STAR CAMPAIGN SUCCESSFUL

The Burkburnett Star has been approved by a large number of subscribers in this area, and the staff is glad to announce that the campaign for new subscriptions was successful. However, this drive which added a thousand new names to the mailing lists of subscribers was successful only because of the cooperation and enterprise of the workers and the public.

The winners in the campaign were Mrs. Ruby Finch, Chevrolet master sedan; Miss Pauline Gladden, standard sedan; Mrs. Henry Porter, Miss Pauline Welch and Miss Nadine Baker. The workers were untiring in their efforts to secure additional members to the big Burkburgett Star, family of readers.

To these workers the paper wishes to express appreciation and give public recognition for the work that they did during the entire campaign. It was through their efforts that the paper is able to serve the business men and citizens over a wider area than ever before.

Assisting the staff of the paper, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bowen worked throughout the drive. For their guidance and assistance, the Star is grateful.

The winners of the two cars, Mrs. Ruby Finch and Miss Pauline Gladden have requested the Star to make a special expression to their many friend who assisted them in securing the subscriptions during the drive. Each expressed the opinion that they could not have won the major prizes without the loyalty and cooperation of the many friends. The other workers placing in the contest expressed similar

The Burkburnett Star is now in a better position to serve the business men and to aid in community and civic projects. It's infulence has been spread and enters more homes and business places. This is the challenge to the staff who pledge their best efforts to a better paper throughout the year.

Increasing Use Of Farm Products In Making Ford V-8

Importance of the Southwest Will Be Emphasized at Exposition Opening June 6.

Agriculture has stepped out of the back yard and shaken hands with Industry. Farmers and industrialists have mutual problems which can be solved only by close

To demonstrate the many uses of griculture products in the autom ive industry as utilized by the Ford Motor Company at its Rouge River plant at Dearborn, Mich., the Ford Exposition Building at Texas Centennial in Dallas will contain demonstrations of processes in which cotton, mohair, wool, soy beans, tung oil, hogs, corn, pine pitch and sugar cane, all important products of the Southwest, are used in the manufacture of Ford V-8 automobiles. The theme of the Ford ex-bibit will be: "From the Soil to Finished Car Parts."

Everything pertaining to an auto-mobile has its origin in the earth. There is no need, as Mr. Ford sees t, to exhaust the mines and forests the material required can be grown on the farm; and in addition growing of the material on the farm will give to the farmer, when markets are developed, another source of cash. When the industrial market for farm products has been developed, it will not be long before there appears the farm-factory. In this farm-factory much of the processing by which the products is advanced into better condition for the market will be done in a reason.

Soy Beans Raised on Farm; Converted to Industrial Needs

Wherever the model soy bean plant of the Ford Motor Company is shown, crowds of interested spectators watch the simple process by which the soy beans are converted into raw materials for use in the automobile factory. The above picture of the oil extracting unit was taken at a recent industrial show in Detroit, Michigan.

At the Ford Exposition in Dallas, the moulding presses which turn out horn buttons, light switches, steering wheels and other parts made from the soy bean meal, as well as the model oil extracting plant, will be shown in operation. This feature is presented as evidence of the growing inter-dependence of farm and factory.

NEW-World's safest, most luxurious coaches-new streamlined Whites greet Yellowstone visitors today.

'OLD FAITHFUL" (left), is Yellowstone's famous geyser. Unforgetable is the experience of seeing it from an ultra-modern White coach. (Right), BREATH TAKING beauty unfolds like a magic carpet and none of it is missed, thanks to the ingenious "roll top."

NCLE SAM'S "Wonderlands of the West" — the National Parks, where millions of workweary Americans get back to nature every year-are preparing for the greatest influx of tourists in their history this summer.

Yellowstone, Glacier, Rainier, Sequoia and General Grant National Parks have already augmented their transportation fleets with forty-eight ultra modern, streamlined White coaches. They are the last word in safety and comfort and their streamline styling makes them the most beautiful sightseeing coaches in the world.

Stage Coaches Used Until 1917

It is a far cry from these luxurious vehicles, with every feature designed to promote the sightseer's relaxation of mind and body as he rolls through these natural fairylands, a far cry, indeed, from the primitive stage coaches which, as tion at Yellowstone. Citizens of Dalhart (population 4691) pay the following rates for the following kilowatt-hours

15 K. W. H.	$1.50
25 K. W. H.	$2.50
40 K. W. H.	$3.40
100 K. W. H.	$6.00

These figures were secured from Federal Power Commission Rate Survey, and a notation indicated that rates had been changed since July 1, 1934. According to the trend of the times, it is supposed the rates above are lower than those prior to that time. Dalhart is served by a private utility.

In Burkburnett (population 3281) the following rates are in effect for residences since the establishment of a municipal light plant.

15 K. W. H.	$1.08
25 K. W. H.	$1.67
40 K. W. H.	$2.34
