Jane Russell and Marilyn Monroe at Palace Sun. - Mon.

With Jane Russell and Marilyn Monroe, two of Hollywood's most fabulous figures, in the star roles, Twentieth Century-Fox's musical version of 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes' comes to the Palace Theatre on Sunday-Monday.

The Anita Loos story, which has chalked up quite a record since 1936 when it was first published, has been brought up to date and filmed in color by Technicolor by Director Howard Hawks as one of Hollywood's most lavish musical comedies...

Charles Coburn, Elliott Reid, Tommy Noonan and six year old George Winslow, the boy with the foghorn voice, head the large supporting cast in the picture, which scenarist Charles Lederer fashioned from the book and the Broadway musical comedy that scored such a success two seasons ago.

Miss Monroe, who has the role of Lorelei created on Broadway by Carol Channing, sings and dances in the picture. Among her numbers are Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend, Bye, Bye Baby, and A Little Girl From Little Rock, written by Jule Styne and Leo Robin for the New York musical version of 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes'.

The role of Dorothy, which was a lesser part in the Broadway play, was built up to make it of equal importance to that of Lorelei and Miss Russell in the part also does her share of singing and dancing. Anyone Here For Love and When Love Goes Wrong, especially written by Hoagy Carmichael and Harold Adamson for the film, are her two big numbers.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

CORNELIA, GA., Georgian: "Kids used to get out about dark and throw up their hats and sing a song to the fluttering bats 'Bat, bat, come under my hat, I'll give you a slice of bacon. And if I bake, I'll give you a cake, if I'm not much mistaken.'

"Votes are fluttering around in the skies now and a lot of hats are being tossed up in the air. There's hollering and wild promising. The old song definitely offers a slice of bacon — please note, however, as in the case of the children's song, there is a last line to wit: 'If I'm not much mistaken.' There's a loophole left there, but the poor bat was not supposed to be analytical, nor is the voter. Let's not count on the cake. That 'if' is indefinite."

HIGH BRIDGE, N. J. Gazette: "When an electric company develops a hydroelectric site, it constructs the project without using government funds. It markets the electricity to its customer at rates regulated by a governmental commission or its equivalent. It pays taxes on the revenues it collects in the course of these operations — about 22 cents of every dollar goes to federal, state and local governments as taxes. Under this sound business arrangement, the public gets more electric energy; government gets added revenues; the river belonging to 'all people' stays in the same place and everybody benefits.

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Sentinel: "— any government with strongly centralized power poses a threat to personal liberty. Each time we take another step toward socialism, government control and higher taxes in our own country, we should pause and think what life offers for the individual in countries where power is vested in the state and government bureaucracy has been over expanded."

OIL DOWN ON THE FARM

American farmers work only six percent of the world's tillable land. Yet they produce 45 percent of the world's meat, 65 percent of its corn, and similarly high proportions of other basic foods.

So outstanding a record is the result of various factors. One is the progress made in scientific land conservation and utilization. Another is the superbly efficient and economical machinery produced by the farm equipment industry. And another is something that every American uses every day in one form or another — OIL.

The farmer is the world's largest user of trucks and tractors. He commands more mechanical horsepower than is used in all the rest of industry — but he'd have none at all if it weren't for gasoline and lubricants. To put the situation another way, a generation ago each farm worker had about 2.2 horsepower at his command. Now he has some 5 horsepower — and oil is the fodder that makes those particular horses go.

And power doesn't tell the whole story of oil's work in agriculture. Loss and damage from weeds, insects and plant diseases is very heavy on the farm, running into the billions annually. This waste has been materially reduced in late years through the use of sprays and dusts which are derived from oil, and are called petrochemicals. Agriculturally derived fertilizers are other important farm tools.

Next October, Oil Progress Week will be observed. The achievements the week is to commemorate have beneficially touched us all — and some of the greatest of them have been in agricultural fields.

PROGRESS AGAINST HANDICAPS

People in the United States enjoy the greatest retail service in the world. It is easy to see why after reading examples or regulations under which Western European retailers live, and described by David Carson of the School of Retailing, University of Pittsburgh.

In the Netherlands a store keeper has to get approval of local Chambers of Commerce before opening a store. In Norway he must notify the police if he plans to advertise a clearance sale, other than the two seasonal clearances permitted by law. In West Germany stores are permitted to give away only souvenirs that bear promotional messages, and they are prohibited by law from advertising the event.

In Switzerland, in 1933 to 1945, that country prohibited establishment of new department and variety stores. A discriminatory tax against large stores has been in effect since 1940, varying on gross receipts from 3-4 of 1 percent on cooperatives and specialty stores to 2 1-2 percent for department and 4 percent for variety stores.

In spite of it all, however, Mr. Carson says new developments are taking place because "of the increasingly closer integration of the people of the free world." But there can be little question that the government regulations and controls are slowing progress.

The United States has seen political agitation against chain stores under the guise of helping independents. Fortunately, both for consumers and independents, such legislation was killed and retailing forged ahead in all its branches, as in no other nation.

Legion Notes
President Eisenhower told 8,000 cheering Legionnaires at the opening session of their 36th National Convention in Washington, D. C., August 30th, that the United States must begin building a big, combat-ready military reserve as an "absolute essential" to national security.

"Establishment of an adequate reserve—an objective for which The American Legion and other patriotic organizations have vainly fought for a generation—will be a number one item submitted to Congress next year," the Chief Executive declared.

Three days later the 3,150 delegates by a unanimous and thundering vote adopted a resolution submitted by the Convention National Security Committee calling on the Congress to implement UMT at its next session opening in January.

The President prefaced his statement on his military reserve plans by emphasizing that "our basic objective is peace."

"But in our search for peace—indeed in order to enhance it," he said "We are determined to remain secure."

He continued: "For a century and a half the Republic has prided itself on its refusal to maintain large standing military forces. We have relied, instead, upon the civilian soldier. We have failed miserably to maintain that strong, ready military reserve in which we have believed for 150 years."

"Now at long last, we must build such a reserve. And we must maintain it. Wishful thinking and political timidity must no longer bar a program so absolutely essential to our defense."

"One point about this needs special emphasis: "This reserve will not unfairly burden the men who have already served. This administration will see to that."

The President declared that to follow the path of isolation would surrender most of the free world to Communist despotism and ultimately forfeit our own security. Deliberately to choose the road to war, would suddenly place in jeopardy the civilization we are determined to preserve.

Herd Records Are Important

Records are the dairyman's "road map," says B. T. Haws, county agent. They tell him where to go and point out danger signs and possible detours.

Some herds in Wichita County have cows which are not paying their way, Haws points out. In their cases, an empty stall would increase profits. Only actual production records can sound out these boarders, he says. It cannot be guessing or estimating.

Only a small percent of the Grade A milk producers in Wichita County are members of a DHA and many registered herds are not on test. The majority of herd owners are trying to operate without the most important tools for making much needed sound decisions.

Concentrate feeds, the most expensive in a cow's ration, should be controlled, or fed according to production. Without records, a cow may be underfed, overfed or properly fed. Chances are two to one against being correct. Records on milk production will eliminate such guess work.

Are her replacement out of the best producing cows? There is danger in being oversold on the statement "the bull is half the herd." As far as each heifer is concerned, one half of her inheritance came from her dam. Here again, without records, the dairyman is guessing at one-half of her inheritance, regardless of the bull.

$5,000,000 Lost By Farm Fires

Texas farmers could add as much as $5,000,000 to their annual gross income by reducing fire losses, an Austin insurance executive says.

Norris W. Parker, manager of the Texas Insurance Advisory Association, a trade association which compiles statistics on fire losses, said that fires in 1953 destroyed at least $5,000,000 worth of farm buildings and crops. The figures for 1954 may be even higher unless something is done to reduce farm fires.

Nationally, the picture is even worse. Fires across the nation last year cost farmers $100,000,000.

Three safeguards are suggested by Mr. Parker to help reduce farm fires:

1. Use care and forethought in the construction, maintenance and use of all farm property with view to eliminating all needless fire danger;
2. Equip farm homes and out-buildings with simple fire extinguishing equipment to enable individuals to extinguish fires before they reach the serious stage; and
3. Organize farm community fire fighting brigades equipped with more effective equipment than an individual farmer can afford to fight larger fires.

Farmers throughout the state are being urged to check their fire defenses as a part of the national observance of Fire Prevention Week, October 3-9.

GYPSY TROUBADOURS
Royal Musical Treat is presented by Alla and W. Bajan have charmed European and American audiences with their program of Continental Folk music—musical gems collected in many lands—haunting songs, dances and strikingly beautiful costumes. The soft music of the guitar, the rhythmic beat of the gay tamborine and the fast drumming of the heels provide a harmonious accompaniment to their program.

As a special feature they present "Humanettes," a novel idea in the ancient art of puppetry, presented on a miniature stage, expressly designed to form a colorful background for this amusing novelty.

Beautiful and charming Mrs. Bajan is a graduate of an outstanding European Ballet School and has toured Europe and the Americas with her own company winning wide acclaim as an exceptionally able dancer. Her rich soprano voice blends perfectly with the soft tenor of Mr. Bajan who is noted for his work on stage, radio and screen. Both are American citizens and for years have made Hollywood their headquarters, where they have appeared in many of the outstanding pictures.

With their picturesque costumes, native instruments, their unusual background and experience, they form one of the most artistic and unique musical organizations of the entire country today. They are known throughout the world for their colorful musical program, typical of many lands. Their wholesome personalities, good fun and sparkling selections leave nothing to be desired.

The Bajan will be in the High School Auditorium October 6th at 1:30 p. m. Admission will be 15c.

Is Your Home PROPERLY LIGHTED to Prevent Eyestrain?

Proper lighting in your home to provide maximum eye comfort requires two kinds of light . . . specific light for close-seeing activities, and general lighting for the entire room.

Specific light arrangements usually are most beneficial when lamps with bulbs of 150-watt size or larger are used. This is particularly important so that you will have the proper light, and eyestrain will be avoided when members of the family are reading, studying, sewing, preparing food, doing hobby work, or any of the many activities found in well-rounded family life.

For suggestions as to how you can improve the lighting in your home, consult the booklet, "See Your Home in a New Light," which includes recipes for solving lighting problems in any room of the house.

The Star Promotes Charles G. Barndt

Charles G. Barndt of Sulphur, Okla., has been appointed to the newly created post of director of sales and promotion of the Lone Star Gas Company, an announcement made by George F. Peck, manager of Lone Star's Temple district.

Barndt takes over his new assignment October 1 after serving almost six years as superintendent of all Lone Star district properties in Oklahoma. He will be succeeded in Oklahoma division supervision by George F. Peck, manager of Lone Star's Temple district.

Lone Star Gas Company, although in the midst of its greatest period of expansion, faces a most competitive challenge in 1955. "We are now in the process of strengthening, expanding and organizing our sales organization to the extent that it will be none in the field," Barndt pointed out that Barndt directs the new and enlarged advertising program through Lone Star's operating territory in Texas, which includes Burkburnett and 890 other cities. He will have headquarters in Dallas.

Barndt is a native of Marion, Ohio, and started his Lone Star career in 1945 shortly after being graduated from the University of Michigan. He held various assignments with the gas company in Corsicana, Ennis, Marlin, Brownwood and Temple, until when he was appointed director of the Sulphur, Okla., district. He entered the United States Army in 1942 as first lieutenant, helped activate the Infantry Division at Camp Abilene, near Abilene and served with the division as a staff sergeant throughout the European campaign.

Barndt was discharged with rank of Major in April, 1946, and resumed his work with Lone Star as assistant sales manager for its West Texas territory. He was appointed sales manager for the territory early in 1947 and became superintendent of the Oklahoma division in November, 1948. In the latter part of the year he had headquarters at Burkburnett where he has been active in community affairs, serving as president of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the Rotary Club and on the board of Stewards of the Methodist Church. He has been a director of the Oklahoma Utilities Commission. His fraternity is Kappa Sigma.

Barndt is the former Miss Custer of Lima, Ohio. He has a son, Richard (Ricky) Barndt, age 12 years.

Midwestern Indians Playing at Canyon

Midwestern University's battered and bruised Indians, defeated last week by Trinity University of San Antonio, 20-7, goes on the road again this week, tackling West Texas State at Canyon.

The Indians, despite their defeat, looked very impressive in their Gulf Coast Conference opener. Although injured most of the game, Jerry Fouts added to his ground gaining lead with 42 yards in eight carries. He now has a two game total of 100 yds. without a loss. Fullback E. J. Webb, used sparingly in the opener, rushed for 62 yards in 12 carries against Trinity, the best individual performance.

Tackle Bill Ramsey is not expected to participate in the West Texas State game. The junior letterman suffered badly bruised ribs in the Trinity tussle and will not be allowed to drill this week.

Coaches Joe Saitta and Jess Stiles were very well pleased with the Tribe's performance, citing fine line play that limited the Trinity eleven to less than 100 yards net on the ground. The aerial defense, however, proved the Midwestern stumbling point, allowing 176 yards including three long gains that either scored or set up all Tiger touchdowns.

Senior letterman Chuck Malone is expected to replace Ramsey in the starting lineup.

Quarterback Bubba Wood and Center Choyce Hall, both out of the opener, recovered sufficiently to play limitedly against Trinity and should be ready to start against West Texas State.

FHA Loans Reach All-Time High Of $292,452,000

Farmers Home Administration lending operations reached an all time high in fiscal 1954, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said today.

Loans made and insured by the agency totaled $292,452,000, an increase of about 24 percent over the $228,701,000 advanced in fiscal 1953, the year ending June 30, 1953. The 1953 total had been the largest amount loaned in any one year by the Farmers Home Administration or its predecessor agencies.

Approximately 131,000 farm families received loans from the agency during fiscal 1953 compared to about 108,000 in fiscal 1953. Including farmers who already had loans, some 243,000 worked their farms during 1954 with FHA credit.

About two-thirds of the money advanced during 1954 was used by small farmers to improve their farms and farming operations. About one-third of the funds loaned were used by cattlemen and other farmers who had been hard hit by the drought and needed emergency credit to continue their operations. No loans of any type were made to farmers whose credit needs could be met by banks or other lenders.

A large proportion of total advances were made to veterans and other young farm families who are establishing better farm set ups, and whose greatest needs were for adequate credit and some in developing sound systems of farming and adopting efficient farm management practices.

Loans to help small farmers buy equipment, fertilizer, seed and pay other costs of improving their farm and home operations totaled $147,354,700.

Loans totaling $35,606,600 were advanced from appropriated funds to help small farmers buy or enlarge, or improve their farms and farm buildings during the year. Another $9,530,800 in real estate credit was advanced for similar purposes by private lenders and insured through the insured mortgage program.

Farm water facilities and irrigation system loans, limited until the end of the 1954 fiscal year to the 17 western states but

Airborne Training Best in The Army

Young men who can meet the mental and physical qualifications will find in the Army's finest, the Airborne, that they will be trained in a unique method of getting to the battlefield. Once on the ground he becomes not just another soldier, but one who will be more efficient because of superior training in various military specialties.

When applicants are accepted for the Airborne, they can be sure that they will get the best training possible. The foundation of Airborne training is good basic soldiering, but they have to have more than just that. The first assignment will be to a training division where the first introduction to military life begins. Under the expert eyes of qualified instructors, trainees are taught to march, to shoot, to take care of themselves through personal hygiene, sanitation and first aid.

After learning how to handle weapons such as light machine-guns and tank killing bazookas, enlistees will join other men of their squad in learning to work as a team, with riflemen's attack supported by artillery and mortars as downfield blockers.

Every prospective jumper must take the Basic Airborne Course given both at Ft. Benning, Ga., and Fort Bragg, N. C., where he is taught the fundamentals. During the short 3 weeks course, he designating Wednesday as National Day of Prayer, President Eisenhower said it is fitting that all Americans should unite in prayer on this day of each year in reaffirmation of our reliance on God's support and our faith in the power of prayer.

PRAYER

By R. D. LANEY

It is to be recalled that the first day of prayer in Congress, Sept. 1774, was given to the history of America. The political fortunes of the nation were at low ebb, its confidence in its government was at a low ebb, its faith in its government was at a low ebb, its confidence in its government was at a low ebb, its faith in its government was at a low ebb.

Without the inclusion of prayer no true picture of America can be painted and while the building of a civilization out of the virgin forest of the New World has been historically regarded as a demonstration of human energy, intelligence and idealism, there has constantly been in from the interests of his country, its aspirations, its needs, and its means of fulfilling them. We each have a part in our nation's affairs. Certainly, then, we should not withhold our prayers for our country any more than we would withhold our prayers for our home or our business. Collectively speaking, we are our country.

Praying in this fashion, we can expect that a greater measure of the divine order will be manifested in the affairs of our country and that justice, mercy, and peace may continue to characterize its government. Then there will be less confusion in government policies and more stability in their planning and operation of them; less fearful concern over the threats of false ideologies and more serenity of confidence in the rightness of own God-directed actions; less destruction from war, drought, storms, or plagues and greater peace, abundance, and general prosperity.

Before taking his leave, after serving out his term as President, Washington said, "to the benign Parent of the human race, in humble supplication, that, since he has been pleased to favor the American people with opportunities for deliberating in perfect tranquility, and disposition for deciding with unparalleled unanimity on a form of government for the security of their union and the advancement of their happiness; so his divine blessings may be equally conspicuous in the enlarged views, the temperate consultations, and the wise measures, on which the success of this government must depend."

the background a spiritual factor, for which the Father of his Country generally took occasion to express his gratitude.

Texas Safety Association

CROSS A STREET ON CAREFUL FEET

This should be the watchword of boys and girls who want to be safe in traffic. Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, President of the Texas Safety Association, and Services Advisor for the Gulf Oil Corp. told the children of Texas today.

He was speaking in connection with the traffic safety program, Child Safety, which is being sponsored in Texas by the Texas Safety Association, The Texas Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council.

He told children that they can do a lot to prevent accidents on the nation's streets and highways by following safety rules.

A driver who has to dodge a careless child may hit another car or a building, and cause a bad accident, Col. Tilley said. Also motorists sometimes can't avoid hitting a child who turns into the streets unexpectedly, or rides a bicycle in an unsafe manner.

He listed the following safety rules for children to follow in traffic.

1. Obey all traffic officers, school patrols and traffic signs and signals.
2. Observe the rules learned in school about crossing streets safely and paying only in safe places.
3. When going to and from school, take the safest route.
4. If there are no sidewalks, walk on the left side of the road facing traffic.
5. Never use roller skates, tricycles, wagons or scooters in the street or road. They are for the sidewalk only.
6. When you ride a bike take the following safety precautions:
 1. Ride with traffic and keep to the far right.
 2. Never weave or stunt. Ride in a straight line.
 3. When riding with others, ride in single file.
 4. Don't carry passengers on your bike. Carry book and packages in a carrier.
 5. In Traffic obey all signs signals and traffic laws.
 6. Never hitch on to a passing truck, street car, automobile or any vehicle.
 7. If you must ride at night, have a good light and rear reflector.
 8. Keep your bicycle in good mechanical condition at all times.

Texas State Dept. of Health
Dr. Henry A. Holle, M. D.

What the average community needs is a well organized health department to protect the health of the people, says Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer. Such a department will emphasize at least five types of activities to safeguard child health.

These activities are: (1) the safeguarding of child health and motherhood; (2) the control of contagion; (3) accurate recording of birth and deaths; (4) support of public health laboratories; and (5) sanitary control of diseases spread from human waste and by vermin and insects.

The full time local health unit gives due emphasis to each of the above mentioned activities. To illustrate how these 5 essential functions are interrelated, the interest of the various divisions in the new born baby, preschool and school child may be cited as an example. Child health is safeguarded by providing information and instruction to the mother. Through the use of vital statistics, complete and accurate birth registration is kept, as well as records indicating deaths which occur among children from preventable diseases.

Contagion is prevented or controlled against further spread thru the encouragement of immunization early in life, thru the prompt reporting of infectious disease. Public health laboratories and sanitary engineers provide additional bulwarks of protection for child life.

Pink, Blue Shower Given In Randlett In Baber Home

A lovely event of the past week given in the home of Mrs. Herts Baber on Friday afternoon was a pink and blue shower honoring Mrs. J. D. Taylor of Randlett, Oklahoma.

Colors chosen for the affair were pastel pink and green. As guests arrived, they were greeted by Mrs. Fordie Thompson who secured their names in a lovely hand made baby book emphasizing the pink and green color scheme.

The honoree was presented a very unusual corsage by Mrs. Baber. It was made of pink and green satin ribbon, baby rattle, colored diaper pins and a number of baby necessities.

A bouquet of pink carnations and baby lace fern in a pale green container centered the lace covered refreshment table. Mrs. John Martin, Jr., presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Paul Hooper served individual cake squares iced in pink and green.

Games for the afternoon were directed by Mrs. Fred Parks. A baby bed loaded with lovely gifts was presented the honoree. Approximately 50 guests registered and a number of friends sent gifts but were unable to attend.

Hostesses for the affair were: Mesdames Hobart Baber, Fordie Thompson, Charles Bowles, Paul Hooper, Fred Parks, Owen Parks, Raymond Shaw, Grady Benson, John Martin, Jr., Clyde Davis, J. G. Simpson, Herts Baber.

Over 600 are expected to attend the Sunday School at The First Baptist Church this Sunday at 9:45 A. M. This is Round-Up Day and we are trying to round up every member of the school and to extend an invitation to all new members and visitors to come with us this Sunday. There is a class for every member of the family. There is no more beautiful sight than to see every member of the family with Bibles in hand going to the house of God for Bible Study and worship. We believe you will like this school of the church.
