FOOTBALL TEAM READY AND CONFIDENT FOR BI-DISTRICT GAME FRIDAY

ANNUAL C. of C. BANQUET TO DRAW LARGE ATTENDANCE TONIGHT

Funds For Christmas Tree To Be Raised At Parties Monday Night

Games - Program To Be Presented By Motor Companies

Games - Program To Be Presented By Motor Companies

The evening of fun for people of all types will be presented at the Barrow-Grace, Coopers and Burk Burnett Motors Companies Monday night, when the central committee directs an entertainment for the benefit of the Christmas tree fund. It will be the greatest social occasion that has ever produced in the city, and it will bring together the largest crowds that ever assembled for any similar paid program. The crowd gathered is expected to exceed the 400 that met last year for the huge football benefit in Burk Burnett.

Programs
The programs will combine all the local talent available to give persons playing at the various games adequate entertainment. Under the direction of the central committee, the program will be presented from one place to the other until it has been presented at three places.

The committee announced this week that no prizes would be awarded to the players of the various games at the different committees. However, there will be a box of prizes at each of the storerooms. Women attending will be requested to bring a box that will be purchased at a small price by the committee.

300 Tickets Sold
The reports this week indicate that about 300 tickets had been sold by the committee, and that possibly more than 400 would be sold in advance of the party. Practically every person of any importance is planning to attend parties at one of the places. Tickets purchased will be good for any of the three parties.

The other department of the central organization have started working this week. Toys and dolls have been collected or special funds for the dolls have been arranged. The Boy Scouts under the direction of Scout Master Pierce and members of the industrial education department at the high school under Scott Williamson and members of the volunteer department have arranged for the collection and the repair of the toys.

Tree For Children
The tree will be presented at the central point in Burk Burnett not later than December 24. The children, about 600 in number, will be given candies, toys, and dolls. At that time the program will be presented for the adequate celebration of the season.

The churches and the social and civic organizations will cooperate in the presentation of that program. There will be impressive presentation of music and drama in addition to the routine giving of the gifts.

Methodist Preacher Speaker At Rotary

Rev. H. M. Cowling, pastor of the First Methodist church was speaker at the meeting of the Rotary club at noon Tuesday. The minister spoke on the work which had been done by the organization in communities where he had preached. The speaker gave the analysis from the viewpoint of one outside of the organization. The only visitor was McClellan of Wichita Falls.

Judge Coombes Of Stamford Slated Make Main Talk

Officers To Be Installed In Program; Football May Replace Adopted Theme Of Meeting

Change To Thursday

Projects For Next Year To Be Adopted By Members Of Local Civic Organization

—With the Burk Burnett citizens completely crazy about their football team this year, and with Judge C. E. Coombes of Stamford as the chief speaker at the Annual Chamber of Commerce banquet next Thursday night, the night before the bi-district game, the annual meet of the civic organization may be converted into an informal football rally before it is over. The affair originally scheduled for Friday was moved up one day to prevent the conflict with the football game.

The plans for the meeting call for a review of the progress for the past 12 months and an adoption of an ambitious program for the next year. The program and decorations are thus built on the theme "March of Time."

Installation
One of the features other than the address by Judge Coombes will be the installation of the officers. The new officers are R. L. Mattingly, president; A. H. Lohofener and Harold VanLoh vice president, and W. R. Hill treasurer. The new directors to be installed include L. N. Peyton, Harold VanLoh, A. H. Lohofener, J. H. Cooper, D. R. Peevey, and W. T. Holman. The officials were recently elected in a ballot of the membership.

The program will include a concert by the Cowboy band under the direction of E. L. Nichols, and the leader has announced that only football songs will be played. I. E. Harwell will be toastmaster. The invocation will be given by L. N. Moody, minister at the Church of Christ. The musical features of the program will include a vocal duet by Mary Frances Goins and Dreda Miller, accompanied by Blanche Butler and a violin solo by Miss Peggy Williamson of Wichita Falls, accompanied by Miss Maxine Baber of that city. The humorous skit of Leroy Welborn and Eddie Sims will be the comedy of the program.

Presidents Reports
The president report will review the work of the organization during the year, and it will be made by H. D. Smith, retiring president. One of the main projects over which the Burk Burnett citizens are celebrating is the giving the city an outlet to the north.

The committee who have prepared the banquet include: Arrangements, F. T. Felty, W. W. Browning, J. H. Brumley; Speaker, J. R. Chatham, A. B. Sandler, D. R. Peevey, and J. D. Majors; tickets, Fred Brookman, J. F. Kelley, R. P. Reagan; reception, R. J. Kelly, C. W. Boyd, Cliff Cannon, W. R. Hill, H. S. Grace, Dr. C. J. Morrison, S. A. M. Cooper; decoration, Misses Evelyn Hardeeman, Edna Cropper, and Mesdames Morris Strong and R. L. Mattingly; audit, F. T. Felty and Erwin Schwieger; nomination, R. J. Kelly, Oscar Kemp, Henry Prinzing and R. L. Mattingly; rating, H. S. Grace, J. H. Brumley, A. R. Hill and W. R. Hill.

Horned Owl Captured On Burk Wichita Road

Albert Steele and L. A. Carper caught a horned owl on the back porch of the home situated on the Wichita-Burk highway last Saturday. The owl fought so bitterly when captured that he scratched Albert Steele seriously about the chest and face. The boys are 10 1/2 years old.

Overpass Between Burk and Wichita To Be Constructed

District Engineer Promises Bridge To Be In '37 Program

IMPROVE HIGHWAY

The possibility of an overpass to connect the Burk Burnett highway to the Scott street overpass became a certainty this week as the district Engineer E. C. Woodward, indicated that he would recommend that the construction be placed in the 1937 program of this division of the state highway organization.

The plans call for the connection with the Burk Burnett highway at the top of the first hill this side of the refinery addition. At that point an overpass will clear the traffic through to the Scott street overpass.

The pass will save the Burk Burnett people the inconvenience of following a long series of winding pavements into the Ohio street underpass. It will give a straight road directly into the heart of the city. The distance saved is estimated to be almost one mile. This project has been outlined for several months and it was promised by the highway department at the time of the completion of the first over pass.

Dorcas Class

The Dorcas class of the First Baptist church will hold the meeting scheduled for the first Tuesday, December 15. This meeting will combine the monthly meeting and the Christmas party. The members have been urged to be present and to bring a gift for other members.

Toys Needed By Menders

Scott Williamson asked the Burk Burnett Star this week to announce that the members of the fire department and the industrial education department of the high school were ready to repair the toys that were donated for Christmas. So far most of the toys are metal or not needing repair. The need of larger and wooden type of toys were pointed out by the committee. Those who have such should call the fire department or Mr. Williamson, and a truck will be sent after them immediately.

Hershel Cecil New Owner Service Sta.

Hershel Cecil purchased the Cecil Service Station December 1st from J. H. Cecil and has assumed charge. He stated he would carry a complete line of Panhandle products and Quaker State Oils, kerosene, auto accessories and U. S. Tires and Tubes in addition to a complete washing and greasing department. He invites the many users of Panhandle products to come in and see him.

Workers Urged To Send In SS Blanks

A. H. Lohofener, postmaster, urged the workers of this section to bring in the social security blanks SS5 as soon as possible. The deadline for the reports will be next Saturday, December 5. The postoffice has received very few of the blanks and are anxious to secure as many as possible before the registration is closed. The workmen may mail without postage to local postmaster hand to mail clerk, to labor union or bring to postoffice. The government will start the individual account as soon as the report is made. The work of assessments starts the first of the year.

Brother Of Local Druggist Dies In Muskogee, Okla.

Guy Adams, brother of Homer and J. C. Adams of the Adams Drug store, died in Muskogee, Oklahoma last Tuesday night at the age of 43. The services were held Thursday afternoon in Ft. Worth in a funeral home. He had been ill several weeks at the time of his death, and the seriousness of his condition was not realized until recently.

Other survivors besides the Burk Burnett men include Louis Adams, Wichita Falls; Joe of Wick ett; Hartman Adams, Woodville, Okla., brothers, and his wife. The Burk Burnett men attended the bedside just before his death and attended the funeral in Fort Worth. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Adams father and mother.

JIM FOSTER INJURED IN ACCIDENT THURS.

Jim Foster, well known citizen of Burk Burnett was injured in an accident when his car and a truck side-swiped west of the city near Clara soon after noon Thursday. According to witnesses the accident in which Mr. Foster received lacerations about the arms and head occurred when his car and a truck driven by a person unidentified approached each other on the pavement. They both were near the pavement and were damaged. Mr. Foster was brought to the clinic by H. E. Welborn.

Band To Play All Way To Game Fri.

The Burk Burnett Cowboy band will play at various places between Burk Burnett and Stamford Friday as they journey toward the game in the bus of the Evert school district under the sponsorship of the Cooper Motor Co. Their first stop will be at Wichita Falls where they will play in front of the Times office building. On the Seymour square they will add a tune or two. The process will be repeated at Munday and Haskell. They will enter Stamford tooting.

Five Burk Burnett Players Make All District Ratings

McKown Only Player In District To Get All Seven Coaches Votes In News Ballot

Record Established

Five Burk Burnett players received the coveted honor of all district rating in the poll conducted among the coaches of this district recently. Those receiving the honor were Tolly McKown, right half, Carl Cook left tackle, Harry Elliot left guard, Dorace Hageman center, and John Blair, right end. On the second team W. Montgomery, Avis Finch, and Marshall Teal fell just one vote short of ranking with the leaders. The honors were extended to include every member of the starting lineup with one exception whether on first or second or in the honorable mention column.

The local team set a record in the number of votes received by any one team. This record justified the faith that the coaches and the fans of Burk Burnett have in the team throughout the entire season. The showing was in due honor of the fighting squad of team mates that swept aside opposition in spite of the fact that the team was out weighed in every game.

Red Cross Drive Reaches $250.00

H. D. Smith announced Tuesday that the Red Cross had reached the $250.00 mark in the drive for membership in the international organization in Burk Burnett. The director stated that several committees had completed the drive and had not returned with a full report, and that the amount possibly would be much higher in the final summary.

The drive started November 12 with a central committee at the city hall. The entire precinct has been canvassed by the organization, and only final reports will be made later. The work received an excellent response among local people.

Program Of Burk Christmas Party

The Burk Burnett people have been urged to remember the Christmas party next Monday night. The program will be as follows: All parties to start at 8 p. m. Bridge at Burk Burnett Motors company with Mesdames Raymond Wallace, Jack Brumley, and A. R. Hill as hostesses. At the Barrow-Grace company, 42 and dominoes, with Mesdames J. J. Blackstone, R. J. Kelly, Fred Brookman as hostesses. Boxes under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Lohofener and John Webb.

At the Cooper Motor company, 42 and dominoes will be played with Mesdames Frank Kelley, Nal Allen, and Curtis Matthews as hostesses. Everybody has been urged to bring a well filled box for sale.

Team In Excellent Condition As They Train

Balanced Squad Ready To Take Burk Honors Into Bi-District Competition

All District Honors

—There isn't the slightest bit of over confidence in the Burk Burnett Bulldog camp, but there is a spirit of determined "we'll do our best" attitude. Without underestimating the strength of the powerful Stamford Cannies, the local eleven is entering the game with the positive determination to bring Burk its first bi-district title.

There is no basis for comparison of the scores of the two teams, since neither have played the same team this year. For that reason it would be impossible to establish a pre-game favorite, but in the minds of the fans in this area, and the teams of district 10-B, it is impossible to conceive of any team stopping the powerful aggressiveness of the eleven led by Tolly McKown. Flanked by Teal, Finch and Cook, McKown has led an attack that constituted the best defense that any team can have. The quartet aided and abetted by a line that blocked like demons has scored almost at will throughout the season.

That front wall placed four men on the all district. Little John Blair, who almost has to sit on a book to be high enough to see over his desk, made the fans of Burk forget the great ends of the past. Tom Spray on the other end pushed the bigger men around all season. That all star center of the line accounted for the record of the team. Dorace Hageman is a cyclone of blocking after he tosses the ball to the carrier, and on the defense his ability to diagnosis plays saved much yardage and the smashing tackles stopped several ambitious backs. Next to him Harry Elliot who played in the first game that he ever saw and then won the high honors is the quietest but hardest working man in the group. With Pappy Whitton on the other guard, the three have made the center of the line a very bad place to try to penetrate.

On the defense Carl Cook and Woodrow Montgomery have made the front wall perfect. Cook has rated high all year, but Montgomery didn't find his stride until the last four games. Since then he has caught on fast and came near pushing out ahead of the district for the position. Richard Johnson, who slides into Cook's place at tackle on the offense, spends most of his time backing up the line or blocking for the runners.

Another bright spot in the Burk line-up is the generalship of Avis Finch. At quarterback he has led the team without exception in nine of near perfect games. Aside from that he blocks, catches, passes and had the highest average in the conference on punting with slightly over 38 yds. When blocking is mentioned Marshall Teal's name always crops out. Many of McKowns long runs might be charged to the fact that Finch, Teal and Cook went ahead of him mowing down ambitious tacklers. The same thing can be said about the line.

AMBITIONS AND PROJECTS

The year's work is about to end for the Chamber of Commerce, and an accounting of the work that was done during the past year will be given at the banquet tonight. Last year the organization outlined several projects, and the citizenship adopted those ideas for the year. If this paper were to choose the greatest single achievement, it would point out the pavement of the road to Lawton. That project has been assured by the Oklahoma state highway commission.

The value of this project that was secured partly by the cooperation of Burkburnett and Wichita Falls with the Lawton Chamber of Commerce, will not be known for many years to come. However, it apparently will be a boon to the local business men. It will open up a market that is not accessible at the present time.

This project has not been the only advancement. In addition to the routine work of advertisement, good will and civic improvement, progress has been made on other ambitions. One of the major ambitions has been the short cut to Vernon and Harrold. The State highway commission has adopted the highway, and it will be only a matter of time until it is straightened and paved. Burkburnett will gain more by that than any other victory, and it is purely a Burkburnett idea. The local citizens received cooperation from Wichita Falls and Vernon, but it was sponsored and grew up in Burkburnett.

The Pease river dam project that will give water for irrigation and domestic consumption, and will provide flood control on the Red and Peace rivers, was definitely advanced when the army hearing was held in Vernon.

Protection of the Burkburnett bridge at Red River was placed under the consideration of the federal army engineers. The protection of that bridge is vital to Burkburnett people, and it would be to the advantage of the people here if the federal government seriously tries the method of a canal down the center of the river.

So another year is ahead of us. During the past 12 months definite progress has been made on these objects and ambitions. The next calls for even greater cooperation than ever before for the advancement of the community.

SUPPORT THE CHRISTMAS FUND

During the past four years, we have become accustomed to allowing the Federal Government to take care of the problem of seeing that those less privileged had attention at Christmas time. This was necessary because most of us were so concerned with taking care of our own problems that we didn't have time to think about those who were having even a more difficult time than we were. However, there is the danger of our becoming so indifferent to the immediate and local situations that need attention.

In the Christmas tree rally we are offered an opportunity to re-assert our interest in this group that need a little expression of love to make any sort of real Christmas for them.

We will have one of the first opportunities to aid in the work next Monday night when the city gathers in the huge party to raise funds for the event. Monday night, Dec. 7 everybody in town that is physically able to do so should assist in making the rally one of the greatest events in the history of the city.

There may be several people who will hesitate to buy tickets because they can not be present at the parties planned by the committee. The price is so reasonable that no one should hesitate to buy all the tickets possible whether they can attend or not.

We should remember that the occasions are more than just social gatherings, they are our gesture of service and love for the unfortunate children of the city. They are an expression of interest that we have in these. The gatherings must be a real opportunity of the fact that we wish each of these children to be tomorrow useful citizens of the city.

GO TO STAMFORD

For the first time in 13 years we have the opportunity to express our appreciation in the form of sending a large delegation to a district town for a bi-district game. Next Friday afternoon every person in Burkburnett that can possibly do so should find some means of getting to the game. If you are going and have room for an extra, let someone else ride along. Let's make it the most representative delegation that ever left this city for any occasion.

HEADLINES

For the first time since Woodrow Wilson went to Paris soon after the World War, President of the United States has made another voyage of peace. President Roosevelt is making a tour of the South American states carrying the message of goodwill and cooperation from the American people. He carries with him the endorsement of from 46 to 48 American people, and a tremendous popular vote of more than 10 million majority. This endorsement will make the propositions which he submits to our southern neighbors much more effective. It was the second incident that acted as a good omen for the conference of Pan-American nations. The failure of the league of nations gave the South American and Central American nations more respect and trust in the United States. These nations now realize that their only protection from European invasion is in friendship with the United States.

Italy-Japan

When the Italian invasion started in Ethiopia, it appeared that Japan would be lined up against them. However, when some one high in Japanese government pointed out that success of the Italians would mean that Japan would have a free hand in China to do similar things the Japanese government quickly became neutral. Now the Japanese are suggesting that they will recognize Italian control of Ethiopia, if Italy will recognize the Manchuko empire. That of course looks like a three cornered entangled alliance between Germany, Italy and Japan against France, Russia and England. The football over which they will fight appears right now to be Spain. Later it may be China that will cause the ultimate conflict.

Munitions Maker

The death of Sir Basil Zaharoff last week brought to an end one of the most spectacular and romantic lives of modern Europe. The man who writes the history of this "munitions king" will have a hard time separating the traditions and facts. Around his life have been built more glamorous stories than any other individual of the century. He died on his lonely estate in Monte Carlo where his home was guarded by a private army, such as has never before been gathered to protect a single individual. Seven towns claim Zaharoff as a native son. His birthdate varied in accounts from 1849 to 1853. Constantinople, Zachioul, and other Oriental towns claim him. But this much is known, he spent a large amount of time in Constantinople dealing in shady enterprises. He gained his reputation and mystery by making imaginary shattering deals in arms and munitions before and during the world war. He really made and broke kings with his intrigue.

Love Story

Until 1924 he seemed untouched by a love of any type, but after his death it was revealed that his 1924 marriage was not his first romance. Fifty years ago he met and fell in love with a Spanish beauty, the daughter of a grandee, who was married to another man. He never married until after the death of her husband. Then a love story beyond parallel is told in the fact that he had waited that long. They were married and lived together two years. His tragic death seemed to be the breaking point in his life. After her death he retired to his castle and remained there in hermit like seclusion until his death last week. In this cynical age, it is hard to believe that a man as powerful and rich as Sir Basil would wait as long as he did.

Congress Meets

One of the most interesting meetings of Congress in the history of the nation will start in January. The 75th session of the national legislature will be faced with six definite problems: 1-The farm tenancy bill providing the conversion of tenants into owners, urged by Texans and others. 2-Revision in the tax separation earnings to relieve inequities. 3-Crop insurance plan. 4-A new neutrality legislation. 5-Relief. 6-Finally, modification of the Tennessee Act to put stronger emphasis on the conservation activities.

The strangest part of this meeting of the national legislature is that the President may be the only protection for those who fought him so bitterly. The congressional members naturally will take the huge majority as endorsement of some radical ideas that they sponsored, and probably the President will have to be more conservative than the congress with which he is dealing. That will be ironic. The president as a protector of interests that fought him. However, it will be a very beneficial situation. Now he can tell them to line up or that he will turn the dogs of congress loose on them.

Strike Settled

The maritime strike is practically settled with the ship officers ready to sign the new contract with the seamen. The coastwise operators reached a decision to cooperate with the stewards and cooks. The union agreed to run food ships. The strike seems to bring a $100.00 a month increase to the seamen. It is practically a 10 per cent increase thru out the industry.

Big Rabbit Creek

November 28, 1936. Mrs. Lillie Barrum, who is farming over on Deep Red received a message from Palestine, Texas, where her aged father lives. The message was received Friday stating that her father had passed away and would be laid to rest Saturday afternoon in the Palestine cemetery. Mrs. Barrum left early Friday morning to attend the funeral.

W. H. Martin, Miss Broomfield and Mrs. Ed Owens motored up to Oklahoma City Friday morning to transact some business.

Hawkeye has been advised that a good rain is needed very bad all up on the uplands. Wheat and oat fields are needing rain and is looking mighty bad. Still, down in the Rabbit Creek bottoms and the Red River bottoms has plenty of moisture. In fact we don't need rain in this neighborhood.

Mans! Griffin, son of Mrs. Major O'Neal has rented the pasture part of the Dewey Ashton farm for a cash consideration. Mr. Griffin has turned in several head of cattle. The pasture will pasture about 2 months for the amount of cattle that has been turned in.

While Hawkeye was turning out their horses and mules, out of the barn into the pasture, Friday morning he was kicked on the left leg by one of the big black horses. The only thing that kept from breaking his leg, was that he was so close to the horse.

SINCERITY
THOMAS Funeral Home
Phone 66

Many years of experience in our calling have not detracted from the repeated sincerity which characterizes each detail of our service to the people of Burkburnett. A simple desire to be of true service in every respect, nothing less can be expected by those who have come to rely on us in an hour of need. Feel confident that Thomas Funeral Home can always be sincerely and implicitly counted upon.

Hawkeye is just able to hobble around and his leg is very sore. Tobe Hardin, Mrs. Martha Nails and her son Charlie called on the Owens family Friday night and visited several hours with the family.

All indications at this writing is very favorable for a good rain or a norther. A good rain is needed in some localities.

Dewey Ashton is having lots of wood cut off his farm.

The Randlett Gin will close their gin down the night of the 28th. Up 'till Wednesday evening they had ginned 180 bales, so the writer has been advised.

The big Coyote and Wolf hunt that was staged last Sunday down in the Salt Cedars along the Red River sand hills proved to be unsuccessful. It is said that the men and dogs just couldn't jump any of them out of those Salt Cedars. Some places a man can't walk through it.

Sr. Personalities

The little Senior this week is James Brown. He entered this world November 5, 1919 at Hables N. M. Living there for three years he moved to Wichita county. He entered Fairview school in the first grade and has continued to prosper in this school ever since. James is the manager of the basketball team and delights in reading, swimming, fishing and hunting. His favorites are: Actor, Mickey Mouse, ambition, horse doctor, subject, he is still looking teacher, Mr. Watkins, pet aversion to go to school, candy, chocolates. James is a demon typist and heads his class in that subject.

Beginning Monday, the school started on the third six weeks of the first semester. After the students received their report cards last Wednesday, they are more eager to work and strive better. So, they can pass their subjects, and still be classified as they were. The Seniors work harder and diligently so they won't have to be getting back work up when school ends. Above all, every senior should try to do better in his last year, work so he can finish with his classmates. But, some Seniors have the "I don't care" attitude. They should never have that attitude so each Fairview Senior is trying to see that any of them do not have that kind of spirit. Each one will do his duty to see that his classmate passes, so they can enter into higher life together.

Texas History

This is the first time that Texas History has been taught as a subject in high school, although it has always been taught in the grades. The class is composed of Juniors and Seniors, each realizing the vital interest after both classes have visited the Centennial since school started. The class has finished studying about the Texas boundary dispute. Beginning this new six weeks, they take up the study of the constitution. Texas has had and drafted. This chapter proves to be of interest because Texas has had three different constitutions before the final one was adopted in 1876. To make the subject more interesting, the students are making a scrap book. Each one brings any article concerning Texas history that he reads. Also, each day one of the students teaches the class.

Hardin - Simmons Play Fresno Team Wichita Saturday

(SPECIAL TO THE STAR)
WICHITA Falls, Dec. 3—Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys will stampede into Wichita Falls Saturday afternoon to meet the Fresno State College Bulldogs from Fresno, in an inter-sectional grid game that promises fans of the Northwest Texas area one of the greatest football displays of the season.

The Cowboys have one of the strongest teams in this section of the country, being rated by Grantland Rice, dean of American sport writers, as one of the four greatest teams in the Southwest, and the second best team in Texas.

From the northwest section of Texas comes many of the stellar performers to be found in the Hardin-Simmons lineup this season. Burns McKinney, one of the greatest running backs the Southwest has ever seen, comes from Wichita Falls, where he led the Wichita Falls Coyotes to a district title in 1933. McKinney will be very much in the thick of the game here next Saturday. Pete Tyler, the bootin' bustin' fullback of the team, and Ed Cherry, one of running mates of the backfield, are rated as two of the most powerful backs in the Southwest, and thus far they have found no line strong enough to hold them since they have hit their stride following the Texas Aggie game here early in the season.

Jornigan, regular center, hails from Graham. Chick Newberry, guard de-luxe, is one of the best products of Childress High School. Bud Reeves, a great end, is a product of Wichita Falls. Bill Boutwell is one of the greatest backs Electra has ever turned out. These are just a few of the stars from this section who have made grid history in Hardin-Simmons' Purple and Gold football toggery.

Coach Frank Kimbrough is rated as one of the greatest football teachers in the business, and has had winners under his wing for a number of years. The teams Kimbrough has turned out in Amarillo and Abilene have been classed as some of the best Texas has ever known.

Few teams have been able to hold the Cowboys, but Fresno State will be one of the toughest they have been called upon to face. Scores have been heavy in recent games of Hardin-Simmons as such teams as Creighton, Morningside, Texas A. & I. have fallen before the stampede of the Cowhands. Hardin-Simmons has faced, and defeated, more undefeated teams than any other club in the nation.

Fresno State, runnerup in the California Conference to Coach Alonzo Staggs' College of the Pacific, is expected to be a stumbling block to Kimbrough's Sun Bowl Bound Cowboys. The college of the Pacific holds a victory over the Bulldogs in an early season game which was a hard fought battle, and decided by a very close margin. After this game, Stagg paid tribute to the Fresno lads by stating they were one of the toughest teams he had ever faced.

The Cowboys will meet Texas School of Mines in the El Paso Sun Bowl January 1, in El Paso, having received this honor last week. The Sun Bowl game will be a fitting occasion for the sixteen Seniors of the Hardin-Simmons team to make the final appearance in Cowboy color.

The Hardin-Simmons Cowboy band, one of the greatest musical units in the world, will be on hand for the game Saturday, and will furnish music for the fans. The chance to hear this musical organization will be well worth the price of admission for the game. The Cowboy Band of Hardin-Simmons has toured Europe where they proved to be a sensation wherever they gave a concert. They have played before many celebrities of European nations, bringing fame to the U. S. and the State of Texas in particular.

Tickets were placed on sale Wednesday morning in Wichita Falls at the Renfro Drug Company at Eighth and Scott streets. Mail order reservations will be made at that place, or by writing Solon R. Featherston at 823 Staley building.

The two center sections of each stand will be reserved at $1.65 a seat, with all others reserved at $1.10 and students will be admitted for 55 cents.

N. D. Wells Funeral Held Here Friday

Funeral services for N. D. Wells 69, who died in a Wichita Falls hospital Wednesday afternoon were held at the Owens & Brumley chapel Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Glenn Clark, pastor of the Electric Church of Christ conducted the services and burial was in the Burkburnett cemetery.

He has been a resident of Burkburnett for 16 years and was well known among oil men in this section. He was a member of the Burkburnett Masonic Lodge.

Survivors are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Island, Burkburnett; two brothers, B. Wells, Wichita Falls, and D. Wells, Findlay, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. Stephen Harlow, Findlay, Ohio; and a niece, Mrs. Paul Harrell of Wichita Falls.

MEETINGS

Members of the Bluebonnet Garden club of Burkburnett will meet at the home of Mrs. J. H. Exley next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. The program on Evergreen in the Christmas motif will be given by Mesdames J. M. Patterson and I. D. Russell. Mrs. Fred Alexander will be hostesses. Regular meeting of the P-T. A. will be Tuesday, December 15. The family social will be the subject of the meeting.

Hardin Club Plans Christmas Party

Members of the Hardin Home demonstration club met in the home of Mrs. Fred Brookman last Wednesday for the last regular demonstration of the year and to plan the Christmas party to be held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Muller, retiring president, December 9.

The demonstration last Wednesday was directed by Miss Leta Bennet who prepared six types of salad for the organization, and made the report of the council to the group. Two new members were installed, Mrs. H. S. VanCleave and Mrs. Murphy Dean. Mrs. R. E. Carnes was a visitor.

The Christmas party will also be the occasion for the installation of officers. Mrs. Fred Brookman, president, Mrs. Hewell vice-president, and Mrs. H. C. Preston, secretary and treasurer will be installed.

From the moment Denison and his companions crossed the divide, they were riding into enemy country.

Frying Pan was asked to strike farther down and across the reservation; the rendezvous had been fixed at a point on Deep Creek.

With the hills behind them, Denison, Scott, and Pardaloe made their way down the creek breaks to the benches. They were aware of a rough trail along the east bank of the creek, but the night, as they halted on the creek bench, was silent. Denison conjectured wrongly that the cattle had been driven past this point.

Working carefully downstream through clumps of willows and alders along the benches, Scott pushed ahead to locate the phantom Frying Pan. The lone Indian after a time came down from the hills. He was taciturn. "Nobody go by," was all he said.

Denison questioned him closely without shaking his certainty that neither cattle nor horsemen had passed down the east bank. The west bank, where the pursuers were now halted, was impassable for cattle.

"They've taken another trail, Bob," declared Denison to Scott. "There's an overgrown trail through the timber to the south. It's a long way around and rough, and they took it to throw off pursuit. But that may beat them yet."

"How so?"
 "They've got to double back, lower downstream to strike Deep Creek again with the cattle. We'll play it so, anyway. It's into the brush for us. We can't cross the horses here. If I'm wrong, and they're above us yet, it's safer to stick to this side, anyway."

"Where can they strike the creek?"
 "About a mile above the old bridge."

"How we goin' to get to them?"
 "We've got to cross that bridge."

Scott smiled a sickly smile. "That bridge's been fallin' to pieces for ten years."

"John," said Denison to Frying Pan, "feel out the scrub for us. Let's go!"

The riding was rough and the pace through the chaparral grueling. The four men reached a point where the creek bottom opened from a canyon out on low, rough country, and the rising moon shed more light.

"We're a mile yet above the bridge," said Denison. "You and John ride up the canyon wall a ways, Bob, and take another look," he suggested.

The Indians came back with news. "There's somethin' looks like what's left of a campfire near the bridge—"

"Push on!" exclaimed Denison. "They may have halted there."
 The riding grew worse. Thickets became almost impassable. There never had been a trail down the west bank, and the job called for dogged endurance.

Scratched and torn, the four reached an open breathing space where rock and shale ended the fight through the scrub. The moon, clearing the mountain peaks, revealed, at a distance below, the abandoned bridge. Not far from it, Denison could discern embers of the campfire Frying Pan had reported.

"Where there's been a fire, there's been men," said Denison. "They may be there yet. But we've got to watch both sides of the creek. Suppose you, Bob, and Frying Pan get over to the east bank—"

"How?"
 "The bridge."

Scott grinned but shook his head. "There's ten feet of plankin' zone in one place from the floor of the old bridge. Nobody can cross that. We could maybe crawl across in the daytime—not now."

"We've got to get across somehow," insisted Denison. "Bob, is there any place up or down the creek where you and John can get over?"

"Not with horses."
 "Well, we must stop the cattle and whoever's with 'em. I'll get over, somehow, after you, Where's the plankin' off the bridge?"

"The east end."
 "That's bad. No matter—dust along. Two shots from you will bring me over. Anyway, you stop anybody that comes along with the beef. We'll leave the horses here with Pardaloe, and while you're getting over I'll try to find out who these fellows are below at the fire. Bill," he turned to Pardaloe—"if I need you, I'll whistle."

"O. K.," assented the lanky Pardaloe.
 Denison, though anxious to get at what lay ahead of him, was forced to work down the slope slowly. Within a long earshot of the dying fire, he thought he heard voices. Since the men were still there, renewed caution was called for.

He made out two voices.

Flattening on the sand, he listened. The fire and the men were not over fifty feet away. Denison could hear their words. They were talking English, though one voice was guttural and revealed a Mexican. As they were obviously waiting for someone who had failed to appear, cold, and too lazy to keep up their fire, Denison made no bones about intruding on the pair.

The first the two men heard from him was a low but plain command; "Pitch up, boys!"

The startled pair jumped to their feet. "Up! Put 'em up," came a sharper order. Their hands went haltingly up. They looked around to see where the voice came from, and while they looked they heard a short whistle and saw a man emerge from the chaparral not twenty feet away.

"Who the hell are you?" demanded the smaller man of the pair, with a bluster. His voice betrayed him to Denison.

"I'm here, same as you are, to meet some cattle coming down the creek," returned Denison. "I'm going to help you, Clubfoot. Hands up. Damn you, keep 'em where they are!" While he spoke, he heard Pardaloe clattering through the thicket. "Bill," he added, as Pardaloe appeared "bring down the horses, will you?"

"These boys are waiting for the cattle, same as we are," explained Denison when Pardaloe reappeared. "We don't need four hands on the job. Take their guns. Tie 'em up till we get straight."

Pardaloe, tying the mounts, stamped forward, gun in hand. He searched the pair, while Clubfoot protested profanely at the outrage. "I'm here to take over cattle that belong to me—bought and paid for," stormed the butcher.

Before Pardaloe had finished roping the butcher and his helper, a shot was heard from far across the creek. Denison started almost as if the bullet had struck him.

While he listened with every nerve on edge, a complete silence followed. It was not a fight. Was it a signal?

Almost five minutes passed when a second shot rang into the night. Denison tried to read the riddle. The first shot had come from a revolver; the second, sharper and less open, had come from a rifle. It all dawned on Denison—they were signal shots.

He whirled toward Pardaloe. "Hand me Clubfoot's gun, Bill," he said. "Securing the gun, he fired it twice in the air.

"Some guesswork here, Clubfoot," he remarked, emptying and tossing the gun on the ground. "I don't know whether your answer was to be one or two."

Scarcely were the words out of his mouth, when a spatter of revolver shots rang across the creek. "Bill," exclaimed Denison, "that's a fight. If these birds make you the least trouble, shoot 'em. I'm going over."

"How you goin' over?" called Pardaloe.
 "Quickest way I can, Bill," he shouted. "The bridge."
 He was running for his horse. "You're crazy. I'll drop you a hundred feet, man!" shouted Pardaloe.
 "Watch your prisoners!" Denison was galloping away.

Pardaloe, petrified, watched the disappearing horseman. Nothing but the sharp echo on his ears of flying hoofs convinced him he was not dreaming, for he never would have believed sober Bill Denison would take so slender a chance of getting across the creek alive. The clatter of hoofs grew fainter. At times they ceased, and the old frontiersman's breath choked him. Then, as if in answer to his straining ears, came the hollow sound of hoofbeats on wood. Denison had reached the bridge.

An instant later there came into Pardaloe's sight, in the distant moonlight, the ghostlike figure of a horse flying across the rotten bridge. Pardaloe divined at once that the pony had thrown his rider. Then, of a sudden, the riderless beast whirled with a spring and, as if somehow guided, shot ahead again—he was a third of the way over.

Pardaloe's jaws came together squarely and comfortably, for he now understood. Denison was on that horse, clinging to its back like a panther.

But there was still the east-end plank gap to cross. Scott had said the big one was ten feet, but he had not seen it for a year. It might easily be twelve or fifteen feet; suppose it were twenty?

With Denison more than halfway across, the clatter of hoofs grew fainter. One, two, three rifle shots rang out in fairly quick succession.

To this day the gap that Denison jumped has never been measured.

The reckless rider had been spotted when he was less than halfway across. McCrossen, riding behind the cattle, had galloped forward when Redstock ahead was intercepted and questioned by Scott. The half-breed's gun signals had been taken by Redstock as an attack, and he had fired back. Before either side really knew what it was all about, they were exchanging shots. But the instant McCrossen saw the horse dashing along the rotten bridge, his sixth sense of danger guessed the rider for an enemy, and without a moment's hesitation he trained a rifle on him and fired.

By a chance that rarely favors desperate measures, Denison sprawled from the final leap across the bridge gap into a fringe of sand and willows that overgrew the eastern bridge approach.

Threading the undergrowth on his trembling horse, Denison got away from the bridge as fast as he could; somebody was still throwing rifle slugs toward it; but once away from the danger point, he lost no time in making himself heard.

Denison, from the willows, called loudly. "Who's driving these cattle?"

"The man that owns 'em," shouted McCrossen, riding out into the open, fifty yards away. "Who the hell are you, hidin' in that brush? If you're a man, show yourself."

Denison pushed into the open. "You're driving this bunch, McCrossen?"

"I am. What do you want, Denison?" he demanded angrily.

"I want these steers, McCrossen. And I want you."

"These steers belong to me for wages, an' I've got twice as many back there yet. Now I've got just one word for you, Denison: Get out of my way an' keep out of my way."

"If you've got any rights in these cattle, turn 'em back to the Meadows and lay your claim for wages before the Stockmen's Claims Board," retorted Denison.

"What the hell's all this to you? Do you claim 'em?" demanded McCrossen savagely.

"I don't claim a hoof, but I want to talk with you, McCrossen, before you jump to the Panhandle."

"What about?"
 "About who fired my ranch house and about Henry Sawdy."

"Tryin' to pick a quarrel with me, eh, Denison? Well, you needn't try very hard. I don't like you, Denison. I never did. I never had any use for you. Now will you pull off these bumps that are millin' my steers?"

"Will you head 'em back for the Meadows and talk to me?"
 "No!"
 "No!"

The two refusals were fast. But while the second was being uttered, Redstock cried, "Crowd him, Dave!" and fired at Denison.

The next instant three horsemen were plunging at one another on rearing horses and throwing their shots at one another in a very uncertain light.

None of the three was new at the deadly game; each used his own pet tactics. McCrossen took his partner's advice. The three had talked twenty yards apart. McCrossen and Redstock dashed in from two sides of the triangle to kill before Denison could retreat.

In fact, retreat was out of the thinking. Denison, caught between the two men, was forced to divide his fire. With a blow slinging his left arm, he jumped his horse past the two, whirled, and came back outside, with McCrossen shooting at him fast. The maneuver of Denison's put McCrossen into Redstock's line of fire.

The horse refused the smell of blood. He shied. Redstock spurred him. As the horse reared, the feeble light of the moon struck, for an instant, Redstock's features. In that instant Denison fired point-blank at him.

Fully expecting that McCrossen would ride in to finish him, Denison flipped open the loading gate of his gun instinctively, and punched out the empty shells.

His head in a whirl, expecting that any instant McCrossen would be on him, Denison tried to reload. Just as he got the cartridge into his revolver, he caught the sound of a horse's hoofs and then heard Bob Scott calling.

"Here, Bob," exclaimed Denison from the brush. "Look out for McCrossen."

Scott slipped off his horse. "McCrossen won't bother for a while. Are you hit, Bill?"

"I stopped a couple of slugs somehow. What about McCrossen?" he asked irritably.

"He's lyin' over by the bridge. He wants to talk to you, Bill."

"What the hell does he want to talk to me for?"
 "He asked me to tell you he did. You can't lose no time, Bill. Can you stand up?"

"Twist a tourniquet around this arm before I try it, Bob. Don't trust McCrossen. Have you got his guns? He'd like nothing better than another crack at me," muttered Denison, staggering with Scott's help, to his feet.

"McCrossen's stripped clean," declared Scott. "He's dyin'. That's the plain truth. Can't you make up your mind to see what he wants?"

"Go ahead. But give me my gun and watch out," muttered Denison. In the light of the moon, McCrossen, propped up by Frying Pan, reclined against the trunk of a half-grown tree.

"Here's Bill, Dave," Scott spoke low and gently. "You said you wanted to speak to him."

"Yes, Dave?" said Denison, haltingly.

"I'm done, Bill."

"Dave," exclaimed Denison, "I'm sorry it had to end this way."

"I talked pretty rough tonight," said McCrossen, brokenly, spitting the blood out of his throat.

"That's all right, Dave."

"Didn't really mean it all, you've always shot square, Bill. If some folks I've trained with had done that way, I mightn't be here tonight. Bill, a favor—"

"Go on, Dave."

"I've got an old-maid sister back East. She's all I've got. I'd hate her to know this come, rustlin', Bill."

"It'll never be said, Dave."

"Let it be a straight-out fight, Bill—you know."

"I know, Dave; I know. What's her address?"

"In my trunk, Bill," murmured McCrossen thickly. "Promise?"

"I promise."

"Give me—your hand."

Pardaloe was the first to reach Gunlock on the way home shortly before daylight. He rode in on his way to town to get hold of Dr. Carpy for Denison, whose condition worried him.

Fortunately the surgeon was already at Gunlock, whether he had been summoned to care for Sawdy. With Sawdy's flesh wound already bandaged, Carpy sat in the living room, drinking a pot of coffee supplied by Jane.

He was enjoying in leisurely fashion his third or fourth cup of steaming stimulant when the sound of hoofs was heard. In a moment a resounding rap came at the door.

Jane started. In terrified appeal she looked at the doctor. Carpy responded by calmly wiping his lips—Jane had introduced napkins at Gunlock—and motioning Jane to her bedroom.

"Who's there?" he demanded curtly.

"Bill Pardaloe!" came the booming response.

Carpy flung the door open. Jane ran out of the bedroom.

"Oh, Mr. Pardaloe!" she cried. "Where is Bill? Where is he?"

"He's on his way back to the hospital."

"Is he hurt? Is he wounded? Tell me," cried the frantic girl.

"Why, no, yes—that is, he was aimin' to get back to the hospital before Doc found out he was gone," parried the veteran awkwardly.

Carpy intervened sternly. "Where is he now? Talk, Bill!"

"Ain't I talkin'? He's on the way here with Bob Scott."

"Then he's not hurt?" cried Jane. "Why, no, yes—a little, maybe."

"Where you from?" demanded Carpy, still stern.

"Deep Creek."

"I Know, Dave; I Know. What's Her Address?"

his way to the Reservation to hunt up a couple of bucks to bury 'em and bring in the cattle."

"Sit down here, Bill. Jane," directed the doctor, "get the boy a pot of coffee."

"And boil plenty of clean water on the stove."

"Yes, doctor. Bill is going to stop here on the way in, isn't he?"

Pardaloe nodded. "Ought to show up after while."

Jane ran to the kitchen. She roused Quong to heat the water.

"No," continued Pardaloe, deep in a saucer of hot coffee. "I didn't see it. I was over on the west side of the creek—it's bad crossin' there. I don't know how Bill came up. They never could-a got him across down there. We cut over the reservation and plugged for Gunlock—"

He pricked up his ears and interrupted himself. "Shucks! That sounds like somebody now!"

Jane listened eagerly. "I can't hear anyone," she said.

"You will in a minute. There they are again."

Jane ran for the door. "Hold on a minute, Missy," exclaimed Pardaloe. "Let's make sure who it is."

He opened the door himself, stepped quickly outside, and shut it behind him. Within a very few minutes, ages to Jane, she heard the stamping of horses. Pardaloe flung the door open and called for Carpy. Jane hurried out with him.

Drooping low, Denison, iron-willed, had stuck to the end of the grueling ride. Scott told him they had followed up the east bank of the creek—he himself on Redstock's horse; how by great good fortune they had found a flask of whisky in Redstock's saddle-bag, and that this had helped revive the wounded man when they halted to "spell" him; and how they had crossed Deep Creek at a reservation ford not far below Gunlock ranch.

Carpy and Pardaloe lifted Denison down from the horse, Jane supported his head and stooped to enquire him and murmur low words. They laid him on her bed.

While Carpy tore open Denison's clothing and made a hasty examination, buckets of hot water were brought in.

The surgeon, with wearied back, presently straightened up. "Jane," he said solemnly, "you're a lucky girl. The bullet that meant death for your boy struck his belt buckle and tore around his side. Look here. This was all I was afraid of, this stomach wound. I didn't think so much about Bill, here. But, Jane, I didn't want you fixing for a funeral when you ought to be fixing for a wedding! We'll get him back to the hospital in a few days."

"Oh, no, Doctor," exclaimed Jane unsteadily, but with cold decision. "Why, what do you mean, girl?"

"I mean he's at Gunlock to stay. He's never going to leave it!"

(THE END)

School Choral Club To Sing At Parties

Under the direction of Miss Ethyl Virginia Allen, members of the choral club of the grade schools will sing at the Christmas parties to be held for the benefit of the Christmas children's fund next Monday night. The group will sing Silent Night, The Christmas Tree, Luther's Cradle Song, and all through the Night.

Those singing will be: Wonda Boydston, Ruby Parkston, Betty Kelley, Martha Walling, Loretta Wall, Arlene Wise, Floy Simmons, Mary Ann Danforth, Martha Beth Utts, Margie Waldon, Mary Jane Patterson, Joy McFarlane, Betty Barnes, Mona June Cheney, Billie Jane Roach, W. menu of the Burkburnett squad. Hour after hour, day after day, throughout the season Coaches Hill and Robison have preached blocking. The results have been apparent in every game.

From Stamford comes the report that the two men to watch are numbers 22 and 20, Jim Jones and Bob Watson, half and quarter back. These two stars present the major part of the Stamford attack. Watson is said to be the slipperiest back in the district.

Current Literature Club Studies Songs

Members of the Current Literature club met at the home of Mrs. A. H. Lohoefer to study the probable origin of the spirituals and to hear music supplied by local negro chorus. The program was under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Thomas, and the Spiritual and influence of the Bible discussed by Mrs. M. W. Majors. Mrs. Lee, instructor at the negro school, gave a reading. The chorus of negro spirituals was sung by the negro chorus. The hostess served refreshments.

Those present included Messdames T. H. Boling, J. L. Caffee, B. F. Gilchrist, J. N. Hicks, Rex Kolter, M. W. Majors, R. L. Mattingly, J. R. Prince, James Thomas and the hostess.

Lions Hear Scout Executive At Meet

Members of the Burkburnett Lions club heard the address of Frank Creighton, Scout executive for this area at the meeting of the organization last Tuesday night. The executive spoke of the wonderful work that is being done by the boys and the organization which they represent. The local club recently appointed a committee to work on the program of the establishment of a local troop. The troop will meet in the basement of the First Methodist church in the near future for organization. Morris Strong assisted by J. S. Moreman will organize.

The program was directed by Chester Duncan and Bill Estes. The visitors were Jim King and K. C. Spell of Wichita Falls.

Trophy Fund Grows Rapidly This Week

The fund to buy a permanent trophy for the Burkburnett Bulldogs in honor of their winning the district championship is growing rapidly this week, and with the additional donations the remainder of the week it will be possible for the most beautiful permanent memorial exhibited in this district to be purchased for the club.

The committee working the campaign announced that all those who donated to the fund, names would be permanently a part of the emblem. The names of the players on the team that won the championship have been ordered to be engraved. The club will be handled by D. R. Peever, local jeweler and will be on exhibition in his window some time early next week.

The names of those donating the fund will be published in the Burkburnett Star next week. The committee is enthusiastic about the response, and they will be listed with the trophy list next week.

Motor Companies Boosters Ride

Barrow-Grace, Burkburnett, Cooper Motor companies have volunteered to provide the transportation of the team, pep squad and band to the game Friday afternoon. These companies will send cars and buses jammed with the players and boosters to the bi-district game. The Cooper company has hired the Ever-shool bus to take the band. T. Barrow-Grace will carry the pep squad. The Browning company had promised transportation to the bi-district game before the district had been voted.

The companies would appreciate the assistance from another business or person who is attending the game to aid in the problem, and are willing to accept the cooperation of the fans in the matter. They have made a patriotic gesture in the promise to aid the school and fans.

Gov. Allred To Address Wichita Junior C. Of C.

(SPECIAL TO THE STAR)

Gov. James V. Allred will be the guest of honor and chief speaker at the ninth annual banquet of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce Saturday night, December 12, at the Woman's Forum, it was announced Monday by C. A. Spragins, Jr., general chairman of arrangements.

Officials of the junior chamber were notified Monday of Govern-nor Allred's acceptance of the invitation here. The governor, a Wichita Falls citizen, will select his own subject for the address of the evening.

The governor's acceptance completes arrangements for the annual program, Mr. Spragins said.
A troupe of entertainers from Kathryn Duffy's studios in Oklahoma City will provide a floor show. A secret committee of the Junior chamber has charge of the "gridiron" entertainment in which most of the town's notables will be roasted.

99 Per Cent Of Chevrolet Dealers Show Profits

More than 40 per cent of Chevrolet's 10,000 dealers have been with the company for more than five years, a check-up of company records in connection with Chevrolet's twenty-fifth anniversary revealed this week.

Of these 2,685 have been with Chevrolet for more than five to ten years; 1,385 have been Chevrolet dealers for from ten to fifteen years; 204 for from fifteen to twenty years, and twelve dealers have been distributing Chevrolets for more than twenty years.

During 1936, the company's 25th year as a manufacturer of automobiles, 99.6 per cent of all dealers showed a profit, and their combined profit was greater than during any other year in Chevrolet history, officials declared. Domestic sales for the year, at 1-130,000 also were higher than during any previous year.

"Since the inauguration of our Quality Dealer program three years ago, Chevrolet dealerships have been increasingly profitable, W. E. Holler, general sales manager, declared. It is a real testimonial to Chevrolet that such a large percentage of our dealers have been with us through the years."

Vinson Duvall In School Promotion

STEPHENVILLE, Tex., Dec. 4
—Vinson Duvall was among those who received promotion at John Tarleton Agriculture College announced this week by Maj. James D. Bender, professor of military science. Duvall received the status in the band officers of drum major according to the report recently released.

The Capital Onlooker

By Charles E. Simons
First contracts under the 1937 regular federal aid program were awarded by the Texas Highway Commission November 23 and 24.
Projects placed under contract involved expenditures of approximately $1,800,000.

Another group of highway jobs was scheduled for letting in December and actual construction on the program was expected to get under way shortly after the first of the year. The Commission action formally inaugurated the long awaited program of closing the gaps in the state's cardinal highways. A survey prepared especially for Texas Parade by E. J. Amey, administrative assistant in the Highway Department, shows this program will cost about $15,542,634.

Expenditures under the program will be limited to mileage on the federal aid system, which includes 12,488 of the 20,900 miles maintained by the Highway Department. The current program involves 1,312 miles and includes 549 miles of grading and drainage structures, of which 457 is new construction, 68 miles of new construction including select material or a first base course and 26 miles of widening existing grades and structures; 258 miles of asphalt surfacing of which 254 is new construction; 202 miles of concrete paving, of which 188 miles will be new; three miles of brick paving and construction of 12 major bridge structures.

The program also proposes the landscaping of ten miles of highways under the federal requirement that one per cent of the total aid be expended on this item.

The completion of this program, according to Mr. Amy, will close many gaps in the heavily traveled and primary highways of Texas and place other sections in readiness for hard surfacing and closing additional gaps.

The need for continued and accelerated construction of highways in Texas is revealed in a recent investigation of the actual condition of the state's highway system, both state and local. Hundreds of miles of the state system could profitably be relocated and constructed immediately. Scores of bridges are now obsolete and should be replaced but the construction of both new roads and bridges must be delayed owing to curtailed funds.

A similar situation exists with reference to the secondary, or farm to market, roads which mean so much to the farmer and rural dweller. A study of the secondary road situation is being made with a view of making recommendations to state and federal governments. The problem also is scheduled for discussion at a meeting of highway officials in San Francisco soon.

The obsolescence of Texas roads and bridges is shown graphically in the December issue of Texas Parade. Pictures gathered from the widely scattered corners of this far flung state illustrate in a striking manner the necessity for a continuation of the highway program at least on its present financial basis.

Hundreds of miles of highways long since have outlived their allotted span. With frequent repairing they still are useful, to be sure, but they are as obsolete as the old horse and buggy in the light of modern engineering and modern automobiles and trucks. In fact, many of the bridges and roads are hangovers
from the horse and buggy era, when there was no premium on time, and when the avenues of transportation wound over the terrain without much rhyme or reason. Many miles of this type of road were, of necessity, included in the state system but it has been impossible, from a financial standpoint, to convert these misshapen and inefficient roads into a modern highway network.

B. H. S. Movietones

"The Eyes and Ears of the Institution"

EPISODE I

Friday afternoon before that fatal (to Seymour) game, the Pep Squad, the band, and a number of loyal fans journeyed to Wichita Falls to parade. Everyone must have had a good time as there have been no reports of the contrary.

EPISODE II

Some shindig the football boys had after the game wasn't it! Your editor regrets that she cannot give you the play by play report, but it was all rather jumbled and late at night. The fog was thick you know or smoke or something or other. But everybody is still talking about it, so you know it was a fracas worth attending.

Oh boy, now for that big game with Stamford. We're just waiting 'till we can show those "prairie flowers" the way back to Stamford.

Sophomore Scenes

"Mothers Not Allowed To Read" It seems the party after the Seymour-Bulldog football game caused many break-ups and romances.

Polly broke Dan and J. W.'s heart (shame on Fred) It seems Dan wouldn't come in. I guess he knows Fred was with Polly. Polly was afraid to speak to J. W. because she went with Fred instead of J. W. This will all blow over.

It seems Avis and Mildred liked to sit over in one corner with Francine and Marshall. Marshall and Francine were sitting in the car when up came Jack Kelly, Louise and Woodrow (shame on all of you.) We can't figure out where Jody was during the most exciting part of the party.

It seems that Pauline and Tolly certainly had their share of the fun. What time did you get home?

Bob couldn't make up his mind Friday night.

J. W. and Kathryn were together—cute aren't they?

Bill and Naoma. We wonder if this will become as serious as M. K. and A. F.

Wonder if Coach Hill will pass Doris W. in history. (We think so.)

Way Out West

Way out West is a story of the strange and exciting life on a Dude Ranch. It is an all Western play with typical music and carries tales of a mysterious "Ghost Rider."

The cast of the characters is as follows:

Bob Halliday, Glendon Alexander, Ginny Halliday, Mary Ann Danforth, Cliff Houston, Edward Boswell, Lucy White, Mildred Davis, Alice Arnold, Frances Lax, Dr. G. Spelvin, Clarence Gilbert.

Mrs. Spelvin, Martha Beth Utts, Georgia Spelvin, Peggy Jean Kemp, Carmita, Joy McFarlane, Don Perez, Ray Allen Peevey, Pedro, Ross Martin, Sims, Robert Campbell, Juan Anzora, E. J. Reed, Andy Farrell, W. P. Boydston.

The grade school operetta is to be presented in December under the direction of Miss Virginia Allen. The dances which include the following children promise to be very interesting and colorful.

Indian Jazz Dancers (Spanish), Jean Wills, Margie Brasher, Dorothy Browning, Betty Jane Turner, Frances Brady, Donald Dodson, Ull Tull, William H. Willis, Bobby Ragsdale, James Johnson, W. A. Strickland, Jack Burkston, Indian Dance

Wanda Boydston, Ruby Parkston, Helen Graham, Bula Miller, Nina Ruth Sands, Agnes Sauls, Fay Dalton, Martha Jean Walling, Evelyn Hatchcock, Larene Wornack, Beatrice Alvey, Charlotte Whitacre.

Cow Girl Dance—Janita Rogers, Mildred Gathrie, Betty Barnes, Helen Rhea Dickson, Martha Coats, Dorthea Coats, Delpha Finch, Jimmie Jo Hodges, Floyd Simmons, Dorothy Maybarn, Margie Walden, Arlene Wise, Billy Jean Roach, Wanda Lou Gregg.

Cowboy Dance—Mary Frances Boyd, Carol Lohofener, Mary Jean Prince, Josephine Utts, Allyne Kelly,

Book Nook

The library is glad to announce the arrival of the December copies of the "American Legion Monthly," the American Magazine and the "House Beautiful" magazines.

Average attendance in the library last week was fifteen students per period. A new high point was reached last Friday when thirty-nine students came into the Library at the second period.

The Librarian wishes to remind all students who owe library fines that they will be unable to get their report cards at the end of this six weeks until their fines are paid. Students owing fines are as follows: Glenn Pace, Mary Jo Henson, Jackie Jackson, Avis Finch, Mary Lou Hothan, Verne Patton, Helen Dodd, Betty Jo Gilchrist, Wayne Roberts, Webb Martin, Barbara Crissey, Mary Margaret Browning, Mary Emma Hodges, Helen Faye Bennett, Russell Brookshire, Jo Davis Holman, Lois Rodgers, Verna Day, Jaunice Wheeler, Webb Garland, Virginia Day, Margaret Turner, Bill Stocker, Robert Gregg, Ray Canfield, Gordon Kent, William Elder, Louise Walden, Luther Lee Grace, Mary Jo Guthrie, Patricia Stewart, Leona Pence, Louise Grace, Louise Kent, Polly Wiggins, Helen Justice, Ralph Baumhardt, Margaret Hughes, Van Buren Cross, Christine Millikin, Polly Hall, LaNell Elder, Marian Sopher, Fonda Roe Nichols, P. J. Craig, Bob Bates, and Imogene Shaw.

All fines must be paid by Tuesday afternoon, December 1st.

Typing Typers

The typing classes had two speed and accuracy tests last week. The last test scores are recorded here. The speed score is found by dividing the number of correct words by the time which was five minutes. The accuracy is found by dividing the number of correct words by the total words written.

Out of the entire group of forty-eight, the following made the highest scores:

Name	Speed	Av.
Christine Millikin	34	90%
Avis Finch	30	86%
Grace Preston	29	88%

The scores for the other members of the three sections are as follows:

Van Buren Cross	27	93%

Presenting

AVIS FINCH

Our big hero (Avis) was born in 1919 at Jacksboro, Texas. He started his school career in Burk Burnett, moved away then like all others moved back a few years ago and has been living here since.

Avis is a regular Don Juan, and is seldom seen without the little Kemp child.

Avis has been a big football star for as long as we can remember. We don't have a very good memory. He is one of the few football boys who can dance, but he can't sing.

His ambition is to be a fruit grower in Alaska, or to protest against the high price of cheese in Switzerland. We believe that he will succeed, because almost anyone with his good looks and determination could succeed.

MARY CLEO GLOGER

Mary Cleo (Snookie) to you was born in 1920 at Galveston, Texas. She has blonde hair and blue eyes and is about five and three inches tall. She is a very good short hand student.

"Snookie" is a very good cook and can bake an Angel food cake like an experienced chef, and also is a good dish washer. She says that she never did have an ambition, but we would say that she does and it is to make a good cook and housekeeper for some young man. You guess who it is. We can't.

She thinks that her nickname, "Snookie," is cute and she gets very angry when you call her Mary Cleo.

EX-STUDENTS

The following ex-students of Burk Hi enjoyed the holiday visit at home with their parents and friends.

Harriette Chambers attending Baylor-U.

Miles B. Hays also attending Baylor U.

Frances Clark and her roommate.

Elizabeth Getzenaner from Mary Hardin-Baylor.

Maurine Goodwin, and Katie Mae Taylor also from Mary H-Baylor.

Gayle Preston, Mary Lafon Alexander, J. T. Clifton, Lev. Hudspeth, and Ted Harwell, and Tex Allen from Hardin Simmons.

Pauline Allen, Ruby Louise Bishop, and Donald Cross from Howard Payne.

Hubert Gragg from Texas U.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sims who attended Southern Methodist U.

Willie B. Grace, from North Texas State Teachers College.

Lucille Kemp and Irene Evans from C. I. A., Denton.

Rev. Cowling Speaks

In observance of Thanksgiving a special assembly program was presented Wednesday, Nov. 25.

Miss Wynn led the student body in several songs. Afterwards Mr. Duncan made some announcements regarding the holidays.

Mr. Duncan then introduced the speaker, Rev. Cowling of the First Methodist Church, who delivered a short message to the student body on Thanksgiving.

The student body wishes to extend a hearty welcome to Rev. Cowling and invite him to visit the school whenever he wishes.

Storybook Romance

Marvilla Elliott

On the "Open Road" of "Great Expectations" love comes riding along. That's the way "Emmy Lou" met "David Balfour". She was on her way to see Ann of Green Gables and Rebecca of Sunnybrook farm. She was traveling down the trail of the Lonesome Pine when she saw him. There he was! Among the trees close by a bent twig. A blue bird was singing near him, and somehow she was reminded of a Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court or a lonesome little Shepherd of Kingdom Come.

To David Emmy Lou was a light in the clearing he was lost! She was a girl in White Armour an answer to the dreams of the "Call of the Wild." He knew she must be about seventeen and pretty! She was as pretty as "Lydia of the Pines." The "Wind in the Willows" was blowing and David felt like the crisis was near.

They became great friends. She glowed in his golden tales of the old South. Each evening she met in her secret garden, often clad in the white satin dress and lived again "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland." Almost at once he became her deerslayer. Their love was like a midsummer night's dream and her merry lips were always his.

Among his tales of the South was his favorite, "Tom Brown's School Days," which he often repeated. Then there were those thrilling stories of cowboys and their "Luck of Roaring Camp" and other stories of adventure. The adventure he told her about reminded her of her vision of life "In Sunny Spain."

When he finished those stories he often told her she was like the "Green Goddess" he read in one act plays by modern authors and "Prunella" or Love in a Dutch Garden.

Crossings are so hard to escape he said casually, the high tide of love is like an imperial palace in the eternal city.

Yes she muttered, we're secrets of the friendly woods. Because everyday and night I'm found waiting in the wilderness where we sit on the red rock under the new moon or sitting sun.

Late one night just before bed time, David ask Emmy Lou to be his wife.

If I had four million we would spend a day in old Athens on our honeymoon. But, I can only take you to the end of the earth in a covered wagon with you always "Peg O' my heart."

The following intermediate teachers will have charge of the interscholastic league meet for Burk Burnett:

Arithmetic (grades 5, 6, and 7.) Mary McGinnis.

Like getting black eyes, you can't win success unless you fight.

The Holidays

Boy, those holidays were great—but you know there were some bad things about them, too. For instance, that feeling just after that big turkey dinner with all the trimmings—and that feeling on Monday morning when you had to return to school. But I rather liked to get back to the grind.

Each of the faculty, from all reports, spent the holidays pleasantly. Some of them did some strange things—for instance one teacher went duck hunting and killed two rabbits. (We didn't get the count of the ducks.)

The majority of the faculty went to Ft. Worth to the Teacher's meeting. And a good time was had by all, etc.

"Thanksgiving, oh, Thanksgiving You—" "Good Night!"

B. H. S. Pick-Ups

Butcher to home economics girl: What can I do for you, madam?

Francine H. I'd like to try some of that track meat I heard so much about last spring.

It is claimed that a new enamel keeps clean for several weeks and then merely needs a gentle wipe with a dry cloth. Hope is expressed in juvenile circles that it may be possible to coat the neck with it.

Maid: Miss your father is lying unconscious in the hall, a piece of paper in his hand and a large box by his side.

Barbara C. Joyously, oh my new hat has arrived.

Nature is wonderful. A million years ago she didn't know we were going to wear glasses, yet look at the way she placed our ears.

The farmer had watched the motorist working on his second-hand car for about an hour.

What are you looking at? asked Dan. Is this the first motor car you ever saw.

No, was the dry reply, but it's very much like it.

Teacher: and remember, politeness costs nothing.
Student: Doesn't it? Just try putting I remain your obedient servant at the end of a telegram.

Durad's father picked up a very much scribbled piece of paper. It contained the words, blow, blow, draw, draw, blow, draw, blow.

What's the meaning of things? the father demanded.
Oh that's the music for my harmonica, was the reply.

Than any other by this friend.

Don't mummer if the meter's bad;
Don't protest if the word's don't rhyme;
The whole affair is very sad,
And makes me worry all the time.

If there is just a single poet
Existing in this school or town
I wish you'd kindly let me know it,
For writing verse soon gets me down.

Junior Jottings

Maybe your reporter was suffering from hallucinations or just got in on the wrong gossip last week, anyway, the Thanksgiving plans in last week's paper never did work out. Pauline, LaNelle, and Polly and all the football boys went to Haskell for the Haskell-Stamford game on Turkey day. Barbara spent her holidays at Gramma's in Valley Mills, Texas. Kathryn ate dinner in Iowa Park and spent the rest of the time with her grandmother. A lot of folks simply drove over to Wichita for the show or stayed at home and entertained relatives.

In home room everybody has been spending the time talking (a) excitedly, (b) anxiously, (c) wistfully, (d) hopelessly about going to Stamford to the game. An accurate count is not available yet, but the boys will have the moral support of those who can't go.

Mary Emma, Kathryn, Polly and Melba all seem as excited about Barbara's letter from Crowell as she is herself.

Wasting Time

by Polly Hall

Time is valuable and not to be wasted. Or so philosophers and sages have been trying to press upon us since the beginning of civilization. The more thinkers say against time the harder it seems that doers of the world work to devices to give humanity time to waste. Now since the advent of lightning communication, rapid transportation, invaluable domestic and commercial inventions, the race had more spare time than any other period since the dawn of creation.

With all these extra hours the disposal of mankind, the sage and intelligent, with the less intelligent, to put this time to good use, to broaden our intellects, to educate the rising generations to help advance civilization, modern man wipes the sweat past generations from his forehead and beams upon those kind who have so generously donated him leisure. Despite the fact of the intellectual, the citizen is going to go exactly as he pleases with his spare time, namely, to waste it.

There are three classes of time wasters, which are, on the surface, all people that ordinary. In other words, many waste time just by wasting it. 2—Because it is pleasure. 3—Because the illusion is under the illusion that will someday be great.

Those people in the first are more numerous than any other classes. Into this group the people who are lazy and people who have no ambition. An individual who wastes for an unclassified reason to spend that time staring at a window or straight into concentrating profoundly on nothing. The psychologists have these people sadly analyzed; there is not much to be said concerning them.

The people who waste time pleasure are usually agreed into this group fall the idle, the blissful poor, and the nary middle class person. People experience the same pleasure in wasting an hour as throwing away the same amount of money. It makes one feel if he were lord and master something and it does work to a falling ego. A person wastes time for fun and has time to waste is favored of gods, so it is no wonder he is not disagreeable nor disillusioned. I have an uncle who is a perfect example of this.

He is not wealthy and he wastes days at a stretch in eating, fishing, or just lounging in the gulf coast sunshine. He has a job and he has turned down several offers of hard labor. His theory is, "I'd rather starve to death—and die rested."

The third class of people waste time because they are trying to do something great or most disagreeable and people group of all. They are like the irresponsible Mr. Macaw. They are eternally waiting something to turn up. All the tentacles, inventors, and world fill up this group. The themselves, were more than tentacles, they were about to be recorded in the green fields of history. That is the reason they waste time. They were and always about to do something and if they got tied up in business it would thwart that aspiration that was eternally expected, but never appeared.

ple like that are everywhere, one really appreciates them, cause the race as a whole, conscience of its own faults, a fault with such persons because it still stands in intolerant of the time wasted in day dreaming.

As a whole, time wasting is important, not only because it is as a medium for endless controversies between the intellect and sub-intellectual, but because it is so fundamentally a part of every human. Some one that not approve of wasting time should take a year or so off of day and write out a definition of the phrase. If such a thing happen, the disapproved would quit his protest for he would reach the conclusion that waste time is about as common as we breathe, and almost as necessary.

Beat Stamford

The question in most Burkburnett people's mind right now is "Can Burkburnett beat Stamford?" or "will the 15 pounds difference in weight be too much?" Every team that Burkburnett has played this year has outweighed the local boys from 7 to 16 lbs. and the team emerged victorious in every case. That doesn't mean of course that a good heavy team isn't better than a good little team. A fast heavy man has it all over a fast small one, but the point is that weight alone means very little. My prediction is that Burkburnett will defeat Stamford IF—if the boys play as fast and as hard as they have all year. If the blocking keeps up to par. If the weather gives an even break. This is the first time Peeps has made a positive prediction before a game.

Bulldog Club

One of the most excellent things that has been done by the fans interested in the team is the recent organization of the Bulldog Club for the support of the team. There are hundreds of little tasks that can be done by the cooperation of a few, that can not be accomplished by the few individuals that have had the task all on their own during the past few years. Jingle Hayes was selected permanent chairman and a board of directors appointed. We wish to compliment these men on their good intentions and the good work that they have done already this week.

Revision

The revision of the records indicate that Tolly McKown should be given credit for one additional touchdown. Early in the year the score was credited to another player. This brings his total up to 177 points. The scribe is going to make an examination of records next week to see how closely this came to the high mark.

Day-Nolan Wedding

Miss Ida Belle Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Day of 121 Wigham street became the bride of Pat Nolan of Burkburnett recently in a ceremony at the home of the bride. The simple ceremony was read by Rev. Rumpy of Burkburnett in the presence of the members of the families of the young couple.

Mrs. Nolan will be remembered by many friends in Burkburnett and Rabbit Creek as the representative of that community last year in the race for Harvest Festival queen. The bride received many votes for that position.

Are you a member of the Eastern Star, or just a name on the list. Does the Star shine for you? A steady light, or is it dimmed in the mist of casual interest and half hearted work. Does some one have to urge you to come to the chapter each time. What kind of a member are you?

Miss Isabel Crowe, New Zealand student, attended the celebration.

Punts And Passes

All District

While the fans sit on the edges of their seats this week watching the clocks and waiting for the game 2:30 next Friday afternoon at Stamford, some serious consideration should be given to the selection by the coaches for all district teams. Burkburnett came near setting a record for the number of votes received of those cast by the coaches. Of the 77 votes for membership on the first string, Burkburnett received 35 votes or 45.424 per cent. The next notable thing is that every man that is on the starting line up was good enough to receive at least one vote except one member. On the first string and second string Burkburnett placed the unprecedented number of 8 men.

STOP IT WITH Alka-Seltzer

Does Headache "slow you down?" You are a rare exception if it does not.

One or two tablets of ALKA-SELTZER in a glass of water makes a pleasant alkalinizing solution that usually brings relief in just a few minutes. ALKA-SELTZER is also recommended for Gas on Stomach, "Morning After", Acid Indigestion, Colds, and Muscular Pains.

You will like the tangy flavor and the results when you take Alka-Seltzer. Alka-Seltzer, when dissolved in water, contains an analgesic, (Sodium Acetyl-Salicylate). In addition, the alkalinizing agents in Alka-Seltzer help to relieve those everyday disorders associated with hyper-acidity.

ELECTRA TO REFUND DEBTS

Bankruptcy Suit Dropped Creditors Agree

The City of Electra's petition in bankruptcy was dismissed, civil actions for the collection of delinquent bond payments were dropped, and a plan for the complete refunding of its bonded indebtedness was adopted as the result of proceedings in the federal district court here Monday before Judge William H. Atwell.

Bankruptcy Erased

The bankruptcy petition filed about one year ago by the city of Electra was erased by the court because the federal municipal bankruptcy law finally was declared unconstitutional by the U. S. supreme court in October. The petition had been filed under that measure.

Boy Scouts Of Troop 2 Sponsor Movie

Troop 2 of the Burkburnett Boy Scouts, in their program to increase the equipment of the troop, Tuesday, December 2, sponsored the cinema production of "The General Died At Dawn." This is the second episode in their drive to bring their troop up to par in the matter of tents, cooking equipment, first aid supplies, bugle, and uniforms. They report a successful night and wish to thank the citizens of Burkburnett for their kind and wholehearted support.

They wish to acknowledge the assistance given by the Palace Theatre in allowing them to sponsor the movie.

The Boy Scouts of Troop 2 of Burkburnett have been doing fine work this year. A group of Scouts on their way to camp last summer put out a fire which had partially destroyed the roof of someone's home. One night the Scouts met at the Baptist church and brought canned goods which they took to a very needy family. These are just samples.

In the Boy Scout organization, the troop is headed by a Scoutmaster, assistant Scoutmaster, Jr. Assistant Scoutmaster and Senior Patrol leader. The Scoutmaster of Troop 2 is Mr. A. C. Pierce, a teacher in the school system. The assistant Scoutmaster is Webb Martin of Burkburnett High school, who is also a member of the football squad; and the Senior Patrol Leader is James Walling, also a student of the high school.

A full troop is divided into four patrols with eight Scouts in each patrol. The patrols are headed by patrol leaders and assistant patrol leaders. Then there is the hike-master, the grub-master, the quartermaster, treasurer, cheer leader, and scribe. The hike-master selects places for hikes; the grub-master arranges food; the quartermaster charge of the sleeping arrangements; the treasurer takes charge of financial matters; the cheer leader keeps the Scouts pepped up; and the scribe keeps a record of activities.

Scouting is not all playing games and passing Scout tests; for if you take the first two letters out of Scouting, you can see what is really the most important part.

Any boy who wishes to join the Scouts should see the Scouters in his locality, and he will be given full details about becoming a Scout.

Reporter, Troop 2.

Second Game Of Valley Series Be Played Next Fri.

Fairview and Clara will tangle in the second of the three game series for the championship of Red River and Wichita Valley basketball league at Fairview Friday night. Clara Greyhounds won the hardest fought game of the league last Tuesday night, 29 to 31 to take a one game lead and a huge advantage in the series.

The game was bitterly fought from the first with first one team and then the other leading. At the last Fairview held a five point lead, but it melted before a rally by the Clara Greyhounds. The game was forced into extra periods, and the Greyhounds won by a last minute goal.

The two teams battled to a tie for the lead of the league during the pre-season schedule. Each lost one game.

Death Of Former Burk Football Star Reported, Arizona

Gene Buckner, who was visiting in Burkburnett this week, reported that Jim Barker, former star Burkburnett football player had died this summer in Arizona as a victim of an industrial infection. Barker received the infection working in a mine which affected his lungs so that he became seriously ill for several weeks before his death. He is remembered by many Burkburnett people for his sterling play at tackle on Burkburnett football teams several years ago.
