Police Make Quick Stop Of Con Man

At 9:10 p.m. Wednesday night, Muleshoe City Police Department Dispatcher Martina Valdez received a telephone call that a quick-change artist was working in Muleshoe and had already been to two businesses.

She notified MPD Sgt. Richard Bonham, who was on routine patrol at the time. As she described the man's vehicle, he passed in front of the patrol car eastbound on Highway 84.

Sgt. Bonham had to turn around and pursued the vehicle to the area adjacent to the Muleshoe Livestock Auction on Highway 84 where the vehicle was stopped. As the man started to get out of his car, Sgt. Bonham said the man had something in his hand, and he immediately asked for a 'back-up.'

Taken into custody was 35-year old Walter R. Deal, a black male who gave a Garland address.

Investigating officers also found a small amount of marijuana in his vehicle, so he faced additional charges.

According to the manager of the Pizza Hut, the man had attempted a 'quick-change' in the Pizza Hut. Failing in his attempt there, he drove to the Shafer Bell Station, where he allegedly successfully pulled off a 'quick-change' on the high school station attendant.

However, the Pizza Hut manager had followed him, and officers were called as he left the station.

By 9:13 p.m., the man was in custody, and charged with Class 'C' theft and with Class 'B' possession of marijuana. Further checking also showed he had outstanding warrants at Clarksville for dangerous drug charges.

He was locked up in the Bailey County jail and had two arraignments on Thursday morning. The first arraignment was before Municipal Judge Lynda Huckaby on the Class 'C' theft. Bond on that charge was set at $200. Deal was then taken before Justice of the Peace Jack Bates who ordered him held under $500 bond on the possession of Marijuana charge, a Class 'B' charge.

The Clarksville Police Department also placed a 'hold' on the man when he is through with the local charges.

WINTER RENOVATION CONTINUES--Even though it is wintertime, renovation is continuing on the old Santa Fe Depot, which is in its permanent location at the Ranching Heritage Center. When completed, the depot will become a senior citizen center. Santa Fe Railway donated the depot to the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation, who moved it last spring to its new location.

New center to study treatment, recycling of municipal wastes

COLLEGE STATION — Discovering new technologies for treating and recycling municipal wastes is the goal of the Center for Environmental Research, a cooperative effort by Texas A&M University, the University of Texas and the City of Austin.

Austin is spending $40 million in improvements to the wastewater facility and the universities will provide funding and staff for research efforts.

Dr. Calvin Woods, a Texas A&M professor of civil engineering, is working with the center and is studying the use of water hyacinth, a plant that feeds on pollutants in the wastewater discharged from the city. Researchers also are looking at using sludge for soil conditioning.

Texas A&M survey finds typical handgun owner middle-aged male

COLLEGE STATION — Most handgun owners are men, live in the South, are between 35 and 49 years of age and own only one weapon, according to a marketing survey conducted by two Texas A&M University professors.

"We did the study more out of curiosity than anything else," says Dr. William Pride who conducted the survey with Dr. O.C. Ferrell, both of Texas A&M's College of Business Administration. "There's been a lot of talk about handguns lately," Pride said. "We were interested in finding out something about the profile of people who were most likely to own handguns."

The survey involved a random sample of 2,100 U.S. households and found that 18 percent of the respondents owned at least one handgun. While a quarter of the males surveyed owned a handgun, less than 14 percent of the females interviewed owned one, the study found.

The professors also found that ownership was lowest among people in the 18-25 age bracket and that ownership appears to increase with income.

About 13 percent of the households earning less than $15,000 a year own handguns while 22 percent of the households with incomes in excess of $40,000 own one.

WET WEATHER SLOWS CONSTRUCTION--Construction on the new all-weather track to be placed around the perimeter of Benny Douglass Stadium -- the Muleshoe High School football field, has slowed down due to recent wet, muddy weather. However, the new track is expected to be completed in the near future. Looking at the site at this time, there is little evidence that what the camera scanned across was a football field.

nancial progress.

The program on the 27th, is Whole Farm Planning - Example farm used; typical enterprise budgets; break-even analysis; a ply gross margin analysis to example; look at alternative whole farm plans; cash flow of alternative plans and partial budgeting.

On January 29, at 9:30 a.m., and in the Bailey County Civic Center, Dr. Wayne Hayenga, Farm Economist-Management Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will conduct an Estate Planning meeting.

Dr. Hayenga's program will consist of all phases of farm estate planning relating to tax laws, gift tax legislation, how to separate farm "land" from the operating business and other farm assets, added Tanksley.

"Now that profits from farming and ranching are slimmer," said the county agent, "estate tax planning becomes more necessary because the profits are just not there in many operations to afford estate tax payments.

"Dr. Hayenga is an expert in the field of estate planning and this is a golden opportunity for you to receive first-hand information here in Muleshoe. This type of program will only come our way every five to 10 years."

For additional information on any of the programs call the Bailey County Extension office.
