THE NEW WAR-TIME SCHEDULE By J. V. BROOKSHEAR

I have been approached by several of my friends and customers as to my opinion regarding the new war time which will become effective next Monday, February 9. My answer has been and will be that I, as an individual, and the First National Bank, as a corporation, will be 100% loyal to our government in this move and will do everything in our power to co-operate in whatever move they think might be profitable for the country as a whole.

I realize that the change of time may cause a lot of us to reorganize our schedule and plan of living but will President Virgil Brookshear of venture to say that within a week or ten days, we will be the Chamber of Commerce, apsettled down and will hardly realize that our watches have been moved up one hour, and that we are getting up an hour earlier in the morning and are going to bed an hour earlier in the evening.

One person said to me that he believed that it would not make any difference to the government for him to go ahead with the old way of living. Of course, if this person was the only one in our nation who refused to get in line with the other citizens, we would not be affected by what he thought or the manner in which he behaved.

I doubt if a great many of our citizens realize the benefit to be derived; on a nation-wide basis, from this change of time. I do know that it will save thirty hours of electricity and natural gas in my home each month; and if every family in the United States saves thirty hours per month of energy as a result of this new plan, then we can see that it will amount to a tremendous saving of power which may be used in producing badly needed materials.

I am confident that the citizens of Burkburnett as as patriotic and loyal to their country as the citizens of any other community ever hopes to be. Let's all get together and help our Army, Navy, and Air Force win this war by co-operating in any way our officials think will be profitable!

Uncle Sam took no chances of any Axis sightseeing, which would have been possible had the passage been made by boat.

PRICES: Bill Passed

The passage of the compromise price control bill, setting ceilings on 74 commodities, brought to a head a situation which now was in the hands of the government, namely inflation of commodity prices.

From this point on it would be a criminal offense to sell anything above the ceiling price.

The senate vote had been at a higher ratio than the house, 65 to 14. President Roosevelt had been expected to name Leon Henderson to the post of price administrator, set up in the bill.

Henderson had been doing what he could along this line from bis OPACS office, and had been placed in the War Productions board under

All Henderson's previous work, new Russian system of putting fairwherever it did not conflict with the | ly heavy artillery into the front line ceilings in the bill, immediately was validated, and became the law of the land, just as though congress itself had announced the ceilings.

Maximum penalties were one year in prison and a $5,000 fine for willful violations of the law.

A fight had been expected against Henderson on the grounds that the former administrator had been close to the President, who himself had been chief critic of the bill.

The farm woodlot needs "culliat this time of the year just much as does the flock of lan hens. If the woodlot is to produce well in the future, loafer and ro trees should get the axe.

Trees culled out this winter more than pay for the trouble labor in fuel, fence posts and h ber logs. Woodlots will gain to this practice, he says, because remaining trees can grow faster straighter.

he asked.

"Let me do 'Traviata.' " I went out, and he started "Traviata." Now, "Di Provenza Il Mar" I guess is the worst -sung aria you ever hear, because the boys always think about tone and forget about the music, and that ruins it. I mean, they don't sing it smoothwith all the notes even, and that makes it jerky and takes all the sadness out of it. But it's a cakewalk for me, because I think I told you about all that work I did on music, and it seemed to me that I kind of knew what old man Verdi was trying to do with it when he wrote it. Wilkins started it, and he played it slower than Cecil had been playing it, and I no sooner heard it than I knew that was right, too. I took it just the way he had cued me. I just rocked it along and kept every note even, and didn't beef at all. When I got to the G flat, I held it, then let it swell a little, but only enough to come in right on the forte that follows it, and then on the finish I loaded it with all the tears of the world. You ought to have heard the bravos that time. I went out and took more bows, and it was no trouble to look them in the eye that time. They seemed like the nicest people in the world.

At the end, after Cecil had sung again and had finished a flock of encores, she took me out for a bow with her, and had me do a duet with her. It went so well they wanted more, but she rang down, and the three of us went out to

Wilkins and I were pretty excited but she didn't have much to say. When we got back to the hotel, Wilkins went to his room, and I went up with her for a good-night

She sat down on the sofa beside me, dropped her head on my shoulder, and started to cry. "Oh, Leonard, I feel terrible!'

"What about?" "Oh . . . The tenor was all right. He wasn't much good, but I could have done with him, once he got over his cold. I wanted you up here, don't you see? I was so glad to see you, and then I didn't want you to see it, for fear you wouldn't want me to be that glad. And I tried to be businesslike, and I was doing fine. And then-you flopped. And I knew you weren't just a singer that would put up with any-thing for a job. I knew you'd go back to New York, and I was terrified, and furious at you. And then you sang the way I wanted you to sing, and I loved you so much I wanted to go out there and hold on to you while you sang the other one. And now you know . . . What have you got?" I held her tight and patted her cheek and tried to think of something to say. There wasn't anything to say, not about what she was talking about. I had got so fond of her, that I loved every minute I spent with her, and yet there was only one woman who meant to me what she wanted to mean to me, and that was Doris. She could torture me all she wanted to, she could be a phony and make a fool of me with other men, and yet when she said hop, I jumped. "I know what you've got. You've got big, hard shoulders and shaggy hair, and you're a man and you build bridges, and to you this is just some kind of foolish tiddlywinks game that you play until it's time to go to work. And that's just what it is to me! I don't want to be a singer. I want to be a woman!" "If I'm a man, you made me

"Oh, yes, that's the worst of it. It's mostly tiddlywinks, but it's partly building yourself up to the level of that woman you're married to, so you're not afraid of her any more. And that's what I'm helping you at. Making a man out of you, so she can have you . . . I feel terrible. I could go right out that window.' I held Cecil a long time, then, and she stopped crying and began to play with my hair. "All right, Leonard. I've been rotten and poor sport to say anything about it at all—and now I'll stop. I'll be good and not talk any more about it, and try to give you a pleasant

"Wouldn't they be surprised, all your friends at the Engineers' Club, if they could see you?" I wanted to cry, but she wanted me to laugh, so I did, and held her close and kissed her. "You sang like an angel," she said, "and I'm terribly proud of you, and—that's right. Hold me

I held her close a long time, and then she started to laugh. It was a real cackle, over something that had struck her funny, I could see the "sweep and authority" of my singing. I didn't exactly know what they meant, but I liked them, all right, and saved them all. The Columbus concert was on a Thursday, and after we closed with the duet again and took our bows and went off, a little Italian in gray spats followed Cecil into her dressing-room and stayed there quite a while. Then he left and we went out to eat. "Who was your pretty boy friend?" I asked.

"Anyway I closed with him." It turned out I was to get $125 week, which was upped $25 from what he had offered, and that was what they were arguing about. I was to get transportation, pay my own hotel bills, and have a four-week contract, provided I did all right on my first appearance. I thought it was the screwiest thing I had ever heard of, but I finally said

We hit Chicago the next day, just the two of us, because Wilkins went back to New York after the Columbus concert. The first thing we did, after we got hotel rooms, was go around to the costumer's. I had to get fitted out for "La Boheme,"
"Rigoletto," and "La Traviata."

They were opening in "Boheme" on Monday night and I was to sing the role of Marcel.

There are no rehearsals for principals in the American Scala. You know your stuff or you don't get hired. But I was a special case, and Pegano wasn't taking any chances on me. He posted a call for the whole "Boheme" cast to take me through it Sunday afternoon. They couldn't get the theater, for some reason, so we did it downstairs in the new cocktail lounge of the hotel, which they didn't use on Sundays.

It's well-mannered clothes that women are wanting, the sort that won't shriek with glitter and gewgaws, yet will be spirit-lifters in and genuine charm. The winsome little wool dresses now so popular give the answer. Not only do they exploit color but they are styled to a nicety with all sorts of "catchy" details that individualize them and make them of outstanding style importance, not only for immediate wear with fur wraps but also to wear into the summer.

The accompanying group picture eloquently tells the story of quality, materials of distinction and flattering color. The first of this trio, that shown to the left in the above illustration, is a clever sports dress for the teen-age girl. It is in chocolate colored wool panelled with brownstitched beige. Simple tailored princess lines enhance this model, together with an easy grace achieved by the full-gored effect below the hipline.

Save Stockings to Help Student Work

Women throughout the states are being asked to join a unique campaign to save old, worn-out silk or nylon hose (no rayon), to help send American girls and boys through college. For every thousand pairs of old hose contributed one girl or boy is enabled to attend college for

A curtailment of silk has forced many in the student body of Athens college in Alabama to stay home this year. They had been earning their way working in the college's hosiery mills.

The stockings sent in will be reconditioned and "backwound," the process done under government supervision.

Some of the stores are featuring blackout accessories, such as bags done in plaid fiber to wear over the shoulder. Our Stake In The Pacific

Singapore, the Philippines and other war points in the Pacific may look a long way from home on the map, but Martin in the 89th district court, sent a letter to a newspaper apwhen we consider them in the light of their importance to Wednesday afternoon, after three pealing to girls in Wichita Falls us they overshadow every home and store in our town.

Already we are having difficulty in getting tires for our automobiles because our greatest supply of rubber comes from the Orient. We will have a scarcity of silk stockings since we no longer import silk from the Far East.

But that's just a small part of our stake in the Pacific. We will soon notice other greater curbs on the things we Miss Appye John Homesley precan buy due to the shortage of materials available from sented her rhythm band, comthe Far East.

War And Religion

Many people, who are not too religious in ordinary times, turn to religion in time of war as the only possible solution of their troubles.

In the last war there was a noticeable reawakening of interest in what our churches of all denominations had to offer and it is expected that this same reaction will soon be Texas, designed to show that the association, she brought a talk of the Roselawn addition, and apparent in this war. religion and war, recently expounded this theory:

The last war was brought upon us because of increasing atheism, widespread disregard of religious principles and a general lowering of morals throughout the world. It was God's way of showing us that we couldn't get away with it-of forcing us to the realization of the need for worship and higher moral standards.

According to this philosopher's theory, the war was called off when God felt that we had learned this lesson. But when we were free of war, people went back to their old habits and put aside religion soon after they put aside their guns. It was therefore necessary to teach an even more severe lesson-and this war, really just a continuation of the last war, has been inflicted upon us for that

Such a theory may or may not be correct, but it is an interesting one upon which to reflect because it offers a concrete suggestion as to a possible relationship between war and religion-between our personal behavior and the

When a problem becomes too great for man to feel capable of solving it, that is when a lot of us turn to God for a solution. But we cannot expect much help from religion if we just turn to it in times of stress-if we treat it as a sort of fire extinguisher to which we pay no attention in normal times but which is ready for use in times of the misery in the world today, we must build a faith which will be just as strong and active in time of peace as in

The Other Side Of The Scale

The total debt of a people is the sum total of the debt of the federal government, the state and local governments, and corporate and personal debt. Now when the federal debt unavoidably soars skyward on the wings of a vast war, it is time to reduce the other debt elements whenever possible. Economists are urging the payment of personal debts and of corporation debts with money that would otherwise be spent for decreasing stocks of consumer goods. State and local governments are being urged to hold down their expenses, and cut taxes.

Every dollar that can be cut from personal, corporate local and state debt, during this war is an offset to the unavoidably huge federal debt that is being piled up. No opportunity should be lost to hold the total debt burden in this way as small as possible, by reducing the elements of the total debt.

Fire losses now are a handicap to national defense and every fire prevented helps speed the war effort.

Let's Serve Soup

Something hot, something to warm up the system and something to stir the appetite into action so it can enjoy the meal itself-this is soup. Good companion to a dinner on

Good soups deserve attractive accompaniments. Here are some popular ideas:

Thin slices of lemon, chopped parsley, thin slices of avocado, slightly salted whipped cream, toasted almonds.

In the bread line you can really do a lot of tricks, such as cutting the bread into fancy shapes with a cookie cutter, then toasting and sprinkling on soup before serving. Rings (made with doughnut cutter), animal shapes, hearts, stars and diamonds are popular. Cheese sticks are good too and are made by sprinkling grated cheese on bread strips, broiled and served hot. Chopped chives or chopped parsley either by themselves or sprinkled over the salted whipped

A BUSY SABBATH IN CAPERNAUM

LESSON TEXT-Mark 1:21-34. GOLDEN TEXT—I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day.—Revelation 1:10.

The Sabbath of the Jew and the Lord's Day (Sunday) of the Christian were both intended to be days of rest. The ordinary activities of life were to cease and one was to be free to worship and to rest. The manner in which a man uses this

We have before us the account of a very busy Sabbath day which our Lord spent in Capernaum, the city in which most of His mighty works were done, but which ignored Him and His teaching to its own destruction (see Matt. 11:23, 24). As we look at our Lord's activity on that day we learn what we may do with our Sundays to make them in three places.

I. In the Church (vv. 21-28).

The Sabbath day found our Lord with His people in the synagogue, their place of worship. The service of worship was probably formal and lacking in spiritual vitality, but nonetheless He was there. What have we to say if we miss the opportunity for fellowship and service which church attendance brings us?

Observe that because He was there He (as a distinguished religious teacher) was called upon to teach the people. He taught them in the serene consciousness of His divine authority, and the people were delighted and astonished at pieces. Scald chicken feet. Skin and His message. We may not serve exactly as He did, but if we present ourselves in God's house on His day we will find the way opening

Jesus not only spoke, but He performed a miracle. Certain it is that we could not do what He did, but we can be ready to give ourselves in service as well as in worship, or in speaking. There is much work to be done in the church, and God's people should be ready and willing to do it.

II. In the Home (vv. 29-31). From the synagogue Christ went into the home. How appropriate! We too should go from the church to the home, always bringing with us the strength and blessing of the worship service.

The daughter of a great preacher and Bible teacher said the thing she most loved in her father was that he did not give out the "cream" of his Christianity in his meetings and bring home the "skim milk." Too often we fail to bring into the home the power and beauty of the service in the church. We who have been very sweet and spiritual in the church should not come home to be sour and crabbed.

Jesus brought a blessing into Peter's home, miraculously healing his mother-in-law of a great fever, setting her free to serve. Here again we cannot do what He did, but we can, in His name, bring power and blessing into our homes.

III. In the City (vv. 32-34).

From the home the ministry of Jesus reached out to the entire city. As the strict laws forbidding travel on the Jewish Sabbath were set Another good soup that makes a aside by the coming of sundown, not meal in itself is this: Deep sea oys- only the city but the entire countryters are especially flavorful for side brought their sick and needy to Him.

The scene staggers the imagination as one attempts to conceive of this coming together of troubled humanity for the Master's touch. Mark tells us that He healed many; Matthew, that He healed all, and Luke, the physician, is emphatic in saying that He healed every one of

We may learn from this incident that our Christian faith, which has been developed and strengthened by our time of worship and service in the church, should not only reflect itself in the home, but should reach out into the life of the community in which we live. The primary interest of the Christian in his city or the place of his residence should be spiritual, a desire to bring to bear upon the people of the community the power of the gospel.

There is, however, a secondary responsibility which is of much importance and that is the extending of Christian influence into every phase of school, social, political, and business life. It is said that when D. L. Moody came into a barber shop the entire course of the conversation changed. The Christian should have an influence on problems of social welfare, the work of the public schools, the proper conduct of business in the community, and surely upon its political life. It is said that if every Christian in America would vote according to his professed convictions we could put the saloons out of business in a single election. Why not do it?

Frozen Cars Will Be Sold This Year

Washington, Jan. 13-All new automobiles now "frozen" in dealer's hands, except a government stock pile of 130,00 units, will be sold by the end of this year under the pending rationing program, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today.

Simultaneously, Henderson an nounced that, beginning Feb. 12, dealers would be permitted to deliver new cars sold but not delivered before the original freezing order Jan. 1.

Rationing of cars will not begin until Feb. 26, Henderson said, allowing local rationing boards two weeks in which to handle disposition of the automobiles bought before stocks were frozen. To obtain delivery of these cars, purchasers will be required to present specified "evidence of purchase" to the rationing boards.
