Lectures series returns in 2020

Brown Bag Luncheon lecture series starts up a new series Tuesday, Jan. 7

The Brown Bag Lecture Luncheon Series will pick back up next week. The lectures are free to attend and the community is encouraged to join in. The meetings will take place each week, at Noon inside the Heritage Museum.

By ANNA GUTIERREZ

Staff Writer

The Brown Bag Lecture Series, which was affectionately named History Nerds by those who attended in 2019, is picking back up for 2020. The series this year is titled The Wisdom of History. The lectures are a series on DVD, and Dr. Rufus Fears is again the lecturer.

The lecture series begins Tuesday, Jan. 7, at noon, in one of the meeting rooms in the basement of Howard County Library, located at 500 S. Main St. Elevators are available for anyone with mobility concerns. Best of all, these lectures are free to all attendees.

"Dr. Fears is a great story-teller," states Nancy Michaelis, who has become the facilitator during the lectures, but does not like to be referred to as the teacher. "The lectures take about half an hour most of the time, and we have group discussions afterwards relating the history and events presented during the lecture to present day events. I think you will find the series stimulating and though-provoking."

The first lecture is titled Why We Study History, and will be more of an introduction. The following weeks will consists of the following topics in this order for a total of 36 lectures:

- World War I and the Lessons of His-
- · Hitler's Rise and the Lessons of His-
- World War II and the Lessons of
- Is Freedom a Universal Value?
- Birth of Civilization in the Middle

Jump start a healthy new year

YMCA women's 14-day bootcamp starts Monday By AMANDA DUFORAT

Managing Editor

New year, new resolutions and an opportunity to jump start a new healthy lifestyle, with the 2020 Women's Bootcamp class being offered at the YMCA of Big Spring.

"It's the start of a new year and with that comes a new group of those wanting to drop a few holiday pounds and get into a workout routine," Dathan Jones, YMCA Director, said. "However, we also know the desire to get into a healthy routine is there, but so is the discomfort of working out in front of all these new people. We are offering the bootcamp for women as a way to provide a comfortable setting to allow you to get started." The boot camp is scheduled for 14 consecutive days, starting Jan. 6 and concluding Jan. 19. Each class will be 30-minutes and begin at 5 a.m. The official weigh-in will be Sunday, Jan. 5 at 8 p.m. and all ages are welcome to join in the class. "We want to encourage those ladies wanting to attend to go ahead and sign up early, but if they want to show up Monday morning and sign up that works too," Jones said.

Encouraging a great healthy lifestyle in 2020 is the goal for local families, here at the YMCA. Whether you are a beginner when it comes to working out or at the experienced level, Jones said all are encouraged to attend the bootcamp.

"When mom starts working out it usually happens that the rest of the family follows," he said. "Before long we see Dad joining in on the workouts and then the kids get involved in the activities we offer, and before long a healthy lifestyle is routine for the family."

He added, "We just want to do what we can to support and help kick start them on this new journey."

Membership fee for the class is $40 and non-members can attend the class for $50, which according to Jones is Trostle said Texas A&M AgriLife has been commended for its realistic assessment during meetings with potential growers, as well as through written and video materials produced to educate the public about potential pitfalls and possibilities within the new industry.

"As Texans well know, there is a lot of hype around the CBD aspect of hemp," Trostle said. "But prices are now at their lowest since agricultural hemp production was initiated about five years ago. Prices are down as much as 70% since earlier this year. This substantially curtails all those

Stories from an East Texas Cowboy

These East Texas cowboys are still the best."

Carroll Langham of Grapeland is one of those rare and fortunate individuals who can have outrageous experiences and relate them with vigor.

He writes cowboy poetry and stories and has put some of them in 2 books. Their titles are THE

CUSTOM COWBOYS OF HOUSTON COUN-TY and THE RETURN THE CUSTOM COWBOYS OF HOUS-TON COUNTY. His wife kept hearing his stories and encouraged him to start writing some of them. That's just what he has done the past 5 years. One of his stories is about a friend of his who killed a chicken snake just before the vet came to examine some cows. "He thought how funny it ell all them hands would be to put that snake in out there in the one of them cows that the vet one of them cows that the vet was checking. So he lubed the snake up good and put it in the cow's rectum. The vet ran his arm in the cow and there was something in there that wasn't supposed to be. He began pulling the snake out and it was folded up pretty good. When it came out and fell on the floor it started to unfold. It looked like it was alive. The vet was so scared he turned TUMBLEWEED and ran, scrambling to get away from that SMITH snake." You just can't make up stuff like that. Carroll writes poems about dogs.

"I've had a lot of dogs and some good 'uns I've had. But a dog that won't handle can sure make you

The only thing worse than a dog that won't hunt

Is a dog that works behind instead of in front."

Then there's the story about his buddy Johnny who had some deer hunters on his land.

"He got to be friendly with them. They had killed a deer and were out there skinning it. One old big heavy boy was bent over skinning on the deer and his britches were kind of open on the back. Well Johnny had some red M & Ms in his pocket that he had been eating. So he just dropped about 6 of them red M & Ms down the guy's pants.

He was busy with the deer and didn't notice anything.

So that night when he went to take a shower all them red M &Ms had melted in his underwear. He thought he was bleeding to death. He went to the emergency room. Johnny said when he got back the next day he was one mad cowboy.

was just red M & Ms." In his writing, Carroll uses his

Letter to THE EDITOR Bypass route

Dear Editor.

A lot has been written about the idea of a a Port to Plains route which would go through Big Spring, and I feel that it has the potential to be a great benefit to the city. Big Spring is at a major crossroad, and it could open up commerce which is going north-south or east-west, or any combination of this.

We recently traveled to Austin, for a Christmas Concert at Concordia University, Texas. As such we traveled a portion of what would be the Port to Plains route, from Big Spring to Brady. The worst portion of that route is the 2 miles of "NEW" road which was constructed a few years ago, was it 4? The road bed is breaking up, the approaches and exits from the overpasses are uneven, water seeps through the pavement for days after a rain. Part of this was in such bad shape about 1 1/2 years ago, that patches were applied, which are extremely rough, and are now breaking up again.

What happened? Who at the Texas DOT designed this project, and more importantly who accepted it? Our tax dollars were NOT well spent.

Thank you. Alan Abel Big Spring

At the start of the day

ime has been bought, answers have been delayed and responses have been hedged as "squirmers" have opted for the "Texas twostep" instead of crystal clear comebacks to probing inquiries. I've "rambled" a bit--again. Let's shoot for "bullseye cen-teredness" to sharpen focus on this new year, one when we're bound to grow weary of ads, speeches and even mere conversations

referencing "2020 vision." Admission of this probability can rescue us from an evergrowing delay tactic mentioned in paragraph one. We can better use "2020 references" to replace a hackneyed expression used by many of us far too often: AT THE END OF THE DAY. Politicians have worn this expression to the nub, but I'll stick up for 'em to this extent. Utterance of these six words buys for them a few more seconds to think of answers that will be "okay" for a time, at least until the next news cycle, fake or real. At a time in history when transparency is touted by commoners and royalty alike, we have the chance to think about potential usage during 2020's sudden crossroads, dead ends and detours. If we need a few seconds to process whatever is happening "rat now," let us instead think, utter, sing or hum these words: AT

THE START OF THE DAY. You

course, their ownership of "2020 vision."

Ditties may even include AT-SOTD. Even though the letters fall woefully short of spelling a word, beginning letters of "at the start of the day" have a nice "ring," deserving abbreviation status despite having no hope of achieving acronym status. Please allow me to directness. employ Crystal clarity is the goal.

It may be that "2020 vision" will help, and this year can be a starting place for businesses across the land to answer. Their "hemming" may be exceeded only by their "hawing," and "throatclearing" may muffle their responses. Count Newbury on some, however, to trot out "at-the-start-ofthe-day" time-buying before truly answering questions that harbor in the minds of tens of millions of older Americans: DO YOU OR DO YOU NOT OF-FER SENIOR DISCOUNTS?... Many stores' "front-liners" have historically been wishywashy on such queries. "Frontliners" are the folks "in the trenches," often servers in restaurants, or other retail places, who hear the "discount question" daily. Frequently, employees are

"new here, and need to ask the manager." Some of us are borderline embarrassed when in such situations....

What, really, do we want?

We want CLARITY. Firms offering such discounts should display signs proudly, on the wall, menu or front window. Seniors (as well as military veterans) shouldn't have to ask. I realize that for some franchise businesses, such discounts are often left to the discretion of local franchises. A couple of examples are Mc-not corporate decisions. They are

Donald's and Chili's. Locally, our Chili's offers senior discounts, but the courtesy is not mentioned on menus or other where. Regrettably, one must ask, however awkward it may seem.

At the onset of a new year, one in which we'll have "2020 vision" "at the start of the day," here's a corporate call to business giants, as well as "mom-and-pop" places across the land. Decide what your policy on senior (and/or veteran) discounts is going to be, then stick to it. Remember, in the hustle and bustle of things when taxes are due and Christmas bills arrive in the mail sooner than expected, we need some GOOD NEWS, expressed proudly and clearly. Yep, life was simpler back when. At Lum and Abner's "Jot'Em Down Store," frankness reigned. Here's the sign they posted: "If you need it, we got it; if we ain't got it, you don't need Recalling a favorite old hymn, I hope that during 2020, most will be well with your soul.

Funeral held for one of men killed in attack at Texas church

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A man who was killed when a gunman opened fire at a Texas church was remembered at a funeral Thursday.

Gov. Greg Abbott was among those in attendance for the private funeral of 67-year-old Richard White, who was one of two congregants killed Sunday when a man with a shotgun opened fire inside West Freeway Church of Christ in the Fort Wortharea town of White Settlement.

Jack Wilson, who like White was a member of the church's armed volunteer security team, fatally shot the attacker, Keith Thomas Kinnunen.

Wilson has said White was reaching for his gun when he was killed.

Thursday's service was held at the Western Hills Church of Christ in Fort Worth, which is located near the West Freeway Church. After the funeral, Abbott said he was "so proud" of what White did to "step up and help his fellow Texans."

"There were people in that congregation today alive today — because Rich stood in the breach and protected others from harm's way," the governor

Also killed in the attack was congregant Anton "Tony" Wallace, who had been serving communion.

'Affluenza teen' jailed in Texas for probation violation

FORT WORTH. Texas (AP) — A Texas man who used "affluenza" as a defense at his trial for killing four people while driving drunk was arrested Thursday after authorities say he violated the terms of his probation.

Ethan Couch, 22, was booked into a jail in Fort Worth after he tested positive for THC, the psychoactive compound in marijuana, court records Couch's attorneys, Scott Brown and Reagan

Wynn, said their client has been intensely monitored for alcohol and illegal substance use for more than 20 months and "has never been positive for the use of any substance before." "We cannot make any further statement until we have the opportunity to conduct an investigation to determine if, in fact, Ethan ingested THC and, if so, if it was a voluntary act on his part," Brown and Wynn said in a statement.

Jail records did not indicate whether his bond had been set Thursday afternoon.

Couch became known as the "affluenza teen" during his manslaughter trial for the 2013 crash. Couch, 16 at the time of the crash, was found to have a blood-alcohol level three times the legal limit for adult drivers after the crash. But a psychologist told a juvenile court that he was affected by "affluenza," or irresponsibility caused by family wealth. A judge originally sentenced Couch to 10 years of probation. But he was later jailed after attending a party where alcohol was served and then fleeing to Mexico with his mother to avoid punishment. He was released in 2018 after serving a nearly two-year

In 2013, Couch lost control of his family's pickup truck after he and his friends had played beer pong and drank beer stolen from a Walmart. He veered into a crowd of people helping the driver of a disabled vehicle on the side of the road. Authorities later estimated that he was going 70 mph in a 40

The crash fatally injured the stranded motorist, a youth minister who stopped to help her and a mother and daughter who came out of their nearby home. Tonya Couch, Ethan's mother, is awaiting trial on charges of hindering apprehension of a felon and money laundering arising from when they fled to Mexico in 2015. She has been in and out of jail since then.

American Airlines vows to share Boeing proceeds with workers

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — American Airlines said Thursday it is negotiating with Boeing Co. over compensation for the airline's grounded planes and expects to share some of the proceeds with employees.

American had 24 Boeing 737 Max jets when the planes were grounded worldwide in March after two deadly crashes. Like other airlines. American has canceled thousands of flights as a result. It estimated that the grounding will cut its full-year 2019 pretax income by $540 million.

A spokesman for American said Thursday that the airline is talking to Boeing "as to what that compensation like." Boeing has suggested that compensation could be in cash or other forms, such as help with training or spare

American expects to make part of the compensation eligible for employee profit sharing, the spokesman said without providing any figures.

1 fatally stabbed, 3 hurt in morning attack in Austin,

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A man from leaving the store after it hapstabbed two people, one fatally, inside a restaurant during a violent string of attacks Friday at a shopping plaza in Texas' capital city that began with an assault at a coffee shop and ended with the suspect leaping off a roof, police said.

The attacks on a busy downtown avenue of restaurants and apartments just south of the Texas Capitol terrified customers stopping for their morning coffee on the way to work. It was the city of Austin's first homicide of 2020.

Austin police Sgt. David Daniels said investigators don't know what provoked the suspect from striking a person inside a coffee shop before fleeing and stabbing two people inside Freebirds World Burrito a few doors down. The man, who was not identified, jumped off the roof of the restaurant but survived.

Stacy Romine, 33, said she was getting her drink at Bennu Coffee when she saw the suspect suddenly attack a man who was sitting with a table full of regulars.

"This guy out of nowhere just hit him in the back of the head with something," Romine said. "People tried to restrain him and stop him pened. But he could not be apprehended by three men, including a police officer."

Daniels said he did not know whether the stabbing victims at Freebirds were employees. None of the victims were identified, but Austin-Travis County EMS said one man in his 20s was pronounced dead at the scene. Daniels said a knife was involved in the attack but did not say whether it came from the restaurant.

jump from the roof of Freebirds and did not move after hitting the ground. Daniels said the suspect was transported to a hospital but did not know his condition.

After he ran out of the coffee shop,

Romine said she saw the attacker

Daniels praised customers who tried to stop the man at the coffee shop before he fled to Freebirds.

"We don't recommend individuals getting involved in a situation, but they chose to do that, and it was helpful," Daniels said.

In 2017, one student was killed and three others wounded in a random stabbing attack at the University of Texas campus in Austin. In that case, the assailant was later found not guilty by reason of insanity.

Learn the difference between a need and a want

Special to the Herald

A big step to financial security is learning the difference between a need and a want, according to KHEAA. Students who learn that difference will find that their bank accounts grow more quickly.

Needs include clothes, food and, for many students, transportation. With clothes, a want may mean wearing only designer items that cost more than clothes that last just as long and look just as good.

Students might want to eat a deluxe cheeseburger at a fast food restaurant every day, even though they can save money by making their own sandwich and brown-bagging it.

If a student needs a car, a want would be a new sports convertible instead of a reliable, used car with good gas mileage and less flash.

Before making a purchase, students should ask themselves if they can get by with a less expensive item - or without that item completely. They should save the money they don't spend so it's there when they really need something. KHEAA is a public, non-profit agency established in 1966 to improve students' access to college. It provides information about financial aid and financial literacy at no cost to students and parents.

KHEAA also helps colleges manage their student loan default rates and verify information submitted on the FAFSA. For more information about those services, visit www.kheaa.com.

In addition, KHEAA disburses private Advantage Education Loans for its sister agency, KHESLC. For more information about Advantage Education Loans, visit www.advantageeducationloan.com.

Corley leads Coahoma past Roscoe 65-33

By SHAWN MORAN

scored 15 points and fell one rebound

Herald Sportswriter

The Coahoma Bulldogettes played host to the Roscoe Plowgirls on Friday night inside the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. In a dominant 65-33 win, Coahoma picked up where they left off following last week's strong showing at the Mary Tatum Tournament in Big Lake.

In a high-scoring first quarter, the Bulldogettes managed to grab countless offensive rebounds and convert on their follow-up shots for secondchance points.

On the other side of the ball, The defense played a suffocating style of defense that forced Roscoe to commit double-digit first-quarter turnovers. With both the offense and defense clicking, Coahoma stormed out to a 23-6 lead heading into the second quarter.

"With the exception of a few games, we've always been able to do that," Bulldogettes head coach Jim Kinnear said. "Get us that lead and get a little confidence going. It puts a little pressure on them in the second quarter, so we run by that."

Following the Bulldogettes' powerful start to the game, the second quarter was more evenly-matched between the two squads. The Plowgirls outscored the Bulldogettes 11-6 in the quarter and trimmed the lead to only 12 points at the half.

Then the Bulldogettes began to click again.

After a halftime pep talk from Kinnear, the Bulldogettes stormed into the second half and controlled the third quarter by scoring 20 points and limiting the Plowgirls to only five.

The high-energy that Coahoma brought to both sides of the court on Friday night was displayed on the scoreboard with all five starters contributing and three of those players posting double-digit

Bulldogettes' guard Madison Rodgers wrestles with a Roscoe Plowgirl for the basketball during Friday night's big win.

Senior guard and Sul Ross State-commit Caitlyn Corley led the Bulldogettes in scoring with 20 points on the night while also grabbing a staggering 11 steals. Corley fell three rebounds short of a triple-double and continued to show her prowess for grabbing offensive rebounds and being a constant pest on the defensive-side of the ball.

In addition to Corley, starting guard Julia Cox scored 15 points and fell one rebound shy of a double-double. As has been the case for the duration of the season, forward MaKynlee Overton controlled the paint and was able to get to the free-throw line consistently. Overton posted 18 points and knocked down six shots from the charity stripe.

With such a strong core group of players, Coahoma has been able to grow as a team and have been on fire lately. With a smaller eight-player rotation it is impressive how the Bulldogettes manage to stay so fresh and active throughout the entire game. "Our practices are rather hard,"

Kinnear said. "We don't do a lot of suicides or things like that because our practices are mostly full-court. We get our conditioning during practice so that we don't have to worry about that in the game. We only have eight players, and everyone contributes." Coahoma was able to close-out the

> In a competitive district, Kinnear believes his team is strong enough to compete with anyone.

"We feel like if we play the way we did tonight and things are going good, we can play with anybody," Kinnear said.

UP NEXT: The Bulldogettes will travel to Tuscola to take on a strong Jim Ned Lady Indians team in a district matchup next Tuesday night at 6:30 P.M.

Coahoma Bulldogs show improvement in 49-42 win over Roscoe

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

The Coahoma Bulldogs left the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on Friday night with a 49-42 win over the Roscoe Plowboys in a tightly-contested matchup between two well-rounded teams that were equally equipped to stop each other.

"That was a good team and we played very well," Bulldogs head coach Joe Mireles said.

Coahoma got off to a slow start and trailed by two points heading into the second quarter down by a score of 14-12. Forward Kolt Redden started the game out strong and finished the game with a shared team-high of 11 points by knocking down five of his six shots in the game. Redden's only miss came on a meaningless last-second half-court heave at the buzzer.

Senior forward Zack Schneider was the other Bulldog to score 11 points. Schneider also grabbed 11 boards for a double-double that showed of his high-motor style of play that had the opposing sideline frustrated.

Holding a 24-21 lead heading into the second half, the Bulldogs contintheir small lead to six heading into the fourth. After a tough start to the season, the adversity that Coahoma has faced so far this season had prepared them for this close game.

"This senior bunch are used to adversity from all the sports that they've played and that has really helped us out a lot," Mireles said.

Coahoma began the fourth quarter on a 7-0 run and were able to close out the game and would never give their lead away.

"They're not making the mistakes that they were making earlier in the year," Mireles said.

As the season continues to progress and the team continues to grow together, this Coahoma Bulldogs team has not reached its maximum potential. With a few more strong performances like the one they showed Friday night, the team could really become a threat in their competitive

McCaffrey a double All-Pro pick; Gilmore, Thomas unanimous

By BARRY WILNER

AP Pro Football Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Christian McCaffrey's versatility and superb statistics helped him to a rare double: The Carolina Panthers running back has made The Associated Press NFL All-Pro Team at two positions.

McCaffrey rushed for 1,387 yards and 15 touchdowns while catching a phenomenal 116 passes for 1,005 yards and four TDs. He became the third player in NFL history to finish with 1,000 yards rushing and 1,000 yards receiving in the same season, joining Hall of Famer Marshall Faulk and Roger Craig, who is on the senior ballot for the hall this year.

That so impressed the 50 members of a nationwide media panel who regularly cover the NFL for McCaffrey to be voted the first-team running back and the top flex player. The flex position was created in 2016 to reward players who epitomize the way offense is now played in pro football. Not one fits that description better than McCaffrey, whose terrific season came for a 5-11 team.

"It means a lot," says McCaffrey, a third-year pro. "It is a big honor and that is something that you don't work hard for it, but when it comes you are really grateful and appreciative."

McCaffrey's achievement was complemented by the unanimous selections of New Orleans receiver Michael Thomas and New England cornerback Stephon Gilmore. It's the second straight season both made the squad, Thomas doing it with an NFL-record 149 catches, Gilmore anchoring the league's topranked defense.

Ravens sensation Lamar Jackson, who in his second season led Baltimore to a league-best 14-2 mark, was chosen as quarterback. Jackson and McCaffrey were among 14 first-time All-Pros.

Rams safety Eric Weddle, a former Raven, witnessed the jukes and jaunts of Jackson firsthand in a 45-6 Ravens romp.

"When you get on the field and you get to the speed of what they run, it's tough," says Weddle, a former All-Pro. "I mean, some of the plays I didn't know who had the ball because they run it so efficiently. (Jackson) is one of a kind; he's pretty special."

This special class includes several multiple All-Pros: Rams DT Aaron Donald and Seahawks LB Bobby Wagner, each for a fifth time; Cowboys right guard Zack Martin and Ravens kicker Justin Tucker for a fourth time.

Bears kick returner Cordarrelle Patterson made his third All-Pro roster, as did Eagles center Jason Kelce and Texans receiver DeAndre Hopkins.

ALL-PRO

All-Pros for the second time included Thomas, Gilmore, Cardinals edge rusher Chandler Jones, Steelers DT Cam Heyward, Patriots special teamer Matthew Slater, Colts left guard Quenton Nelson, and Ravens defensive back Marcus Peters, who shared that spot with the teammate Marlon Humphrey and the Chiefs' Tyrann Mathieu (second appearance).

Thomas, Gilmore, Nelson, Hopkins, Kelce, Martin, Donald, Wagner and Tucker repeated from 2018.

The other newcomers were Humphrey; 49ers tight end George Kittle; Ravens left tackle Ronnie Stanley; Saints right tackle Ryan Ramczyk; Steelers edge rusher T.J. Watt; Saints linebacker Demario Davis; Vikings LB Eric Kendricks; Bills cornerback Tre'Davious White; safeties Jamal Adams of the Jets and Minkah Fitzpatrick of the Steelers; Titans punter Brett Kern; and Saints punt returner Deonte Harris, the only rookie on the team.

"When you got here and people start talking about All-Pro and that's the best of the best, you're like 'Pro Bowl is cool, but I need to get the best of the best," says Wagner, who led the NFL in tackles this season. "As you get older you kind of understand how hard these things are to get. And so you don't take any of them for granted and are very grateful for your health, grateful for your teammates. As you get older you reflect and you appreciate things differently that you might not have had when you were young."

Ramczyk once played Division III college ball. Now look at him.

"It's just pretty crazy that I was at a little D-3 school and I'm like, 'If I'm going to play this game, I'm going to play to be the best I possibly can be," he says, adding the All-Pro designation is "pretty awesome. It's pretty cool."

Not surprisingly, Baltimore led the All-Pro Team with five selections, while New Orleans had four and Pittsburgh each had three. There were 16 AFC players and 13 from the NFC.

Dallas Stars emerge from eventful first half in solid shape Dallas will be back inside, at home in the Ameri-

STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — There was the 1-7-1 start for the Dallas Stars, who had such high expectations after an impressive playoff run last season.

When they started consistently winning again, there was the shocking coaching change unrelated to anything on the ice.

Dallas then opened 2020 with another comeback victory on New Year's Day, outdoors at Cotton Bowl Stadium before 85,630 fans — the second-largest crowd ever to see an NHL game.

"Forty-one games, and it seems like we've been through 100," center Andrew Cogliano said.

This has already been an eventful regular season for the Stars, and they are only halfway done.

Through it all, the Stars (23-14-4, 50 points) are third in the Western Conference standings after the 4-2 win over the Nashville Predators in the Winter Classic. It was the third win in a row for Dallas, which came from behind in the third period in each of those games.

"Our team still hasn't even shown our true potential. Lately, especially after the coach change, we've been very inconsistent and all over the map, and trying to put our identity back together," center Jason Dickinson said. "So I think we're on our way there, and we've still got half a season to go. It's about time for us to really hone in on that stuff."

can Airlines Center, to start the second half of its 82-game regular-season schedule Friday night against Detroit.

The Stars are 6-3-1 since second-year head coach Jim Montgomery was fired Dec. 10 for unspecified unprofessional conduct. They beat New Jersey 2-0 that night when Rick Bowness, in his second season in Dallas, took over as interim head coach for the rest of the season.

Bowness has coached in more NHL games than anyone -2,238 overall, 473 as a head coach - and in five different decades after Wednesday's win to kick off the new year.

"I didn't want to be put in this position because you don't expect it. None of us saw it coming, so when it was thrown at us, we were all completely in shock," said Bowness, adding that he came to Dallas with the goal of helping the Stars and Montgomery win the Stanley Cup.

Now Bowness is calling the shots on the bench for the Stars, who last April made the playoffs for only the third time in 11 seasons. They won a sixgame series against Nashville in the first round, then went seven games in the Western Conference semifinals before falling to eventual Stanley Cup champion St. Louis.

Bowness said players were shocked as much as the other coaches about the dismissal of Montgomery, but that they have all together invested in what they have to do to win games.

"It happens in sports. You lose players, guys get traded. ... Obviously, your coach, that doesn't happen all the time," goalie Ben Bishop said. "When the coach gets fired or let go, you still have your job to do. And I think guys, you know, continue to do their jobs. And obviously the players are the ones who go out there and execute the game plan."

Bishop and other Stars players say that transition was made easier with Bowness, with the 64-yearold Canadian's experience and an upbeat personality a bit different than Montgomery's.

"To take over that role midway through the season speaks volumes to what kind of coach he is," Cogliano said.

After that horrendous nine-game start to the season, the Stars went 14-1-1 over the next five weeks. They then had an 0-3-1 slide before two wins in a row preceded the sudden coaching change.

"We have an idea where when we're good, how we want to play and our compete level. And just a lot of trustworthy players out there wanting to play the right way," said veteran forward Joe Pavelski, one of the Stars newcomers this season. "Up to this point, I would say we're a pretty resilient group.

"The coaching change and different things like that, guys have just stuck together, stayed resilient," he said. "Hopefully, it'll just keep making us better."

Garrett still coach of Cowboys as Jerry Jones stays silent (AP)-- Jason Garrett was still coach of the Dallas 2018 NFC East champions were eliminated from

Cowboys on Friday, almost a week after what figured to be a make-or-break season ended without a trip to the playoffs in the final year of his contract. Garrett has been at team headquarters off and on since the season ended, according to two people familiar with the situation.

And while it "certainly feels like he will not be back," as one person said, there was still uncertainty as to what owner Jerry Jones would decide in part because it was "dragging out the way it is." Friday was the fifth day without a resolution publicly

Dallas gave up control of its playoff fate with a 17-9 loss at the Eagles in Week 16, the lowest moment in a season full of them after a 3-0 start fueled expectations that were already high.

It was the sixth time in nine full seasons under Garrett that the Cowboys missed the playoffs, and the 53-year-old hasn't been able to end the franchise's nearly 25-year run without getting past the divisional round of the playoffs.

One more dosh of holiday fun Elf on the Shelf reporting for Santa

Herald Staff Report

The Christmas lights are starting to be packed up, trees are going back in the boxes and the holiday festivities have wrapped up. The new year has begun, but there is still time for one more dash of Christmas cheer and a trip to this past holiday season. Reporting back to Santa isn't the only things Elves take care of; for some they ended up being a support while the children were sick and some even ended up being sick for a few days themselves. Big Spring families shared a few of their Elf on the Shelf photos with us. Here are a few ideas to store away for next year, when your Elf on the Shelf comes back to do some reporting for Santa!

our first baby of 2020.

Feature: The origins of Baby New Year

Excitement for a new year abounds on January 1. Baby New Year is one of the more recognizable symbols of the New Year's holiday, particularly in print advertisements and television commercials. Perhaps you've wondered what role Baby New Year plays in the celebration? While he may seem like a relatively modern icon, this cultural mainstay has a lengthy history.

One theory suggests Baby New Year was celebrated as far back as 600 B.C. in ancient Greece, when a child was paraded around in a basket upon the arrival of the new year. The baby represented rebirth, and Greeks believed their god of wine, Dionysus, was reborn on New Year's as the spirit of fertility. Other historians say that the custom even predates the Greeks to the ancient Egyptians.

Even though the baby new year custom was originally frowned upon by Christians and deemed a pagan tradition, eventually Christians embraced the symbol as well, albeit in a different way. The end of the year is marked by the birth of the Christ child, and this became a special way to interpret Baby New Year.

In modern times, Baby New Year has lost any connection to a deity or religious figure. Rather, he is now interpreted as a child who arrives at the start of the year and eventually ages into Father Time. The baby is depicted as an infant or toddler wearing a diaper and a sash with the year he is representing (and often a top hat). He is sometimes depicted holding or associated with an hourglass, a noisemaker or other item either pertaining to time or New Year's Day festivities. Father Time is often portrayed as an elderly man with a long, gray beard. The Baby New Year/Father Time message boils down to "out with the old and in with the new." People bid goodbye to Father Time and welcome this cherubic child who will carry them through the next 12 months and grow with them.

The Baby New Year idea eventually developed into a "First Born" tradition as well. Many towns, cities and hospitals have instituted contests awarding the first baby born in the new year the title of "Baby New Year." Such children are often the subjects of local news coverage and get their picture in the newspaper. Gifts, such as complimentary diapers, a case of formula or baby food or other baby supplies may be offered. In addition, private companies may offer their own gifts and recognition to the lucky child and his or her family in turn for complementary publicity.

Baby New Year is a symbol of the fresh start the new year brings. His relevance in celebrations has endured for centuries.

Tips and tricks for savory slow-cooked meals

Special to the Herald

Kitchen gadgets come and go, but one mainstay continues to deliver tasty meals with ease.

The Crock-Pot®, dubbed the original slow cooker, was invented in 1940 by Irving Nachumsohn. This slow cooker was created to cook a traditional stew eaten on the Jewish sabbath. Because faithful Jews nered widespread acclaim. That newfound popularity developed when more women entered the workforce and needed convenient ways to prepare meals at home without affecting their work schedules.

While slow cookers can make for successful meals, knowing how to use them to their fullest potential can increase the propensity for delicious, easy dishes. Here are some tips and • Prepare ingredients the night before. By handling the mise en place for recipes the evening prior, you'll have everything you need ready to put in the slow cooker and set to cook for the day. • Preheat the cooker. Add ingredients to a slow cooker that is already warmed up for best results.

- Arrange for easy cleanup. Specially designed slow cooker liners can cut washing time dramatically and help prolong the surface of the internal crock.
- Don't add dairy until the meal is almost finished cooking. Cooking dairy products for long periods of time can cause them to curdle. Save them for the last steps when using a slow cooker.
- Exercise caution with tender veggies. The same wait-until-later approach should also apply to vegetables, beans and pastas, which can lose their integrity and become mushy if cooked hard ingredients like potatoes, carrots and other root vegetables at the bottom of the cooker where they will cook more readily.

 Stick to the low setting. As much as possible, cook using the low setting to allow for slow, gentle heat to bring out the flavors. Ginny Thomas, a training manager for Crock-Pot®, says she has been sticking with this advice for over a decade as a key tip.

Many traditionally prepared meals can be converted to slow cooker recipes. Utilize cookbooks and online resources to make delicious, slowcooked meals.

Oil price jumps on fear of Iranian retaliation against US

By CARLO PIOVANO

Associated Press

LONDON (AP) — The price of oil surged Friday on concerns that Iran might respond to the killing of its top general by the United States by disrupting global supplies of energy from the Middle East.

News that Gen. Qassem Soleimani, head of Iran's elite Quds Force, was killed in an air attack at the Baghdad international airport prompted expectations of Iranian retaliation against U.S. and Israeli Amid past flare-ups with the U.S., Iran threatened the supply of oil that travels from the Persian Gulf to the rest of the world. About 20% of oil traded worldwide goes through the Strait of Hormuz, where the shipping lane is only 3 kilometers (2 miles) wide and tankers have come under attack this year.

The international benchmark for crude oil jumped 4.5%, or $2.98, to $69.23 a barrel in London trading. The U.S. contract was up 4.3%, or $2.60, to "Revenge will come, maybe not overnight, but it will come and until then we need to increase the geopolitical risk premium," said Olivier Jakob, head of consultancy Petromatrix, in a note to in-

He noted that Iran's response may not be limited to the Strait of Hormuz.

In September, Yemen's Iran-backed Houthi reb els launched drone attacks on the world's largest oil processing facility in Saudi Arabia. The strike briefly took out about half of the supplies from the world's largest oil exporter. The U.S. directly blamed Iran, which denied involvement.

Launching attacks that can't be easily linked back to Iran limits the chances of direct retaliation.

However, Iran has also directly targeted tankers. This year it seized a British-flagged tanker, the Stena Impero, for several weeks. And it has shot down a U.S. military drone.

BEIJING (AP) — Oil prices surged and most major global stock markets declined Friday after an Iranian general was killed by U.S. forces in Iraq.

Stock indexes in London, Frankfurt and Paris fell, as did Hong Kong's earlier. Shanghai was littlechanged and Japanese markets were closed.

News that Gen. Qassem Soleimani, head of Iran's elite Quds Force, was killed in an air attack at the Baghdad international airport prompted expectations of Iranian retaliation against U.S. and Israeli

"A big fat dollop of geopolitical uncertainty has landed on investors desks," said Jeffrey Halley of Oanda in a report.

There was no immediate indication how Iran would respond, but Tehran has seized oil tankers in the past and shot down a U.S. military drone. The U.S. government blames Iran for attacks on tankers and a September assault on Saudi Arabia's oil industry that temporarily cut its production by Brent crude, used to price international oils, was $2.48 higher at $68.73 per barrel in London after being up nearly $3 at one point.

Benchmark U.S. crude climbed $2.19 to $63.37 per barrel in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

In Europe, Germany's DAX tumbled 1.7% to 13,154 and Italy's FTSE MIB droped 1.1% to 23,566.

Both countries are net oil importers with big manufacturing sectors. France's CAC 40 fell 0.5% to 6,012 while London's FTSE lost 0.3% to 7,584.

On Wall Street, futures for the benchmark S&P 500 index and Dow Jones Industrial Average were down 0.1%. Both had hit new records Thursday.

In Asia, Hong Kong's Hang Seng lost 0.3% to 28,451.50. The Shanghai Composite Index was off 1.5 points at 3,083.79. India's Sensex lost 0.5% to 41,413.36 and Singapore also declined.

Seoul's Kospi was up 1 point at 2,176.46 and Australia's S&P-ASX 200 advanced 0.6% to 6,733.50. The price of gold, which investors buy in times of uncertainty as a safe haven of value, was up 1.4% at $1,548.80 per ounce.

Before the escalation in Mideast tensions, investors had been encouraged by expectations of stronger global economic growth in 2020 and the planned signing of an interim U.S.-Chinese trade Investors are waiting for Washington and Beijing to formalize the deal that has helped ease market jitters over their 18-month-old fight over China's technology ambitions and trade surplus. The "Phase 1" pact calls for Washington to roll back punitive tariffs on Chinese goods and for Beijing to buy more American farm products. This week, President Donald Trump tweeted he will sign the deal at the White House this month. In currency markets, the dollar declined to 108.09 yen from Thursday's 108.56 yen. The euro edged down to $1.1140 from $1.1171.

Montana coal power plant closing two units built in 1970s

By MATTHEW BROWN

Associated Press

two units.

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — One of the largest coal-fired power plants in the western U.S. will close two of its four units in coming days as the Montana facility edges toward an eventual total shutdown.

Colstrip Units 1 and 2 — built in the 1970s when massive strip mines were being developed across Montana and Wyoming - will close by Jan. 5 or as soon as they run out of coal to burn, Talen Energy spokeswoman Taryne Williams said Thursday The plant employs about 300 people and is the main driver of the economy for the surrounding town of Colstrip, which has about 2,300 people. But it's been unable to compete with surging investments into renewable energy and cheap natural gas, as the coal plant's operating costs have risen with the need for better pollution controls. Some employees for now will be re-assigned to decommissioning work that will last through mid-2020, Williams said. She said there are "no hard and fast numbers or time-

The closure of Units 1 and 2 was long anticipated as demand for U.S. coal collapsed in recent years, and came despite vows by elected officials in Montana to find ways to lines" as the company considers how many workers will be needed for the remaining

The two closing units are operated by Pennsylvania-based Talen, which co-owns them with Puget Sound Energy of Washington state. Sen. Duane Ankney, who represents Colstrip in the Montana Legislature, said the impending closure was a "prime example" of how out-of-state interests were hurting

"Coal does so much more than power our homes. Coal funds our public schools, infrastructure, parks and libraries," the Republican lawmaker said in a statement. A representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 1638, which represents most of the plant's union employees, could not be reached immediately for comment.

the coal industry to the detriment of Montana.

Williams said Talen was "committed to doing what is right by our employees"and will help affected workers to transition to a new job. The doors to the two units are to be welded shut on Saturday, according to Ankney. But there are no plans to dismantle them because of their proximity to the two remaining units, Williams said. The large volumes of ash generated by burning coal at Colstrip has contaminated underground water supplies with toxic materials and is expected to cost hundreds of millions of dollars to clean up. Plans for that cleanup are pending with the Montana Department of Environmental Quality. Six utilities own shares of Colstrip's remaining two units built in the 1980s. Most of the owners are making preparations for operations to cease as early

However, one of the owners, Northwestern Energy, plans for Colstrip to keep running past 2040 and announced in December that it wants to acquire part of Puget Sound Energy's interest in Colstrip Unit 4 for $1

That would boost South Dakota-based NorthWestern's ownership interest in the power plant to 55%even as many other utilities across the U.S. have been getting out of the coal power market in recent

US manufacturing activity falls to lowest level in decade JOSH BOAK

AP Economics Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. manufacturing activity fell to the lowest level in more than a decade, as the sector was hurt by weakening demand and last year's global economic slowdown. The Institute for Supply Management, an association of purchasing managers, said Friday that its manufacturing index dropped to 47.2 in December, from 48.1 in November. Last month's level was the lowest since June 2009, when the U.S. economy was at the tail end of the Great Recession. Any reading below 50 signals contraction — and the index has been below that crucial level since August. The new orders, production and employment components of the index were all negative. But other components of the index - such as a jump in prices - suggest that the setback for manufacturing has bottomed out, said Tim

Fiore, chair of ISM's manufacturing business survey committee. "We've probably seen the worst of it behind us," Fiore said.

The manufacturing sector last year was rocked by slower global growth and the escalation of trade tensions between the United States and China. President Donald Trump has announced plans to sign an initial agreement with China this month that may ease some of the drag caused by tariffs and threats of additional import taxes last year.

Still, the survey of companies by ISM shows that manufacturers have suffered. Companies surveyed indicated that there continues to be uncertainty about trade and weak demand from abroad. Out of the 18 industries surveyed, just three reported expansion in December: Food, computers and a category the association labeled as "miscellaneous."

The outcome was certainly unlucky, and yet the fact is that South's defeat was his own fault. When West led the queen of clubs at trick four, South should have played low from dummy

There is little doubt that most declarers would cover West's queen of clubs with the king at trick four. They would not realize that by ducking the queen and conceding that trick to West, they were simply swapping an immediate club loser for an

ARIES (March 21-April 19). If you had to boil the day's focus down to four words it would be along the lines of: Fix stuff about money. What's getting in the way, mostly, are your feelings about what you deserve or what's possible.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Your mind, when left to its own devises, can be like a tired toddler throwing tantrums. Lead yourself. Any way that you can promote positive emotions and language will be a very welcome assertion into the mental landscape.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD:

The full moon in the sign of domesticity comes with a lunar eclipse. On the same day, the sun and Mercury align in Capricorn and Uranus goes direct. With so many aspects speaking to the cosmic weather, we can expect strange combinations. Just as in meteorology -- cold fronts and warm fronts don't necessarily follow each other in an orderly procession -- feelings and events of different tones don't automatically line up in a way that's easy to comprehend. What is the emotional equivalent of an occluded front? Feelings get shoved behind other feelings. Cyclonic processes could be next in the mashup, and even if it doesn't culminate in a proper storm, the climate becomes less predictable.

These signals are all opportunities for greater awareness, especially about other people's feelings, how to react to them and how to leverage or protect them.

Monks of Tibet believe that the lunar eclipse has a way of multiplying tenfold the effects of karma. Given the augmentation of Mars in Sagittarius, consider staying on superstition's safe side by only committing acts of goodness (or badness) that you wouldn't mind receiving back in the scale of an additional zero.

Dear Annie: This is in response to "Preferring Tradition." I never liked when couples asked wedding guests to give cash instead of gifts, either. But my daughter and her husband ended up doing this. Many friends and relatives opted to give them gifts instead of cash.

Well, my daughter and her now husband live in San Francisco, California, and the wedding was at home in the Midwest. They came by plane. The gifts had to go by mail, so it fell on Mom and Dad to box and mail all the gifts. We started to ship some, but the cost became so high that we instead decided to load up an SUV, take time off work and make a trip West. It was a real pain, boxing up glass. Now I think cash would have been nicer. -- John K.

Loneliness pervaded the lives of pioneers on the American plains, including the empty expanses of West Texas. Most settlers lived in isolation broken only by occasional community gatherings such as funerals and religious revivals.

In "The Lonesome Plains: Death and Revival on an American Frontier" (976.4 FAI L) by Louis Fairchild, Fairchild mines the letters and journals of West Texas settlers, as well as contemporary fiction and poetry, to record the emotions attending solitude and the ways people sought relief.

Hungering for neighborliness, people came together in times of misfortune, sickness, accident, death, and at annual religious services. Loneliness is most recognized as a feature of life in the time of the early West Texas cattle industry, a period of sprawling cattle ranches and legendary cattle drives, roughly from 1867 to 1885.

But Fairchild shows that it also characterized the lives of settlers who lived in West Texas from the beginning of permanent settlement of the Texas Panhandle (around 1876) through the population shift that occurred around the turn of the century, as farmers and their family's supplanted ranchers and their cattle. Fairchild draws on primary materials of the early residents to give voice to the settlers themselves and skillfully weaves a moving picture of life in the open spaces of West Texas during the frontierrural period of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

'Jeopardy!' titans compete for $1 million,

By LYNN ELBER

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Super Bowl is weeks away, but for "Jeopardy!" addicts the big game is here: All-time top money winners Brad Rutter, Ken Jennings and James Holzhauer are facing off for ultimate bragging rights. "The first person to win three matches will be crowned the greatest of all time," said executive producer Harry Friedman. The winner gets $1 million, with $250,000 for each runner-up in the contest that airs on consecutive nights beginning 8 p.m. ET Host Alex Trebek credits the rookie for making 'Jeopardy! The Greatest of All Time" happen.

The tournament "was a natural because of the appearance of James Holzhauer," Trebek said. "Prior to that, there wasn't a contestant who measured up, in the eyes of our viewers, to Ken Jennings or Brad Rutter. And here comes James, and wins more money faster than anybody else had ever done on the show, and really caught America's fancy."

Friedman said there had been discussions with ABC about a rare prime-time foray for "Jeopardy!" but the format was proving elusive until professional sports gambler Holzhauer steamrolled his way to glory in 2019 with his smarts, skill and high-roller Daily Double bets. "There was a lot of online chatter about, 'Is he the greatest player of all time?' 'No, Ken Jennings, because he had that streak,' or somebody would say, 'I think it's Brad Rutter, look at how many times he's won.' So it really sort of fell into place," the producer Trebek, who is being treated for pancreatic cancer as he's continued hosting regular "Jeopardy!" games, wasn't asked directly if he was up to handling the championship series as well.

"We discussed the idea of this competition with him because we wanted to make sure that he supported it as a concept, first and foremost. And he said, 'Oh yeah, let's do.' Enthusiastically," Friedman said.

("It's part of my job," Trebek said. He was "struggling a bit" during the taping, he said, adding, "Well, it comes with the territory.") The high-profile contest took place in December.

To keep the outcome a mystery, an ABC release has it running through Jan. 16 "if necessary.'

For Jennings, knowing who he would face was both stressful — "Usually, it's anybody's guess who makes the finals" — and helpful. "I could look at tape of them, and they're both extremely scary players, one of whom (Rutter) I've played before. He usually finds a way to win. So I knew these just going to be the fastest, smartest people I've ever seen holding a 'Jeopardy!' buzzer," Jennings said.

Holzhauer also did his homework.

"I studied some more esoteric facts with the expectation that the writers would ramp up the question difficulty, but the big thing I did to prepare was extra reps of buzzer practice, knowing that Brad and Ken are the two best in the history of the show on the signaling device," he said in an email.

It feels "crazy to be compared to the two best players that ever came before me, but I know I can hang with them," Holzhauer said. "One nice factor is that the three of us can have fun trash talking without anyone 'punching down.'"

Rutter considers the players to be evenly matched in their skills.

"It's really all about buzzer timing and knowledge, and all of us are pretty good at that," he said. "Personality-wise, I think Ken is probably the jokiest of the three, like he throws little quips in, and I'm a little too focused. ... James is also ready with the quips, but he's got the analytical thing down, too."

$'Greatest'\ title$

"But we all put a bunch of strategy into it," Rutter said. Any chance he'd share his? "Tune in to find Rutter enters the contest as the top winner on any TV game show with $4.69 million in "Jeopardy!" play. Jennings holds the winning-streak record, 74 games, and has collected $3.37 million. Holzhauer set and broke more than a dozen records for the largest single-day winnings, won the 2019 Tournament of Champions and earned $2.7 million in winnings Rutter is the veteran player, making his first "Jeopardy!" appearance nearly 20 years ago, in October 2000, when champs were "retired" from regular-season play after five victories. Jennings' first game was in June 2004, a year after the rules were changed to allow players to rack up unlimited wins. Subsequent tournament play has seen Rutter consistently triumph. But Jennings can claim a qualified exhibition victory: During a 2011 face-off with IBM's Watson, the computer won but Jennings topped Rutter to come in second.

The contestants share obvious ability — along with gender. Might a future "Greatest" contest be more inclusive?

"Absolutely," Friedman replied. The contestant pool is more diverse and has more women since online testing was added to make the initial application process widely available, he said.

low their banners and promotional materials to be placed at the event," ValVerde said.

Corporate sponsorship is also available for $500 and will include business logo in promotional materials and local media advertising. No registration will be accepted after Feb. 28 in order to allow time for layout design.

"We are looking forward to this year's health fair and encourage the community to come out and see the changes we have incorporated," ValVerde said. "We are ready to focus on healthy year, healthy the Strait of Hormuz goes to countries in Asia, including China, Japan, India and South Korea.

But the rise in the global price of oil will have a wider effect, particularly in oil-importing countries with big manufacturing sectors like Germany and Italy. Those countries fared worst in the stock market on Friday, with their main indexes falling 1.4% and 1.1% respectively. The economic damage could be limited given that the energy market is flush with oil while the growth in demand has softened as major economies have slowed. And crude-producing countries - particularly the Unites States - have been pumping oil at a high rate.

The OPEC cartel and key ally Russia agreed last month to cut their oil production, but many countries have been pumping above their limits.

Friday, the Brent benchmark rose to its highest since May after largely hovering around $60 a bar-

That has so far kept the price of oil in check. On

A gradual rise in renewable energy production could also limit the economic damage from a jump in crude prices. But experts note that fossil fuels like oil continue to provide the vast majority of energy that drives industry, transportation and heating, among other things.
