33 Rotarians See Preacher Do Magic Tricks

Thirty-three members, visitors and guests enjoyed a versatile program presented by Boyd I. DeVore at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club Tuesday at noon when he presented Capt. Robbins of the Health Unit of Wichita County and Austin Varner, pastor of the local Church of Christ.

Capt. Robbins told of the T.B. Seal campaign which will start in the near future and of the benefits derived from the sale of these Seals in the fight for the prevention and spread of tuberculosis. He stressed the fact that raw milk was one of the main causes of the disease and was looking forward to the day when Burk Burnett would have a pasteurized plant.

Mr. Varner, an amateur magician, entertained those present for about 20 minutes with magic tricks.

Five Rotarians from Wichita Falls were guests of the club. They were: Dr. Ted Krohn, Claude Beasley, Chas. Kirby, Bryan Lovelace and Scotty Scott. Scott had as his guest his son, Jack Scott and O. W. DeVore was the guest of his son, Boyd DeVore.

I. C. Evans has the program for next week.

Cold Winds Chill Bible School Average

Bible School attendance has dropped for five consecutive weeks. Various reasons have been given, but the fact remains that the leaders are anxious to see a turn for larger attendance. Daylight saving time is credited by some as being the most difficult barrier to surmount. Everyone is urged to find a church home in our community and invited to attend regularly. The attendance for the past two Sundays follows:

Assembly of God	70 71
Calvary Baptist	122 107

Geo. W. Wigham, Former Burk Burnett Resident Succumbs At Home In Panhandle, Nov. 2

(From Panhandle Herald)

George Washington Wigham, 72 died at 10:10 a. m. Tuesday at his residence in Panhandle. He had been in failing health for several years. He had been a resident of Panhandle since June, 1926.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church, followed by burial in Panhandle Cemetery under the direction of Blackburn-Shaw Funeral Home of Amarillo.

Services will be conducted by Rev. R. S. Watkins, pastor of the Methodist Church, McLean and a former Methodist minister here. He will be assisted by Rev. James Todd, and by Rev. Mint, a Methodist minister at Clarendon.

Plan Family Services

Rev. E. M. Weathers, pastor of the Baptist Church, will hold funeral services at the residence at 2:30 p. m. for members of the immediate family. At the family services Miss Elsie Porter and Mrs. Clarence Hubert of McLean, the former Violet Golden, will sing solos.

Wigham was born March 25, 1871, near Boonville, Mo., and moved to San Marcos, Hays county, with his parents when he was two years old. His parents moved to Love county, Okla., when he was 16 years old, and he went to Wichita county in 1890.

On Feb. 28, 1892, he was married in Wichita county to Sarah Bell Goins. They lived in Wichita Falls until 1907 when they moved to Burk Burnett. In his years of residence in Wichita county, he became an outstanding leader in business.

Operated First Gin

In Wichita Falls he operated the first gin and was in the grain, coal and feed business. He owned the first automobile in the city and gave such leaders as the late Frank Kell and J. A. Kemp their first car rides.

When the city of Burk Burnett was opened in 1907, he bought the first lot in the town sale, built the first bridge, helped to get the first school built and opened the first subdivision, the Wigham addition. He also built the first gin.

In many of his early ventures he was associated with J. L. Brock, of White Deer, whose first wife was a sister of Wigham.

Builds Bridge

Need for a bridge across Red River was seen as there was much corn in southern Oklahoma that needed to be shelled. Wigham and Brooks built a ferry boat that cost $350 and a rise in the river sunk it after the first few loads of corn were carried to Burk Burnett.

Then Wigham began a campaign for a bridge, which was completed in 1909. He furnished most of the money, the citizens of Burk Burnett, donating $3,000 for its construction. He owned the bridge about three years and it was a big money maker.

Wigham branched out and built gins in several other cities. He built a gin at Harrold, the farmers there being so anxious to have one that they had dozens of teams at the station to haul the equipment to the site.

Elected Alderman

Wigham was elected alderman at Burk Burnett in 1911 and built the first light plant in 1913. An old issue of the Burk Burnett paper said that the drought there was so severe in 1911 that the bank offered $10 for a mess of roasting ears and had no takers.

Becoming interested in the high plains, he moved to Wellington in 1915 and he bought his land nine miles northeast of Panhandle in 1916. He lived about two months in White Deer in 1923, but returned to Wellington.

The Wighams established their home here in 1926. He farmed most of these years here, but has lived in Panhandle in recent years. In Wichita Falls, he made the first Wichita Gang Plow and there are a few left here to this day.

9 Children Survive

Survivors include the widow, three sons, Ernest Wigham of Borger, Jack Wigham of Panhandle and Reed Wigham of San Diego, Calif; six daughters, Mrs. Pearl Speegle of Borger, Mrs. W. L. (Jewel) Sickles of Borger, Mrs.

Late Burk Bus Is Requested

Wichitans Back Plan For Midnight Schedule

Possibility that a midnight bus schedule from Wichita Falls to Burk Burnett will be set up within a short time was expressed Monday by R. W. Knight, chamber of commerce manager. He said that the Wichita Falls Chamber is working with officials of the Burk Burnett Chamber to get the new schedule established.

"Officials of bus companies that we have contacted are very sympathetic to our need for an additional schedule to Burk Burnett," Knight said, "and we expect to have a midnight bus running between the two points soon if Office of Defense Transportation rules and regulations will permit."

The need for such a schedule results from the large number of Burk Burnett citizens who work in Wichita Falls and at Sheppard Field, the manager explained.

"We are hopeful of obtaining a through schedule to Oklahoma City at this same time in addition to the local bus to Burk Burnett," he added.

Rites Monday For C. E. Roy

Funeral services for Carl E. Roy, 42, former Burk Burnett resident, who died Friday at Houston, were held from the First Baptist Church. Rev. Ray C. Morrow, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church will officiate. He was assisted by Rev. Jack Beckert, pastor of the Thrift Baptist Church. Interment was in the Burk Burnett Cemetery under the direction of Owens & Brumley Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were C. H. Berry, Bill Sheets, F. G. Sites, Lee Johnson, Earl Matthews and R. B. Fox. Survivors are his wife, a daughter, Miss Laraine Roy, Burk Burnett; two sons, Phillip and Donald Roy, also of Burk Burnett; his father, W. W. Roy, Byers; three brothers, Jimmy Roy of Wichita Falls, Clarence and Luther Roy, both of Byers; and six sisters, Miss Katherine Roy and Mrs. Lura Nicholes, both of Byers; Mrs. Bill Obermyer, Riverland; Mrs. T. Burk's War Chest Drive Below Quota

According to the Chairman of the local drive for Wichita County War Chest Drive, Burk Burnett is falling way below her quota of $4,000.

This is a worthy cause and everybody in Burk Burnett should give something to this fund.

This fund is for 17 agencies AND DOES NOT INCLUDE WICHITA FALLS' LOCAL CHEST DRIVE. A number of local people have circulated the report that Wichita's local chest drive will benefit by Burk's donations. This is absolutely false and it appears that they are just trying to dodge the issue to keep from giving. It is not compulsory that they give, but they should keep their mouths shut about something they know nothing about.

Contributions as of Saturday night, Nov. 6, and reported to Chairmen. If you have contributed, and your name does not appear in this list, it will next week. Most committees are making their work complete before reporting to headquarters:

Lutheran Meeting Opens At Clara

A matins service conducted by Rev. H. F. Peiman of Lockett Tuesday morning opened the three-day North Texas Regional Conference at the Trinity Lutheran Church at Clara.

Peiman also spoke at the assemblies Wednesday and Thursday mornings, the Thursday morning service being in the form of an observance of the armistice ending the first world war.

Pastors attending the conference are being quartered in the homes of members of the host church. Rev. Paul Kaiser is pastor of the Clara church.

The program included a special conference with pastor communion observance Wednesday night. Rev. V. L. Behnken, Fort Worth, delivered this communion address and Rev. C. H. Mutschink, Albany, preached the sermon.

Birnbaum, Vernon; "Bible History: The Story of Ananias and Sapphira as Taught to Children" by Rev. Charles Albers, Honey Grove.

Ed Gossett Condemns Strikes

MR. GOSSETT, Mr. Speaker, it is quite ironical that in the same mail this morning each Member received a 15-page closely printed brief purporting to justify the pending threat of a strike by the railroad organizations, and also a reprint of a famous advertisement entitled "Missing", showing a picture of a little boy, whose father was killed in action, climbing the stairs to an empty bedroom.

Most members of the railroad labor organizations are high-class good American citizens. I cannot believe they seriously entertain the threat of a strike. No man with a heart could read his advertisement "Missing", and contemplate American casualty lists, and then strike against the country for which our finest young men die.

Mr. Speaker, 95 per cent of all good Americans will agree that any man who will deliberately and willfully strike in a vital war industry not only insults every man in uniform, but is a traitor to his country.

Electra Wins Over Burk Burnett, 35-0

Burkburnett Bulldog defense was desperate in a stirring battle with the Electra Tigers Friday night, but yielded to a powerful offense which rolled up a 35-0 victory.

Clifton Barnett, wily tackle for the Tigers, tossed in the season's must super-extra nifty for the fans by way of scoring methods. In the third period, Preston of the Bulldogs was sprinting around the Tiger end, near mid-field, the ball carried as ballast in his swinging hand. Barnett dove alongside, snatched the ball from Preston's hand and escaped for a touchdown sprint of 40 yards.

The first Tiger score came early in the first quarter. The Bulldogs punted to the Tiger 20 yard stripe, where Ballard gathered it in under a full head of steam and with fine aid from his mates downfield cruised the entire 80 yards for a tally. Forbes converted, as he did on the ensuing four counters.

The second canton was a fat one for the Bengals, Jacobi put over the first marker of that period from 8 yards out. A moment later, Vestal took Gragg's punt on the Burk Burnett 28-yard mark. Weatherford circled end for the score. After a few more plays, Vestal intercepted Gragg's pass on the Bulldog 34-yard line. Vestal made 2, then took a flip from Ballard for 17 yards. Jacobi engineered the remaining distance in two whacks at a time.

After Barnett's fancy scoring maneuver in the third period, the Bulldog defense tightened and the offense looked up also. The visitors fought their way to the Tiger 15-yard mark, and on a pass moved to the 7, but a penalty set them back and they lost the ball on downs.

The Tigers led 13 to 9, in first downs. They gained 119 yards in the air while the Bulldogs had 100 yards in this bracket.

BURKBURNETT STAR, THURSDAY, NOV. 11, 1943

"Education For Victory"

This year the theme for National Education Week of November 7-13, is "Education for Victory". It is a wide topic and one that older heads might study! Perhaps some of our Burk Burnett readers do not know that back in 1921 when the first American National Educational Week was founded, the American Legion in conjunction with the National Educational Association, was the instigator for this celebration. So what better steeves could we put upon "Education for Victory" than the three objectives named by the American Legion in their national convention? They adopted: a call for concerted effort to win the war, to win the peace and to restore constitutional government "of the people, by the people and for the people" to the nation at the close of the war. The topics for discussion in schools during this week will deal with world understanding, war-time citizenship, sound health, work, the air age, emergency education, winning and securing the peace. It is a tall order and brings the American history, civics and geography, physical fitness and basic military training. There will be instruction to instill a desire to always protect this land.

This all might be a part of our national Armistice Day program, for as hundreds of thousands of youths participate in National Education Week, they are preparing, in a measure, to bring about an understanding that will make a basis for peace and thus, an armistice among governments and their peoples. They will be studying principles that might lead to establishing a peace and a faith in bringing about an Armistice Day that will last.

Something To Us

We are always anxious in Burk Burnett to get news of our certain successful gains in the Pacific. The Sons of Heaven are a formidable enemy. The reports of an Allied drive against the Japs would find the movement probably starting from India, the Burma invasion being the initial move. Now, next to Burma lies the Bengal province with a population of sixty million and these people are suffering with the rest of India in a famine. Reports states that not one family in the Bengal province gets two meals a day. From a humanitarian view, starvation is a tragedy and from a military view a famine in India is a weakening force in battle. That there has been some neglect for conditions to be this bad is true, but now that it is here, Britain is trying to help. India is her problem, you say. But American boys in the Pacific are ours! Japan is using a propoganda builder by offering to send rice. This alone shows us we have to be concerned with the problem.

Salvaging Rags

What Burk Burnett housewife hasn't had to hunt for cleaning rags now and then, no matter how fast clothes seem to wear out at her house? So it is with Uncle Sam. He has run out of fabrics as wiping rags in his plants and his army and asks the War Production Board to suggest that we have a nation-wide drive to bring forth discarded clothing, rags and fabrics from our attics. In this hunt we are going to find clothing that is too good for wiping oil and grease, so we will give it for the benefit of relief abroad. And then too, attics always seem to need a cleaning out every so often, Uncle Sam or no.

Same Story

There are not the large number of hunters this year, intent upon the kill but with any number out to bag the game, we will have a lot of accidents, caused by carelessness. Rabbit fever, too will find its victims and increase the death rate. Statistics will be compiled and compared with last year's. Whatever they find, we still echo our yearly rules of safe conduct. A few for hunters who think that common sense is too common to use: don't shoot at moving bushes, or point your gun at something you don't intend to shoot, climb a fence and pick up your gun afterwards, don't carry a gun with the muzzle pointing forward and try to wear clothes that will make you anything but part of the landscape!

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Mornin', Judge...meetin' someone?"
"No, Sam, I'm just going up the line ways on business. Wasn't that a troop train that just pulled out?"
"Sure was, Judge...stopped over here for ten minutes and what a swell bunch of fellows they were."
"That's true all over, Sam. Our present Army is the best trained, best disciplined, best behaved in American history. That's why I get my hair up when I hear of some people trying to dry up the areas around

Army camps. Why, in a recent report made by the government, it said the Army usually prefers its camps to be located in wet instead of dry communities. And there's a sound reason. In a wet community the Army can control drinking. In dry communities where bootleggers run wild it's almost impossible. We know that from our nearly 14 years of experience with national prohibition.
"There's no getting away from it, prohibition does not prohibit."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS
Allies Prepare Heavy Blows in Italy; Jugo-Slav Guerrillas Threaten Nazis Despite Outbreaks of Factional War; New Cattle Subsidy Plan Is Announced

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EUROPE: Prepare Attack in Italy

Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army edged into position for a grand assault upon the Germans' new defenses along the 2,500-foot high Masicco ridge in southern Italy, while the Nazis prepared to meet the charge by massing artillery and mortars on the front.

On the Adriatic side of the battle-line to the east, Gen. Bernard Montgomery's Eighth Army also drew up into position for the next big blow by crossing the short Trigno river at several points. Meanwhile there were indications that the Germans might be planning a strong counter-offensive of their own somewhere in central Italy. Allied reconnaissance reported the steady flow of Nazi troops and materiel from the north toward the battle zone. No such counter-offensive was expected, however, unless the Germans' defense weakened Allied attackers and drew them into open country where Tank Specialist Erwin Rommel could maneuver armor.

Nazis Fight Guerrillas

Pesky guerrilla activity in Jugo-Slavia commanded the attention of the Germans, with Marshal Rommel dispatching strong mechanized forces to quell the armed bands disrupting communications and destroying industrial plants. But the effectiveness of Jugo-Slav guerrillas was threatened by another outbreak of factional dissension between the forces of King Peter's government and the new so-called "freedom army" of Tito Broz, which recently was organized and has fought independently.

While the two political organizations reportedly have been harassing the Germans from one end of Jugoslavia to the other, they also have been accusing one another of collaborating with the Nazis. Broz' faction sentenced 17 persons to death for such collaboration, including a former Jugo-Slav general. In attempting to wipe out the two guerrilla armies, the German armored columns drove into the hilly country to which Jugo-Slav riflemen retire for cover.

TAXES: Plan 2 Billion More

Opposed to any form of sales tax, the house ways and means committee was prepared to report a new tax bill for congressional approval yielding only two billion dollars of revenue instead of the 10½ billion dollars asked by the treasury.

Of the two billion dollars, 600 million would be raised by new liquor taxes. Levies on spirits would be boosted to $10 a gallon, on beer to $8 per barrel, and on wine from five cents to $1 a gallon. Other revenue would be obtained by increasing postal rates to three cents on local mail, air-mail to 10 cents an ounce, money orders 10 to 37 cents, insured mail 10 to 70 cents, and COD mail 24 cents to $2.40. General admissions would be raised to three cents for every 10 cents; electric light bulbs and tubes would be taxed to 15 per cent of the retail price, and there would be a levy of 20 per cent of the charge on bowling, and $20 per billiard table.

If a sales tax were enacted, the CIO had warned that it would demand wage increases to cover additional purchase costs.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

ORE: Low-grade mines producing metals other than iron and copper were ordered closed down by the War Production board. Officials explain that production of several vital metals has outstripped the need. Premium prices to some mine owners were withdrawn, and imports of some ores banned. Hardest hit are "war baby" mines yielding bauxite, lead, chrome and molybdenum.

FRUIT: The air lines will haul fresh fruit in quantity after the war, predicts Sigmund Janas, president of Colonial Airlines. He believes that this swift transportation will eliminate the need of heavy packing and icing.

NORMANDIE: The former French luxury liner, the Normandie, has been completely refitted and turned over to the navy.

Marines Celebrate 168th Birthday—Fighting

"In the air, on land, and sea" the men of the United States marine corps are fighting at America's battlefronts over the world as they celebrate their 168th birthday. Left: On Guadalcanal marine artillery experts shell a Japanese position. Their weapon is a 75-mm. pack howitzer, a favorite with marines because of its mobility. Center: Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, the highest ranking officer ever to command the marines. He served in much of the heavy fighting of World War I. Right: On a lonely hill overlooking one of the numerous Alaskan inlets, a marine machine gun crew is on the alert for any attempted landing by enemy troops.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Ceylon, Africa and tropical America are expected to provide the U. S. with 54,000 long tons of crude rubber during 1943. In 1939, it is estimated, 499,473 long tons of crude were imported by this country.

Para, Brazil, was the first great rubber center. Founded in 1615, it became an important port for foreign trade about 1775. A hundred years later it was the rubber capital of the world.

Rubber obtained from a native wild vine in the Belgian Congo made Leopold II of Belgium wealthy during the 1890-1910 period. Plantation rubber development killed the Congo vine boom.

Beautiful and Impressive Rites Unite McDonnell And Warren

Beautiful and impressive wedding rites were performed at the Cashion Baptist Church, Friday evening, November 5 to unite Miss Barbara Warren and Pfc. Harold P. McDonnell of Wichita Falls. The double-ring ceremony was read by Rev. N. A. Sanders, pastor of Southside Church in the presence of several hundred friends and relatives of the couple.

Wrought iron stands holding white chrysanthemums and gladioli stood at each side and back of the altar. They were connected by tall branched candelabras which held the white tapers that furnished the lighting effect during the ceremony.

For the pre-nuptial music Miss Lois Eller Strickland of Wichita Falls sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life", and "Because". Miss Betty Bryant and Buddy Warren, brother of the bride, played "I Love You Truly" as a violin duet. Mrs. C. C. Decker was the accompanist. She also played the traditional wedding march from Lohengrin and the recessional from Mendelssohn. "Traumeri" was played as a musical background during the recitation of the marriage vows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin designed with a sweetheart neckline and soft shirring extending down the front of the fitted bodice to a full floor length skirt. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a lace crown. Her costume was completed with an arm bouquet of pink and white carnations with white satin streamers.

Attendants for the bride was Mrs. Douglass Frame, as matron of honor and Miss Dorothy Warren, sister of the bride, as maid of honor. They were attired in evening gowns in pastel shades.

The groom's father, Perry McDonnell, attended him as best man. R. B. and Clinton Swinford were ushers.

The bride is a well-known and popular member of the Cashion community, where she has always made her home. She is a graduate of Burkburnett High School and now employed in sub-depot supply at Sheppard Field.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry McDonnell of Wichita Falls, is now serving as wire chief in the Signal Corps at Camp Crowder, Mo. He is a graduate of the Wichita Falls High School and a former employee of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Reception

The wedding was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. The house was decorated with an arrangement of chrysanthemums and gladioli. The beautifully decorated tiered wedding cake, topped with a military bride and groom was cut by the bride. After which it was served by Mrs. G. W. Sparks and Mrs. R. P. Brooks. Mrs. T. M. Clark of Iowa Park, and Mrs. Herbert Adams presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting in serving were Mesdames Bee Bryant, Duke Owens, Lester Warren and Glenn Prescott.

Nazarene Church

The Nazarene Church ushered in the new Church Year Sunday by a good live Sunday School and preaching message, "God In The Beginning", by the pastor.

Some very high goals were set purpose fits into the pattern of present day world affairs. Is the world facing a new social, economic, religious and political order? Will this war end in total victory, and can the peace that follows be a guaranteed permanent peace? What kind of international system will be inaugurated between the nations to maintain world order after the war? These questions are answered by the Word of God, and it is not delving into politics to discuss them.

You are welcome. Ray C. Morrow, Pastor.

by this young, growing Church for the coming year.

Last year's reports were glowing in achievement for the churches of this district. Several new churches were organized, new buildings erected, others paid out of debt. The Missionary budget of the district was overpaid by $2990. Rev. W. B. Walker, pastor at Abilene, was elected as District Superintendent to succeed Rev. John L. Knight of Mineral Wells. The assembly also voted a month's pay in advance for Rev. Knight and gave a cash love offering of $605 to complete payment for a new car for him. Also a love offering of $360 was given to Dr. R. T. Williams, General Superintendent and Presiding Officer from Kansas City, Mo. Over $500 in cash was given to Rest Cottage at Pilot Point, Texas, and pledges were made in excess of a $1,000. During 1942 Rest Cottage gave a home to 108 girls from 12 different states and placed nearly 100 babies in good Christian homes.

The local church is anxious to share in the advancement of Christ Mission. This is the beginning of the seventh year as pastor for Rev. Perry and we are encouraged to attempt greater and better things for God.

Christian Science Services Sunday

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 14.

The Golden Text is: "If ye live after the flesh, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live" (Romans 8-13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For in him we live and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring" (Acts 17:28).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following message from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Immortal man is not and never was material, but always spiritual and eternal" (page 336).

Model Plane, Glider, Cited As Basis Of Training Pilots

Starting today, the United States could train every high school youth in the nation to be a potential pilot. The cost would be only a few cents each week for each individual.

That amazing statement was made Saturday at South Plains Army Air Field in Lubbock, Texas, by Staff Sgt. Philip F. Nekimken, a man who ought to know.

"Model plane building is the key to the future of air power as far as interesting youths as pilots," he believes. "Start your high school students in building model planes and gliders. By the time they are old enough to fly, it will be a cinch. I know, a two-year experiment with me as one of guinea pigs convinced me."

Staff Sgt. Nekimken was referring to his experience in Chicago back in 1929-30 when he was a student in Parker High School.

Built Small Gliders

He and five of his buddies decided to organize a model building and gliding club. Each of the students chipped in 50 cents a week for a year. Dollar by dollar they built a small glider and joined other sports and aerial minded men over the country in this new game.

In a short space of time, each of them had some 500 flights and 100 hours time in the glider which was towed behind a car.

Then came the big test. The youths were placed in cub powered planes. It was their first time in the ships with motors. After an hour and a half of instruction every one of them was able to fly the power ship. They had learned the intricacies of flight and the ships they were to fly in model making. Their ground school work was proven with self-imposed studies, mixed with numerous experiments, failures and successes.

Germany Used Gliders

"Germany built the nucleus for its powerful Luftwaffe with glider pilots. The Versailles treaty prevented the Nazis from training an air force in power ships. So the glider and models were used. As a result the Nazis had a huge reserve of pilots ready to take over in power planes after only a few hours instructions".

Nekimken organized and directed three different glider clubs in the Chicago Park district, a recreation project, back when glider pilots were a novelty. And, of course, he also had a role in the aeronautic club, an organization which required that a member equal or break a world's model airplane record before he could join. The club held 28 world marks.

Under his direction model airplanes and gliders became the talk of Chicago. And the results are paying off for Uncle Sam. Some of his students are making hay while the rising sun goes down.

ers are doing their part in the war effort.

(Editor's Note) Sgt. Nekimken started a model airplane club in Burkburnett while he was stationed at Sheppard Field. It had the name of "Boom Town Balsa Butchers". Charter members of the club were: D. L. Richardson, Hal Dean Mabry, Bill Browning, Doyce Edwards, Donald Howard, Horace Mills.

Not many Burkburnett men are going to have to worry about putting their wives back on a weekly allowance after the women have been bringing home $60 a week from a defense plant.

There is a lot of difference between free speech and cheap talk but some Burkburnett people don't recognize it.

The amount of money Count Ciano is reported to have taken out of Italy, makes us believe that business must have been good.

A Burkburnett reader asks whether it may that Germany won't quit until she sees how we are going to manage the peace?

Destruction of Hamburg
By Walter Taub

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

Four hundred refugees from Hamburg are now in Sweden, eyewitnesses of the greatest havoc that ever smote any human settlement. The first attack on Hamburg was delivered on the night of July 24. The attack was concentrated against anti-aircraft batteries, with excellent results. Most of the batteries were silenced in a few minutes.

Then, say these eyewitnesses, came an absolute novelty in the history of bombing—bearing witness to the scientific care devoted to planning the attack. Special reconnaissance planes appeared over the city, picking out certain industrially important sections with green flares dropped by parachutes.

These flares hovered like bunches of grapes in the air and aided the bombers coming in afterward to drop their explosives in a square around the section thus marked, so that buildings for whole blocks collapsed and all roads and communications between that section and the remainder of the city were choked off.

This was not done to prevent the inhabitants from getting out, but to hinder the transfer of firemen and fire-fighting apparatus from other sections in the effort to save war-important buildings and their contents.

When communications were thus closed, there began a rain of incendiaries that spread fires over such a large area that practically the whole section was drowned in flames. The work of air defense on this and the following nights was enormously hampered by this simple but effective means which, as far as I know, was applied here for the first time.

'Dazzling Paper' Dropped.

Mrs. Anna Johansson, a refugee in Malmo, refers also to "sheets of paper, black on one side and dazzling silver on the other, dropped by thousands from the bombers." Twenty-five other Hamburg Swedes attest to the correctness of her statement. Air-defense searchlight beams were reflected all ways from these sheets, thus being prevented from reaching the raiding aircraft with full intensity and making the job of locating them much more difficult.

The first assault was directed at the inner town. The free port, covering an area of more than 3,500 acres, naturally was not spared during this 90-minute attack, but not until the next raid on Sunday, a day raid, was the most devastating blow directed at this pride of Hamburg.

That Sunday, Hamburg displayed an unusual appearance. Even in the forenoon, giant clouds of smoke and dust enveloped the whole town, darkening the sky.

Then the sirens screamed, and a big formation of American bombers reduced to ashes the continent's biggest shipyards.

These were the plants of Blohm and Voess, Vulkanwerit and Howaldtswerit—where the biggest steamers are built, repaired and docked.

Monday night, during the first British attack, the big gas plant in the harbor section received a direct hit. That terrible explosion deprived the city of gas.

RAF Keeps Promise.

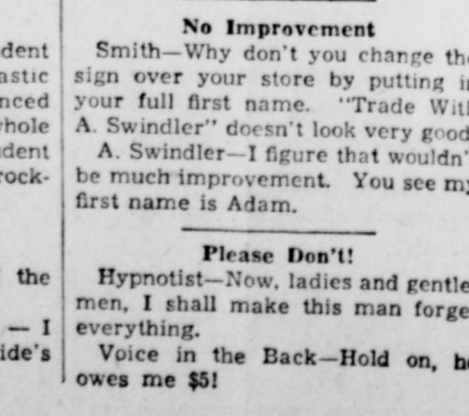

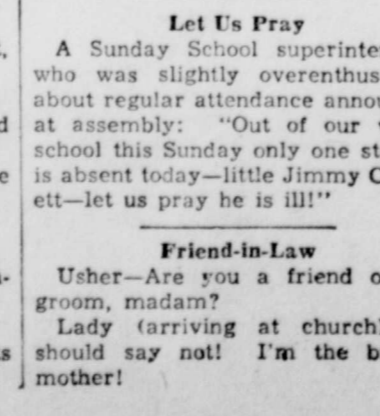

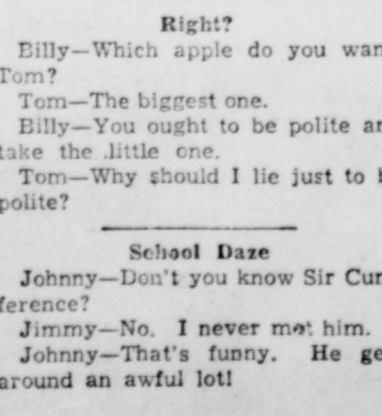

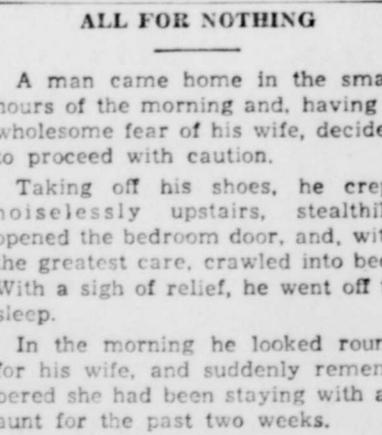

That evening, none among Hamburg's 1,700,000 inhabitants was willing to retire to bed, for the RAF had dropped leaflets promising a repetition of Sunday's raid on Tuesday. Hamburgers, from whom Hitler was once compelled to admit he had received the most "no" votes, always listen to the British radio and they know, therefore, that "the British keep their promises."

On Tuesday morning at 11:30, the few remaining sirens screamed. The attack began at 12:30. The raid lasted only half an hour, but it sufficed to convert Hamburg into a veritable sea of fire. With the central mains destroyed, hundreds of thousands of those leaving the shelters would have given a fortune for a glass of water. The heat was unbearable, in a wind storm like a typhoon. The giant bonfire resulted in a rapid consumption of oxygen. Terrible fire storms resulted in areas where a few minutes earlier complete calm had prevailed.

Wednesday morning, the city like a mass of fire lay in ruins and ashes. Sections housing 300,000 people were razed to the ground. The main railroad station, Saint Georg, was a terrible sight on Wednesday, with charred railroad cars on sidings and unrecognizably smashed automobiles.

A Swedish girl saw people blazing from phosphorus cast themselves into water—but the phosphorus burned there equally well. Lime was strewn on the corpses scattered about the streets, and the odor of death lay heavy over the whole town.

OUR COMIC SECTION

The Private Papers Of a Cub Reporter

Not long ago I lost a friend . . . Ben Bernie died . . . Many people liked Ben Bernie. Because Ben Bernie liked many people . . . Ben had more than acting talent . . . The fact is—the easy good nature known to millions of Americans was not an act . . . A human being himself, he really loved his fellowmen.

Ben Bernie's life was an example of the opportunity America offers a son of poor immigrant parents. And his death is an example of the devotion these Americans have for their country.

Ben was warned by his doctors that his bond drive engagements and his many appearances at Army camps and war plants were too much for his strength . . . But Ben kept on . . . And he died.

How much his bit helped cannot, of course, be measured . . . But this we know. He continued in the fight against the orders of Government authorities, his doctors and the entreaties of his family . . . And now his effort is ended . . . Because over and beyond the call of duty, Ben Bernie tried to give his country more than he had.

Our "feud" with Ben Bernie started in 1931 . . . The sponsor of the cigarette firm for which I rode the Magic Carpet (with orchestras from all over the world) suggested that the show needed some humor . . . I borrowed an old stunt that worked so well with Mark Hellinger with whom I "feuded" . . . Phoning Ben at the College Inn in Chicago, I told him that on the next broadcast I was going to read a telegram from him . . . It was for the orchestra leader (Duchin) and it said: "Just heard first broadcast with Winchell. You were wonderful! Can get you $5,000 at State-Lake Theater with Winchell and $10,000 WITHOUT him!" . . . I told Ben I would then tell one on him—and from that date on—every man for himself! . . . Swell, he said, go ahead . . . And you know the rest . . . Anyway, that's how it started.

Robert Ley, the Nazi party's problem drunk, got sober enough the other day to have a good scare. He began to sort of realize that it's getting down toward the pay-off, and things aren't looking too good for him . . . To save his skin he tossed the Nazi master race theory into the ashcan . . . That was just campaign stuff, he scoffed, and shouldn't be taken seriously. We're all good fellows together, he orated, and we're just loving everybody to pieces . . . It happens that lush Ley is head of the Nazis' labor dept., and from where he sits he can get a worse set of d.t.s. than he ever collected from schnapps . . . He knows that there are 12,000,000 prisoners of labor in the Reich, and 12,000,000 able-bodied enemies represent a lot of hell when the time comes to raise it.

The big weakness of Ley's scheme is that the soldiers are going to bring in their own accusations . . . They saw the Nazi idea at work in Italy, frinstance . . . Farnsworth Folwell and John Lardner reported the butcheries of the ex-master race at Cajazzo, and if that crime isn't avenged, then victory will lack something . . . This wasn't war. It was massacre for Nazi pleasure . . . The Nazis evacuated the town, then sneaked back and slaughtered whole families, women and children included—especially women and children . . . As Lardner points out, it lacked even the excuse of a lynching frenzy. It was methodical. It was more than two miles over hilly country between them and the victims' homes . . . The Huns marched the distance because they enjoyed killing the helpless. It was a crime so incredibly horrible that Folwell didn't dare broadcast it until he checked and double-checked it.

An acquaintance would have you believe he went into a restaurant which advertised: "We Serve Everything!" and heard a drunk tease the manager with: "Everything, eh? Well, bring me an elephant steak!" . . . The manager countered: "Very well—how many in your party?" . . . "One, me!" said the lush . . . "Sorry," was the tactful retort, "we can't kill a whole elephant for just one customer!" . . . The beer shortage will be ended soon. An important midwest brewer has a new patented formula and process, and will accept all orders starting December 1 . . . Quiz Kid Joel Kupperman will do a second film for Republic Pictures—at $3,000 per week. His first for Universal got $2,000. The contract will eventually get him 5 Gs per.

In the early Summer of '41, the U. S. Army General Staff informed the State Dept. of the desperate state of U. S. preparedness. There were many conferences between Gen. Marshall and Asst. Sec'y of State Berle in the gravest possible time . . . Shortly after one of these meetings a Senator called upon Berle . . . "What possible excuse is there for selling gasoline to Japan?" he demanded . . . "Confidentially, Senator," said Mr. Berle, "the chips are down in the East. We're not selling gas now—we're buying time!"

To dry a pair of silk stockings without creases or pin marks, clip a couple of clothes pins to a towel rack, slip the stockings over them and spread the pins apart to stretch and spread the hose smoothly.

Hanging racks on cupboard doors are one solution to the need for additional storage space.

Shingle roofs should be kept well painted or stained as a protection against destruction by the elements and to insure against the developments of expensive and difficult-to-find leaks.

After yarn has been steamed for removing kinks, wind it on a cake rack. It is not only easier to handle that way, but can readily be hung on the line to dry.

Water spots can often be removed from polished furniture by rubbing lightly with turpentine applied on a soft cloth. Wipe dry and re wax.

Aluminum utensils can be cleaned by boiling vinegar water in them or cooking in them some acid food like tomatoes or rhubarb. They never should be scoured with gritty powders nor an attempt made to clean them with soda. The soda just makes matters worse and the gritty powders injure the utensils.

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, former feature editor of a North Carolina newspaper, has been inducted into the army and is spending his training period at Fort Bragg. If you're going into the army, Hargrove advises a pre-induction period of "painting the town red." Once you wear the khaki "keep an open mind," he says, "for the first three weeks are the hardest." Having failed to master some of the fundamentals of army life, Hargrove has spent considerable time on KP duty. He has been classified as a cook. Thus he is fully familiar with the Company kitchen. Also a period of field maneuvers have made him familiar with sunburn. He is now undergoing treatment for this.

doesn't come up to standard in drill. We attend class for two hours and there's no foolishness there.

After lunch, we report to our kitchens, where we work until seven o'clock, taking our trade practically, taking part in the preparation of food for over two hundred hungry and fastidious soldiers. The next morning finds us in our kitchen at three or four o'clock and we stay there until one. We're supposed to have the afternoon off—unless there's something that has to be done in the line of battery duty.

When we leave those kitchens for the afternoon, we go back to our barracks for rest and sleep, which we need badly after the twenty-four-hour shift at huge coal-burning stoves. Reading is a popular diversion during the time, unless you pick up a magazine which tells you what slackers you are because you aren't like the author was in the Real War.

There's a different type of article that is equally nauseating. It tells of the poor little soldier boys, who give up everything to go into training thousands of miles from mother's lap and who will have to spend their time leaning against urban lampposts—because nothing is being done for their morale.

You're talking about entertainment, Gertrude—not morale. In the matter of entertainment, there's plenty of that to be found, even if it isn't like being back home toasting marshmallows with Her. There's so much being done here for entertainment that you can't get halfway to the Service Club without being drafted for a battery show or a volleyball game.

Morale is the spirit that gets you when you're out on the regimental parade ground with the whole battalion for retreat parade. Every mother's son there wants to look as much the soldier as the Old Man does. Not another sound can be heard before or after the one-gun salute to the colors or when the band crosses the field to a stirring march in the Display of the Colors. And when your battery passes in review before the colonel, you're firmly convinced that there isn't another battery on the field that makes as good a showing as your battery.

It's the enormous feeling you know when you sit in pitch dark before a pup tent in the field and terly cursed man's best friend, the horse. Two soldiers who shared a single pitchfork at the next truck spent all their time discussing the comparative beauties of the music of Liszt and Tchaikovsky, proving that art endures forever even in an alien atmosphere.

As for myself, I gloried in the honor of the tradition I was helping to carry out. My mind drew pictures of the philosopher Ward Beecher Threft, who boasts that he carried a pitchfork through the heat of the fiercest battles throughout the last war.

We made three trips to the cavalry barnyard before we had finished enriching the earth about the orderly room, the mess hall, and the four barracks of Battery A. We bathed vigorously and dressed for early dinner.

The mess sergeant met us at the door. He sniffed the air delicately and quietly closed the door in our faces. Then he made the rounds, closing the windows nearest us. "Gitt!" he said.

We went back to the barracks, where we found our comrades returned from the classroom. We sat down on our foot lockers and strove to remain as inconspicuous as possible. Private Sher was the first to speak.

"Do you smell something?" Private Sher asked with unaccustomed rudeness. Everyone, it seemed, smelled something. It was not, they decided, Chanel Number Five. It was not My Sin or Evening in Paris. One of the citizen-soldiers, who had once worked in the stockyards, knew what it was.

When the hunt came nearer, Privates McGlauffin, Roff, and I arose and quietly left the squadroom and quietly sat by the newly invigorated grass borders outside.

Maybe I spoke too soon when I denied the sissiness charges by magazine writers. It must be admitted, after yesterday's horrible disclosure, that some termite is boring from within us. Some force is sapping the rugged manliness of Battery A.

Here's what happened at supper yesterday evening. First of all, when we neared the end of the chow line, we found one of the cooks there, scooping ice cream out of a can. We are meat-and-potato men in Battery A and generally we do not take to such frilly finaciness as ice cream, although we occasionally humor the mess sergeant by letting him buy it in ready-cut blocks.

This time, we found, he had gone too far. Our leniency and intolerance in letting him buy ice cream had gone to his head. Now he was making it at home—in the respectable kitchen of Battery A! Home-made pineapple ice cream!

I didn't say anything about it. I thought that perhaps he was merely going through his second childhood, and second childhood is something that every mess sergeant must be permitted to go through once. Realizing this, we boys hadn't said anything when our mess sergeant had air-conditioning fans put in the kitchen windows to make nambypambies of the cooks and kapeeps. We hadn't said anything when he started keeping jam on the table at all meals.

We're going to have to say something now. The man is going absolutely mad. Not content with springing homemade ice cream on us, he had to heap more coals on the fire of our impatience at the same meal.

There on each table in our mess hall, brazenly placed in the very cen-watch the Fort's searchlight cut the sky. It's the feeling you know when you can look across a great space and see long lines of Army trucks moving along every road you can see.

That's the morale. Just a matter of pride.

The good earth on which Fort Bragg is situated is laden with tradition, ghosts of the glorious past, the old culture—and little else. Beautiful as it may be for purposes of military training, it has little interest in helping the little green things to grow. Grass and flowers, planted with loving care in the Sandhills dust, fade but too soon if left to shift for themselves. To nourish such vegetation, the cavalry units furnish the more aesthetic batteries with certain surplus commodities.

Private McGlauffin, Roff, and I had spent the better part of the morning with Corporal Cleveland James Farmer, heaving and hauling coal in preparation for the long hard winter, when the top sergeant decided that the borders around the barracks should be given their autumn tonic. We piled back into our truck and sped away to the haunts of the hoss cavalry.

We knew, after a few miles of riding, that we were nearing the cavalry territory. There was a certain unmistakable quality about the atmosphere. Something New Had Been Added.

The hoss cavalry, it must be said, takes great pains with the care and distribution of its vitamin deposits. As far as the eye can see the eye can see orderly, cubical mounds covered with straw and earth. None but the most deserving criminal offenders—men who have earned their letter ("P" for "prisoner") are permitted to serve in the maintenance division of this essential agricultural enterprise.

We three—McGlauffin, Roff, and I—stood high on the crest of a hill, loading the truck with its precious cargo, commenting on the invigorating quality of the air, and pausing ever and anon to lean on our pitchforks and listen to the conversation of other workers about us.

Some there were who could not see the importance of the service they were rendering; others spoke disparagingly of the place and bitter, was a shiny container filled with paper napkins! Until something is done about the thing, this mess sergeant will go hog-wild. At his present rate, we'll find toothpicks on the table next week, salad forks the week after that, finger bowls before November.

This will go on indefinitely until his brain is completely destroyed by this madness. Then he'll start planning to surprise us with waitresses dressed in field-artillery red.

When this happens, I shall try to volunteer for the parachute troops. No matter how homey they make the Service Clubs, no matter how carefully they plan the movie programs, no matter how hard they work on athletic schedules, they'll never be able to compete with a soldier's favorite evening recreation—sitting on the back steps, shooting the breeze.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for November 14

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE SANCTITY OF THE HOME

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-30; Mark 10:2-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God.—Matthew 5:8.

As the divinely appointed center of man's life, the home holds a place of such importance that it is the special target of Satan's offensive. That has always been true, but it seems that in recent years the onslaught against the home has been intensified.

Books, plays, movies, magazines, all contribute their filthy efforts to break down all sense of moral responsibility. Sex is magnified, and not in any useful or normal sense, but rather for the stimulating of unhealthy desires and purposes, the breaking down of Christian standards of living, and the ultimate prostitution of the most sacred of all human relationships to the lowest level of which animals might well be ashamed.

All this means that this lesson should be taught with a holy boldness and plainness which will make it effective for God in our homes.

We do not like to talk about adultery and related sins. We must speak with care and tact, but perhaps the time has come for some straightforward dealing with an unpleasant situation.

I. Protect the Purity of the Home (Exod. 20:14; Matt. 5:27-30).

Any violation of the divine plan for the marriage of one man and one woman, in loving communion for the founding and maintenance of the home, is a direct violation of the law of God.

It is also a violation of the law of man. It brings serious results in the destruction of the home, and in the ruin of individual life—physical, moral, and spiritual.

The words of Jesus broaden the interpretation of the commandment to cover all sexual impurity in thought, word, or deed.

We are to be firm and definite in our dealing with this temptation to moral uncleanness even though it be as painful as tearing out an eye or losing a hand. The command here is not necessarily to be interpreted literally. Tearing out an eye will not help if there is lust in the heart. The point is, go to the root of the matter, and get rid of it even if it hurts. Most of us are far too easy on our sinful impulses. We daily with them when we should destroy them.

II. Recognize Marriage as a Divine Institution (Mark 10:2-8).

The Pharisees, who had devised some ingenious schemes for getting rid of an undesired wife, wanted to get Jesus involved in the question. They put him up against Moses who had allowed divorce.

Jesus made it clear that this was not in accord with God's plan and only took place because of their sinful hardness of heart.

As a proper background for the discussion of divorce He set up the divine origin of marriage. He made it clear that marriage was ordained by God, and that it involves a holy union of two individuals which makes them one.

All those who look forward to marriage should realize that it is not a casual thing, or a merely temporary legal contract. It is a union for life—be it for better or worse, in sickness or health, in prosperity or adversity. All who are married should highly regard their sacred vows.

The high place of marriage in Christian teaching dignifies that relationship and denies the misleading and destructive theories of men.

III. Follow God's Law on Divorce (Mark 10:9-12).

Failure to observe God's law in these matters may involve a person in the guilt of gross sin. This passage and others teach that divorce is to be permitted on the one ground of adultery (Matt. 5:32).

Divorce and remarriage other than on grounds permitted by God involves the parties in the sin of adultery. Men may make laws based on the civil contract of marriage which provide differently, but man cannot remove marriage from its place as a divine institution, nor can he add to or take away from God's law concerning it.

Aware, as we are, of the laxness of some branches of the church in such matters, and the almost entire lack of standards in the world, we cannot but present the plain teachings of our Lord and urge every reader to follow the commandment of God's Word.

There can be no question that divorce is a major evil in our day. Statistics are positively shocking, but they are cold and quickly forgotten. But who can fail to see, and who can forget, the awful we brought into American home life by divorce.

Bad as it is, the awful effect on parents is nothing compared to the nervous, moral and spiritual shock which comes to children in broken homes. And that problem is everywhere.

That Should Be Fast Enough to Suit Anyone

An excited woman stalked into the dry goods store and threw a faded apron upon the counter. "Look at this!" she cried. "Just look at this!"

"I am looking at it," said the young lady behind the counter. "What about it?"

"What about it?" shouted the woman, "what about it? Why when you sold me that apron you said that its color was fast. And what happened? Why the color came out at the very first washing!"

The girl looked at the woman in surprise. "Well," she remarked, "that certainly was fast!"
