Archer City And Throckmorton Only Teams To Hurdle

With only Archer City and Throckmorton to hurdle for the district title and an open date this week to get ready for the finish, the Bulldogs are preparing for the bi-district and regional games. After an easy victory over the Iowa Park Hawks last week, the team is taking it easy for a few days but will start hard work this week-end. Coach Hill is hopeful that he will have his entire team ready for the bi-district game if they are successful in eliminating Archer City and Throckmorton.

Volney Hill's team, one of the greatest he has ever coached, has all but an airtight certainty of winning. At worst, they could hardly lose to both the Wildcats and the Greyhounds, and a loss to one of them would still leave them with a certain tie for the lead, or with the championship if Chillicothe should lose to Iowa Park or Archer City.

Battle For Places
And so the battle for the rest of the way is for places in the first division.

Crowell and Seymour meet Friday in the only conference game, one that will decide the probable winner of third place unless Chillicothe falls out of its lead for runner-up honors. Apparently well matched, Seymour and Crowell will play at Seymour.

Archer City will test the quality of district 11-A opposition in a game Friday at Bowie, where the Jackrabbits will have respite from their race for the title.

Burk Takes Hawks In Race For 9-A Championship

The Burk Burnett steam roller moved on a step closer to the 9-A championship here Friday night, by battering the stubborn Iowa Park Hawks, 40 to 12. The game was all that it was advertised to be, and the battle between the Burkdog's Freddie Brown and the Hawk's Carl McKinnon was a thriller from start to finish. Burk Burnett struck through the air for most of its points, and Freddie Brown found receivers ranging far and wide for his shots. The first touchdown came early with Brown tossing over the goal line to Howard for the touchdown. Stoker's kick was good. Just a few plays later the Hawks struck back at the Bulldogs, and from midfield Carl McKinnon climaxed a 65-yard drive with a beautiful broken field run for the last 49 yards of the distance. Try for extra point failed.

Second Is All Burk
The scoring in the second quarter was all Burk Burnett, and two more touchdowns were pushed across the goal line. About midway in the period, Burk Burnett took a short kick on the Iowa Park 31-yard line and marched to a touchdown.

Late in the quarter, a Burk Burnett drive bogged down on the 41-yard line, and Brown faded back beyond midfield and heaved a long pass to Clements inside the 10-yard line, and Clements romped across the goal line. The try for extra point failed, and the half ended, 20 to 6, three plays later.

The second half was just a repeat of the first with the Bulldogs again scoring early. Taking a kick on the Iowa Park 45-yard line, Burk Burnett drove to the 10-yard line with a 19-yard pass setting up the touchdown. Iowa Park drew a 5-yard penalty, then Clements leaped over the heads of a covey of Iowa Park lads to pull down Brown's touchdown pass. Stoker again kicked the extra point.

Late in the third quarter, Burk Burnett took an Iowa Park kick on the Hawk 48-yard line to start another drive. Brown flipped a 38-yard pass to Howard, who was downed in his tracks on the 10-yard line. On the next play Brown circled end for the touchdown. Stoker's kick was again good. There followed the kickoff, one

Annual Red Cross Drive To Start In Burk November 13

Increased Membership Needed For Growing Demands

The American Red Cross embarks on its greatest membership drive in two decades November 11 when half a million volunteer workers in virtually every community in the nation will seek increased membership strength to meet growing demands for Red Cross service leaders, the national organization have announced.

Al Lohoefer, chairman of the drive here, stated Thursday that the drive here would start Monday, Nov. 13, and he and his co-workers will call on every one in this community and ask for their membership. The town has been divided into blocks with captains to head each division. Plans have been fully drafted for an intensive drive here and the heads of the organizations are anticipating a record membership.

In March of this year the Chapter assisted in rehabilitating 43 families following an unusual hailstorm here and a tornado in the Clara community. The chapter expended $532.99 for this relief. A similar hailstorm occurred in June necessitating the rehabilitation of some 39 families in the Burk Burnett territory. For this disaster $491.29 was expended all of which was contributed by the National organization.

Increased membership support has been prompted by an urgent need for extending Red Cross services not only in this country, but as a result of appeal from Red Cross societies in war-stricken European countries, according to Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the Red Cross.

"Although the Red Cross must meet the cries from war-stricken Europe, we of America must not slacken our efforts to reduce the peace-time forms of human suffering found in this country," Mr. Davis declared.

"The 5,700,000 American men and women who enrolled as members of the Red Cross last year enabled the organization to meet the needs of sufferers in 157 disasters during the year, as well as to train hundreds of thousands in First Aid, Life Saving and health education."

Directors C of C To Meet Monday

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce will meet Monday, November 13, at 7:30 p. m. to elect officers for the coming year and to discuss plans for the annual banquet which is to be held on December 6.

Every member of the board is urged to be present at this important meeting.

PEACE NOW PEACE EVER!

Today we silently salute the Unknown Warrior, and raise our voices in praise of those who rushed to our defense in the World War. All hail to our soldiers.

But we must also raise our voices in a determination to keep that Peace which we earned at such a dreadful cost. Armistice Day is a glorious thing, but let us make certain that we have no more wars. Let us make certain that we bend our energy to minding our own business.

Oscar Frye Post of the American Legion will hold their regular memorial services at the cemetery Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, with Pat Brady, commander in charge.

The stores of the city have been asked to close from 10:45 to 11:15 and everyone is invited to attend services at the cemetery. The services at the cemetery will include the decoration of the graves, firing of salute and taps.

The Pat Corrigan Post of Wichita Falls and other veteran organizations are planning a celebration in Wichita Falls and all ex-service men of Burk Burnett are invited to participate in the services.

M. E. Board Of Stewards Elects Officers '39-'40

Since the return of the Rev. C. W. Thomas as pastor of the First Methodist church of Burk Burnett, the board of stewards has met and organized their work for the ensuing year.

The following officers were elected: J. L. Caffee, chairman; Blake Browning, vice chairman; A. H. Lohoefer, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Caffee has served as chairman of the board for the past three years. His work is appreciated by the entire board and the nominating committee selected him because of their confidence in him and because of his unusual ability in this work of the church.

A. H. Lohoefer, a careful and efficient secretary-treasurer, was also re-elected.

Mr. Caffee has already taken hold of his work for this year and appointed his finance committee, who have assumed their responsibility. Each member of this committee is active this week and will serve the rest of this month, perfecting a more unified and cooperative financial plan for the church.

Members of the committee are Oscar Kemp, Virgil Brookshear, A. H. Lohoefer, Paul Browning and B. H. Alexander. The committee met Tuesday night and elected Oscar Kemp chairman and Al Lohoefer secretary. Visitors who sat in on the meeting were C. W. Thomas, J. H. Brumley, and J. L. Caffee.

This committee went into huddle for a stronger and better Methodist church in Burk Burnett.

The pastor and his wife will take great pleasure in entertaining the board of stewards and their wives with a turkey dinner on Wednesday evening, November 15, at 7 o'clock. Further announcements will be made Sunday morning.

The church is very proud to announce that church school has taken on new life during the past two months. The adult division has increased wonderfully in attendance. Church school is at 9:45; morning worship is at 11 o'clock; young people's meeting is at 6 p. m. and evening worship is at 7 o'clock every Sunday.

The Woman's Missionary society will start a week of prayer services Monday at 10 o'clock at the church. It will be an all-day meeting.

Those not associated with any church are invited to attend services at the First Methodist church.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED TO WALT BRADLEY HOME

The fire department was called to the home of Walter Bradley, southeast of town Wednesday morning in answer to a fire call. The fire was out when the truck arrived and no damage was done. The fire is supposed to have originated from defective wiring.

Under the AAA, farmers shift to soil-conserving crops that build up a production reserve for emergencies—an ever-normal granary of soil fertility.

Explosion Ignites Gasoline Soaked Clothing

HUSBAND RECEIVED MINOR BURNS

Mrs. A. C. Harris was seriously burned at her home about five miles southwest of Burk Burnett Tuesday morning when gasoline soaked clothes which she was transferring from a tub to her washing machine caught fire from a burner near the machine.

She and Mr. Harris were both in the wash house when the accident occurred. The explosion rendered them both unconscious and when Mr. Harris recovered and started from the building, he found her lying outside the door with her clothing in flames. One of his hands was burned in extinguishing the flames.

She was rushed to the Burk Burnett clinic where she is still confined and where it was reported that she has one deep burn on her face, one on her hip; her arms, legs, and the rest of her face have surface burns. Latest reports are that she is resting very well.

Capt. Berry Rotary Speaker

BOYD ANDERSON TO BE GUEST OF CLUB NEXT SIX WEEKS

Al Lohoefer had charge of the Rotary club program last Tuesday and introduced Capt. Berry, of the highway patrol, who is stationed in Wichita Falls. Capt. Berry reviewed the work of the highway patrol since their organization in 1925. He stated that the patrol was organized in 1925 with 50 men, and in 1931 they added 50 more men and now there are 232 men employed to patrol over 20,000 miles of paved highways besides all the parallel roads.

Captain Berry made it plain that their main duty was to prevent accidents and not wait until accidents had occurred and then arrest the guilty parties. He stated that in reality all drivers' licenses had expired and he urged everyone to come to the highway patrol office and have their license restamped or renewed and especially if they are contemplating leaving the state.

Boyd Anderson, high ranking student in high school and president of the senior class, was a guest of the club and will attend the luncheons for the next six weeks.

President Tucker read several interesting communications from other clubs.

Wichita Falls Rotarians attending the meeting were: Claude Beasley, Edgar Mann, James Bailey, Charley Featherston, Charlie Kirby, J. C. Mytinger, Sam Kruger and Patrick O'Brien. Carl Morrison will have charge of the program next Tuesday.

Why Cuss Your Own Town?

Every now and then you'll hear some local citizen cuss Burkburnett, declare it is dying and in ten years from now will be merely a crossroad. All the business will have gone elsewhere.

That person, even when making the statement, knows good and well it is not true. He knows Burkburnett is going to remain on the map. It has for many, many years, and certainly it would have died years ago had this been so. Today Burkburnett is a better town. True, it is going through a very trying period—but they all are. Very few are enjoying full prosperity. They're getting the hard bumps just as bad as our own town. The towns that might be an exception happen to be located where a payroll is some larger than here. Then, as for that matter, payrolls are none too large anywhere in the country. Therefore, we believe we are very fortunate indeed. Just think how much worse things could be.

Don't, Mister Man, cuss your town. It isn't the town's fault—it's YOU! If the town is lagging, blame it on yourself and the other fellow who lives here with you.

Instead of cussing Burkburnett let's take a new lease on life. Let's do a little broadcasting in its behalf. Soon the disease will be catching, and the first thing you know everybody will be telling of Burkburnett's good points—they will be ashamed not to.

Governor Lambasts Press and Radio

W. Lee O'Daniel, long ardent attacker of the press, last week told the radio stations within the range of his caustic tongue, accusing them of trying to suppress the truth.

Mentioning briefly in his Sunday broadcast that the long-awaited special session announcement would come Sunday, the governor spent nearly the entire half hour berating the press and one radio station (WBAP) Fort Worth, which has not carried his speech for two Sundays because he would not submit advance copies.

After intimating that his speech was dropped from the radio station because of "professional politicians" the governor told how he had gone to the picture show, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," and urged all his audience to attend it. "His experiences in Washington reminded me of some experiences I am having in Austin," the governor said.

"You will remember several months ago I told you I had been informed there was a movement by the professional politicians to cut me off the air. You can now see that I have been cut off by one station."

We fail to see why the governor's speech should not be censored the same as any other man and the station to which he criticized stated they would be glad to carry his broadcast if he would submit an advance copy of his talk in conformity with standard broadcast practices.

National Cotton Council

A champion of the sorely beset American cotton industry, the National Cotton Council has set for itself a comprehensive program and certain laudable objectives which deserve the support of every grower, processor, transporter and merchant who handles the South's principal agricultural product. Under the leadership of able, hard-hitting Oscar Johnston, a recognized leader in the American cotton industry, the council should succeed, at least in part, in creating new markets for a commodity which is suffering gravely from domestic and foreign competition. The long period of comparative lethargy on the part of the cotton interests at last yields to a concentrated attack in which farmer, ginner, cotton oil mill executive, warehouseman and exporter present a common front.

Texas, as the nation's leading cotton-producing state, stands to gain immeasurably from any improvement in the cotton situation. In its century of cotton history, Texas became the great supplier of British and Continental textile mills, to say nothing of Japan in later years. Any state which has to export 90 per cent of all the cotton it grows is in a highly vulnerable position. With one-half these markets probably permanently lost, there must come prompt relief in the form of increased uses for Texas cotton at home. The National Cotton Council has a program designed to increase cotton consumption in various ways, some of which should be immediately workable.

With the appointment as Texas executive secretary of B. A. Stufflebeme, well known in cotton circles, the National Cotton Council has an opportunity to lend practical aid to the whole cotton industry. By helping to remove the vast Texas cotton surplus accumulated in the last seven years, it can substantially aid the entire South and thus justify the generous support it is receiving from cotton interests in general.

Burkburnett History

As revealed by the files of The Star 10 years ago.

The Oscar Frye Post of the American Legion was the winner of a distinguished service citation which was presented by the National Commander at a meeting in Austin Sunday. The meeting was attended by Post Commanders and Adjutants of Texas Posts. It was announced that the Burkburnett Post was leading the whole state with 195 paid members for 1930.

On Friday evening, November 28, a joyous crowd gathered at the home of Miss Leta Evert where they played games and refreshments were served to four-teen guests.

escaped with her life Wednesday morning about 11:30 when her clothing caught fire following an explosion at her home on Park street.

Miss Margetta Purcell entertained at her home with a Studio tea on Tuesday afternoon. Her expression pupils, their parents and close friends were guests.

"Officer 666" a melodramatic farce by August MacHugh, will be presented at the High school auditorium December 12th and 13th. The play is directed by Miss Ella Billinglea and produced by the Current Literature club. Proceeds will be used for civic improvement.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

And this is Los Angeles!

It all happened a bit suddenly, my being here. Because Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is planning a big Texas oil boom picture and because this chronicler has made something of a study of Texas oil booms, there comes a long distance call from California on a Sunday, directing me to be in Los Angeles the next morning.

There is the little matter of driving my car 200 miles from Austin to Fort Worth and then boarding a big American Airlines ship that evening—of thundering across West Texas (lights of towns winking and blinking like diamonds, rubies, emeralds and amethysts on a jeweler's black cloth; the orderly ranks of gas flares north of Odessa; a fried chicken dinner above the clouds; a few flashes of lightning, and it's El Paso.)

Of course, getting out of Texas was the biggest part of the journey (or maybe it's because we're entirely used to flying by now) but, anyway, it isn't long until Tucson and Phoenix are left behind and then half a million lights flicker below. And so, whisked as if by the magic carpet of the Arabian Nights, we arrive in the Bagdad of the Twentieth century.

It is a different land. Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, as well as Mexicans and Caucasians; difficult street names, such as Cahuenga, Figueroa and La Cienega; none of the beers (so I'm told) that have made Milwaukee famous and Cincinnati jealous; brands of gasoline you never heard of, like Red Lion, Richfield, Blue-Green and Elixer (maybe you drink it); an Oz-like realm where there are doll hospitals, a theater where people sit in their cars, glasses of fig and pomegranate juices imbibed through pastel sippers, cigarettes lighted with perfumed matches.

California's golden strand is fretted by the blue-and-silver Pacific for hundreds of miles—but the cafes serve Eastern oysters. The state is famed for its citrus groves—but the stands feature Arizona grapefruit. And a visitor from the Lone Star state needn't be lonely long for there's a sign, "Texas chili", and another, "Genuine Texas tamales."

New friends poke fun at my Southwestern drawl—though I talk as fast as a tobacco auctioneer in comparison to most of my Texas associates. But folks out here say "Doyouhaveyourcar?" as though it were all one word like "Mississippi" or "Mediterranean." (I guess that's telling 'em!)

I've been in the City of Angels a week and have seen just one policeman—and he was handling 45,000 people. (Talk about your one Ranger and one mob!)

Have you ever seen 45,000 people at one time? They were at the U. C. L. A.-Oregon football game at the Coliseum. The place seats a hundred thousand people and chamber of commerce envoys circulated among the visitors, apologizing for the slim attendance. And when those thousands rose with a shout of anguish, rage or joy, the roar of the crowd was indescribable.

Aside from the thrills on the gridiron itself, such a game is a gigantic spectacle. On the opposite side of the vast concrete bowl, the U.C.L.A. student body, using colored cardboard, created Donald Duck (the emblem of the Oregon Webfeet). From the loud speaker came the delightful quackings and frenzied ragings of Walt Disney's brain-child and I remarked to a neighbor: "The fellow's good."

"He ought to be" was the answer "because he's the same guy who's the voice of Donald Duck on the screen."

The night before, I'd attended the Hardin-Simmons clash with Loyola and sat in amazement as thousands booted—not me, however, but an occurrence on the field. The act which caused the outburst was not harmful to the home team—just the reverse. A Texas player, trying to get under a pass, was tripped by a defender, who also was attempting to catch the ball. The action was entirely unintentional but an army of Tarzans could not have registered more bellowing disapproval.

It was explained to me that the native sons are far outnumbered by people who've moved to California from other states, so the visiting team—whether from Hoboken, Keokuk or Woonsocket—is the people's choice; and when California teams go out of the state of course the rooters there also are against them.

This made me feel as sorry for them as I did for Lillian and Dorothy Gish in "Orphans in the Storm."

However, the California teams won both the games. Yes, it's a different land—almost a different world but, even in Los Angeles, they play "The Beer-Barrel Polka."

Nobody's Business

By JULIAN CAPERS Jr.

Austin, Nov. 8—A thirty-day special session of the legislature, beginning early in January, was regarded by most observers in Austin this week-end as a strong probability, in view of several significant developments. Chief among these was the ordering of special elections in three districts to elect representatives to succeed three House members who have resigned to accept state jobs.

No election has been ordered in the senatorial district served by Sen. Clay Cotten of Palestine, who has announced he will quit to take the job formerly held by Olin Culbertson, as chief of the gas utilities division of the Railroad commission. Cotten, however, has been ill, and has not yet offered his resignation, nor qualified in the new post. It is reported here he will delay resigning, and sit as senator during the special session, if the latter is called soon.

Sales Tax Fight Seen
If Gov. O'Daniel summons the legislators, he is expected to submit social security financing as the only major subject. He likewise is expected to make a drive for a statutory tax, as embodied in his bill which he calls a "consumer's tax bill." Opponents of the sales tax, headed by Sen. Joe Hill of Henderson in the upper house are expected to make a strong effort to substitute an omnibus tax bill, including substantially increased levies on natural resources, as the means of financing pensions.

Political statisticians here regard O'Daniel's decision to call a session—if he make it—as of distinct advantage to him in the forthcoming campaign for re-election. If the session revises revenue, he can claim credit for calling the solons; if it fails, he can claim he was thwarted by a recalcitrant legislature in carrying out his extravagant promises to the old folks. If he should fail to call a session, observers here point out, he would be open to considerable criticism by his opponents on the ground that he gave the legislature no opportunity to consider anything but the notorious SJR No. 12, at the regular session, and then refused to let the legis-

Use Dead Leaves For Fertilizer

Every year thousands of dollars "go up in smoke" because leaves are burned. The following summer gardens and flower beds will "burn up" for lack of moisture. Leaves are valuable because they form humus, and almost all Texas soils need humus, according to M. K. Thornton, Pr., agricultural chemist of the Texas A. and M. college extension service. Humus not only holds moisture, but it improves the physical condition of the soil. Since humus promotes bacteria growth, it also promotes the presence of soil nitrogen for plant use. Leaves may be raked into a pile, wet down, and left to decay. The pile should be broad and flat-topped. It may be used as a year for the best properly. To hurry the decay and to make rich humus, add superphosphate, the rate of one pound of dry leaves of wet yeaves and a pound of some nitro-weekly meeting Wednesday, November 8, 1939.

The president, Marcella Logan, called the meeting to order and the minutes were read and approved as read.

Our sponsor, Miss Frances Hamner, suggested that each member of the club bring things to put in a box to give a destitute family during the Thanksgiving holidays. A committee composed of Josephine Griffin, Christine Turner, Anna Belle Vestal was appointed by the president to make a list of groceries that are appropriate to put in the box. Coward Satirizes Society In First Published Fiction

An omnibus of three short novels by Noel Coward, "The Wooden Madonna," "What Mad Pursuit?" and "The Kindness of Mrs. Radcliffe," the first fiction ever written by the famous playwright, is published in the December issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Biting, almost merciless satire is behind all three stories. Coward with sharp, pungent strokes of the pen, draws the human curtain aside and there, nakedly revealed, stands contemporary society.

"The Wooden Madonna" deals with the European adventures of handsome Aubrey Dakers, a young writer, whose first play has captivated all London. Aubrey had decided on a little Continental jaunt to gather local color for a book of short stories, a book that would help develop in him "an easy flexible style." "Go away and take notes, watch people, travel, look at Somerset Maugham," his agent had advised. Aubrey did all this, and even went so far as to draw people into conversation to get their life stories.

Noel Coward

That was the real thing, the good experience. One night in the bar Aubrey got a victim. He was pudgy and middle-class and unexciting. Aubrey soon found out he was a bore. But the fellow was hard to shake; he stuck close by; Aubrey couldn't escape him. Then, when he had accomplished his point, the fellow suddenly relented. Aubrey could go now; he had been the perfect dupe. The fellow was a spy!

"What Mad Pursuit?" is almost a sociological treatise of Long Island society; the madcap lives the people lead; the merry round of parties from morning to night; the jealousy of the women; the sloppy goodnaturedness of the men. Evan Lorrimer, a celebrated English writer of 43 who is in the States for a lecture tour, is the leading character. Lorrimer, tortured by the confining atmosphere of New York, gladly accepts an invitation to spend a week-end in the country "where there isn't a thing to do except lie about and relax." The week-end turns out to be a nightmare. "One more drink," is the chant that keeps ringing in his ears. He can find no peace, no quiet, no corner to just "lie about." In desperation, to get away from this madness, for he feels he will die if he doesn't, he sneaks out the back window in the dead of night and starts walking back to the city.

"The Kindness of Mrs. Radcliffe" is the story of one day in the life of a "good" woman. Mrs. Radcliffe had "a disciplined mind, a disciplined body." Life to her was a serious business; there was no room for emotion or spontaneous laughter. She prided herself on her sane and healthy character; all that mattered was to be thought a kind and good woman in the eyes of God. She had no close friends; her husband, a sound-thinking man, was slightly afraid of his wife. He lacked spirit, a strange failing for a lawyer. Mrs. Radcliffe's daughter, married to a struggling artist, for which her mother never forgave her, had enough spirit for herself and her father. Her hour of triumph came when she told her mother what she thought of her. Even Mr. Radcliffe slammed the door that evening. It was a tragic day for Mrs. Radcliffe. She even began to fear she was toppling from her pedestal. But in the end prayer saved her.

been working with this amateur broadcasting work to some extent since 1922. He has also been a government licensed amateur for over a year. He has contacted "hams" in all states except four west of the Mississippi river, and in several states east of the Mississippi. As a result he has many friends of the air. He has a 100-watt station, which is strong enough for the amateur class, as some only operate on as low as 5 watts. Mr. Stipe attended the regular amateur broadcasting convention in Denver, Colo., last year. Just in case some of you would like to tune in sometime, Mr. Stipe operates on 1875 kilocycles.

Don't forget to attend the school Carnival here next Friday night, November 10. There will be fun and excitement for everyone. Come and bring your best girl and your dimes for a full evening of entertainment. One of the outstanding events of the evening will be the coronation of the queen, and who she is to be no one knows, as yet. Each class is putting on a great race.

Mrs. Albert Reynolds, formerly Lois Dell Simms, of Burkburnett, is visiting with her sister Miss Jessie Mae Simms.

A party was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Powell last Friday night for the Devol High's Freshman class. Refreshments were served to Wilma Slaybaugh, Jean Bryant, Lynn Gammill, Milton Stiggins, Charles Davis, Joanne Wheeler, Mary Lucille Stevens, Otil Long, Velma Butler, Florene Powell, Monroe Betts, John and Charles Stevens, and the sponsor, Miss Elam.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Bronchitis, acute or chronic, is an inflammatory condition of the mucous membranes lining the bronchial tubes. Creomulsion goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly lays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Famous Party-Giver in Typical Costume

Elsa Maxwell

MARY MARGARET McBRIDE, author, has been to the craziest parties, none more crazy than those thrown by Elsa Maxwell, shown smoking a corn-cob pipe at her "barnyard" party. Miss McBride confesses, in the December Cosmopolitan, she's had luncheon in the subway; tea on a gallery overlooking an excavation; dinner in a water-front grocery warehouse; supper in a wholesale wine cellar, and a motion-picture party in a swimming pool. But as much as she adores the high jinks of the city slickers, the greatest kick she ever got was from the all-night bunking parties back home in Paris, Missouri.

Big Rabbit Creek

November 5, 1939

Well, folks, for several days past it's been winter time. This neck of the woods has had two big frosts; last Wednesday night and Thursday night, and plenty of ice. The cotton fields have sure turned black from the killing frost.

This Sabbath day is a beautiful day; it's just like a spring day outside, but Hawkeye says he is afraid that this fine day is just a weather breeder; it may be cold enough by morning to freeze the horns off a brass monkey. We old timers know that all things are possible in Oklahoma.

Dewey Austin motored over to his mother's old homestead farm Sunday afternoon over on Bird Creek to see about putting a bunch of cotton pullers in his cotton next week.

Brother Henry Kinnaird, his little son, Master Toadie, accompanied by a Jess Dilbeck, drove down to the Owens family residence Sunday morning and spent an hour or so visiting with the family.

Hawkeye took over a large load of mixed feed to have ground for their stock to Our Friendly Little City Friday. As the day was very chilly and cold, Hawkeye contracted a very bad cold and came very nearly having the "flu." This bad cold caused him to be bedfast all day Saturday; therefore he was unable to visit and attend the big trades day event. At this writing, Hawkeye is able to be propped up in bed in his room in order to send out his Big Rabbit Creek news to the best weekly paper in Texas,—The Burkburnett Star.

Harry Grow and Dewey Austin attended the Wichita Falls, Texas auction sale one day last week. They both state that there was a lot of livestock sold and a large crowd attended the sale. Everything that was sold under the hammer brought good prices, especially cattle and work stock.

Mrs. Ed Owens and Miss Winnie June Martin were shopping over in Our Friendly Little City Thursday afternoon. Edward LaBarre drove them over to the city in his fine roadster. Hawkeye accompanied them.

Mrs. Fred LeBarre departed from her home last Monday morning for Kansas City, Mo., where she will visit her married daughter over the holidays. Then she will return to her home. Her son, Edward, is going to 'batch' while his mother is gone.

Mrs. Fletcher Baber last Friday afternoon had one of those beautiful bedroom sets that the Boyd Brothers sell over in Our Friendly Little City, installed in her home. This beautiful set has three pieces.

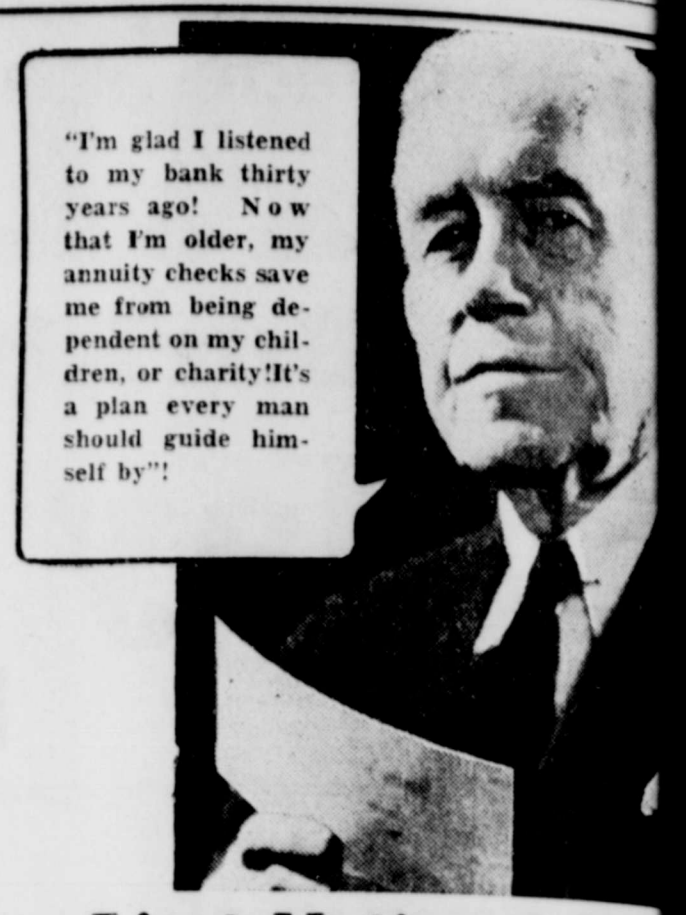

The dry, cold, windy weather is sure damaging the wheat very bad. Hawkeye has been advised by some as good grain raisers in the county that if it don't rain in the next ten days and those northerly still keep coming, that the prospect for a 1940 wheat crop will be a blowed up sucker.

Mr. Rose came down last week and baled quite a lot of cane hay for J. E. Wood. Dewey Austin purchased about 75 bales from J. E. —Hawkeye.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Austin, Nov. 8.—A Texas game department warden recently arrived upon the scene of one of those terrific battles nature's children sometimes engage in just in time to rescue one deer, but the other had not survived a struggle to death which, persons who have witnessed such battles declare are as thrilling as any plot ever conceived by an author.

The warden arrived on a flat on the Herbert ranch in the Hill country to find a pair of seven

White-wing doves, considered much better sport than mourning doves, generally remain in Texas' Rio Grande valley. Large numbers are found in several counties there, but this year, and the reason is not known by game department biologists, the birds have come much farther north than usual. Flights of several hundred each have been seen in Medina county and a good many sportsmen of that section have gotten their limits of white-wings without having to make the usual trek to the Valley. Infrequent reports of white-wings nesting as far north as Medina county have also been received by the game department.

An Abilene fisherman recently lost $30 in prizes because he had not spent $1.10 for a fishing license. Abilene merchant dozen fish and released Lake Abilene. The carried notification of $50 for the person it providing he had a license. Smaller fish were for prizes of less than one sportsman has one of the marked fish as latest reports. However, hook the $50.00 fish unable to collect because not have a fishing license remedied that situation. $1.10 purchase and be not, returned to the lake another fish which marked. However, catch was worth one prizes and the fisher "out" $30. Other spots that section are still catch the remainder of ed members of the first Lake Abilene.

Motor cars take a toll of deer, as is attested by to the game department secretary by the Fredericksburg, who set a personal check disbursement six deer found dead highways of one county, during a period from 1938, to October 1, 1939.

We have our room in our room hunting this week.

Members of L-2-2 wish to thank Mrs. Tom for the surprise box she gave for this year. She has several nice things to her room, which we appreciate very much. (Miss Jackson.)

Billy Jean Bryant has left us. She moved to Corpus Christi. We hope she likes her new home. We have a new pupil in our room. She is Thelma Jean Bilbrey from Wichita Falls. Our room has been divided into sections for reading. Everyone is trying to read faster and better than the rest, trying to get through with their reader first. Our good citizenship club has a meeting Friday, Nov. 10. Marjorie Hill, committee chairman, is in charge of the program. (Miss Isbell.)

Our fifth grade sections are busy working on a radio play for the chapel Thursday, Nov. 9. We hope our mothers and fathers are able to come and see it. As this is Education week we are displaying some posters for the occasion made by the 7th grade, also we shall have the theme of Thanksgiving as it is our last chapel before the holidays. Their Own Money

LUCIA MALLORY

"Jean seems to think that money grows on trees," my sister Nelle complained, referring to her nine-year-old daughter. "It's a nickel from me for this and a dime from her daddy for that every time we turn around."

"School makes a good many demands on a child's pocketbook," I answered. "Why don't you let Jean have her own money—enough to cover her necessary small expenses and a few extra treats?"

"Why, Lucia, Jean isn't old enough to take care of money for herself," Nelle remonstrated. "When she's ready for high school, of course we'll give her an allowance."

"My sister and her little girl were spending a week with me. One evening we had dinner with my friend Flora Barron. As we sat on the porch in the early Autumn twilight, I asked Flora to tell Nelle about her plan of giving each child in her family a weekly allowance."

"How old were Jack and Helen when you began, Flora," I inquired.

"I think Jack was eight and Helen was six," Flora answered. "We've always been glad that we began early to teach them the value of money. The children were real partners when their father was without work and we had to live on our savings for a year. They voluntarily suggested reducing the amount we were giving them, and they found many small jobs for themselves. Jack mowed lawns and carried out ashes, and Helen took care of babies."

"I believe the greatest gain in giving children their own money is that they become partners in keeping the budget instead of draining the family purse as much as possible. It appalls our children to hear some of their friends say, 'Oh, yes, we'll go to the football game at Silverton if we can make Dad come through with the 'dough.' These children don't seem to understand that the trip to the distant town together with other luxuries that they thoughtlessly urge him to grant may mean that their father has to do without a new overcoat or their mother must deny herself tickets to the Community Concerts."

"A college friend suggested the plan to me," Flora continued, "and we hadn't followed it long before I realized that she was right in assuring me that my children were quite old enough to handle money of their own. Such economic buyers they became!"

"I remember about six months after we began giving them an allowance they went out with me to buy masks and caps and noisemakers to celebrate Halloween. They found quite satisfactory articles on the five-cent table. Had I been making the purchases for them they would have led me to the fifteen-cent table instead."

They were weeping their hearts away. They cried out, to me, "it's too late!" Oh, the sorrow and the sadness, he intended to but waited. Now it's too late. Lost, eternally lost.

There are many in this community that will come to this same fearsome fate, if they are not very careful. You cannot afford to take the chance. Don't wait, don't put off until it's too late to become a Christian. Will you not become a Christian while you can, while the opportunity is yours, and while you can help save someone else. Don't wait until this happens—it's too late!

You are invited to attend services at the Church of Christ, and obey the gospel of Christ. Won't you?

How much did you give each of them at first," my sister asked.

"Their allowances were small," Flora answered, "only ten cents a week to each one. We have increased the amount slightly year by year. Jack and Helen each get fifty cents a week now; Dot has twenty-five cents and Bobby fifteen. I know that in many families the children are given larger allowances and expected to buy their own clothes. With us, it has seemed better to keep the problem of clothing in the family budget, though Jack and Helen buy a good many things for themselves now. Jack has a paper route and Helen gives a few music lessons."

"Our experience has taught us that nothing gives a child so much self-reliance as having his own money. I shall always be grateful to you for explaining the same plan to me," Nelle answered.

Merchants of Brenham have agreed to close their stores from 10:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m., November 11th for the Armistice Day observance under the auspices of the American Legion and Auxiliary. This is in line with procedure on that date in many Texas communities. However, the tendency is to forget Armistice Day. It is claimed that under communistic influences born in Eastern states, there is a campaign on to ignore Armistice Day. The excuse of big business is that it comes so near Thanksgiving Day that they would suffer if two holidays were to be observed behind closed doors in November.

Red Cross and Community Chest campaigns are on in a great number of counties in Texas. Education Week is being observed generally this week. Reserve officers of the state and nation are being called to active duty. Some are being asked to respond to mercy missions and others are called to prepare for war. It's certainly a time when hearts and nerves are under a strain.

Gerald Mann, formerly a triple-threat football idol, now serving as Attorney General, seldom fails to watch the Longhorns at Austin when they have a home game. He owes a lot to the youth of the state for his election. Some have said that there is no tie as binding in the sport world as that manufactured on the gridiron. He is now known as the triple-threat attorney general, and oldtimers in the capitol city declare that he is conducting the department without any political influences having any weight with the decisions of the office.

Frank Baldwin, editor of the Waco News-Tribune, recently returned from Europe, is in great demand as a speaker in various parts of the state. Mr. Baldwin spent the summer in London, Paris and Berlin, and was in Danzig and Poland when Poland was preparing to defend herself against Germany. He is not only a gifted writer, but a convincing speaker.

Dr. Walter McKenzie, pastor of the University Baptist church at Austin, recently stated that his church at Austin had received some 237 new members in recent months, and that among them are Dr. Homer Price Rainey. He said that at the beginning of the college year that Dr. Rainey was tops, but now it's Jack Cram.

Gov't Food Stamps Will Benefit Farmers

Farmers have been assured that the government's food stamp plan will work to their advantage. That they have been wondering to what extent this is true is evidenced by a number of letters recently received by the Texas A. and M. Extension Service.

The answer may be found in a study made by C. W. Hauck, an economist of Ohio State University.

At the present time food stamps are issued to persons on relief in only a few selected cities. They provide an extra two cents per meal per person over the amount available from the regular relief appropriation. This extra money must be spent for feed designated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as a "surplus commodity."

Hauck found that most of the clients went for dairy products, eggs, fruits, and fresh vegetables. He believes that an enormous market for these products will open up if when the buying power of low-income families is increased.

In one period of four weeks, 25.6 cents out of each dollar went for butter, 26.6 for eggs, and 29.2 for fresh fruits. When fresh vegetables went on the list the proportion changed to 23.6 cents for vegetables, 19.3 cents for butter, 25.3 cents for eggs, and 14.5 for fruit. Around 19 cents of each dollar went for white or graham flour, corn meal, rice, dried beans and prunes.

When oranges and grapefruit were placed on the list, 29.2 cents per dollar went for these fruits.

No meats have been on the list of foods which could be obtained under the food stamp plan but it is certain they would be purchased freely. The same is true of cotton goods, economists believe.

Hauck hedges in his report to the extent of saying that the statistics were gathered from only five cities and may not be a true indication of nation-wide conditions. At the same time, he believes that if all the relief clients could increase food purchases in the same proportion, food surpluses would disappear.

Buying power of relief families under the stamp plan is increased by $20.80 a year per person. If each of the 20 million people now receiving some form of relief in the United States went under the stamp plan, his studies indicate that the annual increases of purchases would include 301 million pounds of butter, 352 million dozen eggs, 26 million bushels of wheat, over 6 million bushels of corn, 140 million pounds of rice, 227 million pounds of dried beans, 87 million pounds of dried prunes and enormous amounts of fresh fruit and vegetables.

Christian Science Services

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 12.

The Golden Text is: "Henceforth know we no man after the flesh" (II Corinthians 5:16.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "As is the earthly, such are they also that are earthly; and as the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthly, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly" (I Corinthians 15:48, 49.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The sinless Joy,—the perfect harmony and immortality of Life, possessing unlimited divine beauty and goodness without a single bodily pleasure or pain,—constitutes the only veritable, indestructible man, whose being is spiritual" (page 76.)

"PULL OVER" IF YOU WISH TO LOOK

"Pullover" may be the familiar command of the traffic officer to the wayward motorist but it is an even more urgent safety command to remember if you wish to view the scenery. Pull your vehicle from the line of traffic and park it safely; then admire nature's creations to your heart's content. Dismount if you wish, but always on the side away from traffic.

SNAPSHOT GUILD FOOTBALL PICTURES

Football shots are easy at practice sessions—real action, if you don't blutter; posed action with slower cameras. Make a collection this season!

For drama for your camera, the football activity is strangely enough, some of the most striking football pictures are the easiest.

Here are two hints. First, keep the camera near the ground, tilted slightly upward. This low position makes the figures tower dramatically—and also yields a good sky background. Second, use a color filter if you possibly can. A medium yellow filter will be best—it gives good tone quality to the sky, brings out whatever clouds there are, and the exposure increase required is very slight.

See if you can't build up a good album of striking football shots this season. Gridiron shooting makes a splendid camera specialty—and the pictures are distinctly out of the "routine snapshot" class.

TOO LATE!

By O. D. DIAL, Minister

I know no words so sad and so melancholy as the words, "Too late." I have seen the terrible sadness and disappointment that they bring in many instances. A loved one is ill—the call comes, "Rush," and upon arrival to be met with these words, "too late." Oh, the sadness that they bring in this instance. Again, some one is seriously injured—the physician is summoned, and upon his arrival he turns and says, "too late." We are making a very important journey. Much depends upon it, we rush down to the depot, only to see the train leave as we arrive; too late, and how sad and disappointed we are. Many other examples could be cited similar to these, showing instances where hearts were broken, lives were lost, fortunes were missed, all because someone was too late.

But the saddest picture I can view is one that is eternal in its consequence. Some soul in life has the opportunity to obey the gospel of Christ, to be saved from sin and its terrible fate. He is almost persuaded—he really intends to become a Christian some day. He realizes that he is lost, that Christ died for him, that if he will obey the gospel of Christ he will be eternally saved, but he waits, he hesitates, he procrastinates, and without warning, the angel of death calls him away. He intended to become a child of God some day, but now it's too late. We cannot fully comprehend that that is infinite. We cannot fully understand how wonderful Heaven is, how horrible hell is, how long eternity is, and what it means to be lost in eternity. I stood over the casket of a husband and father, who had passed away without becoming a Christian. He had many times intended to, but he waited; Death called him away before that "convenient time" came. I saw the agony, the heartaches, the pain, and the torture that was borne by the family, a Christian wife and mother and two grown daughters, who were Christians.

The Value of Cotton Stalks

1. An acre of average cotton in Texas has about 2,400 pounds of stalks and leaves.
2. This many pounds contains 40 pounds of nitrogen which is worth $4 per ton.
3. If the farmer burns these stalks and leaves this nitrogen is entirely lost to the soil.
4. There is also seven pounds of phosphorous and 33 pounds of potash worth $2 per acre as fertilizer in cotton stalks. These may not be lost by burning but they are left in such a state as to be readily lost by leaching.
5. Cotton produced on land where stalks have been turned under will average ten pounds of lint more per acre than cotton grown on land where cotton stalks have been burned. Experiments have proven this.
6. The 2,400 pounds of cotton stalks and leaves per acre are capable of forming 800 pounds of humus as it decomposes. Most soils need humus.
7. Turned under cotton stalks help to hold the soil. They prevent washing. Stalks should be chopped up with a stalk cutter while the stalks are still green, so they will rot.
8. Not a single acre of cotton stalks should be burned this fall and winter, because if they are burned you burn up $6 worth of fertilizer per acre, you destroy 800 pounds of humus which is badly needed, you decrease the water-holding capacity of your soil, you help to wash away your land, and you destroy ten pounds of lint cotton per acre. Mr. Landowner, think this over before making any plans to burn your cotton stalks this fall.

FSA Group To Help Farmers Work Out Tenure Agreements

Farmers who anticipate difficulty in working out tenure agreements for next year because of excessive debts may get expert help from the Wichita County farm debt adjustment committee which meets at 10 a. m., the third Monday of each month, at 318 Federal Bldg., Wichita Falls, Texas.

"This is the time of year when creditors are most active in pushing collections," said Mr. McGown, Farm Security Administration supervisor, "and it is imperative that every farmer make his arrangements now. He must begin his next year's crop free from the possibility that he might be forced to abandon it because of foreclosure of land or chattels."

"The Wichita farm debt adjustment committee, which is sponsored by the FSA, is composed of public spirited local business men and farmers," the supervisor said, "and has been quite successful in working out voluntary agreements between farmers and their creditors whereby the farmers can continue to operate and eventually pay their debts. Each case is considered on its merits and the matter kept confidential."

Farmers in need of this service should go to the county FSA office, or to one of the committees, or they might appear at the meeting.

Committeemen are: Fred L. Cone, J. M. Baber, Carl Williamson.

play, then McKinnon again hogged the spotlight, slashing off his own right tackle, fading across to the other side line and romping 75 yards for a touchdown. An attempted plunge was no good.

Cowden Looks Good

Burk launched a 65-yard drive from the following kickoff that paid off in the last quarter for the final score of the game, Brown finally circling end for the touchdown. The kick was wide.

Burkburnett rolled up 25 first downs to 10 for Iowa Park. Bobby Cowden turned in many nice runs for Iowa Park during the game, but was never able to get away. Garrett and Kerner supplied most of the aid to Brown and did some good work.

Lions Enjoyed Impromptu Prog.

Local talent had a chance Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Lions. When those who had been asked to appear on the program failed to arrive, Jim Boyd was asked to entertain the club. He played a number of piano selections that were greatly enjoyed by members of the club.

Lion A. A. Hyde followed him on the program with some wise foolishness. Lion Mattingly was at his best with a number of "wise-cracks." When they failed to go over with the audience, he pushed them over. The program was a good one even though it was impromptu.

Miss Tanner, local speech teacher made an announcement of the beginning of a movement to organize a community theatre for Burkburnett. The club expressed its approval of the movement.

Jack Daniels was a guest.

Stalin Rose To Power By Ruthless Tactics, Lyons Maintains

JOSEF Stalin's rise to power, unlike that of his fellow dictators, Hitler and Mussolini, was by a shrewd manipulation of the political strings once he had them clutched in his strong, peasant fingers. The ability to arouse the masses by flattery is missing in Stalin. He is a poor orator; he employs no theatricals. Rather, he moves slowly, silently, cautiously, ready to spring at the opportune moment. He knows that his power does not depend on the people. Cruel, ruthless inner party politics is his forte.

"He gives a feeling of boundless power held in leash by an iron will," writes Eugene Lyons in the December Cosmopolitan. "There is about the man something deeply Oriental—infinitely cautious, brooding; outwardly relaxed but tensed to spring inside. He is a recluse, an introvert. He has no friends, but only underlings; no political allies, but only scared flatterers."

Stalin is no mental giant; he knows it and is sensitive to the fact; even his thick coat of armor affords no protection. That is the reason he likes to surround himself with men of culture. He saw much of Maxim Gorki, the great novelist, before Gorki died, some say by poisoning. Stanislavsky, the founder of the Moscow Art Theatre, was another who was summoned often.

A characteristic that has helped shape Stalin's career perhaps more than any other is his passion for revenge. According to Lyons, Stalin has been quoted as saying that the sweetest thing in the world is to prepare a cruel revenge on an enemy—and go to sleep. In every purge in Russia the last few years the motive has been partly or wholly revenge. Hatred burns in his blood like volcanic fires.

On December 21st Stalin will be sixty years old. Russia will grovel at his feet on that day. Praise of Stalin is already mandatory, says Lyons. His name is always printed in capital letters. A dozen cities, thousands of streets, squares, canals, railroads, rivers are named in his honor. He is Father, Leader, the Deity, the World Genius.

Beer Taverns Are Toeing Line

ARRESTS DECLINE WITH EARLY CLOSING

Rounds of beer-dispensing night spots near Wichita Falls made Saturday at midnight by Sheriff Pat Allen and deputies revealed almost complete compliance with the midnight closing request recently emphasized by the sheriff.

Arrests and commitments to the county jail for the night numbered only four, whereas until recently, the average number of such cases was 12 or more, the sheriff said.

County officers immediately linked two facts—earlier closing of beer taverns, a two-thirds reduction in the number of arrests. Most of the Saturday night and Sunday morning arrests had been made in the vicinity of such resorts, officers said.

Allen said that midnight closing was almost unanimous Saturday night by the time officers arrived on their weekly checkup round.

Josef Stalin

Before the last World War, the United States supplied 65 percent of all cotton consumed in the world. Today the American cotton farmer supplies about 42 percent.

Hunting is not permitted in Texas from a motorboat, sailboat or boat under tow or from an airplane.

On December 21st Stalin will be sixty years old. Russia will grovel at his feet on that day. Praise of Stalin is already mandatory, says Lyons. His name is always printed in capital letters. A dozen cities, thousands of streets, squares, canals, railroads, rivers are named in his honor. He is Father, Leader, the Deity, the World Genius.
