Judge C. E. Combs To Speak At Meet Burk C of C Dec. 3

Annual Banquet Changed To Prevent Conflict With Football Game at Stamford

The meeting was originally set for Friday, but the date was changed in order to prevent conflict with the Burk Burnett-Stamford football game.

The speaker is one of the most prominent west Texans. He has served an important part in the history of the area for the past years. At one time he served as president of the WTCC and at the present time is a member of the city council at Stamford.

District Judge

When he was elected as county attorney of Knox county in 1910 he served one term in that office and was selected as district attorney by Governor T. M. Campbell. ### Evidence In Labor Hearing Forwarded To National Board

Case Involving Local Oil Companies To Be Reviewed By Washington Committee

REGION HEARING ENDED

According to a telegram from Edwin A. Elliott, regional director for the national labor relations board the case of the local oil field workers union vs. C. J. Bohner et al. will be reviewed by the National Labor Relations Board at Washington, D. C. in the near future. The case and evidence was presented before trial examiner Guthrie of Fort Worth recently, and after consideration, the examiner recommended that the case did not come under jurisdiction of the national board.

The reason for the recommendation was based on previous lower court decisions in Pennsylvania coal cases. However, the decision of this same regional examiner was reversed previously and members of the local union held hope this week that the national board would do the same thing in the present case.

The decision of the intermediate trial examiner is not binding to the NLRB, but is a recommendation on the basis of previous court cases on similar cases.

Dr. Elliott's telegram read as follows: "Intermediate report of trial examiner recommends dismissal of case for lack of jurisdiction. This case will be considered by board in making its decision."

Edwin A. Elliot.

Haircuts Advance In Price In Burk

The barbers announced a new scheduled prices for their haircuts in Burk Burnett this week when the prices of trims advanced from 25 cents to 40 cents for adults. The advance in price was only for older people. Children haircuts will continue to be 25 cents. According to the announcement of the barbers, the advance was necessary in order that conditions of sanitation and workmanship could be kept at a high standard. The severe requirements of the state board makes necessary the additional expense that could not be profitably maintained under the old price schedule. The barbers announced that they had been operating on a very small margin during the last two years.

Mike Begun Ill At Home Here

Mike Begun, well known Burk Burnett business man, has been seriously ill at his home here for the past three weeks. Mr. Begun is reported to be feeling much better after the attack of the flu. He was able to be up Thanksgiving and had dinner with his friend, L. L. Millikin.

He has been a member of many social and civic clubs in Burk Burnett for many years, and he has been a leader in Masonic, Odd Fellows, and similar organizations.

Trophy Fund

The district provides no trophy for the winner of the championship, and in order to make a permanent record of the outstanding playing of the Burk Burnett Bulldogs this year, in order to keep the memory of the gallant team in the minds of the citizens and student body, and to show the teams in the future our interest in the teams that play for the school, a permanent trophy should be bought.

Last Sunday morning in a local cafe five fans were talking about the proposition, and they decided that the trophy should not be a high pressure collection but a free expression of interest on the part of the fans. For that reason the editor offered to deposit one dollar in the local bank under an account called "trophy fund." A beautiful trophy has been selected.

This trophy will take about $50.00. The five joined the writer and many other have expressed a desire to do so. Others wishing to express their interest in the team should go immediately to the bank and leave their dollar, or more if they wish, for this fund. The names of all the players will be engraved on the trophy as a permanent record of their contribution.

Geo. McCarty Buys Corner Drug Store

Geo. McCarty of Wichita Falls purchased the Corner Drug Store and assumed charge Nov. 20th.

Mr. McCarty formerly lived in Burk Burnett and was employed by Key & Cannon Drug Co. for a number of years. He has been employed by the Monroe Street Pharmacy for the past six years as prescription clerk.

Mr. McCarty stated that he would remodel and re-arrange and decorate the store in the very near future and would serve sandwiches and hot drinks in season.

Mr. McCarty was born and raised near Randlett, Okla., and he invites his many friends of Burk Burnett and southern Oklahoma to come in and visit him in his new location.

Legion To Hold Buddy Nite Mon.

Announcement was received this week from members of the American Legion that a "Buddy Nite" would be held in Burk Burnett for that organization and all ex-service men of the area next Monday night, November 30. The announcement reads as follows: "Buddies do you remember the nights after paydays while you were in the army? Yes, we all do—there was fun and amusement for all in their own way."

Next Monday night, November 30, will be Buddy night, all ex-service men are invited to attend and a cordial welcome to all Legionnaires and ex-service men of neighboring towns.

All members of the American Legion who have volunteered for the blood transfusion squad are to meet at the Corner Drug store Friday night, November 27 to go to Wichita Falls. Fall in line, be there and go along. You may save a life.

School Children Thank Store For Book Covers

The book covers for the public school books furnished by the state were furnished by three firms in the city, Majors Variety Store, Owens and Brumley, and the Barrow-Grace Chevrolet Co. These organizations received numerous letters from the school children this week thanking them for their kindness and expression of appreciation was received by each merchant. The business places appreciate the expression from the school children, and announce that they were glad to be able to serve in this matter.

Red Cross Drive Will Be Complete In Near Future

H. D. Smith announced this week that although the drive was officially closed Thursday with Thanksgiving that additional reports would bring the Red Cross Roll of Burk Burnett to near record proportions. As early as Monday this week the amount collected for the year's pledges, while not reaching the quota of $350 had exceeded the total amount collected last year. Furthermore five committees had not turned in a report at that time.

The contribution started officially when a committee met at the Chamber of Commerce office November 12. The drive instructions were given by H. D. Smith and the city was completely worked. The preliminary report showed that the drive would pass last years report.

The reports from the schools showed that every Burk Burnett school room, the Cashion and Fairview schools, and all of the teachers of the institutions had joined 100 per cent.

Complete check-up will be made Friday and Saturday, and the final cleanup work of the committee will be done some time early next week.

The officials expressed surprise at the ready response of the public to the pledges of the organization this year. However, several things have happened in Burk Burnett during the past few months that account for the ready response of the people in this section. During the cyclone last spring he Red Cross offered immediate relief for those in this district that had suffered from the terrors of the storm.

Another good will project was the examination of the children in school. Additional examination will be held this year.

Art Class Makes New Poster For Operetta

The members of the Central Ward school art class under the direction of Miss Pauline Miller will make the posters and decorations for the fall operetta to be presented by the musical department of the school in the near future. The date for presentation of "A Way Out West" will be set as soon as the football season is completed. Miss Ethyl Virginia Allen is directing.

Fairview School Dismisses For Thanksgiving

The Fairview school dismissed Wednesday until Monday for the Thanksgiving holidays. The pupils are thankful for many things this year. They received their report cards Wednesday evening and they know whether they passed or not. The teachers are thankful that they will not have to teach school for two days.

Ontario children, arrested for Halloween pranks, were locked in cells with four tramps, the children's parents protested. Mayor the tramps felt it was harsh on them, too.

Mr. VanLoh is associated with the Farmers State Bank of Burk Burnett.

Bulldog Victories Brings All School Children Holiday

The victories of the Burk Burnett Bulldogs in winning the district championship this fall gave the school children and teachers an extra holiday. The school planned originally to release the children at the end of the regular school day Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holiday. A hasty meeting of the school board decided that the children could have an extra half day to celebrate the victory in district winning. The children and teachers were released at noon Wednesday.

Westerfield Honored By Service Club

Butler Westerfield, former superintendent of the Burk Burnett public schools and manager of the Wichita Post, was honored at a banquet last Tuesday night with members and Rotary Ann were present. Mr. Westerfield was formerly president of the organization and was a member for several years.

The tribute to his service was made by Paul Browning, who spoke of the work that he had done in the past 15 years that he was associated with the schools in Burk Burnett. Mr. Westerfield responded with an account of his experience in the early days of his Burk Burnett school experience.

Ticket Sales On Christmas Party Gets Good Start

Doll Committee To Solicit Dolls Again At Adams Drug Store Next Saturday

COMMITTEES PREPARED

The ticket sales on the Christmas party to be held for the benefit of the fund to buy toys and candies for local children started excellently according to the announcement of Steve Marchand, general chairman. The tickets went on sale last week, and the response has been gratifying. The party will be held at the three motor companies, Barrow-Grace, Cooper and Burk Burnett Motors, Dec. 7th.

However, in spite of the ready response, the chairman urged that every Burk Burnett citizen buy at least one or more tickets. H. D. Smith and Lee Clifton submitted an estimate that about 600 children would need attention this year. In order to spread the benefit as widely as possible a large sale of tickets will be necessary.

A complete program will be presented at each of the companies, with the rotation of the local talent. A box supper will be held at each building after games have been played. There will be no prizes offered for the contests.

Toys and Dolls

The doll committee headed by Mrs. Alvin Hill will solicit dolls and funds for dolls at the Adams Drug Store next Saturday. Last Saturday the group solicited $37 clear on the dolls, and the committee expressed appreciation for the ready response. Those assisting were Mesdames A. R. Hill, Raymond Wallace, S. E. Marchand, W. P. Sims and Steve Marchand and Roy Jackson and Misses Betty Jane Hill, Mildred Kemp and Manila Milford.

The scouts will solicit toys again next Saturday under the direction of Mr. Pierce. The toys will be repaired by the high school industrial classes and the members of the volunteer fire department. The fire department announced that they would come after any toys that were listed. Those having toys have been asked to phone 101 and give name and address.

The dolls will be dressed by the members of the home economics department of the high school. Under the direction of Miss Helen January the members of the department will be dressed and repaired before the program of presentation. The program presenting the toys and the candies will be some where in Burk Burnett where enough room can be secured on the evening of Dec. 24th. At least 600 children will be invited to attend the meeting.

P. T. A. Studies Home In Regular Meeting

Members of the Parent-Teacher Association met at the Central Ward school Tuesday afternoon for the study of the "Home As the Background of the School Work." The program was under the direction of Mrs. S. B. Crissey and presented by Mrs. Hall. The meeting was opened with the Lord's prayer. Good book week was emphasized, and national education week discussed by Mrs. Frank Kelley. Thanksgiving music was presented by the members of the first grade under the direction of Miss Helen Ingle, instructor.

There were 40 members present. The meeting originally scheduled for the previous Tuesday was postponed in respect for the late member, Mrs. P. A. Wiggins. The society voted to join the other clubs in the city in the presentation of the Christmas tree for the kiddies of the community.

Last Half Rally Wins First Title For Burk Burnett

Bi-District Game Will Be Played At Stamford Friday Afternoon, Dec. 4

FANS GO WILD

Whole Team Stages A Brilliant Comeback In Last Period; Blocking Great

"On to Stamford" became the cry of the Burk Burnett fans this week after a toss of the coin at Seymour decided the site of the Stamford-Burk Burnett Bulldogs game. With Chester Duncan calling the toss and J. W. Thompson tossing, the game was set for Stamford Dec. 4, Friday afternoon at 2:30.

The Burk Burnett Bulldogs won the bi-district by sewing up the district 10B title in a brilliant fourth quarter rally that scored four touchdowns to win over Seymour 33 to 7 last Friday night.

The two schools' officials held a conference in Seymour Monday afternoon, and for two hours the Burk Burnett officials tried to induce the Stamford team to play on neutral grounds in Wichita Falls, but the Stamford officials absolutely refused to even consider the game at that location.

Large Offer

The Burk Burnett officials had an opportunity to sell the game at a large guarantee to the Stamford team, but preferred to take the sporting chance of bringing it back to Burk Burnett to the Bulldogs own kennel. Mr. Duncan and Mr. Hill did everything possible to bring the game to Burk Burnett or Wichita Falls.

The Bulldogs won the championship of district 10-B here Friday night, routing the Seymour Panthers with a four-touchdown explosion in the fourth quarter.

The two teams fought into the fourth period with the score tied, 7 to 7.

Then the hard-blocking Bulldogs struck with a sequence of baffling scoring plays.

The game was filled with spectacular plays both on the offense and defense with McKown and Teal starring for Burk Burnett, and Stevens carrying the burden of the Panthers' attack. Seymour lone score in the third quarter was the result of a pass Stevens to Mikeska for 12 yards. On the defense Starkey, Seymour guard, Blair, Elliott, Cook and Montgomery of Burk Burnett played spectacularly.

Crowd Totals 3,000

A crowd of 3,000 fans watched the two teams battle on even terms the first quarter. The entire period was devoted to a punting duel with Finch of Burk and Richmond of Seymour breaking even in the kicking. The only threat of the period was Burk Burnett's drive to the Seymour 20-yard line where a fumble by Teal recovered by Butler of Seymour saved the Panthers.

The second quarter the battle continued with the Bulldogs scoring on a 69-yard march. Starting on their own 41-yard line the Bulldogs were led down the field by Teal and McKown, with Finch scoring from the one-inch line. McKown then carried the ball around left end for the extra point.

Seymour then resorted to a passing game, Stevens to Mikeska, in a desperate attempt to score, but the passes fell incomplete.

In the third quarter the Panthers came on the field after a conference with the coach inspired. They stopped the Burk Burnett attack cold by crashing tackles, and took possession of the ball on the Burk Burnett 15-yard line when Mikeska and Cox

SHOP EARLY—MAIL EARLY

Less than a month from now there will be hundreds of local citizens who will wish that they had been sensible and farsighted enough to take advantage of the offer of efficient service by stores and postoffices and shopped and mailed early. As usual there probably will be a large number who will wait until the last moment possible to take care of both activities. However, the post office authorities still urge the serious consideration of the problem of handling mail during the Christmas rush.

If consideration of the stores and postal employees was the only advantage, it would still be an excellent idea to indulge in a little farthought. However, the personal gain from the thoughtfulness is more than the average person realizes. There is a better selection of merchandise more alert and courteous and patient clerks, a greater possibility of securing article demanded early than during the rush days. The clerks will be tired, the stores will be crowded with impatient hurrying shoppers. In mailing with the millions of parcels going the rounds, the possibility of loss and damage is much higher.

Therefore for your own sake and personal gain take advantage of the opportunity to mail and shop early.

COURTESY DEMANDED

Burkburnett is so small that it is surprising to learn that it has a problem dealing with traffic. But most of the traffic here goes down one street, Main Street. The fact that nearly every business in town is along this line adds to the occasional congestion. In a neighboring city a group of merchants found that they could aid in solving their own problems and at the same time give the visitors and customers a service that is more appreciated than any good-will project that we have seen in many years.

When the traffic grew heavy and meters were installed the merchants mentioned leased a lot and arranged it for parking space. The customers of any of these stores can park free in that space and at the same time feel that his car is protected both from danger of deliberate tampering and the accidental bumps that happen so often to a parked car. Burkburnett business men might find the suggestion very interesting.

DISTRICT CHAMPIONS

Last year the Burkburnett fans gritted their teeth and waited for this year. The team was young, immature, and hopelessly outclassed in the conference, but the loyal fans knew that they would grow up and be back to give the district a battle for the championship. That is exactly what happened. Those little boys of last year didn't add much weight, but they did add a lot of experience in their nine game schedule, and by the end of the year, they started giving the fans and coaches evidence of what they could do.

Now the proud bearers of the district crown are worthy of every compliment and congratulation that the fans can give to them. They still have a heavy row ahead of them in bi-district and regional, but for the moment they should relax and smile.

The victory of the boys this year is a triumph for the boys, the coaches, and that small group of loyal fans that expressed confidence even in the days when the going was hard and the hopes seemed very dim for any such title.

Never before has the community been so definitely united in a single objective as it has this year in the backing of the team. With almost religious fanaticism the community has aroused itself to show a zeal and cooperation. Every business house in town, every fan from the lowliest to the most important have felt a growing thrill of pride in the achievement of these "our boys."

We the fans have watched the spectacular thrill of touchdown plays. We have indulged in the pageantry of the Friday night contest. Very few of us realize just what made the "district champions."

Those who have never gone through the seige of training that football requires, do not understand why coaches say that games are not won on the gridiron the night of the game. Day after day of routine practice. Dreary exercise, muscle cramping, tackling, blocking, and punting.

SHOCK TROOPS

Then there is another thing—the shock troops. There has been a bunch of boys out every afternoon that never hoped to get into the game. They were merely material for the regulars to practice on. They learned the plays of the opposition that the Bulldogs were to meet and polished the regulars defense. They tested the offense of the Bulldogs. To these lads who never played in a game except when it was won beyond shadow of doubt who never made the headlines, whose pictures never appeared in the papers, we hail as one of the most important contributions to "our championship."

Punts And Passes

Well, How Did It Happen?

On August 13, the date that the column started its career, the following paragraph appeared in Punts and Passes "What are our chances at winning the title? That depends on two things—The fans interest and the players determination. The team has the ability. But I hope the fans show how seriously interested they really are. The boys need a little push from the audience." I feel very proud of that prophecy. It is exactly what happened. When the season started, the boys had the ability—that is if they would listen to coaches instructions. They did it, and then the town lined up with the sincerest cooperation that we have ever witnessed on any project here. The championship was in the bag as soon as those two things happened.

Assistant Coaches

Much credit has been given to Coach Volney Hill and assistant Coach Polk Robison, but there are two men who have worked without any desire for recognition or personal reward. Raymond Wallace and R. D. Owens should be given much credit. I for one am in favor three rousing cheers for these two men. Only the coaches and a few insiders know how much these two men meant to the team. So while you are passing out compliments toss a few their direction.

Yardage At Scrimmage

After almost wearing out a perfectly good adding machine I have been able to find the totals in all statistics for the team and opponents for the year. In yards gained at scrimmage there are some interesting items. The most noticeable is that Tolly McKown gained more yards by himself than all the opposing teams. Burkburnett's total was 2716 yds. to the opponents 903. On both passes and scrimmage Burk gained 3112 yards. The opposition gained by air and land 1302 yds. McKown gained 1820, more than a mile, and 500 yards more than the opposition by both passes and scrimmage. Finch gained 306 yds. Teal 398 yards, Cook 63 yards, (four games) Reed 129 yards.

Points Scored

McKown also led in points scored with 171 points including touchdowns and extra points. Finch was second with 47 points. Teal third with 24 points, Reed next with 12 points, Spray last with 8 points. Spray's points were made on catching a pass across the goal line from McKown. It is interesting to note that the first score made by the team was made by Reed in the Electra game.

Passes Record

Burkburnett completed 38 passes, for 396 yards, 49 fell incomplete, and 6 were intercepted. The opponents gained 399 yards by passes, 81 fell incomplete and 18 were intercepted. Burk only gained three yards less than the opposition by passes. Most of the passes completed by opponents were in last minute desperate efforts to catch up with the leading Dogs.

Punting

Punting was thought to be a problem at the first of the year. Finch handled it very well with an average that is above a lot of college players. Had his last four games kept up the average of the first he would have had a more than 40 yards average. As it was he punted 49 times for a total of 1865 and an average of 38.49 yards. The opposition punted 88 times for an average of 33.88 yards.

First Downs

In every game the Bulldogs ran away in first downs. In many games they held the opposition not only scoreless but with out a first down for half of the game. The totals were Burkburnett 144 first downs, opponents 64 first downs. In score Burkburnett made 260 points and the opposition made 39.

Trucking On State Highway Becomes Problem In Texas

SPECIAL TO THE STAR.
AUSTIN, Tex.—A serious emergency confronts the manufacturers and merchants of Texas who use their own trucks over the highways of the State to deliver their own merchandise according to Mr. J. P. Gibbs, president of the Manufacturers and Merchants Transportation Association.

Mr. Gibbs, V. P.-G. M. of the Seguin Milling and Power Co. and one of the leading business men of South Texas, said today in commenting upon the situation. "It looks like any manufacturer and merchant in Texas who uses his own trucks to deliver his own merchandise over the highways of Texas as an incident to his business is in a serious situation." "Some of these concerns have been making a slight delivery charge, which of course resulted in a price variation between towns. The Supreme Court of Texas, in the New Lumber Co. Case, decided that such a practice was hauling for compensation or hire and necessitated the obtaining of a Contract Carrier's Permit.

"A great many firms do not make a delivery charge or have a price variation between towns, but simply add the cost of the tires, gasoline, oil, driver's wages, etc into their general selling price The Civil Court of Appeals in Galveston in the Day Lumber and Timber Company case ruled that this was also hauling for compensation or hire and that these concerns must obtain from the Railroad Commission.

"This would mean, if a concern could get a permit, that they would be subjected to all the regulations applicable to carrier's for hire and would have to charge their customers the same as the L. C. L. railroad freight rates. However, practically no one will ever get a permit because there is a further provision in the law that prohibits the Railroad Commission from issuing a Contract Carrier Permit if to do so would impair the operation of Public Carrier.

"All of this simply means that hundreds of Texas businesses, particularly in the small towns will be forced out of business because they can not pay the high L. C. L. freight rate and meet competition. For the consuming public, it undoubtedly means a material raise in the cost of necessities because the retailer will have to have his goods shipped by Public Carriers, and, of course in the end "Jones pays for the freight."

Chevrolet Thanks Public For Greatest Year In History

Chevrolet Motor Company offered its thanks to the people for having given it the greatest year in history by buying 1,130,000 Chevrolet cars.

Their display advertisement in the Star, Chevrolet expressed its appreciation for the friendship of the American people which enabled the company to break all previous marks in production and sales.

Thanksgiving offering is a unique in industrial history, but Chevrolet has done this in the past. The company has led the country in establishing all-time records in selling only an unprecedented number of new passenger cars and trucks during 1936, but also in two million used cars same time.

Advertisement, appearing in the Star, Chevrolet declared in part: "The Chevrolet are thanksgiving things, but most of the warm friendship of American people.

We can say is, 'Thanks a million more than a million' in 1936, and all we can do is to give you the still finer Chevrolet 1937 in return for the friendship ever bestowed by motor car manufacturer.

COYOTES TAKE TWO —LOSE ONE

The Devol Coyotes went to battle this time with the Randlett Bulldogs and came out partly on top and the other part on bottom (as usual.)

The first game was that of the B team which was one of the hardest games that the boys have had this season. They started out to win but as hard as they seemed to try to play they just could not get those balls to go through the hole. So at the end of the first quarter the score was 4 to 0 in favor of the Bulldogs. At the end of the half the Coyotes had managed to make one goal which made the score 4-2 still in favor of the Bulldogs. The Coyotes were climbing and they didn't stop because at the third quarter the score was 10-4 in favor of the Coyotes. This was better than things looked at the end of the half so it gave the boys a heart to keep fighting. This they did because at the end of the game the score was 18-8 in favor of the Coyotes. Their percentage for the year is still 1000.

Next was the game of the fair-haired lassies of Devol and Randlett. The girls fought hard—I mean fought, too (the referees were rather liberal with fouls) but the Devol lassies managed to get a few points in the lead and to stay there through the largest part of the game, and when the final whistle blew the score was 25 to 18 in favor of the fair damselfs of Devol.

Now came the game of games. The A boys, even though they haven't won a game, have given the other teams some hard competition. The Devol lads were in the lead most of the game. At the last quarter the score became tied and then a little pee wee of the Randlett A team did it. He made one, two or three goals in a row and put the Bulldogs in the lead where they stayed until the end of the game with the score of 12 to 9. You can see by the score it was a tough game.

The Coyotes have all fought a hard bunch of battles so far in the season and are still fighting. Although the A team seems to have some sort of jinx on them, they fight like Coyotes and never give up.

  - Devol 18, Randlett 8, B. boys.
  - Devol 25, Randlett 18, A girls.

SPANISH

Have you ever taken Spanish? Its as hard as hard can be, And in my sleep most every night Indictives fight with me. In the first bout I did fairly well The second was much worse. I'll tell you, its a wonder I lived to write this verse. The first indictive wore a look (The first one did too) Of infinite hatred and desire To chop me right in two. The bout was finally ended and I dropped with a sigh of relief Up walked two conjugations And hauled me to my feet. And when you get your breath, "We'll fight with you," they said. I stood, a dull glint in my eye, Blood racing through my head. I swayed, I must have fainted For when I woke again I sat upright in my bed. It was Saturday, half past ten.

FIRST THANKSGIVING

I wonder if everyone knows the significance of the first Thanksgiving. It was the beginning of a custom that has existed for hundreds of years. A time when there is feasting and rejoicing for the things that God has provided for us. A time when man has a chance to realize how fortunate he is to be on earth. Thanksgiving is a custom of long standing and will (Continued on next page)

The Recipe Of How to Woo and Win

Take one cup of love and add to it five tablespoons of personality and a fourth cup of good manners, cream one soft persuasive voice with one cup of good looks and combine with first ingredients. Season with wealth and sprinkle very lightly with intelligence. To this mixture add a dashing rescue, several daring threats, and a pinch of violence. Add a few tears to soften. Be sure it is entirely congealed before the horn blows at your gate.

THE LITTLE TICK-TOCK

By Georgie Charboneau
Some things that seem strange to me are the hours of day; Each day they are the same, but they never seem that way. Sometimes they seem awfully long and at other times very short. But one can easily account for that especially if they're smart. Each hour has sixty minutes, in every single day. But when you try to count them, They never seem that way. Each minute has sixty seconds, which come and go so fast, Sixty little tick-tocks and a minute's up at last. If you listen to these seconds with their tiny little mourn, You would now they have been working from the time that they were born.

blocked Finch's put. Stevens then plunged four yards, and then caught the Burk defense napping as he tossed a pass to Mikeska 12 yards over the goal line. Stevens then plunged thru the center of the line for the extra point to tie the score.

Score Spurs Bulldogs

The touchdown spurred the Bulldogs to a fighting mood. At the start of the fourth quarter the game changed completely. The Seymour team wilted before the savage blocking as the team marched 64 yards for a touchdown. The march of a 28 yard and 13 yard run by McKown. McKown finally scored on a 13-yard run around left end.

After an exchange of punts Burk again started a 69-yard march for a counter. The most brilliant play of the game was included in the march as McKown ran 55 yards to Seymour's nine-yard line, and then carried the ball over on the next play with a nine yard run on a reverse. McKown passed to Finch for the extra point.

Tom Spray, Burk right end, was directly responsible for the final touchdown. Spray recovered Barber's fumbled lateral on the Seymour 23 yard line. Finch, Teal and McKown carried the ball for the necessary distance, with McKown circling right end 18 yards for the goal. McKown then kicked the extra point.

The sudden arrival of the Bulldogs were characterized by a brilliant calling of the game by Quarterback Finch. The signal caller literally shoved the team along with his leadership.

McKown accounted for three of the five touchdowns. Teal and Finch ran the other two over. McKown ran one extra point, kicked one, and threw a pass to Finch for the other one. The other two attempts were no good. The Bulldogs gained 287 yards at scrimmage while the Panthers gained only 69 yards. The Bulldogs made 17 first downs to the Panthers 5.

The Bulldogs will have to play Stamford for the bi-district. The exact date of this game has not been set. The Stamford team plays Haskell Thanksgiving day at Stamford.

Fairy Tale

Once upon a time in the kingdom of BHS, shortly after the birth of the New Rules, the noble Sir Sub, of the Bulldog Brigade, asked the Princess of Rhythm for a date for the party after the Brigade had finished a Joust with the Panthers Battalion. The Princess of Rhythm accepted the offer gladly because she liked the Knight's pretty waving hair and anyway she thought he would be a lot of fun.

That night after the joust was finished and the Bulldog Brigade had walked off with a decisive victory, the Princess of Rhythm sat awaiting the arrival of Sir Sub. However, the Duke of Nonsense, also a member of the Bulldog Brigade, reached the Princess long before Sir Sub, and being so elated over the Bulldog's victory he kissed her again and again. Just as all this was happening, Sir Sub appeared on the scene. What he saw made him very angry, because (a) he did not think the Princess of Rhythm should allow herself to be kissed by anyone but him, when he had the date with her, and (b) he didn't like the Duke of Nonsense anyway.

He turned his back upon the Princess and began to think bad things to himself. Then he decided he didn't want to let the horrid Duke of Nonsense ruin his evening. He looked up and there stood a simple, but beautiful milkmaid. "Ah, Ah" he said to himself. Here's where I show the Princess I'm not to be treated like this.

So he went forthwith and asked the pretty milkmaid to go with him to the party. When they were there, and the high-born Princess saw that a common milkmaid had taken her place beside Sir Sub she was deeply angered and humiliated, and to make it worse, she now had to spend the rest of the evening with the Duke of Nonsense. As the evening progressed, the Princess looked daggers at the milkmaid, and when the dancing began she was madder than ever, because she knew that Sir Sub was a marvelous dancer. But neither he nor the milkmaid minded for they seemed to enjoy each other more each minute.

Then, as the Princess was wishing the Duke of Nonsense had been very far away at the first of the night, Sir Sub asked the milkmaid if she wouldn't like to go to the midnight show with him tomorrow night.

When the Princess heard of this she became envious and anyway she was already hunting for a way to win the handsome Sir Sub back, so she decided to take a hint from the little milkmaid and be humble for awhile. To prove how democratic she was, the following Monday, she dressed in her furs and publicly went marketing with twenty cooks. But by this time the poor milkmaid was rating so high with the good-looking knight that he neither knew or cared what the wealthy Princess did.

To Remember Thanksgiving

A great big turkey—my, oh, my! A sweet aromaed pumpkin pie, Cranberry sauce shining in the sun, And loads of dressin, almost done.

A table set for just a few, The family, gramma, and an uncle, too.

Just six here, but food for dozens Am I glad there won't be cousins!

I've fasted now for several days And tried all other kinds of ways To make myself enjoy this meal Without that bulgy, stuffy feel.

I really hope that I can say At twilight on this holiday That I have kept the faith thru Even to, maybe, growing stout.

Mother thinks I'm going to stuff, But what I eat won't be enough To make me recall through the year.

That Thanksgiving day once was here.

Mud In Your Eye (as sung by Paderewski)

At the football game four little girls went sneaking off from the crowd with a few Wichita boys in a convertible Ford V-8. I wonder if they were going after the car or the boys. What about it Margetta? Louvain said she liked the car because she could get plenty of fresh air. P. S. That's how she caught cold. (The green-eyed monster, Paderewski?)

Big plans are being made for Thanksgiving. Three girls plan to go on a midnight horseback ride at Chilli with three Chilli boys to view the stars and moon. We hope they have a good time.

Is DRB losing out with Kent R.? She was pretty worried about whom he was with and where they went the other night. Maybe LaNelle could have thrown some light on the subject.

Reed and Bates seem to be the objects of LaNelle's affections this week. Who's next on her Romeo list. Bob went to a dance with her Sunday, but stayed in a dark corner with Jodie most of the time. (Watch out Cline) However Mary Jo might do a little watching out of her own, due to the torrid looks that he and Polly persist in exchanging during geometry class.

Barbara Crissey was with Carl "Hog-Raising" Cook Friday. Carl is trying to get her to teach his pigs how to sing.

The little Wiggins girl is developing a very bad habit, namely, holding hands in the study hall and in the halls too.

The little milkmaid of BHS is developing that divine personality. She turned some of it loose Friday night and lo, a guy from Wichita wanted to meet her terribly.

Junior Jottings

Much to the sorrow of all concerned, few of the Juniors have very exciting plans for Thanksgiving. LaNelle, Pauline, and Virginia are talking in glad tones about spending the holidays in East Texas. Marilyn is to have a visitor from that part of the country, Vivienne Johnson, an ex member of our class. Billy Johnson says he is going to eat his turkey in Wichita, Kansas, his former home. Other than those, most of the Juniors will sadly stuff in turkey, pumpkin pie, cranberry sauce, and dressing at home.

The football game was lots of fun and we Juniors look forward to December 4 with just a little more than average excitement. We can hardly be blamed for that for it is not every class in the district that can claim a Tolly McKown, a Carl Cook, a John Blair, Tom Spray, Tom Kelly and a Webb Martin. So if the members of the class go around with bulging chests, just remember these boys are listed among the Juniors.

Freshmen Ramblings

Wednesday afternoon Mr. Farr took his home room class on a picnic. The class went to the Prescott farm where marshmallows, sandwiches and potato chips were served. The class played games and had fun until 7, when they returned to town. Mr. Farr took them to the Rexall Drug Store where they were served refreshments. Everyone had a good time and enjoyed the refreshments.

During the past two weeks, General Science classes under the supervision of Mr. Farr have been studying photography. Mr. Farr had the classes bring cameras and then he took the class to different places and let them take the pictures. He then bought all of the apparatus necessary for developing and printing pictures and let the children in the classes develop and print their own pictures. This taught the classes about photography and many good pictures have been taken and developed. Plans are now under way for a photography club in which all the classes will participate. Mr. Farr has been doing good work, and we want you as well as his classes to know this.

Mr. Farr: Howard, how old am I if super-heated steam equals the distance from Paris to Bombay?

Howard: 44 sir.

Mr. Farr: Correct, and how did you prove that?

Howard: Well, I have a brother who is 22 and he's only half nuts.

Dr. Sims: James, what you need for health is an electrical bath.

James T: No electrical baths for me, sir, because I had an uncle who was drowned by one at Sing Sing.

We wonder who it was that M. B. had with her Friday night. It wasn't R. L. G. Could there have been a—? We wonder.

Second Cards Will Appear December 2

"Life holds nothing sure but death and taxes" might be amended by the average student to include "and report cards;" for those distributing bits of pastebord have the habit of appearing with the regularity of old Faithful.

Report cards for the second period of the school year will be distributed to all classes on December 2.

Fairview P. T. A. Meeting

Monday evening, November 16, at 7:30, the Fairview PTA had its regular monthly meeting.

The next meeting of the PTA will be December 21. At this time the first grade will present a Christmas playlet. This playlet is to be sponsored by Miss Dixie Overton.

Barbara: Stirring soup in Home Eco. This soup certainly is getting thin.

Polly: Maybe it is reducing.

Polly: With milk jug on head this is Rachel at the well.

Barbara: Oh, yeah?

Polly: Well—what has Rachel got that I haven't?

Barbara: A flat head.

Requests

The librarian wishes to remind the student body that the library is open from 8:20 to 8:45 each day so that overnight books and seven day books may be returned to the library before school. By bringing library books in before school, students will eliminate that much extra weight, and will not need library permits.

Booknook ANNOUNCEMENTS

The library is very happy to announce the arrival of twenty-six new books which were ordered for the English and History departments. The list of newcomers include: The Halfback, by Ralph Henry Barbour; The Crisis The Crossing, and Richard Caruel, all by Winston Churchill; The Adventures of Tom Sawyer, by Mark Twain, (author of The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn); The Pathfinder, and The Pioneers by James Fenimore Cooper, who wrote the last of the Mohicans.

Others on the list are: The Broad Highway, by Jeffery Farnol; Smoky, by Will James; White Fang, by Jack London; Gone with the Wind, by Margaret Mitchell; Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, by Alice Regan Rice; Scararouche, by Rafael Sabatini; and The Girl of the Limberlost, by Gene Stratton-Porter. Also in the group of new arrivals are: Ben Hur, by Wallace; The Blazed Trail, by Stewart Edward White, Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, by Kate Douglas Wiggin; The Bridge of San Luis Rey, by Thornton Wilder, and Beau Geste, by Percival Christopher Wren. A book of particular interest to the History department is Lloyd Lewis' biography of General Sherman of Civil War fame. It is called Sherman, Fighting Prophet. General Sherman was a commander in the Union Army during the war between the States and is well remembered for his classic declaration, "War is Hell." In addition to the above volumes, the library has received five new and very attractive camioed editions of Shakespeare's Hamlet.

All of these books will be placed on the shelves ready for circulation by next week. Still more books have been ordered for the library and will arrive later.

J. T. Bowman

J. T. was born January 7, 1919, at Snyder, Okla., and he is very good at picking-or-something; we're sure he is good at something.

He is rather a quiet boy, bashful, and very little which I'm sure you've all noticed, and he is extremely fond of chewing on matches in commercial law class.

J. T. is a very good player of the mandolin, having played it from his very young days, and if you urge him very hard, he will sometimes play you a tune or two.

Of course J. T. is proud of the fact that he is a senior, we would tar and feather him if he were not, and he thinks that the Senior class is the best Burk-Hi has ever contained.

Winners

District Champions! To us who have waited for so many years to be able to exclaim those two simple words, to be able to repeat them over and over in our mind, Friday night's scramble was the climax of the most successful football season in the history of our school.

It is not for the fact that these boys were able to go on the field and defeat Seymour, for that had already been done this season, but because of the consistent, methodical and cool headed manner in which they have conducted themselves on the field throughout the season that we take off our hats to the boys and repeat as one—District Champions.

Very little was said in the Bulldog dressing room before the game nor between halves; it was not necessary. For two years these boys have worked with the determination that their efforts would be rewarded with no less than a district championship. As each game was faced, they were ready for a full hour of the application of the principles so thoroughly drilled in them that there has been little doubt as to their championship caliber since early season.

To the boys and coach Hill let us show our appreciation, for success has not been attained without effort. Long hours of drill in season and out of season, patient instructions and attention to detail has been necessary for the attaining of the highest honors of district 10-B. Bulldogs, we salute you—Bi-District Champions!!

Opal Faulks

Opal was born May 30, 1919, at Burk Burnett, and is the quietest girl in the Senior class. We think that she has said fully ten words this year. She is always getting on everybody's nerves because she is so quiet.

She is very sweet, even if her quietness is ominous, and according to certain future readers in this high school Opal will make a very good house wife. Will keep a home husband well contented and quiet.

Opal is a very good student, and she always has her lessons. She is quiet conscientious, and we're sure everybody likes her very much.

Pep Squad News

The pep squad girls put on their drill last Friday night following the Seymour pep squad. The field in a B then going through several exercises ended with a cart wheel.

The pep squad will work this week for the game at Stamford and will be there in full force.

December 4 Date Chosen For Game

It seems that Stamford would not have anything but to play on their home stadium next Friday week, December 4. When the Burk Bulldogs and the Stamford Bulldogs will clash.

Mr. Duncan and Coach Hill offered Stamford $400 to play the bi-district game at the Wichita Falls stadium, but Stamford said "no go". So in the end a coin was tossed and it seems Stamford had the luck as they won out in the toss of the coin.

But we are wondering if their luck will hold when the Burk Burnett Bulldogs march on their field December 4.

Stamford has not lost a game in district 9-B this season, neither has Burk Burnett in district 10-B. So the odds are about even.

It looks as if the Stamford Bulldogs are a little afraid of the Burk Burnett Bulldogs as they wanted to play in their own back yard, thinking they could play better and have a better chance to win. We all know our boys can play just as good a game at Stamford as at home and will return champions.

Everyone is anxious for the game to be played. Mr. Duncan attended the football meeting Tuesday morning and reminded the boys that they had to win the bi-district game. I feel sure every one will agree with him.

What the outcome will be no one knows, but here's hoping that it will turn to the Burk Burnett Bulldogs.

Presenting Van Buren Cross

The shy little lad was born August 15, 1920 at Burk Burnett. Van is better known as the best crooner in our high school. After listening to him sing, you wouldn't agree with us that Mr. Bing Crosby can't sing.

He would be a good chapel program announcer if you could understand what he says, and if you could live through his eternal hand movement.

When he finishes high school he plans to go into solitary finement and write poetry songs until the right maid comes along. We don't know how going to find out who is the one.

Emma Ruth Gill

Emma Ruth was born in Grandfield, Okla. She has been going to the Burk Burnett school very long, but she has many friends. She is one of the Cashion girls, but really we hold that against her very much.

Emma Ruth would be a good singer if she could tune a little, but the truth she just can't seem to learn makes up for her inability by her drawing. She really is an artist.

When she finishes school intends to either be a singer or artist or doctor. We think would be best as a doctor.

Change Of Class

The Math 2-A class, formerly taught by Miss Billingsley, has been transferred to Mr. Meringer. Miss Billingsley has Mr. Duncan's Math 3-B.

Miss Parnell of the grade six has taken the Math 1-A class sixth period. Welcome to building, Miss Parnell.

Future Farmers Of America

The future farmers of America are always with us. We hear much about them, but we are always on the job. Even of the boys got his picture in paper (with his pigs) During football season we haven't much thought to anything football, now we realize, we can get an easy breath, our school has other organizations. These boys are working hard to gather knowledge for future use, speaking of gathering reminds me that they gather something always with knowledge last week. They sold worth of tickets for the Football game Friday night. That is my statement that they are ways on the job.

Not only have the boys been the job, but Mr. Dean too. November 10 he appeared on "Blue Bonnet Club" which is at the home of Mrs. D. A. V. brook. He gave an interesting talk on plant culture. After he was asked questions at shrubs and trees that could be planted in Burk Burnett.

Ramblings

Well, I noticed quite a few of our ex-students and ex-Bulldogs of dear old B. H. S. at our Friday night. I guess they were a new thrill in football, and I sure got it if you should ask me. Among those I noticed from Hardin Junior College at Wichita Falls, and so does another lass saw, Willie Etta Alexander.

Dorothy and Luther Guy Hard also came back to Burk Burnett with Ordette Cope.

Our good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Culpepper from Elect were also here to see the game. By the way, some more of our old teachers were here. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Forman, and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Reeves, Jr.

Do You Know

Pauline B. can do an Indian War Dance? She did it in P. E. B. A., a senior, thinks M. (a junior) is pretty—because the dimples in her chin and her brown eyes!

The Vocational Agriculture boys sold $100 worth of tickets for the Seymour game. Pretty good, I'll say!!

The B. H. S. Chilluns got a holiday because the Bulldogs won the district championship for the first time in the history of the institution.

A certain Sophomore (J. W. T.) likes all the gals but thinks P. is tops.

trophy case? No! But— Imagine the chargin of the Bears when they saw that in print, since it left the impression on all of the readers that they were running about their den skinless. But did they raise up in arms and declare Claraites poor sports? No. They were merely amused at the highly imaginative pointers of their neighbors. Come up and write us a fairy story sometime.

And about being country boys—why squirm when someone calls you what you are? Of what state is Clara the capital? We were under the impression that Clara was about four miles from Fairview—and we are definitely sure that Fairview is four miles out of Burkburnett—so without a doubt we all live in the country and as far as the Bears are concerned they are mighty proud of their country-bred style.

Yes, and did the Fairview pep squad tear their shirts when Clara carried an article boasting of their wonderfulness and said the "un-uniformed pep-squad" of Fairview sat with mouths wide open as the skilled Peppers from Clara went through their difficult and fascinating maneuvers? Not that we heard anything about. We are always glad to see any school with a well-organized pep-squad because that shows that the school has a loyal spirit.

Ex-Students Home Business Meeting

The executive committee of the Fairview alumni association met with the president of the organization, Miss Ruby Owen, Sunday afternoon to make plans for their next meeting.

It was decided to have a homecoming ball game on the night of December 22, then immediately following the game, to have a banquet in the Home Economics cottage. More definite information will be available soon, but as graduates are urged to start talking about the alumni ball game and banquet now. Are you a loyal ex-student of Fairview? If so, get busy and do your part.

Fish News

The Freshman class is having a Thanksgiving party at Avis Todd's home. We are planning on having a delightful time. The whole freshman class will be there.

Pep Squad News

The Fairview pep squad is now fully organized and completely uniformed, and plans are being made for some hard work on the drills and yells for the coming series of games with Clara. The pep squad has all of 20 minutes a week to learn drills, practice yells, etc., and it would be greatly appreciated if those of you who are ready to criticize every error made by the squad, if you would offer suggestions as to how you would build up an organization without any plans whatever in that length of time.

Sport News

November 19, the Fairview boys and girls traveled to Valley View to meet their bitter enemy. The girls played first. Due to unfortunate circumstances the Fairview girls lost two hard fought games. The scores were 15-11, 15-12. The Fairview girls meet the Valley View girls in their first game of the Round Robin series.

After the girls' desperately fought game, the boys encountered for their best game of the season. The two teams developed a rivalry between them in 1933, and it still continues. At the end of the first half, the score was 7 to 4 in the Bears' favor. Fans of both schools were "sitting on needles and pins." Most of the scores had been made from free shots. During the entire game Valley View made only one field goal and Fairview made 4 field goals. One of Fairview boys fouled out, but when the final whistle was blown ending the game, Fairview was 12 and Valley View was 7. It is believed that score was the lowest of any game to be played on Valley View's court.

Fairview and Clara boys are now tied for first place in the Red River conference. A series of three games will be played after the Thanksgiving holidays. One at Fairview and one at Clara, if necessary, the third game will be played on a neutral court.

The volley ball girls journeyed to Mankins for a tournament Saturday morning. Their first game with the Burkburnett. They lost their first game intentionally, and that evening they met the Throckmorton team. It was Fairviews' fate, and they lost the other.

The volley ball season is young yet, and the Bearettes are improving rapidly. So watch for those Fairview girls in the district meet.

view since they were to be rewarded by thick malts, banana splits, etc., and since that was such a rare treat for "country boys" that the Fairview community was really delighted that the Clara boys were going to be thus treated. Well, well—surely when someone delights in one's good luck that shouldn't be mistaken for poor sportsmanship.

voice was heard by the China boy begging for mercy. "Why, Gus," he urged, "Jane's a nice girl. Don't take it so hard. I've worked for you a good many years, off an' on. You always found me honest, didn't you?"

Van Tammel uttered no word. He had pursued Bull to the farthest corner of an empty stall and, filled with silent, murderous rage, caught up a broken wagon stake and swung it over his head. "Don't hit me with that, Gus," cried the frightened man. A low, fearful imprecation from Van Tammel answered him.

"Now I'll give you what's comin' to you!" "Why, Gus, you ain't a-goin' to kill me!" Grunting and mad for blood, Van Tammel struck at the cowboy and rained blow after blow on him till he sank to the floor. Then, suddenly, he dropped the stake and, bespattered with blood, staggered out of the barn and over to the house. Quong, watching stealthily, fled for town.

In the cubbyhole office of McAlpin's livery barn in Sleepy Cat, Sawdy, Bob Scott, and McAlpin sat on three stools, silent and absorbed in a three-cornered bout at poker. The frightened Quong, trotting and walking from Gunlock and crossing the bridge, reached McAlpin's in pitiable condition. Throwing his hands against the glass-panel office door, he burst in and fell.

The gamblers jumped to their feet. McAlpin broke into angry exclamation: "What the devil! Can't we have a friendly game in my own quarters without a drunken bum chargin' in?" Sawdy, less intent on saving his money and chips, had turned Quong partly over. "It's a chink, boys. There must be a long war on."

Bob Scott, coolest of the trio, bent to scan the intruder's features. "Who is it, Bob?" exclaimed McAlpin. "It's Quong, the cook out at Gunlock, boys." Laid out on the hostler's little bunk, Quong's eyes opened and closed.

"What is it, Quong? What's wrong?" asked Scott. With his eyes popping from his head, Quong managed to form a word: "Bull!" he exclaimed, hoarse and panting. "Bull Page?" "He says Bull Page," explained Scott. "What's a matter with Bull, Quong?"

Quong's eyes rolled in terror. "Gus." "Yes, Gus—what about Gus?" "He kill him." "What do you mean? Bull killed Gus? No?" "Gus kill Bull." "Well, I'll be damned," exclaimed Sawdy. "It looks like a straight story, boys. That why you run in town, Quong?" "The China boy noddod." The trio consulted together. A team was hitched to a three-seated democrat wagon, Quong was helped into it, and with McAlpin driving, the four set out for the jail to pick up Bill Pardaloe. Pardaloe was in bed. They roused him out and drove over to the hotel to pick up Doctor Carpy.

was closed. Setting the lamp on the table in the middle of the room, Pardaloe knocked on Van Tammel's door, and, getting no reply, tried it. The door was locked.

Pardaloe called out, "If you're in there, Gus, unlock your door. I'm here to talk with you." Pardaloe awaited in silence a response from within.

Pardaloe threw himself into the door. It gave so easily that he stumbled across the threshold.

The bedroom was dark. Scott relighted the lamp. Pardaloe held it above his head and, followed by Scott, walked into the bedroom.

They saw the huge figure of a man lying across the bed. Pardaloe, passing the lamp to his companion, put his hand on the man's shoulder, saw that he was unconscious, and peering closer, turned the face toward him. It was Van Tammel.

"Call Carpy, quick, Bob," muttered Pardaloe. "He's unconscious." When Carpy stalked into the room, Sawdy with him, the doctor, aided by his companion, turned the body partly over and examined it.

"How is he, Doc?" whispered Pardaloe. "Dead." Already seized by the excruciating pain that cost him his life, Van Tammel had left his victim and staggered in his distress to the house.

"It was a quick call, boys," said Carpy to those around him. Transfixed by agony, the cruel features could not be softened.

"Nothing more to be done here," said Carpy in the living room. "Take Bull over to the bunkhouse now and lay him on his bed." The clatter of hoofs was heard in the yard. "It's the boys back from town," said Sawdy, looking through the window. Carpy turned to Pardaloe. "Go out and tell them what's happened, and not to touch a thing until after the coroner comes out."

Doctor Carpy came into 'breakfast late next morning. Jane, who had finished her breakfast, rallied him, as she rose.

"I am late," he admitted. He nodded. Standing beside the table, she was looking over the newspaper. He put his arm around her. "Sit down a minute, Jane. I've something to say to you. News for you."

She blanched a bit. "About Bill, Doctor?" she asked anxiously. "Not a thing in the world about Bill. It's—about your father."

"Oh, I know he's terribly angry!" Carpy shook his head. "Not now, Jane. He's not angry with anybody now."

"Doctor! What do you mean? Have you seen him?" He nodded. "Yes, last night. You know how sick a man he's been—"

"Doctor!" she exclaimed faintly. "He's dead!" "He died last night."

She hid her face in his arm and broke into tears. "Jane, your father has lived his life—there was nothing for him to look ahead to."

"This means a great change in your life, girl. I guess I'll show you up to the hospital. Bill must know this. Now I've got good news for you and no fooling. You have to examine them—and his eyes are much better. If we can only hold it now!"

CHAPTER XIII BULL PAGE was only a broken cowboy, but Bull was loved at Sleepy Cat.

Yet even resentment at the name of Van Tammel in Sleepy Cat was softened somewhat when men heard of Jane's unremitting attention at Bull's side in the hospital.

To Jane's infinite relief, Bull recovered and went back to Gunlock. At the ranch there was an air of cheer when Jane was installed; everybody on tiptoe to render service. McCrossen was especially eager to please.

"Well, Jane, I guess you know whatever I can do to take care of things is goin' to be done, twenty-four hours a day if need be," he said. "All you have to do is to leave it to me."

"I shall depend on you for everything," she returned. "Everything, Jane?" he echoed. Jane was not caught. "Everything connected with running the ranch," she said evenly.

But it became increasingly evident as the days went by that the energetic foreman still regarded himself as a suitor.

One morning they were riding together in the hills when McCrossen opened up the subject most on his mind. They had halted in their saddles to discuss some plans for a strip of land below them when McCrossen in his confident manner changed the subject.

"It's a whale of a ranch, Jane, it certainly is, an' with a thousand things to look after. You're left here alone now, girl. Why not take on a mate to help you run it? You an' I have had some little differences, I know, but nothin' to amount to anything. Why couldn't you an' I settle down here to run things together? If you'd say the word, Jane—"

Jane raised her hand. "Oh, I know, Dave, but I've got too much to worry about to think about getting married."

"But I know the big ranch so well. I know how your father ran it. Don't you like me, Jane?" "Why, Dave, I have only kind feelings for you—but I can't talk personal matters now."

"Look here, Jane," he said aggressively. "Is there another man you've got in your mind?" She met the onslaught quietly. "I told you I wouldn't talk personal matters now, and I won't—so let's go on."

For a fortnight nothing further occurred to break the routine of ranch work, and McCrossen said no more. The general impression in town was that Denison, as far as Jane was concerned, was out of the running.

No excitement occurred in Sleepy Cat until one day John Lefever was reported arrived at Thief River with a herd of cattle for the reservation. Sawdy, who had gone to work at Gunlock when Lefever left for Texas, rode down to Thief River to help Lefever check the herd in at Gunlock Agency and to give him the big Sleepy Cat news.

But Lefever, too, brought news. The two cronies sat down to compare notes. "I want to tell you somethin' I ran into nearin' Thief River," said Lefever. "There's a little slaughterin' ranch a mile south of town run by our old friend, Clubfoot, the butcher—remember how he skinned us on the horse race? While our herd was headin' for the river, I stopped for a few minutes where a couple of his boys were loadin' a wagon with hides for shipping. I happened to know one of the boys. He wrangled for us, comin' up once. And I noticed all the hides I saw him tyin' up had a Gunlock brand."

"How's this? I says. 'Does Van Tammel peddle his steers down this way?' He winked at me an' laughed. 'This bunch,' says he, 'was poker steers.'"

"It looks like McCrossen is runnin' off Gunlock cattle to pay his poker debts," said Sawdy. When Lefever had made his delivery, he marched with Sawdy up to the hospital to call on their disabled side partner, Denison.

Bill had been promoted from a dark room to a shaded one. "If I knew I was going to lose my eyes, boys," said he, "that would be one thing. I could end it all or settle down to making baskets for a living. But Doc keeps telling me he's going to save my eyes; and that keeps me hopin'—so the days and weeks hang on. All the same, it's tough, when you never were laid up before in your life. What's the news with you fellows?"

The visitors talked about the discovery Lefever had made of the hides at Thief River. The visitors talked about the discovery Lefever had made of the hides at Thief River.

The half-blind ranchman listened intently, not with any noticeable excitement. But Sawdy imagined he could see Denison lighting up.

"Seem you're not fixed up just right yet, is there anything you'd like us to do about it?" Sawdy asked.

"Why, yes, there is—just do one thing."

"What's that?" "Keep your mouths shut till I get out of here. I guess you both know I've got a long score to settle with that bird. He was mixed up in burning up my ranch house and burning me up. I'll attend to McCrossen myself some day," he repeated slowly, "in my own way."

The two men left the hospital somewhat uneasy. They laid their story before Carpy.

The doctor heard it unmoved. "Well," he commented, "that's not the first bunch of steers McCrossen has stolen—and it won't be the last."

"Not the first," interjected Lefever. "But it's the closest anybody ever came to nailin' it on him."

"Anyway, I don't think he should be left there to rob the girl right along," added Carpy. "Are you goin' to tell her?" asked Lefever.

"I am; today. She's coming to town and will be in to see me."

They told him of their talk with Denison. "It left us leery, Doc," said Sawdy. "If Bill gets worked up too strong over McCrossen, he's liable to bust out on McCrossen before his eyes are in shape to give him an even break."

Doctor Carpy waved his hand. "Keep your worry for something else, Sawdy. His eyes got scorched; but when I let go of the boy, keep away from the small end of his gun."

"Jane, you'll think I don't bring you anything but troublesome news," the doctor began. "But this isn't really news. I've known for months—two or three years, in fact—that McCrossen was stealing Gunlock steers. But this is what John Lefever brought up from Thief River today. . . ."

"Now, there's nothing to get excited about," observed Carpy, after he had finished the story, "for it's nothing new. But if I were you I would get rid of McCrossen."

The expression on Jane's face reflected her perplexity. "That's easy to say, doctor, but it's going to be awfully hard to do. I want to be rid of McCrossen, heaven knows — for more reasons than one."

She was glad, when she got home that night, that her foreman was away; it gave her a night to think it over. In the morning he was away early with a report from the pastures and much pep in his manner.

Calmly she told him she would have to dispense with his services. With a face as black as Gunlock Knob, McCrossen rose slowly from the chair in which he had been facing Jane.

"So you're firin' me?" Looking at her coldly and searchingly, he spoke tensely and harshly. "I've got to cut down expenses, Dave," she said. "I—"

Before she could speak, he ran on. "Folks don't naturally fire an old hand like me, your father's friend, without giving a reason, do they? What are you turnin' me out for?"

"Dave," she said suddenly, "you've always been paid well—where does all your money go? Why do you have to run steers off the ranch at night?"

"So," he exclaimed savagely, "a few head of steers that belonged to me by rights anyway are stickin' in your crop, eh? Do you know your own dad was the biggest cattle thief in this whole country?"

Jane stamped her foot. "It's not so!" "Did you know he made a thief out of me? The first calves I ever stole in my life, I stole for Gus Van Tammel. Doesn't look very nice for you to talk to me about stealin' cattle," he exclaimed scornfully, "the daughter of a man that stole all he's got."

"Dave," she protested, angrily, "stop that talk. If my father owed you anything, I'll pay it."

He laughed. "All right, kiss an' make up," he stepped toward her. She sprang to her feet. "Dave, I—"

"Why, girl, don't you know I love you?" He spoke with a queer laugh and, darting forward, caught her. While she struggled, he rained kisses on her face and neck and arms.

Jane, frantic, fought to repel him. "Dave McCrossen, if you don't let me go, I'll scream across to the bunkhouse," she cried. He jeered at her. "Go ahead, there's nobody there. I'll let you go after you kiss me and not before."

"I'll Let You Go After You Kiss Me and Not Before."

to eat, rode into town to seek Carpy for help. He discounted her alarm. "No danger at all, Jane, of McCrossen's shooting Quong now."

"Henry Sawdy will be in here for dinner. He's the man for your foreman. Talk to him after dinner."

"I'm afraid McCrossen will quarrel with whomever I put in and kill him."

"Kill Sawdy?" mused Carpy approvingly. "Sawdy's not so fast a man as McCrossen. He's not had to shoot his way out of as many scrapes as McCrossen has; but Henry's nobody's meat to serve raw—you needn't worry about him."

"If Bill were only well," explained Jane wistfully. "I'm glad Bill isn't," returned Carpy quickly. "I wouldn't want to see him out and in trim while McCrossen is raging around. Then you might have something to worry about. To tell you the truth, girl, I'm holding Bill Denison back right now. He's coming on fine, but let's let well enough alone."

"After you talk to Sawdy, you'll see Bill. For heaven's sake, don't say one word about your round-up with McCrossen. Bill would jump the hospital fence."

When she saw Denison at the hospital, it was hard for Jane to repress the excitement that the mornings struggle had left upon her.

Even without Carpy's warning, she well knew that if Denison learned what had happened he would tear loose from all restraint.

"What's the news today, dearie?" he asked. "Why, nothing special, Bill." "You don't act that way."

Jane laughed, evaded, and said the real news was that soon the bandages were to come off his eyes.

Sawdy accepted the ranch arrangement without a qualm, though Sleepy Cat knew even before he rode out to assume his post that McCrossen was vowing vengeance.

The day after Sawdy took charge, he was in town to do some ordering. In Rubido's store he ran into McCrossen. Sawdy shook hands with him, and McCrossen told him he would be out next day to pack up his things.

"I'll be glad to see you an' help any way I can. Ought not to be no hard feelin's, Dave. What do you say to a drink?"

The two, talking things over, sauntered down the street. "No," said McCrossen, as he and Sawdy poured their glasses, "I don't carry no hard feelin's against you, Henry—not a bit. Jane treated me pretty rough, I must say that. But she ain't to blame, neither. She's been against me. It's Bill Denison that's behind all this. He's fair enough to my face, but he's double-faced."

"Dave," said Sawdy impatiently, "don't talk like a blamed fool." McCrossen bridled. "What do you mean, Sawdy?"

"Why, everybody knows Denison ain't two-faced. A man may like Bill or not like him. He's got his enemies, I'll admit."

"You're damned right he has." "But so's every man. Well, here's luck, Dave." "Luck to you, Henry — not to that—"

"Everybody knows that," Boland nodded. "What would you do, Harry," demanded McCrossen. "If you was treated that way."

"Well, you can't do nothin' now while Denison's in the hospital, can you? Wait till he gets out. Then tell him what you think of him."

The following day it was known up and down River street that McCrossen was spoiling for a fight. McAlpin took alarm at the rumors that spread so rapidly. He ambled to the street to lay the reports before Carpy. "McAlpin," said the doctor, "don't worry. There can't be any fight as long as one man's laid up in the hospital. I'm going to keep him there till McCrossen cools off."

"Why, for that boy to face McCrossen, half blind like he is now—it'd be plain murder," McAlpin burst out indignantly. "Bill Denison ought to be kept under cover for six months, Doc, till he can see straight."

Carpy refused to get excited. "See?" he echoed scornfully. "McAlpin, that boy could see right now to thread a needle in the dark. He doesn't know that. You keep your mouth shut, understand!"

As the doctor spoke, Jake Spotts stuck his head in at the office door. "Hello, Doc," he called out without any preliminary greeting. "I got a message for you from Sister Angela."

"Sister Angela!" exclaimed Carpy in surprise. "When did you see Sister Angela?"

"'Bout five minutes ago—been up to the hospital shavin' a man. Bill Denison's gone."

Carpy jumped to his feet. "What d'you mean, Jake?"

"Just what I say. That's English, ain't it? Bill Denison's gone."

"Where's he gone?" "How the hell should I know?" demanded the irascible barber.

"What—?" Spotts waved his hand. "That's all I know, and I've got to get back to the shop."

McAlpin sat with ears cocked, but had no time to speak. "Run for your life, McAlpin, and hitch up for me," exclaimed Carpy. "I'll follow you right down."

The liveryman drove Dr. Carpy up to the hospital. Sister Angela in the office met the doctor. "What's this I hear, Sister?" asked Carpy. "Where's Denison?"

"He's gone. He was in his room and ate his supper at five o'clock. When the nurse went into his room again, the bed was empty. His clothes are gone from the closet. We've looked everywhere. What can we do?"

Carpy's vexed face reflected his uneasiness. "There's nothing you can do, Sister. We'll hear from him before we wait to, I'm afraid." He turned from the counter and whirled around again to it. "Sister, he asked suddenly, 'was there anybody here to see him this afternoon?'"

"Nobody but an Indian." "Did you get his name?" "It was John Frying Pan."

Carpy grunted. "Thanks, Sister," he said and hurried out.

"Where now, Doc?" asked McAlpin as Carpy, silent and perplexed, got into the buggy beside him.

"Back to the office, McAlpin. The bird's flown. Hell's loose, in spite of my fine schemes."

"Did you get any explanation?" "Plenty," rejoined Carpy grimly. "Plenty!"

CHAPTER XIV BILL PARDALOE received the surprise of his life; it came to him that night.

Just as Pardaloe was enjoying his final smoke a gentle tapping at his window aroused him. "Who's there?" he demanded gruffly. "Awake, Bill?"

"John Frying Pan." "Tain't likely McCrossen let anybody do any stealin' get a cut in—"

"Do I get a rifle or not?" ed Denison savagely, pointed. "There's the gun rack—he self. Who's with you?"

"Frying Pan and Bob Scott. They got rifles?" asked Joe, rising. "They have. Where's the nitro?"

"Here in the drawer. I got take the old express."

"What do you mean, Bill? I'm going to ride along."

"No." "Yes." "I say no!" "I don't give a damn what I go."

"Bill, it's not necessary, be close work."

"I never seen no close yet," retorted the veteran, sarcastic. "Kind of like what it's like!"

"Yes, but—"

"Tell John or Bob to horse for me."

"O. K.," muttered Denison, ing his ammunition belt with cartridges. "If you're you're going."

The Indians, in the saddle waiting outside. Scott got up from the sheriff's barn for Joe. Denison, on need, awaited for the old man's arrangements. At last Pardaloe, erably hurried, grabbed a rifle from the rack and stamped out into the night a posse. He was the last mount. Denison gave the go, and the quartette went way when Bill Pardaloe cried "What's the matter?"

Denison, wild with the delay. "Just a minute," muttered Pardaloe. "Forgot something. I back."

Pardaloe spurred back to office while his companions ed time. He rejoined the three minutes that seemed son thirty. For God's sake, you ready now?" Denison off the words furiously.

"All set, Bill," returned peacefully. "You hustled up got the wrong hat, boy."

Denison was waspish with tience. "Man alive, what does it make what hat you?"

"A whole lot of differin' turned Pardaloe with warmth on my new hat. It might plugged."

Three men rode with D that night — Pardaloe, Bob and Frying Pan. The posse fresh and the men eager, stopped at Gunlock. A light still burning in the living room of the ranch house.

When the men pulled up yard, Denison sprang from the die, ran to the door, and kn "Who's there?" were the words from within.

"Is that you, Jane? It's B She swung the door open, she cried, "what are you here?"

"I think I'm needed here, Henry Sawdy?"

"Oh, he's badly wounded. How did you know?" "Bob Scott and John Frying have strict orders to bring me news of the kind that came to"

"Ben Page rode in to g Carpy." "Tell me quickly, dear, what pended this afternoon," he t "McCrossen rode out to get things, so he said. I was here sewing Bill, when he McCrossen. He said he was away for good. I said I wished good luck."

"THANKS A MILLION" FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

America has bought 1,130,000 Chevrolets during the past twelve months, thereby giving Chevrolet the greatest year in its history and the greatest measure of buyer preference it has ever enjoyed.

The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people.

And so again at this Thanksgiving season we say, "Thank you, America," for you have given Chevrolet a measure of good-will without parallel in the annals of modern industry.

Consider, for a moment, all that you have done to inspire Chevrolet's appreciation during the past twelve months:

You have purchased 1,130,000 Chevrolets; you have made Chevrolet your favorite car for the seventh time in the past ten years; you have given Chevrolet strong preference in every section of the country; you have conferred this same high honor upon Chevrolet trucks by purchasing more than 205,000 commercial units; you have made 1936 the most successful year in all Chevrolet history.

And now, to climax these expressions of friendship, you are displaying even more marked preference for the new Chevrolet for 1937.

It is difficult to express adequate appreciation for gifts so great and so generous as these.

All we can say is, "Thanks a million" for more than a million cars in 1936; and all we can do is offer you the still finer Chevrolet of 1937 in return for the finest friendship ever bestowed upon any motor car manufacturer.

THE KEYHOLE

(Walter Wontchell, Editor)

The Big Bad Boys from Seymour finally broke down just like a butcher knife wagon under steady pounding of the Burkburnett Bull Dogs. So will Stamford if the boys continue to play the same "heads up" aggressive game they have played all year. There is not a doubt in our minds that they will be the victor in the Stamford clash.

At least we have a real Bull Dog Club composed of all the boosters of football, both in and out of the city. The business men surely do appreciate the assistance and cooperation of the boys in the oil business. Especially do we appreciate their moral support and their financial help is not to be sneezed at. Hope we do not seem too Scotch.

Which reminds us of the Scotchman who stopped his children from going to school because the teacher made them "pay" attention.

Talk About STORMS

The Manhattan
BURKBURNETT'S LEADING DEPT. STORE

The Manhattan has weathered several of them since 1919. We have seen stores in our city come and go. We stood watch and looked on. There was nothing we could do about it.

Again times are trying in Burkburnett. No crops. Conditions are on the adverse—and regretfully, some of our local established business houses are again quitting. Again we say—there's nothing we can do about it.

BUT....

We are not quitting. We are here to stay. We belong here. This is our home. We have served you since 1919, and hope to continue serving you and trust that we will have that privilege.

opened with prayer by Mrs. Roy Carnes, followed by the devotionals by Mrs. W. P. Russell. Mrs. Hattie Buchanan gave an interesting and inspiring talk on stewardship. Mrs. M. P. Keith, circle chairman, presided over a brief business session, during which all members were urged to bring clothing for the Buckner Orphans home to the First Baptist church on the first Monday in December. The next meeting will be Nov. 30, at the home of Mrs. B. L. Turner. Nine members and three visitors, Mrs. W. Justice, Roy Carnes and J. W. Cheney were presented.

FORECASTS EARLY END SHIP STRIKES ON PACIFIC COAST

Settlement of the west coast maritime strike "within 48 hours" was forecast today by Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco. He said an agreement would be reached in the month-old walkout along terms proposed by Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, federal conciliator. The mayor made his prediction after a conference with McGrady on the basis of information obtained by the mediator in a session with steam schooner operators and the Marine Cooks and Stewards association.

The strike has tied up the 221st ship, spread further into dependent industries and ate deeper into the diminishing food supplies of Hawaii and Alaska. McGrady's peace plan has as its principal provision a new hiring hall proposal, which was understood to involve federal supervision. He also is proposing a plan for punishment of violators of future contract awards.
