Mrs. Mirtie Capps Dies at Burkburnett

Mrs. Mirtie B. Capps, 51, wife of A. T. Capps of Poolville, Texas, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. E. L. Ussellton, here early Wednesday morning. She had been in ill health for several years and had been visiting in Burkburnett only about a month.

Mrs. Capps had been living in Poolville for more than 25 years. She was visiting three daughters here at the time of her death. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the First Baptist church in Burkburnett with Rev. Miles B. Hays, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Randlett, Okla., under the direction of the Thomas Funeral home.

Survivors include the husband and six daughters, Mrs. Ussellton, Mrs. N. J. Bradley and Flo Nell Capps of Burkburnett, Mrs. W. M. Warren of Hearne, and Mrs. H. M. Tigrett of Electra.

THERE IS A LIMIT

The Burkburnett Star has been courteous and cooperative with the other publications of this district that have published special editions and sponsored special pages, and the local paper has made no complaint to either the merchants or the outside papers for securing legitimate advertising here. However there is a limit to courtesy. The town is rapidly gaining a reputation of being a sucker town for such projects.

When the papers made one round each and secured ads, we thought that was enough for a while. When each of the three different papers started on the second round, then the third and fourth, it became a problem to the local paper. The Star has appreciated the cooperation of the local merchants in the past.

But remember during the last three months, one church paper, one other county weekly, three dailies, a special memorial book, and various song books, menus and sport cards have been sponsored here. We wish to suggest that the advertising committee advise such publications that Burkburnett has been thoroughly worked, and that it would be better to wait a little while before we are attacked again with any special editions.

BANG! BANG! Grade School In Fire Study Meet

Pop, bang, went the pistol of our Chief of Police, Bill Stapp last Sunday afternoon as he aimed at the top of a patch of weeds and fired the first shot that he has fired since he became police here. The occasion was the halting of a prisoner that had escaped from the Wichita Falls police. The local Chief fired over his head when he started to run and returned very meekly. He was returned to Wichita Falls, where he was desired for implication in an accident.

Mrs. Clark Hostess To Y. Matron Class

The Young Matrons class of the First Baptist church gathered at the home of Mrs. O. L. Clark on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock for the monthly business and social meeting.

The business session was directed by the president, Mrs. Lohofener. Opening song "What A Friend We Have in Jesus," prayer by Mrs. Miles B. Hays, Mrs. Homer Adams read the devotional and Mrs. T. P. Walker, prayer.

Installation of new officers and teachers for the following year were installed. Teacher, Mrs. O. L. Clark; assistant teacher, Mrs. H. S. Van Cleave; president, Mrs. A. H. In appreciation of Mrs. H. S. Van Cleave's faithful and efficient service with the class as a teacher for a number of years, a basket of many nice gifts were presented her. The class regrets that due to illness she is forced to refrain from active duty.

McFarlane Speaks On Legislatures, Laws and Lobbying

Visiting Congressman Tells The Rotary Club of Modern Methods

Lobby Denounced

Congressman W. D. McFarlane denounced the organizations that attempt to influence legislation by the creation of false public opinion through the press, radio and magazines in a speech on "Legislation and How it is Being Brought About" at the meeting of the Rotary club at noon Tuesday.

Mr. McFarlane spoke of the fact that the modern lobbyists had abandoned the more direct forms of bribery and coercion that were used in earlier days of legislation and lobbying. Such methods have been rare in the recent history.

Chillicothe Eagles Bring Strong Squad For Contest Friday

Bulldogs Ready

Chillicothe Determined To Defeat Team Trained By Former Coach

Feather and fur will fly Friday night as the Eagles from Chillicothe invade the kennel of the Burkburnett Bulldogs for the first home conference game, and the traditional annual battle between the two clubs. Last year after the Eagles had defeated the Bulldogs by a margin of seven touchdowns, the Eagles sent the taunting, mocking poem that has gained such wide publicity in the last few days to county newspapers, and this year the Bulldogs are set out to reverse the score on the cocky birds from Hardeman county.

Hard Fight

Battle of the century will be a mild affair compared to the hard hitting and scrapping game that will be presented at the stadium. The Burk team will be remembering "Seven times the Eagles marched around the wailing wall" That ought to be enough to make even the mildest tempered Bulldogs angry.

The chance of an even game is easy to forecast. The Throckmorton team was held to a low score of 6 to 0 last week by the Eagles. It was on a fourth quarter blocked punt that the Greyhounds finally scored their single counter from the 16 yard line. With the strength that is apparently in the Greyhounds this year, the Eagles evidently held the strong team well to indicate strength of their own.

Inspired Team

In addition to that the Chillicothe team will bring to Burkburnett an inspired squad. Ever since Coach Hill has coached the Burkburnett team, the Chillicothe squad have made it the main purpose of their year's program to defeat the Bulldogs.

The squad has a well balanced backfield in Francis at quarterback, Baldree at left half, Morrison at right half and Odell at fullback. This well balanced attack has been able to hold the fast moving opposition by a constant threat of the attack.

The line will probably start Davis, Brock, Bettles, Coates, Melton, Jones and Dodson. This line weighs on an average of about 149 pounds, according to the releases of the Chillicothe coach, Muse. The team has a dangerous passing attack that is liable to unfold at any moment of the game. Last week at Throckmorton the team completed six passes for 57 yards gain.

Bulldogs Team

Of course the fans will be watching Tolly McKown. Since this ace runner gained over 200 See "EAGLES" Last Page

In The Parade

The parade will start at the city hall at 6:30 Friday night, led by the Cowboy Band, and will pass through the business section of the city to the stadium. Every citizen and business place has been asked to join in the line of march. Those who have signified that they will have cars in the parade are as follows: Burkburnett Fire Dept., Burkburnett Star, Burkburnett Gas Co., Jack Daniels, B. H. Alexander, J. D. Majors Variety Store, Adams Drug Store, Dodson's Store, L & M Grocery, Boyd Bros., Frances Felty, Alexander Service Station, H. D. Smith, Sid Gamblin, Texas Electric Service Co., B. F. Gilchrist, G. A. Reaves, Jr., Barrow Grace, Burk Motors, Dudley Feed and Produce Co., Ice Service Co., Bill Miller, Clyde Elder, Kent Service Station, The Vogue, Burkburnett Tailors, Cooper Garage, Cooper 5c to $5 Store, Owens & Brumley, Cannon Drug, Keisling Bros., T. Plans For Annual C of C Meeting To Be Discussed Mon.

Date Set For Meeting and Banquet On Dec. 4; Officers Elected

Fiscal Year To End

Plans for the annual chamber of commerce banquet will be announced next Monday. Mr. Herman Brown, secretary of the organization and H. D. Smith, president, are ready this week to appoint the special committees. The meeting has been set for December 4. This date is advancing about one month the regular meeting date in order to prevent the conflict with the meetings of similar organizations during January.

The directors will meet at the city hall Monday night to confirm the following appointments as committees for the meeting: arrangements, F. T. Felty, Wylie Browning, J. H. Brumley; speaker, Herman Brown, D. R. Peetay, J. D. Majors, A. B. Sandler; decoration, Miss Eveleyn Hardeman, Miss Edna Cropper, Mrs. Morris Strong and Mrs. Leonard Mattingly; reception, Butler Westfield, Chas. Boyd, Cliff Cannon, W. R. Hill, H. S. Grace, Dr. C. J. Morrison and Sam Cooper; ticket, Fred Brookman, J. F. Kelly and R. P. Reagan.

The annual meeting and annual reports will be discussed in full. The committees and departments will submit their detailed plans for next year's work and the completion of the projects this year.

Last year the meeting was postponed in order to prevent the conflict. In order to hold the meeting earlier this year, it will be necessary for the members of the organization to pay the dues as early as possible. The books of the organization will be closed as soon after the annual meeting, and the membership drive for the following year will be held the next week.

Among the plans discussed for the presentation of the program is the presentation of a historical setting familiar to the March of Time that has been presented so successfully in other cities of the district.

The invitations to the cities in this area will be mailed in the near future announcing the date so that other chambers of commerce will not set dates for annual meetings of the same Friday night.

Cannon's Display Of Fire Loss Is Attracting Note

Installed By W. A. Roberts Insurance Company

The fire prevention display at Cannon's Drug Store is attracting wide attention during fire prevention week. The display is arranged so as to show an attractive model house constructed by Donald Roberts and Scott Williamson several years ago. Then across the window is located the burned home. It was builded and burned by Chester Roberts and J. J. Blackstone.

The window is furnished by the Drug Store to the Roberts Insurance company. The hazards and causes of fire are shown. The background is in an attractive array of streamers showing the effects of the fire color scheme.

FARM TO MARKET

Several editorials have been written about the need of a farm to market system, and now that the work has actually started locally on the system which will ultimately give the farmers of the section a series of laterals that will make it possible for them to bring their products to market, regardless of the weather, the importance of the system is emphasized.

The general program of the state highway and federal road departments in the past has been to develop the cross state and inter-state systems. Very little attention has been paid to the local road problems. Now that an excellent system has been worked out, it is an interesting fact that emphasis is being placed on minor roads.

The reason for roads in the nation is not so much to make the cross-country trips possible as it is to make the process of marketing more efficient. The only method that can be used for such achievement is extensive development of local roads.

MORE SUCH TRIPS

It is impossible for the Star to suggest just what arrangements could be made for the local delegation that journeyed to Randlett last Wednesday night to present the opening program at the school auditorium, but it would be an excellent good-will project for such trips to be made to various communities in the trade territory as often as possible.

Since the good-will expedition last week, we have heard several people from Randlett express appreciation for the program presented. That good-will could not have been induced by any other means, and it could not have been bought for any price.

Some arrangements should be made to see that the trips to various cities in the entire district are repeated. Every little community and school in the area should have a constant reminder of the fact that Burkburnett is interested in that community.

CONSERVATION OF SOIL

Other nations in the past have been forced to do what we of the United States have not faced in our short history. There has always been plenty of room and new lands for the farmers who depleted the soil of one area. Now that expansion has reached its limits and the fertile areas in many districts near their limit of production, the American people face the rude process of awakening that we have been very prodigal in our farm policies.

It has been impossible to take direct action as was taken in the medieval states under kings and lords. While the lords forced the property ownership and fields to expose the land without crops on certain periods, the United States government must pay the farmer a bonus for increasing the value of his own land.

It merely means more than depletion of ability to grow crops. Exhaustion of the fertility and deforestation brings the inevitable phenomena of drouth, flood, dust storms, and other unwelcome conditions. It is encouraging this year to hear that some of the local farmers state that they will protect their land by proper planting even if the government changes its policy in the future.

If the policy is to be permanent, it must be undertaken voluntarily. It would appear that a man would choose of his own will to follow a policy that is good for him, but it isn't always true.

China presents an excellent example of a people that have forgotten to apply knowledge which they have had for centuries. Centuries ago the nation terraced and conserved the soil. Internal disturbances led to the abandoning of the local laws and the natural result is the soil depletion. Today the nation is almost desert-like. Once the world's most fertile soil has been exhausted. That should be a picture that strikes awe in the American farmer and citizen.

New York optometrists devise spectacles that cool the eye. These should come in handy at Christmas time, in gazing at all those things.

A Waldwick, N. J. couple met, fell in love and were wed, all on a carousel. And it was less than two weeks ago they started going around.

HEADLINES

News of the Week

"Riots break out in France and England." It seems that the European countries can not choose the happy medium between extreme communism or extreme facism. The two forces are in a death struggle in Europe. In each of the major countries, one or the other must rule. At the present facism is in control of Spain, Italy and Germany. Communism is in the seat in France and Russia. Now the countries have the choice between the two types of poison government. The whole restlessness probably will end in an international struggle between the two types of government. With countries allied, not by natural treaties, but by forms of ruling power. The motto in France is "Remember Spain". It seems that when a country wishes to start a war or some disturbance, somebody is always yelling "remember this or that". Texas remembered the Alamo, the Goliad, The United States remembered the "Maine" to start a war. Now France is remembering Spain.

Return of Charity

The encouraging sign of increased prosperity is the return of local community chests or allied charities. During the last few years, the local governments and communities have been content to let the national government take care of the problems of charity and relief. But the local communities must assume the burden eventually, and the sooner they get started and accustomed to the problem, the quicker we will have a return to national prosperity.

We all lost our sense of proportion when the emergency hit, and instead of carrying on as we could have in a limited way, we just lost courage and stopped trying. That will never bring us out of the slump. It takes individual courage and initiative to recover.

Cooperatives

Cooperative stores are here to stay, and the merchant had better either prepare to meet the competition, or join with the cooperatives and help them. The rapidly growing tendency toward combining for a common store to sell at cost, is one of the most important social phenomenon of the present day. The idea works on this order: A group determines to establish a store. They pool their cash and buy the stock. A very slight margin of profit is made when the stock is resold to the members of the cooperative. New stock is bought and the process is repeated. There are 1,800 of such stores in the United States including two in Wichita Falls. It is rumored that one will be established in this community in the near future. Now the problem is up to the merchants. They can not possible sell at the prices of the cooperatives. So what will they do? The stores can either meet the competition by cutting prices or fight on the basis of legality. The last course will have very little success, since it has been tried in other states.

Silly Fanatics

There are two silly fanatics in Terre Haute, Indiana. One is the chief of police that jailed Crowder, communist candidate, and the other one is the candidate himself. It is silly to jail men because of their political belief, and that is exactly what happened in the city. Nothing could have helped the candidate among his element as much as the incarceration for the speech that he wished to make. From the dawn of history, it seems that men have learned that in order to make a "cause" grow, about all you have to do is make a martyr out of its leader. The jail sentence gave the candidate a much more sincere appeal to his constituents. Mayor Breecher boldly said that he was not going to allow communism to be established in Terre Haute. Yet he did the very thing that will give it greatest success in that village.

It was naturally expected that the Republicans would use any sort of tactics to win the present race, but no one dared even believe that their candidate would violate his word of honor. He was given a copy of the governmental confidential report on social security in order that he might be better informed, but he promised that it would not be used. Immediately he had copies mimeographed for press release and government records that were incomplete became public property. That just sounds like a republican tactic.

Snake Bite and Faith

Last year Rev. T. Anderson was bitten by a snake to demonstrate his faith in the willingness of the Lord to cure him. He did recover and after three other trials, evidently the Lord lost his patience because the Rev. Mr. Anderson died as the victim of a snake bite last week. It seems that even the Lord has a limit to his patience.

Three Married Men At the Tex Theatre

They're the bread and butter of show business, and their work often means the difference between a pretty good show and a hit show—yet seldom do they get their names in lights.

"They" are the tried and true comedians and character actors; the boys who inject "comedy relief" into sentimental film tales, and whose intermittent dialogue makes photoplay skip and gallop where they might otherwise drag and limp. Producers know their value, yet Paramount has let the way toward a greater recognition in its picture coming Sunday and Monday at the Tex theatre, "The Three Married Men".

"Three Married Men" lists at the top of its cast three of the best of filmdom's fun-producers, Roscoe Karns, William Frawley and Lynne Overman. Its first film to feature the trio in top

They have spent their time arguing and investigating. Well, that may be in order, but right now a study of revenue seems more important than the political investigations.

Editor's Viewpoint

Back again my pets, after the usual summer vacation, me thinks the weather man stays up late nights thinking up hindrances to put in the path of joy seeking gals and fellers.
It's hard to realize that in just one month the studios and business look has fallen upon the countenances of our once carefree bunch of school chilluns.
Hard as I've been trying I just can't resist asking how you like the "Growl." I've tried hard to restrain myself, being this is just the second issue, but I couldn't hold it back and longer.
Course I realize I'm probably prejudiced, but it seems to me that it's a pretty smooth looking sheet, prejudice or no prejudice!
So it is time to close, but first the offer of three ounces of good horse feathers will be awarded to the person who submits the best answer to "Who is going to win the football game Friday night? (no fair guessin') Come and find out. My answer is the Bulldogs. What's Yours?"

TO MY LOCKER
Oh, thou, that art afflicted
With ceaseless stomach ache,
My dear, thou art convicted
To suffer for my sake.
Life must be so very sad
When you hurt internally;
I wish that I could make you glad
When you ache infernally.
But I guess I'm all to blame
For I never take the time
To alleviate thy pain
And fix things up, oh locker mine.

Assembly
Thursday, October 1, 1936
The students enjoyed the following program in Assembly:
The Devotional was read by Marilyn Harwell, and the Lord's Prayer was said in unison by the students.

Miss Wynn, accompanied at the piano by Miss Gideon, led the student body in two songs, "Shine on Harvest Moon" and "There's a Long, Long Trail."

The speaker, Mr. Douglas Smyth, was next introduced by Mr. Duncan. Mr. Smyth delivered a very interesting talk, his subject being "Go to College and Why." His description and explanations of the University of Texas were especially interesting to the students. He expressed his interest in our school activities by his enthusiasm in cur game last Friday with Iowa Park, his own home town. The assembly was closed with announcements by Mr. Westerfield.

Club del Espanol

Friday of last week the three Spanish IA classes organized a Spanish club in each of their respective groups. Friday of each week shall be set aside as club
day for the rest of this semester.
Each Friday a program committee shall be appointed to confer with Miss Herring in arranging a program for the following week.
These programs shall be varied and shall deal with the geography history, customs and ideals of the Spanish speaking people of the world. The pupils will feel free to bring to class and Spanish material available which they may think will interest the classes.

Volley Ball

Every morning at 8:00 there can be seen in the gym about twenty-four girls who are really out to make a winning volleyball team for Burk Hi. These girls are very anxious for volley ball season to start and they are all working hard to be in good shape
for that first game.
It was decided that a captain and a manager be elected at the end of the first six weeks so all the grades can be checked and see who is eligible for being captain.
All these girls have been cooperating nicely and most of them are on time, as they are counted late at 8:15. The coach, Miss Gideon, is proud of her material this year and is expecting to have the champion team of the county.
The girls are: Della Ashmon,
Helen Faye Bennett, Doris Bowden, Mary Lou Clements, Mary Ruth Cooper, Dixie Dillingham, Juanita Guthrie, Betty Jane Hill,
Marcella Foster, Wilma Fuls,

Oct. 1, 1936—The total enrollment to this date is 710 with an increase of 74 students over 1933, and of 7 students over 1934.

About Our New Teachers

Melba Clark
Miss January is the most high-school girlish-looking teacher we have had for many moons, children. We hope she accepts the compliment.
Miss Herring reminds us of a public character. Whether said character is a commercial model, movie actress, swimming champion (or what have you), we don't know. Any help on the matter will be appreciated.
Mr. Kimbr w greatly reminds us of our friend Mr. Strong (remember?). He talks like him, walks like him, and even has a similar countenance. Which all means what?—Nothing.
Miss Wynn is our favorite librarian. Although she won't let us swing on the chandeliers or climb on the book shelves, she's still the "cream of the crop" (of B.H.S. librarians). Something else we like is the way she leads the songs in assembly.

announcing the arrival of two copies of a book by Mrs. Fay M.

Bulldogs Battle The Eagles Friday Night

The Burkburnett Bulldogs play
the Chillicothe Eagles Friday nite.
The game is scheduled to be played on Westerfield at 8:00 p. m.
This is expected to be one of the best games of the season. It is both team's second conference game. Throckmorton beat the Eagles last Friday night 6 to 0.
Chillicothe will be hard to beat,
but the Bulldogs expect to come out on top. They do not especially want to beat the Bulldogs, but they want to beat Coach Hill. Hill coached at Chillicothe before he came to Burkburnett. Everyone be sure and see the game. The probable line-up will be: McKown and Teal at the halfback positions, Johnson at fullback, Finch at Quarterback, Whitton and Elliott at the guard positions, Cook
and Montgomery at the tackles, Blair and Spray as ends, and Hageman at center. For the Eagles

Thanks, fellows, for rallying to support the '36 Bulldogs. Hats off

I have heard some very nice comments on them and hope they rise to everyone's standard. The drill performed at the game consisted of the letters I and P for Iowa Park and B for Burkburnett.
The girls yelled till they were hoarse, and naturally the student body was found in the rooting
section of the orange and black.
I am sure everyone was proud of our mascot for she was none other than Coach Hill's little daughter, Jeanette.
The pep squad will meet each afternoon this week to practice the new drill for the game Friday night. Come all, and don't forget the game.
We'll see you there!!

Pep Rally

A pep rally for the football game last Friday night with Iowa Park was held Friday morning in the high school auditorium. The program was immediately turned over to the pep squad, who gave some yells for the squad, with the help of the student body. The pep squad for some reason or other couldn't seem to get much results from the student body.
Then Mr. Hill was called upon to make a few comments on the game. Next the coach asked Mr.
Westerfield to say something, and Mr. Westerfield really got some results from the student body. It seemed there wasn't a person who wasn't yelling at the top of his voice, but we like to see them that way. We hope they will get more pepped up over the next game.
The program closed with the student body giving 15 rashes for Wes-terfield. We think we ought to elect him as a pep squad leader along with those who are our present leaders.

Fire Prevention Program

Members of the health class presented a Fire Prevention Play-
let. Those taking part were: Mary Ann Danforth, Jonita Majors, Ella
Doyce Thompson, Billy Louise
Gamble, Valta Brookman, Bobby
Lou Westerfield, Derestine Moore, Sadie Beth Tevis, Clara Mae Parker, Allyne Jeffers, Avilda Gamble, Wanda Lou Gragg, Alta Faye Russell, Martha Jean Walling.
The program was closed with an unexpected fire drill for the whole school.

Fire Prevention

Heat is an absolute necessity in modern way of living and in our modern methods of production.
Since we cannot get along without it, we must learn how to use it safely. Fires and explosions are all too common in the day's news.
They are a major cause of death and injury both in the industrial plants of the country and in the homes.
We have all heard and read the different fire precautions: "No Smoking" near a place where inflammable materials such as gas and oil are handled, "Don't stand too near an open fire", "Be Careful to See That Your Match is Out When it is Thrown Away",
"Put Out Picnic Fires," etc., but how many of us always abide by them? Don't you think it would be better for each of us to think and act more on the preventing of fires?
This week we are celebrating
National Fire Prevention Week.
This is always celebrated the first week in October, and was started as a reminder of the great Chicago fire that nearly destroyed that city in 1871. The idea of fire prevention is to destroy as many fire hazards as possible and to study how to prevent fires. This week all the students in the English classes will either write a theme or make a poster on Fire Prevention.

Bulldogs Down The Hawks 13 - 0

The Burkburnett Bulldogs led by Tolly McKown downed the Iowa Park Hawks last Friday night 13 to 0. This was the first conference game of the year. The Bulldogs are proud of their victory, but they didn't play as good a game as they were expected to.
The Bulldogs scored in the first quarter of the game, then again in the third quarter. The first attempt for the extra point was blocked. The second attempt was good, a pass from McKown to Finch. The Bulldogs were again threatening the Hawks goal line
when the game ended.

Senior Rings Are On Their Way

Last year most of the Seniors their class rings so that they would have them during their entire Senior year. They are expected to arrive some time this week.
The rings are made of solid green gold with the emblem and all the lettering counter-sunk below the surface so that after many years of wear, the complete lettering and emblem will still be visible.
No other class for many years has had a ring of this kind. This one was chosen because it is thought to be durable and will wear for many years to come.

OR ANYBODY

If you're not a fireman, read this, take our advice, and stay away from the leeward side of Coach Hill at a football game, especially if he steams up a big "see-gar". We thought at first the bleachers were on fire; then somebody said it might be a "gay nineties" fire engine. Anyway, not being firemen, we could hardly take it for a while, but you know one can get used to anything after so long a time.
That's O.K., Coach, only next time I'll try to get on the windward side.

Speech Class Speaks

The speech class has been making terrific progress these last four weeks, giving speeches, telling funny stories and jokes to you, learning new words, studying the mental reaction of audiences. It's all very interesting until Bob Bates draws, "Teacher, I know that," to one of Miss Tanner's most important questions.
It's interesting even then, but as our teacher says, the purpose of talk changes from the educational to the entertaining division.

A club was organized to meet each Friday. Last week the officers were Dorothy Hagard, Polly Hall and Barbara Crissey. Pauline Browning and Grace Preston gave readings. (Richard McClendon was kept on hand to see that everything worked off in proper parliamentary order.) Next week the officers are to be Juanita Mc-Kenzie, chairman; Mildred Kemp, secretary, and Pauline McGinnis,
critic.

Of course we are learning a lot
and we're having a good time doing it, but for the benefit of you little girls and boys that still wish you could have worked this public speaking into your schedule, one part of our six weeks
test is to give a five minute speech — and the other fellow's paper won't help a bit.

'WONDER WORKS'

An official report to the Agriculture Department says that 23,700,000 trees were planted for shelterbelt purposes in the middle-west, and that 81 percent of them have survived. This is one of the schemes that fortunately salvages itself after the taxpayers pays all the bills. That is more than can be said of some of the other experiments for changing the face of the earth—particularly in Florida and Maine, where big holes in the ground, abandoned buildings, ditches and "wonder works" are in tangled heaps.

Two Burkburnett Men Convicted In Oil Thefts

Local Police Aid Quannah and Crowell in Arrest of Men

Two Burkburnett men received two years each in the state prison in the District Court at Quannah

Wednesday, according to information received here from police authorities in that city. The two young men were well known in Burkburnett, and they were arrested in the act of an alleged theft of a warehouse near Crowell.

Previous to Wednesday one of the men had received a two year sentence in the Crowell courts. The boys were alleged to be members of a large ring of thieves who stole quart cans of oil over a large area in this section. According to the earlier report of the police, the boys brought the oil through Burkburnett on several occasions and met the purchaser here. The oil was then transported to Dallas where it was sold. Several hundred cases of this type of motor oil has been stolen in the district. The arrest of the boys and their sentence in the breaking up of the extensive operations of the group. The fences that received the oil have not been traced.

Students Are Given Jobs Through NYA

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—Lyndon B. Johnson, director of the National Youth Administration in Texas, announced Wednesday that allotments of funds for 1,299 secondary schools in Texas to provide part-time employment for students had been approved. In Burkburnett, 10 students are now working.

Applications from other schools are being considered as rapidly as they are submitted.

The allotments provide for employment of students on socially desirable work to enable them to earn a maximum wage of $6. a month. Most of the money earned is used for carfare, school supplies, lunches or clothing. Mr. Johnson said.

Other schools desiring to participate in this program should apply to their county superintendent. Individuals seeking employment should apply to the principals of the schools.

Talent Search Now Being Held At Frontier Centennial

FORT WORTH, Texas Oct. 8.—The 36th Division Reunion was originally set for October 10th and 11th, but on account of the conflicting activities on those two dates here, the local committee decided that it would be best to postpone the reunion until Saturday and Sunday, November 7th and 8th.

The 90th Division will be holding their reunion here on these same dates and that will give many an opportunity to renew friendships that we have with those who served in the division. In addition the Dallas Centennial will be open and probably the Frontier Centennial will still be running, and for the football enthusiasts, Texas plays T.C.U. here on November 7th.

Memorial services will be held jointly with the 90th division in Trinity Park at 11:00 a. m. Sunday, November 8th.

Lots of entertainment as well as an opportunity to see your wartime comrades and renew old acquaintances.

Registration headquarters will be at the Texas Hotel as usual.

When you register, a program will be given you, showing where and when it all takes place. It will show at what hotel you can find your Regimental, or other Organization, Headquarters and the men who served with you.

The purpose of this article is to urge you to come yourself and to ask that you get in touch with all the wartime members of both divisions, that you know, and to urge them to come.

We are expecting the largest attendance we have ever had.

FT. WORTH, October 8.—Auditions for talent for Billy Rose's next musical show are being conducted nightly at the Ft. Worth Frontier Centennial.

Rose, Director General, of the Frontier Centennial, announced he hopes to find talent he can use in a 15 minute "frontier" sequence in his next musical show. The show, to tour the country under Shrine auspices, will go into rehearsal in New York City on November 5 and open in Boston, Mass. Nov. 15. Auditions will be between 9 and 10 p. m. daily, beginning Monday, with midway crowds admitted free. Mr. Rose said at least 500 persons has besieged him for auditions since he came to Fort Worth six months ago.

ALL the fine cosmetics that a woman buys haven't half a chance . . . when applied under the wrong kind of light.

You might really call this vanity table a "beauty table," because it is just that. Whenever I see an otherwise attractive girl or woman with one cheek rouged differently from the other, or the powder unevenly distributed, I shake my head and think, "No 'beauty lighting' at home."

There's no use denying that smooth soft modern lighting helps you to a better complexion and grooming. And makes you like your own reflection better, too. . . . Which in turn brings additional poise.

It's the old type of lighting from pink and blue shaded dressing table lamps, with a shadow here and a colored high spot there, that makes you play poor tricks upon your complexion.

No Shadows Wanted
The vanity table is made exquisite and yet extremely serviceable when one of the new lumiline lamps is placed at each side. Note how these elongated electric stand on a base, with a plug to attach to a socket. . . . portable, but have a smart being a part of the furniture. . . . And their lighting does for a person. Imagine, for example that we have a small light either side that can be like a rubber band. As you like it you'll notice how more of your face is lighted. . . . when the light is as long as your every curve of your face reflected softly to you, . . . lines or shadows beneath caused by uneven light.

White Light Essential
Another thing. Trying to dressing table lamps to the scheme of a bedroom often a problem which is eliminated by the lumiline lamp. A pink shade casts a light which is the color of rouge. As a much or too little is applied.

But in the true white lumiline lamp (which blends with any color of draperies) can really see your complexion others will see it later. And big help to an attractive appearance.

Gunlock Ranch By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

The glasses were set down, and the group gathered the cheerful they grew at the Veterans of the Frontier.

Bill Denison's being... Pardaloe and Bob Scott... McAlpin... Lefever... Sawdy... Rebstock... Henry... Carpy... The doctor... The two were seated in the doctor's office about midnight. "Doc," explained Lefever, "the boys are pretty sore about Bill Denison's ranch house gettin' burned down. The day after the fire Barney Rebstock left two hundred with Harry Boland. Where'd he get it? The boys made up their minds to find out. Sawdy got him down to McAlpin's barn, but when he began to pump Barney the cuss showed fight. You know Henry. He'd never used a gun on a shrimp with a knife. Se and down to the Red Front saloon. But from the moment the big adventurer stepped out of the back door of one saloon and in at the front door of the other, a curious change took place. He had left Spotts' place sober—Sawdy was in fact a very moderate man. He strode into the Red Front reeling. The bar was well filled. Sawdy saw at a glance that among the men lined up there were a number of town loafers who never drank except at somebody's expense. When Sawdy caught sight of Redstock with the loafers around him, inference was swift and correct. Barney had money.

The saloonkeeper, Harry Boland, foxy-eyed and alert at the head of the bar, saw Sawdy stagger in through the green baize; he watched the big fellow closely. Sawdy zig-zagged back towards the loafers among whom Barney was holding forth.

He greeted Barney gravely, then ordered drinks for everybody in Barney Rebstock's honor. Having lingered over the round, Sawdy cast his eye approvingly upon the thirsty crowd, passed the forefinger of his right hand thoughtfully under each wing of his mustache in turn, drew from a vest pocket a gold double eagle, and made a general proposal.

"I'll match any man here for twenty-dollar gold pieces." It was a fairly safe offer, because he well knew all the loafers put together could not raise twenty dollars. Barney, after some shilly-shallying, accepted the challenge. He asked Boland to lend him a gold piece. When Boland produced a twenty-dollar coin and tossed it out to Barney, it did not take Sawdy long to figure out that Barney had money and that it was in the keeping of the saloonkeeper. Sawdy, notoriously lucky at matching, lost out after several trials; he quit forty dollars to the bad. But he had Barney greatly inflated by his triumph, with the whole room crowding eagerly around the contestants.

After a round of drinks at Barney's charge, Sawdy brought the talk around to a fine-looking sorrel outside at the hitch rack. Barney claimed it. Sawdy wanted to buy it. Barney demurred.

Boland heard the talk. He drew Barney to the rear end of the bar. "Sell it to him, you fool," whispered Boland. "Don't you see he's drunk as a fiddler? You can get twice what the horse is worth."

Thus encouraged, Barney stepped out of doors with Sawdy, followed by a little circle of the curious. The horse was gone. This fact caused no great excitement; Sawdy suggested he had got loose and strayed up or down the street and that they take a look around to find him. The curiosity of the crowd weakened, and they re-entered the saloon, hoping for another chance to get a drink. Sawdy and Barney walked down the street together, wrangling as they went over the mischance and the merits of the missing horse. As the pair passed McAlpin's barn it occurred to Sawdy they had better look in and ask for information.

CHAPTER X
A HANGING lantern lighted the bar gangway dimly. Sawdy's call for a hostler was answered by McAlpin himself, who, lantern in hand, ambled in his peculiar gait briskly forward.

"Hello, Mac," exclaimed Sawdy, waving like a tall tree in a number of bar breezes. "We're looking for Barney's horse," he continued gruffly—"got loose up the street just now—seen anything of a stray?"

McAlpin, raising his lantern, looked at Rebstock. "Why, yes, I seen a stray," he admitted sulkily. "Was it a sorrel?" asked Sawdy with some hope.

"It was a sorrel, Sawdy; saddled and bridled. What about it?"

"It's probably Barney's horse. Let's see it. Where is it?"

Barney, enraged at his plight, was breathing hard, and wind was too precious to waste in words. This silent struggle for the one slight advantage that would end the fight went on to the music of jerky breaths and nimble footing. It was soon a question as to whose wind would give out first—Sawdy, heavier, was at a disadvantage in endurance. While they feinted and jumped about, his foot slipped.

Barney saw the opening. He lunged forward. Sawdy instinctively whirled sidewise and threw up his knee to save his stomach. The savage thrust of Barney's knife caught the calf of his leg. As the cowman went down, his fingers gripped Barney's wrist. With a mere twist of the deadly grip learned long ago in Panhandle knife fights, he snapped like matches the two bones of Barney's forearm.

The wry outlaw screamed. He was through; the rear gangway doors were flung open, and the confederates came running in from the corral.

From the darkness of the box stall came only the swish of hard breathing and the oaths and cries of Barney. Lefever grasped the ball of the lantern and threw the light rays within.

"Henry!" he yelled in alarm. "What's a-matter, pard? What's wrong?" He unlatched the gate of the stall as he called and hastened inside with Scott and Page at his heels. McAlpin ran down from the office. It was a moment before Lefever could make out just what was happening on the floor, as Barney, half choked, writhed under the remorseless grip that closed his windpipe. Sawdy, spread out on his stomach, lay, a huge bulk, with one arm over his antagonist. Only his heavy breathing indicated life.

"Henry!" exclaimed Lefever. "What the hell's happened?"

Turning to the prostrate cowman while Scott twisted the tourniquet, McAlpin, gripping Rebstock, gave orders to Sawdy; the liveryman always took the stage. "Henry!" he shouted, in his excitement. "Lay right where you are. Don't stir till Carpy comes. Why didn't you call for help?" he thundered at Sawdy.

"Ain't never learned how yet," retorted the wounded man majestically.

Carpy reached the box stall ten minutes later. The doctor held up the lantern. "Hell's bells!" he exclaimed to McAlpin and the hostler. "Don't leave the man lying in this dirt. Henry," he knelt at Sawdy's head—"what have they been doing? Who stuck you?"

"Doc," declared the notorious bachelor, "you might say I stuck myself. Sew me up and send the bill to my father-in-law after I get married, will you?"

"I wouldn't want to impose like that on a decent father-in-law, Henry; it'll be bad enough for any man to have you hitched into his family. Lift him out of here, boys—give me a hand. We've got to get him up to the office. What's that noise out in the corral?"

"Nothin' at all," blustered McAlpin, struggling along the gangway with Sawdy's feet. "Just a few bucks from the Reservation, initiated in' Barney Rebstock into the tribe Henry, you're heavier than a ton of bricks. I can't hold on much longer."

Not until the doctor had nearly finished dressing the cowman's leg did the wounded man begin to tell the story. And he had hardly been made ready to send to the hospital when John Lefever and Bob Scott appeared at the box office door with Barney Rebstock, white and scared.

"What's a-matter with the rest of you?" exclaimed Carpy testily, as he eyed the three.

"Why, Barney," explained Lefever blandly, "fell off his horse a few minutes ago and broke his wrist. Fix him up, will you, doc?"

"The rest of us, waitin' in the corral, carried Barney out of the barn, showed him a rope by the light of the lantern, and asked him how about that fire."

Carpy shook his head. "Dangerous business, John. Did you string him up?"

"Hell no. I hadn't no more'n adjusted the noose and asked him was it comfortable under his ear, when he told the whole story. McCrossen hired him to do it for Van Tumble—"

Carpy muttered an angry epithet. "Ave him two hundred and promised two more when the job was done. What do you think of that, Doc?"

"You fellows ought've asked me that afore you began stringing Barney up," added Carpy, after a moment's thought. "there's only one thing I know of your case now. Bill Denison is the man most interested in the situation the way it stands."

"I guess we can't get away from that," admitted Lefever.

"Lay the whole mess before Bill and ask him what's to be done." Lefever was doubtful. "I don't know what the boy will say, doc."

"And I don't care a hang," retorted Carpy. "That's all they'll get from me."

Next morning Carpy was making his rounds at the hospital. In the corridor he encountered Lefever. John took off his hat and scratched his head. "Well, doc!" he exclaimed.

He Could See Rebstock's Eyes Flashing Green.

ler, was esteemed among his fellows as one hard to corner. Sawdy held the door side of the stall with his back to the light. He could see Rebstock's eyes flashing green. Rebstock wanted to get close enough to Sawdy to cut him and jump through the door. Sawdy carried his gun—Rebstock had left his own with Boland—but he disdained to use it on a partly unarmed man. It was no part of his program to get himself embroiled with the law by shooting the criminal; what he and his cronies wanted from Rebstock was information.

In a moment, both men, one big, the other small, were jumping about the stall like boxers stripped for the ring. But Sawdy, though big, was the fastest on his feet among the cowmen that rode the Gunlock ranges. He had little alcohol aboard, was naturally as quick as a flash, and knew he was facing the most dangerous man with a knife along the Spanish Sinks. Ten youthful years spent among Mexican bandits, together with a lean and jumpy physical make-up, had given Barney Rebstock the name of a mean man with a knife, and Sawdy had no intention of adding to the outlaw's reputation as a killer, if he could help it.

The fight was in the lap of the gods. A misstep or a foot slip might end it any second.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

The Sophomores give the chapel program this week and are working very hard to make a success with it. Major Bowes will be here with all his amateurs. Everyone is invited.

SENIOR NEWS

In spite of ball games and the lack of time to sell tickets, the Senior Class took in fifteen dollars Friday night, October 2, at their annual Stunt Night. A Negro Minstrel in the form of a "Double Barrelled Opera" and a short play, "Al's Technique" was given.

The Seniors have decided to make their Centennial trip Oct. 17, instead of Oct. 19, as was previous planned.

P.T.A. BENEFIT PARTY

Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Fairview P.T.A. began playing "42" in the auditorium.

There was a big crowd and lots of competition. Slightly one-sided though, every couple was trying to beat Mrs. Bill Cauthorn and Mr. Erwin Brand. But still they must be acclaimed the two making the high scores for the evening.

At the end of the various games, the social chairman, Miss Lillie Mae Armstrong, served refreshments.

Mrs. Jimmie Donehoo was given much of the praise for a successful and orderly party.

The money made will be used to defray expenses when the Fairview P.T.A. entertains the County Council, Oct. 14.

SIXTH GRADE NEWS

Tuesday evening, Sept. 29, the sixth grade enjoyed a picnic at the water works. Games were played and lemonade was made to go with the lunches. If Mrs. Spencer's hands hadn't given out, She'd probably still be there making lemonade for the children. Many different games kept the picnic a success, and if night had not fallen and impressed every one with darkness, the picnic would still be going on. The sixth grade plan to have another social in a few more weeks.

FIFTH GRADE CLASS NEWS

Monday morning the fifth grade was called to order by their teacher, Mrs. S. W. Lockhart, to elect class officers for the school year 1936-37.

The following were elected: President, Billy Cauthorn; vice president, Guy Joe Roberts; sec. and treasurer, Raymond Gullett; and reporter, Lafon Farrington.

The president appointed the following to serve on the social committee: chairman, Alma Lee Harr, Jack Peed, Tuffy Christian, Betty June Jordan and Peggy Parker.

You are cordially invited to visit the fifth grade any time.

Randlett Wins Opener 3 to 0

Second Game to be Played At Dad's Corner Sunday

The Randlett baseball club got the jump in the opening game of their long delayed Texhoma league playoff series with Dad's Corner as Richardson pitched and batted them to a 3 to 0 victory in the opener Sunday afternoon at Randlett. They will meet in a double header next Sunday in Dad's Corner to finish the series.

Richardson let the Texans down with only five well scattered hits over the nine innings, and was never in any danger of losing his lead once "Sorghum" Bonds, the Dad's Corner southpaw, had faltered in the fifth and sixth to allow the Sooners to take the lead. Bonds was touched for nine hits during the game, three of them off the bat of Richardson.

Left fielder Willet saved Richardson's shutout for him in the eighth inning when he raced far back into left field and leaped into the air to spear a line drive that looked like a sure home run. Richardson was given flawless support while Bonds received wobbly support to go along with some timely blows by the Sooners in contributing to his downfall and allowing Richardson to shade him in the mound duel.

Ruth Patterson Becomes Bride of Elmer A. White

Miss Ruth Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Patterson of Burkburnett, became the bride of Elmer A. White of Electra, last Saturday night in a simple ceremony at the First Presbyterian church in Walters, Okla. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Mr. Alverson, pastor of that church. The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Mary and daughter of Lawton, Okla. The bride is a member of the prominent Burkburnett and has lived here for eight years. She was the most charming of the social set of this city. She was a graduate of the Nett high school of the 1933.

The bridegroom is a member of the younger generation of Burkburnett and Electra, the son of Mrs. Hugh W. Electra. He was graduated from the Electra high school and continued his education at Methodist University. He is associated with the Magnolia company in Electra. The couple will make their home in Electra, Texas.

Crabshaw: "I used to think it was either Lincoln or son, but now I'm convinced it was my wife's band."

SINCE M.L.P. DAYS . . .

With the establishment of a municipal light plant in Burkburnett, the citizens have reaped the benefits of the project in many ways. Simplified schedules, lowered rates, efficient service became effective as policies of the light plant. Cooperation such as was essential to its building has bound citizens together until a new community spirit has resulted. Continued loyalty to home industry made expansion necessary, and so the plant has grown. It stands as symbolic of the growth of community loyalty to home-owned business.

JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRATS

Offer Proof of Anti-New Deal Charges

We recently made charges in this paper that Mr. Roosevelt and his administration were not Democrats, and had no claim to Democratic loyalty. We charged that continuation of his administration would undermine the economy of the nation, and threaten its institutions. We charged that he had opened the sluice-gates of the federal treasury, and, through Boss Farley, had Tammanized the nation. We charged that he had surrounded himself with radicals, and had more nearly discharged their radical platforms than his own. We are offering the proof of our charges through our paper, the Jeffersonian Democrat.

We reassert that we are regular Democrats. We would prefer to vote the regular ticket. But we refuse to put party loyalty above our loyalty to America. In scratching Roosevelt we violate no party pledge, for the primary ballot contained a pledge to vote for the nominees of that primary. Mr. Roosevelt's name was not on that ballot. Furthermore, the Texas law instructs the voter how to cast a mixed ballot, and the Supreme Court has upheld that right.

We ask all true Democrats to weigh the proof before voting for a continuation of government by irresponsible radicals. Unlike the New Deal we have no ready-made organization to spread our propaganda and raise money for our campaign. We will appreciate your support and whatever donations you can make us. Write us for copies of The Jeffersonian Democrat, and help us

THE KEYHOLE

(Walter Wontchell, Editor)

In last week's column we predicted the Yanks would win 4 out of 5 of the next games from the Giants. And since our guess was exactly correct, naturally we want to call your attention to the fact. However, I was disappointed when the Yankees lost Monday's game, but we are not surprised as we believe they played regular Bush League Baseball that day.

Let's hope we can have an old time football parade Friday evening for the Bulldogs for they certainly deserve a lot of support as they have worked hard and are due to beat Chillicothe 19 to 7.

Speaking of old time parades reminds us of another one. We asked one of the old timers, Gash Hardin by name (I'm sure you have heard of him) how long he had been in this country. He says, "You have seen all those hills out there by the river. Well, when I came here they were little holes in the ground."

We haven't been here that long but we know Owens & Brumley have been selling Mohawk rugs, Lane cedar chests and Simmons mattresses for 14 years.

Randlett's Most Popular Beauty To Be Crowned

Devol and Randlett to Play Three Conference Games Friday, October 16th

CLASSES NOMINATE GIRLS

The most popular girl of the four beautiful young ladies selected by the classes of the Randlett high school will be nominated at the meeting of Devol and Randlett in three conference games Friday, Oct. 16. The girls who have been chosen and their classes are as follows: senior, Belita Beavers; Junior, Lucille Killingsworth; and sophomore, June Griffin; freshmen, Verne Giles.

The girls who have been nominated will receive the vote of the high school members and patrons. The votes cost one cent each. The test will run up until Friday, Oct. 16. Between the halves of the last of the three games, the winner will be announced and she will be crowned as queen of the basket ball season.

The conference games that will be played with the Devol high school include: class A and B boys, and the class A girls.

These two teams have been traditional rivals for several of the past years, and their games are always the best basket ball battles of the district. The admission to the game is 10 and 15c.

Cardini Is New Star Rose's Casa Manana

FT. WORTH, Texas, Oct. 7. — Cardini, who has entertained more European nobility than any other artist on the American stage, is the new star at Billy Rose's big Casa Manana, feature attraction at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial.

Billed as a card and cigarette trick artist, Cardini augments the list of stars that include Paul Whiteman, dean of American music; Everett Marshall, Metropolitan opera baritone; Sally Rand, America's best known dancer; Jack Powell, foremost comic drummer; Paul Remos and his wonder midgets; Joe Venuti; and one.

Reckless Driving Taking Huge Toll Of Human Lives

During the past six months 758 persons lost their lives in accidents at highway-railroad grade crossings. This is an increase of 28 over the same period of last year. In recent years public money and railroad funds, have been invested heavily in the building of overhead passageways at railroad crossings. All of the safety organizations have been using their efforts to prevent motorists from killing themselves through their own carelessness.

Sad to add, that statistics indicate that there isn't much decrease in the number of reckless drivers on the highways.

yards in the Iowa Park game last week, the eyes of both the defense and the grand stands will be on him. However, two other flashy backs will get a lot of attention before the game is over. Marshall Teal and Avis Finch, full and quarterbacks gave the attack so much diversity last week at Iowa Park that the Hawks were dizzy half the time. Those two veterans slipped through the lines and around the ends for gains that kept the defense guessing which would carry the ball next.
