earthquake there Dec. 22.

Assigned to the 3765th Student Squadron of the School of Applied Aerospace Sciences for Jet Aircraft Maintenance Training, Airman Concepcion soon sought the help of the squadron student aide, Staff Sergeant Larry L. Lee.

Sergeant Lee discussed the problem with Master Sergeant Jimmy D. Clines, who is in charge of the student aide program. Many others heard of the situation in weeks to come.

A number of dead ends were reached in the early days. The Field Director of the American Red Cross at Sheppard, W.E. Parsons, notified Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D.C., but here was no direct connection with Red Cross in Nicaragua. Meanwhile, a letter arrived, through Lackland AFB, from Mrs. Concepcion stating that all of the family were still alive, but their possessions were gone. She gave a return address of a temporary shelter, La Livertad Chontales.

Airman Concepcion wanted to go to Managua to find his wife now that he knew she survived the earthquake. This was not possible because there were too many people there for the accommodations. Of course the Sheppard airman wanted to send his wife money. He sent some through certified mail and money order, but later learned that his wife never received it. She could receive no money through Class Q allotment, as other military wives do, because she had no identification card, and now, no permanent mailing address.

By this time, many others at Sheppard were aware of the problem, including Colonel Carl L. Brunson, commander of the School of Applied Aerospace Sciences; and Lieutenant Colonel Edward J. Fernandez, executive officer of Sheppard Technical Training Center.

They recommended that Sergeant Lee contact the Military Affiliate Radio Service (MARS) station at Sheppard hoping to make a direct contact with someone in Managua. The Sheppard station does not have a frequency that high, but he did discover there, that Technical Sergeant Robert L. Plunkett of the 3760th Instructor Squadron at Sheppard, a ham radio op-erator, had a contact in Managua.

Sergeant Plunkett, in turn, contacted a missionary, Joan Parajon in Managua, who was able to contact the United States Military Advisory Group, the Embassy and finally located Mrs. Concepcion.

The first break-through came March 7. Mrs. Parsons received a phone patch message from Senior Master Sergeant Frederick Boalt with the U.S. Army Military Advisory Group in Nicaragua through Kelly AFB saying that Mrs. Concepcion was there to talk with her husband. Since it was impossible to get Airman Concepcion to the Red Cross office in time an appointment was made for the following day.

When Airman Concepcion

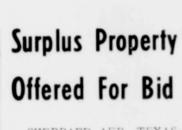

but she had no money.

Mr. Parsons told Sergeant Boalt that the Red Cross would provide funds, but there was a problem of transmitting the money. This hurdle was made by pre-paying a ticket with Pan American World Airways from Managua to Wichita Falls. Pan American also agreed to accept money for Mrs. Concepcion for the essential costs in leaving

Time was short, as the letter had to be in Managua before she could leave. Her appointment with the State Department was March 13, with departure March 14. If this could not be met by then, she would have to wait

1973 Little League Action Begins, Adults Needed

Tryouts for Little League action, 1973, got underway Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m. at Hayes Field. Boys between the ages of 8-15 were on the scene to try their best to secure a position on one of the many teams to be formed very soon.

After teams are formed and announced, practice for the season will begin. The first practice is scheduled for April 2nd and the first game of the Little League season will be played

This year as in nearly all years, much help is needed from the adults of Burkburnett. Many positions still remain to be filled as coaches, assistant coaches, umpires, concession stand workers, team mothers and on and on. If you are interested in the boys, let it show through the Little League

ADRIAN DUNN, left, was in charge of Little League hopefuls last Saturday for tryouts for the Boys from 8 to 15 were separated into age groups, and worked out in baseball fundamentals in order for the coaches to determine their skills.

Letter Jo The

To the staff, All of us here at the Studio, including our students and parents, would like to let you know how much we appreciate your generous coverage and the beautiful photographs (the best newspaper photos we've seen) during the recent 'Ideal Miss Beauty Pageant' held in Burkburnett on the 9th and 10th of this month.

Naturally we feel that these affairs are important, beneficial and of interest to civicminded local people, but in this town it has practically been mpossible to get any recognition of any note in our illusrious edition.

So I think you will understand how delighted and elated with the wonderful coverage afforded us, we all were. Very sincerely, Bobby Houston Houston School of Dance

This score places the Bulldogs three shots out of second place following Brownwood who hosted the meet on their own green.

Danny Lee shot a score of 78 which is one shot off the lead in district. The other three top players for the Bulldogs included Darral Coleman, with 81 strokes and four shots off the lead, Frank Andrajack maintains an 84 while James White shot an 89. The total team score is calculated by these top four scores.

The second leg of the district play comes this Friday the Bulldogs travel to Graham and take with them this team score. The score they attain at Graham will be added to the team total at Brownwood and the final leg of this competition for district championship will take place at Sheppard Air Force Base -- hosted by the Bulldogs. "When a team hits eleven in their first game, I think it gives insight into the season they will have in store for commented Coach Charles Seagler in regard to the outstanding performance by Burk hitters Tuesday night.

Coach Seagler also commented that Mike Millar excelled as pitcher against Windthorst. The other two Bulldogs who also show promise in the pitching department include Larry Johnson and Bimbo Davis, who is a sophomore this year.

Coach Seagler stated that the Bulldogs have overhauled and advanced the hitting portion of their game, while the pitchers have also improved. This is Mike Millar's first year to pitch. He and Bimbo Davis who played as a freshman last year, have progressed and Larry Johnson is also looking

To the citizens of Burkburnett:

On behalf of the Boomtown Lions Club, I would like to express our heartfelt appreciation for your backing which made possible the success enjoyed March 22-24 at our Boxing Tournament.

An event of this nature can succeed only if many people will give willingly of their time and energy, and this is just what happened. The organizational help we needed was forthcoming without hesitation, and it was followed by support at the gate that was extremely gratifying. A special vote of thanks must go to the school board for making the Junior High gymnasium available for the tournament.

I am pleased to report that as a result of your efforts, our boxing tournament was a financial success. The money raised will be used to purchase boxing equipment and will also insure that we can make plans for another boxing tournament next year.

The greatest benefactor, of course, is our fine community itself. You can be sure that the Boomtown Lions Club will continue to plan and promote similar programs which offer wholesome recreational opportunities for the youth of Burkburnett, and we know that your continued backing and understanding will enable us to look forward to more success in the future.

Sincerely,

Tip

JOE GILLESPIE

Every year many people are electrocuted in their bathtub by electrical appliances

includes electric heaters,

hair dryers, razors and radios. Using a portable hair dryer while doing the

laundry or dishes is also dangerous. If a 'ground', such as faucets or water in the sink or tub is touched, a fatal surge of electrical current can result. Keep electrical appliances away from bathtubs, showers and
