New Oil Sand Southwest of City Good for 50 Barrels

Kemp, Elder And Dial Bring In Good Well At 1325 Feet

The Kemp, Elder and Dial No. 1 Hieserman well located 8 miles southwest of town, which was drilled in last week was put on the pump the first of this week and the initial run shows the well to be good for at least 50 barrels. The oil is coming from a new sand which was encountered at 1325 feet and showed 32 feet of rich oil sand. Other production in that locality comes from the 1700 foot sand.

These men have 40 acres in the block and are making location this week for the No. 2 Hieserman. They encountered a good sand at 784 feet and are going to give it a test.

This new well has increased leasing activities here and several leases have changed hands in the past few days. The Humble Company has large holdings in the vicinity and the Texas Co. and Burns and Long have offsets.

Bulldogs to Tackle Coyotes In Final Game Friday Nite

Loses To
By 18-0

The Bulldogs put up a fight during the first half but were out of luck for awhile that night. They were unable to hold the Graham to a close score, but experience began to tell in the second quarter and the Bulldogs emerged with an 18 to 0 victory.

WICHITA TEAM WILL WIN CHAMPIONSHIP IF THEY CAN TAKE BURKBURNETT

The game that the Bulldogs and the fans have been waiting for has at last arrived. The game is the one between the Bulldogs and the Wichita Falls Coyotes which will be played Friday night at Wichita Falls.

The game will not have much significance to fans over the district but to the Burkburnett fans it is the game of the season and Burkburnett will follow the Bulldogs to Wichita Falls, 1,000 strong with the hope that they will see an upset and the Dogs take the Coyotes to a cleaning.

The district 2-AA teams close the regular schedule Friday with four games between schools that will cultivate a "traditional rivalry" so long as the conference exists with eight teams.

Graham will invade Olney for a game that really has all the elements of a long time, bitter rivalry, for the two schools have long battled each other for the championship of Young county.

Elsewhere in the conference the teams will strike up a football feud that is expected to be continued as an annual affair, scheduled to come as the last game of every season.

Such a setup was made possible this year with the entrance of Burkburnett into the conference, and the newly introduced Bulldogs are to tackle the Wichita Falls Coyotes in the first round of this new system.

Other games will take Quannah to Childress and Electra to Vernon. Not too much attention will be directed on the game at Wichita Falls where the undefeated Coyotes will be hosts to Burkburnett's Bulldogs, since most persons will (Continued on page eight)

Basketball Practice Starts Next Week

Polk Robison, basketball coach Burkburnett high school, stated Tuesday that workouts for the 1940-41 basketball season will begin next week.

Robison states that he has only four letter men returning from last year but he hopes to build another championship team around them. Veterans from last year are Bobby Hayes, Truman Perry, Virgil Owens and Hubert Butts.

The county schedule has not yet been arranged but Robison says that it would probably be announced next week.

The Bulldogs won the county championship last year but were defeated in the district.

Wesley Smith Has Been Promoted

Mrs. Bertha Smith has received word that her son, Wesley, who is stationed with the Air Corps at Randolph Field, Texas, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Damage Suit Against Bell Ended By Plaintiff

Suit of F. M. Millford against Bell Oil and Gas company for $2,800 damages went on trial Wednesday before a 30th district court Jury with Judge Allen D. Montgomery on the bench. The plaintiff alleges he was seriously injured last Jan. 22 while working on a big truck tire brought to his Burkburnett shop by an agent of the defendant. The petition charges a small metal band, which holds the casing on the rim, flew off and struck him in the face and head. After presentation of part of the testimony the plaintiff took a nonsuit.

To Tackle Coyotes In Final 2-AA Conference Game

The Bulldogs, who have been the underdogs in every game played this year will wind up their grid season Friday night when they tackle the Wichita Falls Coyotes in their own back yard. The Bulldogs have lost five conference games in a row but they will be in there fighting Friday night when they tackle the Coyotes. The Coyotes have only to win this game to become champions of 2-AA (but there is many a slip between the cup and the lip), and the Coyotes will know they have been in a game after they tackle the Bulldogs.

Local Chief Police Says Marble Boards Must Go

Local Red Cross Chairman Pleased With Response

A. H. Lohofener, chairman of the local Red Cross Roll Call, reports that approximately half of the workers have turned in reports and that these indicate a far better total than that of last year, which was the best ever reported for Burkburnett.

The goal for Burkburnett is 354 members and Mr. Lohofener states that all workers are meeting with excellent response. He urges that everyone remember that the drive will close soon and enroll at once.

A report from the county headquarters indicates that 1,451 members have enlisted in Wichita county with additional reports pouring in constantly.

Federal Prisoners May Be Kept In County Jail

County commissioners court Monday afternoon authorized approval of a contract with the United States government for keeping federal prisoners in Wichita county jail.

County Judge H. W. Fillmore was instructed to execute the necessary documents. The professed federal contracts, submitted through Sheriff Pat Allen and recommended by him, provides for federal payment to the county of 75 cents per day for each federal prisoner, plus turnkey fees of $1 in and $1 out.

Levine Brothers store, Wichita Falls, was given a contract for providing sewing room textiles during December.

Football Tickets Reserved seat tickets to the Burkburnett - Wichita Falls game will be on sale all day Friday at the chamber of commerce office, according to C. J. Duncan, superintendent of schools.

H. D. Smith, president of the Rotary club, presided at the regular meeting of the club Tuesday at noon. M. C. Tucker gave the invocation and also lead the club in singing.

Fred Brookman had charge of the program and gave a burlesque paper on his classification, "Printing"; which follows:

They have Grocery Weeks, Drug Weeks, Safety Weeks, Fire Prevention Weeks so as to not be outdone the Texas Press Assn. held a national Newspaper Week and open house a short time ago and invited the public to visit the different shops over the country. Several business men and a number of the school children visited the Star and here's a version of the open house description in the backshop—

"If you will come with me I will try to explain the functions of some of the equipment that goes to make a newspaper possible. The machine before which you are standing and to which your attention is directed is a linotype, one of the most interesting pieces of mechanism found in a newspaper plant. Ballots Out For C of C Directors

W. H. Hill, manager of the Burkburnett chamber of commerce, states that ballot boxes have been placed in all the drug stores to hold votes for the directors who are being elected this week.

Seven new directors are to be named. Votes will be counted on Monday and a directors meeting is scheduled for sometime soon after the official count.

Mr. Hill also states that preparations are going forward for the twentieth annual banquet which is scheduled for December 5th.

Good Crowd For Union Services Despite Weather

A good crowd gathered at the First Baptist church last Wednesday evening to observe Thanksgiving despite one of the worst spells of inclement weather of the season.

The service was sponsored by the Pastors' association of Burkburnett and plans are being made to have the services annually.

The Rev. Boyd I. DeVore, pastor of the First Methodist church delivered the principal address, taking Thanksgiving as his theme and stressing the significance of the season to Americans who have more to be grateful for than any other nation in the world.

Miss Ethyle Virginia Allen, instructor of public school music here, presented six of her students in two vocal numbers.

Special numbers were rendered by the choir and others who took part on the program were the Rev. Otto C. Perry, the Rev. Ray C. Morrow, the Rev. H. M. Savage and the Rev. A. A. Hyde.

Marble Tables Must Go

Chief Green stated that all marble machines, punch boards, and other forms of gambling devices in Burkburnett must go. It is an open violation of the law and he has notified all places running these machines, boards, etc., that they will be arrested and prosecuted if they are not out of their places of business by Friday night.

Later Wednesday afternoon they raided a residence in the north part of town and found 12 half pints of liquor. W. T. West was arrested and fined before Judge Vance.

'Looney' Is In The Army Now

A letter from Lester (Looney) Hughes, formerly of Burkburnett, informs us that he enlisted in the Army Air Corps on November 15 and that he is now stationed at Barksdale Field, La.

He states that he will leave soon for Chanutte Field, Illinois, where he will study parachute rigging.

His account of life in the Army is enlightening and very amusing. Hughes is one of many Burkburnett boys who have answered the nation's call to service during the past year.

DeVore Will Attend Nashville Conference

The Rev. Boyd I. DeVore, pastor of the First Methodist church will leave Monday to attend a churchwide conference of assemblies and camps to be held in Nashville, Tennessee. He will be gone ten days.

Farmers To Vote On Marketing Quotas Dec. 7

A referendum of farmers who were engaged in production of cotton in 1940 will be held on December 7 to determine whether they favor or oppose cotton marketing quotas on the 1941 crop.

Farmers from precinct 2, Wichita county, will vote at the Burkburnett city hall. The polls open at 8 o'clock Saturday morning December 7, and close at 5 o'clock.

If two-thirds or more of the cotton farmers voting in the referendum favor cotton marketing quotas, the cotton marketing quotas established pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 will be in effect for the 1941 crop. If more than one-third of the cotton farmers oppose the cotton marketing quotas, they will not be in effect in 1941.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 defines "normal supply", in the case of cotton, as a normal year's domestic consumption and exports plus 40 per centum of a normal year's domestic consumption and exports as an allowance for a normal carry-over.

Farmers will also vote to elect their county committeemen and delegates on December 13 at the city hall.

Every farmer in the area is urged to go to the polls on both days to assert his prerogative as an American citizen.

THE QUESTION BOX

O. D. DIAL, Minister

Our question this week comes from "a business man" here in Burk Burnett. We appreciate the fine question. "Is the Bible Divinely Inspired? Is there any other book in the world comparable to the Bible?"

The Bible is the most loved, yet the most hated; the most read, yet the most misunderstood book in all the world. There is overwhelming evidence that the Bible came from God.

First, the Bible claims God for its Author. Paul said, II Tim., 3: 16-17; "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God". In II Pet., 1: 20-21, Peter declares that "no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation. For the prophecy came not only in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

However, there are other evidences of its inspiration, more convincing. For instance: the "specific" nature of the prophecies prove that man could not have written it without Divine guidance. Men prophecy in "a general way", but the Bible is "specific".

Man could not have so specifically unveiled the future, as the Bible has. I refer you to two of the most wonderful prophecies, that were, and are, being fulfilled even in every minor detail. Isa. 13-19-22, Ezek. 26:7-14. These words from the Bible are still being fulfilled today. Not even the enemies of the Bible dare to make them untrue. Thus the Bible has hurled many challenges at its enemies, and has defied them to disprove a single statement or prophecy.

The Bible is accurate on every scientific matter on which it speaks. No one has ever had to apologize for any scientific or historical inaccuracy in the Bible. The style and construction of the Bible has never been duplicated. Though it was written by about forty men, and over a period of about 1600 years, and many miles apart, from Europe to Africa, yet when rightly divided and applied as intended by the writers, it contains one harmonious system of truth. No contradictions and no mis-statements. And, although the Bible was completed almost 1900 years ago, it has not grown "old, nor obsolete." It is modern and up-to-date. It cannot be improved upon.

This cannot be said of a single book in all the world, written by mere men. Even the greatest of scientific books of yesterday are out-of-date today. Even the creeds and works of men show that you cannot rely on the works and books written by men. However sincere the writers may be, their works will not last even a life time. Therefore Conferences, Synods, and etc., meet every few years to "revise" their creeds. Let me give you an example, by quoting from the creed, or church government, (the book containing the doctrine) of one of the most popular denominations in town. Prior to the year 1910 their doctrines taught that "infants are possessed with original sin, and cannot be saved without baptism, seeing in baptism original sin is washed away". Thus they then taught that babies had to be baptized to be saved. But they saw that the men who wrote that creed were mistaken, so they met in conference in the year 1910 and changed their creed. So today their doctrine on that point is not the same as it once was. They may have to change it every few years, for those creeds are written by fallible men. But the Bible never needs changing.

Come to the Church of Christ, where we take the "Bible only" as our rule of faith and practice. It is the "creed that needs no revision." A welcome awaits you.

TEXAS OUT-O-DOORS

Fur Business Ranks High

Texas ranks fifth in the production of fur-bearing animals, a summary of reports from all of the states by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reveals and the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission, through expanding program of restoration of proper habitat for fur bearers, hopes to increase the crop materially during the next few years.

Texas ranks fifth despite the fact reports of the annual catch are far from complete. This is due to state laws which do not require trappers to make reports of their catches and all furs sold outside the state are not counted in the total.

Lone Star state trappers were reported taking 729,244 pelts in 1939 and it is believed by game managers of the game department that at least half that many more fur-bearers were trapped. The production of fur-bearing animals in Texas is increasing, the report indicates, for only a total of 590,444 was reported in 1938. The increase is mainly due to the added number of muskrats taken last year. Muskrat pelt sales dropped to a new low in 1938, when the take was reported at 2,569. Last year the total reported was 229,734. However, all of that increase cannot be ascribed to the larger number of muskrats in the marshlands. There was a definite increase, game managers who are working on the rehabilitation of muskrat habitat, are certain, but better supervision of the reports on trapping by the managers is responsible for a portion of the reported increase. Flooding of more marshland under the supervision of game managers also helped by providing more substantial habitat.

Texas had an increase of 138,800 pelts in 1939. Sixteen species of fur-bearing animals are trapped in the state. They include badger, beaver, fox, red, gray and kite or swift; mink, mountain lion, muskrat, opossum, racoon, ring-tail cat, skunk, both common and spotted, weasel and wolf.

The game department is co-operating with marshland owners in a program to restore more habitat for muskrats. It is believed that within two or three years muskrats will put $2,000,000 in the coffers of the Lone Star state. Work to restore a few other species of fur-bearers such as beaver is progressing.

Fur animals require natural habitats in which to live. As the country develops, more and more these habitats are being destroyed. In many sections, however, much land still remains that is capable of producing large crops of fur if the animals are given sufficient protection to assure maintenance of an adequate breeding stock. It is upon these lands that the department is concentrating so that the purse of Old Man Texas will be heavier in years to come.

Maintain Nature's Balance

Biologists constantly preach the maintaining of balance in nature, which is upset daily by man, either by his taking too many birds and animals or by the use of unwise laws.

Farm and Ranch reports a graphic example of this, says the Graham (Texas) Reporter. A farmer planted 10 acres of apple trees. They flourished until the second year, when rabbits killed all of his trees but 20. These trees produced apples which sold for $1.50 a bushel. Had it not been for the rabbits, the farmer would have had 500 trees bearing fruit. Figure out his loss. He is replanting for the rabbits are thinned out now due to the fact that foxes have moved into the territory. Too many fox could also be harmful, but there are ways of maintaining nature's balance.

Young county men had experience similar to the fruit grower and at the last session of the state legislature a bill was passed protecting fox in Young county for a two-year period.

First Baptist Announcements

"Can we be sure of God today?" will be the subject for the morning sermon Sunday and that evening the messages on age-old prophecies with a message on the "Five Horsemen of Revelation." Sunday, Dec. 8, is International Bible Sunday and that day in our church will be given to a special emphasis on the Authority and Power of God's Word, and our need of it today. Also, in prayer service next Wednesday night, Dec. 4, a stereopticon slide lecture on the Progress of the Bible in foreign lands will be given. God's Word needs to be given the right place.

We appreciate the good attendance this past Sunday in all the services when the weather was so bad. We can go to church in any weather if we love the Lord enough. The attendance in the Intermediate department in Sunday school, Training Union and Preaching services was remarkably good.

We will have a Baptismal service Sunday night at the close of the regular service. We appreciate the presence of those who visited us Sunday. To every person who has not a church home in Burkburnett we extend an invitation to worship with us. You are welcome. You will not hear a great sermon, but you will hear a Bible Message about a great Saviour, for sinners like you and me.

J. W. Manning, pastor.

Aunt Lucindy And Jeems Touring Texas

DEAR FRED—

Well, while me and Bill and Ezzy wuz a traveling along the day them three critters stole a march on us and went to Burk Burnett without notifyin us they wuz goin, suddenly Bill he grabs a red string tied around his little finger and sez he, "Goldurn if I weren't jest about to forgit a awful important errand Mirandy sot me out to do, which is to take this here piece of paper in my vest pocket on which she drew a picture of our little Elliott Roosevelt foot and she said for me to git as quick as I kin to the Famous Dry Goods store and tell the obleggin' and knowin' Mr. Deckard thar in the shoe department to send out a pair of them shoes jist the size of that paper so's our little Elliott Roosevelt won't git a splinter in his foot by him crawlin' around barefoot and begin bawlin any louder he ginnerly bawls. So bein's you and Mrs. Rainwater ought to git sorter dolled up before you set out to view the city you better stop right thar and do yer rigin' up," sez Bill.

Sez he, "Yes, them boys is big store keepers, and also gittin' bigger and stronger every year. It is my figgerations to do all my tradin' at The Famous and to be shore, Mirandy, she jist won't trade no where's else if the Famous has got what she wants."

"They treat us farmers right an' we are standin' by them. The Famous Dry Goods store carries fust class goods and sells 'em cheaper a body kin git 'em in New York, I reckon. The clerks in thar jist can't be beat for obleggin ways and they are dead shore to treat you right and Leonard Mattingly, the obleggin manager can't be beat no whars," sez he as we druv right up in front of a plum substantial lookin' building.

"Well we rambled along and Bill and Ezzy Jones and me got to talking about the importance of all us Wichita county farmers pooling our interests and joining up to the Cooperative Gin Association so's we could git our cotton ginned at the best and up-to-date gin in Texas, it a being fire-proof, rain proof and I recon fust proof, and equipped with the latest machinery money can buy and run by the best fellers in the county, B. H. Preston, O. W. Prechel, manager Mont Bowles, and them bein farmers themselves and when we git our cotton ginned thar by golly, we can sell our cotton or hold it for a bigger price and also sell our cotton seed right thar and go home with a big wad of bills in our pockets. (Ceptin' the female wimmen is along, then it's good-by money), if they ever git their hands on it.

Yes, sez I, "female wimmen is powerful skaitr they'll use a little elbow grease in doin' something, an' most of 'em is gittin too lazy for any use, and now, since them Texas Electric Service Co. fellers fetched them rural high lines of their out to Possum Holler an' got us all hooked up with lectricity juice, the wimmen won't do ary a thing in the way of house work unless they can plug into a lectric light socket or a nateral gas stove.

"Now to keep peace in the family," sez Bill, "I reckon I better drive right over yander to Smith & Hatch Lumber Co. (afore I fergit it) and hand in Mirandy's orders for the obleggin manager to load up my wagon with them shingles which Mirandy is dead sot on puttin' on our chicken house which since the last rain has sprung a leak and she ain't goin' to take any chances on them little chickens gettin' drowned. Also to send out some Pittsburg Paint and quick drying enamel and some varnish, which all the Possum Holler wimmen folks is a paintin' up thar floors with and also some fruniture."

"Thar ain't no use in nobody havin' a leaky roof," he sez, "when Smith & Hatch has got plenty of them cedar shingles and any other kind of roofin ye might want, besides I got to git some planks to fix the hole in the back porch because Mirandy is figgerin' on setting her new Servel Electrolux on the back porch which she figgers to git from the Community Natural Gas Co. in Wichita Falls, if they aint done sold 'em all."

Also she told me to git them new knives we have jist ordered from Peevey's Jewelry Store as they are the very best that can be had at a reasonable price. Well, while we was rambled along, Bill, he drove so slow, me and Ezzy Jones got powerful hungry and I jist nudged Bill in the side and told him if he would hurry up and git us to a cafe before our slats fell in I'd treat him to a cup of coffee providing he warn't very hungry. So Bill he replies back and sez: "He said he didn't give a darn if ol' man Rainwater wuz gettin' peeved, as Mirandy had told him not to drive fast an' git them fresh eggs shuck up or at leastwise addled till they wouldn't be fitten for nothin' but scrambled before he got 'em delivered to Burk Cafe, because if Mr. Griffin wants them eggs scrambled he'll do it his own self and serve 'em with the fine Virginia ham to them hifalutin' customers of his'n. He's awful particular about the vittles he serves in his cafe and he don't 'low no cold storage eggs to be fetched into his kitchen which is liable to bust on him and stink up his fine cafe.

"So I'll haul you to the Burk Cafe whar I do my drinkin' and eatin' if you'll keep yer shirt on till I git thar, because I ain't no flyin' Lindy, running a air ship, but I'll git you thar some time today."

"Howsomever," sez he suddenly grabbing a brown string around his thumb, "I ain't going to haul youns nowhere until I drap that thar bundle of dirty clothes (and Sulferino with 'em) off at Mrs. Wise's Helpy-Selfy Laundry, and let her with that nice soft water, git sot to washin' of 'em, so's I can take the bundle home tonight all clean and sweet smellin' and most of 'em ready to iron; and all Mirandy has to do is to fold 'em up and let 'em set awhile then hook up her new lectricity iron and by golly, she'll have every rag of them ironed and put away before bed time."

"Now ain't that plum convenient, Fred, to get a body's clothes washed plum clean at that Helpy-Selfy Laundry without having to bother with nigger Sal and several of her youngsters which comes every wash day and slops up the kitchen floor till it aint safe to walk across it without slippin' up; and besides we have to feed Sal and them pickinies of her'n. Oh, yes, the wimmen folks around Possum Holler is plum sold on that Helpy-Selfy Laundry and most of the Possum Holler wimmen is making their husbands haul their dirty clothes into Burk every week to the Helpy-Selfy Laundry, thereby gittin' rid of the sloppy wash days at home."

"Well, them's Mirandy's sentiments also and she sez the only way I can git out of totin' them dirty clothes into Mrs. Wise's Helpy-Selfy Laundry every week is fer me to git her one of them lectricity washing machines, so's she can make me do the dirty work of doing the washing at home so I reckon to keep from doing that extry work of totin' them clothes into the Helpy-Selfy Laundry every week I might figger on gettin' her a lectricified washing machine next fall beins she's so sot on using lectricity and gas to save elbow grease."

Beins most of the Possum Holler wimmen is now gittin' them Frigidaires sot up in their houses—since they all got hooked up to the Texas Electric Service high lines—and they all tell Mirandy that it is cheaper to git one of them fine critters and make yer own ice, than it is to do without one, for them critters save enough on vittals not gettin' spoiled on ye, and havin' to be thrown away, to almost pay for the critters in a year, besides always havin' plenty of ice cubes for tea and milk and ice water any minute of the day or night, winter or summer, them Possum Holler wimmen sez they are now a livin' plum easy a using that electric power for sweepin', ironin', running the radio and all sich which they say a feller by the name of Reddy Wat, does all the work for 'em."

And which article of fruniture, Mirandy told me to be shore and stop thar at the Garland & Goble fruniture store and git Mr. Goble to show us the workin's of it.

"Yes, and Bill wuz on his way to Burk with a big passel of eggs and also a sizeable bunch of fryers which he wuz hauling to Prinzing & Hicks Grocery to be traded off for fine groceries and vittles and a big batch of chicken and cow feed which he had strict orders from Mirandy to fetch home from the new Prinzing & Hicks grocery and no whar else or he mought not git no supper sot out for him and mought git the rollin' pin throwed at him."

"Yes, sez Bill, Mirandy is shore strong for them 2 fellers because when she was prasing around last Christmas doin' her shopping and trying to git up enough money and vittles to feed a pore family down on the creek bottom, which family was sick and homeless and hungry, by golly, if them fellers didn't chip right in with a $20 bill and a big basket of groceries besides, And Mirandy sez by them showing sich a good spirit and bein plum willing to help out in any good cause, with both vittles and money, she knows good and well she aint going to git cheated.

Since we been hooked up with Stargas and got one of them new Garland Gas ranges in our kitchen she don't do much sweatin' no more about cookin. But anyway, she told be not to forgit ary article of vittles she put on this piece of paper for me to git at Prinzing & Hicks grocery."

"Now, aint Mirandy the bossy critter, I reckon she mostly wears the pants at her house."

"Yes, Bill sez, she is the most out pants wearin' woman in the county and it aint safe no time cept when he has 'em on, for he's liable to wake up most any mornin' and find 'em gone from the bed poster whar he generally hangs 'em and Mirandy out a feedin' or washin' off their new automobile, which she bought last fall with her butter and egg and chicken money and which automobile she don't never allow Bill to drive for she sez she aint goin' to take no chances on gittin' that fine car all busted up by him goin' to sleep whilst drivin' and lettin' the car go in the ditch, even if she does keep it well insured, same as she keeps Bill's life insured. "I don't blame her nary a bit for I reckon them mules knows how to come home by themselves if he goes to sleep but that thar new car it needs a skillful driver.

"To be shore, so Bill sez, if it warn't for the Famous store always totin such a fine stock of overalls and work shirts, which garments he buys and keeps hangin' up on the back porch, when Mirandy gits one of her pants wearin' spells of her'n he would have to stay in bed until she gits ready to give his pants back to him."

"So he had orders that very day for him to git as quick as he could to the Garland & Goble fine fruniture store whar they trade, to see if they had ary a cradle stout enough for her little Bill McCraw who she is trying to wean and purposes to put little Billy in and make him sleep by hisself, so he won't be kickin' her in the stomach all night long; and she told him to take a look at them settin room sets she seed advertised, and if they was all right to load one of them Kroehler sets in the wagon and fetch it home so's them two twin gals of her'n can have a nice settin room parlor to do their sparkin' in instead of gittin out on the high-ways joy ridin' on one of them pectin parties which she sez she hears takes place plum frequent.

"Yes, sez I, a powerful sight of lovin goes on amongst the boys and girls, I reckon.

"Well, Mr. Goble he jist told Mirandy—Bill said—that she had a awful fine thinkin' head on her and if all the female wimmen in the county was as fur seein' as her, the fruniture business shore would get on a boom and them joy ridin' parties would be put on the blink and thar wouldn't be so many busted up homes from gals and boys seekin the bright lights. Well, Mirandy, she jist up and told Mr. Truman Garland that betwixt fine furnished settin rooms to spark in and them fine picture shows a bein showed stidly at the Palace and Tex theatres, and the knowin' Mr. Zimmerman always showing the best pictures he can git and all of 'em bein clean and interestin as well as educational, she figgered that them gals or her'n would git along fairly well without doin' their lovin' out on them highways in parked automobiles and if Mr. Zimmerman can furnish such fine pictures at them two shows of his'n, the Palace and the Tex and Garland & Goble furnishing up a fine settin room sparkin parlor with one of them R.C.A. radios, so's they can hear fine music and do a little dancin', she figgered her gals will come out allright in the end. And that she had already promised them gals to haul 'em in to see the latest pictures, all of them bein' instructive as well as educational, she'd be able to git more work out of them children by lettin' 'em enjoy theirselves by settin in a fine settin' room parlor and a fine picture show at the Palace or the Tex.

But the upshot of the whole bizness is that when we finally did git round to the Star office after Bill attended to them errands his ole woman sent him to do you fellers wuz so durn busy a takin' in ads and subscriptions you never had no time to talk to nobody so we clum in Bill's wagon agin and went on home.

But, Fred, I can't write no more now because Lucindy she's bawlin' at me to come and make ole Bill The Kizer (our billy goat) git out of the car whare he's a settin up in the back seat and she can't git him out so's she can go to the missionary society and she sez she aint goin nowhere a haulin' that blamed billy goat, so I reckon I better go and git him out; but you can look fer me in Burk as soon as I can git Lucindy steered in some other direction (instead of follerin' me) fer you know yourself a feller can't have no fun nowhere a bein folloed around by a nosey ole critter like Lucindy, so look fer me when you see me and rickolect I am as always, (Miss Jackson.) Several L6-1 students spent the Thanksgiving holidays out of town. Bobbie Dial went to Rotan, Mary Nichols went to Grandfield, Genavie Delbeck to Grandfield, Billie Wimberly to Wichita Falls. (Miss Gibson.) From all reports every one had a happy Thanksgiving holiday. Some spent Thanksgiving out of town while others had relatives and guests to visit them during the week-end. We are all anxious to get back to our school work again. Last week we finished our Thanksgiving booklets. In these we wrote the story of Thankgiving, made a pictograph story, and illustrated some of the things for which we are thankful. We are indeed thankful that we are American boys and girls. We also finished our "Indian Booklet," which we have been making in connection with our social studies. It contains interesting things about the dress, life, homes, and customs of the Indians. We were glad to have Mrs. H. H. Daugh- terly and Mrs. W. T. Gibson as visitors Wednesday. (Mrs. Vann).

SHADE TREES

By J. S. GORE

Carefully consider the future value of each tree before planting, and likewise think of possible worth of any living tree, before permitting it to be destroyed. The pecan, walnut, Chinese Pistachio, Sycamore, Chinese Elm, Norway Maple, Catalpa, Mulberry, native Elm and numerous others grow well here. The easiest to grow, but most undesirable is the common paradise, because of great spread of roots, which often ruin cisterns, basements and wells. Most profitable trees are the pecan and walnut, which will continue to increase in value and are among the longest lived of above. When selecting trees to be planted under a telephone line or under or near an electric line of any kind, you should choose slow growing or dwarf types of trees, to avoid having your tree tops frequently cut back in unsightly forms by electric line men, who generally do such pruning during the storm season, while trees are sappiest and easiest to injure by any pruning. When planting, you should never trim off all limbs from shade trees to the full height desired for the grown tree, as the early growth depends much on the greatest possible number of leaves which help to nourish, as well as shade the bark of the tree, insuring rapid or at least normal growth. The small limbs are desired height when sufficient top is developed to properly shade the body. It is best to remove the smaller limbs and the buds as soon as leaves have fallen in autumn, and carefully saw off the larger limbs in February. Inspect each tree carefully at least once in spring and once in the fall for borers, which begin at the ground and work upward under the bark. Avoid having any rotting wood near a tree, as such old wood is harbor for termites, or wood lice, and worms, to later help destroy the live tree. The soil should be kept firm around the body of the tree and any watering should be done by having a broad but shallow basin around the tree to hold all water away from the body of the tree until it can soak down to the feeder roots. You will bear in mind that much water drips from the leaves and the basin should be widened as the top grows thereby aiding nature in watering the feeder roots, which also serve as braces for the heavy top when strong winds blow; therefore, such roots must be kept from developing dry rot, and new growth annually should be encouraged, which will insure satisfactory growth. Christian Science Services "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 1. The Golden Text is: "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else" (Isaiah 45:22). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against rulers of the darkness of this world, against

County Association Doing Part To Wipe Out Tuberculosis

Education and more education. It is no mere accident that the average length of life in this country has increased from about 48 years in 1900 to 62 today. Most of this saving has been in the age groups under 40 and the war against disease which has made this possible has been fought by all of us with physicians, public workers and other scientists leading the way. Tuberculosis takes its greatest toll in the age groups from 15 to 45. Early diagnosis of tuberculosis, through alertness to suspect this prevalent disease, the use of the tuberculin skin test and the X-ray are most important. The Wichita County Tuberculosis association has extended the following service to the county during the last 11 months: Ten clinics have been held for adults. Eighty-three people were examined. Eleven of these cases were suspicious of active tuberculosis and 21 X-rays were arranged for. Ten active cases were discovered and were assisted for admission to the State Sanatorium. Nine hundred and fifteen children were found to have a positive reaction. This means that these children have been exposed to an active case of tuberculosis sometime during their life and have the tuberculosis infection. X-rays have been recommended to find out whether there is any active trouble. Thirty-five children have been X-rayed through the association.

We have a number of young people who have returned from the Sanatorium and are receiving Pneumothorax treatment (keeping the diseased lung collapsed by injecting a certain amount of air) through the courtesy of one of our local doctors. Medical care has been secured for ten worthy cases. Follow up work and five hundred home calls have been made by the executive secretary to all active cases and positive reactors. Five children and three teen age group were admitted to the Preventorium. Seven negroes were admitted to the Sanatorium in Kerrville.

Under the heading of rehabilitation of six ex-patients have been given positions which were best suited for them. Christmas Seal dollars raised in December each year are the sole financial support of the fight that is being waged to save our lives.

spiritual wickedness in high places" (Ephesians 6:11, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep the faith, they will have the crown of rejoicing" (page 29.)

Decline In Texas Deaths From Fire

Austin, Nov. 27—A sharp decline in the number of fire deaths during the months of September and October was reported today by Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner.

The monthly average through August had been approximately 32 deaths, but only 47 Texans were burned to death during September and October. "This report reflects a great deal of improvement, but the record is far from perfect," he said. "Our most dangerous fire-death months are upon us, and I want to impress upon every person the importance of exercising caution, particularly in the homes."

The number of fire deaths for the first ten months of the year totalled 337. The leading causes of fatal burns were standing too close to open fires, improper use of gasoline, lack of proper exits, explosions.

Pontiac Used Car Sales Beat All Former Records

While the sales of new Pontiac cars for the first ten months of 1940 are 52 per cent ahead of 1939 and have set up an all-time monthly record in October, the sales of used cars by Pontiac dealers have been at an all-time high for the entire ten months period, according to D. U. Bathrick, general sales manager.

"The public have purchased 373,475 used cars from our dealers up to Nov. 1," said Bathrick, "compared to 348,000 for the best ten previous months of any year."

"Back of this marvelous used car record I can see clearly the effects of the reputation Pontiac has acquired during the past 3 or 4 years of building the most trouble free automobile in the industry. Living up to that reputation late model Pontiac used cars naturally give splendid satisfaction in the hands of their owners. Unquestionably that is one reason our dealers have had such a big turnover in their used car stocks."

"Furthermore, we have advertised that Pontiac cars are built to last 100,000 miles," Bathrick said. "And since the average car is driven about 12,500 miles a year, a two-year-old Pontiac with some 25,000 miles used still has about 75 per cent of its effective transportation left and at only 40 per cent of the original new car price."

"As long as our engineers and manufacturing men can keep on building trouble-free cars that last 100,000 miles I can see no danger of a prolonged serious used car problem. The used car buyer certainly gets a bargain when he becomes the owner of a late model car."

which 450 are in constant revolution. It does the work of six editors, a flock of high school trained reporters and causes its operator to run a temperature of 560 f., the same temperature as the molten metal that makes the slug. Its cost is approximately $7,000, purchased on the easy payment plan and very few weekly editors ever get one paid for. The machine is highly temperamental. In addition to an operator, it requires the services of a foreman, machinist, two apprentices and three and a half proof-readers.

"The linotype machine is indeed an extraordinary device. From its inventor, Ottomar Mergenthaler, down through the list of all persons who associate with it, the machine has left a string of maniacs, bankrupts, New Dealers and plain liars."

"Years ago when printers were printers, one fairly intelligent workman was capable of producing not less than enough errors to fully occupy the attention of one person an hour. The linotype, however, will produce 400 lines of errors an hour providing 400 people with 400 things to rave about are around. Summed up, one linotype, one machinist, one operator and a day's run of typical copy will produce enough errors to consume a roll of paper weighing 700 pounds, and if stretched out like a Saturday night, will extend from here to a couple of filling stations on the Wichita highway."

"Now if there are any questions you might care to ask wait until you get home and call up your preacher or journalism teacher for his nuts to doughnuts he knows more about running a newspaper than any publisher or editor. That's why we held open house. We needed advice."

"Next is the stone where the make-up man works. This man, gentlemen, is the strangest creature on earth. He does everything backwards. He reads the type backwards and even reads the paper before it is printed. Some of them die and go to their just rewards. Others merely die and continue in that state until they are fired or promoted to foreman."

"Occasionally you find a make-up man who rates the friendship and confidence of an editor or advertising man. But that is something so unlikely that we have no idea why we brought up the subject."

"After the make-up man has finished messing around with the type, and mats you see before you, the mats go to the stereotyping room where the stereotypers cast the mats into pictures. Following that—still assuming the operation is successful—he is scorched and is a full-fledged stereotypers. No stereotypers know what he is doing, or why, so we will not attempt to explain the stereotyping process to you. However, it is an admitted fact that the best stereotypers are one-eyed operators and occasionally you find one who has

Latest Rulings On The Draft

DEFERMENT STRICTLY UP TO LOCAL BOARDS

Relatives and employers of selective service registrants interested in the registrants' deferment should take their cases before the local boards.

In making this announcement, State Selective Director J. Watt Page said that state headquarters have received innumerable letters and telegrams from people interested in the deferment of particular registrants.

"Of course, we are interested in every individual case," he said, "but the only thing possible for us to do in these cases is to inform the senders that they will have ample opportunity to present their cases to their local boards and that the very spirit of the Selective Service Act precludes state headquarters using its influence in any way whatsoever with the decisions of the local boards."

General Page emphasized that any person who is able to give reasonable proof that he is interested in a registrant may appear personally before the local board or give evidence in writing pertinent to the case. The witness must have "a real and honest interest and be motivated by something more than a mere desire to meddle in a busy-body way."

Duplicate Registration Cards Persons who have lost their selective service registration cards may have them duplicated by local draft boards.

A selective service ruling made public last week says it is possible for a local board to issue duplicate registration cards if it is satisfied that "it has the registrant's card before issuing such duplicate" and "is satisfied that the registrant actually did lose his certificate and is acting in good faith."

Ex-Ser. Men May Be Drafter Previous service in the Navy or Marine Corps is not cause for relief from liability for training and service under the selective service act.

State Selective Service Director J. Watt Page said last week that a ruling from national draft headquarters holds that previous enlistment in the navy or marine corps does not exempt persons from the draft.

However, enlistment in the naval or marine corps reserve at the present time will constitute an exemption.

Friended men will be assigned to army training camps without "especial regard" to the local communities from which they have been selected.

Officials of State Selective Service headquarters made this point clear last week in commenting on the many letters which local boards are receiving from registrants who want their cards transferred from one local board to another on the theory that inducements sent out from the same area will receive their year's military training in the same camp.

Plans of the Army, officials explained, necessarily do not contemplate keeping men from the same communities in the same training units. Many more important factors enter into making the assignments.

"While it will not be the policy to shunt men from one part of the country to another," they said, "it does not follow on the other hand, that any group of men who have been sent to an induction center at the same time from the same local board necessarily will find themselves together at the end of a few weeks."

After the men have passed their Army physical examinations and taken their oaths of office at the induction centers, they will be sent to reception centers. The question of where they will be trained will be determined there on the basis of each individual's experience, capabilities, or needs of various divisions and available facilities in the respective camps.

"So, it is entirely possible," officials said, "that Bill Smith and Pete Jones, who start out from their local boards together, may find themselves apart before a great length of time has elapsed."

CCC Enrollment Is Now Open

Applications for enrollment in the January quota for the CCC should be made at once, according to Donald McCullough, WPA case worker who has offices here.

Mr. McCullough states that changes have been announced regarding the pay of all members of the CCC. Beginning Jan. 1 the amount sent home monthly will be reduced from $22 to $15. $7 will be placed aside for the boy to be given him upon discharge. $8 will be paid to him in camp, as heretofore.

Training is being intensified in building operations, and repairing bridges, roads and telephone lines so that youths may become competent repair men and fit into the general defense program.

Long ago the CCC ceased being an agency for relief, made up only of boys whose families were receiving some type of assistance, and now the main eligibility qualifications are good character, desire for employment, willingness to learn, 17 to 23½ years of age.

Those boys with natural aptitudes and interest in mechanics will find plenty of opportunities in CCC camps to learn both the theory and practical sides of gasoline motors under trained instructors. There are over 43,000 units of automotive equipment in the CCC, the largest fleet of motorized equipment in the United States. Over 100,000 expert truck and tractor drivers are turned out each year, and other thousands are trained to the most complete over-hauling and repair jobs.

Each County Welfare Agency has the responsibility to carefully select only the very best available boys; those with anti-social ideas are not desirous as members of the CCC. Good citizenship is stressed and boys are returned home with a greater understanding of their responsibilities, trained to work, healthy and ambitious as a result of having been members of the Corps.

In our national preparedness one of the first needs is to have strong, healthy and alert citizens, and this is what is being accomplished by the CCC. Their outdoor life tends to toughen and build them up and become immune to diseases. The education programs develop their minds and awaken ambitions toward the better things—the American way of life.

The conference title to be tied, for all Graham would have to do would be defeat Olney and then claim a tie for the title.

For the Coyotes to lose to the Bulldogs is an outside chance, at odds of easily 10 to 1 against. Burkburnett has won only one conference game, and that was the 39 to 0 shellacking the Bulldogs gave Electra in the first 2-AA game of the season.

Since that time the Bulldogs have lost five in a row. Burkburnett failed to score against Quannah, Vernon and Graham, and scored only 1 touchdown against Olney and 1 against Childress. So the Bulldogs must make a great contradiction of the record if they defeat Wichita Falls.

The best that can be said in their favor, "there's no law against them whipping the Coyotes."

Plans for an anniversary party were discussed and Carl Morrison, Jingle Hayes, Oscar Kemp, and Jack Brumley were appointed a committee to arrange the program. The party is scheduled to be held soon after the first of the year, after the club has moved into their new quarters, the community hall.

Guy Ayers, of Vernon, field executive of the boy scouts of this district, was present.

Jim Alexander will have charge of the program next week.

take the season records at face value and predict nothing different from another Coyote victory.

Coyotes Lose In case the Coyotes should lose—well, it's not easy to say all the things that could be said in that connection. In the first place, the chances would be very good for
