ROBBERS TAKE LIQUORS, CIGARETTES AND CASH IN RAID TUESDAY NIGHT

Thieves Enter Burk Liquor Store News Stand For Robbery

Window Broken Open In Leisurly Raid; Property Valued At About $150

Marble Machines Broken

Fingerprint Examination Made For Possible Clue Of Robbery

Working without haste and with complete discrimination of taste in selection of the better grades of liquor, thieves entered the Oil City News Stand and Liquor Store Wednesday morning and took cigarettes, liquor, and cash valued about $150.00. The business place was entered from the rear through a window the steel bars of which were pried loose. The burglars took only 75 pints of high grade liquors, pushing aside, and emptying the cases of lower and cheaper type of wines and whiskies.

The invaders went to the marble machines, estimated to have contained about $50.00 worth of nickles. These were pried open and the money pilfered. The tubes were mashed in the process. At the News Stand counter, the thieves went through the cases and carried away 15 cartons of cigarettes. These were valued at $22.00. The thieves waited long enough to drink several bottles of soda pop and to eat sandwiches.

The investigation was made by N. H. Harris, Bill Stapp, Roy Blanscet, Jim Turner, and O. A. Roberson of Wichita Falls. The investigation will continue according to the officers. The evidence indicated that the robbers knew he store plan well.

Legionnaires Honor Heroes In Service On Armistice Day

Judge H. W. Filmore Asks Members To Pledge Permanent Peace To Dead Comrades

In simple impressive ceremonies Wednesday morning the Oscar Frye Post 264 of the American Legion paid tribute to the heroes of the World war here. Armistice day. In a program that culminated in the tribute by Judge H. W. Filmore, county judge, the members eulogized the men who had fought during the world conflict.

At dawn the members gathered at the graves of the dead, and the national flag was placed over each grave and in the memorial plot. Fitting ceremony was read in the ritual to the dead as the salute was fired in their honor.

In the city the Legionnaires met at the Central Christian church and marched to the meeting at Main and Ave. C. Under the direction of W. D. Bent, the ritual was continued. Rev. L. G. Hagard offered the invocation of peace and memory. The firing squad directed by Sherman B. Crissey fired the final salute to the dead comrades.

As the entire audience stood at attention taps was played by the bugler, and in antiphonal by a response from E. L. Nichols. The band started the national anthem as the crowd stiffened with pride to the mounting of the flag.

Judge H. W. Filmore was introduced by the master of ceremonies Bent. He reviewed the history of the causes of the conflict and the part that the American people and money had played in the winning of the conflict.

The ingratitude of the allies according to the speaker was a mockery of the sacrifice the Americans had made, and Judge Filmore called upon all citizens to see that the name of these men was kept sacred by perpetual peace and avoidance of international entanglements.

Jacksboro Tigers Will Invade Burk Gridiron Thursday

Bulldogs Book District 12-B Game For Practice Before Critical Seymour Battle

Archer City Smashed

Jacksboro, member of the west half of district 12-B will invade the Burkburnett Bulldog stadium next Thursday night, November 12 for a non-conference battle with the local griders. The Jacksboro team has been the victim of Weatherford, Graham and Newcastle in three losses, and victor over Bridgeport and two other conference teams. With a full season of 500 per cent, the Tigers have a fair record to bring to this district. The game will be a slight comparison of the strength of the two districts.

Last Friday night the Bulldogs continued their victory march at the expense of the Archer City Cats. The Cats came to Burkburnett with the promise that if they won the game, the school would start the immediate installation of flood lights at the athletic field. But the Cats went back to Archer County to spend another year in the darkness of the cellar of the conference.

The game was a parade of good football and errors by both teams. The scoring started early when Tolly McKown carried the ball over for the first touchdown in the first ninety seconds. The touchdown was made in five plays ending in McKown's 22 yd. dash around left end. He then kicked the point for a 7 to 0 score.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs scored again after Teal returned a 36 yard punt exactly 36 yards. Cook, Teal and McKown negotiated the distance.

Third Quarter

At the start of the third quarter Teal and McKown cooperated for another seven points. McKown went over for a 28 yd dash. McKown passed to Finch for the extra point. On the next touchdown Finch carried the ball over from the one yard line, and McKown kicked the extra point. McKown carried the ball over for the fifth touchdown from the seven yard line.

Teal came to the rescue on the next count when he went around left end 15 yards for the sixth touchdown. The kick was wild.

The final counter of the evening came when McKown passed to Blair for 15, and then skirted 17 yards on his own power.

Second String

The second string was placed into the game in the fourth quarter. Reed, Kelly, Brown, Thompson, Martin went into the game while Reed was in the game he gained 37 yards on four plays. The group got signals tangled for a moment, and Hill sent the regulars back in.

Soil Conservation Work Sheets Signed By Burk Farmers

1936 Farm Relief Checks Will Be Mailed To Local Signers In Two Weeks

AT WICHITA LATER

Sixty-two farmers had signed the work sheet or the final tally on the checks that will be mailed to the group in this area at the Farmers Cooperative Gin last Monday morning and afternoon. Under the direction of H. L. Williams and J. N. Kenedy of the county conservation office, the farmers made the reports for the government project for soil improvement and relief.

The report will be mailed to the national office immediately, and the checks will be back to the farmers locally within the two weeks period or soon thereafter. After the report is approved the farmers receive the government stipend for the ideal or improved land with special type of crops designed by the government.

Generally speaking, the conservation program met with greater approval than any previous or similar plan fostered for the control of the crops. Under the AAA the farmers were literally forced to accept the plan. Under the present system greater choice in the use of and is allowed to the individual.

At the same time while being hired to curtail the crop, the farmer is paid for the increase in the value of his land. The cooperation of the government makes possible what a voluntary movement would have been impossible.

The farmers were urged to report to the Wichita office immediately if they did not sign in Burkburnett. There were 20 of the 82 who had not reported late Monday afternoon. These will find their blanks at the office in Wichita Falls.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Successful Poppy Day Sale

The funds that are raised by the sale of the small flowers made by the disabled war veterans goes partly to the veterans and partly to general aid work in the hospitals over the United States. In the past the makers of the flowers did not receive direct aid for the work that they did, but during the last two years the rule has been changed.

School Authorizes Employment New Collector Deputy

J. Duncan for the present.

The reorganization will include the lessening of the burden of class work that the superintendent has at the present, and his assumption of the duties of the principal's office which he held before his election to the present executive position.

By this reorganization the election of the principal was indefinitely postponed. The slight readjustment of the organization will be in effect immediately. Mr. Duncan was elected to succeed Mr. Westerfield whose resignation was recently accepted.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONNAIRE

Next Monday the business men of Burkburnett will receive blanks from the U. S. Government that will require detailed information about the business that in some cases the business men will hesitate to place on cold record. This information will be essential to the administration of the new social security law, and some who have indicated a stubbornness to answering government inquiry should realize the positive necessity.

Those firms which are stubborn will be merely blocking the attempt to the government to aid the men who are working in the establishment of an unemployment insurance and retirement fund.

The greatest opposition to these laws has come from the companies that are far sighted enough to realize that it will actually mean the lightening of the burden in the future. The law will actually be a cushion or shock absorber in future depressions. The present economic chaos has been expensive because we were unprepared for it. With a huge reserve built up during the next 10 years for the unemployed, the problem of relief will be solved.

After all analysis, talk, explanation, and political cross claims have been completed, the law means simply that the workmen will be forced by law to do what they ought to have common sense enough to do voluntarily.

CHRISTMAS TREE PROJECT

A group of civic minded men and women met at the city hall last Monday afternoon to plan a community Christmas tree for Burkburnett. Definite plans were made for the purpose of presenting for the less fortunate children of the city a program that will compensate in a sense those privileges which are denied them in normal life.

The spirit behind this plan is one of the most worthy that the community can have in any project. It is possible that the occasion can be one that will provide more than merely a few gifts for the children. It can become a rally meeting of both spiritual and civic significance for the community.

However, if the meeting is reduced to a mere gesture of charity or entertainment, most of the beauty will be lost. After all there is little or no sense in the celebration of the Christmas season unless that celebration remembers the true meaning of the holiday. So in this worthy and very beautiful project, it would be well and important to keep in mind the symbol that our gesture involves.

NOVEMBER 11

When the last shot was fired just after the late dawn in Europe 18 years ago, there was the general impression all over the world that people had become so exhausted in emotion and hatreds that they would never forget the horror of that conflict. More than 12 million persons directly and indirectly dead or dying from the attempt of the race to commit suicide. Billions of dollars, money and property beyond calculation, had been fed into the fires of human hatred and greed. Throughout the world there was the feeling "It will not happen again."

Last Wednesday, we of America paused for a few moments to pay tribute to our comrades and friends that fell on the front in a "War to end Wars—A War to save democracy." To that purpose the human heart was dedicated in high hope on the foundation of a zealous patriotism.

As we celebrated last week in our memory of those who died or were willing to die if necessary, there was serious thought as to whether or not their sacrifice had been in vain.

Immediately after the conflict had died, after the army of occupation had moved into the conquered countries, the "statesmen" set about recreating the hatreds that the fire of conflict should have erased.

Impossible treaties were forced on the supine foe. People were divided by arbitrary boundaries. Corridors and small units of nations were set up as buffer states on purely artificial divisions that forgot the cohesion of a common language and a common tradition.

Naturally the present setup in Europe should grow out of that situation. The harsh treaties fanned the flames of suspicion and hatred. Artificial divisions of people led to a restlessness. From that hatred and restlessness, tyrants grew and prospered.

England and France watched the growing ferment, and started building fences to protect themselves. These very fences defeated the purpose of the ideals sponsored in the league of nations. Every time a crisis arose, one of the other of the leaders found that there was a conflict with their selfish purposes which prevented intelligent settlement. Therefore, instead of a reasonable solution, there grew added superstructure which still further aided and abetted the creation of distrust and the weakness of the league's power.

Today we commemorate the end of one conflict, we face another. We were burned in the fires of the last major revolt against common sense, and still we lose our judgment. What will be the end? Will another 12 million be sacrificed on the altar of human greed and selfishness of a few dictators.

HEADLINES

News of the Week

Most of the newspaper comment this week has been devoted to guesses about what the president is planning to do with the power that has been awarded him through the tremendous majority that he received last week at the polls. The endorsement of the American people of his program and ambitions will constitute a leverage for pushing over almost any sort of a program that he wishes in the United States congress. The nation listened anxiously last Friday night for some indication of what the future would hold for the presidents plans. However, just as he evaded the questions of the newspaper men, so he evaded direct answer to the people. He merely stated that individual communities must assume some of the problems.

NRA

One of the most pertinent questions in our mind is what does the president plan for the NRA? Will he start a program calling for the passage of an amendment to allow something similar to the Blue Eagle law to become real after the supreme court has outlawed the previous efforts? Will the president suggest a limitation to the power or the supreme court? What about control of utilities by extension of the TVA and similar programs? These and other questions about balancing the budget, enforcing the Wagner Labor laws, relief, farm aid, face the president and are of interest to the people. The heavy vote for him throws all the responsibility on the president.

Anti-Trust Indictments

Again the federal juries have struck out at the major oil companies in a series of indictments about the violation of the anti-trust and monopoly laws. Last Friday a federal jury in Wisconsin brought indictments against 24 major oil companies. This possibly means the tightening of the laws that have been more or less neglected in the face of greater emergencies during the last four years.

Increase Wage and Dividends

The election has done one thing it delivered the large companies from uncertainty. Had the GOP won, the companies would know that there would be a change at the inauguration, and would have feared taking the decisive action of raising wages and passing the largest dividends in many years last week. The increase in wages include 526,000 men in the steel industry, all automobile industry arised the wage scale. Dividends were voted in almost every important industry. Only slightly less than a billion dollars will be added to the American wage purse by the raises that followed. In addition every industry that deals in Christmas commodities expects a huge increase. The largest Christmas deposit in the history of the nation has been stacked up in the banks over the nation. More than 56 per cent of this will be spent in the last week before Christmas for commodities of the seasonal type.

Pension Checks Held

Again the old people of Texas will be asked to wait for their old age pension checks. The State director stated Saturday that the checks would not be mailed until November 20. It is comparatively easy to sit on the side lines and to criticize the officials for the delay, but to the laymen it does appear that there has been entirely too much delay in this matter already. The most casual observer could have known months ago that additional revenue would be needed, and it seems that preparations would have been made for the emergency. But too much delay involving political manipulation prevented a clear policy. It is unnecessary for the old to suffer at the hands of a few careless politicians.

Punts And Passes

All District

I believe that Burkburnett will place at least six men and possibly seven on the all-district team. We have seen every team in the district in action, and there hasn't been a person we have seen yet that will beat these men for their places. In the first place, I believe that McKown has the left half position sewed up-in the bag, and assured. There just wouldn't be the slightest doubt that the

Chevrolet Units To Be Stepped Up To 6,000 Per Day

DETROIT, Nov. 11.—Production schedules on the new Chevrolet for 1937 have been stepped up sharply in order to meet a nationwide demand for the new car, officials revealed today. More than 5,000 units are being built daily and schedules will be put up to 6,000 a day to meet requirements of pre-announcement orders now in dealer's hands. ## Big Rabbit Creek

November 8, 1936.

In the past 30 years or more farming by the Owens family never before have they ever seen a big frost and a dry freeze, freezing the cotton bolls on the stalks. Bolls which were matured, they have become soft and watery. In fact it cut short from 2 to 4 bales out of each field up and down the Rabbit Creek and Red river bottoms. The freeze came some ten nights past.

If the coming week proves to be nice the cotton will practically all be pulled out due to the freezing of the matured bolls.

The norther which blew in Saturday night about 7:45 p. m. caught quite a few without any fire wood or coal here in this neighborhood; also it caught quite a few of our old nesters wishing we were down in Southern Florida or in Southern California, or in some other sea port.

Dewey Austin, who now owns the old O. T. Wittche home stead has a bunch of wood choppers cutting wood by the rick, and cleaning up the creek banks at 65c per rick. In turn he is selling the rick wood at $1.25 per rick, stove lengths.

Hawkeye and his brother have just finished cutting by hand, tying by hand, and shocking 2204 bundles of Hegari for Mrs. Ed Owens in the past 4 days of last week. She will have about 500 more bundles yet to cut next week.

W. H. Martin, his lady friend Mrs. Ed Owens and Martin's little daughter, Miss Winnie June were all over in Burkburnett Saturday shopping and attended the big money drawing. They report about 3,000 persons on the streets. The business houses were all doing a big business, especially the Boyd Bros big whole sale and retail store, and little Henry and Big Hicks Grocery Store, both stores had from 4 to 5 extra clerks to wait on the customers.

Monday and Tuesday Hawkeye and his brother John helped W. H. Martin piece out his last bale of 1936 cotton. Before Hawkeye goes any further he wishes to state over a year ago W. H. purchased one of the fine $70.00 Philco Radios which they sell and there are no better radios, has been placed on the market that will come up with the Philco. Anyhow while Hawkeye was waiting for lunch he just stepped over to the Philco and picked up WPA Fort Worth. Some guy who was the announcer was advertising some big, fine Cafe in Fort Worth, telling the world about the fine tender beef steaks that this big fine cafe served. Of course when this guy got to talking about tender beef steak, it made Hawkeye's mouth water. He knew that his better half was going to the City Saturday. So when he came home that night he said to his wife, "Dear" which is a pet name, when he wants his wife to do something for him. It's a good idea for all of us fellows who have been tied up to one of those female sex for 30 years or more to call them pet names, such as "Dear," "Sugar Lump," "Honey," and several more such sweet pet names. If this custom was followed there wouldn't be half as many divorces as there is this day and time. Well we will go back to Hawkeye and his beef steak. I said dear before you start home I want you to go into Boyd Bros meat market and buy a big mess of those T-Bone steaks, for I know that Wichita County and Cotton Co., Oklahoma produce just as fat and fine cattle and beef steak as there is raised around Ft. Worth. This time I said, listen Honey, after you get this steak at Boyd's you go down to little Henry's and Hick's big meat market and tell Roy Stuckey to sell you a good beef roast for our Sunday lunch, for which she did and when they arrived I met them out at the front gate and I said Sugar lump did you get the T-Bone Steaks at Boyd Bros and the beef roast at Little Henry's. She said yes. Hawkeye said darling, that's just fine. So as soon as she changed her wearing apparel she started to prepare supper and the T-Bone Steak. In about 45 minutes my tootsy wootsy called supper. Say boy, talk about tender T-Bone steak that your fork it would fall off of before you could get it in your mouth. Say folks that's the kind of steak that the Boyd Bros put out to the public. It's now 32 minutes after 12:00 p. m. and lunch has been served, and talk about something that was good and tender and juicy it was that beef roast which my Sweetie got at Little Henry's and Hicks meat market. It just took 47 minutes to complete the roasting, and it was sure fine.

It matters not where you trade in Burkburnett you get your money's worth, even at the Star printing office when you give Fred Brookman an ad you receive full valuation for your money. It pays big to advertise in the Burkburnett Star.

D. L. Alexander has been assisting Rice Vernon Thornton to buy turkeys over on this side of the river, but owing to the low price for the birds, Mr. Leo Duddy stopped the boys from buying till Monday, and maybe longer, anyhow till the price of the birds get better.

D. L. Alexander went a few evenings ago down in his pasture after his milk cows and he found one of them very lame in its right foot, so after examining the foot he found in some way the cow had stepped on a piece of crooked wire, in a way that the wire had penetrated all the way through the cows hoof which made a very ugly wound and a very sore foot.

At this writing the skies are very heavy laden. All indications points for a big snow storm, or a big rain. If it moderates all wheat and Oats and Barley, pastures are just fine and cattle are getting to where you can't read a newspaper through them.

A BACKWARD LOOK
In this world I've gained my knowledge. And for it I had to pay, I have never gone to college, Yet I've heard the old folks say Life is like a mighty river, Rolling on from day to day, Men and vessels launched upon it Sometimes wrecked and cast away. So do your best to one another, Making life a pleasant dream, Help a worn and weary brother Pulling hard against the stream. HAWKEYE.

Finch, Teal, Montgomery, From Starters And Reed and McPherson To Be Lost

Newcomers To Help

Eight of the eleven men that are in starting lineup this year including the Tolly McKown, will be back next season and eligible to play with the conference leading Burkburnett Bulldogs. The team will also be bolstered by several pleasing prospects from the list of newcomers or ineligible of this year.

The men that will be lost include Avis Finch, star quarterback, Marshall Teal, hard hitting and fast half, Reed, chief substitute in the backfield, and Montgomery, tackle, McPherson, reserve end.

The men who return will be: McKown, one year; Cook, one year; Johnson, two years; Blair, one year; Spray, one year; Elliot, one year; Whitt on one year; Hageman one year.

These men will be aided by subs that have been practicing all year. Brown, three years; Bates two years; Thompson, three years; and Martin two years. There are four members of the Junior team that have been added to the squad. Jack Kelly, Pete Grace, Joe Stoker, and Johnnie Richardson, have been practicing with the regulars after the close of the schedule of the junior squad.

The prospects look very bright for the Bulldogs. Almost every team that they meet will have been returning in large numbers, but the goodly squad speaks for a great year. Right now the Bulldogs are thinking of this year.

American Education Week, Nov. 9-15, 1936

Each year the week during which Armistice Day occurs is designated as American Education week, during which education is especially emphasized. American education week is a permanent institution originally sponsored by the American Legion. The effort to make the observance of such a week world wide should be encouraged.

What greater contribution could America make to the world than sponsoring education for the masses?

In the name of this ideal, let every teacher and school patron work for the advancement of education in Burkburnett, Texas and our nation.

Honor Students

Pupils of B. H. S. wish to express their regrets for the departure of Dorothy and Luther Guy Hagard. They entered Burkburnett high school three years ago, and have been honor students the entire time.

Burkburnett's loss is Henrietta's gain. The students wish these pupils the best of luck in their new home and assure them that their success is our interest.

Carpy swore Sawdy and Lefever to it very easily. McAlpin and Ben Page were warned that if the story leaked out, it might become unpleasant for both. As for Bob Scott, no one was ever known to worm a secret out of him; Barney, of course, dared not talk.

Yet it will easily be understood that too many people had the story; and only the continual efforts of Dr. Carpy in silencing, through threats of what might happen to them, one or another of the conspirators kept it under cover.

Jane, after the usual storm with her father, who knew what she was doing, rode next morning into town to make her visit to the hospital.

Denison was a poor actor. In his endeavor to make Jane feel there had been nothing to upset him, he was over solicitous. Carpy did better; but he was compelled to admit that Denison had not been doing quite so well—since Jane could see that for herself.

Her father continued taciturn and aloof. Jane knew she was defying him by continuing to visit Denison, yet being of much the same tenacious will as her father himself, she reckoned little of it.

But her visits and ministrations to the injured neighbor of Gunlock Ranch became so frequent, and she herself was so wholly indifferent to comment, that the situation became food for local gossip. Here was Van Tumbel a deadly enemy of Denison's, with his daughter openly showing a very special interest in Denison's condition at the hospital—carrying to him delicacies and spending with him half her time in town.

Things were at this pass when one day Van Tumbel told his daughter he must go to Medicine Bend on some bank business. Jane knew that he was not able to make the trip—Carpy had told her more than once that the old man's life hung by a thread. She pleaded with her father, found out what the business was, and offered to go in his stead.

She took the morning train for Medicine Bend, secured the further time on his notes at the bank, spent the night at the Mountain House, and took the afternoon train west for Sleepy Cat.

The Pullman cars were crowded. Jane was forced to find a seat in a day coach. Here she placed her handbag in the seat beside her, bought a magazine, and resigned herself to a long afternoon and evening.

Two men had taken the seat directly behind her. Jane resumed her reading until in the conversation between the two men her attention was attracted by catching the name of Bill Denison.

Her curiosity once aroused, it was easy to follow the drift of their talk. Presently she heard mention of her father's name. Aroused now to keen interest, Jane was torn between the feeling that she ought not to listen and the impulse that she must.

"Of course, nobody can prove it," were the words she heard. "I didn't say they could. That old bird knows too well how to cover his tracks. But everybody knows how he deviled Denison's brother when he lived there—tried to buy him out, then scare him out, and then smoke him out. The old devil has been crazy ever since he owned Gunlock to get hold of that little Spring Ranch. Why? Account of the water. It's the biggest spring in the hills. Now that he's back from the hospital, the first thing he thinks of is to get hold of that spring."

Jane listened with bated breath. "Why, it's common talk in Sleepy Cat," the narrator went on, "that he paid Barney Rebstock to set Bill's ranch house afire and came damned near burning Bill up in it."

Her heart stopped beating as she heard the dreadful recital, delivered as calmly as the merest bit of current gossip would be discussed on a street corner.

"According to what I hear," continued the narrator, "Sawdy and some of Bill's friends choked the story out of Barney. Sawdy got cut up in the fracas with him—Sawdy was laid up in the hospital for a month. Barney's a mean devil with a knife."

The train was pulling into Sleepy Cat. Jane, rousing herself from a stupor, her breath choking her, her heart ready to burst, with every beat, staggered to her feet, dazed, and supporting herself along the aisle with her hands alternately on the backs of the seats, stepped blindly down to the platform.

Bull Page, who was in with the

"I want you to do one last favor for me, Doctor. Will you?" asked Jane.

"What is it, Jane?"

"I want you to say to Bill that I freely release him from his promise of marriage; that I beg him to forgive me all I have innocently caused him to suffer—and that I will leave here forever—"

"Jane!" exclaimed her listener. She raised her hand, "I've not finished yet."

"Go on!" he snapped, bluntly.

"My father has made me his heir to Gunlock ranch; he has no other heir. This morning I will make my will and bequeath whatever I inherit from my father to William Denison, to atone as far as I can for the wrongs my father has done him."

"Well?" remarked Carpy coldly.

"That is all."

"And that is what you want me to tell Bill?"

"That, Doctor, is what I want Bill to know. Oh, if I had another to do it for me, dear Doctor, I wouldn't put it on you."

Carpy rose to his feet.

"Jane, you're sending me on a fool's errand. But seeing I'm nothing but an old fool, I expect I'm just the man for the job. I can tell you now what he'll say as well as if I'd seen him and given him your message. But I know, of course, that wouldn't satisfy you. So I'll go—and go now."

"Now promise," he repeated, in parting, "you will stay right here in this office till I get back."

But she was ill prepared for what she saw when the office door was opened half an hour later and Dr. Carpy pushed Denison ahead of him into the office. Bill's eyes were bandaged. He groped a little with his hands, while the doctor guided him

Those present included Mesdames H. C. Gilbert, J. M. Thomas, B. M. Cropper, G. D. Stacy, J. L. Nichols, H. M. Roades, M. C. Tucker, L. A. Wesbrook, W. T.

VOLUME II

Edited by the Students of Burk Burnett High School
BURKBURNETT, WICHITA COUNTY, TEXAS, NOVEMBER 12, 1936

Volley Ball News

The volley ball team has shown much progress in the past week and it looks as if we will have a winning team this year.

The team is scheduled for two tournaments, one with Mankins November 20th and 21st and another with Iowa Park December 4th and 5th.

The girls are taking a great interest in volley ball and realize to play they must keep up their school work and make satisfactory grades.

Although the team has been cut to fifteen girls it will have to be cut again.

Senior Who's Who

Marvilla Elliott

Marvilla was born June 25, 1917 near the large city of Alford, Texas. Marvilla and Tempa seem to have many things in common, but the most outstanding appears to be their like for Oklahoma lads, on second thought they have another outstanding favorite it is their mutual love for shorthand (maybe the teacher, too).

Marvilla's favorite teacher is all of them. (We have gotta be nice to everybody.)

Tempa Davis

Tempa was born July 26, 1919 near Olney, Oklahoma (never heard of the place, very few people have, and you can't find it on the map), but anyhow what difference does it make? Has a craving for Oklahoma boys and she says that she has leaped into the sea of matrimony with one of them, but of course we wouldn't be knowing. We would tell you what kind of gum she chews, her favorite drink, color, movie actor, etc, but we don't know. Her favorite football team is the Bulldogs and she thinks the Senior class is swell. So do we.

Tempa's favorite teacher is - well, she had rather not say because she might hurt somebody's feelings. Anyhow, we guess it really doesn't make very much difference.

One thing that she would tell us was that her favorite gum is dentyne. So what?

Well, after all, Tempa really is a good ol' gal.

The Importance Of Personality Development

Business and industry have long recognized the value of employing workers who possess desirable personality traits. It has been found in business that promotions are based not only upon production of the individual but also upon the personal qualities of the man. It has also been discovered that in 75 per cent of the cases of discharge, men are fired because they lack personality traits such as willingness, responsibility, ambition, punctuality, interest, and health. It is the business of our schools to help the boys and girls develop these personality traits, and to do away with the many causes of failure. Personality and character building are so important that this development cannot be left to chance.

Various departments of a school, by the nature of their subject matter, can contribute some things to personality development; for example, the commerce department stresses accuracy, neatness in work and person, responsibility, and speed, the science department stresses the scientific attitude toward problems; the physical education department stresses cleanliness of body, exercise, and fair play; the speech department stresses effective speech likewise, other departments contribute their part toward the development of worth while personality traits.

Today, more than ever before there is a need of well developed healthy personalities. It is the foremost aim of our schools to help the boys and girls develop these important personality traits so they may be able to adjust themselves satisfactorily and make intelligent selections among the many and varied choices in the complex age.

A lot of people who have been in a rut all of their lives, have learned during the past few years to call it a depression.

Most men can tell what kind of a day it's going to be by the way their wives act at breakfast.

"One Who Is Kissed"

Reaching some sort of a decision made Mildred feel better. She was dressed before her mother, and answered the telephone when Avis called. He said, "I'm so glad you are up. You had me worried. What do you think of our good news?"

She answered: "Its wonderful Avis, I'm so proud of you." Avis laughed and said, "This will help us out a lot. You can name the day when you wish." It was hard not to be more enthused, but she just said "We'll talk that over tonight."

That evening Avis seemed very happy and thought they should be married the next month but she couldn't get ready, besides Mildred had promised Great-aunt Lucille in Austin to spend ten days with her, and would leave Monday. Certainly she couldn't disappoint her.

Avis was startled. "Would you put off our wedding to visit an old lady a hundred or more years old?"

Mildred left Saturday, her mother said nothing and Avis didn't kiss her, because she thought someone might see him.

Avis wrote Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. All he said was he missed her "like thunder." He wrote only a line Wednesday, but Friday her mother wrote a card saying that Avis took Molly Rand to a party Wednesday night.

It was then she decided to go home. Mildred told her aunt that her mother was feeling bad.

When Mildred arrived home, her mother stared at her as if she might be a ghost.

After she had re-dressed, Mildred came down stairs. Her mother knew something was wrong and ask if it was about her coming-marriage to Avis. Mildred answered, "The truth is mother I don't know whether I should marry Avis."

Why? Asked her mother. Because the only reason that Avis loves me is because I love him so much. I think it would be better that I shouldn't marry now than later for him to become cold toward me. "Child, ever girl has to take that chance. Her mother went to the window and called Mildred to her side and said: "I never expected to tell you this, but it would be better than to let you make a grave mistake."

When I married your father he had been engaged to another girl. But she had thrown him over because he wouldn't take a job from her father.

Your father and I were old friends. We were in high school together and I had always been crazy about him. He was lonely and he asked me to marry him. Your father and I were congenial, as you and Avis are. I took a chance. Your father has been very wonderful to me and has never spoken of the other girl. Therefore, Mildred, love Avis—all you can. Even if your father didn't love me as I loved him—here she was interrupted by Mildred. Mildred told her mother of the time her father thought she was going to die and that he said if she died he couldn't go on. Therefore something that had hurt her years and years was wiped away.

When Avis came she ran up to him and put her arms around him. She had almost lost him. This time she knew she was the one being kissed.

Avis knew she had been crying and wondered why she had come home so soon.

"A wedding," she answered. "Ours, Avis any day you say."

Armistice

November 11 we observe the eighteenth anniversary of the ceasing of hostilities between nations in the world war. And such needless hostilities! Most of the civilized nations in the world fought for four long years for practically no reason. The whole conflict was caused by greed and ambitions for power.

Thousands of men laid down their lives so that a few might have their selfish wishes fulfilled.

It is all right to observe Armistice day and be thankful that the World War closed when it did; but don't you think it would be even better to try to prevent future wars instead of still discussing ones that are past—especially glorifying them as we are inclined to do? I suppose this seems like an article of pacifism, but really,

It Did Happen

The class had been studying decimals as tens, hundreds, and thousands.

Mr. Farr: "Frankie, what comes after tens?"
Frankie Alexander: "Elevens."

John Golden read a story in English class, and claimed to be the author of it.

Miss Morgan: "John you never use such words when you speak."
John: "But, teacher, if I used all of my vocabulary it would sound as if I were a professor."

In speech class Miss Tanner was testing the class's vocabulary. She was giving each pupil a word from the word list. She came to Avis and asked: "Avis, what is the meaning of the word, schism?"
Avis: "Oh, I know—That means something like that song—"An Old Chisholm Trail."

Watch yourself when you make an error because you may see it in the Growl.

Growl Staff Growls

The Growl staff met in room 212, Wednesday, November 4, at 4 p. m.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss news and receive assignments. "It's no easy job to be a member of the staff," so some of them say.

It is hoped by members of the staff that there will be some sort of festivity within the next two weeks. The editor appointed Grace Preston, Mary Louise Kelly, and Minnie Jo Martin for the refreshment committee, and Barbara Crissey, Polly Hall, and Tommy Harms for the entertainment committee. There being no other business, the staff adjourned.

If you knew how far behind the munition makers are with their orders then you'd know about when the next war will start.

Bulldogs Trample Wildcats

The Burk Burnett Bulldogs beat the Archer City Wildcats to the tune of 46-0. The first half was a hard fought battle. The Bulldogs were not able to make but two touchdowns, but they came back the last half and rolled up five more touchdowns. The Wildcats were promised lights on their field if they won the game, but it looks as if they will not get them. McKown lead in making scores for the Bulldogs with five touchdowns. Finch and Teal accounted for the other two.

Presenting Jack C. Boulton

Mrs. Wallace's little darling boy Jackie was born July 8, 1919 at McAllister, Okla. Jack once held the title of "All American Problem Child," but of course he has grown out of that in his senior year.

The reason you see all the people standing in line to ride with Jack is because he is one of the most careful drivers in Texas.

Jack has another title "Champion Cowboy of Burk Burnett." (Oh Yeah.)

The first week that Jack had his cowboy boots he slept with them on. Now you guess the reason—we can't.

Jack's favorite drink is coca cola, and his favorite teacher is Mr. Kimbrew. He thinks that Juanita McKenzie is the best looking girl in this school and that Dan Hofacket is the best looking boy.

Jackie is the best pop corn seller in Burk Burnett high school. Be sure and buy some from him. We'll guarantee you will be satisfied (but don't try to get your money back if you aren't.)

Stella Davis

The next to the quietest girl in the Senior Class (you guess who's the quietest) is Stella Davis, who was born January 3, 1918, in Granite, Oklahoma. We think she has a football hero that is on the Burk Burnett team (You are supposed to guess again; could it be Fred McPherson?)

Last year Stella was the champion geometry worker in the second period class, but of course we don't know about her this year, but we're sure she is still good (we Seniors have to stick together, you know.)

Her favorite pie is chocolate, and her favorite cake is angel cake (appropriate, eh?)

We think she is very domestic—little lady, and we're sure she is a good cook, and a nice house-keeper.

Pep Rally

The student body does not take any of the credit for what the Bulldogs do, but it surely looks as if that snappy pep rally they had Friday afternoon had something to do with the magnificent score that was piled up Friday night. For about twenty minutes the students exhibited more energy than has been displayed in a long time, yelling, singing, whistling, whooping, and a lot of just plain old hollering. The program ran in true pep rally fashion. The leaders of the pep squad led the assembly in about a dozen yells and songs. Coach Hill gave his traditional speech, and Mr. Duncan announced the Jacksboro game for Thursday night.

Vocational Culture In Burk Burnett School

Training in vocational culture was started in Burk Burnett during the leadership of Jack C. Boulton in 1934. During that year the school was granted affiliation with the 1935-36 affiliation was granted to Agriculture Department on Agriculture Department applied for this school.

The purpose of Vocational Culture in the Burk Burnett school is to train boys in the problems. These problems are found from surveys of farms in the community. The survey includes such as the number of days the farm, amount of per cow, kind and method of marketing. From these are found which ones are important in the community. These are the problems that these enterprises.

To illustrate this point in the Burk Burnett school, that cotton is the most important enterprise, since more raised and more changed due to this. According to the surveys are listed according to importance. Wheat, beef cattle, dairy, sorghum, poultry and farm practices such as breaking land, time of seeding, time of use per acre of cultivations and too numerous to mention are compared on the farms surveyed. They are also compared with information furnished by nearest stations. Each enterprise is for such information as profits, types of soil conditions are analyzed. Decisions on any practice terminated. Planting of water furrows is a good farm practice on farms in the Burk Burnett community. This conclusion reached after studying and experiment records of corn planted directly.

After such conclusion reached, courses in Agriculture are built these practices that are to be correct. These agriculture is now Burk Burnett high school year agriculture includes problems discovered from important enterprises in this community, where ment is needed. Such improvement of livestock try, improving plants, seed, and restoring and soil fertility. The Agriculture boys study time controlling insects, diseases of plants, caring stock and poultry, and livestock and poultry.

The third year boys study time controlling diseases of livestock and poultry, and managing the farm. The jobs are taught and strated to the boys at the season of the year and is expected to do as these jobs on his home he is able to do.

Another part of vocational culture work is the boy secures the management of livestock ownership of crop project and operation the leadership of the er, keeping records on receipts. This not only boy experience, but gives chance to earn for him.

Dramatic Club

People don't like to be told that they don't appreciate things they possess or some things that are done for them. But it's the truth that hurts.

Not that we don't appreciate our Dramatic Club, we do, but not enough. We don't give our support to the people involved in this work. So let's show our appreciation of these artists when they entertain us.

All of which leads up to the subject of this article. The Dramatic Club is now working on three plays, "Wild Hobby Horses," "Lady of Pain," and "Mansions," two comedies and one drama.

"Wild Hobby Horses" is about William Carew who is recuperating from a long illness and whose family wishes him to retire instead of returning to his office—especially his wife, Sarah, who wishes to travel. Donald and Arthur (the two sons) also have their views upon the matter.

Isabel, the "Lady of Pain" is always the wall-flower of a party but that was before she discovered that a Spanish accent and a fan would catch J. Wilson Dodd, a sophomore from Princeton. Pauline Browning, as Isabel and J. W. Todd played by J. W. Thompson.

The drama "Mansions" is to be presented in County Meet next spring in the one-act play division. Harriet, Lydia, and Joe Wilde are the only three characters in it. Pauline McGinnis, Barbara Crissey and Billy Walker are the people portraying these characters.

Guess Who

Who said it takes more than a wisp of corn-tassel hair and China blue eyes to get over with the boys? I disagree, and who wouldn't, with a living example to prove my statement. The example in our school is a perfect one. In fact her good nature is something at which to marvel, and I do.

With your mind's eye see a lovely, simply lovely, girl with light hair and blue eyes. Who is four feet and eleven inches tall and weighs one hundred and four pounds and has about the best temper to be found in school.

The subject of this discussion has many friends (I don't know

This subject has light hair too but perhaps a higher I. Q. Although that is doubtful. His weight is probably about one hundred and twenty-five pounds and he has light colored eyes. His tan is acquired, more than likely from going fishing in the summer.

He doesn't seem to like the girls very well unless—well maybe I'm wrong. There is one girl Mabel.

His personality isn't very pleasant and he is often very silly. (I can't tell you who—You guess?)
