It is arranged with an anteroom for the recipients of relief and will have room for issuing work cards and commissary supplies during the winter months.

The industrial unit of the center will provide employment in a cannery, a sewing room and various other occupational interests. This centralization of the activities will make the work of the relief group much less difficult. The building has been completely remodeled.

At the present time there are 260 persons on the relief rolls or working at government projects according to the announcement of H. D. Smith, director. The projects include two city, two county, one school, and one sewing room assignment. The cannery was closed this week.

Chevy Establishes Production Record

Chevrolet Motor Company established a production record for the month of July, building 92,947 passenger cars and trucks, the highest July production since 1929, according to an announcement made by H. C. Howard, Zone Manager, Dallas Zone.

To meet the demands, which continued on a high level during the month, the heavy production schedule was maintained. In the last four full working days of the month, 16,901 units were produced, with a record of 4,953 cars in a single day.

Handicapped by a late start in the early part of the year, Chevrolet production set a pace during March and April which was maintained through June, July and the early part of August. It is significant to note that at the close of production on Saturday, August 4, Chevrolet has surpassed last year's total production figure, building 626,303 units as compared with 626,277 units for the entire 12 months of 1933.

Norene William, 13, daughter of B. P. Williams, farmer residing two miles south of Randlett, Okla., was fatally burned early Saturday afternoon in a fire which destroyed the farm home.

The fire started from an explosion, believed created when coal oil was poured upon live coals in a stove, in a room where the girl was washing clothes.

The father, attracted by the explosion and the screams of the child, rushed into the room but was unable to immediately find her because of the dense smoke. Struggling about the room, almost over come by the fumes, Williams found his daughter still living, but horribly burned. Her clothes had been reduced to ash.

She was given emergency treatment in Burkburnett and then rushed in an Owens & Brumley ambulance to the Wichita General hospital, where she died at 4:10 o'clock.

Williams was treated at the hospital for painful burns about his face and hands. He then accompanied the body of the child back to Burkburnett.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1934

Some Burkburnett people are so kind-hearted that no matter how worthless you are they will give you a recommendation.

The honeymoon is over when he swims out into deep water and leaves her to wade around close to the shore.

If you are big and important you can reach the top by the simple process of keeping your mouth shut.

And just to think, most every ill this nation now suffers from could have been avoided by hanging a few men.

One thing is certain. The fellow who rocks the boat won't be the one to beat the train to the crossing. Page Chet Duncan.

A WRONG ATTITUDE

Quite often in recent months some Burkburnett citizens have taken occasion to openly criticize those in charge of the relief work now so necessary all over this country. They are free with their charges of graft and incompetency, yet nine times out of ten they could not substantiate those charges if forced to offer proof. This is not right. There are some who are incompetent, to be sure. There is graft in some sections, beyond all doubt. But the average welfare worker is honest at heart and is doing the best he or she can do considering that they have never had the opportunity to acquire experience along this line. To condemn all those who are in charge of relief distribution and welfare investigation simply because a few are out of place is unjust. Isn't there something somewhere in the Good Book about those without sin casting the first stone?

HERE'S THE REASON

One reason why the farmer can stand to work from morning until night and do it day after day without breaking down is because he can set his own pace, since he works largely as an individual. There is no boss or machine to set his rate of movement. He rests often for a longer or a shorter period, changes his position and relaxes his attention at every job. During such periods of rest, change and relaxation the poisons in the body produced from muscular movements can be oxidized and the worker can go on without much, if any, fatigue. Farmers who look with rather envious eye on the manual worker in the city because of his short hours, should remember that a few hours of work speeded up with a machine is often far more exhausting and produces greater and more intense fatigue, than farm work from sunup to sundown.

A Million Cars In Six Years

The automotive manufacturers are reporting increased sales this year and with increased sales is coming increased revenue for the federal government; thus the automobile is taking the American public on tours over new highways of optimism.

The motor car industry is given full credit in the National Capital for leading the way in business. One noteworthy fact is that Walter P. Chrysler has just built the millionth Plymouth, setting a new all-time record. It was not until 1928 that Plymouth was launched. Its development is considered more remarkable because it was made during the lean depression years. No other manufacturer ever manufactured his first million cars in less than nine years. And the first million of all makes took from 1900 to 1912 to construct. Chrysler has made Plymouth a definite factor in the low-price field by building his million in six years.

Officials of the company give credit for the remarkable rise of Plymouth to the engineering features of the car that meet the public demand afforded by all-steel bodies and hydraulic brakes and also the easy riding qualities attained through floating power engine mountings and individual front-wheel springs.

The public impressed by the fact that no other car in the low-price field has all of these advantages.

There are almost perfect husbands and almost perfect wives but unfortunately they do not marry each other.

Milk And Its Products

By J. E. Jones
Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—At about the time that Columbus discovered America the poets were making rhymes to the effect that "the moon is made of green cheese". In Columbus' time navigators and scientists knew something about the moon, but in those days cheese was too often green.

"Schools of cookery" pioneered the way for better "eats" in the United States 60 years ago. In those days butchers slaughtered and sold meat "before it spoiled"—sometimes. Packing houses and refrigeration came along a little later.

Within the time of millions of living persons the essential food factors became known as proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins, water and mineral salts. Science and medicine led this march of progress with the result that the average length of human life has increased about fifteen years. Governor John Winthrop of Puritan times, said that his favorite diet was "pease, pudding and fish," and that was considered a well-balanced diet. But mighty changes have taken place in food.

From a seasonal industry confined largely to farming, dairying has become an all-year round business. Machinery now serves the creameries and the cheese factories. In the last Census there were over 21,000,000 cows reported as giving milk. Each cow averaged 523 gallons of milk in 1929 as against the lower average 440 gallons four years before—just because trends in agricultural research has taught us what class of foods are most nutritious for cows. Only one-quarter of all milk is used on the farm.

Cheese represents an American triumph in the science of food and Kraft is a name as symbolic of good cheese as kodak is of cameras and films, or duco of the lacquer used on our automobiles.

As you watch the process of converting fresh fluid milk and rich cream into delicately flavored cheese at the "Philadelphia" cream cheese exhibit at the World Fair and cheese factories elsewhere you can understand how our progressive milch cows and our cheese makers have captured the American market, in which favor was once shown to European cheeses made of the milk from sheep, goats, camels and mares, and which was manufactured and marketed while moldy, and green enough for the moon to be made of it—besides it was usually expensive and indigestible.

Milk is basic food from the mom-ment that baby squalls for grave.

C. Members and Farmers Hear J. E. M'Donald Speak

The Semi-Annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce membership with farmers of this trade territory as special guests was held Friday night, September 14th, with some 100 in attendance.

The speaker for the occasion was J. E. McDonald, Commissioner of Department of Agriculture of Texas, who explained and outlined the "Class Plan" for Agriculture. It was explained and pointed out by the speaker that the plan provides that a survey be made of all farms to determine the probable production of all basic commodities on each particular farm. This will be determined from the production of the basic commodity grown on the farm during the basic years of 1909 to 1914 inclusive.

Estimates will be made of the domestic consumption of these different commodities and this amount of each of the crops may be marketed by the farmers at a price fixed by the government. The price will be fixed by working out a parity of these products on a level with other businesses. This way the farmers will have a guaranteed market for the domestic consumption of his basic farm crops.

That portion of the crops that will not be used or consumed in the country will be disposed of by the farmer on the open world market as he has been doing in the past. Example: If a farmer who has raised a good crop of any product fails to raise his share of the domestic consumed crop on account of some drouth or other unfavorable conditions, he will be permitted to buy the amount he is short of his domestic allotment at the OPEN MARKET PRICE FROM COMMUNITIES WHICH HAVE GROWN EXCESS TO THEIR DOMESTIC ALLOTMENT they are allowed to sell on the Home or Domestic Market and will be PERMITTED to sell his shortage purchased at the world market on his DOMESTIC ALLOTMENT. OR he may use a surplus he might have carried over from the previous year in excess to his Domestic Allotment, for which commodity he will receive the parity price guaranteed by the government. This will give the farmer a basis for figuring the amount that he can expect each year from his farm.

HOWEVER, this plan will be OPTIONAL to the farmers. BUT, he of course will have to sell as he has been selling on the Open World Market, which would not be protected as is the Domestic Allotment under the government plan.

The Chuck Wagon Gang of Wichita Falls, furnished the food for the guests and members, through arrangements made with the Chamber of Commerce. R. E. Shepherd sang a vocal solo and Jim Spoons played the harmonica. Music was also had by a String Instrumental headed by Eddie Sims.

In addition to the address made by Mr. J. E. McDonald, Jack D. Everhart, Director of Agriculture, in the Public Schools gave a short talk on the agriculture work in the schools.

The address of welcome was made by president, Henry S. Grace.

Radiotron Tubes In Sealed Cartons

RCA Radiotron will relieve all its authorized Agents of their consignment stock of RCA tubes in old-style cartons. This decision was reached by President E. T. Cunningham in a desire to immediately offer every RCA Agent an equal opportunity in merchandising the many advantages of the new Sealed Cartons. The actual carrying out of the step is already being put into effect through preliminary inventory now being made, through RCA Radiotron Wholesale Agents, of the old-style cartons in the Agent's hands.

This move was announced in a letter sent to all RCA Radiotron Wholesale Agents by General Sales Manager C. R. King, in which he stated: "We intend to withdraw from our consignment stocks in the study of our Agents, all consignment tubes that are not in Sealed Cartons."

Latest Move of Series
Thus, once again, President E. T. Cunningham concretely demonstrated his method of "square dealing" through all Agents in this latest move relieving any Agent of any difficulty he might experience in moving certain old-style carton tubes in the face of the Sealed Cartons that constitute the major portion of our stocks. It is the latest of a series of dramatic moves that have conclusively demonstrated Mr. Cunningham's avowed intentions of staying square with every Agent along the line, in the operation of the RCA Radio Tube Agency.

On April 1st of this year, Mr. Cunningham indicated his faith in the kind of radio tube retailers by whom the RCA Agency Plan has many advantages to the Agent. Since the inauguration of the plan, Mr. Cunningham has continued to show his faith in them by initiating subsequent steps designed to protect their tube business and profits that should always come from it.

There's no accounting for the peculiar manias of human beings. The debutante who affectionately fondles a pet lion and gets her picture in the society columns goes into tantrums at the sight of a mouse. The two year old babe that screams with fright at the coming of a stranger—no matter how handsome—turns smilingly with outstretched arms to the old colored nurse. The housewife consumes days wadding up strings from packages brought by the grocer—and for ten cents she could buy twine to last a year.

Business men whose time is too valuable to quibble over a few dollars in the cost of an item of equipment spend hours getting quotations on one thousand second sheets. Once in a while some printer makes a mistake and quotes too low. But he's a sport and he delivers without complaining; and next time the buyer thinks he is being held up.

Babies usually get over their eccentricities, But the business man never. Why? We confess we don't know.

WORLD FAIR ENDS OCT. 31, THIS YEAR

Many Unusual Gala Events Planned for Last Two Months.

Chicago (Special).—With the announcement that Chicago's new World's Fair, A Century of Progress Exposition, closes its gates forever on October 31st, and the advent of cool September weather, attendance figures at the exposition are steadily soaring to make new records for all American fairs. More than 9,000,000 persons have paid admissions this year, which brings the total for the two years showing to date in excess of 31,000,000.

The management of the Fair has accomplished the purpose desired by President Roosevelt when he requested that the fair operate a second year so that those who could not come last year would be given an opportunity to see it in 1934. This over and with two months of operation left, all activity is being directed to the staging of spectacular special events and shows which will close the exposition in a blaze of glory.

With all indications pointing to the probability that the attendance in September and October will outstrip the combined totals of the first three months of the Fair, exhibitors, concessionaires and the exposition itself are extending every effort to amuse and entertain the huge throngs that daily fill the magic streets of the fair, to an extent even greater than before.

Fair to Close Oct. 31.

In making the announcement that the Fair will have accomplished its aim by closing date, and therefore would not reopen, President Rufus C. Dawes said:

"A Century of Progress in its present form will not be in existence next year. If the Fair or any part of it is to be maintained it would have to be by outside sources. The Fair is under contract to the Chicago park board to demolish all buildings the board names, and the board also has the right to name any buildings which it wishes to retain and maintain.

"If you want to see Chicago's great Century of Progress Exposition you must come this summer or fall. It will not be here next year. Come and we shall do our best to make your visit pleasant, interesting and profitable."

With the closing, wreckers will come in and the enchanted city whose streets transported visitors into the mysterious realms of scientific research, art, music, industry, light, color, entertainment, education and commerce will come down. Officials, however, carefully pointed out that demolition will not begin until after the closing on October 31st. All exhibits and concessions will remain intact until that time.

Big Times for Two Months.

The fantastic buildings will be leveled. The Street of Villages with its fifteen perfect reproductions of as many foreign lands will be no more. The largest and most beautiful fountain will no longer throw its scintillating spray skyward. The gay cafes will not echo the laughter of happy people. The famed Avenue of Flags will be stripped and the greatest and most beautiful of all major expositions will be history.

It has been currently rumored that the Fair would remain as a permanent Chicago attraction; that each year henceforth it would reopen on the lake front. Now that people have realized that this is their last opportunity to see it, attendance totals have increased by leaps and bounds. The great free attractions are constantly choked with people. The twin symphony orchestras, the huge lagoon theater with its water carnivals and circus, the cage of fury, the roads of the world and the multitude of other free shows are playing to capacity crowds.

Fair Indian Art

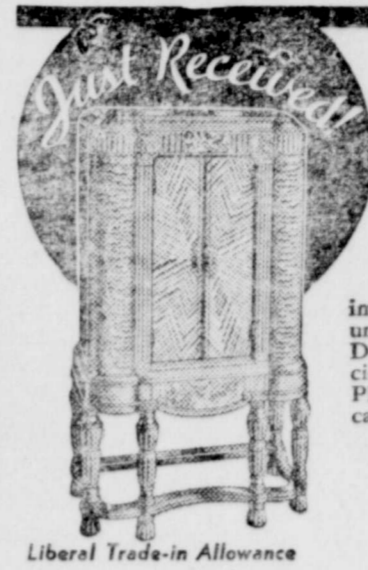

This moccasined young brave, part of the show in the Colonial Village at the World's Fair in Chicago, paints pictures on his drum that might easily turn some of our moderns green with envy. He, too, will seek fresh fields when the exposition closes forever Oct. 31.

BURKBURNETT, WICHITA COUNTY, TEXAS SEPTEMBER 21, 1934

NUMBER

Growl Staff Selected

The Growl Staff met in room 212 Monday afternoon at 4:00 for the purpose of selecting their officers. Gayle Preston was selected as editor-in-chief. Her co-workers selected were Frances Clark, assistant editor; Jackie Kirsh, sports editor; Nedra Campbell, society editor; Mildred Simmons, feature editor; and Malene Baber, news editor.

Old And New Teachers

The old teachers have already made their impressions upon us, and the new teachers are fast causing us to think some things about them. Mr. Robison has easily caused the boys to forget that old song, "Singing in the Bath Tub," for they now groan under the shower as they rub the muscles that are still sore from the first few days' workout in the gym. We wonder how many freckles he had when he was a boy.

The football boys, however, have been under the training of Coach Hill long enough to feel like regular "tuffies." Some of them are still wondering where he got that strong soap he carried to camp at Craterville.

Mr. Blackwell still retains his same old way of talking, and when he meets his classes, he doesn't even say (or sing) "Pardon My Southern Accent."

We suggest that Mr. Reaves and Mr. Blackwell be allowed to wear some kind of cap just as the football boys are doing who had their heads clipped. These are two of the old teachers.

We all thought that Mr. Reaves was not going to teach summer school this summer until we saw him come to town a number of times. But his was a school on wheels, it seems, something like the one on which Miss Morgan's Oklahoma friend served as a counselor playing the first part of the summer. During the latter part of the summer this Oklahoma friend happened to settle at Ada, just where Miss Morgan was attending school. It was around this place that our English teacher almost forgot how to drive; he did all the chauffeuring.

A special news bulletin came to us from Austin this summer that our Latin teacher, Miss Billingslea, had gotten married. We didn't know what to think about this at first, of course, but we got to figuring and found out that there was an unusual number of seniors who got married last year. Now, we wonder what the result will be this year, especially since our senior class sponsor for this year has spent the summer in Oklahoma.

Miss Dunaway spent the summer in Austin, too, but we do not have a full report on her either. Nevertheless, Austin must be a good place to go to school. We imagine that Miss Dunaway turned from public speaking to private speaking.

We were all glad to welcome Miss Ford again this fall even though she has been here most of the summer. In assembly last Friday she was the little girl who was given the big hand, or vice versa.

Everyone knows, of course, that Miss Kirby has been to Mexico City this summer. We wonder just how many of her experiences she will tell her classes, and, especially, if she will tell about the gay caballero who had the mustache.

Some of the boys made it a special point to see if they could sign up for home economics under Miss McClure and Miss Michie. Especially did some of the football boys want to take cooking.

"Michie, pretty Michie, Can you blame anyone For falling in love with you?" No, we don't blame him a bit for spending last week end in Burk Burnett.

The freshman chorus goes something like this: "Miss McClure, isn't she the cutest thing!"

Miss Gorin's hobby is reading (she's the new librarian); her preference in men—tall and blonde (to enhance her brunette beauty); her impression of Burk Burnett: a small town with a big town viewpoint; that is, broad-minded people.

Mr. Everhart lives up to his name. In the first place, he's married; and in the second place, the boys seem to think he has a heart too, judging from how some of them have scoured around to find a pig to clop every morning.

We know quite a bit about our friend, Mr. Johnson, of course, but we just discovered the other day that he likes pear salad. Be sure to have that pear salad when we come up for duck dinner.

We wonder why some of the girls are so persistent in taking manual training. Are they looking forward to building a home like Mr. Williamson did this past year?

We wonder why Mr. Westerfield had a stag party down at his house last Monday night after he had hired so many good-looking lady

Physical Education For Boys

By POLK ROBISON
 A new requirement, making it compulsory to teach physical education in all Texas High Schools desiring to keep their standard of affiliation, was passed during the past year. Burk Burnett High School has complied with this new state requirement and now offers courses in physical education for both boys and girls, which are compulsory for every student to take. Forty-five minute classes are met in these courses five days each week and credit is received as in any other course.

Each boy enrolled in physical education classes is required to have a gym suit and gym shoes. It has been my desire to make the cost of this equipment as small as possible, realizing that many might have some difficulty in meeting this requirement, but it is compulsory and very essential that every student have this equipment. We hope to have every student in high school take a thorough physical examination in the near future. At the present time there is no appropriation for this purpose, but some plan will be worked on.

Some may be interested in knowing the purpose of a course in physical education. The primary purpose is to better develop the student physically. This purpose will largely be realized through organized play activity. It is my desire to achieve the social, moral, and physical aims, which should have a place in every educational program, through this organized play activity.

The success of a program of this kind rests upon the use of such activities as will inspire and draw the students into intensive physical effort, and at the same time keep them conscious of their relation to others in the contest. The organized playing of such a game as tag football, basketball, and soft ball should meet these requirements. Work in boxing, wrestling, tumbling, and other sports will be taken up during the year. Some lectures will be given the boys each semester on physical education subjects. Very few dry calisthenics will be given, but most of the exercises will be received through the playing of games in which boys are interested. After each physical education class every boy is required to take a hot or cold shower bath.

We hope to show some tangible evidence or objective results our program, not only in relation to the needs of the school group but also to the needs of the entire community.

Unusual Enrollment

With enrollment in the high school practically complete by Friday, September 14 a total of 293 students had enrolled. A new plan of enrollment was adopted this year to assure accuracy in checking the enrollment in the required subjects and to insure proper distribution of the numbers in each class to prevent the overcrowding. In the plan used this year all enrollment cards were written by the faculty with class cards to correspond after which they were checked. Every student was required to schedule physical education unless excused with a doctors permit. Schedules of the seniors are to be re-checked to insure their schedule has the required subjects for graduation. Approximately twenty-four more students were enrolled on the first day this year than on the first day one year ago, according to the statistics in the office of the principal.

The enrollment of the H6 and 7th grade was completed by the instructors of those sections. One hundred and forty-two students are included in those divisions. This brings the total of students in the high school building to 435 to date.

teachers. Is he helping out the single men teachers, or is he getting them into trouble with the fairer sex?

We understand that Mr. Duncan remembers jokes quite well—those he reads, those he sees in shows, and those that really happen, ask him.

In the seventh grade we have another tall and handsome man. We imagine that suits Miss Westbrook. His name is Mr. Culpepper.

We wonder why Mr. Foreman had trouble finding dates in Kansas this summer. Anyway, he's back in Burk this fall and we're glad of it. His problem here seems to be that of getting out of a certain gate each night before it is locked.

We understand that California is the land of sunshine all the time. Now we are fully convinced about the latter since Miss Tanner has spent the summer in sunny California.

Home Economics

The home economics department has enlarged its program this year by the addition of the third year work. The dress that is made in this advanced clothing class is an evening dress, afternoon dress, or a dress to be worn on special occasions. The fifteen girls who are enrolled in this class have their patterns and materials and are ready to begin the actual sewing on their dresses.

The second year clothing class is now studying clothing budgets in order to determine how much each girl can spend on the tailored dress that she is to make this semester.

The seventeen girls who have enrolled in the first year clothing class are working very hard to determine what is meant by those two indefinite terms—personality and friendliness.

The girls in the second year foods class are ready to begin canning fruits and vegetables. These canned foods will be used when they serve dinners later in this semester.

Those who have enrolled in the first year foods class have decided that breakfast is an important meal, even though it is the first meal of the day.

High School Library

A week before the official opening of school, work began in the High School Library with the dusting and arrangement of books, pamphlets and periodicals. During the first week of the school year the library was open for the issuing of text books, and in the middle of the same week began serving the student body for reference work and outside reading for English Classes.

At present the librarian is assembling a group of books in need of repair to send to a bindery.

During the course of the year the present book collection is to be accessioned, classified according to the Dewey decimal scheme, and cataloged. This will make all material in the library easy to find and to use.

Juniors Elect Officers

We are going to make this class the best class of the year for we are going to do bigger and better things.

Mr. Dncan Meets Class Officers

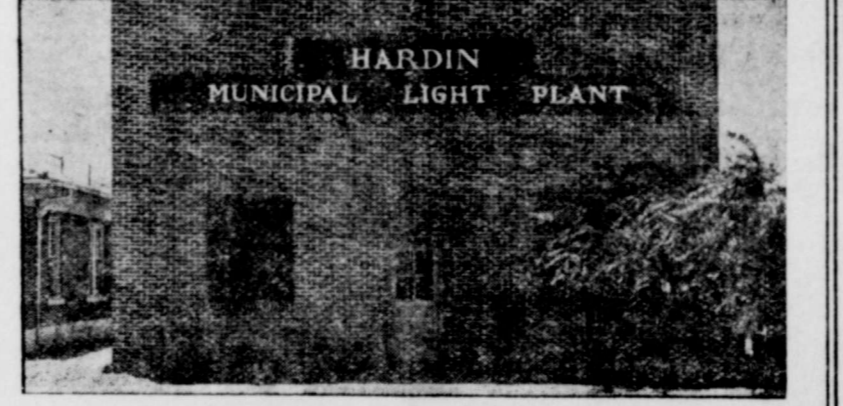

Mr. Duncan called a meeting of the officers of all the classes Monday morning at 8:45 in room 203. The regulations for the classes for the ensuing year were given as follows: (1) All class parties are to be held on Friday and Saturday nights. (2) On rare occasions classes will be permitted to have picnics in the afternoon provided they are home by 7:30. (3) The senior class, who won the interclass meet last year, is to fly its flag until the interclass meet is organized and held this year. This meet will be in February before the county meet. All the officers of the classes pledged to uphold these rules.

Senior Hotdog Stand

"Service with a Grin" that's our motto. When you feel that you are in need of refreshments at the football games just drop around to the old hotdog stand for all goodies. We serve sandwiches, hotdogs, hamburgers, candy, chewing gum, and toothpicks. Our prices are low and our quality high. We expect you to help support our stand.

The seniors also have charge of the ticket sales. We are telling you now that we will be around and you might as well have your money ready to buy a ticket.

"We Own Our Own at Home"

Through the generosity and loyalty of two philanthropic pioneers, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hardin, financial assistance was forthcoming for the Hardin Municipal Light Plant. The plant engine was turned over for the first time on June 17, 1933—denoting a new era of progress.

Hardin Municipal Light Plant became possible only after many months of investigation, research, planning and toil. It was conceived by men of vision, and its operation must be continued by men of vision. It is symbolic of faith in a Burk Burnett which will grow in importance with the passing years.

Physical Education For Girls

By MISS McCLURE
 The physical education department is a new thing in the school program of 1934-35.

All high school girls, except those with legitimate excuses, are compelled to take physical education. It is very beneficial to the student, and is well liked by both boys and girls.

There are about 115 girls in the three afternoon classes. They have been playing different types of games and relays the last week. Marching, tumbling, pyramid building and stunts, along with some folk dancing, will make up the physical education program for the year.

Demonstrations will be held for the public later on during the semester.

Vocational Agriculture In B. H. S.

An average cost of producing one acre of cotton that will produce 250 pounds of lint cotton will be fourteen dollars and fifty cents according to the figures of the first year Vocational Agriculture boys. This cost was determined by figuring the number of hours required to complete each operation involved in producing an acre of cotton. The cost of seed, ginning, bagging and ties, weighing and yardage, the cost of horse hours, man hours and equipment house were also valued and figured in. The question as to whether or not the rest or tax should be included in the cost of production.

Possibilities of organizing a Future Farmer Chapter were discussed and the boys decided to organize. This organization is composed of boys only in agriculture.

A nominating committee was appointed to make nominations for the following office. Vice president, president, reporter, secretary and the treasurer.

The following boys have signed up to take Vocational Agriculture this year, Howard Bentley, Jack Bryarly, John Garner, Wade Goodlett, Dick Goodwin, Willie B. Grace, Hubert Gragg, Lloyd Quinn, Odus Hatcher, Owen Hatcher, Lansford Johnson, Ray Lawler, Tollie McGown, Wilmer McNeil, Travis Milligan, Quannah Nichols, J. C. Spanish Students Meet

The members of the Spanish classes 1B and 2B met Tuesday night at the home of Miss Kirby to hear discussed and see examples of the varied arts and handicrafts in which the Mexicans are skillful.

The purpose of this meeting was to make those taking Spanish more interested in Mexico and the Spanish speaking people, by seeing and realizing that Mexico offers what the rest of the world can offer in scenery, or ancient as well as modern civilization, and that the Spanish people have unusual artistic abilities.

The pupils saw examples and discussed the methods used in making pictures of colored straw, hand-woven baskets, hand-tooled leather, hand-woven "sarapes," drawn work and alce, tiles, Talavera pottery, and the "China Pablana" costume which the Mexican girls wear to dance the "jarabe," the national dance of Mexico. Kodak pictures were used to illustrate how the Italian villages appeared where these articles were made and how the Indians who are skillful in these various arts look and live.

Mass Faces 2,650 Children Entering Schools This Month, Declares Authority

More Than Twenty-five Million Others Menaced By Eye Defects Improper Reading Habits, Inadequate Lighting and Insufficient Eye Care Found to be Chief Causes

The sentence of blindness hovers over more than 2,600 children who are entering the nation's schools this month, asserts M. J. Julian, director of the Better Vision Institute, New York City, in a plea for the provision of better eye care in school and home, issued today to all principals and health officials of the country.

Mr. Julian, who has just completed a study of the incidence of eye defects among school children, says that available statistics which indicate that the sight of approximately one out of every ten thousand persons.

The best estimates show that approximately 25,000,000 children will enter the first time, or re-enter the second and colleges of the country, he says. "Available statistics indicate that the sight of approximately one out of every ten thousand persons will be lost at some stage of their lives."

Per Cent of Eyes in Public Schools Defective; 40 Per Cent in Colleges

Mr. Julian, in a summary of examinations of field groups involving 125 separate investigations provides the following percentages for normal and defective eyes:

| Age Group | Normal | Myopic |
|---------------------|--------|--------|
| Infants | 6 | 7 |
| Pre-school | 10 | 7 |
| Elementary school | 64 | 9 |
| Intermediate school | 39 | 24 |
| College | 28 | 31 |

It is interesting to note," says Mr. Julian, "that the highest percentage of normal eyes is found in the ages of children in elementary schools. The prevalent farsightedness during infancy gradually decreases until the period of elementary school. During the latter period farsightedness begins to appear and this defect steadily increases throughout intermediate school and college. There can be little doubt that this defect is largely the result of misuse and abuse of the eyes. Later in life the increase of farsightedness with advancing age tends to overcome the nearsightedness."

The increase in the severity of visual defects with advancing age through school is attributable in large part to this increasing prevalence of eye defects, Mr. Julian claims. "Not only after a child enters school, but on his eyes become more exacting and strained. Although much progress has been made in printing school books and in the daylighting of classrooms, much remains to be done toward improving artificial lighting for dark days."

Some Conditions Frequently Overlooked
Some conditions, too, are frequently overlooked, he says. The lighting which teachers are given in regard to eyesight is not extended into the home. Many school children do homework under inadequate and improper lighting and they read fine print newspapers, books and magazines under these conditions. Often one sees a child reading at home with eyes too close to the newspaper or book. Sometimes the book is on the floor and the child is lying with its chin resting in the hands and its eyes too close to the print. Besides, the intensity of the illumination is much less at the level of the floor than it is near the light source.

Many school children average an hour or two daily in reading by artificial light in the home and 20 per cent of them have eye defects. These are significant and related facts, Mr. Julian points out.

A survey, whose results are typical of others, showed that in grade schools 66 per cent of the pupils were normal in their studies and 34 per cent were retarded. Of those who were making normal progress, 15 per cent had defective visions; but of those who were retarded in progress, 85 per cent had defective vision. "This is eloquent evidence of one of the penalties of defective eyesight," says Mr. Julian.

In another survey of grade schools the pupils were divided into three groups—accelerates, normals and arrests—according to their progress in school work. The percentages having defective eyes in each group were as follows: accelerates, 14 per cent; normals, 25 per cent; arrests, 32 per cent.

Experienced eyesight specialists can recount many cases which convince one of the far-reaching effects of eye-defects upon children. The end-products of seeing are complex psycho-physiological effects and children with defective eyes are often victims of these without the parents or teachers realizing the truth. The connection between cause and effect is often so obscured that only by careful observation and interpretation of the improvements in a child's condition, after being fitted with glasses, has the truth been recognized.

Defective Vision Retards Child's Natural Development

"Defective vision does not merely decrease a child's efficiency in seeing and in performing the visual tasks of school life. It retards the child in its studies, which in turn affects the child's attitude," asserts Mr. Julian. "The child may develop a serious inferiority complex, become nervous, cease to join in play, and actually decline in health. All these and other effects have been cleared up by fitting the child with proper glasses. But glasses are only one controllable factor among several important ones which determine the difficulty of seeing. Any improvement in seeing can bear similar fruit; and when the eyes do not need glasses it is still a safe assumption that other improvements can readily be made."

"In addition to the effects of defective vision upon the efficiency, health and attitude of the child, there is the cost to the school system. Each year that a child is retarded unnecessarily by defective vision is a waste of money amounting to ten times the cost of a pair of glasses. Only one of these retards costs more than adequate artificial lighting of a classroom."

the child cannot see properly at this distance he needs better lighting, or eyeglasses, or both.

4. Avoid reading blurred or otherwise indistinct written or printed matter.

5. Rest the eyes frequently.

6. If the eyes ache, or if there is trouble in seeing objects clearly and distinctly, the eyes should be examined without delay.

"The widespread prevalence of defective vision," says Mr. Julian, "is the natural result of unnatural use of the eyes, which were not designed for the burdens that our modern civilization has placed upon them. Nature intended our eyes to be used under natural daylight conditions, and for distance seeing. In taking liberties with Nature's laws by substituting close seeing indoors under meager amount of illumination, we risk paying a severe penalty in eye-defects and bodily disorders.

"By seeing to it that our school children's eyes are properly safeguarded, both in the classroom and at home, we will be taking a long step toward insuring their future welfare and productivity as good citizens."

Every child entering public school this fall should have its eyes examined by an eyesight specialist, Mr. Julian advises, giving the following rules for the prevention of eyestrain and other eye troubles:

1. Always read with a clear, colorless light of ample intensity (amount) coming from above over the shoulder. Never permit the light to shine directly into the eyes.

2. Always read with the head up. Children should not be permitted to read while lying on the floor or divan.

3. Hold the book or paper about fourteen inches from the eyes. If the child cannot see properly at this distance he needs better lighting, or eyeglasses, or both.

BURKBURNETT, TEXAS

Big Rabbit Creek

Sept. 16, 1934.

One of the worst accidents that has ever happened in the Randlett neighborhood occurred at the home of Mr. B. P. Williams who lived 2 miles South, 1/2 mile East of Randlett, Saturday afternoon about 2 p. m. One of his married daughters who was living with her father and her little daughter, also her baby sister, Loren, 4-years old, it was understood by the writer that the two daughters had been washing and the father was working in the field. B. P. had come in from the field, fed his team and came to the house. When he entered the house he went into the sitting room and sat down. In a moment he heard a great explosion. Jumping up he ran into the kitchen finding the whole room in flames. It is supposed that his little daughter, Loren 13, had started a fire in their large wood range cook stove by pouring coal oil out of a gallon can on live coals, or maybe a blaze of fire causing the oil can to explode, throwing fire all over

Loren, and causing instant death to the child. The room was so full of smoke it was several seconds before the father located his daughter. As soon as he found her he grabbed her in his arms and ran out of the burning house with her, with her clothes all burnt off from her body. Dr. Dice was called at once, also Owens and Brumley ambulance from Burkburnett. As soon as the ambulance arrived which was only a few minutes Loren was taken to the Wichita Falls hospital, but her burns proved fatal as she passed on to her maker about 4:15 p. m. Her father, B. P. was burned very bad about the face and hands, but not serious. The house and all its contents but one rocking chair and a new oil burner stove and some valuable papers, everything else was a total loss. The other married daughter as stated was hanging out their morning washing out in the back yard. If she and her little daughter had been in the house at the time of the explosion they may have lost their lives. The bereaved father and brothers and sisters are waiting for three other married sisters to arrive from Carrollington, Mo., before she will be laid to rest at 6 p. m. Sunday evening as the sisters will arrive in Randlett from Mo., at 6 P. M. Her funeral will be preached at the Methodist church about 6:30 and her remains will be laid to rest by her mothers side who passed away several years ago in the Randlett cemetery. Owens and Brumley will have charge of the funeral. The whole Rabbit Creek community joins in with the writer in sending to the grief stricken father, brothers and sisters their heartfelt sympathy in losing their beloved daughter and sister. May God blessings be upon them and may He comfort them during and after this great distressing hour of the losing of the beloved daughter and sister is the prayers of the writer.

Rev. George Hooper, pastor of the Methodist church in Randlett will deliver the funeral services at the Methodist church.

She is gone, but not forgotten. When shall her memory fade, Sweetest thoughts shall always linger. Around the grave where she is laid.

Well, good people, our part of sunny Oklahoma had another wonderful rain which came Thursday night. It rained nearly all night. Better than an inch of rain fell. It caused cotton pulling to stop till Monday morning.

There is a fine prospect for a second feed crop where the early feed crop had been cut since so much rain has come the second crop of feed is over 2 feet high already. Also there is a great prospect for a good top crop of cotton if the fall and frost is late, also if the leafworm don't strike it all. The writer is informed that several of the cotton fields in the Rabbit Creek community is already very badly infested by the Leaf Worm, but if we can have a few days of hot sun shiny days it will fix Mr. Leafworm, and the cotton will have a chance to go ahead and make a top crop. If this top is made it will be a great blessing to the farmers over in the Rabbit Creek neighborhood.

Mr. John Ashton and a Mr. Archie Wynn, who is building Bro. John's fine brick house, and three of his hired men motored down to Bro. John's fine Indian lease Sunday morning to look after several of his fine horses and colts that he has in the pasture in front of the Owens family residence. One of his fine fillies got lame so Bro. John came to rope the animal, so he could doctor the animals foot. Before I finish this article I wish to call the attention to Mr. Buster Morgan the Burkburnett Rodeo manager where he can get just a rumber one cow boy, especially a roper for his next rodeo and that's no body but the writers old friend Bro. John Ashton. He surprised the writer with the rope in trying to rope his filly. It took Bro. John 38 times within five to ten feet distance from the filly throwing his rope, trying to get the rope over its head. So Bro. John got a little mad. Finally he says I will rope you if it takes me all day, so he just walked up and layed the noose over the filly's head and led her out side and he and Mr. Wynn commenced to investigate the foot. If Bro. John would have just turned the roping over to Mr. Wynn the animal would have been roped the first time, as Mr. Wynn is just as good at roping as he is in his architect profession.

The stork sure does think lots of the Big Rabbit Creek neighborhood as he visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bridges home Friday night about 9:15 and left a fine 7 pound baby girl to Mrs. L. A. Bridges married daughter, Mrs. C. Bridges. Both mother and daughter is just doing fine.

Hints for the Household

For September
BY BETTY WEBSTER

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

1. Fur rugs will dry out and soil very fast in steam-heated rooms and should be washed in warm suds like a dog unless they are mounted, when they can be cleaned with warm cornmeal?
2. White paint used instead of glue for mending broken china will be found most satisfactory because if allowed to stand for three or four days after applying the paint the dishes may be washed as usual without the least danger of coming apart?
3. Sweet oil will remove finger marks from varnish furniture?
4. Kerosene will remove finger marks from waxed or oiled furniture?
5. A bicycle pump is efficient to use for cleaning reed furniture, radiators, tufted leather or cloth upholstery or sewing machines?
6. Part cornstarch and part flour instead of all flour in making pie crust will insure a light flaky, delicate crust which will remain dry and tender even in juicy fruit pies?
7. Cold roast veal chopped fine and mixed with chopped olives makes a nice sandwich filling?
8. A delicious sandwich may be made by mixing peanut butter and cream cheese, seasoning with salt and paprika and spreading the mixture between slices of graham bread?
9. A couple of tablespoons of water added to caramel icing which is hardening too rapidly to spread evenly will soften it and make it

The writer has been informed through W. S. Williams that his sister, Mrs. Frank Johnson, who lives in Muscogee, Okla., that he received a letter stating that the many operations she has underwent in the past few months is proving successful and she is just getting along fine.

RECIPES

- Jellied Meat
2 cups of cooked meat, chopped fine
1 cup of cold meat stock
1 1/2 teaspoons of gelatin
1 cup of hot broth or water
Salt
Cayenne
Powdered allspice.

Soften the gelatin in a little of the cold stock, add to the remaining stock and stir until dissolved. Mix the salt, cayenne and allspice with the meat. Pour broth over this and mix well; add stock and mix again. Mold in a brick or in oval shape and chill. Garnish with parsley or thin strips of red and green pepper.

Party Potatoes

- 2 cups of mashed potatoes
1 cup of minced boiled onions
1 egg
1 teaspoon of milk
1 cup of grated cheese

Beat together the potatoes and onions; add the cheese. Beat the egg lightly. Mix together one teaspoon of the beaten egg and one teaspoon of milk and set aside. Add the rest of the egg to the potatoes, onions and cheese. Mold into small patties; brush over with the egg and milk mixture and brown in the oven.

Cook together one cup of cold water and one tablespoon of starch until thick and transparent. Add a pinch of salt, two tablespoons of vinegar and two tablespoons of mint, finely chopped and mixed with a little sugar. Let simmer gently for ten or fifteen minutes. Strain and serve. More mint can be used if desired.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

An obstinate cork can often be removed from a bottle if the cork is dipped in hot water. If the bottle cannot be turned up-side down, wrap a towel wrung from hot water around the top of the bottle for a few minutes.

Except for the scratching this year's vacation and picnic season is about over.

BALDNESS

By DR. WILLIAM J. SCHROLES
Like any condition whose etiology has not been universally accepted, baldness is hedged about with a lot of causal theories. However, a little thought on the subject shows plainly enough what the real cause is.

Some Theories for Baldness

The man who is bald likes to think it is a mark of superior intellect. He argues that grass never grows on a busy street. But the chap with a shock of hair contends that it likewise never grows on the desert. And that's that theory.

The skin specialist holds that disease of the scalp, especially dandruff, leads to destruction of the hair follicles as a result on which the root dies and the hair falls out. But along comes another "authority" who argues that while disease of the scalp has some bearing on the case it is merely accessory to the fact and not the main offender.

What Hair Tonics Do

And so the theories come and go and meanwhile various and sundry enterprising gentlemen have reaped millions through inducing bald-headed men to rub this, that and the other concoction into their unsuspecting scalp. At that they have unconsciously done these scalps a service in providing them with a good massage. Which is the only good they do aside from the counter-irritation and its consequent increase of the blood-supply of the scalp induced by the irritating ingredients of the mixture. In fact, any treatment to be of value must have this effect—that it draw blood into the scalp.

There is no question that baldness is to a certain extent hereditary. However, the shape of the head must also be inherited as its contour has much to do with a predisposition to baldness. The long, narrow head seldom grows bald, whereas the short, broad head tends to early baldness. The reason for this is that the blood vessels coursing up the temples and arborizing over the top of the head cover the confines of the narrow head more generously than they can the broad head. If, moreover, these vessels lie in a rather deep groove and are guarded by ridges in the bone on either side, pressure upon them will not shut off the blood-supply of the scalp.

The man who affects a derby or silk hat which presses tightly against the sides of his head is therefore inclined to baldness while the one who wears a slouch hat or cap generally has abundant hair. Hence the professor is bald and the crook has a mop of hair.

How to Prevent Baldness

The bald scalp is always thin and tight; the remaining hair is fine and dry. Both features point to deficient blood-supply.

Going bareheaded will help as nature does her best to protect an exposed part. Thus, we see that the back of the arms and hands are covered with hair while the inside of the arms and the palms of the hands are bare. Again, during winter months animals grow an extra heavy crop of hair.

It remains for Walter Collins to offer a new definition of "woman." He says a woman is a person who would rather have the right kind of shoes than the right kind of feet.

From the Editor of The American Boy

During the coming year, the boys of America will get a half-fare rate to adventure and fun! THE AMERICAN BOY — YOUTH-COMPANION, the nation's leading magazine for boys, formerly $2.00 a year, now costs $1.00. A three-year subscription, previously $3.50, costs only $2.00.

Griffith Ogden, editor of THE AMERICAN BOY, brings boys the hearty assurance that the new prices will be in no way affect the editorial contents of the magazine. It will be as large, as beautifully printed, as full of high-spirited adventure as ever.

"THE AMERICAN BOY's leadership has been no accident," Mr. Ellis states. "We publish the magazine on the firm belief that boys deserve a magazine as good as any publication for grown-ups. So we use the best illustrators obtainable—well-known artists who work for the biggest magazines. We send our staff writers all over the country digging up the interesting facts of science, interviewing world-famous explorers, talking to coaches and athletes.

"We encourage and assist our writers to go everywhere for material—to Haiti, Africa, the South Seas, China—and bring back adventure for American boys. We hire experts on hobbies and boy problems to advise boys and young men. These steps account for our position as the quality magazine for boys, and we shall continue to take them.

Twelve issues of fun and excitement for $1.00! Three years for $2! Spread the news among your friends—and send your own subscription to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Service on your subscription will start with the issue you specify.

Jolson and Powell Rival Songsters in 'Wonder Bar'

Even good friends can be kept rivals. This was the situation that existed between Al Jolson and Dick Powell at the First National Studios during the production of the gigantic musical and dramatic spectacle, "Wonder Bar," which comes to the Palace Theatre on Sunday and Monday. Both were working and singing in the same picture.

It was all set originally for Jolson to sing three songs in that picture and for Dick to sing three.

In recent months, however, Dick Powell's voice has been more often in the public's ears than that of his predecessor. They met months ago, during the filming of the picture "42nd Street," in which Ruby Keeler, Jolson's wife, first flashed toward stardom.

But when both were assigned to leading roles in "Wonder Bar" and the public was told that each would sing in that picture, a keen rivalry between them naturally developed.

We think the best "money test" is to try to find out how much you can buy with what you've got.

College, says a professor, teaches you to think. And if you miss college you can get the same result from a wife and six children.
