Non-Intervention Backfires

This is the time to say "I told you so." Most European diplomats had their fingers crossed when the non-intervention blockade was established around Spain. The in-fact of the world have ever made, but in spite of its good international guard established was one of the most heroic to the committee created a situation that inevitably led to and expensive attempts to preserve peace that the nations conflict.

Naturally German and Italian ships allowed materials and men sympathetic to their side to slip through. The French probably did the same thing. Russia surely would not allow a little thing like a treaty prevent the entrance materials that would help the red government.

The result in the bombing of the German ship demonstrates the futility of interfering between a family in a fuss. The Spanish have a quarrel that has become a struggle between the major nations of the world.

It was futile to try to keep peace when the enthusiastic soldiers and aviators had the opportunity to inflict damage on an avowed enemy as they did when they sighted the German battle ship last Saturday. Probably the men were acting without official orders, and considered the opportunity too good to miss. But that is exactly what the international blockade could produce. Any blockade is dangerous. The English blockade of Germany during the world war came near producing war between U. S. and Great Britain.

The tenseness in Europe will not end until some definite explosion occurs. The hatred builded up by years of political propaganda can not end in peaceful understanding. The dictators leaped to power on hatred and prejudice, and now that prejudice must find an outlet. The monster of ill-will created to push them into office may lead to the destruction of their nation and government.

Write a Letter

It is possible that the celebration this year will receive more publicity than similar event held in Burkburnett, but there is one thing that every citizen can do which will help bring many old time residents back for the occasion. Most of us know some one who formerly lived here and to whom we write occasionally. The suggestion has been made by the executive committee of the celebration that every citizen of Burkburnett write every person with whom he corresponds an invitation to attend the home coming event.

A personal invitation will bring more people than all the publicity that it is possible to secure. The pioneers are receiving invitations from the reception committee, but your personal invitations would carry more warmth and interest. So write a letter to every body that you know whom formerly lived here.

Memorial Coins

In order to make it unnecessary for the merchants to carry too much of the burden for the celebration that will be held here June 18-19 the committee started the guen contest with the memorial coins selling for a small sum. This money will all be used to make the necessary advanced expenditures for the fair arrangements.

In buying the coin from the girl the purchaser is not buying a coin, he is buying the celebration. It doesn't matter who wins the contest. One of the girls will receive the honor of regaining during the celebration. The loyalty of the citizens of the city is what matters. Buy another coin.

Harvest and Labor

Last year a dispute arose after some farmers charged that the relief workers refused to assist in harvest processes. A better organization is being arranged this year to take care of the seasonal demand for workers. There will be little or no excuse for anyone who wishes to work to be out of a job during the short time.

All the men who wish employment should get in touch with the authorities as soon as possible, and the farmers who wish assistance should arrange to use, in so far as possible, the local workers first. By cooperation the conflict which arose last year can be eliminated.

Special Edition

The Burkburnett Star Staff has been working for several months to produce a history of the city and the organizations here in the special edition which will be published June 16. In so far as possible every club has been contacted and the history written. Pictures of almost every important event in the history of the town have been reproduced.

Before the edition is published the paper wishes to express appreciation to all those who have aided in the research and who have liberally offered pictures.

The edition will be one of the best that has been printed by the Star.

Capital News Letter

By W. D. McFarlane, M. C.

Hours and Wages

Last Monday the President sent his message to Congress recommending legislation to bar the products of child labor from interstate commerce and to set up maximum hour and minimum wage legislation to relieve the distressing unemployment situation in the nation. He again called to our attention what every one knows, that more than a third of our people are ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed. Bills were immediately introduced by Senator Black in the Senate and Representative Connery in the House, Chairmen of the respective Labor Committees, providing:

1. Creation of a 5-man board to control industrial wages in interstate commerce, the President to name the board.

2. Congress to go on record against 'employment of workers under substandard labor conditions in occupations in interstate commerce'.

3. Board studies would determine basic wage and hour levels.

4. Child labor (under 16) would be defined as an 'unfair practice'.

5. 'Fair wages' would be 'fairly and reasonably commensurate with the value of the service or class of service rendered'.

6. Definition of a 'reasonable' work week would be 'a number of hours of employment in a week which is reasonably suitable to the nature of the service or class of service rendered'.

7. The board could revise hour and wage standards, if necessary.

8. Use of strikebreakers or industrial espionage would be labeled an 'oppressive labor practice'.

9. Major industries would be forbidden to send into interstate commerce any 'unfair goods,' made in violation of the board's standards.

The message asked for all of these objectives and in addition asked action by states to deal with labor conditions in intrastate commerce. Exempt from provisions of the administration bills would be persons earning more than $1,200 a year, persons earning more than 80 cents an hour, and employers of fewer than 15 persons.

Social Security Decisions

In three badly split decisions the Supreme Court last Monday continued their complete reversal program of the decisions they have rendered against the New Deal the first three years and rendered their 9th, 10th and 11th decisions upholding the validity of the Social Security Act. These three decisions make eleven consecutive decisions the Court has rendered up-holding the validity of major New Deal legislation since the President called to the attention of the country the reactionary decisions of the Supreme Court and recommended legislation to reorganize the Federal Judiciary. Certainly the political decisions rendered by the Court this year, completely reversing the decisions they have rendered on New Deal legislation the past three years, show that something has caused the Supreme Court to recognize the errors of their decisions the past three years in holding New Deal legislation unconstitutional. However, as usual, the same division of the Court 5 to 4, prevails in these decisions. Last Monday, two 5 to 4 decisions by the Court held the unemployment insurance section of the Social Security Act valid. By a 7 to 2 decision they held the Old Age Pension provision valid.

New Deal Power Program

Friday, Government Counsel requested the Supreme Court to pass upon the constitutionality of the entire New Deal power program under which the administration has made loans and grants to construct Municipal Power plants, extend electricity to farm homes and has enacted legislation setting up hydro-electric plants nation-wide. The Supreme Court in the Duke Power Company case, although the case was fully developed, sent it back to the Trial court for further consideration, the Court refusing to pass on a large part of the power program. A large number of injunction suits filed by the Power trust nation-wide has almost stopped the power program, however, all power cases reaching the Circuit Courts of Appeal have upheld the validity of the Administration power program without a single dissenting opinion.

More than $1,000,000,000 is the annual excessive profits being extracted from the consumers of electricity and similar excessive profits prevail in all other lines of the Utilities, telephone, telegraph, gas transportation etc. Nearly the whole power program is blocked and it is to be hoped that the Supreme Court will pass upon this important question before they take their three months vacation on full pay, beginning this week.

Cheap electric current for all is the ultimate goal of the Administration's Power program. A far reaching long range program to assist the one third of our people who are ill-fed, clothed and housed to provide these necessities for them is being worked out and legislation is pending to provide same. This is the real reason why from here on the country will hear all kinds of propaganda being spread to cause discontent in and out of Congress to try to force early adjournment to block the enactment of this legislative program of the Administration designed to benefit our people. Buying power must be maintained today if we are to continue our march of progress back to recovery.

The Administration's Program

The President in his press conference last week announced that a Message on eliminating loopholes in our revenue laws would be sent to Congress this week. Loopholes in our tax laws were discussed in my last week's letter. It is interesting to note that we will continue to collect the major part of our revenue from sales or excise taxes rather than from income taxes as follows:

First 10 Months of Fiscal year, 1936	Percentage
Income	$1,084,031,265.95 35
All other	$1,704,211,779.45 65
Total	$2,788,243,045.40
First 10 Months Fiscal Year 1937	Percentage
	$1,567,257,698.00 44
	$1,977,397,493.76 56
	$3,544,655,191.76

Thus we see that 65 per cent of the revenues last year were collected through sales taxes and 56 per cent this year through sales taxes. Information available clearly indicates that through loopholes and evasions in existing laws, more revenue escapes than is being collected.

Relief

The House debated last week and finally passed and sent to the Senate on Tuesday of this week, after the most bitter scrap of the session, the relief bill of $1,500,000,000 for the next fiscal year. The big controversy arose due to the fact that many worth while projects had been invited by the PWA and WPA and approved by the many different cities and districts and given a very uncertain status under pending legislation. It is believed that the factory compromise will be reached on this project between the House and Senate working out their differences.

Uncle Dave knows a thing or two about the government, but he can't think of what he should do himself, so he has to earn the living for himself.

STOP IT WITH Alka-Seltzer

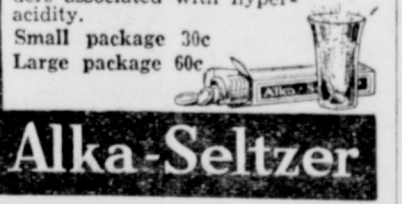

Does Headache "slow you down?" You are a rare exception it does not.

One or two tablets of ALKA-SELTZER in a glass of water makes a pleasant alkalinizing solution that usually brings relief in just a few minutes.

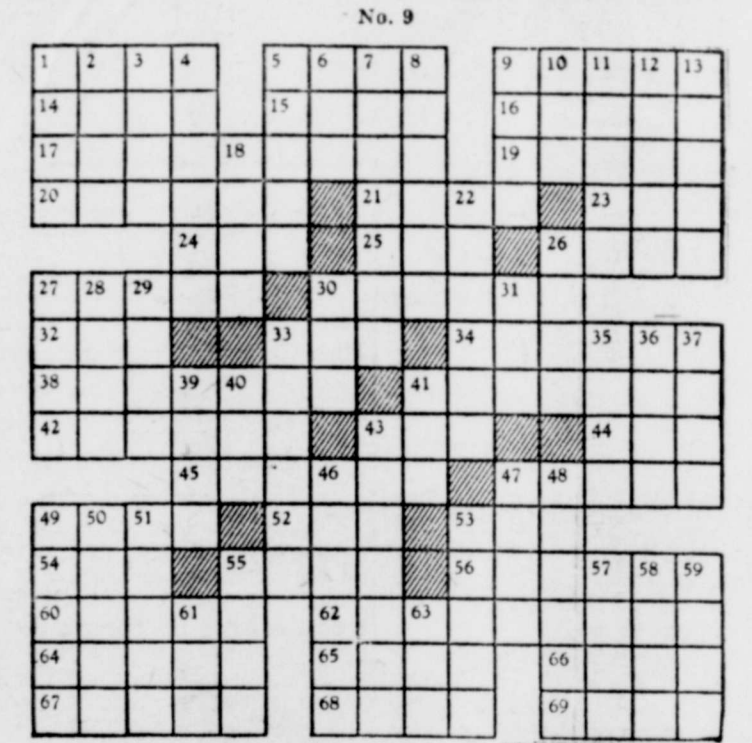

ALKA-SELTZER is also recommended for Gas on Stomach, "Morning After", Acid Indigestion, Colds, and Muscular Pains.

You will like the tangy flavor and the results when you take Alka-Seltzer. Alka-Seltzer, when dissolved in water, contains an analgesic (Sodium Acetyl-Salicylate). In addition, the alkalinizing agents in Alka-Seltzer help to relieve those everyday disorders associated with hyperacidity.

Mud Thrown Ground Lost

(From an editorial in the Rotarian Magazine)

A newspaperman, whom we know, has an enlightening hobby. He collects outlandishly misleading statements in the press of the world. Every nation, he says, has its share of tale bearing.

Typical of clippings that compose his collection is one in which a South African tells of depression days in North America. This scribe declares that he found New York's skyscrapers dark, dreary, and practically deserted. The same condition, he asserts, prevailed in towns farther west, even "in the wilds of Missouri". And a certain Johannesburg newspaper reports that "The world crisis has swept America with a flame of fire, scourging and shriveling State after State, from the Atlantic to the Pacific".

One American tourist recently observed that he could travel throughout Europe "and never know from the local press that America had anything but heat waves, droughts, and gangsters". But frank European travelers comment upon the paucity of "news from home" in the American press, so the score would seem to be evened.

The hobby of our newspaper friend, however, does not stop at stuffing clippings of bizarre reporting into brown pouches. He is a deep student of public opinion and the techniques of its formation and control. Quite dryly, he observes that in affairs both national and personal, "mud thrown is ground lost". Get him that there is a crop of younger reporters who are taking pains to write carefully and accurately and that their work is buttressing in understanding the world's will-to-goodwill.

TWA SERVES ALL

One of the best advertisements anyone or anything can have is a satisfied customer and if Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. doesn't have such a customer in the center of this picture, then all signs fail. With his mother, he is ready for the night in one of the comfortable berths aboard TWA's Skysleeper planes. One of the company's air hostesses just has completed the welcome process of administering a meal by means of the bottle which she is holding. Through such accommodations as those shown here, mother and baby will have a luxurious journey across the United States via TWA.

The plastic surgeon is a fairly recent comer to the beauty industry. His business is face-lifting. With a calm hand, a sterile scalpel, and the inspiration of a sculptor, he hoists sagging cheeks, resolves multiple chins, shoos away "crow's-feet", and banishes bumps from bulging noses. All this to help women - and men to retrieve the youthful look.

But face-lifting is not confined to the human physiognomy. Cities - just as proud as the folks who compose them - have lately begun to make appointments with those beauty experts, the architect and the engineer, bidding them lift the face of main street.

A business district that looks every bit like an exhibit of the history of architecture can have little appeal, certainly, in an age that is learning to demand the functional, the streamlined and the beautiful in toothpicks and skyscrapers and everything between. It is, moreover, just sound sense to provide pleasant, relaxing surroundings for Main Street's customers.

A certain American comedian, please indulge his pun, thinks the we have been wrinkled up with care and worry for so long that now is a good time to get our faith lifted. What better way to lift a townman's faith in his town than to consider and then do something about, lifting the face of Main Street.

Live Wire Merchant Selects Non-Advertising City of 4500 Population To Open New Dept. Store

The Following Conversation Took Place in the Newspaper Office of a Texas City of 4,500 Population; Between a Wealthy Merchant and the Newspaper Publisher.

Merchant: "May I peruse the files of your paper for the past 6 or 8 months?"

Publisher: "Certainly, Sir."

Having studied the files for some time, the merchant then introduced himself to the publisher with the following explanation:

"I am So and So of the Blank Department Stores and I am looking for a desirable spot in which to locate another of our small stores, and have decided from the files of your paper, that this city is the proper location."

Publisher: (slightly puzzled, asked)— "Would you explain how my paper gave you the desired information, as I am glad it has been of service to you, and wish to be the first to extend the hand of welcome and goodfellowship."

Merchant: "That is very simple, Sir, from my viewpoint: Your merchants seem to lag in the one essential builder of profitable merchandising, Newspaper

Advertising; therefore, I do not feel that they will offer me such strong competition, as I am a strong advertiser, and fully aware that this publicity backed by quality merchandise, will give our firm a prosperous store in this splendid little city."

Publisher: "That is, indeed, a strong point of view, and yet, one which has never before been presented to me."

Merchant: "Then let us go into the matter of an advertising contract at this time."

Whereupon, the publisher furnished the merchant with rates that secured him a contract for several hundred inches of display advertising during the first six months period of the new store, which was immediately established in the town.

Needless to say that this merchant soon controlled the majority of the business of the town, as he backed his advertising with real quality merchandise.

Having thus gained the majority of the business in the prosperous little city the merchant did not foolishly cease to advertise, but in order to hold the advantage gained, DOUBLED HIS ADVERTISING CONTRACT WITH THE PAPER.

SIGH FOR AN EYE

Who wouldn't gladly get an eye blackened, on the guarantee that vicious Carole Lombard would take care of it? Not Fred MacMurray, anyhow, as you may observe in this scene from "Swing High, Swing Low," the couple's latest co-starring film, due for Midnite Prevue Saturday night, Sunday and Monday at the Palace Theatre.

Feeding Prisoners Cost County 10.75 Cents Each Day

Wichita county's net cost for feeding county jail inmates during April was only 10 3/4 cents per prison day, according to reports filed with the commissioners court Tuesday by County Auditor J. R. Jones.

During the month the gross cost of feeding prisoners totaled $405, accounted for as follows: Cook's salary, $100; hauling trash, $6; groceries, $183.33; meat, $4.16; and bread, $71.51.

With a total of 2,121 prisoner days, the gross average cost was $19.10 cents per day. A check for $177 was received from the federal government, however, for care of federal prisoners, and this reduced the net total cost to $228, or 10.75 cents per prison day.

This showed a reduction from the first quarter of 1937, when the gross cost was 21.81 cents per prison day and the net cost 15.84 cents.

The commissioners, who met Tuesday due to Monday's holiday, also approved the bond and handing the county's pauper & Vaughan Funeral home for burials and ambulance work during the next twelve months.

Big Rabbit Creek

Finally, folks, our life-saving crop, Big Rain, came. It sprinkled along all Saturday afternoon until 7:35 p. m., then it started in to give us just a real good rain which it did. It continued raining until 9:15 p. m. During this time three-fourths of an inch of rain fell. It was just what was needed as all of the upland was getting very dry. The gardens down here in the valley were needing rain very badly. Everything is looking lovely and the goose is hanging high.

Nearly every grain raiser was fortunate enough to get their wheat and oats cut and in the shock before the big rain came.

Clarence LaBarre got his fine field of wheat cut and all shocked up fine and dandy.

Threshing has already started over around Taylor store, so Hawk-Eye has been informed. Oats, so far, are threshing out from 35 to 40 bushels per acre.

Wheat estimation is thought to thresh out from 35 to 40 bushels per acre this year.

Tom Lee and J. E. Wood finished cutting their wheat crop on Lee's home place Thursday and Friday.

Old Red River, for several days past had her rising clothes on. She is from bank to bank at this writing.

Harvest help shocking grain is $1.50 per day and dinner. Cutting grain with team and binder is $1.00 per acre. Cutting grain with tractor is $1.50 per acre.

Owing to the fact that Hawk-Eye is cutting weeds all day, therefore he could not go to the friendly little city of Burkburnett Saturday.

Jess Kinniard, who is farming the A. L. Willis farm, in the Red River Valley, had a light heart attack Saturday about noon, but is better at this writing.

As soon as the ground settles so the farmers can get to plowing their cotton after the big rain, cotton chopping will start. It is said that cotton chopping will be $1.25 per day and your dinner in this neighborhood.

Quite a few farmers over on this side of the Branch who have been going to Burk every Saturday didn't go this past Saturday on account of staying at home to cut grain.

Crops never have looked so promising for many years past as they do now. Of course, a big hail storm could come along and put the "fixin'" on us and put us old farmers all on the bum.

Mr. and Mrs. James Self, Mr. Guy Willis and Mr. Leathon motored down in the Big Rabbit Creek community Sunday afternoon hunting the home of Jess Kinniard. Mr. and Mrs. Self now live in Anadarko, Okla. Mr. Self is general manager of a big wholesale and retail firm. They drove down to see about some of Mr. Self's milk cows, which Mr. Kinniard has charge of.

Light and Bullets Save Explorer Trapped In Dark by Deadly Cobra

QUICK action with an automatic pistol and a light is believed to have saved the life of one member of the Griswold-Harkness expedition to Tibet when a deadly cobra was discovered in their camp headquarters in the Sulu Archipelago.

Lawrence T. E. Griswold, head of the expedition, had stopped with two companions at Laum Secubun, a small native settlement on the Sulu Sea. They were quarters in a grass hut set up on stilts at the margin of the beach. All had gone to sleep, lying on mats spread on the floor.

"Tired as I was," said Griswold, "I woke up suddenly, taut with nervousness. The hut was pitch dark. The only sound was the quiet breathing of my two friends, but I was obsessed with a fear of some imminent danger."

"Creeping along the edges of my sleeping mat, I found my flashlight and switched it on. The first blink revealed a cobra. He was up, weaving from side to side, ready to strike, and less than two feet away from the head of one of my companions. A cobra's bite, often fatal, is doubly venomous in the face or neck because the poison goes more swiftly into the blood stream.

"Something told me to flash my light directly in the snake's eyes. Instantly the ghastly weaving stopped, the reptile acting puzzled and blinded by the brilliance. Carefully transferring the light to my left hand, I got hold of my revolver and blazed away. My companions awoke amidst the din and smoke to find a dead cobra lying beside them. I never before realized how much the life of a person engaged in exploration work depends upon firearms fitted with the right ammunition and flashlights equipped with fresh batteries. If either fail, he is in danger."

Cobra bites take thousands of lives every year. Formerly the only effective treatment consisted of cutting away the area of the bite. An "anti-venom" has now been developed, but it is effective only if administered immediately after the bite, a condition that cannot often be fulfilled in regions infested by the deadly reptile.

Mrs. Fred LaBarre and son, Ed, and grandson, a Mr. Metz, called on the Owens family Sunday afternoon and spent an hour or so visiting with the family.

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Viola Jordan of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and one son, Roy Swackhammer, Kansas City, Mo. Pallbearers were W. C. Gage, J. G. Allison, Will Teal, H. S. Grace, B. H. Preston and Roy Magers.

Funeral Services For J. A. Swackhammer 77, Held Tuesday

Funeral services were held Tuesday for J. A. Swackhammer, 77, who died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. James Johnson, here Sunday night following a long illness.

The services were conducted of this place Tuesday afternoon from the First Baptist church at 4 o'clock with Rev. Miles B. Hayes, pastor, officiating. Thomas Funeral home was in charge.

The body was taken to Hennessey, Okla., where funeral services were held from the First Baptist church of that city at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and burial in the Hennessey cemetery under the direction of the Thomas Funeral home of Burkburnett. Swackhammer had been a resident of Burkburnett 12 years.

Survivors are two daughters.

Oil production taxes in South-west Texas now average 16 cents a barrel, against an average profit to the producer of about 8 cents per barrel. Constant threats of still higher natural resource taxation, the All-South Development Council reports, coupled with this diminishing return, will destroy incentive for exploration and development of many potential producing areas.

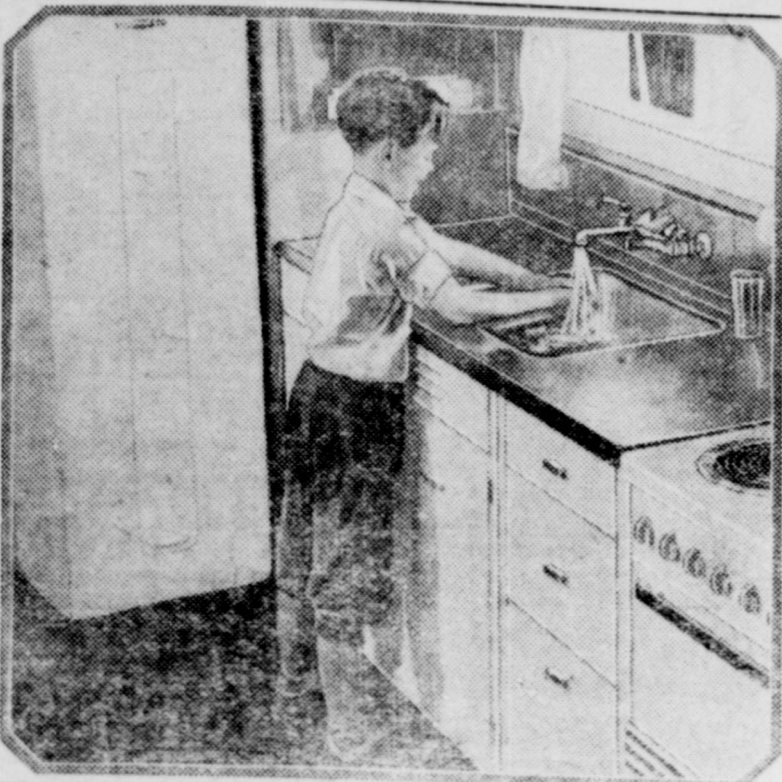

The number of people employed by 1,600 industrial firms in Texas during the first four months of 1937 showed an increase of 9 per cent over the same period last year, with the weekly payroll 15 per cent larger, according to the All-South Development Council.

The phenomenal growth of the Texas grape-fruit by-products industry is shown in the report that citrus canning plants this season will pay $500,000 for 60,000 tons of oranges and grapefruit for conversion into juices, concentrates, marmalades, wines, flavoring, beverage bases, and candied peels. Two years ago, the All-South Development Council recalls, 25,000 tons were thus sold, for $225,000, and in 1933 the canned portion of the crop amounted to only $10,000. The number of Texas plants has grown from three to 25.

Although Texas produces more cotton than any other state, it ranks next to last among 12-cotton producing states in per-acre yield, with 122 pounds of lint to the acre. In 1936 Mississippi per-acre yield of 305 pounds is surpassed by California (574), New Mexico (457), and Arizona (438).

Important Oil Decision
One of the most important decisions handed down by the supreme court in matters which directly affect the Burkburnett area was in the case of the Federal Government vs. J. J. Perkins of Wichita Falls. In this case the government appealed from a circuit court decision of the Circuit Court decision of the Fifth Circuit Court which the bureau of internal revenue lost the fight to assess taxes against Perkins and his wife on a method for paying for oil leases.

HOT WATER IN A HURRY

THE kitchen sink is the most convenient "wash-up" spot for active boys when the dinner call comes, and an instant supply of hot water is a necessity in the quick removal of playtime grime. The sliding into second base, and is finding hot water at the turn of the faucet supplied by the modern electric water heater shown at the left. Many modern homes are finding the streamlined styling of the Hotpoint water heater easily adaptable to all-electric kitchen installation, as shown. The water heater is shown at the left.

In this case the method which may be followed by operators in the future was evolved by Perkins.

kins. They acquired an important lease from Mamie S. Hammonds and Fred P. Hammonds of East Texas by paying 10 dollars in cash and agreed to give the amount up to several hundred thousand dollars on production from the lease when oil was discovered. Perkins assigned sufficient oil to pay the lease and failed to include it in his tax report. The collector assessed the deficiency. In the decision Tuesday the supreme court claimed and declared that Perkins wasn't required to include the income from his lease. The decision will possibly make possible a greater exploration, and in the future may cause further exploration in the Burkburnett area.

WE ENJOY KNOWING OUR NEIGHBORS BUSINESS

We all like to know how our neighbor is handling his business, and here is one neighbor who is proud enough of his management to tell us about it.

One of Burkburnett's merchants had an electric bill of $38.84 for the use of 697 KWH in January four years ago.

This year the same consumption would have cost him only $25.12 because with the establishment of a municipal light plant, electric rates were drastically lowered.

This same merchant, seeking to give his customers several improvements, added lighting fixtures of the best type and made extensions. This year as a result he consumed 1097 KWH. However, that many cost only $35.92, less than the cost of 697 KWH before municipal plant days.

This merchant is an ardent backer of the local light plant. No wonder he is proud of his business ability.
