44th Anniversary Of Boy Scouts Being Observed

The 44th Anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America is being celebrated this week (Feb. 7-13) throughout America by the 3,300,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts Explorers and their leaders.

The weeks' celebration began on Saturday, Feb. 6th here in Burkburnett when the local Troop 155 participated in the Commanche District First Aid Meet. Winners of the meet will be eligible to participate in the Northwest Texas Council Annual First Aid meet to be held in Wichita Falls on Saturday, Feb. 13.

All Cubs, Scouts and Explorer attended the Church of their choice on Boy Scout Sunday, Feb. 7th. Other activities of the week include Troop Parent night and Open house programs. Window displays in the local merchants windows, and Blue and Gold Banquets by the Cub Packs sometime during the month of February. Pack 155 of Burk has scheduled their Banquet for Feb. 25th.

Our local Cub Pack has had a fine program this past year serving nearly 100 boys ages 8, 9, and 10. Pack 155 is under the direction of Cubmaster Ray Matherly and a fine Pack Committee and eight Den Mothers. At the present time there are 56 boys in the Pack and the goal is to reach 100 active members by this fall.

Our Boy Scout Troop 155 for all boys aged 11 or older has recently been reorganized under the direction of James Brady, a former Scout and former Scoutmaster of the Troop. Mr. Brady, with the help of his Assistant, Jack Nix, and a fine Troop Committee has built the Troop up to full membership of 32 scouts in just two months.

Certainly the citizens of Burkburnett should take their "Hats Off" to these leaders of our youth who are doing such a fine job. They of course are assisted by the District Officers and leaders of the Commanche District Committee.

Our congratulations to the Boy Scouts of America and their leaders in Burkburnett and thru out the Northwest Texas Council as they celebrate their 44th Anniversary this week. May they truly build a stronger Democracy as they follow their 1954 theme, "Forward on Liberty's Team."

Veterans Information Center Questions, Answers

Q—Somehow I completely forgot to pay my monthly GI insurance premium. When I remembered, it was the last day of the grace period—a Sunday I mailed the check anyhow. Will my insurance lapse?

A—No. If the last day of the grace period falls on Sunday, VA will accept the payment if it's made on the next business day. VA considers the postmark date on the envelope as the date the premium is paid.

Q—I have been rated as totally and permanently disabled for VA compensation purposes. Does this mean that after six months I can stop paying premiums on my GI insurance policy?

A—Not necessarily. The criteria for determining total disability for compensation is not exactly the same as for GI insurance. What you should do is file a claim for waiver of your premium payments. Continue paying premiums, however, until VA tells you to stop.

Q—I am a disabled veteran taking Public Law 16 training. I know I can get VA outpatient treatment for my service connected disabilities, but would my Public Law 16 training qualify me for VA outpatient treatment of a non-service-connected disability?

A—You would be permitted to receive out patient medical treatment for a non-service-connected disability only if you need it to avoid interrupting your Public Law 16 training.

Q—I am training to be a lawyer under the Korean GI Bill. After I complete my schooling, will I be allowed to take GI Bill on the job training as a law clerk?

A—Under the Korean GI Bill you are permitted to take job training as a law clerk only if it's required in your State in order to be admitted to the bar examination and to practice.

DON'T SIT ON A CACTUS

A spokesman for an oil company recently said that his industry — long ago learned that he who tries to rest on his laurels is likely instead to sit on a cactus.

He went on to observe, "oil men have never been satisfied just because something was pretty good. They have wanted it to be even better, and they have worked to make it better through research." His own company alone spent about $14,000,000 on research last year, and the figure for the industry as a whole was probably over $100,000,000.

We read much of oil's achievements. In 1953, for instance, all kinds of new records were established—in the number of wells drilled, in crude production, in refinery runs, in public demand, and so on. But these achievements are not limited to matters of mere quantity. Quality is equal attention and it certainly is equally important from the consumer's viewpoint. The gasolines, greases, chemicals and all the other products which are derived from oil are far better now than they used to be—and research is responsible.

Finally, the thing that forces oil companies to carry on all this costly research is competition. Every company must keep up with the march of progress or watch its trade go elsewhere.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif., News-Times: "A balanced budget means a sound dollar and an end to the threat of inflation. The Administration must continue to strive for further reductions in spending, regardless of the demands of pressure groups."

PORT HURON, Mich., Times-Herald: "Because criminals operate on a national scale, the Federal Government steadily has assumed new responsibilities for enforcing laws—and to these responsibilities have been added in recent years the responsibility of protecting American institutions and the National Government itself against Communist conspirators."

MYRTLE POINT, Ore., Herald: "Radical labor bosses have labeled the Taft-Hartley Act 'The Slave Labor Law', when in reality, the Taft-Hartley law is 'The Laboring Man's Bill of Rights.'"

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Herald: "The responsible farm organizations are generally agreed that this continued use of the government's credit is economically unsound and basically dangerous."

WHAT MADE AMERICA GREAT

"This administration believes that the average American can do more for himself—if he is allowed to do so—than the government can do for him. Competitive enterprise, free initiative—the courage to take a chance—the opportunity to better oneself by effort—constructive work and invention—these have made America great." Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, in Nation's Business.

SIX INCHES OF TOPSOIL

It has been said that "Civilization rests on six inches of topsoil."

This is not just a dramatic statement. It is a fact of nature. These six inches are all that stand between us and famine. Many conservationists believe that before this country was settled by whites the layer of topsoil was nine inches thick. Three inches — one third of the original deposit—has been lost forever, through floods, winds, erosion, and destructive forest and agricultural practices.

Here is why soil conservation is as important a need as this nation knows. The federal and local governments have naturally played an important role in the conservation movement. But the success or failure of the movement is determined at the level of the individual farm. Each acreage of farm or forest presents different problems. Each requires different treatment. The experts in and out of government can provide invaluable advice and other assistance—but they can't do the job that is the individual farm-owner's and no one else's.

A comparatively few years ago agriculture lacked the tools for effective soil conservation and improvement. Now it has those tools and they are marvelously swift, economical and efficient. The tractor and all the other machines come from the farm equipment industry make relatively easy what would have been impossible in the past. We must, save that six inches of topsoil on which civilization rests.

Here's Why Your Home Stayed Warm During the last "Norther"

When the worst "Norther" since 1950 swept into this community Wednesday, January 20, you had no fear of being cold. You took for granted that you could turn up your heaters, floor furnaces or central heating system and you would be warm.

From afternoon to midnight temperatures fell from balmy 70's to bone-chilling 20's. Due to the rapid growth of the cities we serve nearly 100 thousand more homes were depending on us than when the last "Norther" as big as this one hit. More gas than ever before would be needed.

Lone Star Natural Gas Service comes to this and 421 other communities in Texas and Oklahoma through a 7,000 mile interconnected pipeline system. Over 1,300 wells in 165 gas fields supply the system. Twenty-five key compressor plants move gas under high pressure from fields.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE "NORTHER"

Gathering and delivering this gas to your and over 600,000 other homes is controlled by a central dispatching staff. This staff knew from Weather Bureau reports almost the minute the "Norther" would strike your community.

In 40 control points along Lone Star's system, dispatcher alerted hundreds of specialists in compressor, pipeline, gas measurement and production departments. Specialists who operate distribution systems in cities and towns were alerted.

Every precaution was taken. Regular crews were doubled in compressor stations and in gas fields. Extra mobile equipment was brought in to speed movement of men in gas fields. Special two-way radio equipment was sent out to speed communications in the field.

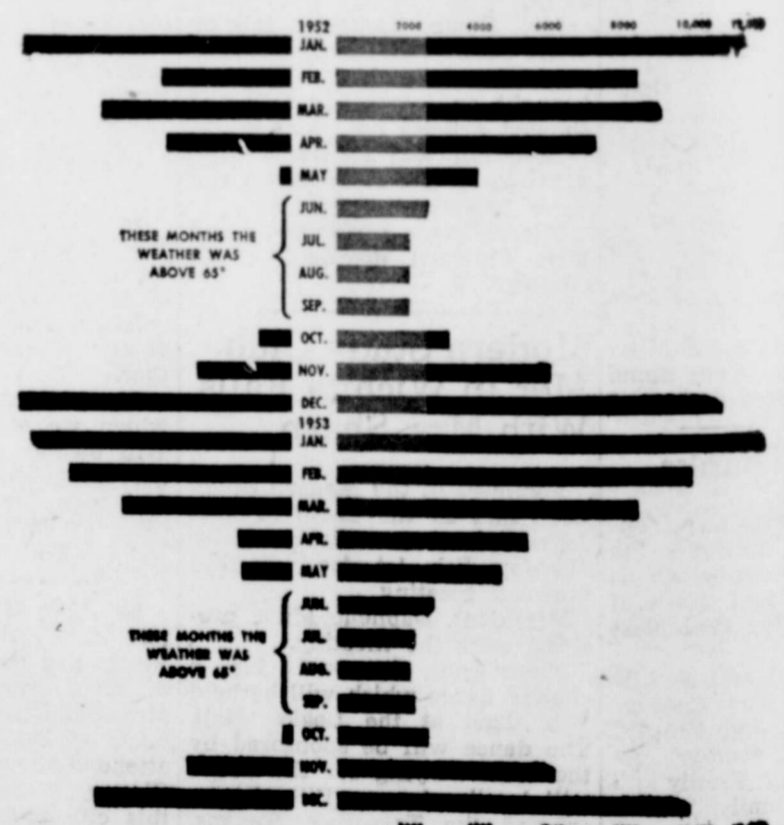

When temperature drops below 65 degrees everyone turns on their heating. For every degree the temperature falls past 65 degrees dispatchers know the amount of gas it will take to keep you warm.

CLOSE TIMING REQUIRED

On split-second timing as the temperature fell, gas from hundreds of wells was turned into field gathering systems. Gas stored in depleted fields was turned in, too. By night Lone Star Gas System was operating at near peak capacity.

Night and day for the duration of the cold wave the entire facilities of Lone Star Gas System were operating at or near peak capacity. During this "Norther" Lone Star Gas Company facilities served over 600,000 customers more efficiently than 10 years ago when we were serving about half this number. We are keeping abreast of the growth of the area we serve by providing in advance facilities that are necessary for dependable natural gas service.

HOW WINTER AFFECTS YOUR USE OF NATURAL GAS

THE BARS ON THE LEFT in the graph above show the variation in heating gas usage for the last two years as revealed by Weather Bureau Reports. The bars on the right show the amount of gas an average home used each month. Gas for cooking, water heating and refrigeration is indicated in gray. Gas for house heating is indicated in black. Last December, for example, the home used nearly 10,000 cubic feet of gas—7,500 cubic feet of that for heating. During extremely cold winter months, homes use up to six times as much gas as in summer.

Grade School News

We are anxiously looking forward to a very important day in the life of all school children. We think of St. Valentine Day as one of the most important days of the school year. It is the time of the year that each small boy and girl likes to remember every friend by sending a small red heart as a token of friendship.

We should think very seriously this year about the significance of the small red heart in association with the Heart Fund. Each small community is reminded every so often about the importance of the care and strain that is placed upon the heart of each individual. We should all support the National Heart Campaign and carefully study the findings that are being revealed by the National Heart Foundation.

Junior High News

The 4-H Clubs in our school are of interest to many of our pupils. Approximately 90 pupils are enrolled in the four groups that meet on Friday mornings twice a month. These groups are conducted in their activities by Mr. Glen Dunkle, Assistant County Agent, and Mrs. R. J. Meads, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent.

There has been a number of cases of mumps in our school. That with the usual colds have caused some absences among the pupils.

The fifth grade has enjoyed and benefited from two film strips this week. They were "Writing Fractions" and "Changing Denominators". These students are also looking forward to Valentine's Day. Each pupil is making his own Valentine box.

Univ. Study Club Met In Home of Mrs. J. H. Rigby

The University Study club met in the home of Mrs. J. H. Rigby Feb. 3rd. The meeting opened by repeating the Club Woman's Creed.

Mrs. Ross Reagan introduced Mrs. Rex Kolter who in her most charming way reviewed for us "The Unknown Lincoln." Lincoln set great store by his well bred Virginia Grandfather. From this source he received power. He was very fond of his mother and spoke tenderly saying "God Bless my Mother." All that I am or ever hope to be I owe to her. At the age of nine Lincoln's mother died from the hardship of pioneer life. Her last words to her children were to live as she had taught them and to worship God. At the age of 15 Abe attended a school taught by Dorsel which was called a "blab" school. The teacher marched about the room, switch in hand, giving a cut to those who were silent. Abe said his father taught him to work but he never taught him to love it. After the death of Ann Rutledge, who he loved, he became very discouraged. A few years later he married Mary Todd. Nineteen years later the Republican party elected him president, year 1860. Thanks to Mrs. Kolter for a nice review.

Mrs. S. S. Reger presided over a business session. Plans were outlined for our Marina Washington Tea, Feb. 17th.

Mrs. Rigby served a lovely refreshment plate to the following: Mesdames Cauthorn, Holt, Lacy, Bunstine, Tevis, Reagan, Sessums, Melton, Jenson, Majors, Burns, Pogue and Rigby.

Fashion Rose Garden Club Met In Home of Mrs. Westbrook

Plans and arrangements were made for a party and supper for members and on Friday night, Feb. 5. A report was given by R. F. Schuette on the luncheon.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames J. L. Ragan, J. R. Sprague, L. W. Youngblood, R. F. Westbrook, R. F. and a new member.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Wish I'd Said That

You know Miss Perkins. Well, she's been driving her own car around our town for a little more than 30 years.

The other day she had a bit of trouble parking down on Main Street. Didn't quite make it to start over when a fellow waiting to pass started tooting his horn impatiently.

On the second try, she was still having a little difficulty and so this smart aleck hollered, "Lady, do you know how to drive?" "Yes, young man," Miss Perkins answered.

"I do. But I don't have time to teach you now."

From where I sit, it's not always easy to have a good answer ready when you need it. But when somebody insists that I vote for his candidate, for instance, or choose tea instead of a temperate glass of beer with dinner, I know the answer. It's all a matter of personal preference ... and none of us like "backseat driving" from anybody.

Roy McCoy Gives Letter to Lifeterner

Roy McCoy, pastor of the Nazarene, Burk Burnett, Wichita County, Texas, writes a letter he re-church needs a "Son of God." Every church must have one Barnabas, so says his life and use. He pays a fine tribute to Barnabas when he says that he was a good man and a true friend. If we had more of such men, the church would be a better place. He might have said that Barnabas was a good man and a true friend. He was one of God's gentlemen. Barnabas was not his name to begin with. When this Levite of Cyprus appeared before the Apostles to apply for acceptance into the fellowship of the church he bore the name of Jose, but

Paul was a great admirer of goodness indeed, under the leading of the Spirit. He put it ahead of righteousness and in the course of a great doctrinal discourse made a remarkable affirmation: "For scarcely for a righteous man will die; but pre-adventure for a good man some would even dare to die." There is a brand of righteousness which is rigid and thorny, but goodness is righteousness with a smile. We might call it grace, grace as a theological concept has its own special meaning, but "the grace of God which bringeth salvation" is certainly intended to produce that sort of character and disposition in us which we all recognize under the accepting Grace, an ungracious Christian is an anomaly where the Spirit of grace has wrought unhindered the grace of the Spirit is manifest. So it was in Barnabas. He was one of God's gentlemen. Barnabas was not his name to begin with. When this Levite of Cyprus appeared before the Apostles to apply for acceptance into the fellowship of the church he bore the name of Jose, but so helpful did he make himself to all the church especially to the weak and the fearful and the timid, that the Apostles nicknamed him Barnabas, "Son of Encouragement." Somehow burdens seemed lighter, problems less difficult, distresses less vexations, when this gracious man was around. Jose's new name was soon put to the test and as a result it shone with added luster, and here is how it came about: The church of Jesus Christ has always been blessed with many poor people, and there is no doubt that the early church was composed largely of the common people who heard Jesus gladly, while many of the richer and more mighty refused to stoop before the cross identifying themselves with the despised sect of the Nazarene and would not make it any easier for these poor folk to earn livelihood. Then as our Holy Bible tells there were many converts from all over the Jewish world who wished to stay in Jerusalem to learn more of the truth of Christ before facing the task of witnessing in all places whence they came and these became a charge on their brethren in Jerusalem. So an economic problem faced the young church. Being still in their first love, and believers rose to the situation and instituted a sharing program. Houses and land went on the market to bring revenue to the common treasury.

How would Barnabas react to this? This special mention of him in this connection certainly indicated that he was probably the largest land-owner in the Church and the reference to Cyprus suggests that his possessions were in the rich Islands where land values were high and coveted by the wealthy. Would he sacrifice his land of such value? Would he throw away a fortune to help the needy? Apparently he did not give it a second thought. The needy people and his ability were argument enough. The Grace of the Holy Spirit was exercised in the disposal of his property and he layed the entire proceeds at the Apostle's feet for the benefit of the Church. It was done with all simplicity and humility. "He was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost."

When one who has been an ardent opponent of a cause suddenly professes to embrace it, the adherents of that cause are likely to be a bit suspicious. The leader of the opposition was a young man named Saul of Tarsus, he did neither try to understand nor care. He pushed with fury the persecution with unabating zeal. In the words of the Scripture he "made havoc of the Church." Would not try to understand why Christians had given up land and homes for the Church. Suddenly, however, he changed his life which was God's will from a persecutor and professed as ardent adherence to Christ as he had demonstrated bitter hatred of Him. He embraced the "Heresy" of the Nazarene and in Jerusalem, joined the company of believers. Was Saul, whose name was changed to Paul, a believer, or was his surrender to Jesus our Lord, a fixed intention by guile to secure a full list of the Christians in order to turn them over to the courts and maybe institute even worse proceedings against them? It was a tense situation but Barnabas saved the day. There was too much of the grace of God in this good man. He was very quick to discern the work of grace, where others doubted. We can never know how much a touch of friendliness means to a stranger, especially if he is in a difficult or an embarrassing situation. Barnabas was always willing to step up with a kindly smile to any sad-faced stranger because he was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost. By ordering of the Lord, it was Barnabas who was sent out on an errand and for him the journey was a progress of happy surprises. By the time he reached Antioch, he could scarcely hold all the joy that filled his heart. There was so much of the Grace of God in him that he was always anxious to speak of his Lord and did at every opportunity and he was filled with gladness. Not only did Barnabas give his approval to the new work at Antioch, but he gave it his full support and under his gracious ministry much people were added to the Lord. The fact that he had no part in the launching of the work, nor the founding of the church, did not prejudice him in the least. It was the Lord's work and the Lord's church and the grace of the Spirit freed him from all selfishness and envy in the matter. Barnabas was a very determined man who showed his grace of the Spirit to be for men. The Sons of Barnabas are still with us, men such as my pastor. A good and true friend, and a good man and full of the Holy Spirit. I pray for my Brother in Christ Rev. Roy McCoy, God bless him I am sure I will receive a blessing without praying for it, for the overflow of his cup fills my little bucket. His greatest teachings are place your trust in the Lord; obey him, and walk daily with Him. And friends, when we heed Bro. McCoy's teachings as Barnabas has taught before him that God, through His Son, Jesus, who gave up the Holy Spirit so that men might have every lasting life and receive the blessings and peace of mind and good mental health. Barnabas never failed to go where he was needed never failed to listen to the Spirit of God. His devoted life to Christ, caused an urge to do as the Spirit directed. Wherever lost souls were to be saved, he was sent. The same applies to my very best and true friend, Rev. McCoy. May God Speed him in His work and keep him in His love and let him share His love with the lost and needy and every member of our church. For we know he is a Son of Encouragement.

gas is used in a home during a winter month than in a summer month. Won't you please remember this when paying gas bills during the next several weeks?

Lone Star must maintain lots of reserves and extra machinery to meet your peak winter requirements.

And, as you know from weather bureau figures, over most of area served by Lone Star, January and December had considerably more heating weather than the same months a year ago.

We believe

our customers appreciate the fact we were one of the last to raise our price or rate. Rate was reduced in 1942. So the one raise made last year added very little more to the price charged during depression years. The average year around cost in average home is still about 16 cents per day

Uncle Billie And Texas Newspaper Women

REMEMBER WHEN?—80-year-old W. W. (Uncle Billie) Aiken, publisher of the Crockett Courier for the past 56 years, can remember Texas Press Association conventions as far back as 1891. But he didn't attend the one at Corsicana and have his picture made—like the old-timers in the gold-framed photo above. Calling to other TPAers to "come look"—during a recent TPA meeting in Austin, were (left to right) Uncle Billie; Mrs.

L. B. Smith, wife of the publisher of the Brady Standard; Mrs. Arthur H. Kowert, wife of the president of TPA, who publishes the Fredericksburg Standard; and Mrs. Roy M. Craig, whose husband is publisher of the Stamford American. Historical photos of members of the press will be featured in the Diamond Anniversary issue of The Texas Press Messenger in June.

1891 TPA Picture Stirs Memories Of Pioneer Texas Newspapermen

A far cry from the clean-shaven, sports-collared newspapermen of today were those gentlemen of the press of 1891. Their pictures, enshrined in antique gold, were on display at the 1954 Mid-Winter meeting of the Texas Press Association held recently in Austin.

The picture was the first reminder of the TPA Diamond Anniversary observance to be celebrated this year. It will be highlighted by a 75th birthday convention in Fort Worth, June 18-19, and by a Diamond Anniversary edition of The Texas Press Messenger the same month.

Bearded and bow-tied, high-collared and sometimes mustache-waxed were the press pioneers who attended that TPA convention in Corsicana May 12, 1891.

The interesting picture, arranged in an oval shape, showed some 80 old-time newspaper editors and publishers. In the center was a larger picture of their president, Juan S. Hart.

Hart, who retired later to enter, very successfully, the mining business, was a gifted public speaker and long-time owner of The El Paso Times.

Battleground Discussed
Elected to succeed him at the 1891 convention was J. F. Mitchell, known as one of the ablest writers in the state at that time and publisher of The Greenville Banner, one of the best weeklies of the day. The Banner now is published as a daily by the Houston Harte interests.

Mitchell was strong for the editorial page, which, in those days, resounded of crusades and fine writing. If there was too much matter for his newspaper, he would leave out the leading news item of the week rather than an editorial paragraph. Mitchell died in 1901. Texas Press Association members were in session for the twelfth time at the 1891 convention. During the business meeting, a committee was appointed to memorialize the legislature in behalf of a movement to have the state purchase the San Jacinto battleground and make it a state park. On the committee were such distinguished old-time press members as Judge A. B. Norton, Dallas Intelligencer; W. A. Fields, Hillboro Reflector; R. M. Johnston, Houston Post; A. C. Scuzlock, Cleburne Chronicle.

Newspapers represented at the convention and still publishing under the same masthead today were El Paso Times, edited by J. S. Hart; Greenville Banner, J. F. Mitchell; Huntsville Item, F. B. Robinson; Galveston News, H. Stewart; Rockwall Success, H. W. Manson; Gatesville Star, J. D. Nall; Hallettsville New Era, William Blakeslee; Carrizo Springs Javelin, F. M. McCaleb; Carthage Watchman, T. E. Buren; Center Champion, R. S. Bryarly; Marshall Messenger, W. A. Adair; Dallas News, George M. Bailey; Iowa Park Texan, D. C. Kolp; Palo Pinto Star, J. C. Son; Baird Star, W. E. Gilliland; Austin Statesman, C. A. Edwards; Alvarado Bulletin, F. B. Bailio; McKinney Democrat, F. C. Thompson; Dawson News, J. F. Robinson; Jacksonville Banner, J. E. McFarland; San Antonio Light, T. B. Johnson.

Just as today, many of the Texas publishers brought their families with them to the TPA meeting. In the 1891 picture were nine women and three children. Many of the wives helped their husbands, even then, on the small-town newspapers. Thirty-three women are owner-publishers in their sole right in Texas today, and many more help their husbands in printing offices.

Excursion Taken
It was common practice in the old days of TPA conventions for the newspapermen to take an excursion after the meeting adjourned. They were known to travel as far as California, Mexico City, St. Louis, New Orleans, New Jersey, Denver, and Chicago on special trains.

In 1891 the group of bearded editors took a short trip only, traveling from Corsicana to San Antonio, as guests of the citizenry. From there they visited Rockport and Aransas Harbor, upon special invitation of Governor T. B. Wheeler.

Pleasure trips, such as these excursions, are not on the agendas of the TPA conventions today. Meetings are devoted to business discussions and educational speeches. Very few trips are made. Those which are taken are usually to industrial plants, military establishments, newspaper offices and educational institutions.

This year, for example, a tour was offered convention goes at the Mid-Winter meeting the day before the convention officially convened. Members were escorted through the new plant of the Austin American Statesman.

Speakers at the 1954 convention were such outstanding men as Palmer Hoyt, publisher of The Denver Post; Attorney General John Ben Shepperd; and Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding College at Searcy, Ark.

Presiding over the sessions were TPA President Arthur H. Kowert, publisher of the Fredericksburg Standard, and Vice-President W. R. Beaumier, general manager of the Lufkin Daily News. More than a dozen other Texas newspapermen took an active part in the one-day program held in Austin in January of this year.

From LOOK Magazine's DREAM KITCHEN
We've tried something new in our kitchen the last few weeks—sampling the hot weather dishes of India, which are as spicy as the climate. We've discovered that curried dishes are as good hot weather fare here as in India and easy to make with some American short cuts as described in LOOK.

Speediest short-cut of all, even if it isn't orthodox, is to warm canned boned chicken in canned tomato soup diluted with 1/2 can consommé and seasoned with curry, paprika, ginger, thyme and pinch of cinnamon and cloves. Serve this with rice (pre-cooked variety) for a quick and different dinner.

Most fascinating dish we tested must have come from a Maharaja's palace; you might want to try it for a picnic sometime. First, we pierced holes at top and bottom of raw eggs, and blew the insides out. Then we beat these with salt, pepper, ginger, curry, mustard, a little butter—and poured them back into the shells. Yes, it's possible—and LOOK's recipe folder on Indian foods tells how. After the eggs were replaced we set them to cook for twenty minutes, like any good hard-cooked eggs—and peeled them when done, for a devious egg with the "devil" built in, and unusual new texture.

Your family will probably want to top off such spicy fare with a tall cool drink. At our house, we like to vary the cold-drink menu by diluting frozen concentrated juices with carbonated drinks. Try pineapple juice with ginger ale, grape concentrate with lemon-lime. And did you hear about the current Canadian favorite—beer and tomato juice?

Talking about mornings, try our candidate for the coolest breakfast in town: half a chilled cantaloupe, the lower filled with ready-to-eat cereal (take your pick from an assortment of small packages) and top with floating milk/cream.

There never was a month like this for salads. We've been experimenting with new salad dressings to add fun to our favorite vegetables and greens. Successes you ought to sample: French dressing with a ripe avocado mashed and beaten into it; French dressing with leftover pickled beets cut in.

For our summer picnic outings, the children choose "cooky sandwiches" for dessert: zrahams with peanut butter and honey spread between or cookies made with packaged cake mixes—and extra dried fruits cut into the batter.

Speaking of cake mixes, have you ever seen anything as pleased as the smile on unexpected guests' faces when you pop a cake (from packaged mix) into the oven to serve warm and fragrant before they leave?

LOOK gives sandwich suggestions from around the world, but there's nowhere else where you can find any kind of bread you like and pick a filling from any country—as you can (and probably do) here. With all this, any small boy's favorite is still likely to be peanut butter.

You can't do better by a sandwich meal than to offer what the Pennsylvanians call "Seven Sweets and Sours." Set up a pickish tray with a variety of pickles, gerkins, pickled vegetables, olives, tart jellies, mustard, horseradish—or what's your favorite variety? Let every one choose his own sandwich accompaniment, for happy munching. And when your jars of pickles are empty—try using the leftover juice to flavor salad dressings, or meat stews or sauces... it's too good to waste.

Here's an extra booster for a sandwich meal—tuck some carrot sticks in with the children's sandwiches, and an extra slice of cheese for a protein bonus. For a man's lunch, the cheese is natural and ripe, but the youngsters like the milder processed type—cheese taste seems to grow stronger with the years.

You ought to try a "drink buffet" to round out sandwich meals. We use our insulated cooler filled with ice cubes, and stacked beer, cola drinks, collins mix (the children like this with some crushed berries), root beer and lemon lime—among others. The boys have a new version of the "black cow"—they fill a glass half full of milk, top it with root beer, and gleefully take two glasses of this to get their milk quota at a meal. Which reminds us—why doesn't someone bottle "so-da-milk"?

Fertilize Your Farm Tank

Now is a good time for the farmer to start thinking about fertilizing his farm tank if he wants some good fishing according to B. T. Haws, County Agent.

Two of the most important things in fish pond management are the control of the fish population (kinds and numbers) and the production of food for the fish. The most practical way to provide food for the fish is to grow it in the pond where the fish live. This will consist of plant and animal life found in the water. The production of microscopic plant and animal life often referred to as plankton or "bloom" is the first and most important step in the whole food chain. An abundant supply of plankton can be produced in water containing lots of plant food such as all fertilizers contain. This plant normally finds its way into the pond by being dissolved from the soil as the water flows in from over the watershed. The plant food in the water is largely determined by the fertility of the watershed over which the water flows. Poor land means poor water and poor water means little food for the fish. To increase the production of food in the pond, we now think in terms of fertilizing these acres of water as we fertilize land for crops. The principle is the same, and the same kinds of fertilizer may be used. Various mixtures of fertilizers may be used to fertilize ponds:

1. 400 pounds cottonseed meal plus 200 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate. The 600 lbs of this mixture is the suggested amount for one surface acre of water for one year. Apply as follows:
  - First application — 300 lbs broadcast over pond in early spring.
  - Second, third and fourth applications of 100 lbs each at four to six weeks intervals.
  - Soybean meal may be substituted for cottonseed meal if desired.
2. 300 to 500 lbs of high grade commercial fertilizer with 500 lbs per water per year may be used.
3. Barnyard manure may be used as a pond fertilizer with 500 lbs per applications per acre with two or three applications per season.

Old Age

By R. D. Laney

Those who have no internal resources of happiness will find themselves uneasy in every stage of human life; but to him who is accustomed to derive happiness from within himself, no state will appear as a real evil into which he is conducted by the common and regular course of nature; and this is peculiar the case with respect to old age. After having wisely distributed peculiar and proper enjoyments to all preceding periods of life, it cannot be supposed that she would neglect the last, and leave it destitute of suitable enjoyments. After a certain point of maturity is attained, marks of decay must necessarily appear; but to this unavoidable condition of his present being, every wise and good man will submit with contented and cheerful acquiescence.

Nothing can be more void of foundation than the assertion that old age necessarily disqualifies a man for taking part in the great affairs of the world. If an old man cannot perform in business a part which requires the bodily strength and energy of more vigorous years, he can act in a nobler and more important character. Momentous affairs of state are not conducted by corporal strength and activity they require cool deliberation, prudent counsel and authoritative influence; qualifications which are strengthened by increase of years. Few among man kind arrive at old age; and this suggests a reason why the affairs of the world are better conducted, for age brings experience, discretion and judgement, without which no well informed government could have been established or can be maintained.

The infirmities of old age should be resisted like the approach of disease. Every old person should become an optimist, unless he is already one. He will see much of the good. He sees more of the beauty, hear more of the music; his mental vision is keener, his spiritual insight deeper. His whole view of life is one of promise. When the problems, vexations, and temptations come, he stands squarely in his path, and by attitude and expression declares his firm belief in the ultimate good. He has many experiences, and sometimes he fails; but he arises stronger in resolution for having discovered a weakness. There is in him something that never yields. He looks upon evil as something to be overcome. He makes an effort, in proportion to this does he elevate himself to a higher plane of life. He has a mission in the world, and proceeds to do his work. This is usually done without demonstration. His force is like the sublime forces of the universe—silent, but always acting.

It is often argued that old age must necessarily be a stage of much anxiety and disquietude, on account of the near approach of death. That the hour of dissolution cannot be far distant from an aged man is undoubtedly true. But every event that is agreeable to the course of nature ought to be regarded as real good; and surely nothing can be more natural for the old to die. Fruit, before it is ripe, cannot be separated from the stalk with out some degree of force; but when it is perfectly mature, it drops itself; so the disunion of the soul and body is effected in the young by violence; but in the old it takes place by mere fullness and completion of years. The satisfactions of this life are many; but there comes a time when we have had a sufficient measure of its enjoyments, and may as well depart contented with our share of the feast.

News From The Congress
By FRANK IKARD

So far, there has been little important legislation considered by the House during this session of Congress. Most of the work now is being done in the Committees in which hearings are being held on bills that have been introduced, and legislation generally is being studied and readied for debate on the Floor.

One of the Committees on which I serve, the Military Operations Committee, has been holding extensive hearings since the first of the year. In these hearings, we have dealt with the progress that is being made by the Armed Services in developing a single catalog for their supplies. The matter of cataloging to the average person, I realize is certainly not very interesting, and people generally can not get very exercised over the fact that each branch of the service has a separate catalog for the hundreds of thousands of items that it carries in its inventory and that many of the technical services or departments within one of the branches of the service each have separate catalogs. However, I think it would take only a minute's reflection to realize that each branch of the service, by having different catalogs and different systems of cataloging, has, to a great degree, contributed to the duplication of purchases by the Military Services and their failure to make fullest use of all the items in their inventory. You can readily see that a very common item that is used by each of the services such as a pair of shoes, if the Army had one way of describing it, the Marine Corps, another and the Air Force still another, that it could easily lead to a situation where there would be no real way to tell how many shoes were on hand or how many should be purchased. When the days come that we have a common catalog that is used by everyone in the military and all the items are identified in the same way, we should realize substantial savings, in addition to increased efficiency.

Last year, the Supreme Court by its decision in the Phillips Oil company case, dealt a serious blow to the oil and gas industry when it, in effect, held that under the Natural Gas Act, the Federal Power Commission has the power to fix the price of natural gas in the field. That is to say, the effect of the decision is to make the gas business a public utility. Since the production of oil and gas are so closely related they cannot be dealt with independently, and it would seem to follow that if the Phillips decision stands, that the oil and gas business could and probably would be regulated by the Federal Government. On January 18 of this year, the Supreme Court granted a motion for rehearing in this case. There are many different opinions here as to just why the Court took this action. Some say that the Court wants to render a written decision since it did not do so in the Phillips case. Others seem to have the opinion that the Court wishes to have this case before it while considering the Texas case presently before the Court concerning the State tax on gas gathering. Regardless of this, we can only hope that the Court will see its way clear to reverse the Phillips Case and thereby close the door on any possibility of Federal control and regulation of the oil and gas industry.

Visitors from home this week were Mr. and Mrs. Solon Featherson and Miss Junetta Watson of Wichita Falls.

Burlap Bags Go From 'Rags'

Elizabeth Cowan, designer, displays colorful window runner, skirt and apron she made from dyed burlap.

Here's a new, exciting and budget-wise use for burlap. With a little simple needlework and some all-fabric dye, form them into all kinds of colorful clothing and accessories. This newest budget-stretching idea is the result of an undertaking by the Tintex Home Economics Bureau Council. Detailed directions on how to make these marvels are all summed up in an eight-page illustrated booklet for these organizations by the designer, Elizabeth Cowan, pictured above are but a few of her tintexed burlap creations.

To prepare a bag for dyeing, open the seams by pulling of chain stitching, shake out remaining feed or dust and edges to prevent raveling. Next, place the burlap in a machine filled with warm soap suds, soak for a couple of wash to remove printing. The dyeing process is the same. You'll find burlap a wonderful fabric of choice to work with.

The folder, entitled "How to Make Beautiful Burlap Bags," is obtainable free from Tintex Home Economics, Fifth Avenue, New York 17, N. Y.
