COUNTY TO VOTE WET OR DRY IN JULY PRIMARY

SEEMS LIKE A FRIENDLY ARGUMENT

Win the passing of knighthood and of Indian fighting prowess, archery has been relegated to the realm of sport. At Camp Waldemar, near Kerrville, it is a popular sport, and in this picture are some of the campers grouped around one of the targets. Left to right, they are Frances Pri-deaux, Archer City; Elizabeth Decker, Electra; Eloise Hyer, Archer City; Marilyn Harwell, Burkburnett; and Paula Jane Ikard, Archer City. These girls have been spending a six-week vacation at the camp. They will return home at the end of next week when the first term closes. Other girls from this section will be at the camp for opening of the second term on July 17th.

Dry Election Is Ordered By County Court

United Drys Petitioning For Election Is Granted By Commission

Burkburnett voters will have the opportunity on July 23 to vote for or against the prohibition "of the sale of all alcoholic beverages" in this county as the result of action of the county commissioners court Tuesday in calling a special election on that date.

Two Elections

The local option election, county-wide, will be conducted in connection with the first Democratic primary only so far as voting places are concerned. Separate boxes and separate officials will be provided for the two elections.

Complete prohibition for the whole county is the only issue on the ballot.

Wichita County is now wet except for precinct 3, the Iowa Park district. Precincts 1, 2 and 4 separately legalized the sale of liquors subsequent to legalization of 3.2 beer sales in the entire county in 1933.

It was stated that the special election will cost the county approximately $2,500, including cost of 46 new ballot-box sets necessary for double elections.

Dear Mr. Blackstone:

As you know, we are making plans for the ninth annual session of our Firemen's Training School for the firemen and fire marshals of Texas, at this College, July 17 to 22. At that time we will have approximately 500 firemen and fire marshals here for training, under the direction of experienced fire chiefs, drillmasters, and fire marshals from all over the state. This year we are planning to lay special emphasis on the fire marshal's work and I am needing several outstanding fire marshals to put over this work to the men I have received some very favorable comments on the work which you have been doing in Burkburnett, and if possible, would like to have you act as instructor during the sessions of the School. I would like to put you in the fire prevention section, which is taken by both advanced and general course firemen and also our fire marshals. In this work you will be working with Fire Marshal

Dogies Swamp Mules, 11-14

Double Plays Make Up For Frequent Errors

The Burkburnett-Fairview Dogies took undisputed lead of the Oil Belt league Sunday afternoon when they swamped the State Hospital Mules, 11 to 4, at the State Hospital field.

Combining some very brilliant and some very bad fielding, the Dogies dominated the game from the first inning.

Five double plays made by the infield furnished the feature of the game, and a series of errors led to the Mules' rally in the sixth and seventh innings to allow them to score four runs.

The Dogies' infield combination, Harvey to Willett to Zink, made four of the double plays. And Zink moved to shortstop to pull one of the plays in solo.

The Dogies took charge of the game from the first inning. They scored three runs in the first, four runs in the second inning, and remained scoreless until they made two runs in the eighth and ninth innings.

The mules scored once in the sixth. In the seventh they came to life to push across three tallies.

Willett's homer in the eighth with Harvey on was the only circuit hit of the game. Score:

"Health by radio"—specifically health advice from border broadcasting stations—was outspokenly classified as a scourge by Texas medicos meeting in Houston.

In a resolution passed Wednesday in the State Board of Health examiners demanded of the Federal Communications Commission half medical advertising broadcast from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. The people of the Rio Grande are entitled to protection from such "merciless" daily advertising, the resolution stated. No names were mentioned.

Central Christian To Have Services Through Summer

Hartford Inlow will again serve the Central Christian church as pastor through the summer months. Rev. Inlow, who is a third year student at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, held services here on alternate Sundays through last summer and made many friends who will welcome his return.

The first services of this season were held from the Christian church last Sunday. Morning and evening services will be held there on Sunday, July 10, and thereafter on every 2nd and 4th Sundays during the summer.

Rev. Inlow announces that the Christian Endeavor will be reorganized and all young people are urged to be at the church at 8:30 Sunday to make plans for the rest of the season.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone who will come to services at the Central Christian church, which was formerly one of the most active organizations in this community. It is the hope of the pastor that with the help of his members, he will be able to reorganize the church so that it may once more take its place in the community as a powerful institution.

Community Night Is Scheduled For Friday, July 8th

The second Community Night program for this season to be given locally will be presented here Friday night. The affair will take place at the usual location on Avenue C at the intersection with Main.

Everyone is invited. An unusually entertaining program has been planned. One of the featured artists will be Othar Wheeler, a local boy who has established quite a reputation as a singer in Dallas, where he is attending S. M. U.

A quartet of young musicians from Randlett, Oklahoma, will present several numbers; Polly Wiggins has been asked to dance; Louise Kent will sing, and a string trio has been engaged to play several selections. It has been planned to present Barbara Crissey with the certificate of award to which she is entitled as winner of the title "Miss West Texas" at the WTCC Convention.

Big Rabbit Creek

July 5, 1938
Well, the 4th of July has come and gone and it has left sadness and sorrow behind in many a home all over our land and country. Hawkeye and his brother John, celebrated the 4th of July at the end of the handle of a goose-neck in the cotton field all day. From 3:00 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., it was 99 degrees. Some hot chopping cotton, but we liked it.

Grandpa Dillbeck, owner of the country Little Red River Valley Store, in the Rabbit Creek community, had been critically ill with heart trouble. Late Sunday evening, it was reported that he was some better. It is hoped by his host of friends that in a few days Grandpa will be able to be up and around again.

Monday, July 4, at 4 p. m., it was 100 degrees in the shade for a short while, then it dropped down to 99 and remained there until 4:30 p. m.

A few days ago one of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martin's small boys was painfully burned by gasoline from his knees down. The little boy is about 10 years old. Donald was visiting his playmates at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kilpatrick. Donald and the Kilpatrick's little boy built a fire to melt some rabbit in an old pan, and as the fire didn't burn off like they wanted it to, the Kilpatrick boy started to pour a quart of gasoline on the flames.

The gasoline exploded, throwing burning gas all over the Martin boy's legs, burning him very badly. If he hadn't had presence of mind enough to pull off his trousers, he would have been burned to death. He is being taken three times a week to their home physician at Temple, Oklahoma, for treatment. He is improving slowly.

The 4th of July, Monday, was just the same as any other day as far as the threshing machines were concerned, as most any direction you could look, you could see a thresher at work with a full crew of threshing hands.

J. E. Wood had his wheat and oats threshed on the Tom Lee place Monday. Oats made around 30 bushels and wheat about 25 bushels, so Hawkeye has been advised.

There are over 20 threshing machines in full operation in this part of Southern Cotton county threshing grain, so Hawkeye has been informed.

Wheat sold at Temple, Okla., and Walters, Okla., for 58 cents and oats 20 cents per bushel.

The Government man has just arrived in the Rabbit Creek vicinity to measure the farmers' land.

Yours truly,
"Hawkeye" Owens

Grasshoppers Are Menace To Texas

Comparable to the plagues of Egypt was the inconceivably tremendous army of grasshoppers which this week took full charge of agriculture in 117 Texas counties. Battle lines were drawn and a barrage of poison sent in from federal government sources was found inadequate to stem the tide of devastating insects.

Under the concentrated efforts of all available man-power, three millions of acres of land were treated with 70 carloads of poison material as the 'hoppers, swarming in uncounted millions, gleaned the last vestige of life from fertile acres. A. A. Miller for the federal government and R. R. Reppert of the A. and M. Extension service were in charge of the battle lines.

Worst infestation was centered about Hartley, Moore, Dallam, and Sherman counties, but the Hardeman, Childress, Potter, Randall and Hansford areas only slightly better off. The condition is so serious that plans are being discussed for a long-range campaign against the pest, insuring that it will not cause similar damage in future years.

The 'hopper strategists were in some measure prepared for the invasion. Reppert pointed out that the infestation "has developed almost exactly along the lines we forecast in the spring, and the control program is becoming very effective."

The insect which is causing the trouble is the most deadly, from an agricultural point of view, of his species. He is the migratory grasshopper, which, developing suddenly and surprisingly by the tens of millions, moves forward and devours every piece of living plant life in his path.

A complete job of extermination at once is imperative, experts say, in order that there will not be enough of the insects left to lay eggs to produce a crop next spring. Additional poison material has been ordered to this end, and a program of thorough eradication is promised.

Don't Blame the Car

Less than 10 per cent of the fatal and non-fatal crashes on our highways last year were caused by mechanical failure, according to The Travelers Insurance Company's analysis of the 1937 automobile accident experience.

In more than 90 per cent of the accidents, the vehicle was found to have been in apparently good condition. The trouble lay in human failure.

In the vast majority of cases it is the driver or the pedestrian and not the car that causes accidents.

camera, and showed up too large in the finished picture. The negative was "masked" in making the enlargement so that only the head showed. Result: a much better picture.

When you get a good picture, enlarge it! Any good snap is better when it's big. Enlarging "opens up" the details—lets you see interesting things you didn't see before. And a large picture just naturally has more appeal to the eye. Give a person two pictures, equally good, and he will automatically look at the larger one first. Moreover, he will look at it longer.

Don't let small size or surplus material handicap your pictures. Any snapshot can be enlarged somewhat, and some, especially those made on fine-grained film, can be increased many times in size. Very likely you have pictures in your album right now, that, if enlarged, would be worth framing and hanging in the home. Try it. You may discover you're a better snapshotter than you thought!

DO SOME of your pictures include too much—a lot of surplus background and material at top, bottom and sides that has little or nothing to do with the subject, and injures the picture effect?

Don't despair. Such pictures can be retrieved. Here's how: pick out the part you want, and have just that enlarged—to the size of the original print, or even larger.

For example, look at the picture of the little girl above. The head was the interesting part. Besides, her hands were too close to the

SPENCER TRACY TO PORTRAY ROLE OF "FATHER FLANAGAN"

Spencer Tracy was taken shortly before he departed for the city to portray the role of "Father Flanagan" in the picture, "The name of Father Flanagan isn't familiar to you, but it is known to most boys lost and afraid of the night. In fact, a father to boys without a family or a home of their own. Tracy will direct the picture with Mickey Rooney as the star.

"As I stated in the beginning, I will be forever grateful to the people of the district for your support, confidence and encouragement in the past, and if you think that by reason of my training, experience and ability that I would continue to make you a good district judge, I would be pleased to have your support in the coming primary."

Alcohol And Youth

In the city of Constantinople there is a tablet of stone that was recently unearthed in ancient Assyria, dated 2800 B. C. It reads as follows: "The earth is becoming degenerate in these latter days. Children no longer obey their parents. Every man wants to write a book and the end of the world is surely approaching."

It sounds like modern history. There is truth in what the fellow said: "The younger generation is not as bad as it used to be and never was." But this ancient statement shows us that our problems as young people and as parents are the old problems that have to be faced honestly by every rising generation. We believe in the younger generation and it is because of this fact that we want you to consider seriously this problem of prohibiting the sale of all liquor.

We must be on our guard for the appeal of the liquor interests is very subtle. They appeal to our tendency to think with the crowd and to act with the crowd. They appeal to our pride through the avenue of prestige suggestion and catchy phrases. The distilling companies advertise the fact that one should not drink if it is going to take from the grocery bill. "Drink is a luxury." Thus they make the strongest appeal imaginable to our pride. The implication is that the leisure class, the comfortably fixed are the ones who drink. Who does not imagine himself, or wants to put himself in that class?

How often have you heard these statements? "Drinking is all right if you do not drink too much." "I drink because it aids digestion." "The extra food value is what I want."

It would be interesting to make a note of these statements and check up on them from a scientific standpoint.

Is alcohol a food? From a pamphlet "What About Alcohol?" by Emil Bogen and Lehman Hisev comes this statement: "Alcohol cannot be used in the body directly to build up its parts as can regular foods. Because it stays as alcohol until it is burned up in the body, it cannot be used in the growth or repair of the body. The fact that alcohol itself can neither be stored nor used for building the body makes it particularly useless in the young, growing body."

Is alcohol a stimulant to the brain? Dr. Charles Mayo, noted physician, says, "You can get along with a wooden leg, but you cannot get along with a wooden head. It is the brain that counts. But in order to keep your brain clear, you must keep your body fit. That cannot be done if one drinks liquor. Through alcoholic beverages a man loses his co-ordination. That is why liquor is not an advantage to the brain. This is the reason that it is dangerous to drink while driving a car. By actual psychological tests, it has been found that the driver's reaction time in applying brakes, etc., are increased materially when he is under the influence of liquor, even a bottle of beer. It is often the split second in one's reaction time in applying brakes, etc., that saves a "Sudden Death" accident.

Is unemployment helped by the liquor business? We as young people are interested in this question. Records show that for every $1,000,000 invested in the liquor business, 78 men were employed. The same amount of money invested in legitimate business would give employment to approximately 298 men.

Can people drink in moderation? "Of course, no one wants to get drunk, but moderate drinking will not hurt you." But the facts are against such an answer. Albion Roy King, psychologist at Cornell College, Iowa, says, "Few drinkers believe themselves incapable of moderation. But the verdict is not just against excessive drinking, it is against all drinking, unless a case can be made out for the beneficial effects of habitual drinking."

Now to come closer home in our thinking! Deaths in accidents in which drunkenness was involved account for 8 of the 15 deaths in the Wichita Falls traffic area in the first 4 months of 1938. Theo Lincoln Hyde, President of Wichita Falls Traffic Safety Council says, "Scientific tests show also that a driver does not need to be drunk but merely to have been drinking to be a menace."

"I personally believe the reduction of our traffic fatalities alone would justify our efforts to prohibit liquor."

Parents, for the sake of our children; children for the sake of our parents, let us outlaw liquor on the 23rd of July. From a realistic viewpoint there is only one answer when we have weighed the facts from an impartial standpoint. Let us vote dry and make this county safe for the youth of Burkburnett!

TODAY'S PICTURE STORY---MODERN EAST AND WEST

1. Up-to-date express liners, like the Queen Mary, provide air conditioning with streamlined luxury and speed. 2. Here's a brand new dish which delights guests at the Worth, in Fort Worth. Modern devices open new fields to culinary art—even for skilled chefs. 3. How'd you like to "unlax" in a chair like this modern Radio Clubber. It has a broadcast receiver, telephone, cigar lighter, humidifier, beverage dispenser, table, etc.—all conveniences for an all-around, bridge table, etc.—modern hotel—the day stay. 4. Here's West Texas' modern hotel—the day stay. 5. Now, from all quarters of the compass come modern air conditioned streamliners of the rails—into Fort Worth—these miracles of our wonder age. 6. But we'll always have the "refreshing beauty and rough glamour of the western plains, Home on the Range and all the other lasting traditions. 7. There's new and all the other lasting traditions. 8. The joy of "dining out" is greatly increased in this air conditioned room at the WORTH Hotel. Superb food is the first of Manager Jack Farrell's requirements for his guests. 9. If you've never seen what makes the wheels go 'round in scientifically cooling a modern hotel—here it is. This is a typical compressor which makes resort weather on summer's hottest days.

FROM HOT TO COLD! THE INTENSE HEAT OF GAS FUEL IS USED TO MAKE DRY ICE ONE OF THE COLDEST SUBSTANCES KNOWN!

ONE CENT WAS OFFERED AS A REWARD FOR THE RETURN OF KIT CARSON FAMOUS SCOUT WHEN, AS A BOY, HE RAN AWAY FROM HIS WORK!

When a young lad (about 1819) Kit Carson, the famous scout, worked as a saddler's apprentice in Howard County, Missouri. He ran away and his employer advertised in the local paper a reward of one cent for his return. Colonel Cody made his reputation and his famous nickname "Buffalo Bill" when he supplied buffalo meat for employees constructing the Kansas and Pacific Railroad. Because gas fuel is clean and easy to control automatically, it is used extensively in the manufacture of CO₂ (Dry) ice, one of the coldest substances known. It is interesting to note that because of the cleanliness and flexibility of gas, 14,500,000 families in the United States use this fuel for one or more of these purposes—cooking, water heating, house heating and refrigeration.

Texas Water Supply Must Be Conserved

Preliminary to the state-wide meeting next month on plans for conserving the state's ground water supply, the Texas Planning Board has pointed out the extent to which the state depends upon ground water.

The idea that ground water is important to a very small percentage of the state is erroneous, the Board points out. Two-thirds of the population of all towns over 2,500 depends upon deep wells and that includes the cities of San Antonio and Houston and a part of Dallas. In the rural areas, 95 per cent of the people use wells and springs.

Industry Dependent
Moreover, many industrial units depend upon wells apart from the water supply of the city in which they may be located, which have air cooling systems which waste considerable portions of water. Because of the rapid increase in air conditioning, it was pointed out, this waste must be taken into account in any water conservation program.

Where water is used for irrigation, which is true of many parts of the state, water is used even more rapidly than in the industrial centers. Large areas of rice are irrigated by ground water supply. The Winter Garden area largely depends upon underground sources.

The Board is planning conservation on the theory that assurance against shortages can be given only when the rate of depletion does not exceed the natural replacement of the water strata.

3 Out of 4 Depend

With three out of every four persons depending upon wells and springs for their water supply, regulation of the use of ground water is a vital necessity to the future growth of Texas, planning board says.

It was this report, pointing out, specific cases where additional ground water supplies are needed, which led Governor J. V. Allred to call a state-wide meeting for July 29 to study the problem.

Cited as an example of "definite areas where ground water development has reached the point where some restraining on ground water pumping is necessary to prevent water shortages" was the area surrounding the city of Houston.

Successive increases in the demand on water bearing strata which supply the Houston, Pasadena, Baytown, Texas City, and

Galveston "have lessening the water level degree that a continuing in the demand, with the ground water entire region."

Much of the demand, out, was from industries having their which use two-thirds of the water. Salt water encroachment, and once salt water intrudes, the supply is ruined.

Oil Field Pro

In East Texas, the have "greatly over fresh water strata. In area, the proposal newsprint mill has water problem. Re as an irrigation shallow water area handle, where wells drilled rapidly. Other to need regulation berg, Kenedy and B. ties, Brazoria county, Paso county.

The report was signed planning board's water, which is headed Clark, chairman of Board of Water Eng

SUMMER SEES AMERICA'S "HOMES ON WHEELS" ONCE MORE TAKE TO THE OPEN HIGHWAYS

All the Comforts of Home-Sweet-Home In New Mineral Wool Insulated Trailers
AMERICA'S "Homes on Wheels" are once more whizzing along the highway trails. From Maine to Mexico, from the Pacific northwest to the warm, Gulf-stream-bathed shores of Florida, the perambulating residences are carrying thousands of happy vacationists to new scenes, new diversions.
This year science has again contributed to the comfort of trailer life. In addition to mechanical refrigerators, automatic ranges and electric lights and radios, your modern trailer is insulated against the burning summer sun with mineral wool. Placed full-thick in the roof and sidewalls of the vehicle, mineral wool blankets the trailer with an overcoat containing millions of tiny dead-air cells which repels old So's fierce rays and keeps the interior from ten to fifteen degrees cooler than the outside air.
This permanent, fire proof and insect proof material is one of the leading products for home insulation against summer heat and winter cold. Now it brings new luxury to America's popular summertime homes.

Burkburnett History

As revealed by the files of The Star 12 years ago.

The people of Burkburnett and surrounding communities gathered in the business section of the city Monday afternoon, July 5th, in celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. A program was sponsored by the Oscar Frye Post of the American Legion. Dr. L. M. Finney, post chaplain, was the principal speaker of the day.

An explosion of nitroglycerine which shook the country for several miles occurred on the Sullivan farm two and one-half miles west of Burkburnett about 1:30 Tuesday morning. The explosives were owned by the American Glycerine Company. Window lights were broken in houses a mile from the scene of the explosion. Burkburnett officers investigated, fearing that someone had blown a safe.

In the municipal election held Tuesday, July 6th, the citizens of Burkburnett voted in favor of extending the city limits and annexing the proposed property in the west part of town. The territory voted to be annexed lies west of the present city limits.

Everywhere on a farm there are pictures—simple, pleasing and will give your albums new appeal.

THE man who says "nothing ever happens on a farm" certainly isn't talking about pictures. On almost any farm, if you keep your eyes open, you will find enough snapshot material to keep the camera busy from early morning to late at night—and still not exhaust the supply. Farm animals offer scores of picture chances—woolly lambs in the sun, a hen fussing over her brood of chicks, cows being driven in for milking, pigs at the trough (or their owner summoning them with a lusty shout), horses drinking, ducks waddling in a line about the yard or taking an afternoon "cruise" in the pond. Work scenes in the field make excellent pictures, and fresh-plowed land with long deep furrows is good for pattern snapshots. The orchard in bloom is a scene of beauty, and all around the house and are details which make a snap of Grand old, mending a zigzag fence of laid, tered wooden bucket of the worn saw-horse block in the woodlot, down by the shady and brook. And water reasons—such as hay later on—when the usual activity to picture snapshots—everything being fed from a bottoming shots at harvest prints in the snow can point your camera direction, and find every chance you your picture albums. The SNAPSHOT GUIDE
CHOOSING A CAMERA

Fast vacation-time action calls for a speedy shutter. Nobody shots like this, or get pictures that are blurred and fuzzy because of camera movement.

IF YOU are planning to get a new camera for your vacation this year, let me suggest that you do not delay until the last moment, and then have to pick your instrument in a great rush. A camera should be chosen with care and attention to every detail—picture size, lens, shutter, view finder, ease of opening and handling, finish and durability. Moreover, it should be obtained early enough for you to become thoroughly familiar with its workings, because on a vacation you will often want to use it in a hurry. Compare and handle several cameras before you choose. Study lenses—maybe you will want an f.6.3, to make sure of well-timed snapshots on dull days, or an f.4.5, twice as fast, for speedy action shots in bad light—as well as better indoor snapshots. It is well to bear in mind, too, that a good fast anastigmat lens gives sharper pictures—which means better enlargements if your vacation yields top-styles and prices. You take care of all your pictures. It is bad when you for some good action tennis court or beach era shutter is too slow. Remember, too, that at all unsteady, a speed great help in getting. You have a wide choice styles and prices. You speed miniatures with lenses; others with 1.5 eras taking larger pictures. f.3.5, f.4.5, and f.6.3 the better the camera speed and versatility more it costs, but the spend in excess of your sands of good pictures every day with modern cameras, and they most snapshot purport. been the rise of rayon "staple fiber," which is rayon cut into short lengths—1-2 to 2 inches—for spinning into yarns or cotton, woolen or worsted spinning machinery. Starting with 20 million pounds in 1932, production more than doubled by 1934, at 52 million, nearly tripled the next year, touching 139 million, doubled in 1936 to 297 million, and doubled again last year, to reach 622 million. This 1937 total for staple fiber represented 34 per cent of total rayon production.

As to the actual competition between cotton and rayon, the bulletin says "the development of staple fiber at this phenomenal rate is something to be considered by the sheepmen and cotton growers of this country as well as the silk farmers of Japan." The total poundage of all rayon produced (nearly 2 billion lbs.) is not yet impressive in relation to total cotton (more than 18 billion pounds), and as world use of fibers expands there will be room in the industries for both materials without necessarily reducing the consumption of cotton and wool. "Nevertheless, price relations are affected. The higher the price of the old materials, the greater the competition from the new."

With this new re-inforcement of an economic "ceiling" on cotton prices, the need for more economical cotton growing and marketing methods, to insure margin of profit despite restricted price, is more apparent than ever, says the Council's report. It is further justification for speeding plans for a cotton research laboratory to discover new industrial uses for cotton, and intensifying work toward cutting costs by insect control, better seed selection, better ginning. Research might conceivably make cotton and rayon more "partners" than rivals through emphasizing and perfecting cotton linters' and stalks' usability as rayon raw materials, though wood pulp is being used increasingly now, especially in staple fiber production.

It may be significant that Japan, whose silk is popularly thought of as being most "rivalled" by rayon's growth, has in the last few years become the world's leading producer of rayon filament yarn, accounting for 28 per cent of the world total in 1937. The United States produced 26 per cent, Japan, which uses wood pulp as the raw material, also was second only to Germany in staple fiber, making 28 per cent to Germany's 35 per cent. In this field the United States produced but 3.2 per cent.

Progress of rayon toward a better competitive price status, through technical advances which have also improved its physical properties, is shown in its price history since 1923. Viscose staple fiber, then 60 cents per pound, has come down to 25 cents; viscose rayon filament, over the same period, has been brought down from $1.50 per pound to 49 cents.

Rayon's Growth Spurs Need For Cotton Research
The spectacular growth, continued through 1937, of production and use of rayon in world textile industries is seen in a report of the All-South Development Council as further complicating cotton marketing problems and increasing the urgency for finding new cotton uses and cutting production costs through better seed, better ginning, and more thorough insect control.
Production of continuous filament rayon yarns, according to a bulletin of the National City Bank of New York, increased by 66 million pounds in 1937, reaching a peak of 1,187,000,000 (billion) pounds. The steady but startling growth of this product is shown by Textile Economics Bureau figures for 1913, first year it figured in textile statistics, when the total was a mere 25,000,000 lbs.; for 1922, when it had risen to 77,000,000, and for 1929, by which time it had multiplied six times, for a total of 435,000,000 pounds. Even more spectacular has

College Men Run Courtesy Stations

Manned by college trained students, the "courtesy stations" maintained by the Texas Highway department will be equipped to give much more information this year than in past years, according to E. J. Amey, administrative assistant for the department. The offices, instituted at 13 points on the Texas border during Centennial year to give information to tourists from other states, have proved so successful that they have become a part of the Highway Department service. This year the attendants not only are equipped to give incoming tourists information on highways and points of scenic and historic interest. Added to their store of information has been traffic law information; registration requirements; hotel and tourist camp information; game and fish resorts and laws; economic resources and industries of the state; and, according to Amey, "practically everything tourists from other states might want to know about Texas."

In addition, chambers of commerce of the various cities of Texas have found the stations useful as outlets for their promotional literature. With the exception of the Laredo station, attendants at all the courtesy stations were selected this year from state-supported schools, preference being given to students who needed work, who presented the desired appearance and who had the personality required for the type of work. Before being placed on duty, the attendants attended a preliminary training school for several days, receiving instruction on materials they were to dispense. The stations were built in an architectural style in keeping with the section of the country in which they are located.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD CAMERA AT THE CIRCUS

A ferris-wheel angle shot of your crowd is just one picture opportunity among scores you will find at the circus or street carnival. Take the camera along!

WHEN you go to the circus or carnival, by all means go early and take your camera along. There is endless variety of new, interesting snapshot material—and you'll actually see more, and enjoy yourself more, if there's a camera in your hand.

On the midway, you can picture side-show barkers, flamboyant tent signs, gaping people who are visiting a circus for the first time, wide-eyed youngsters munching popcorn or quaffing pink lemonade, gaudy displays of prizes at amusement booths, and scores of other amusing details.

Wandering about the lot, you will be able to picture interesting details of circus equipment, and perhaps novel sidelights of circus life—family wash strung out between wagons, mending of costumes and equipment, feeding and grooming of work stock, Be friendly, don't annoy the circus folk, and they will treat you courteously.

A health officer in India states that no country with a malaria problem has discovered a quick, effective and sufficiently inexpensive way of controlling the disease in rural areas.

A century ago it took 83 out of 100 workers in the United States to produce farm crops; today, with machinery, 17 out of 100 are sufficient.

Pictures of performers and animals should be obtained during the circus parade, as you may not be allowed to take your camera inside the big tent. The light inside is usually too poor for good snapshots except with ultra speed lenses and film. But there is ample opportunity outside to keep the camera busy, and you can come away with enough good shots to fill several pages in an album. Try it just once, and you'll never be without your camera when the circus comes to town.
