Coach Hill Is Chosen To Coach West Team In Oil Bowl Classic

Local football men who have chosen to coach the West team which will play in the annual Oil Bowl to be held at Coyle, September 5th.

Coach Hill, who has been chosen to coach the West team, is optimistic over this year's crop of aspirants for gridiron fame and glory. Out of the 25 who reported Monday morning, five were letter men. They are: Orto and Harry Elliott, Fred Brown, Buck Willett, and Jack McKown.

These boys have already proven their mettle as members of a championship team, and this year's outcome will, of course, depend very heavily upon them. That doesn't mean, however, that there is any doubt concerning the strength of the rest of the boys, but it is fortunate that they have a nice balance of line and backfield veterans whose experience will stand the team in good stead during the coming season.

The Bulldogs are lucky in one way; sometimes a coach has almost nothing to fall back on when a team of stars graduates almost en masse. This contingency has been foreseen, and the crop of youngsters this year have seen several seasons of intensive grooming for the places they now fill. All have seen "service under fire," and all have been under Hill's coaching for years.

It is too early in the season to issue any prophecies. The coach himself hasn't fully made up his mind concerning the best tactics to use. One thing is certain; he has the best prospects for receivers he has had in a long time, and concentration on passes is certain; however, this doesn't mean that the Bulldogs will play an aerial game this season. Hill usually manages to have a little of everything tied up in his "repertoire."

Among the new players who have shown undoubted ability are: Garth Landis, lineman, probably tackle; "Little Bear" Green, tackle; Bobby Hayes, back; John Duke, back; Russell Clements, end; Winfred Stephens, end; J. D. Moody, back; Bennie Robison, line; Quenton Howard, line; Junior Chesney, back; Pete Grace, center; Joe Stoker, back; Hugh Frank Brown, guard; John Storey, Bill Bowman, Donald Wysinger, Robert Campbell, Paul Coats, and E. J. Reed.

The Bulldogs face a stiff schedule this year as follows:

September
16th—Quanah at Quanah
23rd—Nocona at Nocona
30th—Chillicothe at Burk Burnett.

October
7th—Seymour at Burk Burnett.

"INFLUENCING" THE PRESS

A Senate investigating committee has uncovered evidence that a large corporation made vigorous efforts to induce certain newspapers to take an editorial attitude friendly to the corporation's interests. That is pointed to by radicals as a scandalous state of affairs.

No evidence was produced that the efforts to win editorial support were successful, or that there was anything contrary to the public interest, in the objectives of the corporation.

What many earnest reformers overlook is that alongside the right of the press to express its views on any subject without restraint there exists the equal right of anybody, individual or corporation, to try to bring editors around to a particular point of view. The final decision is up to the individual judgment of each particular editor or publisher. That is the essence of the freedom of the press.

Every editor has to be constantly on guard against those, in Government or out of it, who try to "use" his paper for their own ends. For every such effort by private interests there are hundreds made daily by the Government's huge staff of press-agents and propagandists.

For every newspaper which succumbs to efforts to influence its editorial opinion, there are probably scores of men in public office who betray their trusts by selling official favors. A New York State Senator, highly regarded as an able legislator and a man of character, committed suicide the other day rather than face the charges against him of taking money in large amounts in payment for his influence in obtaining jobs and promotions for people in public office. A grand jury had indicted him on seventeen counts.

A real investigation into such practices, if it were possible, would disclose thousands in Federal, state and municipal positions of trust who use the power of their offices to feather their own nests. They get away with it because the voting public pays no attention to public affairs between elections.

THE DIRIGIBLE AIRSHIP

The United States will have a heavier-than-air flying ship, under the appropriation of 3 1-2 million dollars for that purpose made by the last Congress. It will not be as large as the ill-fated "Hindenburg," but it will mark another effort on the part of this country to develop what has been, on the whole, the safest method of air travel.

Of course, the new U. S. airship will use safe helium gas instead of inflammable hydrogen for its lifting power. It is not yet beyond possibility that we may supply helium from our government-controlled gas wells for the new German airship. Commander Rosendahl, our navy's foremost authority on such matters, has just returned from Germany and confirms the belief that the dirigible airship plays no part in military preparations over there. Its utility as a military machine was demonstrated in the World War. Its use in war is, in effect, limited to service as a naval scout.

If the reports are true that gas wells containing helium have been discovered in Brazil, there is nothing to stop the Zeppelin company from resuming its trans-Atlantic passenger service to this company. Those who believe in the great possibilities of the airship will welcome that outcome.

Is He Going To Get Away With It?

Push the Pullets and Cull the Drones

By T. C. RICHARDS, Secretary
 Breeder-Feeder Association

"A hen does not stop laying because she is molting, but molts because she has already stopped laying," says a poultry authority. Hens which begin molting in June, July or August brand themselves as short-season layers and if they have not already been culled out, had best be disposed of before the fall laying season. The feed they would eat can be better used by the pullets and the hens which will molt late.

If these hens drones are not already fat it will take only a few days in the coop on a rich fattening ration to put them in condition to can for family use, or for market. It is mistaken economy to take a poor hen to market, or to put in a can one too thin to kill for Sunday dinner. City dealers know better than to offer to their trade hens that are not fat. If they must buy them poor, they feed them up before offering them for sale, and they therefore buy thin hens with this extra expense in view. The farmer loses the sale of the few pounds of grain it would take to fatten them and pays the market man to finish the job.

Fall and winter egg production, when the price is highest, comes from well developed pullets and late-molting hens. Most people prefer eggs from mature hens for early spring hatching, and those which have kept laying throughout the summer go into a late but quick molt, and are likely to furnish the earliest hatching eggs. The same habit indicates a high annual egg production, which makes them the most desirable for producing next year's pullets.

Chickens, like people, must have a variety of food to keep healthy and vigorous. No one kind of grain will give them the ration they need, and while the ration should be built around the grains raised on the farm, as a matter of economical production, it is also poor economy to deprive either growing pullets or laying hens of other grains and mixed mashes to supplement the corn or grain sorghums which nearly every Southwestern farm grows. Wheat is the best single grain for poultry, but it, too, must be supplemented by animal or vegetable proteins, which are best supplied by skim milk or scientifically compounded mash feeds. The label on mixed feed tells of its composition.

However well the skilled poultryman gets along with a flock under close confinement, his intensive methods are not adapted to farm poultry production. Sunshine and green feed are the natural vitamin-carrying elements, and if the farm flock is given free access to them, while observing the same sanitary precautions of the poultry specialist, there is little doubt that the farm flock will be more resistant to disease, more productive in proportion to the feed used, and therefore more profitable per hen than the "egg factory" type of operation.

The Southwest is fortunate in that green feed may be grown for use in every month in the year, thus avoiding much of the winter expense for sprouted grains; and its many sunny days throughout the cold season reduces the need for cod liver oil in the ration. At this season preparations for winter greens are in order. If alfalfa or sweet clover is not already growing it can be seeded as late as the first of September; mustard or turnip sown now will give quick greens and fill in the gap until wheat, oats or barley are ready. Italian rye grass is making a good showing in most of the Southwest for winter pasture, and may be as useful in the poultry run as in the field.

The land for fall and winter greens must be ready for the seed when the time comes. If it is not ready now it is none too soon to begin preparing the kind of seed bed suited to the crop which is to be sown. A good seed bed is half the job.

Big Rabbit Creek

August 14, 1938

Last Friday evening Archie Blair, the Randlett rural school bus driver, took his bus full of sight-seers to Sulphur, Okla., for several days of pleasure and sight-seeing.

One day of last week, so Hawkeye has been advised, the son of Mrs. Kemp who is farming two miles east of the Big Rabbit Creek school house, and a Miss Braken were made husband and wife at the county seat, Walters, Okla. Hawkeye is unable to give the name of the minister who made them man and wife. It is hoped by the young couple's host of friends in this community that they will live a long and happy life.

Just a small trace of rain fell late Saturday evening up and down the Big Rabbit Creek community.

J. E. Wood and family motored over to Our Friendly Little City, Burkburnett, Saturday, to do their coming week's shopping.

Tobe Hardin, Mrs. Martha Nails, her son, Charlie, will be leaving their old stomping grounds sometime this week for southwest Texas to start picking cotton. They will be gone out of this neighborhood until Christmas or after Christmas, before returning to Big Rabbit Creek.

A Mr. Pennington, who lives up in Randlett, spent Saturday evening and Saturday night visiting Charlie Nails.

Our young business man of Our Friendly Little City, Burkburnett, Herman Engelmann, of Burkburnett C. of C. manager, was back on the truck Saturday evening at 4 o'clock, ready to give away the $60.00. There were at least a half million people on the street where the drawing took place up at the Big Ice Service plant, one of the largest ice plants in northwest Texas.

Generally speaking, about all of the farmers are at ease for a short time, as they have their crops all laid by. Some few are tuning up their old tin flivvers; oiling them up good, getting them in shape to make from 100 to 300 miles trips to see their wives' people back east and up north.

Folks, believe it or not, but it's facts! Nearly every day last week the temperature was around 100 to 101 degrees, especially in the afternoons from 2 to 4:15.

Hawkeye was a little late in getting to one of the best little cities in northwest Texas Saturday afternoon, and where you'll find among the best and most sociable people and business men in the good Old Lone Star State of Texas. When he got down to little Henry's and (Bud) Hicks' big grocery and market, it took Hawkeye 10 minutes to get inside to get his bill of groceries, on account of the big business that Henry and Hicks were doing.

of customers; the big Parker chain store, and every other grocery and dry goods store in the Friendly Little City were taking in the cash by handfuls. Folks, it's just a sight to stand around, if there is any standing room left in those big stores, to see the enormous business that's being done in this wide-awake, up-to-date city, Burkburnett, Texas.

Before Hawkeye left the city, he dropped around to the big printing shop where one of the best, biggest weekly papers that is printed in northwest Texas, the Burkburnett Star office. In fact, every kind of a print job a fellow wants done can be done up in a first class manner. He found the boys working so hard at their posts that great drops of sweat were dropping off their chins. In the office front, there sat the head book-keeper, Mrs. Dorothy, with a very pleasant smile on her face. After Hawkeye exchanged a few words with the young lady, he found that the owner of the shop and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brookman and children, had just departed for a long pleasure and sight-seeing trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, and that Mrs. Dorothy had been left manager, overseer, and everything else pertaining to running a big print shop like the Burkburnett Star, while Fred is gone. And that's why Brother Hanna and Brother Harry Dodson were working so hard; they knew that the work had to be done; if not, they would be looking for another job.

Filling Stations to Pay Chain Tax

State Comptroller George H. Sheppard last week was making final preparation for collection of chain store taxes on filling stations. Only one major company had failed to pay its tax; this company, with more than 200 stations, was the only major chain maintaining a large chain. Other companies have leased their stations to independent operators or otherwise disposed of them to avoid tax payments.

The tax on filling stations as chain stores hinges upon the question of whether they sell items other than petroleum products. The Attorney General has ruled that accessory sales are not exempt, that chains which sell accessories are subject to tax.

The court's action Monday was in compliance with the sheriff's original request, and with the attorney general's opinion, County Judge H. W. Fillmore said.

Sheriff Upheld

"The sheriff's authority to dismiss the county highway officer was upheld by the attorney general, thus overruling what was virtually an appeal by the county," Judge Fillmore said. "The commissioners court then decided that in view of the increased number of state highway patrolmen now on duty in this county, and in view of recent recession in the traffic boom near Kamy, the office could be abolished permanently, which is what we did."

Questioned by the Record News as to why Whisnand had been dismissed, Sheriff Allen declined to make any comment, but suggested that disloyalty to a superior had been involved, and said "a great many people already know why he was dropped."

Whisnand 'Explains'

Whisnand told the Record News that he submitted a written resignation Monday morning to the commissioners court, to become effective Sept. 1.

"I submitted this resignation," he said, "because there was too much friction between me and the sheriff's office to permit my continuance on the job. Sheriff Allen came to Electra about 1:30 a. m. Sunday, July 24, waked me at my home, and said he would have to have my commission as highway officer. He said he couldn't see his way clear to use a man who had worked for another in the campaign.

McDaniel Called

Sheriff Allen announced to the court on July 25, it was revealed, that he had cancelled Whisnand's commission, and asked the court to approve that action. Summoned to give the court legal advice, County Attorney Ned McDaniel advanced the opinion that retention or dismissal of the officer lay with the court, rather than with the sheriff. The commissioners court then declined to approve Sheriff Allen's action in dismissing Whisnand, but asked that an opinion be obtained from the state attorney general as to final legal complexion on the matter.

Wichita county's commissioners court Monday abolished the office of county highway officer after Sheriff Pat Allen had discharged the incumbent, O. E. Whisnand, for supporting George Garrett for sheriff in the first primary of July 23.

Texas Grocers In Annual Meet At Ft. Worth 21 to 24

Texas retail grocers to the number of 2,000 or more are completing plans to invade Ft. Worth for four days, August 21st to 24th, inclusive, for their annual meeting. Representative independents are expected from a much wider area for the 1938 gathering as a result of the intensive campaign conducted by the Texas Retail Grocers Association in the recent past. This campaign increased the membership to proportions heretofore unheard of and Texas now boasts the fourth largest membership of the States affiliated with the National Association of Retail Grocers.

National exhibitors are coming to Fort Worth in larger numbers than in recent years. This assures one of the best and most elaborate food shows sponsored by the Texas retailers in a decade. Renewed interest in the Texas retailers meeting is inspired by the work of the Independent Food Distributors Council which had the enthusiastic support of the Texas retail forces. Through close cooperation of these agencies, the program sponsored by the Council for consumption of surplus food products in the hands of producers was a complete success, bringing new and larger profits to producers.

Fort Worth retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, hotel men, commission merchants, bankers and other interested organizations are making elaborate preparations for the 1938 convention. A program of social functions, with special emphasis upon entertainment of ladies in attendance, has been arranged. In addition to the social features, sectional meetings to be addressed by speakers of State and National reputation, are on the program. Subjects touching State and National legislation; transportation, distribution, marketing, advertising and other subjects of equal impor-

War On Venereal Diseases Mapped

The war to stamp out venereal diseases in Texas can be won by taking four progressive steps, R. F. Voyer, secretary and general manager of the Texas Social Hygiene Association, last week told an Austin service club.

"The first way to help in the war is to see that everyone submits to a laboratory examination at reasonable periods of time," he said.

"The second item is for people to cut out the promiscuity which is running rampant in this country," he declared.

"The third suggestion I have is that local citizens get behind their health officers and see that proper provision is made for the care and treatment of indigent persons who are unable to pay for their own treatment," Voyer pointed out.

"The fourth and last suggestion is that citizens boycott food establishments whose proprietors refuse to co-operate in seeing that their employees have proper laboratory tests and medical treatment where necessary," he said.

100 NYA School Aid Jobs Allocated Wichita County Under New Program

Among world-famed religious leaders invited to participate in the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition are Kagawa, Tagore, Aabbi J. Leon Magnus, John R. Mott, E. Stanley Jones, and Madame Chiang Kai-Shek.

May 13, 1939, has been designated as Columbia Steel Company day at the Golden Gate International Exposition on San Francisco Bay. The occasion will be marked by special ceremonies commemorating the company's part in construction of the 8 1-4 mile long San Francisco-Oakland bridge.

When fuses blow out when the washing machine or oil burner is started, it's because electric motors take a momentary surge of a relatively large amount of electricity to set them in motion. Don't attempt to solve this problem by using fuses too large for safety. You can get regular 15-ampere household fuses with a "time-lag" that takes care of this starting current without impairing their safety value.

A quota of 100 National Youth Administration School Aid jobs has been allocated for Wichita county under the 1938-39 School Aid Program to provide part-time employment for the young people in elementary and high schools who cannot otherwise continue in school. J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, has announced.

J. B. Golden, County Superintendent, has been notified of the number of jobs allotted. He has been requested to organize an advisory committee of local school officials to recommend an equitable distribution of jobs within the county on a basis of youth need and availability of school facilities. Mr. Kellam said that as soon as this is done, the NYA State Office will be in position to approve schools for participation.

School officials requiring information concerning the 1938-39 School Aid quotas should communicate with their county superintendent. They should furnish him with data which will assist the county committee in recommending the distribution of jobs, Mr. Kellam said.

As for the last three years, boys and girls in secondary schools between the ages of 16 and 24 will be enabled to earn a wage not exceeding $6 a mo. They will be selected for employment by their own school officials, who will plan and supervise their work assignments. Students seeking part-time NYA School Aid jobs should apply to the superintendent or principal of the school they plan to attend, since the officials of schools approved by the NYA for participation in the program select the students for the jobs, Mr. Kellam said.

Rare objects, some more than 5000 years old, from the tombs of ancient Incan emperors, will be shown at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, as a part of Peru's exhibit.

MODERN WOMEN

EARLENE WHITE President of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

In recognition of her achievement as director of the Home Institute of the Detroit News of Grand Rapids, Mich., Mrs. Ella Gordon Smith has been awarded a silver trophy.

A children's home in China conducted by Miss Maud Truxton Henderson of Richmond, Va., had according to recent figures, at least 250 children who had been rescued from the streets of Shanghai.

There is only one competition out of the six which are conducted by the American Academy in Rome in which women may enter, and two of them have won prizes in classical studies.

One of the modern Guatemaltecos is Antonio Matos Aycimena, who is known throughout Central America and also in Europe for her paintings and sculpture.

A woman who has a big job in Washington, is Mrs. Ruth E. Shipley, the only woman who ever has been chief of the passport division of the State Department.

Miss Helen Clay Frick, daughter of the late Henry Clay Frick, is one of a group of wealthy women who are active in managing their own estates.

In the northern part of the State, only quick maturing vegetables such as mustard, radish, and bush beans should be planted, Rosborough said.

Two plantings of chinese cabbage at 15 day intervals will assure a regular supply of this vegetable from the fall garden.

FALL GARDENS

Tomatoes, peppers, and egg-plant that have survived the summer may be stimulated to new growth in the fall by supplying 1 to 3 tablespoons of nitrate of soda 6 to 12 inches from the plant, J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College, said in discussing fall gardens.

"Before starting to plow for the fall garden, all weeds should be cut and removed. If they are turned under, molding and heating takes place, which dries out the top soil," Rosborough pointed out. "The soil should be plowed 3 to 4 inches deep, and a coating 1 to 3 inches deep of well rotted dry manure may be added before rebreaking or harrowing."

A 6-12-5 or 5-15-5 commercial fertilizer, in regions of ample rainfall and light soil, will stimulate quick plant growth when applied at the rate of 3 to 4 lbs. per 100 feet of row.

"Due to the poor seed germinating condition in the fall, it is advisable to plant thicker than in the spring. Seed with a hard coat, such as spinach, should be soaked overnight before planting. It is a good plan to press the soil around the seed at the time of planting," he pointed out.

Among the varieties he recommended for fall planting are the White Icicle and Scarlet Globe radish, Shogin turnips, Stringless Green Pod bush beans, Nantes carrots, Detroit Dark Red beets, Bloomdale spinach.

Boys, It's Easy to Make a Doorbell For Club House, and It's Fun, Too

BOYS who are fortunate enough to have a club house for gang get-togethers can have a lot of fun rigging up a doorbell and requiring members to ring a code signal before they are let in.

A doorbell is easy to install. Bore a hole through the door casing at a height convenient for ringing. Run two wires through the hole and down under the flooring. Connect the outer ends of these wires to a push button, which can be bought for a few cents, and screw the push button into place.

Doorbells usually work well with two dry cells, but three should be used if a loud signal is desired. The other wire from the push button should be led directly to the bell, which may be in a back room. If you have two rooms. From the other binding-post on the bell, run a wire down to the last of the series of batteries.

You will then have one wire running directly from the push button to the bell and another running from the push button to the batteries and then on to the bell. It is the push button that keeps the circuit open so that no current can pass through it. When the button is pushed and electricity flows in the circuit, the bell rings. You should use only dry batteries that are guaranteed to be fresh when you buy them.

The signal which a caller would have to give to get into the shack should be changed every week. Or, members could be required to spell out their names in the Morse telegraph code. The code is a very useful thing to know. A long ring means a dash and a short one a dot. Here is the code:

- A, dot, dash; B, dash, three dots; C, two dots, pause for the length of a dot, dot; D, dash, two dots; E, dot; F, dot, dash, dot; G, dash, dash, dot; H, four dots; I, two dots; J, dash, dot, dash, dot; K, dash, dot, dash; L, dash; M, dash, dash; N, dash, dot; O, dot, pause, dot; P, five dots; Q, dot, dot, dash, dot; R, dot, pause, dot, dot; S, three dots; T, dash; U, dot, dot, dash; V, dot, dot, dot, dash; W, dot, dash, dash; X, dot, dash, dot, dot; Y, dot, dot, pause, dot, dot; Z, dot, dot, dot, pause, dot.

The SNAPSHOT GUIDE PICTURING THE HOUSE

Careful "framing" with trees made this snapshot more pleasing.

ALMOST everyone who has a camera takes pictures of his home, but many of us neglect the few simple suggestions which would make our snapshots of "home sweet home" much more pleasing. Here they are:

First, keep the camera level, or vertical lines will be distorted. Stand back far enough to get the picture without tilting the camera. If necessary, shoot from across the street—perch yourself in a fork of a tree, or maybe a step-ladder will give you the proper elevation.

Second, pick a time when the sun lights the house at the proper angle. The sun rays should strike the house at a slant so that shadows are cast by such details as window frames and weatherboarding. These shadows outline all the brightly lighted projecting details, and they will appear clearly in the picture.

Third, try to "frame" the picture attractively with trees or overhanging branches. Such a natural "frame" for the house gives depth to the picture and adds pictorial charm.

A good fourth rule—use a color

Leads South Milk Industry

Aug. 18 — Texas' importance in the dairy industry is strikingly illustrated in the MILK FACTS booklet by the Milk Industry Milk Facts shows that the United States with $46,541,000 cash from milk in 1937 is the largest list of South Central sumption in quarts for other nations is: Denmark, 144; Czechoslovakia, 136; Netherlands, 120; New Zealand, 112; Great Britain, France and Germany, 92; Australia, 88; Belgium, 68 and Italy, 23. "Milk, in one form or another, comprises over 25 per cent of the 1,500 odd pounds of food used each year by the average American," says the booklet. "It requires about 10 1-4 quarts of milk to make a pound of butter and 4 1-2 quarts to make a pound of cheese. Approximately 350 million new milk bottles are purchased annually. The booklet contains pictorial charts and figures showing the importance of the milk industry to the country's economic picture. Diagrammatic charts illustrate how the United States utilizes its milk supply of some 48,777,000,000 quarts of milk a year. Fluid or fresh milk, which provides the farmer's highest cash return, accounts for 29.2 per cent of the country's yearly production. Creamery butter takes 31.6 per cent, farm butter, 10.5 per cent, while 12.1 per cent of the milk is used on farms where produced. In making cheese 5.9 per cent of the total milk is used; ice cream, 2.3 per cent and canned milks, 4.3 per cent, according to charts. Another chart shows a breakdown of the distributor's milk dollar based on recent certified accountants' figures prepared for the New York legislature. This shows that 44.03 per cent of the dollar goes to dairy farmers for milk; 22.16 per cent to labor; 8.75 per cent for supplies, bottles, cases, trucking, etc.; taxes, 2.24 per cent; depreciation, 2.40 per cent; profits, 2.98 per cent; salaries, less than 1-2 of 1 per cent. "Within less than fifty years," says the booklet, "the production and utilization of milk have increased in this country that today we are the greatest of dairy nations. "Milk is our most widely used food, the farmer's largest source of income and the basis of an industry which for service and volume has few equals. "Basic data about the nation's milk supply, the producers and the cows which create the supply, the distributors whose safeguards and efficiency have made wide usage possible and the consumers of this 'most nearly perfect food' are of wide interest. "The statistical background for this vast industry of wide ramifications should lead to a clearer understanding of milk economics."

Burkburnett . . . History

As revealed by the files of The Star 12 years ago.

A number of Burkburnett business men went into the cotton fields near town with County Agent Guy R. Jones, Wednesday, and inspected the crops. It was found that the cotton flea hopper had done some damage, but one of the men ventured to say that a half bale to the acre seemed very probable.

The fourteen year old daughter of Rufe C. Williamson, who was hurt in a car accident Monday night, is reported to be less seriously injured than was first stated and is recovering at her home a few miles northwest of the city. The accident happened when the car she was driving was struck by a truck loaded with grain.

Among the programs of the church services during the vacation period of the pastor, the mid-week prayer services of the First Methodist church will be conducted by different church organizations. Members of Mrs. J. S. Mills' Bible class had charge of the last meeting. The Missionary Society will have charge of next Wednesday night's service.

The new $35,000 gin plant of the Burkburnett Gin and Feed company is now ready for operation. All machinery has been installed and connected.

Two boys 8 and 9 years of age were arrested by City Officer Gilbow Tuesday in connection with recent burglaries in Burkburnett. According to officers, the boys confessed to burglarizing Gross-Harrison Motor Co. and Johnson's Machine shop. Stolen articles were recovered.

The first payment on the new Red River bridge now under construction was authorized at a meeting of the county commissioners' court Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Roberts and children left early Thursday morning for a vacation trip to Colorado Springs.

All measures to control soil erosion have at least one aim in common—to increase the amount of water soaking into the land and to reduce the amount that runs off.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CAMERA IN THE CAR

When driving, keep your camera on the seat beside you, loaded and ready. You never know when a picture chance (such as this) will pop up.

DO YOU keep your camera in your automobile when you're driving—all loaded on the seat beside you, lens and shutter set, ready to shoot at a moment's notice?

Try it sometime, and you'll be surprised how it helps you spot picture opportunities.

Hundreds of pictures can be shot without leaving the car. This is especially true in warm weather, when car windows are down, and the top, in some cases, is folded back.

If you are not doing the driving, your hands are free and there are many more picture opportunities for you—as well as a better snapshot position. The car halts at a street intersection, and there may be a popcorn peddler on the corner, a window washer at the office window above, people busily hurrying to and from work. A small boy is struggling with a big bundle; an old lady passes by with her head wrapped in a shawl—chance for a swell "character" shot. Indeed, all these can be good pictures—natural, "off-guard," full of life.

Never take a drive in the country without your camera. You see more, enjoy yourself more, notice more interesting things if the camera is along. Try making a connected picture story of a Sunday afternoon drive—and you'll be surprised how entertaining it can be. And here's an idea: picture landscapes and interesting stretches of road through the windshield of your car, from the back seat, using the outline of the windshield as a "frame" for the scene. Such pictures show not only what you saw, but how you saw it—hence, they are twice as effective. Needless to say, the windshield glass must be clear.

THE DOCTOR Tells the Story

by W.E. AUGHINBAUGH M.D.

Sentiment
"Sentiment," said Lowell, "is intellectual emotion — emotion precipitated, as it were in pretty crystals, by refined minds." I am certain that if this great writer had the experience of my friend, Dr. A. D. Y., with his stylish stout lady patient, he would in all probability alter the thought therein expressed.

Mrs. S. is a buxom individual, given to reading romantic stories and attending movies which reeked most with love scenes.

Twenty-five years before Mrs. S. met her husband at a Sunday School picnic. A stroll through the shady woods, a seat on the banks of a murmuring brook resulted in a proposal of marriage, which took place in the conventional manner of the time. Time passed and four little S.'s blessed their matrimonial venture.

But time and the duties of a wife had not dismissed romance from the heart and soul of Mrs. S. As a matter of fact, the passing years had only served to increase her romantic tendencies.

Poison Ivy
"Papa," said the motherly Mrs. S., "tomorrow is our silver wedding anniversary, and I am going to ask you to take that day off and do what I saw done in one of the recent movies." "What's that?" growled the unromantic spouse. "Well, I'll put up a lunch, and we will go to the same picnic grounds where we first met—you and I alone—and sit under that same tree and listen to the music of the brook." Her husband consented and they spent the day together in the same woods where they had plighted their troth, a quarter of a century earlier.

Four days later Doctor Y. was called in. He had two patients and both of them were suffering from an exceptionally bad case of poison ivy dermatitis, contracted in those very woods, and beneath that self-same tree which still had their initials carved upon it. Romance is now gone from the soul of Mrs. S., but Mr. S. caustically sneered, "Sentiment is only worth observing when one is less than twenty-five years of age."

Sunday School Lesson

Hannah: Godly Motherhood. Lesson for August 21st. 1 Samuel 1:9-18.

Golden Text—Proverbs 31:28. The story of Hannah, like that of Ruth, has a delicacy and tenderness about it which makes it of universal interest and appeal. The wife of Elkanah, she came year after year to the sanctuary at Shiloh to pray that she might become a mother, for in those days barrenness was considered a disgrace. On one of these visits she made a vow that if God would listen favorably to her prayer and grant her a "man child," she would dedicate the boy to Him.

Eli, the high priest, rather stupidly misunderstood the silent motion of her lips as she prayed, and accused her of drunkenness. But when he discovered his mistake he gave her his blessing and expressed the hope that her petition might be granted.

Returning home with cheerful anticipation, she gave birth to Samuel, and when she had weaned him she brought him to Shiloh, in obedience to her vow, and dedicated him to the Lord. It was then that she sang the beautiful song of Thanksgiving in 1 Samuel 2, which has been appropriately called the "Magnificat" of the Old Testament, because of its similarity to the more familiar song of the Virgin Mary in Luke 1. Then we are told that she visited her son once a year, bringing him each time "a little coat."

Hannah is plainly overshadowed by her famous son whose career is of first-rate importance because he was the link between the era of the Judges and that of the Kingdom. To him both Saul and David, Israel's first kings, owed their elevation to the throne. But we must ever be mindful of the immeasurable debt a man owes to his mother. "A good mother," wrote Herbert, the poet "is worth a hundred schoolmasters." As we think of the sweet, unassuming nobility of Hannah we can say with Edgar Guest, "Let every day be Mothers Day, Make roses grow along And beauty everywhere"

OTHER RECORDS OF McFARLANE'S UTILITY SUPPORT

A.—McFarlane admits that the Waggoner Estate (worth $100,000,000, builder of Arlington Downs Race Track, Etc.) gave him at least $500 on his campaign in 1934. JUDGE CARRIGAN'S OPINION ON THE SUPPOSED HORSEPOWER

A. H. CARRIGAN, LUTHER HOFFMAN, JOE B. CARRIGAN
CARRIGAN, HOFFMAN & CARRIGAN ATTORNEYS AT LAW WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS August 2, 1938

Dear Sir:

I have your letter of the 29th of July, 1938, asking me for my opinion in regard to House Bill No. 8023, introduced by W. D. McFarlane in the United States Congress June 27, 1937.

In the bill it is expressly stated as follows:

"It is estimated that five million employable persons are permanently unemployed through the displacement of labor by power machinery and the mechanization of industry.

Since this bill was introduced three Congresses have adjourned. The bill was not reported out of Committee, nor did it become law. It seems to us that any discussion of it now at this late date would be useless as it could not affect any industry because it is a dead measure and never has been enacted. If, however, such a bill had become a law it could not stagnate industry, but it did not become a law and it could not affect anybody.

You state that it was contended that this horse power bill would stagnate industry, if passed, for the following reasons:

"A. Farmers could not afford to pay a horsepower tax on their automobiles, and it would make them pay it, and as a result no farmer could operate an automobile;

"B. In like manner, they could not operate tractors or any kind of power machinery on their farms. That all of it would drive the filling stations out of business and the oil business would be gone, and as a result everything would be gone.

"C. That it would apply to gins, and the cost of it would be added to the cost of ginning, making an additional burden on the farmer.

"D. That if they had a sewing machine operated by power, an electric churning machine, or a feed grinding machine, it would be covered.

"E. Other such examples were actually given the farmers, and they were duly impressed and voted against it, thinking it was about to go through."

In reply will say that the bill has been dead for three sessions of Congress, therefore it could not apply to any of the cases above mentioned. In addition to that such contentions are so SILLY that they are to any of the conditions mentioned above because the bill only referred to industries engaged in INTERSTATE COMMERCE because of the fact that some of the interests were using labor saving machines in order to cut off man power.

The contentions above made to the bill were evidently for the purpose of creating prejudice against the party who introduced it. THE BILL IS DEAD, AND NEVER BECAME A LAW SO WHY DISCUSS IT?

Very truly yours,

menting with the force of air on wings. Finally, they built a huge kite or glider and took it down to Kill Devil Hill at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. They went to Kitty Hawk because a strong, salty wind is always sweeping in there from the sea and ground there is always soft with billowy sand.

For years, they experimented with gliders; and then they put a home made engine in one of their gliders and transformed it into a flying machine. They made the date, December 17, 1903, forever memorable by achieving the first flight in the annals of human history. It was a bitter, sunless day. But cold as it was, Orville wouldn't even wear an overcoat when he mounted the plane because of the additional weight.

At exactly thirty-five minutes past ten o'clock, Orville Wright climbed onto the roaring craft, stretched out on his stomach, pulled the release, and the strange machine rose, snorting and coughing into the air, with flames belching from the open exhaust. The machine plunged up and down uncertainly for twelve historic seconds; and then lighted on the ground only one hundred feet away.

It was a tremendous event. It was one of the turning points in the history of civilization. At last the great dream of the ages had come true. For the first time, a man had shaken off the shackles of earth and soared up toward the stars.

Yet Orville Wright said he didn't get any thrill out of it at all. He said he expected the darn thing to work, and it did.

And here is a strange thing. Orville Wright, the first man who ever flew, doesn't have a license to fly now, he has not been up in an airplane since 1918, and he hasn't piloted a plane since 1914.

He is a shy man, and to him the hue and cry of publicity is most unwelcome. He won't write the story of his life. He won't have his picture taken, and he doesn't like to talk to reporters.

His brother, Wilbur, who died in 1912, once said, "The only birds that talk are parrots, and they don't fly very high."

Neither of the Wright brothers ever married. Their father once said that the boys couldn't afford both wives and a flying machine. So they chose the flying machine.

Open Letter to a Drunken Driver

SURE, you can drive home a'right. Don't let 'em feed you any of that bunk about letting somebody else take the wheel. Any time old Pete can stand on his two feet he can drive an automobile, drunk or sober. Whatsh a few drinks between friends, anyway. You show 'em who's going to drive.

Pile 'em into the car. That sweet little wife of yours, who's such a swell kid even if she does nag you about driving when you're drunk. And that funny couple with you who want to take a taxicab home. Imagine! Wanting to take a cab! Pile 'em in. Step on the gas. Whoopee! Go places. . . .

Brother, you're not the big shot you think you are. You're just a fuzzy-brained, liquored-up, obstinate ass with about as much right to drive an automobile on the public highway as a monkey from the zoo would have.

I won't appeal to your reason because it's obvious that you haven't any. I won't appeal to your emotions because they're pickled.

I only hope you'll start to drive home some night, alone, when you've one too many under your belt. Then I hope some little emergency will arise which your addled brain and fumbling hands won't enable you to meet. I hope you'll have an encounter with a tree or a telephone pole that will land you in a police cell and your car on a junk heap. As you sober up I hope the baseness of your continued offenses against society will be borne in upon you with sickening clarity. I hope the newspaper headlines will scream out to all your relatives and friends and business acquaintances: PROMINENT LOCAL MAN GETS DRUNK AND LANDS IN JAIL.

Yes, I hope an All-Wise Providence will arrange this little lesson for you. And soon, before you kill somebody, as you surely will if you continue to drive when you are drunk.

Music—Negro Sources

The greatest contribution which the Negro race has made to modern culture is in music. A very high proportion of modern music was either composed by Negro musicians or derived from Negro sources. Anton Dvorak, the great European composer, based his "New World Symphony" on American Negroes' folk songs and "spirituals."

It is not surprising to me that the music composition which has been adopted as the "theme song," for the great New York World's Fair of 1939 is the work of a Negro composer. Every American musician of importance was invited to take part in the contest. Each offering submitted was recorded on a phonograph record by an orchestra. Then the records were played before a jury of composers and critics, who did not know the identities of the contestants.

A six-minute symphony by William Grant Still, a Negro was practically the unanimous choice. It is described as a "tone poem," and it will be played more than 50,000 times in the course of the World's Fair. If the Negro race has no other representation than that in the presentation of the "World of Tomorrow," it will have contributed a large share indeed to the entertainment of the visitors from all the world.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SUMMER SUNSETS

Silhouettes against the sunset make striking snapshots.

SUMMER'S gorgeous sunsets are splendid snapshot material, and sunset pictures are easy to take, whether you have a simple box camera or a high-grade folding camera with ultra-fast lens.

Charming silhouettes of persons can be made with the sunset as a background, and sunset shots across a lake or stream, with reflections, are remarkably beautiful. The effect of a sunset is heightened by a good foreground, such as a "frame" of trees or overhanging leafy branches. In the country, try shooting the sunset with a piece of farm machinery silhouetted against it. A plowing scene, with straining horses silhouetted against the sunset sky, makes a successful snapshot.

One of the most important points in picturing sunsets, is to obtain a strong, vigorous cloud effect. Good clouds are often better than a riot of brilliant color, at least for black-and-white picture purposes. In many cases, a more striking result will be obtained if you place a color filter over the camera lens. The filter brightens its own colors, and darkens its opposite or complementary colors. When in doubt, shoot one picture with the filter and one without. A good sunset is worth an extra shot or two.

Either chrome type or panchromatic film is excellent for sunset pictures. Short exposures are desirable, in order to subdue detail in the foreground. If yours is a box camera which has a choice of lens opening, use the smaller opening. With rapid-lens cameras, try an exposure of 1/14 at 1/50 or 1/100 second. If the sunset is quite bright, and you are shooting across water, you may use an opening as small as f.22.

Watch the sunsets—keep your camera loaded—ready for action—and you will add many a charming snapshot to your collection.

John van Guilder.

Final Services Held Mrs. C. C. Johnson

Final rites were said last Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Polk Street Church of Christ for Mrs. C. C. Johnson, 63, who died last Thursday morning at the home of a nephew, C. W. Coen, 2300 Fillmore, in Wichita Falls.

Burial was in the Henrietta cemetery in charge of the Owens and Brumley Funeral home of Burkburnett. Mrs. Johnson had been a resident of Wichita Falls since 1918. Survivors include a sister, three nieces and two other nephews.

The membership in farmers' cooperative associations has increased by more than a half million in the past 10 years.

Fresh corn should not be cooked for more than 5 minutes, for this is enough to set the milk. Overcooking toughens the hull and destroys flavor.

The first flowers developed on melon, cantaloupes, cucumber and similar vines bear pollen only and cannot develop into fruit. Flowers that may set fruit are borne singly in the first and second axils of the fruiting branches which are produced after the vines have made some growth.

Aptitudes—Pitfalls

A large share of the personal unhappiness in the world comes from misplaced ambitions. Young people try to make their way in the world at occupations for which they have no natural talent. They can never make a real success in such fields, whereas they might have been very successful in other occupations.

Educators and psychologists have developed highly accurate methods of testing the aptitudes of boys and girls, and when their advice is followed those who accept it are likely to find their life-work not only satisfying but remunerative. Those who do not receive or accept such guidance often find themselves in the position of square pegs trying to fill round holes, which can't be done.

Ambition—Reactions

I know a young man whose parents were bent upon his entering one of the "learned professions." He had no aptitude for any of them, or for any kind of office work or other "white collar" occupation. He became a drifter, trying one job after another and failing in all, because he had been brought up by fond but foolish parents to feel that there was something demeaning in working with his hands.

Meanwhile his sister, of whom her parents had tried to make an artist, had discovered that her particular aptitude lay in the designing and making of hats. She set herself up as a milliner and is prosperous and happy. A few years ago she raked her brother over the coals and made him see that there was nothing disgraceful in using his hands and his aptitude in the use of tools.

Tools—Success

A boy just finishing high school paid me the compliment last spring of asking me what equipment he needed to make a success of his life. I sat down with him and we drew up a list of the "tools of success" which everybody can acquire.

First are words. A good vocabulary, free from slang, will carry a young person a long way. Next comes a pleasant voice, a good-natured smile, a not too boisterous sense of humor, a courteous manner, good taste in clothes, which does not necessarily mean dressing in the height of fashion, personal neatness, attentiveness, a good memory, an even temper, and a lively but not impertinent curiosity about everything. Combine those tools with willingness to give the best you have to whatever job you have, and the desire to do your work better each day than the day before, and one is bound to go a long way.

Those are the tools of success.

Girls—Careers

In recent tests of high school pupils in several cities, to determine their aptitudes, the girls were found to be much more realistic than the boys in picking out the lines of endeavor or which they were ambitious to pursue. They were far more clearly aware of their particular personal aptitudes.

Half of the boys who had ambitions to take up law and medicine were found to have little or no aptitude for those professions. Nearly all of them showed more aptitude for mechanical trades or occupations. More than half of the high school pupils who expressed the desire to go to college were found to lack the qualities which a college education is supposed to develop. That accounts, the examiners said, for the fact that from a third to one-there has been no official meeting of the board.

A great deal of credit should be given Mrs. Hill and those who have worked with her in the establishment and maintenance of the Library in the face of great odds.

To The Burkburnett Star:

As past president of the library board, I wish to make the following financial statement and statement of facts concerning the founding and conducting of the Burkburnett Public Library. I am joined in this statement by Mrs. S. B. Crissey, who is secretary of the board, and the librarian, Miss Beatrice MacDonald.

The Burkburnett Public Library was opened in January, 1935, and has been supported by public subscription. The Library was organized by the civic clubs of the city. Approximately one thousand volumes were donated by citizens of Burkburnett and surrounding communities. A set of new reference books, "The Progressive Library" was the only set of new books bought before the opening of the Library. The following year a new set of reference books, "The World Book Encyclopedia" was given to the Library by a group of patrons. During the past three years during which the Library has been open, almost a thousand new books have been added to the shelves, and quite a number have been donated, including books from the Library of the late Mr. J. G. Hardin.

There have been 1045 application cards issued to date. These

The average daily circulation is between forty-five and fifty books. This number is about equally distributed between children and adults.

Miss MacDonald is serving temporarily until these positions are filled. The library will be open from 5 until 8 p. m. every week day and from 3 until 4 p. m. on Sundays until further notice.

Conditions being of the very best, it nevertheless takes time for the roots of recently moved trees and shrubs to re-establish themselves in their new homes. More than this, until they are well settled, they are in danger of serious injury if not actual death unless weather conditions are unusually favorable. Consequently it's of utmost importance to keep the new plants well watered during the entire season. Foliage as well as roots should have a thorough drenching regularly.

President to Act Soon On West Texas Project

Whether Wichita Falls would receive the $1,435,000 Texas veterans hospital for which the city has bid was still not known Wednesday, but definite action on the location was expected soon, as word was received here that President Roosevelt had taken the veterans' bureau recommendation for the hospital with him on a trip out of Washington.

Funds for the hospital were approved over a month ago, the recommendation specifying that the hospital be located in West Texas.

Several cities are bidding for the location, and Wichita Falls veterans organizations, the chamber of commerce, and citizens have been active in the interests of this city.

HOUSE and HOME

Are you embarrassed by a few white elephants in your home in the form of overstuffed furniture? Perhaps you have one of those suites consisting of davenport and chair that was well built and expensive twenty years ago and much too good to throw out, so you continue to try to hide the chair in the darkest corner of the room and tolerate the davenport because plenty of your friends have them too. If you really want to do something about it you can send the pieces to a competent upholsterer who will trim down the too generous arms—straighten the back of the davenport and give the pieces modern lines and proportions. Use a smart new material for covering, choosing a plain or self striped fabric for the davenport and a figured material for the chair. Maybe all you need are slip covers to give the plump pieces new youth. You can buy patterns to fit your furniture if you feel like making them yourself and if you have a good sewing machine and plenty of patience there's no reason why you can't make your own slip covers.

I Give You Texas

Austin folk made frequent mention of the fact that O. Henry, American short story genius, lived there for years—and yet there is only one place of business named for him in the Capitol City, and that is an automobile storage place. Greensboro, N. C., where he spent his boyhood, called the pharmacy where he worked the O. Henry Drug Store. And Paducah, Ky., proudly calls its leading hostelry the Irvin Cobb Hotel in honor of the famous writer who served as a newspaper "cub" there.

Couple of weeks ago, mention was made that this chronicler "covered" the Leary murders when two brothers were killed by a youth who said he "shot them to see them kick." A few days back, the slayer—who is serving a life term—stabbed a fellow convict to death. It was the third prisoner he had killed in this fashion, bringing his death toll to five.

Look Alikes—J. L. Spencer, Mart editor, and J. D. Motley, Ballinger Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Weatherford is one of the most interesting towns in Texas. It was the home of Governor Lanham, the last Confederate veteran to serve as chief executive of Texas. His son, Congressman Fritz Lanham, now of Ft. Worth, formerly lived there. Asa Patrick of the Daily Herald has written many short stories that have appeared in leading magazines—he once had a short story in the same issue of a publication with one of O. Henry's gems. G. A. Holland, banker and former mayor, built the famous double log-cabin which is visited by thousands annually, with its spinning wheel, ox-yokes, long rifles and other mementoes of the pioneer past. R. K. Phillips, postmaster and publisher of the Democrat, ran the newspaper in Eastland during stormy oil rush days, during which he and this commentator were associated. An interesting town, Weatherford, with farmers' wagons around the square offering products of the soil for sale the year 'round.

It was bound to happen. Youth must be served. Every one has his day and then must yield the spotlight to another. The king is dead; long live the king. All of which is by way of saying that Donald Duck is now billed ahead of Mickey Mouse!

Less Corn Planted In Texas This Year

Corn plantings in Texas this year are more than a half million acres less than they were in 1933, according to corn acreage figures recently released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and forwarded to E. N. Holmgren, administrative officer of the State AAA office at Texas A. and M. College, by I. W. Duggan, director of the Southern Division of the AAA.

Texas farmers planted about 4,728,000 acres to corn this year as compared with 5,372,000 acres in 1933. For the Southern States as a whole, the figure was 28,095,000 acres in 1938 and 28,981,000 in 1933, or about 900,000 acres less.

"Although the farmers in the 10 principal cotton producing states planted only about 26,900,000 acres of cotton this year as compared with around 40,250,000 acres in 1933, they planted slightly less corn this year than in 1933," Duggan pointed out.

"The acreage of cotton which southern farmers grew in the past would normally produce
