Cinemascope To Have Opening At Palace Theatre

It was announced today by Doug Speickerman, Manager of the Palace Theatre, that arrangements have been completed for the opening of Cinemascope, a revolutionary new process by which motion pictures are photographed and projected, and the show house will begin showing Cinemascope pictures in the very near future.

For the past several years, optical scientists and engineers of photography, have been experimenting with radical changes in the old standard form of making and presenting movies. Three dimension movies, requiring the spectator to wear special viewers enjoyed a brief flurry of interest, but the glasses proved to be somewhat of a nuisance and the process has been abandoned, except for novelty attractions that are definitely enhanced by depth perception.

But researchers refused to give up their efforts to give the moviegoer greater grandeur in his enjoyment, and out of experimentation costing millions, came the Anamorphoscope, a fabulously intricate optical instrument by which Cinemascope makes a startling and practical reality.

In simplest terms, the Anamorphic lens, reaches out and captures the entire panoramic scope of the human eye's normal range of vision, recording it on motion picture film in a 'squeezed' image, in the same way as the thin mirror in a Fun House compresses and distorts a reflection.

When, in transferring the scene to the theatre screen, another anamorphic lens in the projector 'un-squeezes' the image onto the gigantic screen that extends from wall to wall across the stage.

This effect is all enveloping, creating for the spectator the illusion of actually being a part of the action on the screen, and this is accomplished without special 3-D glasses.

Because of the intricate nature of the Anamorphic lens, they cannot be mass-produced and have been extremely hard to get, but Manager Speickerman states that his has arrived and all necessary equipment and structural changes have been made in the Palace Theatre.

With the installation of Cinemascope equipment, the Palace Theatre will bring to Burkburnett a parade of Cinemascope pictures, already under contract which are being acclaimed the greatest entertainment in motion picture history. Some of the pictures to be shown are THE ROBE, HOW TO MARRY A MILLIONAIRE, ROSE MARIE, NIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE, RIVER OF NO RETURN, THREE COINS IN THE FOUNTAIN, and many more Cinemascope attractions.

The first Cinemascope picture to play at the Palace Theatre, starting Jan. 9th, will be HELL AND HIGH WATER, in Technicolor, Deluxe and was filmed by 20th Century Fox.

There were 29 Rotarians and guests present including 11 Rotarians from Wichita Falls and Donald Gee, guest of Carl Mor-

Financial Forecast For 1955

By ROGER W. BABSON

1. GENERAL BUSINESS. Despite wails from some quarters, 1954 saw a drop in the average Physical Volume of Business of only 5 percent from the record year 1953. 1955 could see a rise of about the same amount. Certainly, the direction of business until mid 1955 will be upward.

2. Business Men Will Wake Up. During 1954 many businessmen rediscovered the meaning of the word "competition." Sales will continue to be made only with real effort in most lines.

3. Consumption Outlook. Consumption in a number of lines has been proceeding at a more rapid rate than has production. I forecast a better record in early 1955 for both steel and automobiles.

4. Textile Industry. Textile industry operated at extremely low levels thruout most of 1954. Coal and railroad equipment also exerted a strong downward pull. I forecast that the textile and coal industries will be in a recovery phase after their long stay in the doldrums.

5. Private Construction. I forecast that home building and general construction will be somewhat lower in 1955 than in 1954, but this important industry should still operate at high levels next year.

6. Public Construction. I forecast that public construction will increase during 1955. This should mean a rise in the output of cement.

7. Agricultural Equipment. This industry has been suffering from a decline in demand, but should now improve. Government-sponsored planting curtailment and crop loans have reduced free supplies, and may make for higher agricultural prices later in 1955.

8. Armament Industry. The armament industry will still be one of the main floors beneath economy. The electrical and chemical industries will move at a rate close to that of 1954.

9. OTHER INDUSTRIES. I am somewhat optimistic on clothing, aircraft manufacturing air-line transportation, office equipment, electricity output, petroleum production, natural gas and shoes. I am also fairly bullish on rubber, paper, electrical equipment, certain types of building and nonferrous metals.

10. Weather Conditions. It is foolish for me to attempt to forecast rains, droughts, frosts etc. for any special section. However, taking the nation as a whole, I look for better weather in 1955.

11. Retail Sales. I forecast that the outlook for retail sales is encouraging, at least thru the first half of 1955.

12. PROFITS. Stiffening competition is chipping away at the profit margin. Return on invested capital is in a long-term downward trend. The first few years after World War II were the golden years for the novice in business and for the inefficient. Those days are gone for awhile.

13. SELECTIVITY. Higher labor and other costs, plus intensified competition, will continue during 1955. I forecast a high degree of selectivity in the effect of this trend on individual activities and companies. Victory will be for the nimble and for the strong.

14. DIVIDENDS. Recent high expenditures for new plant and machinery have left some concerns with very high depreciation charges. As new capital commitments are cut and depreciation remains high cash inflow could expand. Such companies should be able to pay out in dividends a higher percentage of earnings in 1955 than in recent years, notwithstanding a moderate profits shrinkage.

15. INVENTORIES.

Inventories have been permitted to run down during 1954. As total business expands, there will be a tendency to replace reduced stocks, especially during the first half of 1955. Total manufacturers inventories however, may build up more rapidly than total business inventories. I forecast that total wholesale and total retail inventories will show little change from 1954 levels.

16. Prices of Manufactured Goods. Even with the expected pickup in demand, I see no sharp markup in industrial prices next year. Over-all supplies are generally ample. Hence, I forecast that industrial prices in 1955 will show little change from recent levels.

17. FOOD PRICES. Food prices may firm later in 1955. The strong move into Government crop loans this year has made free supplies of most agricultural items less burdensome. I forecast that new advertising programs by canners and other great food distributors will help farmers, stock raisers and fruit growers.

18. Consumer Income. Consumer income will hold at satisfactory levels. Most goods should move readily into consuming channels.

19. LIVING COSTS. I forecast that during 1955 living costs will show little overall change from present levels. There may be some firming during the first half, but the late months may again witness a minor softening.

20. RENTS, ETC. I forecast rental expenses may edge somewhat higher; clothing costs should be steady to moderately higher. There is small chance that food expenses can be greatly reduced.

21. MONEY SUPPLIES. I forecast that money supplies will be ample for all legitimate business needs during 1955. With little likelihood of business getting out of hand on the upside, credit easing is more likely than credit curtailment in 1955.

22. INFLATION. Fears, or perhaps hopes, of an inflationary boom should be buried. Barring outbreak of war, our productive capacity is sufficiently large to meet all demands for goods. I forecast that no run-

The bride was a beautiful picture in an off white two piece dress of faile featuring a straight skirt and puritan collar. She wore brown accessories to complete her costume and carried a white bible with white carnations and rose colored streamers. The matron of honor wore a soft blue suit and a gardenia corsage.

Recorded music provided the wedding march and recessional. Double baskets of Chinese red gladioli and greenery provided the nuptial background.

A reception was held in the home immediately following the wedding.

Mrs. P. O. Wise registered the guests in the brides book. Mrs. E. C. Johnson of Bryan, Texas, served cake and Mrs. John Dwyer of San Antonio served punch from the beautiful refreshment table which featured silver candelabra and an arrangement of Gladioli with a streamer imprinted with the names Nell and Jay.

The weather created an unusual situation for this wedding party by delaying the wedding two hours while the bride was snowbound between her home and town. Two parties were sent out before she finally arrived for the wedding. Incidentally, the wedding trip has been postponed due to the weather.

NO PLACE TO GO - BUT UP

The parking problem, it appears, is no longer one of finding a hitching post or rail to which you can lash the faithful Dobbin. In fact the parking problem, as it relates to city streets, is rapidly becoming extinct — in spite of the practice of ambitious municipalities of renting their curb-space via the parking meter. Traffic congestion is costing too much in delaying the movement of goods and people, and endangers public safety in impeding the progress of ambulances, police cars, fire and other emergency equipment. The experts agree there is only one solution — a complete ban on parking as we have always known it.

But what shall we do with our gleaming pride and joy when we drive to the city? Leave it home? Store it in a hole in the ground? No, say those experts, we will file it in any one of several types of automatic devices, which are essentially skelton towers in which each car occupies its own slot, and a minimum amount of space. A push button sends it up, and a push button brings it down. And one operator has figured out it takes exactly 18 seconds to completely park or unpark a car, which would mean your car would be removed from its filling space and returned to you while you pick up your change and lite a cigarette.

To date there are about 35 different types of mechanical parkers, and installations now operating in various cities and have handled millions of cars without we are told a dented fender or a ruffled customer. A nostalgic note in all this modernism will be provided by a 270 car filing system now planned for New York, and which will look for all the world like a gigantic silo, eight stories high.

Another heartening aspect of the parking revolution is that, once again, it is the inventive genius, the foresight and the financial courage of free enterprise that is providing the solution to a big city problem that has gotten out of hand. Thanks to the realistic leadership of the National Parking Association, it is possible to solve the traffic problem without prohibiting traffic.

It's high time we discovered there's plenty of room on our city streets for traffic, but no room for storage.

THE BEAR'S CHOICE

One of the brown bears kept at the Portland, Ore., Zoo dug his way out of his cage to freedom. He roamed the woods until he was discovered by visitors. The keeper had no trouble rounding him up. An offering of meat and the bear went back in his cage.

In the wilds bears hibernate at this time of the year when food is scarce, and sleep thru the winter. But this bear gave up his freedom for meager handout.

Man is often like the Portland bear. He fights his way to freedom from oppression and slavery and then gives up his hard won victory for a few pittance from government. Like the bear he accepts the dole of his keeper and the gate slams behind him with a jarring finality.

Winter Driving Increases Hazards

"Our state may not officially sanction blind drivers, but during the winter we have plenty of blind Billies' behind the wheel of cars!"

Mr. R. B. Roaper of Houston, President of the Texas Safety Association and Chief Safety Engineer for Humble Oil & Refining Company, commenting on the holiday hazards program now being conducted by The Texas Safety Association, the Texas Dept. of Public Safety, and the National Safety Council said: "Winter driving is tough enough when visibility is good. When you can't see where you are driving, your chances of arriving safely are almost zero."

Mr. Roaper defined "Blind Billies" as drivers who might as well be blind for all they can see out of their windows. "They're much too busy to take-out a few minutes to clear the ice and snow off their windshields," he said. "Instead, they drive down our holiday crowded streets, peering thru small peepholes in their windshields, endangering everyone's lives, including their own."

National Safety Council figures that in one out of ten fatal traffic accidents last year, the drivers vision was obscured in one way or another, and half of the obstructions were on the vehicle itself.

Mr. Roaper cautioned motorists to check the following points which are of vital importance to visibility in winter driving:

1. Heater should be maintained in good condition to insure a steady flow of warm air. Warm air deters the formation of steam on the windows of the car.
2. Defroster should be in good working order. It should operate well enough to keep windshield free of ice and snow.
3. Windows should be kept free of outside accumulations of ice and snow. Clear windows before beginning to drive.
4. Headlights and tail lights must be in perfect working condition.
5. Fog lights are recommended for maximum vision. They should be mounted as low as possible on the front of the car, and should have clear lenses.
6. An ice scraper should be kept in the glove compartment of the car at all times for clearing ice and snow that the wind shield wiper cannot remove.

The following couples attended a get-together in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gilbert Christmas night: Messrs. and Mesdames Earl Burch, Jr., of Wichita Falls, Jimmy Roy Morris of Abilene, Chas. White of Abilene, Bill Bowman of Killeen, Tex., Vernon Duke, Howard Clement, Floyd Marten of Burkburnett, Dr. and Mrs. I. E. Harwell of Wichita Falls and Maurice Ball of Dallas.

Financial Forecast

Inflation is probable, even money managers increase supply of money or ease

INTEREST RATES. The Treasury finds a balance the budget, holds at high levels and unemployment at a minimum, I see little likelihood of high interest rates.

BOND PRICES The possible exception of bonds, I see no reason for increased bond prices in 1955. I expect an increase in the issue of tax-free revenue bonds.

STOCK PRICES No sharp rise, the market would have a reaction; but forecasting no crash in such as we had in 1929. In the situation changed for after October 11, 1954.

WAGES. I forecast that the wage trend in organized industry will continue to move higher at least first half of 1955. During first half year, when business will be improving, the labor market will also be quick to the strike weapon.

OTHER LABOR GAINS. I forecast that the heavy guns of labor bigwigs will be used on the guaranteed average, shorter work week, more pensions. With a Congressional control of appointments to the National Labor Relations Board, the decision that body will swing more labor toward management.

NEW INVENTIONS. I forecast that the labor market will be a laborer type. I forecast a marked increase in automation and cyano, and other marvelous inventions in production methods.

EMPLOYMENT. Employment outlook is bright, since business will be upgraded during the first half of 1955. I forecast that local and national unemployment will still be a knotty problem.

FAILURES. The salient business character of 1955 will be bitter competition. Many companies already weakened by competitive conditions will no longer be able to float. I forecast a rise in the number and the total of failures during 1955.

MERGERS. I forecast that mergers and acquisitions will be encouraged by officials, if, by merger, a weak company can be saved while every effort will be made to prevent bankruptcies. I forecast that mergers will be on a large scale.

General Real Estate Sales. Real estate prices should be falling. Only a few areas are still rising. I forecast a downturn in real estate prices should be postponed.

URANIUM CRAZE. The greatest speculation will be in the seeking and mining of land with uranium deposits. This is now centered in Colorado, Utah and vicinity; I forecast it will spread in many other ways to many other areas and even to "offshore" projects.

erty. It could exceed the gold rush of 1849. Another demand will be for woodlands which can be bought for a few dollars per acre.

34. COMMERCIAL LANDS. These have suffered a decline in price as a result of the slump in agricultural prices and farm incomes. Unless more will be done politically for the farmers next year, I forecast that the recent decline in commercial farm prices may continue during 1955. Subsistence farms on the fringes of larger cities should hold up well in price migration toward the suburbs continues.

35. Vacant Land in City Areas. With the exception of parking lots, city vacant land should experience a continued slow reduction in price during 1955; but no marked change in suburban vacant land, except for parking. I am bullish on land anywhere suitable for parking.

36. BUSINESS PROPERTY. I foresee little hope for improvement for such property in the larger cities during 1955. Business property in the suburbs has not been so inflated, and therefore will not be so vulnerable to declines and high taxes.

37. INDUSTRIAL BUILDING. The construction of new industrial plants gives every indication of continuing to mark out a downward course during 1955. I forecast that the brightest spot on the construction horizon for next year is the prospect for increased municipal construction, schools, hospitals, etc.

38. Residential Construction. The building of new homes has held at very high levels during 1954. Although I expect the trend of new home prices to be downward during the year, 1955, they will still persist at very high figures, at least during the first half of the year. New homes will continue to be choice of purchases, even though older homes give better values.

39. TAXES The Eisenhower Administration has clearly recognized that expanding business and increased expenditures for plant and equipment are the true sources for rising employment and more jobs. I forecast a continued aim during 1955 will be to have tax aid business and thereby help employees to more and better jobs.

40. INCOME TAXES I forecast there will be no further relief, in 1955, of the double taxation feature on dividends or of the 25 percent capital gains tax. Furthermore, corporation income taxes will not be permitted to decline as scheduled next spring. I forecast that, unless business slumps more than I anticipate during late 1955, there will be no reduction in personal income taxes next year, except to correct some technical errors. Any relief for the individual "small" taxpayer will be saved until the election year, 1956.

41. POLITICS. The really big political news in 1955 will not be made by the laws that will be enacted, but by the tremendous preparations for the 1956 presidential campaign. Those who claim that President Eisenhower is at heart a liberal and will get along well with a Democratic Congress should remember the lessons of politics.

42. WORLD WAR III In my opinion, the initiative in international affairs still rests with Russia. The Kremlin is not yet ready for an all-out attack and no one in the West wants World War III. Malenkov is now pushing a "Peace Offensive." I am referring here to the year 1955 over the long term, I still feel that a major holocaust is inevitable, but I forecast no World War III in 1955.

43. FOREIGN AID. Our foreign efforts during the year will continue to aim plugging the leaks and building new dykes against the flooding tides from the East. I forecast we will work hard to build up gains in the Far East, particularly in India.

44. FOREIGN COMPETITION. As Germany rearms and the Brussels Treaty Organization goes into gear, I forecast further improvement in Europe. Competition from European manufacturers will, however, intensify. Reciprocal trade deals will be pushed. I would not be surprised to see a decline in our exports in 1955 and an increase in imports.

45. Churches and Charities. I forecast that the "spiritual awakening which started in 1954 will continue into 1955 with an increase in Church members. This is a very important sign. Gifts to charities will also increase, due to the more liberal allowance on taxes, up to 30 percent provided goes to churches, schools, or hospitals.

46. TRAVEL and SPORTS. I forecast more money will be spent on travel and sports in 1955. This is becoming an important new industry and should especially benefit Florida, California, Arizona, New Mexico, the Great Lakes Region, New England and the Northwest.

47. New Metals and Alloys. Next to air conditioning, I expect great growth in the use of new metals and alloys. I forecast the rare metals stocks will be sought in 1955 as were the oils in 1954.

48. ADVERTISING. I forecast business spending in this field will increase further in 1955. It not only is the salvation of individual businesses, but is the best stimulant for national prosperity.

49. POPULATION. I forecast the population will continue to increase during 1955 with a growing percentage of young people between 18 and 22. This means a greater demand for clothing, college education, and especially for new school buildings.

The Living Desert Captures Nature's Dramatic Moments

A pageant of loveliness combines with exciting drama as "The Living Desert," Walt Disney's first True Life Adventure feature unfolds on the screen of the Palace theatre.

Ranging from the fabulously lovely stretches of the Great American Desert, contrasting sharply with distant Mount Whitney towering fifteen thousand feet above sea level, to the antics of a stout-hearted rodent; from the innermost secrets of a cactus bloom to the raging fury of a band of peccaries on the heels of a bobcat, the film offers a series of highly exciting incidents as dramatic as they are unusual, all played out against the brilliant mosaic of Nature's most colorful sections.

Such personalities as the Gekko lizard, the chuckawalla, pygmy descendent of the ancient dinosaur, the solemn little elf owl, the coati mundi, that rakish desert bandit, and the kangaroo rat share the screen with innumerable other desert creatures representative of the insect, reptile, animal and floral life of that locale.

The raw emotions, the primitive morals, the courtship, battles, pranks and basic activities of bringing up a family, all are captured by the cameras manned by the Disney staff of naturalist-photographers. Heading the crew were N. Paul Kenworthy, Jr. and Robert Crandall, with additional footage by Stuart V. Jewell, Jack Couffer, Don Arlen and Tad Nichols.

Using the score to highlight the drama, Paul Smith, composer and conductor of Producer Disney's True Life Adventures, establishes a musical liaison between desert personalities and audience, the better to heighten and point up the various emotional values of the film.

Closely allied with the music is the fabulously lovely sweep of color, as the Technicolor values of each sequence, from glances into the golden-yellow heart of a cactus bloom to the wide scenic values of miles of burning sands, offer an exciting and unique experience to those carried along on the magic of modern film making.

In Technicolor, "The Living Desert," like its subject matter, concentrates on the theme that in this fantastic wonderland there are no endings; only a vast and constantly hopeful beginning. After every moment of destruction, a brilliant new start is made, after every flash flood, the magnificent flowers burst into bloom, after every individual argument a new life is started, as the story of Nature, itself, goes on in eternal optimism for eons to come.

DENIZENS OF THE DESERT

Check Fruit Trees Before Pruning

Observe carefully the number of fruit buds on trees before pruning the orchard this winter, advises B. T. Haws, county agent.

Haws says unfavorable weather has caused subnormal terminal growth on fruit bearing trees this season in all parts of the county. Generally, fruit trees, especially peach, have set only a light crop of buds for next year, where this condition prevails, very little pruning will be necessary, says the county agent.

A tree having few buds should be thinned only to remove dead or diseased wood. Do not "head back" trees under these conditions, Haws cautions.

Commercial nurseries are having many of the same difficulties as home orchardists, and nursery stock presently is scarce. Haws advises growers who plan to set

When all pruning is complete, another close check of the orchard is recommended, this time for San Jose scale. It will pay to use a standard dormant spray three gallons of 97 percent oil emulsion in 100 gallons of water. Every inch of bark should be covered to give the most effective control.

Good Time To Work In Your Peach Orchard

Now is a good time to do some work in the peach orchard, which will pay off next summer, according to B. T. Haws, county agent.

December and January is the time to get in the orchard and take care of the necessary jobs which make up good orchard management.

If you are planning a new orchard or replacing some trees lost to the drought, the new trees should be planted in December or January.

If you plant in the winter, the new trees can make some growth and will have a better chance of surviving a dry spring.

Here are some things that should be done as soon as the trees become dormant:

Prune the young tree in its first season.

In the young orchard the selection and training of branches for forming the head is a matter of importance. The heads of first year trees should be developed with three to five branches. The first of these branches should be eight to ten inches above the ground with the others alternating four to six inches apart to the top.

At the end of the first growing season prune off those branches on the body that are not to become part of the permanent framework of the tree. The ends of the remaining branches should be pruned so that all will be of approximately the same length. Do not remove more of the "end growth" of the tree than is necessary to give a tree symmetrical appearance.

Second and third year pruning does not vary widely from the first year, except perhaps in the extent of pruning. The cutting back some at this time requires that particular attention be given to thinning out lateral branches that are too close and shortening branches that have grown too long and out of proportion to other branches on the tree.

This facilitates harvesting, thinning and spraying. Trees pruned to have an open center admit sunlight to speed ripening and aid coloring of the fruit. Branches thinned out also prevent the rubbing of fruit. Prune as soon as the leaves are off.

Wrap young trees in foil if you are bothered with rabbits. The foil will last all winter and is easy to handle on small trees.

Trees need to be sprayed with a dormant spray for control of San Jose scale. A three percent oil emulsion spray with three gallons of oil emulsion to 100 gallons of water will do the job.

If you have not treated your peach trees for the peach tree borer, you may do this job now. Ethylene dichloride emulsion is the most satisfactory material for peach tree borer control. The material can be applied any time after the leaves shed in the fall until early April, provided the temperature is above 45 degrees F. and the ground is not too wet.

4-H Club Meetings For Wichita County

During the month of September, the 17 organized clubs of Wichita County 4-H boys had for their program, a series of slides and a discussion of swine and pork production. Since the growing of pigs is an important phase of the 4-H livestock program here in Wichita County, the program proved very interesting to a large majority of the boys attending these meetings.

Glen Dunkle, Assistant County Agent, led the discussion in each of the club programs and explained some of the practices of swine management and illustrated the talks with some 38 colored slides dealing with the subject. Particular emphasis was placed on the handling of the sow and litter and the growing of the baby pigs up to weaning age.

Of interest to the 4-H boys were some new methods of parasite control and construction of pens and houses for the care of pigs. Also discussed were some feeding recommendations for fattening hogs and the possibilities of utilizing more pasture and home grown feeds in a well rounded swine operation.

Various breed characteristics were another phase of the discussion and members learned how to quickly identify breeds and some of the strong and weak points of each. Those breeds discussed were Duroc-Jersey; Hampshire, Poland-China. Seven steps in proper management of the swine operation were outlined and a great number of questions were answered in connection with the present trends toward the meat type of hog.

Dunkle indicated that this type of program may stimulate interest in swine among the youngsters and he hopes that a larger percentage of the pigs farrowed this winter and spring will grow to maturity.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Smith and children of Tahlequah, Okla. Miss Margaret Preston of Espinola, N. M. and Mr. and Mrs. Don Lohofener of Abilene visited Mrs. B. H. Preston over the Christmas holidays.

4-H Beef Cattle Show January 15

Plans were recently completed for the Wichita Beef show which will be held in the 4-H club Center on January 15, 1955. This show will include both milk fed steers and beef heifers being fed by the 4-H boys and girls in Wichita County.

Attending the meeting were all the 4-H members having animals for exhibit in this event, along with their parents and the county agents B. T. Haws and Glen Dunkle. Plans for the show call for a full day's program with animals arriving before ten o'clock that morning. Judging will begin promptly at 1:00 P. M., with steers being judged first, and the heifers following upon completion of the steers competition. Entries in the beef heifer division will be grouped according to breed, with breed champions being selected, and a grand champion female being selected from the breed winners. The baby beef steers will be divided into junior and senior classes by weight and a grand champion and reserve champion will be declared.

Also under discussion at the program were entry requirements for the Ft. Worth and Houston shows, which will be held during January and February. Several of the 4-H steer feeders will have entries at Ft. Worth and Houston along with the big Area Show held each year in Wichita Falls during the last week in February.

Those attending the planning meeting included W. M. Morton, Ralph Swinford, and G. O. Baley of Frisberg; Carter McGregor of Scotland; Loys Barbour, Iowa Park; C. W. Brock and Flynn Stewart of Wichita Falls. 4-H members at the program were Frank Morton, Olen Baley, Edward Brock, Carl Platt, Jim Barbour, Joyce Stewart, Bennie Rogers and Mack McGregor.

The group also agreed to write all the area breeders having animals in the show to make an effort to be present for this program. Mr. J. A. Scofield of Vernon will act as judge for the steers and a judge for the heifer show has not yet been named. Glen Dunkle and B. T. Haws were asked to complete final arrangements and report back to the group at the next meeting.

Texas State Dept. of Health

Dr. Henry A. Holle, M. D.

If you have not had an audit made recently of your physical assets and liabilities, go to your doctor now and have it done in the advice of Dr. Henry A. Holle State Health Officer, to all grown-ups in Texas. "It is quite as important," Dr. Holle said, "to check up on your physical resources as it is to look into the state of your financial possessions. By regular care under your physician's direction, you can conserve your physical assets and avoid the accumulation of destructive liabilities."

Each of us starts with a certain amount of physical capital. Merely as a business proposition, it is worthwhile to conserve it to the best of our ability. In infancy and childhood our physical resources, as a rule, are safeguarded for us. As we grow older, the responsibility for doing so rest upon the individual. The critical period may come in middle life with the sudden realization that the physical capital is yielding diminishing returns in the way of physical well being. A large number of the deaths reported each year in Texas is due to the degenerative diseases of middle age.

"Nearly all of these diseases have slow beginnings, and their onset can often be recognized in the course of a thorough physical examination before they have gained serious headway. In the majority, early detection of menacing conditions with a readjustment of physical expenditures and a better budgeting of activities under the physician's direction, will help to shift the balance from unfavorable to the favorable side of the ledger."

A FANTASY PRODUCTION

Debra Paget In Princess of The Nile

Winsome actress Debra Paget has lowered her baby-blue eyes for the last time in the puppy-love romances that have built her screen repertoire. In Pan-aramic Productions' Technicolor film, "Princess of the Nile," which also stars Michael Rennie and Jeffrey Hunter and opens New Year's Eve at the Palace Theatre, Debra emerges as a temptress of the dance whose choreography has put movie censors on their guard.

The twenty-year old star who has been under contract to Twentieth Century-Fox since she was 14, portrays an Egyptian princess in medieval days whose kingdom has been overrun by the Arabs. She disguises herself as a tavern dancer in order to rouse her people to revolt. This dual role allows Debra to show what she can do as a beguiler of men, with intrigue and with the dance. To Debra it symbolized that moment when the studio graduated her from ten-age characterizations and she could get on with a serious acting career: "I've been a dancer since I was thirteen," says Debra, "but until this picture nobody has really seen what I can do. I have a chance to work out my own dance routines and interpretations."

The routines in "Princess of the Nile" are based on 13th Century Egyptian dances with a liberal interpretation by Debra, who gave full throttle to her imagination. What resulted has the appearance of authenticity. Assuming more positions than an old Egyptian frieze, she undulates like a papyrus field in Spring. Her costumes, which consist mainly of a few strategically placed clusters of beads and a yard or so of gossamer, flutter like flags in a high wind. With one eye on the censor and the other on the film editor, she said: "I hope they leave every wiggle and everything right there."
