YOUR Independent AGENT
"SERVES YOU FIRST"

The Big Difference between a man who displays this seal and an insurance company salesman might mean hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars in your pocket

As an independent insurance agent, he represents not one but several insurance companies. He is thus free to choose the best car, home, or business insurance for you, to make sure you are paid both promptly and fairly when you have a loss. On the other hand, the services of an insurance company salesman usually end when he has sold you the policy which his particular company offers. As independent insurance agents, we are ready to give you continuing, personal attention—the Big Difference in insurance today. Look for our Big "I" Seal ... call on us for the facts about complete insurance protection.

HOSPITALS AND YOU

By Alfred Barnow, Administrator, Haskell County Hospital

Practically all hospitals have scheduled visiting hours. Yours would be an exception because your hospital operates with the primary thought in mind of giving its patients complete rest and the best possible care to speed recovery.

Can you remember when you were a patient—how badly you wanted to catch "just a visit" after the routine rounds and services had been performed, only to find sleep impossible because some well-meaning visitor lingered at the end?

Hospital visiting hours are scheduled to allow time for the patient's doctor to make his rounds, for prescribed treatments to be given for the patient's care to change the dress and about his room and to serve his meals. Following these routine and necessary procedures, the patient's time for rest and recuperation.

Rest is essential to the patient's recovery. Well-meaning friends and families can unknowingly retard the patient's recovery by disregard of scheduled visiting hours.

You have often heard your own family doctor say as he examines his examination at 10:00 bedside, "And get lots of sleep and rest." He knows the value of sleep and rest to his sick patient.

"No Visitor" signs on the patient's door are not put there to keep you out. They are placed there because the doctor has warned that his patient needs all the sleep and rest he can get. Usually this "No Visitor" request is the desire of the patient. In any event, this sign should be respected.

We feel that visitors are fine in small doses. While you are a patient, the hospital is your home and your visitors are welcome—but not too many and not too often, and certainly not at all if your doctor advises against having visitors. The effort you expend to entertain

THEY DESERVE BETTER

Last fall's elections may have indicated that the country is weary of high living, high spending government. For a time, there was talk of economy in non-defense spending. That seems to have been forgotten. Federal spending programs for the year ahead now range somewhere around an estimated $135 billion. Officially, the deficit is estimated at some $8 and $9 billion. Unofficial estimates run much higher. No one really knows.

Instead of a curb on non-essential outgo, a tax increase is proposed along with ever-higher spending at a time when many economists see a definite downturn in areas of private activity. All of these signs of extravagance in affairs of government might be a little less intolerable except for the fact that in a sense we are betraying those who are carrying the brunt of the burden in Viet Nam.

In the words of a leading oil company president, "The men in the front lines of Viet Nam are entitled to come home to something other than additional debt." It is entirely possible that these men will win the war while we at home lose the peace.

Seems Like Poor Substitute

There has been much discussion lately of the mental health needs, not only of our adult population, but of our so-called teenagers.

The theory is advanced that the teen-agers do not exist in nature; that they are physically mature but economically and socially immature; in the old days, they were turned out on their own and did not feel subject to family regimentation.

Whether this feeling of lack of identification or responsibility leads youngsters to show resentment in order to build status and independence is now a question. Whether mental hospital and psychiatric treatment are the answer is another question.

Somewhere along the line our schools, colleges and parents should shoulder the job of showing young people that they have very definite responsibilities and are identified with every phase of family life and government. They can be shown that on them rests the responsibilities for their own and the nation's future. In their far-ranging activities, it looks as if parents and schools have neglected the basic task of providing our youngsters with an understanding of the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

The Good Earth

By Mrs. B. F. Cobb

Spring came in like a soft petal flower. We awoke to the song of a red cardinal and a mocking bird. Each gentle whistle of the wind sang spring has come.

Redbuds are blooming all over town. Thrift (creeping Phlox) that lovely pink border plant is a bank of color in many gardens throughout town. Photinia trees put on their gayest red and green leaves for the Easter Parade. Iris are beginning to show their pretty faces in several yards.

I paid a visit to the nursery today and was so enchanted by the row after row of brightly-colored Hydrangea Easter lilies and chrysanthemums. I hated to leave. As I took in bench after bench of bedding plants I could hardly keep from buying some of each kind of flower.

Mrs. O. W. Cox reserved petunias in colors of purple, red and white. Do drive by her yard this summer; she always has something new and different to make her yard very interesting and attractive.

We have several mulberry trees around the place and all those in the back are white fruited. The one that covers three-fourths of the yard has purple berries. The tree is loaded with blossoms. How I hope the fruit fails to make. If the berries should ripen I will entertain my company in the kitchen or at least greet them at the back door, for I am sure no one would enjoy wading through squishy berries.

Birds really enjoy eating mulberries. We have one tree in the back that is everbearing. We had full grown berries, middle-size berries and tiny ones all on the tree at the same time.

Many have called me about aphids on their roses. I still prefer blackleaf 40 sprayed in soap suds. Blackleaf 40 not only acts as an insecticide it repels dogs. They hate the odor. It is like getting double your money's worth. Aphids that attract roses are usually green but sometimes the brown variety takes a liking to roses also. There will be hundreds of the tiny creeping insects up and down the stems under the buds and often buds are completely covered. They literally suck the life out of roses.

Haskell Garden Club plans on taking a field trip to see the Chandler Gardens of Weatherford. Weather permitting we leave Saturday morning, April 8th.

CARROLL THOMPSON, SERIOUSLY ILL, VISITED BY CHILDREN

Mrs. Sybil Miller of Loveland, Colorado, arrived the latter part of last week to be with her father, Carroll Thompson, who is seriously ill in the Haskell County Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson of Abilene have also been here a number of times this week to be with Mr. Thompson's father.

THIS WEEK'S SERMONETTE

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
Rev. J. V. Patterson, Pastor

A REFLECTION OF LOVE

"How do you know that Christ is risen?" someone asked an old fisherman whose faith in Jesus seemed very simple and sure. "Do you see those cottages near the cliff?" he replied. "Well, sometimes, when I am far out at sea, I know that the sun is risen by the reflection in those windows. How do I know that Christ is risen? Because I see His light reflected from the faces of some of my fellows every day, and because I feel the light of his glory in my own life."

It was through Jesus that we saw reflected the love of God for each of us. The days following the resurrection were days of uncertainty for the disciples until they realized the significance of the living Christ in their lives. They became a reflected light as the light and love of Christ shined in their lives. No one can be more dedicated than that little group of disciples whose hearts had been filled with the Holy Spirit. It meant for them a changed life. It also means for us a changed life when there is complete dedication. James in his letter points out that real, spiritual wisdom means humility, not rivalry.

"The wisdom that comes from God is first utterly pure, then peace-loving, gentle, approachable, full of tolerant thoughts and kindly actions, with no breath of favoritism or hint of hypocrisy. And the wise are peacemakers who go quietly sowing for a harvest of righteousness—in other people and in themselves." James 3:17-18.
