Governor Dolph Briscoe Highlights Ceremony

GROUND BREAKING HELD FOR PPG

PPG Industries broke ground near here Tuesday to signal construction of what will be the world's largest plant designed exclusively for the production of float glass.

Texas Governor Dolph Briscoe highlighted the Dedication Ceremonies as he spoke to area citizens saying:

"It is a very great pleasure for me to have this opportunity to join with the officials of PPG Industries and the citizens of Wichita Falls and surrounding area for this memorable occasion.

All of you gathered here this morning for the groundbreaking of the world's largest and most modern float glass plant, are very cognizant of the impact this new plant will have on the economy and future growth of Wichita Falls and all of the smaller communities in the surrounding area.

When this great plant goes into full production in mid-1974, it will employ some 900 persons. This in itself will greatly enhance the economic development of the area. But, the establishment of the PPG plant here means much more than that to your city.

It means new citizens will be moving to Wichita Falls; new retail businesses will be opening; the city, county and schools will benefit from the growth taxes and added valuation; new social and cultural opportunities will be opened.

It is quite evident that the selection of this plant site is probably the greatest single far-reaching event in the North Texas Area since the Burk Burnett Oil Boom more than 50 years ago.

That event came about because of the great natural resources of this area.

Today's event came about, to a large degree, because of the great human resources of this area and particularly the efforts of the community to provide the type of business climate that is attractive to industry.

One of the foremost considerations of a company as it studies possible locations of a new plant site is the attitude of a community and its civic and business leaders. All companies are looking for a positive attitude . . . a cooperative spirit . . . on the part of the local citizens.

PPG Industries found that spirit and attitude here in Wichita Falls surrounding area.

Many individuals and organizations have worked very hard in cooperation with the company to obtain the plant for this community.

Although it would be impossible in this limited time to give proper credit to everyone who has had a part in this community-wide effort, I would like to congratulate the Wichita Falls Board of Commerce and Industry, the local government officials and the news media. Above all, the citizens of Wichita Falls and Burk Burnett are to be commended for having communities that are extremely attractive to industries such as PPG.

The officials of PPG Industries are also to be congratulated on their good judgment in selecting this North Texas site for such an important undertaking.

We are proud of Wichita Falls --and all of Texas--and the industrial opportunities which are available here.

We have, and we intend to maintain, a favorable tax climate for business and industry. Just yesterday the regular session of the 63rd Legislature was completed. One of the highlights of this session was the adoption of a State budget for 1974-75 which does not require any new taxes and does not require increasing any existing taxes. This is only the second time in the past two decades that taxes have not been increased.

In addition to this favorable tax climate, we have the natural resources and the manpower needed for almost every type of industry.

We have a good geographic location for distribution of industry's products.

And, as has been demonstrated here in Wichita Falls, we have the people who know the importance of working together for the betterment of their community and for the industries which are part of that community.

Mr. Barker, you and the other officials of PPG Industries have made a wise choice and I wish you and your company the greatest success in the years ahead.

On behalf of the State of Texas, and I know that the Wichita Falls plant will make equally significant contributions to North Texas".

Following the Governor's dedication address, he and Robinson F. Barker, chairman and chief executive of PPG used James Easter, chairman of the Burk Burnett Chamber of Commerce Agri-Business Committee, and Wanda Young, manager of the Bunge Corporation in Burk Burnett, present checks for $25,000 to Jackie Green of Oklahoma for being the first to bring in a portion of his wheat crop. Green trucked in 113 bushels to lead the way. Burk's Chamber of Commerce Manager, Raymond Greenwood, looks on at left.

First Wheat Cuts Indicate Bumper Crop Year

First cuts of wheat seem to be proving out speculations on this being a bumper crop year for wheat.

J.C. Hinkle of Burk Burnett brought in his first load of wheat to Bunge Corp. Tuesday. Combining was Charlie Higgins from El Reno, Texas.

The first cut from Oklahoma to be brought in was by Jackie Green with 113 bushels. Horn and Schmidt out of Corn, Oklahoma did his combining.

Wanda Young of Bunge Corporation stated that they expect from one million to a million and one-half bushels of wheat to be brought in this year. "Farmers should get from 20 to 50 bushels to the acre," stated Mrs. Young.

Wind, rust, and freeze damage had been reported but "it won't get over 10% of the crop," assured Mrs. Young, manager of Bunge Corp.

At present wheat is bringing $2.70 a bushel, Barley, $1.30 and Oats, $.85. These prices are always subject to change.

Wanda flatly stated "EVERYTHING LOOKS GOOD!"

Minister Of Education-Administration Announced At First Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church of Burk Burnett recently announced an addition to its staff as Donnie Voss has come to assume the newly created position of Minister of Education-Administration.

Voss and his wife Judy come to Burk Burnett from Northside Baptist Church in Corsicana where he served as minister of education and youth.

He is a graduate of Munday High School and received his Bachelor of Science degree with a double major in Religious Education and Business Administration from Hardin-Simmons University. He is to receive his Master of Religious Education degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary this summer.

Rev. Lamoin Champ, pastor of the church, outlined the numerous duties of the Minister of Education - Administration. Voss will work with, lead and coordinate the total educational program of the church as well as work with the nomination committee and general and department leaders in worker enlistment. He will be the director of the outreach program including visitation and bus ministry and lead in planning and effecting the total training program of the church.

In addition he will work in planning for future needs in the area of buildings and equipment and will supervise the work of the church office. Also, he will seek to stay abreast of the best methods and principles of religious education and business administration.

In speaking about how pleased he and his wife were in coming to Burk Burnett, Voss also spoke of his goals as a minister. "The title of 'minister' is very important. I believe it means that I am to serve others in the name of Christ. I also believe that it is very important for me to equip and train laymen to do the work of the ministry--so that every Christian will see his responsibility of dying to self and serving Christ daily."

special glass shovels to turn the first earth on the 500 acre tract, approximately 2 miles south of the Burk Burnett city limits.

The plant, costing more than $50 million, will have a production potential of more than 400 million square feet of glass annually. It is expected to turn out glass from the first of its two lines in about one year, with full production scheduled for mid-1974.

Containing PPG's seventh and eighth float glass lines, the plant will have 27 acres under roof and will employ about 900 persons.

Barker praised the community's attitude, noting that it was a key element in PPG's decision to locate at Wichita Falls.

"We were thoroughly impressed with Wichita Falls' welcoming spirit and its willingness to be an important partner in this significant undertaking," Barker said. "This spirit has been amply demonstrated by the excellent cooperation extended to us by many local individuals and agencies. Let me assure all of you that the effort expended by the Wichita Falls Community on PPG's behalf will be fully compensated."

Barker took note of the economic payback of taxes and payroll that will result from the plant, but added that when PPG settles in a community, "we feel we must contribute to more than just its economic development."

"We expect that the company and its employees will contribute time, money and talent toward improving the already attractive life of the Wichita Falls area," he said.

In addition to Gov. Briscoe and Barker, participants in the groundbreaking activities included Robert M. Hains, vice president and general manager of the PPG's Glass Division; Ray Clymer, president of the Wichita Falls Board of Commerce and Industry; Frank V. Breeze, vice president and assistant general manager of the Glass Division, and Ralph E. Siebach, who will be manager of the Wichita Falls plant.

The rapid completion schedule for the plant was attributed to the continued strong demand for glass in construction, transportation and other markets.

The plant's location gives a better geographic balance to PPG's float operations and will facilitate service to the west coast and southwest construction industries. The facility will supply most domestic markets and regions, although a large portion of the output is earmarked for the commercial and residential construction industry.

Among the factors favoring the Wichita Falls site, besides outstanding area attitude and desirable location with respect to major PPG glass markets, were its utility, labor and transportation assets.

The new plant, incorporating the most advanced process technology, will have a production potential almost one third greater than PPG's float glass plant at Carlisle, Pa., opened just last year.

PPG introduced the float process to the United States at Cumberland, Md., in 1963, and, in addition to Carlisle, has float facilities at Crystal City, Mo., and Meadville, Pa.

In the float process, a continuous ribbon of glass is formed on the surface of a bath of molten tin. The operation produces glass having the near-perfect flatness of plate glass--without the need for grinding and polishing as in the plate process--combined with the surface brilliance of the finest sheet glass.

PPG's other major product lines, besides glass, include chemicals, paints, resins and fiber glass. The firm's sales in 1972 totaled $1.4 billion, of which glass products contributed about 44 percent.

PPG's domestic operations include more than 38,000 employees and 44 manufacturing locations. The firm also operates 31 production facilities in nine other countries. The Glass Division--PPG's largest unit--employs about 16,000 persons. The division operates 17 U.S. plants and has 13 foreign manufacturing locations.

Upped Check

Martin bought a secondhand motorcycle from a friendly stranger, giving him a check for "eight hundred dollars." But when he got the check back from the bank at the end of the month, it had been upped to "thirty eight hundred dollars."

Martin decided that the bank had no right to take the extra $3,000 out of his account. "It's not my fault the fellow was crooked," he argued in a court hearing. "Let the bank try to collect the difference from him."

But the bank pointed out that Martin had made three careless mistakes in writing the check:

- 1) he had failed to fill in the payee's name;
- 2) he had failed to fill in the numbers after the dollar sign; and
- 3) he had left more than an inch of open space in front of the word "eight"—plenty of room for inserting the word "thirty."

The court concluded that Martin, by his negligence, had invited the tampering—hence, would have to bear the loss himself.

Of course, as a general rule, a bank has no right to pay any more money out of your account than you have authorized. The bank, after all, has the best opportunity to detect fraud by examining a check before cashing it.

But the law will usually shift the loss to you if, by your carelessness, you have made the check easy to alter.

Furthermore, you have a duty to go over your cancelled checks within a reasonable time after they are returned, and to alert the bank if something is amiss.

For example: A man whose signature had been forged on a check had to absorb the loss himself because he neglected, for almost six months, to let the bank know what had happened.

A court said that by his procrastination, he had deprived the bank of a fair chance to track down the villain.

Be Proud Of Our Burk Girl Scouts

by Betty Holcomb
 Good things have been happening throughout the year in Burk Burnett! They have occurred because some of our finest youth care and our most dedicated adults help them turn their concern into action.
 Senior citizens smile because of them. The hungry are fed and the confined dare to hope because the Girl Scouts live up to their promise to "serve God, my Country and Mankind". Everyone knows that Girl Scouts peddle cookies, camp out and are "mischievous to the imp degree" but few realize the happiness and sunshine they bring to those who have the least and need the most.

Nursing home patients look forward to holidays and special occasions because they know the Girl Scouts will be there with a gift, song and smile. Thanksgiving pilgrims, turkeys, horns of plenty and refreshments arrive like clockwork each year. At Christmas aged eyes twinkle as slightly off key but energetic carols are sung by Girl Scouts who deliver gifts and decorations. One does not find a generation gap here. For a few brief moments there is a meeting of minds as a girl learns the joy of giving and a senior citizen remembers youth, smiles and receives gratefully.

Often the most forgotten and lonely people in the world are those confined in various institutions. Burk Burnett Girl Scouts do not forget. They know the joys of freedom and quick alert minds and remember to show compassion for those denied these gifts. Whether it be a necessity, toy, Christmas gift or just because girl, the Girl Scouts do not forget the patients in the State Hospital.

Girl Scouts believe in protecting and enhancing our environment and their concern for ecology sends them into the parks and roadides to collect litter, place litter cans or plant flowers and trees. Their efforts are a valuable community service and a special EcoAction patch is worn by participating girls.

No one connected with Girl Scouts will ever admit that their girls are anything but clean, neat, thrifty and all kinds of good things but some parents have been known to approach a state of shock when their Girl Scout's gear shifts from low to high. Miracles occur! Meals are prepared and served. Dishes are done without a grumble. Just as her room is about to be eligible for federal disaster and it is cleaned from top to bottom. Service finally turns homeward as Homemaking has it's day. In fact, there is a requirement for every day of Girl Scout Week. Along with Homemaking there is Health and Safety, Arts and Crafts, Outdoors, Citizenship, International Friendship and God. On Girl Scout Sunday, there is the jingle of coins in collection plates as the girls attend church and give God His share on His day.

Taking on a new community service project the Girl Scouts are busy organizing Burk Burnett's first day camp. Girls do not have to be scouts to attend. As usual the Girl Scouts are looking beyond themselves and reaching a hand to others. Being the first camp it will have flaws but with Girl Scout energy and a little public support it can be a fun filled, educational adventure for all Burk Burnett girls in the years ahead. Citizens are urged to support this camp. The one thing Girl Scouts do not possess is a fat bank account. Fees for camp are small and citizens interested in a worthwhile, tax deductible, contribution are invited to donate a campership for a needy girl.

With drug usage and crime rapidly rising among youth we salute the efforts of a group that is diverting its energy toward community service rather than community destruction. Thank you for caring enough. Brownie Troop 40, leader Kay McCurdy; Brownie Troop 52, leader Karen Drake; Brownie Troop 121, leader Betty Hall; Junior Troop 25, leader Louise Newton; Junior Troop 4, leader Janis Smith; Troop 29, leader Roberta Crawford; Cadet Troop 48, leader Jeanette Mooney and Senior Advisor Jane Waugh.
 Even if she is selling cookies and you do not want any, the next time a Girl Scout knocks on your door--Smile and say Thank You!

KIMBERLY COZBY

The Biggest Isn't Always The Winner

Kimberly Cozby, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cozby, attended the Northwest Texas Field & Stream Association's annual Kid Fishing Rodeo Saturday, May 26 where she won a trophy for the smallest catch in the 1-4 age bracket. Her catch measured 3 inches long. Ray Swangler, general chairman for the event, estimated 1,000 persons attended, with over 600 youths wading lines during the two-hour competition along the shores of the association's lake located just off Southwest Parkway in Wichita Falls. Two retired state game wardens, Bill Caves of Wichita Falls and Charlie Boynton of Vernon served as judges. Following the morning of fishing, the young anglers were treated to lunch on the grounds furnished by the association, including 1,800 hot dogs, over 1,000 soft drinks, ice cream and potato chips. An estimated 16,000 earth worms and several cases of canned whole-kernal corn were used as bait.

One hundred thirty-four "original" blank negotiable titles with inventory numbers 16461082 through 16461215 printed on the back, were taken May 21 in an armed robbery from the Motor Vehicle Division district office in Houston. In addition, 24 "duplicate original" blank non-negotiable titles with inventory numbers 6192990 through 6193013 printed on the front were taken in the same robbery. BOOMTOWN TEXAS composed and written by J.T. "Checkerboard" Gillis July 4, 1936

It's a place to go to see a good show
It's as rough and rowdy as you make it.
A good little town, good farms all around
A good place to be if you can take it.

You can bum a smoke or in the jaw get a poke
Or a friendlier bunch can't be found
If hungry get a bite or mad, get a fight
There's someone that will take you around.

Where the jobless can work if they won't stink
Where the poor don't go hungry and cold
Where the water is good, plenty oil and wood
Where a man don't feel like he is old.

Where the churches are swell they rink the bell
Every Sunday morning at ten. The Preacher will take for his text your mistakes
And tell you the wages of sin.

Of our City, we're proud, every week we get a crowd
A better City in the State you couldn't choose.
We treat you fair, always on the square
If you trade in Burk you won't loose.

Neighbor, I say to you if you are passing through Stop and look over our town. If there is something you don't see, just come to me
And I'll show you all way around.

So out of town friends, this City sends
A welcome to you everywhere
To stop and rest in the City that is best
If on your way to the Coast or fair.

Guidelines of Life

John Hocker, Pastor, First Assembly of God Church

Thursday, May 31 is commonly known as Ascension Day. This is the day many believe that Christ ascended into heaven, back to the Father.

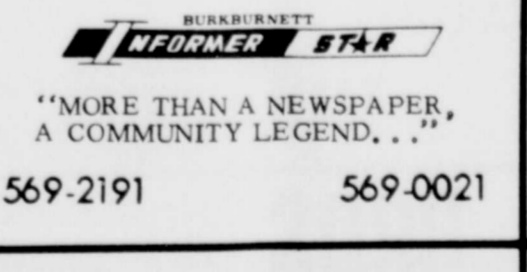

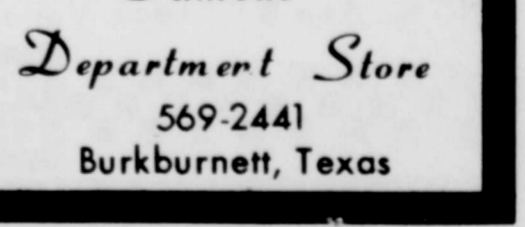

When Jesus warned His disciples of this event that was soon to take place, He found them greatly troubled. They had hoped He would at this time set up His earthly kingdom. He said in the gospel of John, Chapter 14, I will not leave you comfortless. I will pray to the Father and He shall give you another Comforter that He may abide with you forever. Again in verse 26, But the Comforter which is the Holy Ghost whom the Father shall send in my name, he shall teach you all things.

In Luke 24:49 Jesus said, "and behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem until ye be endued with power from on high. Read Acts 2:1-4 and you will find they obeyed Jesus and the Comforter came. Acts 2:39 tells us, For this promise is unto you and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

In most all denominations throughout the world many have received this comforter. We are living in an age of economic and political trouble. I am glad that we can have the comforter! Jesus said, "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

Again Jesus, speaking of His ascension in John 14:1-3, also spoke of his descent, for he said in verse 3 "and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also."

Protect your home against burglary while away on vacation. Any burglary means a severe budget upset, especially if insurance coverage isn't adequate. But even with excellent coverage, many items have sentimental as well as financial value and simply can't be replaced. Therefore, it's crucial to lessen the possibility of burglary by eliminating everything that suggests the house is vacant. A family can do several things before leaving to achieve this.

For one, cancel all daily deliveries and discontinue any newspapers. A yard full of yellowing newspapers is an open invitation to thieves. Also, connect a light to an automatic timer so it turns on at dusk and off at bedtime, creating a "lived" in appearance. Thieves watch for lights left on too long as well as darkened houses.

Leave shades or blinds in a normal position, not completely closed. Close and lock all windows and doors including those in the garage and outdoor storeroom. Use pin-tumbler cylinder locks on all outside doors. These locks require a key to both lock and unlock them.

Arrange to have the lawn cut, plants watered and other yard work done.

Make an arrangement with the post office or a neighbor to either hold or forward all mail.

Notify local police and a neighbor as to date of departure and return. Leave a house key with a neighbor or friend, informing him of your itinerary and destination.

Store valuables in a safety deposit box. Make a current household inventory. In case of burglary, an accurate inventory helps determine what items are missing, simplifying insurance collection.

Worm Problem In Cotton County

by Bill Lucas
Extension Director
Walters, Oklahoma

The Armyworm has been reported in Cotton County on wheat. They were found on the flag leaf and the grain head. If the numbers get great enough to start cutting the heads off, control might be necessary. The fields observed had a large number of predators and parasites and the crop was advanced enough so control was not deemed necessary, but a close watch should be maintained.

There have been Yellow Pecan Aphids reported on trees in Jefferson and Cotton Counties. The yellow aphids excrete a sticky, shiny substance called honeydew which clogs up leaves and collects dust decreasing the quality of photosynthesis that the leaf can provide. The aphids are treated when they begin to appear with any of the chemicals recommended. They feed on leaves and may cause defoliation if the population becomes great enough.

Usually the beneficials will take care of them, but if not, control measures should be taken about 10 days after aphids are noticed.

J.C. Hinkle of Burk Burnett was the first Texan to bring wheat to the Bunge Corporation this year. Hinkle receives a check from Wanda Young, manager of Bunge, for being the first to bring in a portion of what is speculated to be a bumper wheat crop. James Easter looks on at left.

County Agent News

B.T. HAWS

Farmers are urged to check their small grain for Armyworms. This insect is a problem in some fields. If you have Armyworms, you may spray with one of several insecticides; Methyl Parathion or Parathion. If you use either chemical it should be used 15 days before harvest. You will need to determine whether it is economically possible to spray for the Armyworm.

It looks like we are going to have a heavy infestation of the Pecan nut casebearer in our pecan trees this year. We are checking our bands on pecan trees this week. On 50 bands on trees at the Iowa Park Experiment Station, we found 38 pupae and 46 larva of the pecan nut casebearer. These are kept in a container for a few days to determine the correct time to spray. It looks like we will be spraying in this area the last week in May.

The next steak you eat may be "rarer" than you think. Steak is a "rare" commodity because it takes about two and a half years to produce it; 12 months for a cow to produce a calf, six months to weaning, four to six months in a feed lot. Yet, a 1,000 pound animal produces only about 48 pounds of sirloin steaks. Overall, 1,000 pound steer that grades "choice" will produce only about 444 pounds of edible beef products.

Turkeys are still one of the best buys available, both economically and nutritionally. The national average for turkey prices in 1972 was 55 cents a pound compared to 49 cents in 1965. Fifteen years ago, one hour of labor would have bought 4.7 pounds of turkey. Today, one hour of labor by the average factory worker can buy 6.7 pounds of turkey.

There can be no letup in the battle against hog cholera. As a further combatant to hog cholera, the U.S. Department of Agriculture still has in existence import regulations that prohibit the entry of live hogs, fresh pork and pork products.

Milk production in Texas during February amounted to 254,000,000 pounds. This is one per cent below February 1972 production and the same as the previous months production based on a daily average.

Texas 4-H Roundup will be held at Texas A&M University June 5-6. More than 1,800 4-H boys and girls from throughout the state will be competing in more than 30 contests and demonstrations ranging from livestock judging to public speaking. Some 600 adults, including County Extension Agents, 4-H leaders, friends of 4-H mass media representatives, will also be on hand. Activities will officially get underway at 5:30 p.m. June 5 with a general assembly.

4-H Roundup Slated June 5-6

It's Roundup time in Texas once again--4-H style, that is. Texas 4-H Roundup, one of the oldest annual statewide 4-H events in the nation, is slated for June 5-6 at Texas A&M University, announces Dr. Don Stormer, state 4-H and youth leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

More than 1,800 4-H boys and girls from throughout the state will be participating and will bring with them a multitude of talents and abilities as they compete in more than 30 contests and demonstrations ranging from livestock judging to public speaking. In addition to the 4-H'ers, Stormer points out that some 900 adults, including county Extension agents, 4-H leaders, friends of 4-H, mass media representatives, contest donors and members of the board of directors of the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation, will also be on hand. T. Louis Austin of Dallas chairs the board.

4-H'ers attending Roundup have already been named county and district winners in the various demonstrations and contests.

Land Use Programs Not Always Same

by Bill Fleming
U.S. Department of Agriculture
Soil Conservation Service
Iowa Park, Texas

Every farmer needs a land use program of his own. According to the Soil Conservation Service, not all conservation practices are needed on every farm. What is necessary on one farm may not be needed on another.

Bill Fleming, SCS Conservation Technician at Iowa Park said that one practice on which the SCS assists farmers is concrete lined irrigation ditches. Several benefits are derived from them. They save water by preventing seepage and water-logging of the soil with salty Lake Kemp water. They reduce the number of mosquitoes by the elimination of weedy and swampy areas. The fast delivery of water makes for more efficiency in irrigation than weed infested earthen ditches.

Fleming said that some farmers in the Wichita Irrigated Valley who have recognized their value and installed concrete lined irrigation ditches on their farms recently are: Dr. T.M. Dobbins, Bill Rowland, Thomas Twyford, and R. R. Brunson. The Dobbins farm is located 3 miles SW of Iowa Park. Rowland's farm is 1/2 mile S of the Iowa Park Road on 369 and Twyford's farm is about 2 miles NE of Valley View. The Brunson farm is 1/4 mile N of Hwy. 367 on Peterson Rd.

Others in the process of constructing concrete lined irrigation ditches are: Mr. Glen Atchley, whose farm is on Hwy.

368 of the Wichita River and George Gunter at Valley View. Gunter is also in the process of leveling his farm for irrigation. Bob Pace and associate owners of the "Buffalo Creek Ranch," just south of Iowa Park, have leveled 40 acres of their land and sprigged it to coastal bermudagrass. They are in the process of leveling an additional 40 acres for irrigation.

Farmers who have recently constructed waterways and established them to bermudagrass are: Willie Morton, and Montgomery and Crumpler in the Friberg Community. Others are R.W. Scruggs, H.C. Preston and Jesse Bills in the Burk Burnett area.

Bill Payton, operator and working partner on the Dickey and McGinn farm Northeast of Punkin Center has seeded 50 acres of sandy land to weeping lovegrass.

Ray Brosech, whose farm is located 2 miles SE of Punkin Center, has seeded considerable acreage of rangeland to sideoats grama and King Ranch Blue-stem grasses.

Fred Parkey and sons did critical area shaping on some eroded areas on their ranch and sodded them to bermudagrass.

There can be no letup in the battle against hog cholera. As a further combatant to hog cholera, the U.S. Department of Agriculture still has in existence import regulations that prohibit the entry of live hogs, fresh pork and pork products.

DOGS—PART OF SECURITY SUCCESS

by Sergeant John Clark SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Imagine for a moment that you are running along a grassy path on a night when the moon makes frequent dips behind dark clouds. The resulting haze allows only an eerie, luminescent glow to fall on the otherwise black earth below.

As you run, panting from the effort, you glance back over your shoulder and see a pair of red, glaring eyes and hear the growl of 80 pounds of angry animal preparing to attack from the rear.

No, this is not a nightmare born of a late night reading session of the "Hound of the Baskervilles." Rather, it is an all too real experience for any Sheppard Air Force Base Security Police with a well-trained patrol dog.

Of course, the ill-fated thief does not necessarily have to tangle with the patrol dog. In fact, the Security Policeman will yell "Halt!" twice before actually turning the animal loose, giving the suspected burglar plenty of time to surrender.

Staff Sergeant Robert Gantz, noncommissioned officer in charge of the military working dog section of the Security Police Squadron, knows a lot about dogs. Of his nine years in the Air Force, four have been spent working with them.

"At present, we have three dogs in the section," said Sergeant Gantz. "Trained at Lackland, which is the only dog training facility in the continental United States, these three animals average about 80 pounds. However, some of the patrol dogs weigh as much as 100 pounds.

"Sheppard's dogs are used exclusively for law enforcement. They're used mainly during the hours of darkness--between 6 p.m. and 3 a.m.--and are deployed as a backup for the regular police flight on duty."

Sergeant Gantz pointed out that the animals accompany a walking policeman in what are considered "high crime rate areas." Each dog and handler works five nights a week on a rotating basis.

In addition to regular night patrols, all of the handlers on duty that evening are required to report two hours early to conduct proficiency training with their animal. This is intended to maintain the skills of not only one dog, but the handler as well.

Situations where a policeman might be called upon to use his dog, though numerous, vary with the extent and seriousness of a suspected offense.

For example, Sergeant Gantz noted that when handler and dog approach a fight, standard procedure is to radio the desk sergeant at headquarters for assistance, then inform the combatants that a dog is nearby. In most cases that is enough to break up the fight.

"However, if we see a man crawling out of a window with a television in his arms," said Sergeant Gantz, "we order him to halt. If he doesn't we order him to halt again and tell him if he doesn't stop, we'll release the dog."

"To put the dog in motion, all we have to do is drop the leash and say 'Get him!' or 'Hit!' After the animal has made the hit, we simply say 'Out, heel!' Then we put the dog in a down position and search the suspect."

"The suspect is informed that if he makes a move, either to run or to attack, the dog will automatically attack without any order."

Asked if the dogs will actually injure a fleeing suspect, the sergeant pointed out that they are trained to "hit" only the arm. This is done to keep the animal from defacing the suspect and because the arm is vulnerable when swinging free while running.

According to Sergeant Gantz, these dogs have an unshakable desire to do their job.

"These animals will hold on to a man's arm even if he lifts them completely off the ground," said Sergeant Gantz. "Also, if they should be injured while chasing a suspect, they will continue as long as they are physically able. If shot at, they are trained to pursue even faster."

"One of the main advantages of the patrol dogs is that they can be used as a minimum force weapon. All security police have sidearms, but we don't shoot except in self-defense. So, the dogs give us a dual weapon system."

"Something most people don't know about the dogs is that even though ordered to attack, they can be recalled if necessary. If the fleeing suspect stops and put his hands up, we can give the command 'Out, heel!' and the animal will make a wide arc around him."

If you think you can outrun one of these dogs, forget it.

They can travel at speeds around 30 miles an hour for two to three minutes.

"There are several reasons why a person might want to become a dog handler," said Sergeant Gantz. "Perhaps they love animals or do not want the run-of-the-mill security police work. A surprising number of the men I've worked with have come into this field because they dreamed of being dog handlers as children."

"You have to love it to do it. You have to accept the daily cleaning of the kennel and the run. Three times a week the kennel must be disinfected, which means scrubbing it down with brushes."

"Then there are the weekly practice sessions, field and tracking problems, obedience training, and the obstacle course."

In addition to the section's regular patrol duties, they are also available for demonstrations for area organizations and schools. These are scheduled through the squadron by calling Senior Master Sergeant G.E. Pemberton at 851-2215.

Mural Painted For State Hospital

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Medical illustrators from Sheppard's School of Health Care Sciences are painting a mural in the children's unit at the Wichita Falls State Hospital during their off-duty time.

Funds to cover the cost of paint and equipment for painting the mural were donated by the Officers Wives Club and the Order of the Sword. Each organization donated $50.

Five illustrators of the Training Services Division volunteered their off-duty time to paint the mural. Frank Hursh designed the cartoon-type mural based on circus figures. The mural features clowns, animals, acrobats, a band, ringmaster and other typical circus acts.

Helen Wall, coordinator of services in the Children's Unit first talked of the project with Marguerite Moncrief, one of the illustrators. Mrs. Moncrief aroused interest among the other illustrators. Supervisor Fletcher N.J. Suggs organized the efforts.

The illustrators will work during the next week end to finish the mural. Others working on the project are Carrie Allison and Travis Huffines.
