Baptist Revival Starts Sunday

The First Baptist church is to begin a series of revival services Sunday, October 23, with Rev. Dick O'Brien of Stamford doing the preaching.

Rev. O'Brien is no stranger in Burk Burnett, since he did the preaching in a revival in the First Baptist church two years ago. He is one of the most forceful preachers, among Baptists, in Texas.

He is both entertaining and inspiring in his preaching, and those who heard him two years ago will want to hear him again, and those who have not heard him, when they shall have heard him once, will want to come back and get the benefit of his splendid messages.

When Rev. O'Brien was here two years ago, his morning messages were all based on the Book of Job, and no one who heard him can ever forget those practical messages.

Attention Burk Cooks!

Beginning with the next issue of the Burk Burnett Star, we will publish each week a favorite recipe of some local housewife.

Please send us your favorite Thanksgiving recipes for publication. One will be published each week until after Thanksgiving when we will ask for Christmas recipes.

14 Sections Now Housed In Building

Latest reports indicate that the new school building will be finished in time for formal dedication services sometime early in November.

Fourteen sections are now housed in the building. Three will be moved from the High school when work is completed. The library is being finished this week and students will probably have access to it next week.

The floor in the gymnasium is to be laid and sanded and wardrobe doors are to be hung.

The cafeteria will not be finished for several weeks yet.

Burk Crushes A. C. Wildcats

Bulldogs Win in Amble by Score of 54 to 0

Fred Brown staged a parade of touchdowns for the Burk Burnett fans here last Friday night as the Bulldogs defeated the Archer City Wildcats, 54 to 0, to keep their conference record clean. Brown scored six times on runs varying from 12 to 30 yards. His running mate, Willett, turned in the longest run of the game, a 45-yard dash in the second quarter.

The lineup after the first few plays for Burk Burnett was liberally sprinkled with second and third string players.

In the first quarter Brown scored twice, once on a 15-yard dash and once on a 30-yard run. Willett scored in the same period on a 12-yard end run. In the second quarter Brown scored twice and Willett once. Harry Elliott kicked the extra point on each touchdown.

Burk Burnett slowed down in the third quarter with Brown's 34-yard run providing the only score. Harry Elliott again converted. Brown scored on 30 and 4 yard gains in the fourth period.

Elliott stacked up his extra point record with the five extra points.

NEW AND OLD AT BURKBURNETT MOTORS

Above is the picture of the New 1939 DeLuxe Plymouth and the Tex Willis, both new additions to the Burk Burnett Motors. The car is the latest in automotive engineering and the salesman is an old salesman converted. Mr. Willis started to work for the Burk Burnett Motors in 1927 when they had the agency for the Buick automobiles. He was in their employ for a number of years and recently has been connected with the Barrow-Grace Chevrolet Co. After a ride in the new Plymouth and Dodge Willis was sold on the new cars and has accepted a position with the Burk Burnett Motors as salesman. He invites his many friends to call and see him and take a ride in the beautiful new Plymouth.

District Governor Pays Burk Burnett 1st Official Visit

All But One Of Entire Membership Present To Hear Address

Local Club Is Praised

The Burk Burnett Rotary Club was honored this Tuesday by a visit from the District Governor of the 127th district of Rotary International which includes Burk Burnett, Linton Estes, president of the Empire Paper Co., of Wichita Falls.

At the meeting Tuesday the entire membership was present with the exception of one member. There were also a large delegation of Rotarians from the Wichita Falls club present to hear their fellow Rotarian.

One of the chief points brought out by Mr. Estes was that the spirit of Rotary was found in 81 countries of the world, with some 200,000 members, and approximately 4,800 clubs. He pointed out that Germany has disbanded their Rotary clubs but that most of the former members were still Rotarians at heart and still believed in the spirit of Rotary.

He also stated that in all the world of Rotary this, the 127th district stood out last year as third in rating. That is a remarkable reputation and it is possible that it could stand at the top . . . that Rotary stresses fellowship and good-will among . . . (Continued On Back Page)

Burk Baby Goes On-Record With Sixteen Teeth

Annie Anita Boydston, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Boydston, has sixteen teeth.

When it is further stated that she is only thirteen months old and that only about one child in five hundred cuts all sixteen teeth during the first year of its life, our first statement takes on added significance.

The little girl cut her first tooth at four months and had eight teeth at eight months.

She is an unusually strong, healthy child, weighing 22 pounds, and twelve ounces at the present time.

Besides cutting teeth at an early age, the little lady walked at a few days past nine months.

Tom Boyd of the Boyd Bros. Cash Exchange and his family visited the Dallas Fair last Sunday. The report has gotten out that Tom took a pair of new shoes out of stock to wear to the Fair and after walking several miles looking over the Fair his feet became blistered and he had to buy a pair of straw shoes to wear before he could enjoy the rest of the day.

Tom says he wore the shoes home but his wife says he came home bare-footed.

Strict middling cotton was bringing from 8.25 to 8.60 with good middling with 1.16 inch staple bringing as high as 9.65. Seed was selling at $22 per ton.

Mrs. Percy Graves Awarded $1,200

Arrested for alleged drunkenness, Graves was placed in the county jail in a large tank with several other prisoners. He was found dying about 30 minutes later. A convicted hijacker, Ed Ebers, sent to Wichita from Clay county pending action on his appeal, was tried for the slaying of Graves and given 99 years in prison. Ebers was killed by another convict in the state penitentiary more than two years ago.

90th Division To Hold Reunion At Ft. Worth In Nov.

A. H. Lohofener, local postmaster, has announced that he is in receipt of information from the Postal Department that Burk Burnett is to be granted a further mail service, to go into effect Monday, Oct. 24th.

The service out of Burk Burnett has been as follows heretofore: 6:55 a. m., 12 o'clock, noon, and at 3:40 p. m. The fact that there has been no later service has been a great inconvenience to local business houses. Mr. Lohofener and the Chamber of Commerce have worked unceasingly to the end that a more adequate service might be established.

The mail will leave here on the bus at 9:05 p. m. All letters must be cancelled at the postoffice. The bus driver is not authorized to accept letters, or other mail, from anyone save the postal authorities.

To have your letters in the 9:05 mail you must post them at the postoffice in time that they may be made up in the last run. This mail will be made up between 6 and 7 o'clock.

Bulldogs Engage Iowa Park Hawks Friday Night at 8

The Burk Burnett Bulldogs will journey to Iowa Park Friday night to play the Iowa Park Hawks.

Approximately 200 fans from Burk Burnett will leave here in a caravan. All persons going who have extra room in their cars are requested to meet in front of the chamber of commerce so that transportation can be provided for those who have no cars.

This game will probably prove another "breather" for Burk Burnett before they tackle their arch rivals, the Crowell Wildcats here Friday week. However, Iowa Park has been working hard for this game and they are likely to upset the dope.

Burk Burnett's team is in fine shape with the exception of Garth Landis, who is out with an injured knee. The coach has ordered a complete rest for him and it is doubtful if he will see service any more this year.

Reduced Prices On Cleaning and Pressing By Local Shops

The Paragon Tailors and the Burk Burnett Tailors announce in this week's Star the reduction of prices on cleaning and pressing.

They are making special prices on single suits and dresses and extra special prices on two or more garments. This sale is for a limited time only and the managers of the two shops state that this special price is being given to enable the public to have all their winter clothes cleaned before the real cold weather sets in.

Every woman gets so much fun out of shopping that no man should deny her the money to indulge this simple pleasure.

A cash loss of $1,000 is something to weep about, but a paper profit of $10,000 is something to sneer at.

SOMETHING NEW FOR FARMERS

The automobile makers are beginning to let the public in on the secrets of their new models. Everyone of them has improvements and refinements of construction and design, intended to increase the comfort of those who ride in them.

Looking over the advance announcements, it seems apparent that anybody who buys any of the new 1939 models will get a better car for his money than he has ever been able to get before.

There is only one radical innovation in motor vehicles that has come to our attention. While everybody has been trying to make motoring more comfortable for those who use their vehicles only for road travel, nobody heretofore has thought of making it more comfortable for the man who rides over plowed ground—the farmer who drives a tractor. If comfort is not needed there, it would be hard to say where it is needed.

The newest thing in tractors has an enclosed cab, with safety glass, cushioned seats for two, is air-ventilated and provided with a heater for cold weather. It has a self starter, an electric cigar-lighter, a complete set of head and tail lights, and even a radio. If that doesn't take a lot of the hard work and monotony out of farming, what would?

This new motor vehicle, in addition to being able to pull plows and harrows across the field can "go to town" at forty miles an hour on the highway, hauling one or more trucks to market. One imagines that might also serve as a vehicle for joy-riding on moonlight nights.

At least, it is something new in farm equipment.

WARRIORS FOR PEACE

The world has just narrowly escaped being plunged into a war which might easily have involved all of the so-called "civilized" nations. It was averted only because the heads of two great nations pocketed their pride and, as many see it, humiliated themselves and their countries before an arrogant dictator.

That is one way of looking at the recent events in Europe. But there is another point of view, one which has its roots in the spirit of Christianity.

To the true Christian there is more greatness in humility than in prideful belligerence. Who is to say that Mr. Chamberlain and M. Daladier, the heads of the British and French governments, were not acting in accordance with the tenets of the Christian religion in making their appeal to the head of the German government to avert a war which would have plunged uncounted millions into untold agony and distress and cost, probably, millions of the world's best lives?

No thoughtful person will deny that if the whole world understood and was guided by the teachings of Christianity there would never be another war. That it has not been possible, in the course of two thousand years, to imbue all mankind with that spirit does not argue that it is impossible.

The years that have elapsed since the great Teacher of human brotherhood walked the earth are but an instant in the long pageant of time since mankind first emerged from its primitive state of savagery.

The process of spiritual regeneration is necessarily slow. It cannot be done by wholesale. It requires the individual conversion, unit by unit, of the entire human race, two thousand million souls, before there can be any real hope of a world living in peaceful amity. And the process has to be repeated, over and over again with each new generation. It is an unending struggle, and sometimes seems a hopeless one, with too few giving their whole hearts and lives to it.

Yet only those of little faith would discourage any efforts which are aimed at bringing the whole world under the guidance of the Divine Spirit, which is the spirit of brotherhood. That is why all good Christians should rejoice in and encourage the labors of the hundreds of thousands of devout men and women who are devoting their lives to the propagation of the Gospel of the Prince of Peace in every part of the world, regardless of the particular sect, creed or doctrine which they profess.

Big Rabbit Creek

October 16, 1938

W. H. Williams who lives in Randlett, spent Saturday and up till late Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jess Kinnaid and family.

Sunday morning, Hawkeye made a flying trip over to our Friendly Little City, Burkburnett, accompanied by his friend, Mr. Will Gamble, who lives near Devol, Okla. Hawkeye was in the city about 35 minutes. His staunch old friend, the owner of the Burkburnett Star, brought Hawkeye home, which was greatly appreciated by Hawkeye. Just before leaving the city, Hawkeye had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gloger's son-in-law, O. P. Ellis, of Oklahoma City. Mr. Ellis is the head electrician with one of the largest electric companies in the state. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis motored down from the city Saturday to visit a short while with Mrs. Ellis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gloger. Hawkeye was very much impressed with the general appearance of Mr. Ellis on his short acquaintance.

Say, folks, are you aware just how dry it's getting? It is just so dry that the wheat raisers over on this side of the big pond say that it is almost impossible to stick a plow in the ground.

A great many farmers in this neck of the woods have not yet plowed a furrow in their wheat stubble on the account of its being so dry. It is stated that the past week the days' temperatures have been the hottest for the month of October that have ever been recorded.

The esteemed friends of the Owens family, Mr. Will Gamble of Devol and Mr. Henry Babers of Randlett, spent an hour or so Sunday visiting with the family.

The cotton crop in the Rabbit Creek neighborhood is being pretty well pulled out. Hawkeye will say 3-4 of the cotton is sold through the government, bringing from $9.30 to $9.60 per 100 pounds lint, grading an inch or better.

Hawkeye accompanied his friend J. E. Wood Saturday over to Our Friendly Little City, Burkburnett, which has been given up for years past as being the best little city in northwest Texas. More than 5,000 people were in the city from 10:45 a. m. to 12:00 p. m. The Jack O'Diamonds, daredevil, gave a fine performance at 5:30 p. m. and again at 8:15 p. m. The performance was enjoyed by the thousands that were in the city.

Hawkeye dropped into the Star office Saturday to say "Hello" to the staff. Everyone was on duty but his old friend, Harry Dodson. Hawkeye was advised that his friend Harry had gone to the Dallas Fair.

Yours truly,
Hawkeye Owens.

Sunday School Lesson

REV. CHARLES E. DUNN

Our Day of Rest.

Lesson for October 23rd: Exodus 20:8-11.

Golden Text: Exodus 20:8.

Charles Dickens, in a rarely read paper buried in his collected works, describes a Sunday he once spent in a small village about 70 miles from London. In the morning he attended church and was impressed by the sincere devotion of both the elderly minister and his people. In the evening, shortly before sunset, he walked toward the church again, and was surprised to find the village boys and young men in the midst of a lively cricket game.

"It was," he writes, "in the very height of the pleasure which the contemplation of this scene afforded me, when I saw the old clergyman making his way toward us. I trembled for an angry interruption to the sport. What was my agreeable surprise to see the old gentleman standing at the stile, with his hands in his pockets, surveying the whole scene with evident satisfaction!"

Sophomore News

The Sophs are ending these terrible six weeks exams with a bang. Friday night they are going skating at Iowa Park.

Junior News

Friday night, Oct. 21, the Juniors will be entertained at the home of Anna Bell Vestal. It is a bit too early for spooks and goblins, but we can assure you that a grand time can be expected; so come along and leave your worries at home.

Senior News

"Say, didja pass three of them?"
That is about all that a person can hear around Clara. It will be two weeks before this gloomy atmosphere lifts and lets the sun shine in. By that time we will start dreading next six weeks tests.

Sports News

The volley ball girls have been testing their wits the past week, in trying to pass six weeks exams.

They must pass three out of four subjects in order to play on the volley ball squad.

1st and 2nd Grade News

We are sorry Bobbie Ann Mc-Clure is sick today.

We are making plans for our Hallow'en party, the 31 of Oct.

3rd and 4th Grade News

We are going to have a Hal-low'en party the 31st.

We hope everyone likes our program we will give next Monday for assembly. We have worked so very hard trying to make it one the other students will enjoy.

5th and 6th Grade News

R's Lohman is absent from school with a throat infection.

We are reading "The White Stay," by Kate Seredy. This book won the John Newbery Medal for being the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children in 1937.

Seventh Grade

The 7th grade has been taking penmanship. They started Monday and have it three days in the week.

Eighth Grade

The 8th grade enjoyed a party at Jimmy Williams' home, Friday the 14th. Refreshments were served.

Home Economics News

Since the first six weeks tests are over, every one has a lot better, or do they? But probably most of the Home Economics class got over the line.
Now we can start to cook and have laboratory work again which the majority of the class likes the best.

Commander Boyd Announces Legion Meeting Tonight

Commander Jim Boyd announces that the regular meeting of American Legion members will be held tonight at the City Hall at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock
7:30 will be the regular meeting hour from now on.

Commander Boyd urges all members to attend. Plans are under way for a membership drive and important business relative to the drive will be discussed.

In Waterbury, the "Brass City," and other Connecticut towns, legal notices are posted on the sign posts of the town.

Scientists, who have studied the cockroach, say that this species of insect existed on the earth 1,000,000 years before man.

The owl, prairie dog and rattlesnake, three natural enemies, will sometimes be found together in the same burrow underground.

Rapture Beyond

by KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT

Fourth Installment Synopsis

Jocelyn Harlowe, raised in a French convent, at the age of 18, joins her mother, Marcella, in New York. Worried about her safety, because she is unfamiliar with the modern world and has developed into a beautiful woman, her mother's first wish is to get her safely married. Attending her first ball, Jocelyn meets Felix Kent, rich, handsome, and nineteen years older than she. Encouraged by her mother, she and Felix quickly become engaged.

ed. Alone in her apartment one night, a cripple, Nick Sandal, enters by the fire escape, confides in her that he is her father and that her real name is Lynda Sandal. Uncertain about whether she wants to get married so quickly, Jocelyn becomes irritable with Felix and one night decides to go to talk things over with her mysterious father. As Lynda Sandal she goes to his house, climbs three flights of stairs and enters a room where he is sitting with several men in the midst of a card game to whom he introduces her as his daughter.

"I want to see you, Father. I got out the way you showed me. Mother doesn't know I'm here."

"Nothing wrong then?"

"No."

"I felt that I must see you. There's something in me that belongs to you. And I am really very lonely."

"Lonely? With a fiance and a mother and a crowd of friends?"

"Felix is still a stranger. Mother doesn't want to love me; she has told me. I have no friends."

Nick put an arm about her. "All right, Lynda. I'll be your friend. I don't mind loving you. Only it's a rash move on your part, you know. I'm not the most creditable parent in the world."

"But look here, old girl. You have been carefully raised in a religious atmosphere and all that. Doesn't your little old conscience say anything about deceiving a kind mother and that good fellow with the neat face whose photograph you showed me?"

"My conscience? But, Father, haven't I a sort of duty to you? Don't you need me as much as they do?"

"No, I don't. And you haven't. Don't fool yourself. You can't bolster up your conscience with that truck, my girl."

Jocelyn began to look passionate and her yellow eyes glowed. "All right, I don't care. Mother won't tell me anything. She has her secrets, and she keeps them. I shall have one of my own. Felix is as locked up as his own great big shining safe. They both keep life, real life, away from me as though it were a sort of reptile. I want to know people, all kinds of people. I want to know how good it is to be bad, and how bad it may be to be good. I want adventure, risks, dangers; I want—"

"You want too much. You are only a girl and what's worse, you are a young lady! Laugh that off if you can, Miss Jocelyn Harlowe."

"Hush! Not here. Here I am Lynda Sandal."

At that Nick threw back his head and laughed.

"You win. And I surrender. Lynda Sandal, I hereby take you as my child for better or for worse and promise to show you all the reality and the adventure I can decently supply. In order to seal our compact and to show my sincerity," he stood up, lifted his hand in a great gesture and raised his voice, "Lynda, I want you to meet some of my friends."

At the changed timbre of his voice, the four card players turned.

"Boys, I want to present to you my daughter, Miss Lynda Sandal. Mr. James Drury, Mr. Saul Morrison and Mr. Gustave Lowe. Jock Ayleward, my protégé and my protector."

Jock rose and bowed. He was the young man with the queer eyebrows and the flexible nose, the one who had thrown the knife.

"Don't stop playing. May I watch the game?"

"We're quitting. Miss Sandal. So long, Old Nick. See you later at the hunting grounds, Ayleward."

They went, slipping into tight, neat coats, slapping on their hats at rankish angles, smiling at Lynda last with probing looks.

Jock stayed near the table gathering up the cards.

"Why did you knife the Knave of Diamonds, Mr. Ayleward?" asked Lynda watching him.

"He's an old enemy of mine, Miss Sandal. He looks like a real knave I know."

"Well," drawled Sandal from behind them with sudden suave severity, "next time you throw knives on my premises I'll kick you out of here."

Jock turned to smile at him with sweetness.

"I'm sorry, Old Nick. When I think of that Felix face of his it brings the devil up into my brain. I go blind."

Jocelyn found herself stammering. "A F-Felix face? You mean—the Knave of Diamonds? Why do you call him that? He reminds you of some one named Felix whom you hate?"

"Well, yes, Miss Sandal. A regular Knave—"

"But, please tell me, Felix who?"

"Hold your fool tongue, Jock," cried Nick fiercely. "And get out of here. Can't I have my rooms to myself sometimes without a cub of a card-sharper loafing about them?"

Ayleward, scared and blinking, like a boy that has been cuffed ruthlessly and without warning, muttered some unintelligible excuse and got himself out hastily.

Jocelyn turned to her father as the door closed.

"Why did you stop him? Was it—has it anything to do with my Felix?"

"No, you little idiot! Didn't you ever hear of Felix the Cat? I thought not. You don't know anything, do you? He's a cartoon pussy of varying adventures. You leave our lingo alone, girl, until I give you a few lessons. I stopped him because once he gets started on that Felix Cat subject there's no getting rid of him. Come and sit down here."

Before she left her father, that strange adventurous night, Jocelyn questioned him:

"What is the hunting ground?"

"A gambling place."

"Do you hate my mother?"

"I've outgrown hatreds."

"Do you want me to marry Felix Kent?"

A shrug. "Mr. Dooley said, 'Take the first one that asks you. They're all alike.' Kent has money; he'll probably run straight."

"Do you suppose he'll make me happy?"

"No, my dear. No man has ever made a woman happy. She must manufacture happiness for herself, or acquire none."

"I think that you and my mother are alike."

"God forbid!" he murmured.

"You do hate her! I mean, alike in this one respect. Neither of you has found happiness in being loved."

After a long and troubled silence she asked him "When may I come again to see you?"

"Whenever you please, my dear, or can make it convenient. I am nearly always at home. Most of the time on this old sofa. Every day I find it harder to get about."

"Oh, Father, can't something be done?"

He shook his head.

"Jock has done what he could for me. He takes care of me now, you must know. It's fair enough. There was a time when I took care of him."

"He loves you, Father. I can see that when he smiles."

"He's not a bad scout but don't get romantic about him, Lynda. He's not the man your Felix is, for instance. He has a poor outlook in life and a character that might be called unstable."

"He's loyal to you."

"Uh-hum."

"There's a sort of stability in that."

"Uh-hum. Emotionally, I'd say he was a sort of bulldog. But that's because, perhaps, he's not been coddled any by life. He knows the value of the few people that care for him."

"Who besides you, Father?"

The bright-eyed cripple laughed in a low and taunting key. "About a dozen women, roughly speaking."

He silenced Lynda on that theme.

He put her himself into a taxicab, escorting her down through the house with its rumors of revelry and play.

Jocelyn's secret life had been almost smothered out by its strong and ancient enemy, the conventional idea; and since her arrival in New York her mother had given the fire and verve of the girl nothing to feed upon except the one bright longing to escape.

Marcella should have moved even more rapidly. Now, with the front door of her life barred, Jocelyn had climbed out of a window in the immemorial fashion of all jailed adventurers. In these strange days and nights that followed her first escapade Jocelyn found herself saying, as she contemplated her two guardians with those changed eyes of hers: "How can they be so blind?"

They were, however, more sensitive to her perhaps than she imagined. One evening Felix questioned her. Heretofore Jocelyn had been the questioner.

"Why," he asked her, "do you look so conventional tonight?"

Jocelyn was wearing white and her hair was sleek as an otter's skin about her smooth rich face.

"You used to say I didn't look as I ought to; conventional, that is."

"Tonight you do."

He went over to her, sat on the arm of her chair and bent above her, capturing her in one strong arm.

"Look, child, I have to be away from you for a fortnight presently." Her heart went plunging, whether for joy or sorrow she could not tell for the life of her have said, "When I come back don't you think we could shorten this engagement of ours a little? I'm weary of convent airs. I want a wife!"

Jocelyn's eyes leaped to her mother for aid, for rescue.

Marcella spoke in measure as though she were reciting.

"I can see no reason for keeping you waiting much longer, Felix. I did say a four months' engagement but it seems to me that you have tested each other's affections now sufficiently, have had time to draw close to each other. Of course we must wait until the end of the Lenten season. It might be possible to arrange for a wedding then. While you are away in Arizona I shall go to the sisters. I will ask Cousin Sara Mullet to come and stay here with Jocelyn. I think the child will be glad to have this little interval of loneliness. She will be able to prepare herself for the great—for the happy change."

The girl looked from one to the other.

"You mean you'll both go away? You'll leave me alone here for all those days before... before...?"

Felix bent to her lips. Before his own fell upon them he said in a low key, "Much safer for you, my darling, to be rid of me just now." And the kiss she dreaded fell upon her with the anguish of a blow.

Swiftly the thought came to her, "I shall be free. I shall be almost free."

"I don't think," she said and there was an echo in her voice of Nick Sandal's irony, "I don't remember that either of you has asked what I want, have you?"

Felix laughed with tenderness. Marcella protested, "Jocelyn!"

Jocelyn turned to them, her face bent down and her smiling eyes listed.

"I don't say no, Mother. And, Felix, I don't say yes."

Their faces locked into tyranny and anger, both controlled as out of indulgence to a child.

"But while you are both away," she confronted their tyranny with proud and secret eyes, "I—will—decide."

Events shaped themselves rapidly to make her quest of the truth possible. Cousin Sara came, an old woman with an ear trumpet, very active and very lame, who gadded about the city all day with a passionate enthusiasm for shopping, and went to bed at night exhausted by her own nervous activity. To superintend Jocelyn's trousseau, to buy what must be bought, to stow it away, all this was a sort of wistful heaven to the poor old lady. She did not even begin to think of understanding Jocelyn.

After Felix had been gone four days—and Jocelyn rather anxiously recognized that she missed him—and after Marcella had been buried in her convent for as long a time, after Cousin Sara had settled in like some squirrel-creature to the routine of acquisition and repose, there came a night... Mary's night out, when Jocelyn drew from her old trunk the pleated skirt and the small dark jacket and the tam-o-shanter and ran her fingers through her hair.

It was a thick night with fog across the river and a multitudinous voice of horns and bells, the lights all sphered of golden fruits: Aladdin's garden, thought Jocelyn.

This time she found her father in the outer room of his lodging, alone. At her knock a footstep hurried to the door. It opened and Nick stood before her. He seemed for a flash disappointed at what he had found there on his threshold.

"I didn't expect to see you again," he said. "I thought you'd had enough."

"Enough? Father, I've been living to get back here. Are we alone?"

"For the present we are."

Then may I go to other rooms?"

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Probation After Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 23rd.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away" (Revelation 21:4).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is the origin and ultimate of man, never attainable through death, but gained by walking in the pathway of Truth both before and after that which is called death" (page 487).

cal messages, so filled with the things that are helpful to the Christian in meeting the questions and problems of every day life.

The First Baptist church and pastor extend the most cordial invitation to every Burkburnett citizen to attend these services, regardless of church, or no church, affiliation. If you believe in spiritual religion, and feel that you, and others, need to come back to God, give your prayers, and your presence, to this revival effort.

The week-day services will be held at ten o'clock in the morning, and at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening, and we urge that you join with us, with your presence, and with the prayer, "Will thou not revive us again; that thy people may rejoice in thee?"

90th Division --

From this office will be handled the preparations for the Ninetieth Reunion. Reunion dates are November 11, 12 and 13.

The Ninetieth Division has held a reunion every year since the World War. The majority of the men that composed the 90th Division came from Texas and Oklahoma and the Division is known, popularly, as the T-O Division. The two states alternate as hosts for the Reunion.

Roy T. Kline is president of the Association and Bill Marlin of Pawnee, Okla., is the executive secretary. Marlin has announced that there have been 285 reservations for attendance at the Reunion to date.

The Dallas Ninetieth Division Club has informed the Ft. Worth headquarters that 450 men will attend from that city and that Dallas is asking for the Reunion in 1940.

This is the third time the Reunion has been held in Ft. Worth. The Reunions are sponsored by local clubs of the Ninetieth Divisions men. The Fort Worth club, headed by O. R. McMurray and John Wallace, is making arrangements to entertain 1500 men for the three days.
