Wilson Promoted

Malcolm Wilson Appointed Director of Advertising, Sales Promotion and Dealer Service For Ben E. Keith Co.

Of interest to the fresh fruits and vegetables industry of the southwest, and to the advertising profession, is the announcement by the Ben E. Keith Company of the appointment of Malcolm Wilson to the position of Director of Advertising, Sales Promotion and Dealer Service, succeeding the late Miss Trula Gorse, Advertising Manager. Mr. Wilson has been with the Ben E. Keith Company seven years as head of Display and Dealer Service Department, and is well known throughout the entire industry for his aggressive promotional work and artistic point-of-sale materials. His intimate knowledge of the needs of the Independent Retail Dealer in the way of sales help and cooperation singularly fit him for the over-all directing of this important phase of the company's business. The important position occupied by the Ben E. Keith Company in the Fruits and Vegetables Merchandising and Marketing picture has, in a large measure, been built up by its aggressive newspaper and radio advertising and merchandising policy and Mr. Wilson plans not only the continuation of this cooperative work with the dealers, but many extensions and improvements to this service. Special attention will be given to helping the dealer in the proper location of the fruits and vegetables department. Already recognized as "the largest distributor of fresh fruits and fresh vegetables in the southwest" the Ben E. Keith Company go on from here under the new promotional set-up to open more markets and better marketing. The concern maintains distributing centers in Fort Worth, Dallas, Longview, Abilene, Lubbock, and Wichita Falls.

When directors of the Chamber of Commerce met at Town Hall Monday night for their first meeting of the year, they were greeted by more than forty other men who had come to sit in on the meeting. This large gathering showed that interest in the Chamber of Commerce is on the increase. Buster Morgan, new president for the year, was gratified by this demonstration of faith in his leadership. Everyone present had an opportunity to speak. They were taken in order as they were seated about the hall and encouraged to advance ideas and suggestions for the organization to work on. No doubt many of the suggestions will be put to use this year. Many topics were discussed, such as soft ball for the summer, new residences, new business houses, a high school band, possibility of having rodeo entertainments, Harvest Festival, etc. President Morgan announced standing committees for the year and urged chairmen to make a report to him at least once each month. As progress is made newspaper reports will be made from time to time concerning the activities of the various committees. An effort is being made to bring employers and returned servicemen together, so that all servicemen who want to stay in Burkburnett may find employment. If you have a need for men or anticipate you will need extra help, contact the Chamber of Commerce office and inform Mr. Hill of your needs. Regular meeting nights for the Chamber of Commerce is each 2nd Monday night. Everybody is invited. Give this organization your support so that you may be proud of its accomplishments.

Valentine's Day

There is never quite enough of sweetness in this sorry old world. The fact is that in our day to day routine we are here concerned in putting the bread and margarine on the bread and trying to keep the coal bin filled, and so bypass the valentines for 'please remits'. Yet each year offers us one day to sentimentally proclaim our heart's praise of the one we love. None is so cold he disdains the simple verses of affection. That sweetheart of yours would thrill to a gift of flowers, candy, books, jewelry. The very thoughtful of Burkburnett don't wait until Feb. 14 to state their case each year but sprinkle kindness and sentiment throughout it.

What To Do When Fire Strikes

If you should awaken at night with the acrid fumes of smoke biting your nostrils and suddenly realize that your house was on fire, what would you do? Unless you know what to do, and it quickly, you and your family may die within the next few minutes. To avoid such tragedies, fire safety experts are promoting the adoption of fire drills in homes.

The detail of fire drills in individual families will vary widely with circumstances, but the following suggestions are helpful in the general planning: 1 Insure the safety of everyone in the building. 2 Turn in a fire alarm. 3 Fight the fire, if suitable fire extinguishing equipment is available.

After safety of occupants has been secured, the next step is to turn in the alarm, preferably at a fire alarm box. If an attempt is made to use extinguishing equipment, always remember to stand where there is a safe avenue of escape; maintain a position where smoke and flames will be blown away from you; clear the air in the room immediately after extinguishing the fire. The above suggestions may save your life someday—don't forget them.

HOT WATER SHOULD NEVER BE RATIONED

Seems a shame that in any household, hot water has to be rationed! And this condition could be so easily remedied, too, by a water heater adequate to meet the family's requirements.

To this housewife, and to all hot-water rationers, may we suggest an ADEQUATE GAS water heater? You don't buy one often . . . so be sure that the water heater you do buy will be large enough for all present and FUTURE needs.

Check your requirements on the "sizing chart," and if your water heater is inadequate, get a larger GAS water heater. Your dealer can supply one properly sized for your household needs.

Kathleen Norris Says: Dull Days Ahead for Many

"Even in peace times many a pretty wife discovers that early married life is a very serious business, and that most young husbands don't like to see their wives dancing."
By KATHLEEN NORRIS
IT'S ONE thing to be a war widow, and be bored and lonely for three years," writes Phoebe Cutter from Minneapolis, "but it's another thing to have your man come home, dissatisfied with everything, discouraged about everything, unwilling to make the slightest effort to rebuild the happiness we once had.

"Sam and I were married five years ago," the letter goes on. "I am not prettier than the average run of girls, but I am pretty. 27 now, and still loving to meet my friends, to plan good times, and to dance. It seems to me hard to think that all that is out of my life forever. I'm a good manager and housekeeper, and despite the fact that we have a daughter almost four, did part-time work during the war, and kept our financial head above water.
"Sam has his old job back, but he is dissatisfied with it. His old boss is dead, and a man Sam trained is boss, and making the most of it. When I ask him to break away he says he feels too old and tired to try for a change. He is 34, but seems much older than that. He talks of approaching inflation and depression, unemployment and hard times; he thinks I have spoiled Mopsy, and that she doesn't like him. Of course, if he will make no effort to win her affection, so small a girl is not likely to give it.
"Nothing Matters."
"During the war my mother lived with me. She is a trained nurse, and is now taking cases again. When he first returned she suggested that she leave us, but Sam protested, saying wearily to me later that it didn't matter how many persons lived with us. That is his general position; nothing matters. He drags quietly through days of uncongenial work, comes home to sit silently in the sitting-room until I say dinner is ready, doesn't read the papers much or listen to the radio. We have been once together to movies since he got home; then it was a war film, through which he trembled and muttered all the time. My heart is sick with pity for him, but I don't know what to do. I consulted a psychiatrist, telling him I thought Sam was a borderline case. He only laughed and said it would be years before they got through the genuine cases and came to the possible ones.
"and meanwhile men admire me, and want to take me places for dinner and dancing," the letter concludes, "and the best years of my life are going by, and I don't see anything ahead except housework, baby care, and the endless efforts to cheer Sam. What to do?"

Phoebe, my dear, I say in answer, this won't last. This is the slow convalescence from war fever that thousands—hundreds of thousands of men are suffering, and must endure for a while. To Sam civilian life, with its vagueness, its frivolities, its serene unconsciousness of what he has been going through, is stye-fying. He can't get used to it. He has been starved himself, in prison camp, for weary weeks and months, he has seen strong, courageous young men starve to death.
Trivialities Madden Him.
To see you concerned about new bedcovers, the cost of lamb chops, the fit of Mopsy's hat, rouses in him emotions of such anger and despair as almost wreck his reason. He knows the world is topsy-turvy, that the powers of good are temporarily helpless against the powers of greed, politics, stupidity that are ruling now.
But gradually, as order emerges from chaos all over the world, and here and there progress is seen, this nation and that struggling back to decent rule, to new ideals of statehood and citizenship, Sam will recover too. Your good times may have to wait for awhile, but they will come. Even in peacetimes many a pretty young wife discovers that early married life is a very serious business, and that most young husbands don't like to see their wives dancing. And this is post-war time. Sometime we'll learn that recovery from war is almost as bad as war itself. It isn't the men who die from a clean bullet wound who pay for the war, it's the others, like your Sam, who come home sickened with the waste and suffering of the camps, to find the old life equally bewildering and disappointing.
Take time to win him back. Make him important. Do the things he likes to do. Go off into the country with Mopsy for Sunday picnics, just you three. Read books—read some of the thousand books that are telling us, too late!—how this war might have been avoided. Discuss these books with him, and let him talk. With the right guidance he'll recover from all this, and the world will, meanwhile, carry your tiny speck of responsibility courageously, and make your corner of the world as bright as you can.

Diphtheria Unnecessary.
The deaths of approximately 1,000 American children annually from diphtheria are unnecessary and could be prevented by early administration of antitoxin in adequate doses, says the Journal of the American Medical Association.
The available methods for control of diphtheria are sufficient to allow the complete elimination of this disease in the United States. In 1943 the death rate from diphtheria at all ages fell below one per hundred thousand for the first time.

TRUE TO A GREAT HERITAGE

MEMORY TEXT: Deuteronomy 4:1, 32-40.
LESSON SELECTION: He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered.—Psalm 111:4.
A goodly heritage is the gift of God to his people. By faith they must enter into it and possess it. Thus they honor him who has promised, and they witness to all the earth that he is a great God and a loving heavenly Father. It magnifies his name to believe on his word and to act on his promises.
Israel, having failed God and plunged themselves into years of wandering by their unbelief when they just came up to the Promised Land, were now ready to go over Jordan and take the land.

A new generation had grown up, and for their instruction Moses rehearsed the history of the people, repeated the promises of God, and renewed their remembrance of his law. The book of Deuteronomy gives that "second law"—actually a review of what had been given before.

As they entered upon God's rich heritage for them they were admonished to:
I. Hearken to God's Law (v. 1).
To hearken means more than to hear and forget. It carries with it the giving of attention to what is heard with the purpose of doing something about it.
God's law, his statutes and judgments are for the good of his people. They are not designed to limit their freedom, but to provide the channels through which they shall be most free to live and to accomplish that which is good and noble and useful.
Two things were assured to Israel if they hearkened to the law of God. They would first of all "live." This does not mean only that they should escape death, but that they might enter into the fullness of life.

"The Bible teaches that we are free to choose between a high grade of life or a low grade, between a life which involves fellowship with God or a daily existence which means nothing more than the enjoyment of animal comforts and following our own willful ways" (Earl L. Douglass).
The second result of obeying God's law would be their going into and possessing the land which God gave them. There is victory and attainment, as well as blessed fellowship for the one who obeys God. That is true today as it was in the time of Moses.

II. Remember God's Love (vv. 32-36).
The loving mercies of God toward his people had revealed his infinite greatness and glory.
He revealed himself in the fire—and they might well have been consumed by it—yet he graciously spoke to them instead of destroying them. They were to recall, too, that he had done a mighty and wonderful thing in taking them out of the powerful hand of Egypt and making them into a people for his name.

Sad is the state of the soul of the man who has lost his sense of the miraculous. To live in the midst of the constant demonstration of God's power and his mercy, and to see and feel nothing but the commonplace touch of humdrum daily life, is to be blind and deaf—yes, to be dead spiritually.
Is he any less powerful today? Certainly not! He is still the God of the miraculous and nowhere is that divine energy more evident than in the spiritual life of man.
The wonders of God in creation were rehearsed for Israel. They learned of his care for his people. "But far more wonderful are the works of God in the new creation and his infinite care for his people redeemed from a ruined race, and made inheritors of eternal residence in the heavenly Canaan" (Hight C. Moore).

III. Depend on God's Promise (vv. 37-40).
The Promised Land was before them, but it was for them to go in and possess it. There were warfare and struggle ahead, mighty warlike peoples to overcome. Were they able for it? No, not in their own strength!

How were they to accomplish this formidable task? By counting on God. He had promised to drive out the nations now holding the land. He is a God not only in heaven, but also on earth (v. 39). The people who believe him may go forward expecting miracles to happen.
Obedience to God's law brings fellowship with the eternal and omnipotent One, and the confident assurance that he will bring victory and the full accomplishment of his will for the obedient believer.
That is as true now as ever. Yes, let's be accurate and say that it is more true than ever, for believers now are indwelt by the Holy Spirit of God who makes real in and through them all the grace and beauty and power of God.

AROUND THE HOUSE

When the family tires of the usual breakfast food, serve big bowls of freshly popped corn with milk or cream, and sugar. It is a swell change.

Book shelves should be cleaned and painted, and books frequently dusted, to prevent the breeding of moths, silverfish, or other book-devouring insects.

When laundering woollens, be sure to use plenty of soapsuds. It minimizes the rubbing, and therefore preserves the garment longer.

The dress you just bought will wear longer if you will take the trouble to secure dangling threads. Pull the thread ends to the inside and tie securely. Or, run them through a needle and fasten with a few over-and-over stitches.

To grow ivy in water, put in one teaspoon of liquid plant food to be quired. From time to time, as the water evaporates, add more of the each part of water used and let it alone. No changing of water is required. Feeding in proportion to the water added.

Landers-Butts Vows Read Saturday, Feb. 9th

The First Baptist Church was the scene of impressive nuptial rites performed to unite Miss Wilma Butts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Butts, and Russell Landers, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Landers. In the presence of relatives and close friends, the double ring vows were read by Rev. A. E. Harrison at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 9th.

The nuptial space was backgrounded with an arrangement of baskets of gladiolas, snapdragons and mums, in the center and on either side of an arch festooned with greenery. Especially effective was the soft illumination provided by white tapers burning in branched candelabra.

The musical setting was provided by Mrs. Dorothy Duke, pianist, and Miss Peggie Dot Busby, vocalist. Miss Busby gave "I Love Thee" and "Because," accompanied by Mrs. Duke, who played in addition to the traditional marches, the "5th Nocturne," "Of my heart at thy sweet voice" and gave a muted interpretation of "Liebestraum" during the ceremony.

Acting as ushers and candle lighters were, Hubert S. Butts, brother of the bride, and Harold Browning of Ft. Worth.

H. S. Butts gave his daughter in marriage. She made a striking picture in a street-length dress of white wool with brown accessories. She carried a white bible, topped with a bouquet of orchids from which showered streamers of white satin ribbons and carried out the tradition of "Something borrowed, something blue and a sixpence in her shoe."

She was attended by Miss Carol Lohofner, who chose a powder blue wool dress with accessories to harmonize and completed her costume with a corsage of pink roses.

Bill Barnes of Ft. Worth was best man for the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Burk Burnett high school and was attending Texas Tech at Lubbock at the time of her marriage.

The groom completed high school in Fort Worth and attended Vocational school there.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the brides parents. The three tiered wedding cake was served by Miss Ann Dilley of San Angelo, from a lace covered refreshment table. Mrs. A. H. Lohofner poured the coffee. Names for the brides book were secured by Miss Mary Flatt of Texas Tech.

The reception preceded the departure of the couple for a short wedding trip to Dallas and Fort Worth. For travel Mrs. Landers selected a soft yellow wool, trimmed in brown velvet and wore brown accessories. They will establish residence in Ardmore, Oklahoma, where Mr. Landers

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

FARM MACHINERY: Output Off

Hampered by material shortages, inexperienced help, inability of suppliers to deliver parts and strikes, farm machinery manufacturers do not look for attainment of peak production until later this year or early 1947.

When full-scale operations are resumed, it was said, companies will first concentrate on the output of parts for worn equipment since many farmers will be compelled to make their machinery do until new units begin to appear in satisfactory volume.

As it is, manufacturers' efforts to meet a part of the tremendous demand for plows, planters and cultivators for spring use have been cramped by production difficulties, with no substantial deliveries of these items forthcoming.

With 30,000 workers of the International Harvester company out on strike over demands for a 30 per cent wage increase, the total of idle employees in the industry approximated 35,000 of 90,000.

UNO: Avoid Strife

Invoking article 23 of the United Nations charter calling upon quarreling governments to attempt conciliation of their difficulties first before appealing to UNO, Russia moved to settle her differences with little Iran privately and take the matter out of the hands of the security council.

By so acting, the Reds succeeded in avoiding a ticklish situation within UNO itself, with possibilities that the U. S., Britain, France and China might have placed Moscow in a compromising position in investigating the row. In permitting the Reds and Iranians to thrash out their own problems, however, the security council called upon the disputants to report on the progress of their negotiations.

In originally appealing to UNO to look into the controversy, Iran had charged the Russians with interfering with government efforts to subdue a leftist rebellion in the northwest province of Azerbaijan. Sent into the oil-rich country in 1942 to guard supply lines leading into southern Russia, Red and British troops were scheduled to pull out early this spring.

Give and Take

Continuing to give and take in their relations, the Big Three agreed to the election of stocky, 50-year-old Trygve Lie (pronounced Tryg-va Lee) of Norway as secretary-general of UNO. Russ-backed, the selection of the bulky Norwegian foreign minister offset the earlier elevation of British-backed Paul Henry Spaak of Belgium as president.

The U. S. played a key role in balancing the powers through the elections. After the Russians had charged Secretary of State Byrnes and company of having double-crossed them in not pushing Lie's candidacy for president as against Spaak's, Chief Delegate Edward R. Stettinius later arranged for the Norwegian's selection as secretary-general in a five-power pow-wow in his Claridge hotel suite.

The son of a carpenter who became active in the Norwegian labor movement immediately after his graduation from Oslo university in 1919, reddish-faced, bustling Lie will occupy a key position in UNO as secretary-general, having within his power the authority to submit any problem he chooses to the security council.

CONGRESS: Labor Curb

Despite the brightening industrial picture, a strong coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats in congress moved for adoption of restrictive labor legislation against the vehement protests of liberal members.

Amid charges by Representative Sabath (Dem., Ill.) that the conservative bloc was being used by Wall street, 153 Republicans and 95 Democrats joined forces to pile up a 258 to 114 vote for immediate consideration of a bill which would set up a labor-management mediation board; provide for a 30-day cooling off period before a strike or lock-out; make both parties liable for violations of a labor contract; prohibit unionization of supervisory employees, and ban sympathy walk-outs.

While liberal members vigorously

SEED:

Over 50,000 tons of seeds being dispatched now for the spring planting season to nine European countries and China by the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration include cereal and vegetable seeds, seed potatoes to step up food production for human consumption, forage crops, grass and root crop seed to increase the supply of animal feed and industrial seeds for oil and fiber.

INDUSTRY: Profit Margins

First part of a study by the Securities and Exchange commission on profits and operations of American industries in 1943-'44, a SEC survey showed that while 13 meat packers grossed $4,732,038,000 in 1944 they netted $45,348,000 or 1 per cent of sales.

Next to the meat packing, the cigarette industry ranked highest in gross income for 1944, with $1,001,732,000. With a net income of 3.9 per cent of sales, however, the cigarette manufacturers outstripped meat packers in profit margins.

With total sales of $1,452,351,000, the dairy products industry ranked third, but like meat packing, enjoyed a relatively smaller profit position, earning 2.1 per cent on its gross. With $1,226,236,000 of sales, distillers showed net returns of 3.8 per cent.

Of all industries surveyed, grocery specialties had the highest profit margins, with 4.1 per cent on sales of $954,384,000.

VET FAMILIES: May Go Overseas

In what were interpreted as moves to forestall further complaints of G.I.s overseas against occupation draftsmen, the war department authorized the families of commissioned and non-commissioned officers above buck sergeants to join them abroad, and lowered the training period for replacements from 13 to 8 weeks.

With the number of reunions depending upon the theater commanders' decisions as to the amount of housing, subsistence and medical care available, travel to Europe will commence after April 1, with movements to the Philippines, Japan, Korea and the Ryukyus scheduled after May 1.

In setting up priorities under the system, preference will be given to families of officers with the longest service overseas if they indicate a willingness to remain abroad for two years or from one to two years.

In cutting down the training period from 13 to 8 weeks for replacements, the army announced that recruits' conditioning would be finished abroad after inculcation of fundamentals here. Prior to embarkation, recruits will be given a seven-day leave.

Chinese End Strife

Reflecting efforts of the U. S. to unify strife-ridden China, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek brought his 18 years of authoritarian rule in the country to an end with the announcement that henceforth political parties can openly organize and conduct their campaigns in accordance with legal rights and procedures.

Chiang made his historic pronouncement at the closing of political consultative conference in Chungking, where nationalists, communists and other parties had gathered for the adjustment of differences and creation of a unified state to open the way for broad economic development in hitherto backward China.

Before adjourning, the consultative conference had arranged for a meeting of a national assembly in May to draw up a new constitution. Over 2,500 delegates are to attend, with Chiang's Kuomintang party possessing over 50 per cent of the representation and the communists the second largest. Reflecting the views of the delegation as a whole, a 35-man all-party committee will draw up the document.

UNRRA: New Exodus

Even while British Gen. Frederick Morgan was in New York conferring with Director Herbert Lehman over his reinstatement as United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation chief in Germany, a U. S. 3rd army report confirmed his charge that Zionist-aided Jews were leaving Poland for Germany in the hope of eventually reaching Palestine.

In helping the migrants, it was said, Zionist groups prepared them for communal life abroad and supplied directions for infiltrating into Germany. Where necessary, money and clothing are furnished. Though the Jews hope for eventual admission to Palestine, they look for the establishment of a Jewish state in Bavaria if denied access.

Target of bitter Jewish criticism after his charge that Zionist groups were supporting a Jewish exodus from Poland for Palestine, Morgan vigorously denied anti-Semitic sentiments in being restored to the UNRRA fold. Declaring his sympathies were with all displaced persons, he said he did not question the motives of any individuals or groups on resettlement problems.

CARIBBEAN:

Quietly studying the problems of the dependent areas for almost four years, the Anglo-American Caribbean commission will meet at St. Thomas, Virgin islands, this month in furtherance of plans to develop in the West Indies a colonial administration laboratory for economic and social improvements.

HOUSEs of glass are realities today and, if you want to give any house a modern air, try to make the windows seem important. One way is to frame them in a group by covering the wall and leaving the glass exposed.

An inexpensive chintz with grey-green ground and a flower pattern is used for draperies and to trim the couch cover of heavier grey-green cotton material which is also used for the cushions. The glass curtains are hung on rods suspended from the picture moulding with picture wire and hooks. The side drapes are unlined but the valance is made over buckram. Both are tacked to pine strips and are hung with picture hooks. One

Man's Brain Proves to Be Superior to Brawn of Jungle Champ

Nature fairly bristles with "Sandows" whose capabilities in the way of strength are almost unbelievable. The fighting strength of a full-grown gorilla is estimated to be equal to that possessed by four strong men.

Once an alligator gets its teeth into anything it never lets go. One investigator proved this in a convincing manner. He thrust a piece of steel, two inches thick, between the jaws of a large alligator. The animal's jaws closed so forcefully on the metal that two of its teeth shot right through the bony top of its jaw and protruded above the skin.

Orchids Cheap

In some Latin-American countries, orchids are so plentiful, cheap, seldom costing more than two or three cents a blossom that few fashionable women wear them.

7 Envelopes Helped Build a Home!

Just seven small envelopes—but helped Mr. and Mrs. John Smith to build a home of their own. Each had a label on it, you see, and they read: 1) Rent, 2) Gas and Electric and Telephone, 3) Food and Laundry, 4) Pocket Money, 5) Clothes, 6) Doctor and Education, 7) Savings and War Bonds. Each week Mr. Smith's pay was divided into each of those envelopes—and, not-as-long-as-you-would-think later, out of that last little envelope came the down payment on a home they financed at this institution.

If all of us did the same, whether we used the "envelope system" or not, we would assure our own and our family's financial security in the postwar world. However we do it, we all should hang on to our War Bonds now, keep on buying our country's Bonds—and add to our bank balance every week.

Help the nation's efforts to keep your living costs DOWN, the buying power of your dollar UP.

Partners

Here's the current Katy-sponsored ad appearing in prominent national business magazines spreading the fame and fortune of a greater Southwest. You further the cooperative partnership between the people of the Southwest and their pioneer railroad when you "Ship Katy—Travel Katy."

Open Country for Business Heroes

You can win the approval of your firm, and recognition for yourself by being one of the forward-looking executives to first investigate, then advocate the attractive profit possibilities of a plant or branch in the new Industrial Southwest.

For here is a land offering every opportunity for commercial expansion... a land flowing with vast and varied reserves of raw materials for nearly every type of industry. Here you'll find power, water, fuel in cheap abundance... a climate that is mild, healthful and friendly year 'round... willing native labor sharpened by wartime skills... rich home markets of progressive people going places and buying things.

The pioneer railroad which first blazed a steel trail from the North into this land of industrial opportunity is the Katy—a closely-knit, friendly Class 1 railroad, devoted exclusively to the service and development of its strategically-located Southwestern corridor. The Katy serves the Southwest well because it knows the Southwest well. This is why Katy's Industrial Research Staff is in a unique position to furnish essential data, quickly and in confidence, to help you and your firm plan to relocate or expand in this most favored area. Write Industrial Development Dept., Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines, St. Louis 1, Mo., or Katy Building, Dallas 2, Texas.

Send for Free Booklet
 For a quick introduction to this amazing region send for booklet, "The Industrial Southwest," loaded with information on population, housing, climate, native resources and industrial opportunities in the Katy-served trading areas destined for greatest peacetime prosperity.

When you ship or travel southwest—remember Katy.

Grace Lutheran Church

Our Godless age has tried to make sin interesting, sophisticated, amusing. But there is the Word of God which asserts over and over again that sin can destroy your body and soul. It can create unspeakable misery in your own life and inflict untold suffering on others. It can banish you from heaven and sentence you to hell. Let us not ridicule sin. Let us rather see how serious our iniquities are, since they cost the Son of God His life, and, confessing the terrible guilt and punishment of our transgressions, find peace in Him who there died for us.

Come and hear the message of God's cure for sin!

Grace Lutheran Church welcomes you.

Do "Plate-Sores" Bother You?

If your "GUMS" itch, burn, or cause you discomfort, druggists will return money if the first bottle of "LETO'S" fails to satisfy.
