GERMANY'S COLLAPSE

The latest reports from Germany indicate that, after five years of one-man government, that great nation is facing the most drastic and wide-spread economic collapse in its history. The effort of the Nazi government to lift the nation out of its post-war economic depression by pulling on its own bootstraps, as it were, seems to be on the verge of total failure.

The theory that a practically bankrupt and impoverished nation could restore prosperity by itself, and dismiss the goodwill of other nations as of no importance, seems to have proved false, as intelligent people everywhere knew that it was from the beginning. Other nations are wary about doing business with Germany, not only because of the discrimination against the Jews, who play such an important part in international trade and finance, but because of the political attitude of the Hitler government toward the rest of the world.

The world feels no hatred toward the German people, although they have been taught by their masters that every other peoples' hands are against them. We in America rather feel sympathetic pity for a people so closely related by ancestral ties to so large a part of our own people. We are sorry that they have let themselves be duped by the false philosophy and specious promises of a dictator into a position where they are most completely enslaved and downtrodden of any of the so-called civilized nations.

If the economic collapse which Germany is now facing is not averted, we may expect the German people to rise and throw off the Hitler yoke and take once more their proper place as a great and peaceful nation.

Moderation Vacation Theme Song

Jane Weir, motion picture starlet, uses cream as a sunburn lotion.

MODERATION is the proper theme song for the mid-summer vacationist. At least it predominates in the advice of health officers in dozens of cities who urge moderation in exercise, sunbathing, diet and refreshments for adults and children.

The Washington State Health Department asks parents "to observe three rules—See that children do not overexpose themselves to sunlight; teach children the difference in bottled milk and encourage them to ask for pasteurized milk when away from home; take from home water for their needs or make provision for boiling."

Dr. Joseph I. Lande, New Haven health officer, says, "milk is the best all-around food," but advises vacationists that the best protection is to have it pasteurized.

Dr. John L. Rice, New York City health commissioner, suggests moderation in diet, above all, common sense. South Bend Health Department says, "any person going into a strange locality should be more than careful that the milk he consumes is pasteurized."

Another vacation hint is that cream has the added virtue of being externally useful as a sunburn remedy.

"Upon arriving at a new vacation playground," says the Milk Industry Foundation, "a sensible thing is to find out if the milk is supplied by a dependable distributor."

Big Rabbit Creek

August 7, 1938

At this writing, here on Big Rabbit Creek, it is even 100 degrees in the shade. It is getting some hot, but the summer is going fast. It won't be very long until the wind is blowing from the north asking all of us what we have done with our summer wages.

The noted hog and cattle buyer of Wichita county, Texas, Guy Willis, who lives over in Our Friendly Little City, Burkburnett, and a Mr. Roberts of Wichita Falls, Texas, were over in the Big Rabbit Creek neighborhood Saturday morning buying up steers and calves.

The first of last week, Ed LeBarre went to Our Friendly Little City and purchased a brand new International Tractor from the International Harvesting Co. Ed has nearly all of his grain land all turned under, and is mighty pleased with his tractor.

Mrs. Fred LeBarre's son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dean, motored down from Fort Sill Saturday to visit his mother and brothers for a week or so. Albert has been in the army for over fifteen years and is stationed at Fort Sill.

Those hot dry days since the month came in are playing havoc with the gardens and watermelons. Along with the dry weather, the honey dew has struck the watermelon vines.

The Hon. Herman Engelmann, the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce manager, is a great baseball fan, so Saturday, he got one of Burkburnett's leading young business men to conduct the big cash drawing of $60.00 while he attended the big baseball game at Wichita Falls. Bro. Herman selected little Fred Brookman for this big job. You know, folks, little Fred did the job up in a real businesslike way. When the time came at 4 p. m. sharp, he just climbed up in the truck and commenced to give out the announcements over the loud speaker before the drawing commenced.

Believe it or not, folks, little Fred just surprised the thousands of people that were on the drawing grounds. J. A. Ford, who drew the $45.00 a month ago yesterday, repeated himself by again drawing the $45.00. Miss Ruby Wheeler of Burkburnett drew the $10.00 and the $5.00. A double-header! There is no use talking, little Fred acted just like a little gentleman in conducting the big drawing in the absence of Bro. Engelmann.

Tobe Hardin, Mrs. Martha Nails and her son, Charlie, started in Monday morning to chop out James Pirtle's cotton crop just south of the Owens' family place, which is the W. H. Martin farm.

A week or so ago, Hawkeye's better half sent up to W. D. Day's big peach orchard, one amongst the largest in Cotton county, to buy a few bushels to can. So, in order to keep peace and harmony in the home, and to keep on the good side of his fine biscuit maker, Hawkeye went and he brought home the amount of peaches he went after. Mrs. Owens for years past has always bought her peaches from the Day's orchard. To Hawkeye's surprise, he never before saw as large a peach grow anywhere in California, Arkansas, or any other state as W. D. has grown this year in his orchard. Hawkeye purchased 3 bushels of those fine peaches (Elbertas). After he got home, he measured a great many of them and everyone he measured with a tape, measured 10 inches around, 90 per cent of those 3 bushels measured that size. His last crop of those fine peaches will be ready to gather again about the 25th of this month, August, up to the 25th of September.

Last Saturday was another record breaker for thousands of people being in Our Friendly Little City, Burkburnett. Every business house in the city was just jammed full, especially the big Famous Dry Goods Store; both cream and produce stations were doing a landslide business in buying cream and poultry from the old nesters.

It matters not how hot it may get or how hot the winds might blow, the bumper crop is already made for 1938. The cotton is well fruited, and so far, up to this writing, there aren't any leaf worms in the cotton, and if it still remains dry and hot, the cotton for this part of the county will escape the worms.

Yours truly,
Hawkeye Owens.

Speaks Point, Texas

Tex.—Aug. 6 — W. D. McFarlane, who has been in the crowd this afternoon, said that during the past year he had received the highest wages, unemployment, and other imposed that Bob Moore, Manager of the Waggoner interests had told him last week that the Waggoner interests were supporting Ed Gossett and that the Waggoner interests didn't know anything about the D. G. Gray contribution to the McFarlane campaign; and that the Waggoner interests were bitterly against the New Deal, and against anybody supporting the New Deal.

Gossett A Kept Man

Regarding campaign contributions, Mr. McFarlane charged Gossett with being a kept tool of the utilities and challenged him to show by record evidence where he has earned enough money in his law practice to pay even his living and office expenses and read from his new law firm's list of cases filed, which reputable attorneys state, show he has received little funds from the law practice since he has been in Wichita Falls.

Scandal Sheet Answered

After Mr. McFarlane had answered the various charges raised in the opposition's "scandal sheet," he pointed out that the desperate falsehoods printed in this "scandal sheet" showed how far the opposition was willing to go, after finding nothing wrong with his official record, to assassinate his personal character. Specifically citing the so-called Horsepower Bill providing a tax on automatic machinery, and pointed out that this measure was sponsored by Trade Unions in the industrial centers and the clear intent and purpose of the bill was to tax only automatic machinery producing goods for interstate shipment in proportion to the number of men displaced by such machinery. That such bill did not apply to automobiles, trucks, tractors, or any such farm or home equipment. That this bill was introduced three sessions back and was never even considered by a committee. That the bill was dead and never became a law. That it is raised now only to try to deceive the people and to try to get their vote. Mr. McFarlane pointed out that his record shows that he has always voted to protect the rights of the little fellow in small business and that the opposition cannot point to any worthwhile public service performed on which they can rely as a basis for their flimsy campaign promises this candidate makes as a means of securing votes.

Lone Star Gas Company

Answering the charge that he was supported by the Lone Star Gas Company, Mr. McFarlane challenged the statement as false and pointed to the records showing that he had always spoken for and demanded lower gas rates the same as all other utility rates. He pointed out that he had been informed that there were less than 50 employees working for the Lone Star Gas Company some three miles from Petrolia and that he had never visited their plant and knew nothing of their operations. The people can easily find out that the gas company as well as other utilities and their employees are working against Mr. McFarlane.

In closing, Mr. McFarlane appealed for support of the people on his record of service rendered. Not a vote of his has been challenged as wrong and no criticism of the many farm, veteran, projects and other claims handled has been made.

He pointed out that the many charges made against his character, if true, should be supported by affidavits filed in court where proper redress could be had, or otherwise it is unfair to his five children to place these unfounded felony charges against their father and thus cloud their lives. Mr. McFarlane will visit other towns in the county this afternoon speaking at Denton tonight.

Blackstone Gives Rules For Safety

In the interest of the welfare of citizens of our town, Fire Marshal J. J. Blackstone issues the following statement:

"Fire strikes with such speed that people lose their heads. Their clothing catches fire and they run; they see the flames and immediately jump.

"When clothing becomes ignited, drop to the floor and roll into a rug or blanket to smother the fire, keeping the rug or blanket tight about the neck to protect the face and hair. Remember this for your own sake and it may even enable you to save the life of another.

"If you awaken at night and smell smoke, do not open the door and let in super-heated fumes to cause your death. Place your hand on the door and if it feels hot, keep it closed. If it isn't hot, place your foot against it, avert your face and open it a little. If there is pressure from fire outside, you can then slam the door shut and seek another means of exit.

"IF YOU VALUE YOUR LIFE, KEEP CALM. DON'T GET EXCITED."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD SUMMER CLOUDS AND SKIES

Clouds help your outdoor pictures. Use a color filter to record them more effectively.

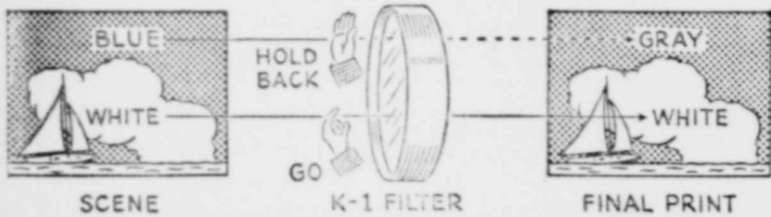

SUMMER is the outdoor season, and one of the season's chief picture charms is its wonderfully rich blue skies against which cloud masses stand out in magnificent fullness and contrast. Given two pictures of identical subjects in which the sky appears, it's a safe wager that your attention will be held by the one effectively showing the clouds against a gray sky and not the one with the unnatural and unattractive flat, white firmament.

Here is the way to picture clouds and skies as your eye sees them: load your camera with chrome type or panchromatic film, and slip a yellow color-filter on your lens. The diagram below shows how a yellow filter works—it preserves the sky blue, recording blue in the corresponding shade of gray instead of white. Thus, the clouds and sky are more dramatically recorded and much is added to the appeal of your picture.

Summer clouds and skies are pictorial studies in themselves. Try picturing clouds alone—the different types of cirrus and cumulus; fair-day clouds and stormy-weather clouds. Use the sky and clouds as background for your pictures of people. Work them into your landscape views. They give your pictures reality, and a warm, summery feel. Use your filter for all such pictures, increasing exposure according to the instructions that come with the filter or with the film you use.

Such practice pays rich snapshot dividends.

Color filters are traffic cops. A yellow filter (K-1 or K-2) stops part of the blue light, so that in the print, blue shows up as gray. Filters come in several colors, but a yellow K-1 or K-2 is what you want for general use.

JEANIE LAYNE

Jeanie Layne, of the Famous Layne sisters who Harley Sadler went to big expense in securing a season contract, will appear with the Harley Sadler show here on August 30. Miss Layne and her sister, Mary, will be seen in sensational acrobatics and a variety of novelty dance routines.

Hero of Night Surf Rescue Wins Light for Life Foundation Award

City Manager Robert W. Flack, of San Diego, Calif., presenting a Light for Life Foundation certificate to Patrolman Ernest C. Saftig, as Chief of Police George M. Sears looks on.

A San Diego patrolman who battled a wicked night surf to bring a drowning man to shore has been rewarded for his exploit with a Life Saving Certificate presented by the Light for Life Foundation, of New York, national safety organization.

Ernest C. Saftig, who made the rescue, was handed the certificate by City Manager Robert W. Flack, of San Diego, representing the Foundation, at a ceremony in the San Diego municipal building. Present were Chief of Police George M. Sears, City Councilman Addison Housh, W. A. Huggins, executive secretary of the San Diego Safety Council, and a number of Californians interested in the cause of safety.

George Reyer, of New Orleans, president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, who was one of the officials recommending Saftig for the honor, declared that his "was a deed which required super-human effort and courage."

Saftig rescued William Hardy, a member of the U. S. Marines, who was swimming in the ocean off Pacific Beach, San Diego. Hardy became exhausted after swimming a few hundred feet out, but managed to make his way to a piling and hold on while he yelled for help. Members of his party on shore heard his cries, but were unable to attempt a rescue. They telephoned the police station, and a radio call brought Saftig. Hardy had been in the water 40 minutes when Saftig reached the beach.

Saftig plunged in with a life saving can, and with the aid of his flashlight succeeded in locating Hardy, whose cries by this time were too weak to be heard at any distance. As Saftig approached, a large wave struck the piling, and Hardy, cold and exhausted, was knocked off. He went down. Using his flashlight, Saftig dived for him, brought him up and got him on the life saving can. By this time Hardy was unconscious. As Saftig fought his way toward the breaker line, towing Hardy, another wave knocked Hardy off. Again Saftig dived and brought him up.

On the shore, Saftig applied first aid until an ambulance came and took Hardy to the Naval Hospital. The patrolman was treated for exposure and cuts and bruises suffered when he was thrown against the barnacle-encrusted piling.

A Cornerstone for Light

In proper obeisance to both the earth and the heavens which will join forces to present one of the most spectacular shows of the coming New York World's Fair, officials of the General Electric Company recently altered precedent to fit facts. As construction on their fair building began on Flushing Meadows, Charles E. Wilson, executive vice president, affixed a cylindrical copper "cornerstone" to the base of the first pile. Owen D. Young, board chairman, climbed to the cab of the pile-driver and drove the dedicatory symbol 90 feet into the earth. In the finished structure, model of which is shown here, G-E will next year evoke 10-million-volt bolts of man-made lightning and hurl them the length of the building for the edification of fair visitors.

at her fingertips

...ready for your call

At the finger tips of your telephone operator stands many million dollars' worth of equipment in Texas... buildings, boards in 315 offices; two and a half miles of wire... ready day and night carry your voice the length and breadth of Texas, and beyond.

Last year it took more than 23 million dollars to operate this system for you. Of this was for materials and supplies. More than four million dollars went for state, and federal taxes, to help pay for roads, schools, police protection, and so on. More than 11 million dollars for wages nearly 9,000 workers who are your neighbors in Texas, and who spent that 11 million dollars in this state... no small item in Texas business moving.

The telephone company, like the men and women who operate it, is a part of Texas. Investment here has been made to meet the state's need for friendly, dependable phone service. It serves its own interest best by giving you the service you want at a reasonable cost to you.

Nettes of BURKBURNETT GIN

Let the Critters Do the Work

By T. C. RICHARDS, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

Burk Burnett Gin was dependent on this product for prosperity. When gins operate in full force and cotton is marketable, everyone is prosperous; and when cotton is sick, the whole nation is sick. We must awaken to the importance of marketing our cotton.

Another very interesting fact that Mr. Duvall brought out is that weather conditions play such an important part in the development of superior cotton. There should be just enough dampness to lengthen the staple, but not enough to prevent growing. At one time, dishonest ginners dampened the cotton with spray to lengthen the staple, but this practice has been abolished. It is Mr. Duvall's belief that this territory is better adapted to a medium long staple than to the long staple cotton.

Perhaps none of us has realized what a factor for prosperity our gins are. The Burk Burnett Gin gins cotton from an area including towns as far as 40 miles from here.

If we can all work to the end that our cotton raisers can find a lasting market for their produce we will be benefiting not only ourselves, but the whole nation.

Office Supplies at The Star.

At this season crops are maturing and harvesting is ahead. A great deal of labor may be saved by turning livestock in the fields and allowing them to feed themselves. Under proper handling there is little waste of grain, and animals get the benefit of green forage that would not be saved otherwise, and which adds to the value of the grain by helping to balance the ration. If fields are not already fenced, a temporary fence of 32-inch woven wire will confine sheep and hogs, and with a few stanch posts at wide intervals, small stakes driven into the ground will support it. It can readily be rolled up and moved several times, and when it becomes too badly bent to stand up in a temporary fence, it is still good for permanent use where solid corner posts permit tight stretching.

Hogs are well known to be the best gleaners of grain, with sheep next. If crops are harvested by cattle it is always advisable to follow with hogs. The cheapest pork both in labor cost and the amount of grain required to make 100 pounds of meat, is produced by a combination of green pasture, hogging down feed crops, and the self-feeder. Carl P. Thompson, extension swine specialist of Oklahoma voices the experience of the best hog men when he says that it is doubtful if a farmer can afford to raise hogs unless they can run on pasture a good part of the year.

Besides the labor saving element it is good for the health of both hogs and sheep to get off the permanent pastures and on the cultivated fields, where internal parasites are less prevalent. It is best to confine the animals to a space that can be cleaned up in ten days to three weeks, rather than permit them to roam at large for a month or more. In the final stages of grazing, grains will be slowed up by their walking over large fields in search of food, and there will be more wastage in the long run. It goes without saying that shade and water must be easily and continuously accessible to the animals while hogging down or sheepling off crops. Experiments have shown that a bushel of grain goes a great deal farther in meat production if the animal can drink when thirsty instead of waiting for periodic waterings several hours apart.

Mineral mixtures and protein supplements are usually not indispensable if hogs have access to good pastures and legumes, or skim milk, but experienced hog men say protein supplements always pay. Corn and cowpeas, corn and soy beans, corn and peanuts, make good fattening rations when hogged down together. With corn alone it is advisable to supply a mineral mixture and a protein supplement in self-feeders. Either wood ashes or air-slaked lime and salt in equal parts is good, and bone meal may be profitably added under some conditions. Charcoal is commonly used and hogs like it.

The protein supplement may be based on cottonseed meal, linseed meal, peanut meal or tankage. The experiment stations of the Southwest have worked out formulas for protein supplements for their respective states, according to the availability and adaptation of the materials. Cottonseed meal is available everywhere in the Southwest, and may be safely and profitably fed to hogs by following directions furnished by extension hog specialists and county agents who keep up with experimental results.

Enough feed goes to waste on most Southwestern farms to produce all the pork and beef or mutton the family could use. Pasturing the fields is the only way much of this waste can be turned to profit, and the most economical way of harvesting and selling crops that are adapted to harvesting by animals.

Let the critters do the work.

If Douglas Corrigan wishes to sign a few testimonials, doubtless he will have little difficulty finding the dotted lines.

Texas Dairies Prove To Be Big State Industry

In a bulletin, "Manufacture of Dairy Products in Texas," recently issued by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, prepared jointly by Elmer H. Johnson, regional economist for the bureau, and Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director and agricultural statistician, it is pointed out that although the dairy industry has become a substantial factor contributing to the cash income of the state, it needs further development in order to realize the greatest economic good, both to farmers and dairymen.

In describing the scope of the study, the authors stated: "Significant readjustments are now taking place in Texas agriculture and also in the industries dependent upon agriculture for raw materials. Those developments, moreover, promise to continue for an indefinite period. Curtailment of acreage devoted to staple farm crops in response to the Federal agricultural program and the utilization of the land thus released in such manner as to conserve and build up the soil, which is the avowed objective of the government, must result in greater emphasis on the various types of livestock enterprises as a medium for marketing the increased feed stuffs which will inevitably result from this policy.

"Among the livestock enterprises in Texas which are being subjected to pressure for expansion as a result of the government program is the dairy industry. The product of this agricultural enterprise—milk—presents a wide range of opportunities for the application of management, science, and marketing technique, not only in connection with the individual farm, but also, and perhaps particularly, in connection with the different types of processing establishments which convert milk into a wide range of commercial products.

"Under these circumstances it is not surprising that there should be a rapidly growing demand for information concerning the dairy industry of the State. The present monograph represents a beginning in the effort to meet this demand with respect to certain types of facts.

"The relationship between the dairy manufacturing industry and the geography of the State is highly significant. Indications are that the dairy manufacturing industry in Texas has by no means yet attained equilibrium and that the distribution of production of butter, cheese and concentrated milk will undergo considerable change during coming years.

"The dairy industry of Texas has become a substantial factor contributing to the cash income of the State. In the light of the physical conditions in various portions of the State which provide possibilities for dairy production and in view of the steadily increasing demand which may reasonably be expected for dairy products, the future of the industry in Texas appears to be a promising one.

"The growth of dairy products industries in Texas, viewed from a broader point of view, is worthy of careful consideration. Dairying of itself outside the Dairy Region of the northeastern United States reflects a widening base in agricultural operations—a trend toward greater diversification. The industries for which milk is the raw material add materially to pay rolls and besides add to the list of activities which elaborate raw materials. The elaboration of raw materials at or near the point of their production is illustrative of a world-wide trend which has been rapidly gaining momentum during the post-war period.

"The Texas dairy products industry has reached a substantial level of production, but considerably quantities of butter, and cheese and evaporated milk are being brought into the State.

"It may well be emphasized that the potentialities for agricultural production in Texas are enormous. The climate and the soils of the arable areas and regions of the State justify the conclusion that the State's agricultural production can be materially increased. In the readjustments with which Texas agriculture is inevitably faced there can be little doubt but that the dairy industry and the manufacture of dairy products are destined to play an important part. Nor can there be any doubts as to the desirability of increasing the production of these commodities in the State so as to supply a larger portion of the Texas market."

State University Is In Difficulties

Far from being a wealthy institution, as many people think, The University of Texas is actually in financial straits, declared J. W. Calhoun, acting president of that institution, in a recent address before a local luncheon club. The financial situation, as it affects the teaching staff and student body is so acute as to demand the earnest attention of all persons who are interested in the University's progress, Mr. Calhoun pointed out. The erroneous belief of the wealth of the University is due to the large income to its permanent endowment fund that it has received from oil from its lands. None of this permanent fund can be spent.

Mr. Calhoun explained that the institution is dependent for running expenses on legislative appropriation. He said that there were far too many students for the present faculty and that money for research and graduate work was badly needed.

Calhoun compared the University's $2,500,000 budget with that of $6,500,000 for the University of Michigan which, he said, is like the University, an institution of 10,000 students.

The acting president pointed out that while the University has a substantial endowment, probably the largest of any state institution in the country, which it shares with A. and M. College, it is not available for running expenses. That endowment, he stated, amounts to approximately $40,000,000, including $10,000,000 worth of land in West Texas. The University borrowed from this several years ago $4,000,000 for a building program.

"We are paying this debt off at the rate of $500,000 a year," he explained, "from income of invested bonds, which is just enough to meet the annual payments. It will not be paid back until about 1944."

Four years ago, he added, the University borrowed $1,200,000 from the Public Works Administration and secured a grant of $433,000 to build the new administration-library building.

"Security for this loan," he said, "comes from the income from grazing leases. The debt will be paid off about 1947."

Patrolman Aids Stranded Family

It was only one of a Texas Highway Patrolman's duties but Patrolman John Lowry has received extra dividends for help he gave to a stranded family of motorists near Henrietta over 18 months ago, state police officials related today.

The officer found the family—father and four small children—in their stalled, dilapidated automobile on a highway near that

Northwest Texas town a year and a half ago. The family was hungry, without funds, in ragged clothes and had no fuel for their conveyance. Patrolman Lowry arranged for the necessary supplies and sent them on their way.

Eighteen months later a man and four children riding in a new automobile stopped the officer as he rode his motorcycle along that same highway. It was the same family whose misfortunes had been reversed since the first meeting.

"When those kids hugged my neck I guess I was the happiest man in Texas," the patrolman told fellow officers.

H. A. Ziegler, District Supervisor, has announced that J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, has approved a National Youth Administration Work Project providing work and training opportunities for 164 youths in Wichita county, for the purpose of highway improvement and beautification.

"On all NYA Work Projects emphasis is placed on maximum work training, both on and off job," Mr. Kellam said. "These young people who haven't yet found their place in industry are gaining an opportunity to learn and earn at the same time are performing a worthwhile service for their home community."

Youths will be paid at prevailing hourly wage rates and will work about one-third time. During their spare time they will be encouraged to attend training classes. The youths will also be given instruction by their supervisor on the job.

At the end of June, 9,400 Texas youths were employed part time on NYA Work Projects in Texas. These young people were assigned to 250 Work Projects, which included construction work such as the building of community centers, home economics cottages, park buildings; shop projects, employing youths in various public workshops; seven resident projects, providing work and training opportunity for about 400 youths in agriculture, shop work, and recreation leadership; part-time Resident Projects providing work and training in opportunity for about 400 youths in agriculture, shop work, and recreation leadership; part-time Resident Projects providing work and training in homemaking for 300 Texas girls.

The next regular meeting of the Oscar Frye Post of the American Legion will be held in an air-conditioned city auditorium, August 11, 1938. This will be the first time in an air-conditioned auditorium and was made at the request of the city manager, Reagan.

Every Legionnaire is requested to be present for the meeting as some important matters are to be considered. Several officers for next year are to be elected and there will be an announcement in regard to the Legion home to be built.

Our nation has engaged in six major wars since its birth in 1776. In total, these wars extended over a period of about fifteen years. The number of American soldiers killed in action or died of wounds during these fifteen years of war was 244,357.

Now look at our fifteen-year peace-time record of death on the highways, recently released by The Travelers Insurance Company:

Scandal Sheet False

McFarlane challenged the opposition to prove any charge made by any reputable evidence admissible in a court or record and then he specifically answered the different charges by reading from affidavits and other documentary records refuting the charges made. Answering the radio station charge he read from the uncontradicted sworn testimony given before the Federal Communications Commission which shows the new radio station belongs to a group of Wichita Falls business men.

Horsepower Bill

Regarding the Horsepower Bill he pointed out that this measure was introduced by him at the request of representatives of unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. That the bill was introduced three sessions back, that two sessions have gone since then; that no action was ever even taken on the bill and none requested, that the bill is dead; that its clear provisions show it was introduced only to apply to automatic machinery installed which displaces labor which is used in manufacturing goods for shipment into interstate commerce; that it does not and was not intended to apply to any automobiles, trucks, tractors or other farm or home motors as clearly shown from the provisions of the bill.

Political Patronage

Answering the charge regarding political patronage, McFarlane pointed out that his opponent was trying to stir up such discord to hold out hope to his own supporters that they would receive such post office appointments when he knew that the last Congress had placed all post office appointments under civil service without term subject only to honest, efficient service. That this legislation permanently removed all postmasterships from politics and that he was glad to vote for such legislation.

Candidate of Special Interests

Mr. McFarlane read from documents and affidavits stating that his opponent had not earned sufficient money since moving to Wichita Falls to pay his own expenses, much less pay for the last and this expensive campaign. He charged his opponent with being the candidate of the utilities and referred to affidavits and the paid workers and large sums of money being expended and being paid to the same crowd over the district who have worked to defeat the municipal light plant elections in the district as sufficient proof of same.

Old Age Assistance

Mr. McFarlane referred to his record in support of assistance for the aged and pointed out he had voted for $40.00 per month amendment to the Social Security Act and would gladly co-operate with Governor-elect Lee O'Daniel in eliminating all red tape and discrimination in the payments due the aged. That the Federal Statute did not require need be shown except by the applicant. That he had signed the petitions requesting hearings by the Ways and Means Committee and to bring the General Welfare Act before Congress for immediate consideration. That the aged should be paid their pensions without further delay and payment should not be made a further political foot ball.

Perfect Record

McFarlane closed his speech with an appeal to stand by the Administration's program, as there is no other constructive program being offered and called to their attention that no vote he had cast had been challenged as wrong. He also pointed out the rules of seniority in Congress and that his service had been recognized by being placed on the powerful appropriations committee, which means so much to Texas and particularly to the schools and colleges having applications now pending action.

CHAPTER ON THE RECORDS of the CANDIDATES for CONGRESS

McFarlane's Record      Gossett's Record

General mercantile business for years selling same and volunteering as a private in the World War. He worked on the farm, in the coal mines and odd jobs, working his way through two universities. Since returning to the World War has practiced law with father at Graham, Texas, since 1920. He has always actively supported legislation for veterans, widows and orphans and fight for the soldier bonus. He kept faith with his own and the platform 100%. Has actively supported the President's Recovery Program. He was appointed on special investigating committee to investigate air craft purchases for army and was directed by the President to investigate these corporations' income tax. From this investigation, he secured legislation, offered legislation, and helped through Congress amendments to the Tax which eliminated the right of large corporations to file consolidated income tax reports. This loophole in the corporate income tax law placed back into the treasury more than $300,000,000 for each of the years, which had previously been escrowed each year. (pp 6432-36; 6666; 74th Cong. Rec.)

That of the 219 cases tried before juries only 86 persons or 39% of the contested jury cases tried have been sent to the penitentiary. Thus showing because of his incompetence that only 10% of the grand-jury indictments returned were ever sent to the penitentiary. If Mr. Gossett cannot obtain a record that will stand the test of the court with the special training he has had for 12 years in the law how could he hope to maintain under these trying times and conditions a satisfactory record in the HIGHEST LEGISLATIVE BODY WITHIN THE GIFT OF THE PEOPLE WITHOUT ANY PREVIOUS LEGISLATIVE EXPERIENCE?

The County Attorney of Wichita County during a part of this time had a record of 231 convictions in felony cases without a single reversal by the Appellate Court. "By their deeds ye shall know them." By his deeds he has been tried and found wanting.

He does not challenge McFarlane's voting record, but attacks only McFarlane's personal character, through mud slinging tactics he knows to be false and unsupported by any reputable evidence.

LET'S NOT SWAP HORSES IN MID-STREAM

BURKBURNETT PUBLIC LIBRARY TEMPORARILY CLOSED MONDAY

The Burk Burnett Public Library was closed this week and will remain closed until arrangements are complete for the granting of a WPA project which calls for a full time librarian.

Application has already been made by the city manager, Ross Reagan, for this grant, and some action will probably be taken on the matter within a short time. In the meantime, the library will be open for two hours every evening to check in books.

The library was opening in January, 1935, and has proven to be successful in every way save as a financial venture. Public spirited club women have struggled to keep the institution going, but the librarian has worked the last two months without pay.

This institution has been very popular with everyone, especially so with young people, and every effort is being made to see that it will be maintained permanently.

SUMMER PICTURE STORIES

In picturing summer romances, keep the romance! Don't let your subjects pose stiffly or smile at the camera!

IT'S a camera axiom that every picture should tell a story. Will you remember that this summer when you are snapping pictures of friends and their summer activities?

Nothing is easier than to get a member of your crowd to "stand over by that bush while I snap your picture." But that sort of picture-taking doesn't produce the best kind of pictures—because such pictures don't "say" anything.

It's easy to go on a picnic with Bill and Janet Smith and get snapshots of them standing by a bush or a tree, smiling for the camera. But it's more fun, and makes better pictures, to catch Janet feeding Bill a huge slice of chocolate cake, or get Bill helping Janet over a barbed-

NYA Jobs To Help Students Finish Higher Education

Boys and girls who cannot otherwise continue their education in high school or college will be provided with an opportunity to earn a part of their expenses on NYA jobs again during the 1938-39 academic year, J. C. Kellam, State Director of the National Youth Administration, announced.

Mr. Kellam has been advised that a Federal allotment of $1,038,915 has been made for Texas students who want to work their way through school, this representing a 20 per cent increase over the quota allotted to the State last year.

Students desiring to earn a part of their expenses on NYA jobs should communicate with the head of the institution they wish to attend, in order that their eligibility for the jobs may be determined. To be eligible, a student must be 16 but not yet 25 years old and must furnish evidence to the satisfaction of officials of the institution that he cannot enter or remain in school without this assistance. He must be of good character, and must be able to do good school work in at least three-fourths of the normal curriculum of the institution.

Mr. Kellam said that quotas for Texas colleges and universities will be determined on the basis of full-time students between 16 and 24 years of age on October 1, 1936, and that each college will be furnished appropriate application blanks just as soon as the blanks are available.

The quota for each participating secondary school will be determined by the State Youth Director on a basis of youth need and availability of school facilities. The Director will be assisted by recommendations of the County School Superintendent and an advisory committee of local school officials in each county.

Students employed part-time under the College Aid Program may earn an average wage of $15 a month, while students working under the School Aid Program may earn a wage not exceeding $6 a month.

During the last school year, more than 17,300 Texas students held part-time jobs under the NYA Student Aid Program, their earnings enabling them to buy lunches, pay for their board, buy books, or clothing, or pay tuition, according to their individual needs, Mr. Kellam said.

A chemical farm, with vegetables growing from huge glass jars filled with chemical solution, will be a feature of the Hall of Science at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

turned it on him. According to Nichols' own statement the only thing that prevented his shooting Mr. Blanscet was that he could not release the cylinder on the gun.

Blanscet returned to the city hall to get another gun and to secure the aid of Jim Turner and Nat Harris, city officers. When the three returned to the cafe, the negro woman had been shot.

John Ayers told the officers that Nichols had returned to the cafe and shot at him and his daughter. When being questioned, Nichols told Abernathy that he fired several times at Ayers and missed him and then shot the negro girl as she ran to her father.
