HELP THE BULLDOGS

Friday night the Bulldogs will meet the most important foe of the year in the conference game with the Seymour Panthers. The local players have made a remarkable record this year, and it has been partly due to the fact that the fans have cooperated more than ever before in the history of the school.

As the team meets its most worthy opponent, every able-bodied person in the city should be on hand to give the team a sendoff. Both the high school and the team actually need the support of the citizens. While fair weather has prevailed most of the games, there have been times when the school has had to take a severe loss due to unfortunate conditions. The team has been created, and its excellent record made possible by the support of the citizens in small matter of attendance of the games. Next Friday night should find every Burkburnett citizen at the game.

N. R. A. REVIVAL

One of the questions asked most often since the election has been: "Will the president attempt to revive the NRA?" The late lamented National Recovery Act was thrown out by the nine judges of the Supreme court, and the planned control business was forgotten for the time being. However, the huge majority of the president, indicated that the people gave such complete endorsement of his policies that a revival of the Blue Eagle might be possible.

Not even the most partisan person will try to say that the plan used was perfect, but it did point the way to the perfection of a plan for cooperative status between the government and the private enterprises. The failure of the original plan was due to two things. In the first place it was reduced to too much bureau interference. Further more there was no real conviction on the part of those participating of the necessity.

To start out the plan was a gentleman's agreement with little or no power to enforce its statutes. The trouble with such an arrangement is that where business is concerned there are very few gentlemen.

Now industry itself is calling a conference for the perfection of such a cooperative plan with a constitutional law to give it power.

LOUD SPEAKER

Probably it is a little unfair for us to mention this matter in an editorial before speaking to the authorities at the schools and especially to those who have broadcasted the play by play of the football game this year. However, Seymour has written to the Burkburnett Star asking if some control could not be offered for the loud speaker.

In the important game that approaches for tomorrow night, even a slight break or advantage might mean the difference between winning and losing for Burkburnett or Seymour. The loud speakers at the game make the game much more enjoyable for the fans, that is when they are properly used.

An excellent illustration of the use of the loudspeaker is in the recent play—in a Crowell game. A Crowell man signaled for a safe catch, and long before a Burkburnett player reached him the announcer called attention of the crowd and incidentally the Burkburnett team that the man was signaling for the catch. The speaker had no intention of being unfair, but he was. Then furthermore, on almost every play the loud speaker calls out what man is back who gets the ball, whether or not it is a lateral, a pass, a punt, or the type of formation that is being used, even before the plays is completed. That is obviously unfair.

We appreciate the use of the speaker. It is convenient for the crowd. It is a good advertising medium. It makes possible the understanding of the game and keeping the score in mind as no other medium can, but let's suggest a little more discretion. The main improvement needed is the delaying of the description of the play until after it is completed and the referee's whistle has blown.

TURKEY MARKET

There has been definite rebellion on the part of the farmers who have been asked to pay 25 or 30 cents for normal meats which they use and to sell their turkey crop for 11 cents and lower. This is not a local condition, but that spread over the entire state, and through the midwestern states. In the southern part of Texas, the growers actually went on a strike to hold the American prize bird from the Thanksgiving tables.

The conditions warranted the investigation of the state's attorney general. There is indication of a conspiracy in the Eastern markets to hold the Texas product low. The state government has asked the federal government to interfere and to investigate the possibility of price-fixing policies.

It seems far-fetched that the Eastern market should affect us in Burkburnett so definitely, but the local farmers have the tendency to hold their birds for a higher price.

HEADLINES

For the first time in history the United States has too much money flowing in from foreign investors, and the government is thinking very seriously of establishing an embargo on foreign monies. Last Saturday the report from a general survey indicated that more than 7 millions of dollars had been invested in the U. S. by citizens of other countries. The president believes that the foreign capital constitutes a threat against domestic economy, and has proposed controlling legislation. The threat is mostly to the currency stabilization that has been undertaken by the three major powers, England, France and U. S. A sudden dumping by the foreign stockholders would break the market and complete a panic. It is not far fetched to believe that an organization dumping may result.

Versailles

The last scrap of the Versailles treaty was thrown into the scrap heap last week when Hitler defied the powers of the world to do anything about his declaring null and void the treaty allowing an international commission to control the Rhine, Oder, and other German rivers. The treaty was originally made in order to give the Switzerland and Czecho-Slovakian countries free access to the seas. As the nations now stand under the revised treaty, both of these countries are land-locked. The Germans now say that it is dangerous for the national safety to have the nations at her countryside at all times. It appears that England and France will sit idly by and allow the Germans to continue the program of destroying the treaty over which so much bitter argument arose following the world war. This gesture is the final blow against the effectiveness of the league of nations. It means that the efficiency of that organization has ceased to exist, and that there is no purpose for its further meetings.

Germany-Japan

The new Germany and Japanese military alliance has been announced unofficially, illustrating the vanity of the idea that secret agreements between nations could be outlawed. However, why Japan trusted Germany after she broke every treaty signed in 1919 and the following years is more than the other nations will be able to understand. The alliance, if it is kept, will unbalance the present delicately balanced military powers of the world. Japan and Germany represent the strength of the East and West, and their opposition against Russia constitutes the strongest agreement of its type in existence. The Russians have only their luke-warm neighbors the communistic French. Their alliance with England is decidedly thin. The double power will keep the Russian force divided unless the French come to the aid of the Russian by attacking from the south and west of Germany.

Dog Racing

It is clever publicity for the races that was established in Wichita Falls last week. The owners and promoters knew that they could not race on Sunday, but they also knew that people like to see entertainment that has been raided by police. So, the Rangers rush in and stop the poor little hounds from running, the papers catch a good story, and the turnstiles will click.

Penalty of Leadership

A small story from England recently stated that the King Edward VIII resented the stares of an American woman, and told her that if she wished entertainment "to go to a zoo." Anybody that has been behaving with the lack of discretion such as the king has during the last few weeks, and whose shoulders carry the burdens of ruling an empire, should become accustomed to stares. That is unless his conscience is hurting him. Those who lead pay for their honor, the curiosity of the crowds.

Strike Deadlocked

There is no type of strike that is as widespread in its influence as the present seamans strike.

New Tradition
 In the past before this district was completely dominated by the Cubs and the Crowleys, the annual game between Burk Burnett and Seymour was the championship of the district and it's appropriate that these two teams be fighting it out for the championship of district 10-B. The two teams will walk Friday night and the game will be a bitter battle. The game will fill the stadium and both among the players will recall that three games were necessary to decide the winner. The game that will walk in the shadow of a fan that was forgotten, Rev. Bone, pastor, that became a legend among Burk Burnett and Seymour. The game was threatened to hitch the way to Seymour one night his car refused to start. Somehow we feel that the game will be a great night, he and St. Peter looking over the golden gates of the two gallant teams battling.

Generate Possibilities
 The game contains some desirabilities. Of course if the game is all over, the Panther's will be playing every inch with their backs to the wall. They have to gain. Should they win the game would have been a second time to the pennant. It will be a time in the history of the game between Burk Burnett and Seymour. But it is not to ask of any team to beat the Burk Burnett team in a row. Even with the best condition, and with the playing in all district the Panthers will have a hand full catching the game.

Guard Battle
 Finally, if you have time to spare, watch the two backfield watch the two Elliot and Starkey. Elliot guard for Burk Burnett and Starkey plays right for Seymour. These two of whom are all district, will stage the most exciting battle of the year. On Friday night for four times, Starkey was a backfield throwing a carrier for a loss. Unfortunately a long penalty cancelled work on one try. But just as good if not better, Starkey. He spends a lot of time in the backfield of the defense. You can imagine what will happen when these two fellows meet. One of the other one out ranked as the other. I have a feeling that the Elliot, Starkey does an advantage on weight, tackles and blocks a little the efficiency. There is a feeling that fans do not understand tackling these days. Lateral and abolition of tackle and block, the game tackle has gone out and it is necessary to tackle away watch these two for honors.

Seymour's Passing
 Seymour passing attack for the first time this year last Friday night. Their scores were the result of their area plays. With the receiving end, they were tossing the first pass down to the scoring line by excellent passes. It was that scored the second down.

Stamford-Anson
 There is no fan that has heard the Stamford-Anson game. It was 12 to 0 Stamford beats the Stamford team 28. The winner of the game, Seymour series.

Women Here
 Thursday night Nocona were to scout the local game. The possibility in mind that the teams might meet in the future. They played fireworks. The game played under cover all night.

6 intercepted. Yards at scrimmage Burk Burnett 207, Jacksboro 80, punts, Burk 10 for 302 average 30.2 yards; Jacksboro, 13 for 447 average 33 yards. Score 33 to 0.

New Players

I was glad to see Kelly, Brown, Reed, McPherson and Martin play a little while Friday night. They played a good game. Each one of them. Brown's completion of that pass that Reed tossed so perfectly was one of the thrills of the game.

A Mr. Upchurch received a message one day of this past week from Huggo, Okla., stating that his mother was very low with double pneumonia. Mr. Woods, who lives on the Tom Lee home place, drove Mr. Upchurch to the bed-side of his mother.

Tobe Hardin, Mrs. Martha Nails her son Charlie, who went to New Mexico over two months ago to pick cotton arrived back home last Friday looking fine and as they say they done fine picking cotton. While they were out in New Mexico they collected up a fine lot of Sunny Pictures of New Mexico and old Mexico which is very interesting to look at.

Last Saturday evening W. H. Martin drove down in his car to the Owens family and took them up to his north farm where he has one of those fine Philco Radios installed. We remained, listening to the fine programs which were broadcast. As Hawkeye hasn't any radio they all enjoyed the entertainment. It were 12 p. m. before they arrived home.

The fine weather which is prevailing is sure fine on the farmer sin getting out their cotton. Mrs. Owens will get all of her cotton out this coming week.

Tobe Hardin, Mrs. Martha Nails and her son Charlie, made a business trip up to our county seat Walters, Monday to transact some business.

The report came to Hawkeye late Saturday by Oklahomans stating that thousands of people were shopping and on the streets of Burk Burnett Saturday, as the day was nice and warm. The ice cream store over in Burk did a land office business.

Social Security Act Explained By Government B'rd

Local Business Receive Blanks For Application For Benefit

POST OFFICE BUSY

SPECIAL TO THE STAR
San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 20.—With the aid of 455,000 post offices, the Social Security board this week put into action in all parts of the United States the plan that will set up for 26 millions of working men and women social security accounts which will enable millions of these people to retire when they reach the age of 65 with a monthly income for life.

Post offices throughout the country began Monday, November 19th, the distribution to employers of a form known as the "Employer's Application for Identification Number." This form will enable the post office department to know how many employees' application forms to deliver to each employer.

Then, beginning November 24 post offices will distribute to employers, through their employers, forms known as "Application for Social Security Account Number." These employees' application forms will be distributed to all work places and will also be available, after such distribution, at all post offices. When the worker has filled out the form, he may return it, without paying any postage, by:

Handing it back to the employer, or

Handing it to any labor organization of which he is a member, or

Handing it to a letter carrier, or Delivering it personally to any local post office, or

Mailing it, without postage, in a sealed envelope addressed simply:

"Postmaster, local."

On the return of this information to the post office a social security account will be set up for each person eligible and he or she will be furnished a card—comparable to an insurance identification card—certifying that an account has been set up and bearing the number of the employee's social security account so as to make it easy for the workers to find out at any time just how his or her account stands.

Oscar M. Powell, director of the social security board region embracing Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas, describing old-age benefit provisions of the social security act, said:

"All of this means that men and women of Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas, like men and women in the other 45 states of the Union, who work in some factory, shop, mine, mill, store, office or almost any other kind of business or industry, will begin January 1, 1937, to earn benefits that will come to them later on. From the time they are 65 years old, or more, and stop working, they will get a check from the government every month of their lives, if they have worked some time (one day or more) in each of any five years after 1936, and have earned during that time a total of $2,000 or more.

"Retired workers will receive their checks regardless of the amount of property or income they may have accumulated; however, if a person prefers to continue working after he is 65, the monthly government checks will begin coming to him whenever he chooses to retire. "How much a worker will receive after he reaches the age of 65 will depend entirely on how much he earns in wages from his business or industrial employment between January 1, 1937, and his 65th birthday. A man or woman who gets good wages and has a steady job most of his or her life can get as much as $85 a month for life after age 65. The least a person can get in monthly benefits is $10 a month.

"If a person should die before monthly retirement checks begin to come in, his family will receive a cash payment amounting to 3 1/2 cents on every dollar of wages earned by the worker after 1936. If, for instance, a worker should die at age 64 after having earned $25 per week for $10 years before that time, his family would receive $455. If, however, a person has not worked enough to get the regular monthly checks by the time he is 65, he will get a lump sum, or, if he should die, his family or estate would get a lump sum amounting to 3 1/2 cents on every dollar of wages earned by the worker after 1936.

"Taxes called for in this law will be paid both by employers and workers. For the next three years, beginning January 1, 1937, workers will pay 15, 25, or 30 cents a week or more, depending on what they earn. In other words, during the next three years workers will pay one cent for every dollar they earn, and at the same time employers will pay one cent for every dollar earned by the workers in their establishments, up to $3,000 per year per individual.

"After the first three years—that is to say, beginning in 1940—employers and employees will each pay 1 1/2 cents for each dollar earned up to $3,000 per year per individual. The tax is then graduated one-half cent each 3 years until finally, in 1949, employers and employees will each pay 3 cents for each dollar earned. This is the most employers and workers will ever pay.

"The government will collect both of these taxes from the employer. The worker's part of the tax will be taken out of his salary. The government will collect from the worker's employer an equal amount out of his own funds.

"The social security law also creates an old-age reserve account in the United State Treasury, and Congress is authorized to put into this reserve account each year enough money to provide for the monthly payments workers will receive when they reach the age of 65.

"What workers will receive from this government plan will always be more than they have paid in taxes and usually more than they can get for themselves by putting away the same amount of money each week in some other way.

Duck season will open November 26, and local hunters have been warned that the federal migrating bird stamp (commonly called the duck stamp) must be secured before they will be allowed to hunt any of the major birds. The ducks have been plentiful in spite of the heavy drouth in the midwestern areas, and a large army of hunters are expected to secure license to hunt before the season starts.

Who are the men who do business with the First National Bank? Who are the business houses who bank here? They number hundreds. They represent every industry and type of business in Burk.

One of the things we like best these days in our commercial banking department is to see the smiles on the faces of our customers. Three years or so ago most of them looked worried. Now business is striding ahead once more and both deposits and loans reflect it.

Burkburnett Downs Jacksboro 33-0

The Burk Burnett Bulldogs beat the Jacksboro Tigers 33 to 0 in a non-conference game this last Thursday night. The Bulldogs scored early in the first period, after a quick kick by quarterback Finch. The Bulldogs scored again in the first quarter. The second and third quarters were a hard fought battle with neither team being able to score. The Bulldogs came back and made three touchdowns. Since this was a non-conference game, it did not affect Jacksboro's conference standing. McKown lead the scoring spree with four touchdowns. Teal accounted for the other touchdowns. McKown kicked two extra points, and the other was made by a pass from McKown to Finch. This game was matched to keep the Bulldogs in shape.

Bulldogs Tackle Panthers

The Burk Burnett Bulldogs will tackle Seymour Panthers tonight. This game will probably determine the district champions. The Bulldogs have played five conference games and won five. The Panthers have played five and won four. The Bulldogs have a slight advantage over the Panthers from the games so far, but this is no sign they have it cinched. Anything can happen in a football game!

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE

Marvilla Elliott
On November 20, 1935 the Vocational Agriculture boys will present a program in their class. It will be as follows:
A song by the class
A solo by Tolly McKown.
A talk on Hogs by Grady Lee Whigham.
A harp solo by Durwood Arrington.
A talk on cotton by Carl Cook.
Talk on poultry by Roy Lee Simpson.
Jokes by Mr. Dean and members of the class.
Song by class.
The selected committee for '36 and '37 is Harvey Bentley, Wayne Whitton, and Durwood Arrington.
It seems as though the third year class is doing things; they're working harder and having better success than ever before.

How About It? Boys

A few days ago a bright youngster in one of the math classes remarked, "Boys are better in mathematics than girls, aren't they?" Naturally, I said, No. My experience in teaching mathematics to boys and girls for a number of years has not led me to conclude that the boys are better mathematicians than girls. The question, however, caused me to do a bit of investigating. I compared the grades of the boys and girls in the Burk Burnett high school in mathematics for the first six weeks of the first semester and found out the following results:
Out of an enrollment of 149 boys 14 per cent made G's and 26.8 per cent made U's. Of the 141 girls enrolled in mathematics 13.4 per cent made G's and 19.9 per cent made U's. Whereas 90 per cent of the girls were passing only 73 per cent of the boys were doing satisfactory work. The boys were ahead in the present G's made, but fell short in the per cent of passing grades. Does this mean, boys, that you could, but you won't? You may say, "We don't try--if we should, we could beat the girls." More's the pity that you don't in that case.

Of course, none of the boys will get their backs up on account of this little "dig" at them, as none of them will read this article. Personal, jokes, junior ramblings, and other writings of sense and nonsense are devoured, but editorials never. You see, I am perfectly safe.

Name Favorite Drink Think
Emma Ruth Gill, Seven Up—I don't think about the boys.
Nelda Reynolds, Cherry Coke—I guess they will pass.
Grace Preston, Dr. Pepper—They are O. K. I guess.
Marjetta Owens, Coca Cola—In Burk they are all too conceited.
Marilyn Harwell, Coca Cola—Glad they are all not alike.
Mary Jo Henson, Coca Cola—They are all alike, but they will have to pass.
Louise Kent, Anything that's good—Oh, I guess they're O. K. Some better than others.

Junior Jottings

The Junior's donating to the Red Cross fund was in Tuesday's totaling $1.00.
Three of the little Junior children went to Dallas last week by means of the special train. Mary Emma and Barbara came back decorated with Mangum football pins and tales of football captains, orchestra leaders, Cavalcade, baritone, football players, and exactly 137 miscellaneous others. Billy Walker went also, but he saw the Centennial.

Bright Cracks

In speech class "Asperity is just around the corner," and "Why do they call that road the old "Schism Trail.""
At Growl meeting: "I think this paper can be run without pallegra."
In history class: Teacher: and Rike, what did you have to say? Rike: Eh, eh, I forgot what I was thinking about.
Teacher: That's fine.

Feeding Project

For the spring market, Carl Cook is feeding eight full blood Hampshire pigs, which will sell at 12c a pound. He is the owner of the Registered Hampshire Gilt from which the pigs were farrowed. These pigs are to gain 3 lbs. a day until spring. He is expecting to pay 6c to produce one lb. of pork.

This week the mighty Paderevski wished to have a few of his thoughts and opinions in the public eye so here 'tis.

A certain blonde headed girl that goes steady with a football boy seemed to enjoy dancing with an ex of this school who is also a blonde.

Louvan claims that she visits her relatives in Chillicothe every week. P. S. She calls her relatives "Woody." (Maybe R. M. is just jealous.)

Fred Brown seems to be galavating around, but he can't make up his mind between LaNelle, Darby, Polly, and L. G.

There are a lot of bets up between the Seymour girls and the Burk boys. Please don't collect "Yankee Dimes" too near the grandstands.

Poetry Column

This week we have three of a collection of "Idle Rhymes" from your editor.

Rhyme 1—
If I could have a thought or two,
Or just a little inspiration,
I'd show the Growl it couldn't do
Without my contamination.

Rhyme 2—
A key's a funny little thing
That's wavy, straight, and round,
I have often seen a key ring,
But it doesn't make a sound.

Rhyme 3—
"Why old folks read poetry?"
Is my question number one
That I will ask the Creator
When my days on earth are done.

Discovered Genius

It has been recently discovered that we have in our midst, one who is on the road to fame and honor as a poet. She kept her writing a secret until it became necessary to exhibit her work in order to become a member of the society of poets. She is none other than our beloved and charming librarian, Miss Wynn. Below you will find two of her recent poems.

I wish that I could be her pet
But I ain't got me nowhere yet!

Thought For Food

Miss Wesbrooks is a funny bird! She always is in search of words—I wonder if they do her good—If she uses them in place of food To devour books—people sometimes forget
But plain words are such a meager diet!
I believe that I just won't forget.
Don't you think that I am right?
Yours,
Mr. Hunky Dory.

The Juniors not only feel sad for the seniors at losing Dorothy Hagard, their past president and leading pupil, but all of them really feel sorry for themselves on parting with such an excellent friend and talented musician.

The little Junior boys and girls are finding almost nothing to do besides get lessons, go to the football games and shows, stay in, talk to each other, and fall in love. There seemed to be very little gossiping done in home-room Monday morning, so far all you and your reporter knew cupid had gone on a holiday. However, matters in a few affairs have been intensified, for instance, LaNelle and Pauline have spent a lot of time thinking how nice it would be if they could visit Gladewater and Kilgore, respectively, this Thanksgiving. There is a little stale stuff that has just reached these listening ears, namely, the mighty Paderewski, alias Richard McClendon, has long been gone on the trim-looking Louvian Harris, but he is too shy, too fickle, or too foolish to tell anybody. There are a few covered facts just now coming to light, the most important of these being the fact that the H-W affair isn't nearly so serious as the Hofacket-D. R. B. two-some of last spring. Likewise, other affairs have cooled off, such as the Good-Crissey one, as evidenced at the last football game, and Hodges still talks longingly about "Big, Blue Eyes" but the way she says it is not nearly so intense as last week. Then, again, there are things interesting to contemplate which are as follows: (a) Wouldn't it be funny if Polly H. and Billy Walker, the traditional pals fell real good and hard for each other? (b) Would the world come to an end if Mildred or Avis started going with anyone else? (c) Wonder if it is possible for Pauline Browning to fall as hard for our noble football captain as he has for her? Nothing has really happened except the continued processes of old affairs.

The mastermind of our class, President Pauline Browning, has been working over time these past two weeks devising bed time stories for small children of from thirteen to eighteen. Her stories to date are "The Bowlegged Pigeon," "The Cross-Eyed Bulldog," and a marvelous prophecy of her own future. We will let the waiting public know if this genius continues her astounding work and as soon as possible we will print one of her stories as recorded by Polly Hall, for like a true genius she has neither the time nor patience to write down the very best of her products.

Thanksgiving

By Marvilla Elliott
In my opinion Thanksgiving is one of our most sacred holidays because when our forefathers came to America they were glad to find a new home and the welcome the Indians gave them. After those first hard months they expressed their thanks to God by devoting one day to thanks. This day has become known as Thanksgiving and has been a holiday since that first day of thanks in Plymouth.

Women spent many, many days preparing food for the colony. There were tables put up on the outside and the entire colony gathered around them and became one large family. Besides the feast, the people prayed and sang throughout the day.

Still a day is set aside for Thanksgiving, but do people now think of why Thanksgiving is a holiday or of the good turkey dinner they are sure to get?

Do they spend days before hand trying to help or cheer some one?

Some people accept each day and what it brings forth as what the world owes them. Are they entitled to more than anyone else? No. Even the poorest should be thankful for life. So many people never stop to think that they should be thankful to God for keeping them and helping them in the rugged way of life. Yes, it is true that some people have more of the comforts of life but all have many things to be thankful for though it may not be much.

Let each one be more thankful for what he has and think that there is always some one who has less. Begin early to help and cheer someone who may have already given up in this race and cause him to take new interest in life. If you will say one word of cheer, you never will know how much it will help some one.

Home Ec. Facts

Eighty Girls are Taking Home Economics

The Home Economic girls are really going to know how to keep house when they finish Home Economics. They are learning to keep house, to cook, to market, to overcome food dislikes, and to learn to like to wash dishes as their home projects. This will help their mothers and could be handy to them one of these days—who knows.

The 2-A and 1-A classes are learning to cook. Miss January may be small but she sure knows what's what about cooking.

The present and past hostesses of the fifth period class are Polly Hall, Barbara Crissey, and Polly Wiggins.

The Home Economics department owns four fish, but they have not been named.

An expert says there are 43 different taxes on a pair of overalls. No wonder the buttons pop off.

Scouting

Every boy between the ages of twelve and seventeen should be a Boy Scout. Besides the many friends to be made and the good times to be had, boys get excellent training which will be of great value later on.

Burkburnett needs Scouts; there should be at least three troops here, thirty-five boys to the troop. A Boy Scout troop is composed of four patrols of eight boys each, a Junior Assistant Scoutmaster, a Senior Patrol Leader, and a Troop Scribe. Each patrol has a patrol leader and an assistant who are the leaders for the eight boys in that patrol.

The divisions of a Boy Scout troop are very similar to those of a group of the same size in the United States army, and a well organized troop carries on its meetings in about the same way the army is conducted.

Did you know that we have a troop of Boy Scouts in Burk Burnett who are striving their hardest to get other boys interested in scouting? They know what scouting is, they want their parents and grown-folks to know what it is, and most of all, they want most of the people of this city to be interested and assist in the scout program which they are planning.

The Boy Scouts of Troop 2, Burk Burnett, Texas, have big plans for the future. First of all they intend to progress as rapidly as possible in Scoutcraft, which in general, is a knowledge of living and playing outdoors. They want to learn as much as they can about camping, first aid pioneering, athletics, handcraft, reptile study, firemanship, life saving, canoeing, hiking, etc. As they learn these things, these boys will advance in scouting from the Tenderfoot class, to Second Class, First Class, Star Scout, and finally Eagle Scout. The boy who can wear an Eagle Scout badge on his chest is looked up to and admired by everyone, and an Eagle Scout may justifiably be a trifle proud of himself.

Scoutcraft includes good turns by individuals and also for the whole troop in the form of some civic improvement.

Because of their pride in being a Boy Scout, all the boys want the whole troop to be completely uniformed and equipped, and they are not sitting around wishing for Santa Claus to provide those things. They have arranged to sponsor a picture show sometime in the first two weeks of December. By the first of January, that troop will be in excellent condition as to equipment and knowledge of Scouting.

But remember, they will not be satisfied with only that. They want to see at least three such active troops of Boy Scouts in Burk Burnett.

Book Nook

The Library is glad to announce the arrival of the November issues of Hygeia, Good Housekeeping, Stage and Vogue magazines. The December copies of Pictorial Review, McCall's and Ladies' Home Journal have also arrived. Most of these periodicals are of particular interest to the Home Economics Department but are kept in the Library for the use of all students who wish to read them.

The most recent issues of our periodicals (with a few exceptions) are kept on the magazine rack. For instance, the November copy of Good Housekeeping is on the open magazine rack. The September and October issues of that same magazine are kept on the magazine reserve shelf behind the counter. Students are asked to call for them and for back issues of all magazines at the Librarian's desk.

Those exceptions which are not placed on the rack include: The American Boy, Fortune, House Beautiful, Readers' Digest and Vogue. These periodicals are kept on the magazine reserve shelf because of popular demand and because the Library does not have binders for them.

The Librarian wishes to remind the readers that very severe fines are placed on students who clip pictures or articles from magazines or newspapers in the Library. Charges are also extremely heavy on students who take periodicals out of the Library without signing for them in the proper manner.

REQUESTS

Students who wish to check in seven day books are requested to bring them to the hall door of the Library any morning before the tardy bell rings. By doing this, they will not need to secure library permits merely to turn in books.

Defeated By Fairview

November 9, the Fairview girls journeyed to the district president. There has been some rivalry between the two schools. The Fairview girls won the Holiday girls' classes. The scores were as follows:

Class	Score
Girls' victory	17-10
Another victory by the Eagles	27-18
The boys did some excellent work in the first half of the game.

Clara and Valley played for first place in the league conference. Valley View won. If Clara had won the conference, but if the Holiday defeats were in first place, Clara would have won. The Fairview-Valley game will have to play three games to determine the winner.

Home Economics clubs met at Fairview Nov. 14. Every school district was invited but only those that attended were at Park and Seymour.

Senior News

By six o'clock Friday evening the Senior class was enjoying a chicken barbecue at the Home Ec. cottage. They had everything to go with their chicken including pickles, potatoes, salad, big warm buns, all kinds of fruit salad, and baked apples with plenty of whipped cream.

By seven-thirty the place was rather quiet, the reason being everyone was too busy eating to talk. We suggest to those who bring guineas, don't let any one know about it if you want any for yourself.

The house was called to order by the district president. After the programs and business meeting, the girls went to the Home Economics building and the refreshments were served by some of the Home Economics girls.

Sr. Personalities

Lenore Podbreger In the fair year of 1920, January 12, in the little city of Le-High, Okla., Lenore Podbreger made her entrance into this old world. At the age of two months, she came to the city of Thrift. Living in Thrift for seven years, Lenore made matters worse by moving to Berger, Texas. In her younger life she was "talked-out" of towns. She had the spirit of adventure in her bones. Finally, she settled down and came back to Thrift when she was nine years old and has prospered there since. She was in the third grade and has been going to Fairview since then. Wherever a good show is, you can always find Lenore there. Her favorites are: candy, "powerhouse," actress, Loretta Young; teacher, Mrs. Watkins; (she really likes all of them); subject, typing.

Lenore is president of the Home Economics club, a member of the social committee of the senior class. She takes great interest in sports, being an active member of the volleyball team. Lenore is very interested in one of the seniors of '35. Usually when you see her, you see him.

Her favorite hobby is talking. When she finishes school she hopes to be an air-hostess. Each week there will be a column on the senior personalities. So look forward to them.

Sophomore News

The Sophomores haven't had many activities lately. Somehow or other we seem plenty calm about it.

The Sophomore class went to the midnight show Saturday night at Burk Burnett, and as the sponsor didn't show up, much fun was had. We're sorry he couldn't be there. Another thing we are sorry for is the fact there were only a few there, the Sophomore class in name if not in body being there. We're glad to know Vern Blanset and Felix Myers were there as they were needed.

Home Ec. News

The first year class in Home Economics are sewing on their first garments and seem to be enjoying the work very much. Plans are being made by the third year class to entertain their parents, faculty and school board Monday night. The tables are to be arranged with the color schemes of silver and gold. The second year class has been studying vegetables and meats and has served three complete meals in the class.

The Home Economics Club is going to have the district rally at Fairview, Saturday, Nov. 14, and are inviting all of the Home Economics Clubs and teachers of the district to be there.

Sport News

Last Wednesday night the Fairview boys journeyed to Randlett to play a practice game. The score for the second string boys was 5 and 28 in favor of Randlett. The first string boys were beaten by one point, the score being 15 and 16. The time was extended 3 minutes and during that time a foul was called on one of our boys and Randlett got a free shot and a point.

Next Tuesday night the Fairview teams will go to Holiday to play a conference game.

Crowd Honors Mrs. Wiggins At Last Services

The last rites for Mrs. P. A. Wiggins, prominent Burk Burnett woman were held before a large crowd at the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, with Curtis Cook officiating, and Rev. Miles B. Hays, pastor of the Baptist church assisting. Mrs. Wiggins died early Monday morning after a lingering illness at her home on West Main street. Mrs. Wiggins was survived by her husband and two daughters Jerry and Polly Wiggins, and four brothers, Paul Hume, T. R. Hume of Dallas, Texas, Leo Hume of Durant, Okla., and Ben Hume of Glendale, California.

The simple ceremonies gathered a host of friends to honor the resident of Burk Burnett. Mrs. Wiggins came to this city in 1919 with her husband P. A. Wiggins, owner of the Texas Machine and Welding shop. She was born in Marshall county Oklahoma in 1883, and moved to Sherman where she lived until she moved to Burk Burnett.

The pallbearers were: A. R. Hill, J. C. Adams, O. C. Wills, Frank Clement, Jess Ashton and Paul Browning. The rites were under the direction of the Owens-Brumley Funeral Home.

Firemen's Auxilliary Guests of Mrs. Kelly

The members of the Burk Burnett Firemen's Auxilliary were guests of Mrs. J. F. Kelley in the regular social meet last Thursday, and Mrs. J. J. Blackstone, president directed the meeting. The invocation was given by Mrs. J. F. Kelley, chaplain. In a short business session the meeting was adjourned for the social hour. A very pleasant evening of bingo was presented with Mrs. Neal Allen and Mrs. Fred Brookman winning the prizes. Lovely refreshments were served to Mesdames Fred Brookman, Bill Stapp, Curtis Matthews, R. J. Kelly, John Allison, J. J. Blackstone, Robert Dunn, and one visitor, Mrs. C. L. Miller.

Important Games In Valley Play Thursday Night

The most important games of the season will be played in the Red River and Wichita Valley League Thursday night when the four leaders, Fairview, Valley View, Clara and Holiday tie up in two games that will determine the championship of the league. Clara, Fairview, and Valley View are tied for the top with one loss and four wins each. The victors will probably have to play off a tie.

Central School To Present Way Out West As Operetta

Date To Be Selected Later For Annual Play of School

The story opens "Way Out West" at a "dude ranch," where a summer geology class from California university is making its headquarters. The school crowd has been assembled only a short time when there arrives from a neighboring ranch one Don Perez a Spaniard, and his beautiful daughter, Carmita, with tales of a mysterious "Ghost Rider" who dashes about the countryside in the dead of night, terrorizing the small settlements near the Mexican border.

Bob Holliday, owner of the dude ranch, who has fallen in love with Carmita, and seeking an excuse to return to the Perez ranch with her, proposes that the entire assemblage take a week-end trip to Carmita's ranch in order to get first hand information as to the outlaw. The plan is adopted without a dissenting vote, and the party moves to the neighboring ranch near the border.

Trouble, accompanied by numerous comical complications, begins even before the crew arrives at the second ranch. The strange Ghost Rider, whom Bob and most of the others had considered a myth, obligingly adds to the difficulties by greeting the newcomers with a note, stating that their presence has interfered with his plans and instructing them to leave within twenty-four hours. The penalty if they fail to heed his warning is not disclosed by the note.

Cliff Houston, a big good-natured collegian, refusing to take the bandit or his threats at all seriously, rigs himself up in a white outfit similar to the one worn by the mysterious bandit (according to rumors) and at the hour when the latter had promised to put in his appearance, Cliff dashes into the crowd and enacts a "hold-up" to the great amusement of the visitors. At the height of the hilarity, the real bandit shows up, accompanied by his stooges, a band of ruffians. Unable to carry out an intended kidnapping because Carmita, who had fallen out with Bob through a misunderstanding, had left the ranch the bandit makes numerous threats against the entire group. Before he can act, however, Carmita returns and traps him.

Through an unexpected turn of affairs, it is learned as a result of the incident which caused the misunderstanding between Carmita and Bob, that the stranger is none other than Juan Anzora, Carmita's cousin. Because Carmita has won the hearts of the entire group, they agree not to divulge the identity of the masked bandit, and when the authorities arrive to take charge they are informed that the bandit has gone forever.

Carmita, still under the impression that Bob loves Alice Arnold, a young coed with the college class, has declared her intention of returning with her father to their native Spain. With a heavy heart, Bob returns to his ranch with the others, among whom there had sprung up numerous love affairs which add to the romantic atmosphere.

It goes without saying that, as in all musical romances, events lead to a correction of the misunderstanding between Carmita and Bob, and that all ends well.

New Book At Burk Library Rental

Mazo De La Roche has perfected a series of books relating to the adventures and life of the Jalna family in their Ontario home, and the latest of these books, "The White Oak Harvest" has been added to the rental shelves of the Burk Burnett library. The series of stories covers many years but the present story is in the brief period of one year (1934-35).

The story of the trials and struggles of the family burdened with mortgage on the home and dangerous inter family differences presents the most interesting story of the series. You will like Renny, the present head of the family for his courage and resourcefulness.

Cotton Nears 2500 Mark For New Crop

According to the reports of the Farmers Cooperative Gin and The Burk Burnett Gin the cotton crop for this year with practically all of the cotton in is 2422 bales. This includes both round and regulation bales. The amount of cotton was surprising after the severe drought followed closely by heavy rains of late fall. The injury due to heavy rains evidently was not as heavy as it was contemplated.

The crop compares to the same date of last year as 4350 bales. The price was sustained for the first few weeks on the oca market. The reports later will bring the crop to well over 2,500 bales.

Oldsmobile propeller shaft employs three universal joints instead of the conventional two. The front section of the propeller shaft is locked in and supported by the massive I-beam x-members of the heavy frame. Head and leg room have been added without increasing overall height. A considerably lower center of gravity also results, with corresponding improvement in car stability, a factor increased still further by the employment of new dual ride stabilizers, both front and rear.

Another vital body improvement in both the six and eight is the fact that the seats have been moved forward approximately six inches. This change is of especial importance to rear seat passengers who now ride on a lower level seat located between the front and rear wheels instead of over the rear axle as in conventional body designs.

Drivers of short stature will appreciate another body feature which involves the adjustment of the front seat. When the seat is moved forward, the rear of the seat cushion rises and the back cushion tilts forward, affording comfortable support and maintaining the line of vision at the proper level.

The new unisteeel turret top bodies by Fisher are larger, roomier, and of especially sturdy and soundproof construction. They include a heavy structural frame or inner steel skeleton, all-steel floors and girder-type steel doors. All doors and windows are sealed against wind and rain by rubber windlacing. Safety glass is standard throughout. All models are equipped with the Fisher no-draft ventilation system.

Upholstery is of the luxurious pillow type usually found only in custom bodies and fine furniture. Seat width is exceptionally generous, being more than ample to permit three persons to ride comfortably in either front or rear seat.

The instrument panel, of new and modernistic design, carries two large dials on either side of a centrally-located, louvered panel which is specially designed to accommodate a radio speaker. For the convenience of those who desire radio installation, aerials are molded integrally in the rubber surface of the running boards of all cars.

Despite the increased power of the 1937 engines, an appreciable improvement in fuel economy has been achieved, largely through lowered engine speeds and improvements in the carburetion and manifold systems. In the new engines, automatic control is exercised over the operation of the choke, the spark advance, idling speed, engine temperatures and the fuel mixture.

Motor blocks are cast integrally with the crankcase and provide full length water jackets which completely surround each cylinder. Direct pressure cooling is provided for the valves. Greater economy of fuel and oil and longer engine life are two important results.

Chassis on both six and eight offer an improved development of the famous knee-action or independent front wheel suspension which has been a leading mechanical feature of Oldsmobile cars for several years. An improved Oldsmobile design of center-control steering is employed on both cars, as are two-way shock absorbers, front and rear. Dual ride stabilizers, one in the front and the other in the rear, are included in the 1937 Oldsmobile features. Powerful, self-energizing, super-hydraulic brakes are now triple sealed against water, dust or mud. The brakes are supplemented by an independent emergency mechanical braking system operated by a "pistol-grip" lever under the left of the dash. Thus both cars provide the security of two separate and distinct braking systems.

Many other mechanical improvements contribute to the excellence of the new Oldsmobiles. Among them are sturdier rear axle construction, larger wheel bearings both front and rear, improved valve design and a new type of spiral-woven clutch facing which engages more smoothly and has a greatly increased factor of durability.

Oldsmobiles to Be On Display Here Saturday

The entirely new Oldsmobiles 1937, each distinctively designed and original in body styling and offering many important improvements in mechanical details are being given their first showing by Oldsmobiles throughout the country. Announcement of the new cars Oldsmobile Six and Oldsmobile Eight—culminates the latest development period in the decade of Oldsmobile pro-designated as the club coupe which replaces the sport coupe of former years. The club coupe, a five window model, provides within the body compartment a pair of interior auxiliary seats behind the driver's seat for the convenience of occasional passengers. When not in use, the auxiliary seats may be folded into rear body recesses to afford an additional 22 cubic feet of luggage space.

Unusually generous provision for luggage space has been made in all of the body models. This results from the increase in body length permitted by the longer wheelbase and from the fact that the car floors have been lowered by three and one-half inches, giving added depth to the bodies without sacrificing road clearance.

A new Oldsmobile development in propeller shaft design has permitted the car floors to be lowered without imposing the inconvenience of a "tunnel" in the front and rear compartment floors, without reducing road clearance. The new "stabilized" cars are longer, lower, and more comfortable than those which made Oldsmobile history in 1936. They provide greater reserves of power with lower engine speeds, with corresponding improvements in both performance and operating economy. The Six develops 95 horsepower, at 30 horsepower in the 1936 model; while the Eight develops 105 horsepower, an increase of 10 horsepower over the 1936 model. Wheelbase of the six and eight have been increased respectively to 117 inches and 124 inches.

The two cars are entirely different in appearance, each having its own character and individuality. The six is found an entirely new interpretation of radiator design. The new treatment employs eight die-cast horizontal louvers, deeply recessed and plated in chrome. Hood louvers are of a triple horizontal bar design which harmonizes with radiator grille. Headlamps are gracefully streamlined. Individuality has been designed into the front of the Oldsmobile Eight. On the series, the engineers have employed a die-cast grille of mesh design, plated in chrome and outlined by a chrome moulding.

Deeply balanced front and rear suspension, massive chrome-plated bumper guards, running boards covered with ribbed moulded rubber, steel wheels with massive chrome-plated spokes, add distinction to the smooth-contoured all-steel bodies of the six and eight.

Complete individuality has been preserved also in the rear treatment of the two cars. They offer an innovation in the design of combination tail and trunk lights high on the rear sides of the bodies at the termination of the chrome body moulding. However, the lights are totally different in style; those of the six are sharply streamlined almost like miniature versions of the front end; those of the eight have been given a more square, modern design with both rear side panels of red glass, the front serving as a warning light against cross traffic.

In addition, both cars provide license plate bracket at the rear of the rear compartment, equipped with a license light. The units are of total different design on the two series. Thus the new Oldsmobiles carry three rear lamps and so provide an added factor of safety in night driving.

Even body choices are offered on each series. They include: the four-door sedan; two-door touring sedan with trunk; four-door sedan; four-door touring sedan with trunk; business coupe; convertible coupe; and a new comer
