What An Army Really Travels On

The second year of shoe rationing has gone by and still most Americans are well shod, in spite of fears as they sat around their radios on that February afternoon listening to the announcement that each person would be rationed to three pairs in 1943. Little did they know that two years hence they would be getting along on almost half that number.

Fortunately, the beginning of rationing found the shoe industry with well stocked shelves and little cause for worry. However, time passed, military needs for leather increased, civilian production decreased; and today shoe manufacturers are in a quandry over the immediate future.

It is interesting to note the sharp increase of an estimated 65,000,000 pairs of shoes required by the armed forces for 1945 over the previous two years with 47,000,000 pairs for 1943 and 48,000,000 for 1944. This, of course, will be reflected in decreased production of civilian footwear, and it has been estimated that Mr. and Mrs. Doaks and their children will have almost 30,000,000 fewer pairs of leather shoes this year.

The shoe industry will attempt to relieve the shortage as well as possible with a large supply of unrationed shoes as it has done in the past, but an application of ol' shinola to the closet's present supply will be necessary to extend their wearing time as long as possible. So, shine 'm up; they'll last much longer that way.

military service of this war. There has been wide-spread comment concerning it, due to the lack of distinction of the pin, the size argued as being over-looked by those who make remarks of the lack of patriotism of the boy out of uniform. The fact remains, the pin still stays as a decoration of valor. It seems that the main difficulty is that few civilians recognize the pin when they do see it, whatever its size. Perhaps many of us in Burk Burnett are not acquainted with it. That button is a badge of merit, the wearer honorably has served this country and has now returned to civilian life. If we would take enough time and thought to find out what it looks like, what it represents, there probably wouldn't even arise the question of making a change.

programs built around cotton in 1945, says the War Cotton Production Committee of Texas.

Actual farm experience is the best guide to future programs, the Committee adds, and the following reports to the Texas State Soil Conservation Board are representative of the experience of thousands of Texas farmers proving that conservation practices pay cotton growers.

Roy Garland, Red River County obtained 260 pounds more lint cotton per acre where he turned under vetch, a soil improving crop, than where no vetch was turned under.

"My lint cotton yield has increased, when I planted cotton year after year on the same land, to 293 pounds per acre when I used peas in a cotton rotation and followed a planned conservation crop rotation," said Laissner Port, Atascosa County.

W. O. Lockwood, Crosby County, estimates that his terraces were responsible for an extra $1,000 worth of cotton in 1944. The terraces cost about $500.

David Weigan, in the Hay-Caldwell-Travis conservation district, reported one-half bale of cotton per acre on cotton planted on hubam clover land, compared with one-third bale of cotton planted on corn land.

"By using vetch as a green manure crop and by plowing under my crop residues, I have more than doubled my yields of cotton and corn per acre," commented S. W. Mandeville of the Freestone-Leon district.

Symptoms Of Scarlet Fever

There were 3686 cases of scarlet fever reported in Texas during the year 1944 according to statistics just released by the Texas State Department of Health.

Describing some symptoms which may indicate the presence of this disease, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that when a child is coming down with scarlet fever the parents may first notice that he seems tired, restless, and out of sorts. Early definite signs are fever, sore throat, and vomiting. The skin is dry and hot to the touch. The tongue is furred and under this white coating red spots become visible within a few hours. The entire tongue gradually assumes a bright red color. If any of these symptoms appear, Dr. Cox said that scarlet fever should be suspected.

Some individuals, when attacked by the scarlet fever streptococci do not develop a rash because they are more or less immune to the rash producing toxin. Cases of scarlet fever in which the rash is missing are often confused with other illnesses, particularly sore throat, tonsillitis, or an acute cold. However, scarlet fever without the rash is just as contagious as scarlet fever with a rash, the State Health Officer declared. In the former case the danger is something not recognized and in that event quite likely nothing is done to keep the infection from spreading to other individuals.

"Call your doctor at once when the first definite symptoms appear or when the child develops a cold or sore throat after known exposure," Dr. Cox urged. Follow the physician's instructions as to food, treatment, and general care. Skilled nursing is essential to the patient's recovery.

Scarlet fever is reportable and quarantinable in Texas. Report any known cases to the health department. Cooperation in this respect is a community responsibility which will help to protect the health of children and reduce the incidence of this dangerous disease.

Turn Your Tin Cans Into Handy Footstool

THE "sitting room" of two generations ago was cozy and planned for use. Not the least of its comforts were the late footstools to be used with the most frequent chairs. These were covered with bright carpet or other heavy material and, if you examined them, you found that inside there were cans filled with sand for weight and then bound together and padded.

Such a stool cost not a cent. Nor did it require any carpenter work. Mother or the girls could put one together in no time from things on hand and there it was ready for years of service. You can do the same. The diagrams in this sketch show exactly how to go about it.

NOTE—This footstool is from BOOK 3 of the series offered with these articles. This book also contains more than 30 other things to make for your home from odds and ends plus inexpensive new materials. Booklets are 15 cents each postpaid and requests should be sent to:

B-29 Raids on Japan Prove No Easy Task for Crews

Many Perils Confront Fliers On Long Trip Back to Base

By Ernie Pyle

IN THE MARIANAS ISLANDS—When you see a headline saying "Superforts Blast Japan Again," I hope you don't get the idea that Japan is being blown sky high and that she'll be bombed out of the war within another week or two.

Because that isn't the case. We are just barely starting on a program of bombing that will be long and tough. Even with heavy and constant bombings it would take years to reduce Japan by bombing alone. And our bombings are not yet heavy.

Ernie Pyle

Too, we have lots of things to contend with. Distance is the main thing, and Jap fighters and ack-ack and foul weather are other things. The weather over Japan is their best defense. As one pilot jokingly suggested, "The Nips should broadcast us the weather every night, and save both themselves and us lots of trouble."

Almost the first thing the B-29 boys asked me was, "Do the people at home think the B-29s are going to win the war?"

I told them the papers played up the raids, and that many wishful thinking people felt the bombings might turn the trick. And the boys said: "That's what we were afraid of. Naturally we want what credit we deserve, but our raids certainly aren't going to win the war."

The B-29 raids are important, just as every island taken and every ship sunk is important. But in their present strength it would be putting them clear out of proportion if you think they are a dominant factor in our Pacific war.

I say this not to belittle the B-29 boys, because they are wonderful. I say it because they themselves want it understood by the folks at home.

Return Flights Give Boys the Woollies

Their lot is a tough one. The worst part is that they're over water every inch of the way to Japan, every inch of the way back. And brother, it's a lot of water. The average time for one of their missions is more than 14 hours.

The flak and fighters over Japan are bad enough, but that tense period is fairly short. They are over the empire only from 20 minutes to an hour, depending on their target. Jap fighters follow them only about 15 minutes off the coast.

What gives the boys the woollies is "sweating out" those six or seven hours of ocean beneath them on the way back. To make it worse, it's usually at night.

Some of them are bound to be shot up, and just staggering along. There's always the danger of running out of gas, from many forms of overconsumption. If you've got one engine gone, others are liable to quit.

If anything happens, you go into the ocean. That is known as "ditching." I suppose another B-29 base you hear the word "ditching" almost more than any other word.

"Ditching" out here isn't like "ditching" in the English channel, where your chances of being picked up are awfully good. "Ditching" out here is usually fatal.

We have set up a search and rescue system for these "ditched" fliers but still the ocean is awfully big, and it's mighty hard to find a couple of little rubber boats. The fact that we do rescue about a fifth of our "ditched" fliers is amazing to me.

Yes, that long drag back home after the bombing is a definite mental hazard, and is what eventually makes the boys sit and stare.

Maybe you've heard of the "buddy system" in the infantry. They use it in the B-29s too. For instance, if a plane is in distress on the way back and has to fall behind, somebody drops back with him to keep him company.

They've known planes to come clear home accompanied by a "buddy," and you could go so far as to say some might not have made it were it not for that extra courage given them by having company.

But the big point of the "buddy system" is that if a plane does have to ditch, the "buddy" can fix his exact position and get surface rescuers on the way.

The other morning after a mission, my friend Maj. Gerald Robertson was lying in his cot resting and reminiscing, and he said:

"You feel so damn helpless when the others get in trouble. The air will be full of radio calls from those guys saying they've only got two engines or they're running short on gas."

"I've been lucky and there I'll be sitting with four engines and a thousand gallons extra of gas. I could spare any of them one engine and 500 gallons of gas if I could just get it to them. It makes you feel so damn helpless."

It's Hard to Figure Japs Out

Soldiers and marines have told me stories by the dozen about how tough the Japs are, yet how dumb they are; how illogical and yet how uncannily smart at times; how easy to rout when disorganized, yet how brave.

I've become more confused with each story. At the end of one evening, I said, "I can't make head nor tail out of what you've told me. I'm trying to learn about the Jap soldiers, but everything you say about them seems to be inconsistent."

"That's the answer," my friends said. "They are inconsistent. They do the damndest things. But they're dangerous fighters just the same."

They tell one story about a Jap officer and six men who were surrounded on a beach by a small bunch of marines.

As the marines approached, they could see the Jap giving emphatic orders to his men, and then all six bent over and the officer went along the line and chopped off their heads with his sword.

Then as the marines closed in, he stood knee-deep in the surf and beat his bloody sword against the water in a fierce gesture of defiance, just before they shot him.

What code led the officer to kill his own men rather than let them fight to the death is something only another Jap would know.

Another little story—a marine sentry walking up and down before a command post on top of a steep bluff one night heard a noise in the brush on the hillside below.

He called a couple of times, got no answer, then fired an exploratory shot down into the darkness. In a moment there was a loud explosion from below. A solitary Jap hiding down there had put a hand grenade to his chest.

Why he did that, instead of tossing it up over the bluff and getting himself a half dozen Americans is beyond an American's comprehension.

On Saipan, they tell of a Jap plane that appeared overhead one bright noonday, all alone. He obviously wasn't a photographic plane, and they couldn't figure out what he was doing.

Then something came out of the plane, and fluttered down. It was a little paper wreath, with a long streamer to it. He had flown it all the way from Japan, and dropped it "In Honor of Japan's Glorious Dead" on Saipan.

We shot him down into the sea a few minutes later, as he undoubtedly knew we would before he ever left Japan. The gesture is touching—but so what?

As I've talked with marines, I've begun to get over that creepy feeling that fighting Japs is like fighting snakes or ghosts. They are indeed queer, but they are people with certain tactics and now by much experience our men have learned how to fight them.

As far as I can see, our men are no more afraid of the Japs than they are of the Germans. They are afraid of them as any modern soldier is afraid of his foe, not because they are slippery or rathlike, but simply because they have weapons and fire them like good tough soldiers. And the Japs are human enough to be afraid of us in exactly the same way.

Some of our people over here think that, in the long run, the Japs won't take the beating the Germans have. Others think they will, and even more.

Ernie Finds It's a Small World, After All

The B-29 squadron that my nephew is with is commanded by Lt. Col. John H. Griffith of Plymouth, Pa. He walked into our Quonset hut the first night I was here and we grinned sort of knowing-like as we grinned sort of knowing-like as we were introduced. I felt our paths crossed somewhere in the dim past, but I couldn't recall it.

Finally he said, "Remember the Ringitiki?"

"Oh for God's sake, of course," I said. The Ringitiki was the ship that took us from England to Africa in the fall of 1942. Colonel Griffith was in a nearby cabin on that trip and we became well acquainted. But the war is big and time flies, and you do forget.

Colonel Griffith has also flown combat missions both out of England and Africa.

Household Hints

When drying a hairbrush, put the bristle-side down. If bristles point upward, water will drain onto wood block holding the bristles, in time causing it to split.

After washing your window sills, wax them. They can then be kept clean for a long time by just dusting them with a cloth.

Blow dirt from the windings of an electric motor with the tire pump or vacuum cleaner. A wet cleaning job will bring trouble.

Cut the cover for the ironing board on the bias and there will be no trouble with wrinkles.

Be careful in the use of your electric cords so wires will not be exposed, or let the two bundles of wires touch each other. When removing cords, handle carefully, rather than twisting or yanking them. Keep all cords dry. Do not fasten to baseboards with staples or nails.

Cover scratches on dark furniture by touching with iodine. When dry, polish.

For Years Kreisler Played Own Music as Another's

Fritz Kreisler achieved much of his fame as a violin virtuoso by playing, among others, his own many compositions which he claimed were unknown works of minor masters long dead, says Collier's.

Kreisler started this practice in his early days of concert work through the fear that he would not become popular if the public knew his repertoire consisted largely of his own music; and he carried on the artifice for 30 years before confessing in 1935.

Christian Science Services

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientists on Sunday, March 11. The Golden Text is: "Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them Ye shall be holy: for I the Lord your God am holy" (Leviticus 19:2.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let Israel rejoice in him that made him" (Psalms 149:2.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man reflects infinite Truth, Life, and Love. The nature of man, thus understood, includes all that is implied by the terms 'image' and 'likeness' as used in Scripture" (page 94.)

Youth Choir Party Big Success

A total of 35 enjoyed the Youth Choir party, held at the home of Mr. Guy England, located at the West edge of Burk Burnett. The Youth Choir was organized by the First Baptist Church, and directed by Pvt. Oren L. Sutter.

The choir was a weekly rehearsal each Monday evening, 7:30 to 8:30. Every other Sunday the choir occupies the choir platform at the regular Sunday evening service and presents special musical numbers. Once each month they have a "Fun Social" the first of which was held in the basement Auditorium of the church with 20 members present. A marked improvement of the total membership was very obvious at the Fun Social No. 2, held in the England home, this past Monday night, with 35 present to enjoy games, stunts, song fest and refreshments. Betty Jo Barnett was director of games and Pvt. Sutter led the group in singing a few "Smile and Sing" songs. With weather permitting, the next month's Fun Social according to Pvt. Sutter will be a hike and Weiner roast.

A most cordial invitation by the Pastor, Rev. A. E. Harrison, the director, Pvt. Sutter and the entire choir, is extended to every one between the ages of 13 and 25, who do not attend Church elsewhere, to join the Youth Choir of the 1st Baptist Church.

First Baptist Church Announcements

Sunday School, 9:45.
Preaching Services, 11.
Training Union, 7.
Peraching Services, 8.
With the Spring just around the corner we should begin to increase our attendance in every service.
With our Sunday School running over the 300 mark during the winter months we should reach up toward the 400 mark now with pretty spring weather.
Two Important Dates to Remember:
March 25th is the day set aside for our offering for Truett-Scarborough memorial building, to be built on the Seminary Hill. Our church should make a very worthy offering for this, since these two outstanding leaders for almost a half a century, have given their very best for the work of Texas.
The other important date is our revival—April 29th, thru May 13th. Rev. C. Y. Dossey, of Port Arthur will do the preaching and we are praying for a great revival.
Have you found your place in the Sunday School and the preaching services, the Training Union and again at night? Remember you are the loser when you fail to be in the services each Sunday. Thrice welcome.
Pastor.

Ray C. Morrow, pastor.

BAPTIST HOUR RADIO SPEAKER
Dr. Duke K. McCall, President of the B. B. I. and one of the youngest presidents ever to assume such a responsibility.
His subject is, "Christ's Building a Better World"—Sunday morning, March 18th, at 7:30. Hear Ye Him.
Mrs. Dutch George of Iowa Park visited her mother, Mrs. J. M. Goins, Sunday.

Calvary Baptist Church

Sunday School begins at ten a. m. with all classes studying the tenth chapter of Acts—"The Vision That Opened The Door to the Gentiles and Enlarged the Territory of the Witnesses." Bring your Bible and study with us. The Bible is our only text book.
Preaching at eleven o'clock. Sermon subject by the pastor, "The Prayer that God Answers." Evening services begin at 7 o'clock, with the young people meeting for their devotional and Bible study under the direction of Oscar McBride. Doris Bratten is the president of the young people's group.
Sermon at eight o'clock by the pastor. Subject, "God's All Consuming Fires Which Finally End In the Lake of Fire." In this day of compromising on the Word of God, the world needs to be called back to the fact that, who-soever plays in the fire shall be burned. We have A God in heaven who knows how to love, but also knows how to hate sin and to punish sin.
You always have a warm-hearted welcome at Calvary Baptist Church, the Church with an open Bible and a warm hand shake for all.
Ray C. Morrow, pastor.

Lutheran Church Announcements
The first morning service of the newly organized Grace Lutheran Church will be held Sunday, beginning at eleven o'clock. The service will be held at Town Hall. The subject of the sermon, a Lenten topic, will be "Man's True Condition by Nature and His Only Hope."
Evening services will be held at Town Hall, beginning at 8 p. m. The sermon topic will be "Jesus and the Novelty Seeker, Herod."
Sunday school will be conducted at the usual hour, 9:45 a. m. Come and bring the children.
With a full program of activities starting next Sunday, the attendance and interest should be in evidence in a large and impressive manner.
Come and be enriched through the study and meditation of God's word.
Our Motto: "A Changeless Christ for a Changing World."
Grace Lutheran Church extends a warm welcome to all guests at its Bible study and preaching services.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS Germans Fight to Hold Vital Industrial Districts in West; F.D.R. Draws Pattern for Peace

EUROPE: Vital Areas

With Allied armies poised against both the vital Ruhr and Saar valleys, the Germans fought with their backs against the wall in a desperate effort to hold on to these industrial districts so important to their ability to continue the war.

Already heavily battered by aerial bombardment, the Ruhr and Saar faced the prospect of destructive artillery drum-fire, destined to lay their smoke-blackened cities and coal and iron-mining districts in gaunt ruins.

Offering only sporadic resistance to the rolling columns of U. S. and British troops west of the Rhine, the Germans beat a steady retreat back to the river, evidently intending to put up a strong stand behind the 1,300 to 3,270 foot wide waterway rather than in the rolling plains before it, where superior Allied armor could chew up their diminishing strength.

During the Nazis' withdrawal, fleets of Allied bombers roared over rear areas, not only smashing at hamper and rail lines in an effort to retard troop movements, but also hitting at armored formations concentrated behind the Rhine for a last ditch defense of the Ruhr. Full extent of the magnitude of the Allied aerial bombardment can be gathered from reports that British-based U. S. planes alone dropped 51,000 tons on Germany in February.

While falling back to the Rhine on the U. S. 9th and 1st and the British 2nd army fronts in the north, the Germans utilized the rugged Eifel and Hunsbruck mountain country at the northern rim of the Saar in an effort to slow up the U. S. 3rd army's smash to the south. In every way, the Germans, familiar from A to Z with the country, were making every attempt to use the terrain to meet the Allied threat with a minimum of manpower.

Slightly larger than the state of Delaware, the besieged Ruhr cradled 75 per cent of the enemy's war industry in 1942, with its great coal deposits, estimated at 90 per cent of Germany's reserves and half of continental Europe's, forming the basis for its manufacturing. Besides armaments, the Ruhr's 5,000,000 people produced steel, chemicals, pig iron, textiles, synthetic oil, high octane gas, rayon, drugs, plastics, dyes, bricks, glass and pottery.

Smaller than Rhode Island, the Saar also relied upon massive coal beds and iron deposits for the basis of its thriving industry, which produced steel, machinery, cement, plate glass, shoes, paper and textiles besides war goods.

Pocketed before by the Germans during the latter's great sweeps through Russia earlier in the war, wily Red generals were taking no chances on being nipped off all over again on the eastern front.

Although their forces had reached the Oder and Neisse rivers due east of Berlin on a broad front, the Red generals sought to minimize the possibilities of a German attack on their flanks far to the rear of the forward positions.

Holding up their fire on the central front until securing their flanks, the Reds exerted strong pressure against the Germans strung out along the Baltic coast immediately above the right wing of Zhukov's 1st White Russian army. To the south on the left wing of Konev's 1st Ukrainian army, the Reds guarded against the danger of a Nazi thrust from Upper Silesia, where the latter had set up strong lines to defend the industrial district and approaches to Czechoslovakia's Axis-worked war plants.

PACIFIC: Share Spotlight

Carrier pilots, marines and army men all shared the spotlight in the developing attacks aimed at smashing Jap outposts of the home islands to smoothen the road to Tokyo.

Unchallenged by the once-vaunted Nipponese imperial fleet, Vice Admiral Marc Mitscher's famed Task Force 58 continued to roam in the enemy's home waters, with his carrier planes, following up daring attacks on Tokyo, smashing at the Ryukyu islands flanking the sea route to the east.

Having overrun the southern half of Iwo Jima, battle-hardened marines pressed the remnants of 20,000 defenders into the northern part of the island, using flame throwers along with light arms to root the enemy from well-designed natural entrenchments.

In the Philippines, army men, having cleared Manila, fanned out to the north, east and south to clear resistance from the rest of Luzon, with heavy fighting still ahead.

WORLD PEACE: Pattern for U. S.

Once quoted as saying that scholarly Woodrow Wilson failed to secure U. S. entrance into the League of Nations because he was not a politician, Master Politician Franklin D. Roosevelt fired the first gun in the campaign to obtain approval for this country's participation in a postwar organization to preserve peace in an address to the nation and congress on the historic Yalta conference.

To assure the effectiveness of a postwar peace program, the President said U. S. collaboration must be two-fold:

First, this country must join in a world organization to suppress aggression, if necessary, by force.

Second, the U. S. must provide relief to alleviate suffering in the liberated states, and furnish credits for the reconstruction of their economy so that they might be able to resume full production and stand on their own.

"There can be no middle ground," declared the President. "We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict."

Aid French

In an agreement that might set the pattern for future arrangements, the U. S. granted the French a 2 1/2 billion dollar lend-lease credit to be paid within 30 years.

Under the agreement providing for shipment of over 1 1/2 billion dollars of raw materials, food, petroleum products and light manufacturing equipment, repayment would be in 30 annual installments of 2 per cent interest, while deliveries of almost 1 billion dollars of locomotives, freight cars, machinery for mines, industrial equipment, ships and barges would be made with a 20 per cent down payment and 30-year amortization of the remainder.

To maintain the present French army and double its strength of eight divisions, the U. S. agreed to continue lend-lease military supplies. In return, the French promised increased reciprocal aid.

Price Supports Aid British Farmers

Although British farmers now are being paid adequate prices for practically all the main food products to return a profit on the farm by the government, the present British policy is not assured after the war, it was reported.

British farmers enjoyed prosperity during World War I, but the repeal of price and wage guarantees in 1920 left the farmers without protection when prices for their products dropped, driving much land into use as pasture.

Improved Uniform International LESSON

Lesson for March 18

THE LAW OF LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 25:31-46. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Matthew 22:37-39.

Our lesson presents a great judgment scene—majestic, solemn, stirring. Many confuse it with the judgment of the Great White Throne in Revelation 20. But Matthew 25 is obviously the judgment of nations (v. 32) for their treatment of Christ's brethren (v. 40), a word referring primarily to Jews, but also spoken of in Matthew 12:48-50.

The lesson needs broader application, however, so we suggest that we allow the more general principles of judgment occupy our attention. We note that

I. Judgment Divides (vv. 31-33). The nations, coming before Christ when He shall have appeared in all His glory, shall find themselves separated into two groups on the basis of their treatment of the brethren of Christ.

The fact that God has drawn a line of division down through all humanity and that each one of us is on one side or the other is not a doctrine which finds ready acceptance with modern thinking, but it is nonetheless a fact.

No man established that division—God Himself did it, and did it in love. To some it may seem to be a hard saying, but it is not, for it comes from the lips of the gentle, loving Jesus.

It is because He loved us enough to give Himself for us that any of us find ourselves on the side of that dividing line which assures us of eternal joy and blessedness.

They who stand on the other side of the line do so because they have not accepted God's proffered salvation in Christ. Reader, where do you stand?

II. Judgment Declares (vv. 34-45). Our attitude toward God expresses itself in our attitude toward our fellow man. That which we do toward those about us is not a matter of indifference, but is the basis for God's judgment of our lives.

Each of us must answer for the deeds done in the flesh whether they be good or evil. That is true even of the believer (II Cor. 5:10), whose salvation has already been determined by his faith in Christ.

Here in our lesson, however, the failure to do that which shows forth God's law of love is made the ground of eternal judgment. This is not because an act of kindness itself can be regarded as the ground of division, but because the failure to give it or do it reflects an attitude of heart toward our God and His Christ, which is in reality a rejection of His way of salvation.

Judgment is thus a revelation of the attitude of the heart, which marks a man or woman as being either saved or lost. It may be possible to so becloud the thinking of our friends and neighbors that we may go through life looking something like a Christian, but when Christ judges, it will all be revealed to us.

Notice the importance of a proper attitude toward those who need our kindness and help. All too often the only concern of men and women is to look out for "number one" and let the rest of the world shift for itself.

Observe also that the Lord identifies Himself with His brethren—what is done to and for them is counted as done to and for Him. Compare the experience of Samuel (I Sam. 8:7) and of Paul (Acts 9:5). Touch God's people and you touch Him. Fail them and you fail Him. Serve them and you serve Him.

III. Judgment Determines (v. 46). Yes, God's judgment determines eternal destiny. Life eternal, or everlasting punishment, which shall it be? That is determined by God's final word of judgment, but remember that He judges in accordance with the attitude of heart and action of life on this side of the grave.

Now, for that matter, is a part of eternity, and it is consequently of great importance that we are right with both God and man now if we expect to be right throughout eternity.

We need to face this truth of judgment with complete candor and honest heart-searching. We agree with Dr. Douglass that "we must stand with awful concern before this solemn truth. Do not hesitate to teach this because it is contrary to the current of modern thinking or shocking to confront. It needs to be faced in a brave spirit of realism. (As a teacher) you will do your pupils a great disservice if you try to shield them from the grim implications of this truth."

Yes, and also if you keep from them the glorious prospect of eternal joy in the presence of God. The law of life is the law of love—love for God, and for Jesus Christ whom He hath sent to be our Redeemer, and love for His brethren. That law of love rules even in the day of judgment.

Violinist Suffered Pangs Of Torture for the While

During rehearsal, the conductor noticed that one of his first violins was not looking himself. He stopped and asked the man if he felt ill.

"No, sir, thanks; I'm all right," was the reply.

The rehearsal proceeded. Presently the violinist again caught the conductor's eye. "Smith," said, "are you sure you're well?"

"Yes, sir, really; I'm all right,"

But Smith seemed to grow pale. "Look here," said the conductor, "I really think you ought to go for some fresh air, you know."

"Don't worry about me, said Smith. 'I'm quite all right; only, I simply loathe music.'"
