Crain's Long Run Gives West Win Over East Team

Murray Evans and Whitton of Burk Also Star

High stepping Jack Crain of Nocona dashed 55 yards returning a punt in the last two minutes of play at Wichita Falls Monday night for a touchdown which brought a 15-13 victory to Western class B school gridsmen in an all-star battle with recruits from Eastern Texas.

The West was coached by Volney Hill of Burkburnett and the East team by Carroll Wood of Cameron.

West launched a touchdown drive in the first quarter, Crain and Preston Johnson of Newcastle sparking the attack. Johnson

Murray Evans of Burkburnett blocked Culling Rogers' punt behind the goal line for a safety in the second period and the West's lead mounted.

The East came back strongly, however, Rogers, who hails from Mart, smashing over for the first marker in the third period. Then East took the lead when Huck Shafer of Yoakum took a pass from Rogers and scored from the 32 yard line.

Crain's punt return sewed the game up for the West.

Burkburnett - Once Ghost City - Ready For 31st Birthday

Tradition Has It Area Was Explored By Early Spanish Soldiers

Named For Oldtimer

Many old-timers have been invited to attend Burkburnett's 31st birthday celebration and harvest festival.

Burkburnett will be boasting of both pride in the tradition that made the old time history a glorious epic and pride in the achievements of the modern generation when the old and new meet here Friday and Saturday, September 16 and 17.

The early history of Burkburnett, like that of all communities, is built more in fancy than in fact. Traditions have given this area credit for being the object of exploration of both the famed Frenchman La Salle, and the Spanish explorer, Coronado.

These stories have gained such wide credence that there are persons who can show you the bend in the river where these famed explorers crossed, or the hill on which one or the other once built his camp and spent several days.

That La Salle was in this area has been supported by ancient documents recently unearthed in Central America. The presence of Coronado is supported by the contacts that the earliest settlers of Burkburnett had with the Indian raid in the "79's". It is said to have developed over the memory held by the Indians of cruelty and torture of explorers of previous generations.

Settlement 1861

Traditions also place a small colony here in 1861, but no permanent record had been made of the fate of such a settlement. These settlers are supposed to have stopped for the winter season and to have been completely wiped out by the Indians.

In the 60's wild cattle could be found here and it was on the report of these that D. P. McCracken settled in 1867. However, McCracken had heard of the Indian raids, and for that reason brought 14 heavily armed men with him. They settled on Gilbert Creek, about three miles from the present townsite. This colony spent most of its time in hunting the cattle and taking an occasional shot at the tribes.

Prairie Fires

Only a few weeks later, H. C. Akers, a friend of McCracken, joined the colony with several people, and the small group developed a tiny village. By this time the Indians had learned to respect the guns of the invading white men, and the chief worry of the settlers had become the

PATRONIZE MERCHANTS WHO PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY

A great many of our customers, and two in particular, Clifford Dodson of the Dodson Dry Goods Store, and Leonard Mattingly of the Famous Dry Goods Store, have asked us to label circulars and other printing sent out from our shop so that the public may know that they are patronizing home industry.

This is a fine spirit of co-operation and we appreciate it highly. Just last week Mr. Dodson ran a page ad and had several thousand circulars printed at the Star office. This week Mr. Mattingly is running a large ad and is also having some circulars printed that will bear the Burk Star imprint.

Furthermore, we ask that you who are interested in building up your home town, patronize the firms that carry the "Burk Star Print" on their circulars for they are doing their part in building a bigger and better Burkburnett. One dollar spent and circulated in Burkburnett is worth ten spent in Dallas for circulars or other printing material. It is true that our price may be a little higher, but every dollar spent with the Star for printing and advertising is in turn spent in Burkburnett.

Patronize home industry. "What Burkburnett Makes—Makes Burkburnett." And watch for this inscription, "Burk Star Print."

Are You A Slacker!

Make Your Plans Now For Booster Trip

It is the duty of every business man in Burkburnett to make plans to join the Boosters that will leave here Friday morning for a good-will tour of this territory advertising our 2nd Annual Harvest Festival.

The caravan will leave in front of the Chamber of Commerce office at 9 o'clock Friday morning and every man, woman and child who can possibly go, is urged to be there, with decorated cars, by 8:30 a. m.

Oscar Kemp, general parade marshal, stated that he was going to contact each merchant and ask them to make the trip. When Mr. Kemp contacts you, if you can go, say so; don't beat "the devil around the bush," by saying "I'll try." Or better still, call Mr. Kemp up and let him know you will make the trip. It will save him having to see you personally. It is for the benefit of the merchants that these booster trips and other civic enterprises are planned, and the men on these committees are devoting their time and energy to keep Burkburnett before the people, and you owe it to these men and to yourself to give them a definite answer when you are approached. It is up to you whether you want to make the Harvest Festival a success by going on the booster trip, or stay at home and let your town gradually die.

THE COMMUNIST MENACE

The Congressional Committee headed by Representative Martin Dies of Texas, which is charged with "investigating unAmerican activities," has been furnishing a lot of sensational headlines in which great numbers of individuals and organizations are accused of collaborating in underground activities designed to turn the American government over to the Communists or the Fascists or advocates of some other form of government different from our own.

A great deal of the stuff which gets into print about such subversive movements seems pretty silly. There are only two ways in which our government can be overthrown. One is by force of arms, the other by the voice of the people. Some European and many Latin-American governments have been overthrown by force. To do that, the opposition must first get control of the army and navy. Nothing has been brought out at the Dies committee hearings or hinted at elsewhere to suggest that the armed forces of the United States harbor any such seeds of revolution as those of Russia and Germany did.

As to votes, there is nothing in American law to prevent the Communist party from putting its candidates into the political race, or to prevent anyone from voting for them. For years there has been a Communist ticket on the official ballots of most of the states.

We do not believe that the American people are in danger of surrendering their fundamental rights voluntarily, and we see no immediate likelihood of those rights being taken from them by force. Congress may be led into acquiescing in too many well intentioned strivings for social justice which in the long run hold the possibility of curtailing individual rights.

OUR LAG IN RECOVERY

The depth of the world-wide depression which began in 1929 and affected the economic conditions of every nation in the world, came in 1932. In that year recovery had got well under way in all countries, including our own, and has been progressing, fairly steadily, ever since.

The League of Nations compiles economic statistics for the whole world, with no nationalistic or partisan bias. The reports in the League's Year Book are as near to cold, unbiased mathematics as are obtainable anywhere. It comes with something of a shock, therefore, to find the United States at the bottom of the list of great nations in the degree of recovery from the depression.

We were harder hit than any other nation except Germany. But according to the League's figures, Germany has achieved a degree of recovery many times greater than our own. It is now 24 per cent better off than in 1929, while this country is still 36 per cent worse off than in 1929. Japan, Sweden, Great Britain and Italy are in better economic condition than before the depression began; Canada has made an almost complete recovery and even France, with all its troubles, has made more of a comeback than we have.

If it were true that the credit or blame for the well-being of a people depends on the character and wisdom of government, we would be compelled to believe Germany, Italy and Japan have better, wiser, governments than we have. Such a belief would point to the "authoritarian" type of government as the best of all for the general welfare.

"Big Jim" Kinealy's Gang A GANG OF COUNTERFEITERS TRIED TO STEAL LINCOLN'S BODY

"Big Jim" Kinealy's gang was one of the cleverest bands of counterfeiters that ever vexed and perplexed the United States Secret Service. Soft-spoken and mild-mannered, these crooks had waxed rich and opulent by their illicit traffic in home-made greenbacks. For years their profits had been fantastic. But, by the spring of 1876, a deadly paralysis was creeping over the gang. Their supply of contraband currency was all but exhausted, and they did not know where to get more, for Ben Boyd, the master engraver who manufactured their counterfeit bills, had been arrested.

Secret Service men had caught Ben Boyd red-handed, and shoved him into jail at the point of a pistol, and a judge had sentenced him to ten years at hard work behind prison bars, in Joliet, Ill.

The situation was desperate, so "Big Jim" Kinealy and his gang held a council of war. This arrogant gang of counterfeiters planned to steal the body of Abraham Lincoln.

Was the scheme dangerous? Not very, for these shrewd crooks knew that there was no law in the state of Illinois making it a crime to steal a body.

Before leaving Chicago they bought a London newspaper, tore a piece out of it, and stuffed the rest of the paper inside a bust of Abraham Lincoln that stood on the bar of a Chicago saloon.

The thieves planned to leave the torn piece of the newspaper in the empty tomb as they dashed off with the body, knowing that the detectives would eagerly pick up the paper and prize it as a clue. Then the counterfeiters would approach the Governor of Illinois, offering to return Lincoln's body.

And how would the Governor know he was dealing with the proper parties? That would be simple, for the ghouls would produce their London newspaper with a torn page exactly fitting the fragment held by the detectives. The identification would be perfect.

So the sinister plot took form, and the gangsters arrived in Springfield on election night in 1876.

What a fitting time to rifle a tomb! For Lincoln lay buried more than two miles away from all this excitement, deep in the dark and deserted woods.

So, confident of their security, the thieves sawed the padlock off the iron door of Lincoln's tomb, stepped inside, pried the marble lid off the sarcophagus, and lifted the wood casket half out.

Then, one of the gang, a chap by the name of Swegles, started to get a team of horses which he said was waiting for him in a ravine two hundred yards away.

But this man, Swegles, was not what he appeared to be. He was not a crook. He was, in reality, a stool pigeon—a detective, employed by the Secret Service. He didn't have any team and wagon waiting; but he did have eight armed detectives waiting for him in another part of the tomb. So, the moment he was alone, he raced around to their hiding place and gave a signal which they had agreed upon.

The eight Secret Service men, clad in their stocking feet, rushed out of their hiding place, each armed with a cocked revolver. Dashing around the monument with Swegles, they plunged into the dark tomb and shouted for the thieves to surrender.

But there was no answer. One of the secret service men lighted a match. There lay the coffin, half out of the sarcophagus. But where were the thieves. Had they escaped after all? The detectives searched the cemetery in all directions. A full moon was coming up over the tree-tops; and the excited detectives got mixed up in the semi-darkness and presently began taking pot shots at one another. The thieves, meantime, who had been waiting a hundred feet away for Swegles to return, dashed off through the oak woods and disappeared into the darkness.

Ten days later, they were caught in Chicago, handcuffed, brought back to Springfield, clapped into jail and surrounded by a battery of guards, day and night.

Lincoln's oldest son, Robert, hired some high-priced Chicago lawyers to prosecute the gang. But the learned Chicago attorneys had a tough assignment, for as, has already been said, there was no law in Illinois against stealing a body; and the thieves hadn't actually stolen anything. So they were indicted and tried for conspiring to steal a coffin worth only seventy-five dollars.

On the first ballot, four jurors actually voted to turn the thieves loose. After a few more ballots, the twelve men compromised and sent the body-stealing counterfeiters to Joliet prison for only twelve months.

constant danger of prairie fire. Ten years after the first permanent settlement two other families moved into the section, and they were destined to exert a powerful influence in community affairs. E. Rexford and M. Dodson located near the same Gilbert creek or Nesterville community.

More important was the growing influence of Burk Burnett, master of the ranches of this section. As this territory spread in the 80's he became more powerful than any other individual, and later he actually decided the exact location of the railroad stop. It was for Burnett that President Theodore Roosevelt decided the name of the City when the conflict arose over the post-office names in Texas.

In the summer of 1897, J. G. Hardin and S. P. Hawkins came through the country on an inspection visit. Since that time the history of Burkburnett has been closely parallel to the history of these two families.

A few weeks later at Nesterville, George Darby established the first store. It became a post office and Mr. Hardin bought the store and became the first postmaster. The Indians started trading here and found the white men so friendly they made this area the center of their activity.

However, when the time came to designate the stop in the area the Gilbert or Nesterville section was so thickly settled that a townsite was selected at the present city. At that time there was nothing but a bald prairie at the site. When the first train pulled in on Sept. 1, 1906, another idea was rapidly gaining recognition, a town lot sale to be held the following year.

June 6, 1907, became the official birthday of the city. A Mr. Collins was agent for the corporation, and the sale started. Before it had ended 1000 individuals or their representatives were persuaded to buy the lots. It was a day of celebration and resembled a huge picnic more than a sale.

Church Project
After the pioneers had built their own shelter and fences, the first project undertaken as a community was a combined school and church building. A small frame building was erected on what is now Sixth street. A Mr. Hill taught the first classes that started with seven pupils and ended the session with 125. Each Sunday the building was converted into a church. The same year the First Methodist church and a First Baptist church were organized. The following year the Church of Christ was formed. Each of these three has held services continuously and has large buildings and congregations today.

First Oil Well
The town grew steadily as a typical farming community in spite of drought and panic. On December 25, Christmas Day, in 1911, the first well, the Schmoker No. 1, was staked out on the farm west of the small village. There was no excitement. The people went about their routine as usual without any conception that the event would change the whole history of the community.

Six months later the Corsicana Oil Company (later Magnolia) completed the well. With a start of 45 barrels a day, the well foretold the many millions of barrels of wealth that would be taken from the earth here.

The well was drilled with the usual difficulties of pioneering and wildcat oil drilling. All of the difficulties of lost tools, cave-ins, and salt water beset the operators, and when it blew in on the dawn of July 1, with only J. R. Sullivan, local geologist present, it created a cyclone of interest.

Your Telephone Company is Mostly People serving you in Texas

IT TAKES a lot of people . . . nearly 9,000 in Texas . . . to see that more than four million telephone calls each day flow swiftly to their destinations.

It takes operators, whose skilled fingers stand ready to flash your calls on their way; linemen, to keep the voice paths open for your words; experts to see that no trouble happens in the intricate telephone apparatus that serves you; engineers; accountants; men and girls in business offices.

To each one of these 9,000, Texas is "home."

They work here; their children are in the schools. Last year their pay checks totaled more than eleven million dollars, and they spent nearly all of this in Texas. They are an important part of your community.

The telephone company, like its people, is also part of Texas. It is here to meet the state's need for friendly, dependable telephone service. It serves its own interests best by giving good service at reasonable cost to the Southwest Bell Telephone Company.

BURKBURNETT BUSINESS INSTITUTIONS

THE BURKBURNETT STAR

"The 6666 Star" was founded September 14, 1907 by F. J. Graves, shortly after the first town lots for the city of Burkburnett were sold. He sold the paper a year later to E. P. Reynolds. It was afterward published for several years by the Star Printing Company. Other editors have been a Mr. Funk, F. J. Guillett, Sam P. Roberts, Milton Clendenin, Clendenin & (J. E.) Laney, R. D. Laney, Williams & Billingslea, Ben L. McDonald, and the present owner and publisher, Fred Brookman.

Some time during the years of its infancy, the name of the paper was changed to The Burkburnett Star. For thirty-one years this newspaper has gone to press every Thursday without missing an issue.

For thirty-one years the life of the paper has been one with the life of this community, and the colorful history of one of the most famous towns in the state is recorded in the aging, yellowed files of The Burkburnett Star.

Voters in 1920 and is now first vice-president of the Hamilton County Republican Women's Club.

Banks in England have recently taken on women to do important statistical work and railroads are giving posts to women as company secretaries and sales specialists.

Sunday School Lesson

REV. CHARLES E. DUNN

Saul—Moral Failure.
Lesson for September 11th.
1 Samuel 10:21-25.
Golden Text—1 Samuel 15:22.
How attractive Saul is at the out set! A choice young man, a huge, awkward cowboy, the tallest in Israel, standing about 6 feet 9 inches in his sandals, we watch him search for his father's strayed cattle. And then the unexpected happens! He meets Samuel, with whom he communes on the housetop, and shortly he is anointed as Israel's first king. At this time we find him handsome, modest, and possessed of the gift of prophecy.

But how tragic is the story of his years as king! All his privi-

The voice of the press is the voice of the people. The Star has always been a paper of and for the people. It still adheres to this principle.

The first linotype machine was set up in the shop in 1919. Prior to that time all the type was hand set. A folder and the big press which are still in operation were added to the equipment in 1920.

A big job press which turned out more than $10,000 worth of work during the years of the boom is still seeing active service in the shop.

The present linotype machine was set up about four years ago. The latest addition to equipment is an off-set press of latest design which prints 5,000 impressions an hour.

Four people serve as a staff at the present time. This includes the publisher, Fred Brookman. They strive constantly to maintain the reputation of the Star, which has no superior in the weekly field, and to progress as the city of Burkburnett progresses.

leges became a curse. They were turned into instruments of ruin. Consider how promotion proved to be his downfall. The obligations of kingship should have made him a nobler, more useful man. Instead, he became jealous, moody, and disobedient. Like Macbeth, who reached the throne of Scotland by the bloody murder of Duncan, he degenerated in proportion to the expansion of his power.

His contact with Samuel, which should have been an increasing happiness, became, by Saul's conduct, an agency of dissension until at last the old judge was forced to denounce the young king he had crowned under such auspicious circumstances.

His contacts with his splendid son Jonathan bred discord instead of intimate affection. On one occasion he would have put Jonathan to death for a trifling offense, had not public opinion effectually interceded on behalf of the popular prince.

His associations with David, which might have been highly beneficial, proved to be a source of keen irritation. A passionate enmity against his successor flamed out in Saul's breast, and he pursued his highminded rival like a wolf, seeking to take his life.

And finally he died a suicide on the field of battle, his army routed in complete defeat. Taking his own sword he fell upon it, and his body, with head cut off, was fastened to the wall of an enemy city. What a pitiful exit for so promising a spirit!

LESS PAIN AND MORE PLEASURE OUT OF Life

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS

what was not good for him to eat, and point to the fact that long before vitamins began to be exploited, men waxed fat and strong—lived long and well, without eating according to some medical formula. Let us consider some of the various items of food used in other lands and by other peoples. When I was young and lived in the south, we laughed at the negro because he drank potlicker. Today we know that the waters in which vegetables and meats are cooked, have a real therapeutic value, because many of the vital ingredients of the articles cooked are held in suspension in the solution.

Mixed Diets

When the American Indians, due to their changed method of living, began to eat more vegetables and less meat, they became susceptible to numerous diseases, especially tuberculosis, eye troubles, rheumatism and decayed teeth. American-born Chinese and Japanese are bigger and stronger than native born. Chinese babies, due to a scarcity of cows seldom get milk to drink and have established a contempt for that fluid, but are given a preparation made of soy beans, as an infant food, while Chinese mothers before their babies come eat pickled pig feet, which by the way are considered the appropriate present for a woman anticipating an increase in her family. The indications are that the person living on a mixed diet of fruits, vegetables, fish, fowl and flesh contracts less diseases, lives longer, has a greater power of resistance, and is taller and more powerful.

IT WAS RAIN!

For the benefit of those around Burkburnett who had never seen the peculiar phenomenon such as occurred Friday morning, the reporter of the Star asked the advice of a scientific expert and found out that the few strange drops that fell was what old timers called rain.

This is the first moisture that has fallen in this city since July 27th. It is hoped by the time that this article is printed that a real rain will fall.

Guam has many mysterious pre-historical burial markers, consisting of stone pillars.

The Atlantic side of the Panama Canal Zone has twice as much rain and twice as much sunshine as the Pacific side.

Farmers' co-operative associations report the addition of more than 500,000 members in the last 10 years.

MODERN WOMEN

by EARLENE WHITE
President of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

The American housewife will have to change her attitude toward household workers in order to have mutual harmony, according to Mrs. George T. Scott, chairman of the committee on household employment of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. The so-called servant problem exists, she says, because relationships between employer and employee in American homes have not been based on the Golden Rule. Therefore, there must be an organization of domestic workers. Recently the National Committee of Household Workers was organized in Cincinnati by a member of the Y. W. C. A., who for the past two summers has been a student at the Byrn Mawr Summer School for Women Workers. Terms such as "hired girls," "maids," and "servants" are passing, Mrs. Scott emphasizes. You must refer to your men and women who do the household work as "household employees."

College girl "interns" in the professional world is a new development and it means a student who works without wages during her summer vacation in either a business house or an institution, looking toward a permanent occupational field when she graduates. The New York City Branch of the American Association of University Women is sponsoring this experiment. Miss Marion Dickerman, acting president of the New York branch and principal of the Todhunter School, with which Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt is associated, said that twenty students from several colleges spent the summer learning something about publishing, advertising, personnel and museum work. Miss Alice Rice Book supervised the experiment, meeting the students once a week.

Women in The Argentine have marched alongside their menfolk in recent political demonstrations and in the last year they have come forward in large numbers to give aid to Spanish Loyalists. A group of semi-socialistic women in Buenos Aires are editing a magazine of political feminism.

To Burkburnett Methodists

Again we are entering the closing of another conference year. As we look back over the year's work, the blessings of God upon us are very evident. Our general average of church school attendances will equal, if not pass, any average for the last ten years.

Our Young Peoples' division has shown a steady growth in numbers and interests. Next Tuesday, September 13th, in cooperation with other churches in the Jimmie Thorne union, our young people will begin a series of revival services to last through three evenings, closing Thursday evening with a consecration service. We extend a cordial invitation to all young people to attend and join us in these services.

The dedication of our beautiful church is set for September 25th. Bishop Holt will preach at 11 a. m.

Our finance board is at work reaching the goal of having all obligations for the year paid in full at the time of the dedication.

This is a worthy goal and with the wholehearted support of every member of the church, this high goal can and will be reached. Last year the church reached this goal September 20th, and led the North Texas conference by so doing.

This year you will want to be able to announce to your Bishop, through your board of stewards, your leadership again. Let every Methodist stand in his place and it will be done.

H. M. Cowling, Pastor.

September 22 Is Burkburnett Day At County Fair

Thursday, September 22, has been designated as Burkburnett Day at the Wichita County Fair in Iowa Park, which opens September 20 and lasts through the 24th.

Wid Phillips, Oscar Kemp, and T. Guy Willis have been named to have charge of a parade in honor of Burkburnett on that day. It is hoped that a large delegation from this city will attend. Everyone who plans to attend the Fair make your arrangements to go on Burkburnett Day.

Opening Day at the Fair has been announced at Pioneer Day. A mammoth parade has been planned for that day and pioneers from all over this area are expected to be present for the special celebration in their honor.

Those who are interested in football will have occasion to witness an exhibition of the much talked of six men teams. Games between Texas and Oklahoma teams will be played on two nights during the Fair.

A special metropolitan police bureau, headed by an experienced police officer, will co-ordinate the efforts of police chiefs and sheriffs of seven counties surrounding Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay during the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

Mr. Paul Browning, Burkburnett, Texas, Dear Sir:

It is my understanding that you are in the market for a large amount of terrapins.

57 Burk High Grads Enroll At Colleges

It is gratifying to find that the percentage of high school graduates who aspire to higher education increases every year. Once a college education was unusual. A sign of the times is that it is now considered essential.

A recent check on students who plan to attend college reveals that more than fifty boys and girls from Burkburnett will enroll at various institutions of higher learning this fall, and that is a very good percentage.

They are all in such a state of feverish excitement that it is hard to get them down to earth long enough to find who is going where, but we have a list at last. We do not guarantee its accuracy, as there may be last minute changes, but barring those changes, the following boys and girls will be off to their respective colleges within the next few days:

Melba Clark, to Mary Hardin Baylor; Mary Emma Hodges to John Sealy School of Nursing in Galveston; J. C. Adams, Jr., to New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell; Rhea Chambers to Baylor University; Barbara Crissey to Christian in Missouri; Lester Hughes to Texas University; Mary Lafon Alexander, Tex Allen and Luther Lee Grace to Hardin Simmons, Abilene; La Nelle Elder and Lucille Kemp to T.S. Two Thrill Acts Feature of Fair

Two thrill acts, most daring ever brought to this country, will be offered daily free to visitors to the Golden Jubilee of the State Fair of Texas, October 8 to 23. The acts, high in the air, will be presented several times daily on the grounds.

"The Aerial Ballet" will be given twice daily before the grandstand. Since the general standard of acrobatics has reached such a high state of excellence—these acts must be good to attract attention. This one evokes gasps and amazement at every performance.

Four men sway on poles above the cross-bar of the 80-foot apparatus. Two women in the act swing just below them. When the act is completed, the sextette defies the laws of gravitation by jumping or somersaulting into a small net on the ground.

The Cisme Company is coming from Latvia with a free act that is said to be the most daring ever presented in Europe. It is also aerial acrobatics. They present their act on a small parasol-shaped platform atop an 80-foot apparatus and use no nets.

Fritz Cisme, himself, will ride a motorcycle at a high rate of speed around a narrow track on the platform while others of the troupe perform risky stunts on swinging trapezes.

As a climax to the act, when Cisme gets his motorcycle at top speed, a mechanical device lifts rider and machine from the track and spins them around with the rapidity of a pin-wheel.

Revival Closes Sunday, Sept. 11

The Revival being held at the local Church of Christ goes into the last week with large crowds attending every night.

Several conversions have been made and everyone who attends is impressed with the fine sermons and the singing.

Big Rabbit Creek

September 4, 1938
At this writing, it is thundering to beat the band in the Southwest. All indications are very favorable for a big rain late this afternoon. A big rain might drown and wash away thousands of the web worms that are eating up the cotton. They have spread all over this neighborhood in the past ten days and when they leave the cotton field, it's just a blowed up sucker.

Fletcher Babers, one of the most prosperous farmers in the Big Rabbit Creek neighborhood, loaded up 9 head of his big 200 pound fattening hogs and trucked them down to Wichita Falls to market Saturday and received the top price for them.

A Mr. Hill has had 4 bales of cotton pulled and ginned this past week. He stated that it took 2,200 pounds of bollies to make a 500 pound bale (lint). He was only offered 8c per pound (long lint.) He didn't sell but will turn it over to Uncle Sammie in order to derive more money from his staple.

Rev. Myers (barber preacher) also a Baptist minister, who lives over in Our Friendly Little City of Burkburnett, Texas, is holding a big revival meeting at the Big Rabbit Creek school house. The Rev. is a very able speaker from our Good Book. Large congregations gather at every meeting at the place of worship. It is hoped by the community that the Rev. will have good success in saving a great many souls in this neighborhood during his big revival.

Hawkeye, while in Our Friendly Little City, Burkburnett, Saturday walked into the White House Grocery and Market to see and say "Hello" to his old friend, Eddie Lewallen, the meat cutter for the White House Market, and to see the other clerks. Say boy, Hawkeye had a job getting back to where his friend Ed works, for the crowd that was shopping in the store. The manager and owner of this big grocery store is an old pioneer business man in the city. He had five or six boys carrying out great bags of groceries to shoppers' cars. The White House Grocery and Market is a modern, up-to-date grocery store in every respect, and the White House Grocery and Market prices are in line with any other grocery and market in Our Friendly Little City, the best little city in northwest Texas.

Hawkeye, in going to the City Saturday, went part of the way with his brother, Johnny, in the old fashioned and safest way yet, by the power of old Ned and Jack.

up as far as Col. John Ashton's home. In all that long drive the boys never had a flat, or a blow out. So here came along his old friends going to the city—Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Griffith and family. Hawkeye abandoned the horse power and went into the City with his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Griffith. So, after the drawing, his old time friend, Clarence Carter, who is manager and yard salesman of their used cars, had one of his trustworthy auto drivers, Cecil Bradley, the son of another of Burkburnett's old time pioneers, take Hawkeye to his home. Cecil is an expert driver and in twenty minutes after leaving the City, Hawkeye was at his home safe and sound with his groceries. The trip was greatly appreciated by Hawkeye, who thanks Mr. Carter and Mr. Cecil Bradley.

About 2:30 p. m. Hawkeye was walking north along side of the Boyd Bros. big wholesale and retail stores when he heard some fellow inside of the Hardware department sing at the top of his voice, "Rock-a-bye-baby on the tree top. When the wind blows, The cradle will rock. So, when Hawkeye entered at the side door, who do you suppose he found sitting in a big, beautiful armed rocking chair, which Bro. Tom Boyd, had sold to a lady but the lady yet hadn't come after it; well, sir, it wasn't anyone but Hawkeye's old friend, Charlie Boyd, sitting in the big rocking chair holding a big 9 or 10 pound rag doll that some little girl had lost in the store. Of course, Hawkeye just almost knew what had happened at his home so, Hawkeye says, "Well, old boy, I'll bet it's a 10 pound boy." Charlie says, "No, Hawkeye, it's a 9 pounder. Both the mother and son are doing fine. In a couple more weeks I will have him down here taking his Uncle Tom's place." It took Brother Tom and Hawkeye 10 minutes to stop Charley from singing to that rag doll and go back to work.

Quite a few will start pulling cotton or will have it pulled this coming week. Early cotton is opening up very slow. Where cotton is dead, it's opened up nearly all of it. Generally speaking, the cotton is going to be very light in weight, due to so much hot dry weather. Some bales that have already been pulled, it took 2,200 to 2,300 pounds to gin out a 500 pound bale of cotton.

Hawkeye talked to his friend, Tom Boyd, Saturday. He and his family had arrived back from their twelve days vacation. The following places were visited by Bro. Tom: Denver, Colo., Colorado Springs, Hobbs, N. M., Carlsbad Cavern, Mammoth Cave, and several other noted sight seeing places. He stated that they all had an enjoyable trip from the time they left until they got back home.

Yours very truly,
Hawkeye Owens

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

by GARDNER BOTSFORD

Seeing Red
I hate to keep bringing this matter up, but it seems to me that the Dies Committee, investigating un-American activities in Washington, will be to blame if I go to Hollywood. The committee says Shirley X Temple is a tool of the reds. And if all the other movie stars are Communists too, then Hollywood for me, as there's nothing I'd rather do than go heckle a policeman with Claudette Colbert standing in the background, holding my coat and handing me my heckling irons.

Nobody explained very well in the testimony just how Shirley was connected with the Communist party, outside of saying that she gave "hearty greetings" in a French newspaper.

I don't like this jumping to conclusion of the Dies boys. If Shirley Temple is a tool, maybe I'm a tool. I can say "Allo 'Allo 'Allo!" (Galic greeting, hearty if said fervently) with the best of them, and if that's all that's required, then I guess we're all tools. Here a tool, there a tool, everywhere a tool-tool.

They even had that hesitant Heywood Broun up before the committee explaining a few things. Mr. Broun might be considered the prime tool because he even succeeds in having some fun with the Socialists. (All other Socialists and Communists appear to be very gloomy potatoes, and have no fun at all except for growing bushy beards.) Broun—patriarch of the column-writing business and known as "Daddy Heywood" to simple folk like me, was going swell, telling all about how he wasn't a Communist, but just as he was all set to point out to the committee how very expertly they were wasting their time the crowd cheered so he couldn't go on. This is too bad, because I think something really tasty was about to be injected into the testimony.

I think the best part of the testimony yesterday was the bit about the League of Women Shoppers—tools all—out in Hollywood, to which Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins belong. This appears to be a very dangerous and reprehensible organization, and extremely foolish by nature; it is probably an outgrowth of barbaric days in the bargain basement. And maybe the Dies Committee is right. I know I would hate to be faced by an energetic horde of females, all bearing down on a cotton towel sale. In those treacherous days of the individual, the elbow in the stomach at one of those sales was all part of the game. Today I see we are faced with the communal elbow and a unionized umbrella jab if this organization really works together.

I think if we're all going to be tools, we should not overlook Martin Dies himself. I bet he's a tool, too, and next week I'll confer on him the order of the chisel. He's doing pretty good right now without his degree.

Apology

We regret that through some oversight, the name of Kiesling Brothers Funeral home was omitted from the story of the Odell funeral which appeared in last week's paper.

The error was entirely unintentional and one that we deeply regret.

High school and junior college students of California are competing in essay contests under sponsorship of the Women's Board of the 1939 Golden Gate Exposition with cash awards and administration tickets as prizes for best 1000-word expositions on the World's Fair of the West on Teasure Island.

You Will Agree That . . .

The parable of the sower and the seeds is applicable to enthusiasm evinced in behalf of civic projects. Seeds falling by the wayside, on stony ground, and in the thorns failed to produce fruits, while those sown in fertile soil, yielded with great increase.

Enthusiasm which is not nourished by patient activity cannot yield fruitful results.

The Hardin Municipal Light Plant is already making substantial gains, but the yield can be greatly increased in time. Are you helping own your own at home by active, patient support of the municipal light plant?

"No-Hit" Armstrong started on the hill for the Dogies but was unable to hold the determined attack launched by Vernon, and Brantley, who followed Armstrong to the mound, found little better luck awaiting him. James Zink tossed the last two innings in fine fashion, but his mates were unable to push over the tying run.
