FOURTH WILL BRING GREAT CROWD HERE Sub-Chaser Launching High Spot on Fourth Program

PILOTING

Next week will be one of red letters for Rockport.

Next week brings not only a big Fourth of July Celebration, but also the launching of the first submarine chaser ever built on the Texas coast. The Sunday following the Fourth is to bring launching of the second of four of the navy boats being built here.

The Westergard-Rice Brothers & Company boat building works here is a real asset to this section with the employment it offers local men and the large amount of money turned loose here in payrolls. But, more than this, the local boat building concern is a real asset to the United States government in the country's defense program. Under the capable management of A. M. Westergard, R. R. Rice, A. F. Buchanan Sr., Jas. A. Steele and other officials of the company a real record in naval construction is being made. The company has maintained its schedule in building the sub-chasers for the Navy under the defense program. There has been no labor trouble and all obstacles have been overcome to keep the program moving forward. The boat works here has won the praise of the Navy Department for its efficiency and contracts for more boats and an increase of the capacity of the plant are anticipated.

Establishment of the boat building plant here was no easy or small accomplishment. It required foresight, planning, financing and a lot of hard work to put the project across. The future possibilities of the boat works here are many and great, and every citizen should cooperate to the fullest extent with company officials in helping solve and overcome any problem that may arise. We feel sure that Rockport citizens are justly proud of this vital defense industry that has been located in their city, and that they will take advantage of any opportunity to help carry on the successful construction program to provide ships needed in the defense of this country.

Young people of Rockport took the lead this week in organizing to help make visitors feel perfectly at home in their stays here. In organizing the Junior Host Club, the young people are setting an example that their elders might do well in following. Purpose of the club is to bring visitors together for better acquaintanceship and entertainment in a social way.

A tourist club or host club has been suggested many times in the past, and the young folks are to be congratulated on the interest they are showing in keeping Rockport to the front as the most ideal vacation land on the Texas coast.

Archie Brown Buys Rockport Garage

The Rockport Garage, formerly owned by J. Ed Moore, was purchased last week by Archie Brown well-known boat owner and operator of a guide service for fishermen and sportsmen. The change in ownership of the garage was effective on June 21.

Herbert Dares will be the mechanic in charge of the Rockport Garage, offering specialized service in general automotive repair work and mechanical service on marine engines. Mr. Dares formerly worked for Mr. Moore.

The garage will carry a substantial supply of late model automobile parts and batteries.

Mr. Brown came to Rockport two years ago and in addition to the garage business is owner of the Zephyr and Tarpon, and operates a boat service for fishermen and hunters.

Sailboat Races, Boat Parade On Fourth Program

Two Full Days of Entertainment Planned For Visitors Here

Opening on the morning of the Fourth at 9:00 o'clock with a band concert, the celebration will continue until Saturday night when the climaxing event will be a ball given by the Rockport Firemen at Danceland. During the morning of the Fourth there will be sail boat races inside the harbor, beach entertainment and other features.

Launching of the 110-foot submarine chaser, the PC-497, is scheduled to take place about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The launching ceremonies will be attended by high navy officials and a number of invited guests. Mrs. Bryson Filbert, the former Miss Steppie Rice of Aransas Pass, will be the sponsor of the PC-497 and will christen the boat with a bottle of champagne.

Following the launching ceremonies the Second Annual Million Dollar Boat Parade will form and pass in review before the thousands of spectators gathered around the small craft harbor and seawall, riding the bow of each of the gaily decorated boats in the parade will be a skipperette from a neighboring town or city, and one boat will carry a bevy of Rockport girls who will be hostesses to the visiting skipperettes. After the boat parade a Miss Admiral of the water carnival will be selected and presented with a silver cup.

Sailboat races will follow the boat parade and throughout the remainder of the afternoon there will be beach entertainment, aquaplane exhibition and races, swimming and other entertainment. Fireworks that may be witnessed from the beach will bring the thrill packed program of the Fourth to a close in the evening. Dancing will follow in the pavilion.

On Saturday, July 6, there will be a full program of water and beach entertainment starting at 10 a. m. with races, baseball game, water stunts and exhibitions and a dance in the evening sponsored by the Rockport Fire Department.

Manager Fancher Archer of the Chamber of Commerce reports a keen interest among boat owners along the Texas coast in both the sailboat races and the million dollar parade of pleasure craft. It is believed that this year's event will be even more spectacular than the first one a year ago.

Chas. T. Picton is general chairman of the celebration; Travis Johnson is chairman of the sailboat races and will be assisted by Travis Bailey; Dr. Roger S. Knapp is in charge of arrangements for the fireworks display; and Fred Booth is chairman of finances.

T. Noah Smith's Lady Cora, a palatial 75-foot yacht, will lead the parade, and one of the fast Smith speed boats will be used to manage the procession of boats.

Mrs. Norvell Jackson, Mrs. Weldon Britton and Mrs. "Doc" Magness are in charge of arrangements for the visiting skipperettes. They report many invitations have been accepted and in entertaining the visiting young ladies the chairman will be assisted by the newly organized Rockport Junior Host Club.

Mrs. Bryson Filbert to Christen First Sub-Chaser Ever Launched On Texas Coast Here July 4

Daughter of R. R. Rice Is Chosen as Sponsor of P. C.-497 to Be Launched Here on Fourth

To Mrs. Bryson Filbert of Goose Creek will go the honor of being the sponsor of the first submarine chaser ever to be built and launched on the Texas coast, when she christens the PC-497 during launching ceremonies here on July 4.

Mrs. Filbert is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rice of Aransas Pass and before her marriage was Miss Steppie Rice. She has a host of friends over this section.

Announcement was made Thursday by Westergard-Rice Brothers & Company, builders of the defense craft, of the selection of Mrs. Filbert as sponsor for the first of four submarine chasers to be launched at the Rockport yards during the next few weeks.

A colorful ceremony is being arranged for the launching of the first of the naval boats. High officials of both the Navy and the state are expected to be present as Mrs. Filbert breaks a beribboned bottle of champagne over the bow of the PC-497 just before it slides into Aransas Bay.

The ceremonies will not be public because of navy regulations governing the launching of defense boats.

Two Elections Saturday In Rockport

Citizens of Rockport may vote in two elections Saturday. One for the election of a United States Senator and the other to elect an alderman for ward two of this City.

Clyde Armstrong is the only candidate for the city post. Only a light vote in either election is expected.

Visitors and vacationists along the shores of Aransas and Copano Bays enjoyed themselves during the past week—fishing, boating, swimming, or just lazing in the gentle breezes from the sea. Whatever their taste for pleasure and diversion, the visitors found it here during the past week.

The Pilot Camera, during the first of the week, caught many of the visitors as they enjoyed themselves, along with a few local residents who still enjoy the sports of this resort center.

The pictures show:

Launching of Two Boats Next Week to Mark Way for New Work

Officials of the Westergard-Rice Bros. & Company boat building plant here are going forward with plans to launch the first of a series of submarine chasers on July 4th.

"She is going in the water for sure on the Fourth," an official of the plant said regarding the first craft to be launched. Launching ceremonies for the PC-497, set for last Sunday, were postponed until the Fourth.

Mrs. Bryson Filbert, formerly Miss Steppie Rice, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rice of Aransas Pass, will be the PC-497's sponsor and start the fast, 110-foot defense craft down the ways by breaking a bottle of champagne over the bow of the sub-chaser. It will be Mrs. Filbert's honor to christen the first such craft ever built or launched on the Texas coast.

Some two hundred guests will be on hand to witness the launching ceremonies, including high state and federal and navy officials. Congressman Richard M. Kleberg has been invited to attend the ceremonies, as has Governor W. Lee O'Daniel. Captain Bernhardt, commandant, Corpus Christi Naval Air Base, and a group of officers are expected to be present for the launching.

S. E. Rice, member of the firm of naval architects and boat builders having contracts on construction of the four sub-chasers here for the Navy, will come here from Apalachicola, Florida, to take part in the ceremonies.

Mr. R. R. Rice stated that all arrangements had been completed for the ceremony that will send the first of four of the defense craft now under construction down the ways and make room for new construction. It was stated that the second of the boats for the Navy will be launched on Sunday, July 6.

A. M. Westergard, general manager of the boat works here, said that the company anticipates laying keels immediately for other ships as soon as the completed are sent down the launching ways into the water.

"We will keep building to the capacity of our plant," Mr. Westergard said, adding that expansion of the plant to build more than four ships at one time was anticipated.

Ltuet. E. G. Eiband and Yeoman W. T. Meyer of the Bureau of Ships and Plant Survey arrived here this week from New Orleans to check over the works here and commented favorably on the plant and organization.

Some 200 workmen are employed by the boat works here at a weekly salary of more than $8,000.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Nazi and Italian Activities in U. S. Are Curtailed by Government Action; 'War of Nerves' Continues as Fighting Centers in Near East and North Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What is said to be the most modern short distance reconnaissance plane in the world is this double-fuselage ship of the Nazi luftwaffe. It is superior in maneuverability to a pursuit plane and has strong offensive as well as defensive weapons. Cannons and machine guns of the latest construction are carried in the ship which is powered by two powerful motors. Its crew of three has unobstructed views on all sides through the glass-enclosed cockpit.

NETS: A Tightening

Following up the sinking of the Robin Moor, the government tightened still further its nets about fifth columnists, first by freezing all Axis assets in this country, and, second, by ordering all German consulates closed down, also news agencies and travel bureaus.

Another order, that barring the leaving of the United States of any German nationals until further notice, plus the word that was sent out that there would be a tightening of immigration permits, was held to be contingent on Germany's attitude to the American protest on the Robin Moor.

The fact that the remaining 35 Americans aboard the ship were eventually saved, the state department said, did not change the diplomatic situation regarding the vessel.

America, President Roosevelt indicated, was going to be firm from now on with regard to fifth column activities and sabotage, and was going to see to it that it was known who was coming into the country under the guise of "refugee."

WAR: Of Nerves

In spite of considerable activity in the Near East and the North African fronts, the war settled down to a "war of nerves" again, with the nervous tension reaching far and wide as Germany massed men and machines on the Russian border.

The troops were not placed geographically close to the border, but were so disposed that they were within an exceedingly short distance in time from what many believed was a "bluff" objective.

The announcement that a Turkish-Russian-Nazi pact had been drawn up did little to relieve the nervous tension, as it was not immediately confirmed, nor was it clear whether this would solve the situation.

For few thought that any such agreement, made under the threat of an army force variously estimated at from a million and a half to two million men, would be long adhered to if the men were withdrawn.

Senator George, head of the foreign affairs committee, frankly expressed the belief that Germany, by the move against Russia and the concentrations in the upper and lower Balkans, was "trying to make sure of her eastern front" before attempting the long-expected invasion of Great Britain herself.

However, even Senator George saw in the move the conviction by the Germans that it would be a long war, and an effort to obtain satisfactory supplies of wheat and oil.

Still others believed that a Russian-Turkish pact, implemented by troops of sufficient numbers to continue to enforce respect and strict adherence, might permit Germany to move southward through Russia and Turkey into the Near-East and the Middle East, and thus to close the pincers on the entire Eastern Mediterranean country.

This was the stage setting that caused the spread of the war of nerves into Britain itself, for day after day went by with only the most desultory German bombing efforts against England.

AIR: Special Arm?

The question of whether the United States shall have a separate air force or whether the army and navy should each have its own was being debated.

The senate had a bill for a separate air arm, under a new cabinet officer, just as the army and navy each has its own secretary.

There were many taking stands on each side of the question, but the general feeling was that the bill, if it reached debate, would pass.

However, some pointed to the experience of the British eastern Mediterranean fleet, abandoned by planes when the RAF decided not to defend Crete. The ships found themselves practically at the mercy of the German bombers, and losses were heavy indeed.

The others pointed to the stories about the Illustrious, a British plane carrier, presumably as well equipped as any fleet could be to cope with enemy planes—yet almost destroyed twice in recent weeks by the fire power of enemy bombers.

The first school maintains that the reason the fleet was in severe trouble off Crete was that it was deserted by the RAF over which it had no control, the RAF being a separate arm.

The navy should have had its own planes, and depended on them, it was maintained. The other school, in pointing to the Illustrious, showed how the navy cannot expect to manage even its own planes efficiently, as the two services are so foreign to each other.

They also pointed to the disastrous habit of army and navy aviation competing with each other, in designing planes and purchasing and equipping them, thus each developing its own source of supply—a bad economic procedure of production when mass methods are considered.

Yet, it was pointed out, even if the senate bill creating a separate force is successfully carried, it would be a long time before it would actually get into being, for the army and navy are too busily engaged in supplying themselves and training pilots right now to allow any of their energies to be spared to build up a new separate air arm.

JAPAN: Admits Failure

The upshot of the Japanese-Dutch East Indies affair appeared to be a total defeat for the Japanese, though it was by no means clear whether Nippon was willing to let it go at that.

The long-awaited text of the final Japanese statement, once the Dutch had stood firm and refused all the Jap requests and ultimatums, was, briefly, this:

"So sorry, but everything will be as it always has."

The Japanese admitted they had accomplished nothing, but that normal relations with the Dutch would continue.

Yet back of all these was the growing conviction that Nazi Germany would not be satisfied with a bland admission of defeat on the part of Japan, but might demand action, thus either losing an ally or perhaps hurling the specter of war into the southern Pacific.

Honors for Both

Robert Jackson, newly selected as associate justice of the United States Supreme court, shows his fatherly pride as he poses with son, William E. Jackson, upon the latter's graduation from Yale.

KNOX: And Stimson

Secretaries Knox and Stimson, also Canada's prime minister, Mackenzie King all made important statements carrying big sidelights on the war and America's national defense.

Knox, speaking in Canada, said that the United States is "practically" deciding that her course will thoroughly parallel that of Canada in the present struggle.

He thanked the Canadians for remaining aloof from America's own decision-making, and reminded Canada that at the time when she was making up her mind, America did not meddle.

Secretary Stimson, in Washington, arguing that the $285,000,000 St. Lawrence river seaway ought to be constructed as soon as possible in order to provide a safe journey much of the way from American factories to Britain, foresaw a long war.

One senator asked Stimson if it was not true that the project would take four years to construct, and if so, wouldn't the war be over long before it was finished.

Mr. Stimson said, in the first place, that he thought it was going to be a long war, and in the second place, we ought not to go on a basis of thinking it would be a short one.

Premier King, in the United States for a visit, made Canada's answer to American isolationists and enemies of the lease-lend bill who had accused Canada of demanding "cash on the barrel-head" for Canadian production while Britain asked the U. S. for leased or lent goods.

Mr. King said that Americans who made these statements failed to take into account the fact that Canada was giving the United Kingdom enormous quantities of men and munitions which were neither leased nor lent but were an outright gift toward the winning of the war.

He said that Canada was not forced to fight on behalf of Britain, that the decision was fully and freely made by Canadians themselves on a basis of complete autonomy.

He added that he believed the United States, in much the same way, had arrived at the same decision—to give all-out aid to Britain.

CHUTE: British Style

A dramatic story of how the British were using parachutists in occupied France was told.

The little party of chutists landed near to the German-held airport, made contact with British agents on the ground, also with French people sympathetic to Britain, gathered together and made a surprise nighttime assault on the airport.

They seized the control room, also the field itself, and a barrack room in which were German pilots awaiting the command to take to the air. Other squads went out to the landing field and destroyed 30 planes on the ground, also the buildings were set afire and burned.

The chutists then sped for the coast, where motor torpedo boats were waiting for a prearranged signal to take them back to England.

The maneuver was said to have been carried out so swiftly that the German headquarters did not know anything had happened until it was all over the chutists were safely on their way back across the channel.

The move was predicated by the sympathy of the French people, and this was borne out in repeated dispatches and stories by returned refugees, one of which told of British skywriters almost daily writing "Courage" (spelled the same in French and English) in the air over French territory.

AFRICA:

A full-scale attempt by the British to break over the Egyptian border back into Cyrenaica again, resulting in the capture of Fort Capuzzo, brought into the attack, according to Italian sources, large numbers of the newest American tanks.

This did not check, however, with American production figures, which showed that the only tanks sent in the lease-lend program had been those we could spare from the army, all of them of old design and manufacture.

Self-Defense Program

In these days when the doctrine that "might is right" seems to be enjoying a boom, individuals as well as nations seem to need a self-defense program. The ideal technique of defense for the average man or woman is jiu-jitsu. In this series of photos, made at the Bothner Gymnasium in New York, Lou Leonard, physical director, and Miss Swann Marlow enact the two attack and defense sequences.

1. As a first step in her self-defense program, Miss Marlow blocks the blow of Lou's cudgel with her forearm. 2. She presses the arm back, grips his biceps with her right hand and shifts her right foot behind his right foot.

3. Then it is just a matter of applying pressure quickly. One smart jerk and Lou is thrown off his feet. 4. And down he goes, flat on his back. An opponent thrown with such force usually has the fight knocked out of him.

Above: Lou grabs Miss Marlow. She gets her arm inside his and then (upper right) snaps her hands to his biceps, throws her weight backwards and brings her right foot to his midriff.

Continuing the backward motion, Miss Marlow's body rolls to the ground from a sitting position to a reclining one. Simultaneously the right leg stiffens and the 'attacker' takes a beautiful nose-dive.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Frequently cited is the vast difference between the World war bi-plane and the flying fortress of today, and frequently asked is whether administrative personnel of the air service has kept up with this technical advance. Is a good administrator also an up-to-date flier?

Col. Robert Olds, newly in charge of the air corps "ferry command," to start bombers on the way to Britain, is picked by informed onlookers as a shining example of the forward moving officer. He learned to fly during the World war, but he knows the big bomber of today the way Fritz Kreisler knows his fiddle.

It was only two years ago that the colonel brought a flying fortress across the country in 10 hours and 45 minutes, then a record flight for a military plane. In between wars, he has been busy every minute and has come all the way through with changing flying techniques and skills. He frequently has been mentioned as of the type of men who should command a separate air service.

A friend of Colonel Olds described him to me today as a Hollywood ideal of a flying officer, minus the exaggerated showmanship and swank of the screen air-devils—trim, natty, alert, clear-headed, courteous and personable. He seems to have stirred up more enthusiasm among his friends than anybody this department has back-trailed for a long time.

One of Colonel Olds' most distinguished air exploits was when he led six flying fortresses on a round trip to Argentina, in February, 1937, for which he received the Distinguished Service cross. His is the highly specialized skill of mastery over the newest and biggest bomber, no matter how many cannon or how many extra push-buttons on the dash-board. He is a native of Norfolk, Va., but joined the air reserve from Woodside, Md., in 1917.

WE ONCE saw two sports writers looking through the paper. Another sports writer had characterized a famous athlete as "a big squirrel-headed stumblebum who ought to be arrested for getting money under false pretenses." One of the sports writers read this passage and remarked reverently, "That guy is certainly a powerful writer!"

Not having to mind libel laws, or pull their punch on the type-writer, sports writers frequently become the most released and uninhibited of catch-as-catch-can literateurs. In other words they never forget how to get tough. It is one of them who, as their craft would have it, has put the slug on the Bund, in New Jersey. He is Atty.-Gen. David T. Wilentz, prosecutor of Bruno Hauptmann, who broke from the post as a sports writer for newspapers in Plainfield and his native Perth Amboy, N. J.

Wilentz drafted a bill to put the Bund out of business in his state and it has been passed unanimously by the state legislature. This first overt state move against the Bund is attracting national attention, as the high concentration of defense industries there might make the region an Achilles heel for subversion or sabotage.

The attorney-general doesn't look tough. He is slight in stature, ultra-fastidious in dress, has slick black hair and ingratiating manners. He is a master politico, with a tar-bucket memory for such small matters as a constituent's lumbago of 10 years back, and he is also the Flo Ziegfeld of courtroom showmen.

His histrionics in the Hauptmann trial caused some comment, but the news men gave him an "out." They said he hadn't circused up the proceedings any more than was necessary to win his case. He knocked off newspapering to work his way through the New York Law school.

THE rising prestige of Carlos Saavedra Lamas in the Argentine is good news for this country. Recent dispatches reveal Sr. Lamas definitely on record as favoring closer political and commercial co-operation of Argentina with the United States.

In 1937, as foreign minister, he made a forthright stand for Argentine support of the Monroe doctrine. He is the author of the Pan-American anti-war pact and the builder of the ABC entente between Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

CHAPTER XXII

"We're making a big mistake, not to hang him and be done with it," Red Kane said.

They were two days from Fork Creek now. This long and narrow room, which Jim Leathers paced so restlessly, was the kitchen of the main house at Walk Lasham's southwest camp—a convenient stop-over on the way to Sundance, where Roper was to be turned over to Ben Thorpe.

"The quicker we hang him, the better we'll be off," Red Kane said again.

Wearily, doggedly, Jim Leathers rolled a cigarette. He took his time about replying. "Seems like you already said that once before."

"I'm liable to keep on saying it," Red Kane told him. "Things is different now."

In the doorway, behind the two men who watched Bill Roper, a girl now appeared, a slim, full-breasted girl, whose dark, slanting eyes had sometimes troubled Bill Roper before now.

He had not been surprised to find Marquita here in Walk Lasham's southwest cow camp, to which his captors had brought him. He had guessed, when he had last talked to her in Miles City, that she was Walk Lasham's girl; and in spite of her expressed eagerness to leave Lasham and ride with Roper, he realized that Marquita still had to live in some way.

Girls of her stamp could not afford to throw down such a man as Lasham, until more interesting opportunities offered.

Her face was impressive now, but one of the slanting dark eyes narrowed in a definite signal to Roper. The combination of Spanish and Indian blood in this girl from the Tex border gave her a lithe, lazy grace, and a haunting depth of dark eyes; and the same blood made her unaccountable—sometimes stoic and smouldering, sometimes livened by the lightning flashes of an inner fire.

Undoubtedly she was capable of a passionate devotion, and an equally passionate cruelty. Anything could happen in a situation which included Marquita—with Marquita in love.

For a moment Bill Roper resented the fact that he couldn't be interested in any girl except Jody Gordon—a girl who didn't want him or need him. All the worst aspects of his own situation were apparent to him, then. He was an outlaw wanted the length of the Trail; probably would be an outlaw all the rest of his life, which gave every promise of being a short one. That even Marquita wanted him, or had any use for him, was a gift which he should have been glad to accept. What he had to think of now, though, was that Marquita was extremely likely to precipitate a lot of immediate disturbance.

Troubled, he wished to shake his head, or in some other way caution her that she must make no attempt to interfere. Roper had no intention of ever coming into the hands of Ben Thorpe alive. Somewhere between this place and Sundance, where Thorpe waited, he would make his play, however slim the chance.

Yet he would rather take his chances with some unforeseen opportunity later, when they were again on the trail, than to be plunged into some helpfully intended situation which the girl might devise—with danger to herself and questionable advantage to him. She had never brought him any luck.

He was unable, however, with the eyes of his two enemies upon him, to signal her in any way.

"Ben wanted him alive, if I could get him," Jim Leathers said stubbornly. "Well, I got him alive, and I aim to keep him that way. You bums ain't going to talk me into anything different just because you figure a dead man is easier to pack."

Bill Roper listened sardonically. In the two days spent in traveling from Fork Creek rendezvous, the scalp wound which had brought him down had nearly healed; but when he laced his fingers behind his head he winced and dropped his hands again.

It was typical of the quality of his captors that his hands were not tied or manacled. They told him where to sit and they made him stay put, and they were careful that no opportunity was given him to snatch a gun from an unwary holster; but these were merely the routine precautions of sensible men. For these riders were the picked gunfighters of Ben Thorpe's scores of outfits. They did not fear Roper, would not have feared him had he been armed.

Bill Roper had no doubt that Red Kane and perhaps one or two of the others would kill a doomed prisoner for no more reason than Jim Leathers had suggested.

The Lasham camp had been boiling with news as Jim Leathers' men had ridden in at dusk with their prisoner. Much had happened on the range while Leathers had waited out Bill Roper at the Fork Creek camp. The news that had reached tion of his sweetheart, Jody Gordon, and her father. After breaking Thorpe in Texas, Roper conducted a great raid upon Thorpe's vast herds in Montana. Jody was captured by seven of Thorpe's men. Roper and Shoshone Wilce rescued her in a surprise attack. Shoshone and Jody rode to a prearranged spot, but Roper was captured while waiting for Roper to meet them. Jody saw Shoshone fall down, dead.

"I guess it could be done," Red Kane said nastily. Leathers ignored this, and Red Kane disappeared. This time the door shut after him.

Leathers said, "Get me a drink." Marquita hurriedly set out a bottle and a glass on the table beside Jim Leathers' elbow.

"A deck of cards," Leathers said. She produced this, too.

Marquita strolled over to Leathers, the high heels of her slippers clicking lazily on the puncheon floor. "Why are you so cross with me?" she asked reproachfully. She moved behind Jim Leathers, and slowly ran her fingers through his hair.

"Ain't going to get you a thing," Jim Leathers said sourly.

"No?" said Marquita. For a moment one hand was lost in the folds of her skirt; then, deftly, unhesitatingly, she planted the muzzle of a .38 against the back of Jim Leathers' neck.

There was a moment of absolute silence, absolute immobility. Jim Leathers' eyes were perfectly still upon Bill Roper's face, as still as his hands, in one of which a playing card hung suspended. But though his face did not notably change, Marquita, with her .38 pressed hard against the back of the gunman's neck, had turned white; her mouth worked as she tried to speak, and her wide eyes were upon Bill Roper in terrified appeal. Perhaps no more than a second could have passed in that way, but to them all it seemed as if time had stopped, so that that little fraction of eternity held them motionless forever.

Bill Roper, moving up and forward, exploded into action smoothly, like a cat. It was the length of the room between them that saved Jim Leathers then.

Leathers twisted, lightning fast. Marquita's gun blazed into the floor as her wrist swept down in the grip of Leathers' left hand; and Bill Roper checked a yard from the table as Leathers' gun flashed into sight, becoming instantly steady. Marquita sagged away from Leathers, and her gun clattered upon the puncheon; but although Leathers' whole attention was concentrated upon Roper, Marquita's wrist remained locked in his grasp.

The gunman's voice was more hard and cold than the steel of his gun; it was as hard and cold as his eyes. "Get back there where you was," Bill Roper shrugged and moved back.

Leathers flung Marquita away from him and with his left hand picked up her gun as the door of the storeroom was torn open and Red Kane bulged in.

"What the—?" "This thing come behind me and stuck a gun in my neck," Leathers told him. "The devil! You hurt?" "Hell, no! I took it away from her."

Gently, tentatively, his long fingers ran over his wounded leg. That bullet wound in his thigh must have tortured him unspeakably through the two days in the saddle; and it must have been jerking at his nerves now with red-hot hooks, roused by the swift action that had preserved his command.

His face had turned gray so that the black circles under his eyes made them seem to burn from death's-head hollows, and his face, which had changed so little in this moment of action was relaxed into an ugly contortion. Slowly the gray color was turning to the purple of a dark and terrible anger.

"By God," said Red Kane, "I told you we should have hung him!" "You told me right," Jim Leathers said. The burn of his eyes never for a moment left Bill Roper's face. "You was right and I was wrong. I should have hung him at the start."

A pleasurable hope came into Red Kane's face. "Well—it ain't too late!" "No, it ain't too late. Tie his hands."

Keeping Roper between himself and Leathers, so that his partner's gun bore steadily upon Roper's belt buckle, Kane lashed Roper's hands behind him. The frost-stiff rope bit deep.

"Tie up this girl, too," Leathers ordered when Kane had finished. "I want her to see this show."

Marquita said, "I'm sorry, Bill." Her voice was broken by hard, jerking sobs, and tears were running down her face; yet somehow her words sounded dull and dead. "I did the best I could."

"You did fine," Roper said. "That was a game try." Hobbling on his stiff leg, Leathers moved to the outer door, flung it open; coastless, he stopped and signaled Red Kane back to one hand.

"Red, get back! Get out of line!" With the quick instinct of a man who has always been in trouble, Red Kane jumped back into the room, carrying Bill Roper with him. They all could hear now the sound of running horses.

For approximately one month, however, all White House advisers have agreed that the Azores were far less important than Dakar and the coast of West Africa. That is what makes the sinking of the Robin Moor by a Nazi submarine so doubly significant.

Despite the menace of Dakar, presidential advisers have been worried as to what we should do about it. To take Dakar from the French and to hold it against all comers would require more men than the 50,000 in the U. S. marine corps. It would require an expeditionary force from the regular army.

And while such troops are available, the bottoms to transport them are something else again. Once before, the British urged us not to get mixed up in the South Atlantic because it would divert our navy from the all-important North Atlantic.

The sinking of the Robin Moor, however, has played directly into the hands of those who have been urging the President to adopt the strongest policy in the South Atlantic and, if necessary, land troops on the bulge of Africa.

CATHEDRAL OF AGRICULTURE Paul H. Appleby, diminutive, didactic undersecretary of agriculture, made a flying trip to Nebraska the other day which had some interesting inside background.

Purpose of the trip was to set up what some agricultural hands call a "Cathedral of Agriculture" in Lincoln, Neb. What Appleby was working on was a plan to pool all of the different federal agricultural agencies under one roof and under one director at Lincoln.

These were to include the AAA, Rural Electrification administration, soil conservation, farm security, extension service, farm debt adjustment, and so on. The plan was to make the state of Nebraska a guinea pig to test the idea. All of these different farm representatives would then report to one director in Lincoln rather than to Washington.

However, the proposed Nebraska director was Cal Ward, regional supervisor of farm security. And although working for a Democratic administration, he is branded as a staunch Republican. His selection therefore caused opposition from various federal farm representatives in Nebraska who didn't want to join any "Cathedral of Agriculture" under Cal Ward.

Chief objector was Fred Wallace, chairman of the Nebraska AAA, and it was to bring him into line that Appleby flew out to Nebraska.

Appleby had first ordered Wallace to Washington. But Wallace refused. Even after Appleby flew out to see him, he could not make Wallace budge. "I'm interested in an agricultural program, not a lot of bureaucracy," Wallace said.

Appleby stayed an extra day, finally flew back to Washington. His "Cathedral of Agriculture" for Nebraska definitely side-tracked.

GOOD NEIGHBOR CO-OPERATION

The United States is getting much better co-operation from some of our South American neighbors than has leaked out to the public.

When Portugal protested to the United States against Roosevelt's attitude that hinting the seizure of the Azores, the Brazilian government immediately got in touch with the U. S. state department. The Portuguese had sent the Brazilians a copy of their protest, and Brazil asked us what reply we were going to make.

Ambassador Caffrey in Rio de Janeiro immediately showed Foreign Minister Aranha a summary of our proposed reply, and Aranha volunteered to send Portugal exactly the same answer—telling them it was vital to the safety of the Western hemisphere that the Azores be in friendly hands, and that Brazil could not afford to see the islands taken by the Axis.

This message was sent: which means that Brazil will co-operate with the United States if and when the time comes to occupy the Azores.

Argentina has been more cooperative than ever despite the diard efforts of our Rocky Mountain congressmen to prevent the importation of Argentine canned beef. Argentine sentiment is overwhelmingly anti-Nazi and pro-Roosevelt. The Argentines are much stronger for Roosevelt than for the United States, and have their fingers crossed as to what may happen after Roosevelt leaves office.

COMPULSORY TRAINING

I have been requested to answer the following questions in my column. They are evidently based on an article I wrote for the Ladies Home Journal.

First: "How do you visualize the organization and registration of the service of girls on a compulsory basis?" I see it done exactly as done for young men, perhaps with certain modifications.

Two: "What would be the relation of this plan to women already employed, especially in industry?" It would have no relation whatsoever, because I visualize it only as a continuation of practical training for one year. This will benefit the community and, at the same time, be of value to young women in their future lives.

Three: "What ages would be included?" I surmise the ages would be from the end of high school, if girls were going no further; to the end of college training, if they had planned on taking a college course. I suppose it would be between the ages of 18 to 24.

Four: "How would existing organizations be used?" They would be used to give opportunities for training.

Five: "Why do you feel compulsory service necessary?" Only because it is obvious that the better the training people have today, the better are the opportunities they have in life. This training should develop a broader knowledge of the whole community and should, therefore, be entered into by all girls in the community, physically able to participate and not exempted for special reasons, such as preparation in specialized fields of work.

Six: "Is this plan an integral part of military defense?" It has nothing whatsoever to do with military defense, but it is an important part of civilian defense. I believe raising the standard of living has a good effect on our civilian defense.

I should like to point out that this plan has no official backing and has not been considered by anyone in the government. It was suggested by me purely to bring about discussion, so that there would be a wider appreciation of the situation of young people, especially girls, in all the communities in our country. It should also bring about a consideration of what would be wise procedures for the benefit of individuals and community life.

I am very glad that I have achieved so much interest on the part of different groups, even those such as the American Youth Congress and certain political groups which are violently opposed to the word "compulsory."

I think we should ponder this statement of a very eminent man, Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, president of Cornell university, made the other day: "It is high time for America to face squarely the problems of individual and social discipline in a democracy."

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND In New York one day I managed to do a few errands between defense bond broadcasts. At 2:00 o'clock General Drum and Miss Fannie Hurst called for me. We ferried over to Governor's island together on the special barge and found Mrs. Drum waiting on the other side. She has been laid up for a long time with an ankle broken in three places, but at last she is able to get about again.

The little booklet, published by the Governor's Island club, was given me. It tells the history of the island and is very interesting. The old forts are purely ornamental to day, but the building which McKim, Meade and White designed, is not only dignified and charming, but filled with activity.

I paid a short visit to the hospital. While I doubt if it is ever pleasant to be ill, still I think these officers and men are in pleasant quarters.

I never saw anything more efficient and orderly than the cafeteria, the kitchen and the supply rooms. The sergeant in charge seemed to me remarkably able and efficient. When he showed me the field kitchens, each one of which can produce a meal for 50 men, I was lost in admiration. He told me it takes two hours to prepare a meal, though he has produced a satisfactory dinner in 45 minutes, and it can be done with the trucks in motion.

I thought of an old army kitchen, my one real contact with army feeding. The Red Cross used it in the last war to make coffee for trainloads of troops coming through the Washington railroad yards. I still remember our difficulty in keeping it clean. It did not remotely resemble this modern and efficient equipment.

After tea with General and Mrs. Drum, I came home to keep an appointment with Dr. John Elliot and then had dinner with Miss Esther Lape. I spent the evening catching up on the mail.

One morning, at Mayor LaGuardia's request, I looked at some designs for uniforms, which volunteers may wear in the future. I confess to a little confusion in thinking about uniforms before being entirely certain what work is to be done in them, but I suppose simple working clothes can fit all types of work.

All 21-Year-Olds In United States Must Register July 1 for Draft

Every man in the State of Texas who has attained the 21st anniversary of the day of his birth subsequent to October 16, 1940, and before midnight July 1, 1941—with a few exceptions made by Congress—must register with his local Selective Service board on July 1, General J. Watt Page, State Director, said today.

Aliens, as well as American citizens, who are 21 years old on July 1 must be registered, General Page said. He pointed out that aliens between the ages of 21 and 36 years, who have come to the United States since the first registration on October 16, 1940, and have not been registered, must appear before local boards on July 1 to register.

Quoting from Selective Service regulations, General Page said that the exemptions from registration as provided by the Selective Training and Service Act and the Coast Guard Auxiliary and Reserve Act are:

"Commissioned officers, warrant officers, pay clerks and enlisted men of the Regular Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Public Health Service, the federally recognized active National Guard, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Regular Army Reserve, the enlisted Reserve Corps the Naval Reserve, and the Marine Corps Reserve; cadets, United States Military Academy; midshipmen, United States Naval Academy; cadets, United States Coast Guard Academy; men who have been accepted for admittance (commencing with the academic year next succeeding such acceptance) to the United States Military Academy as cadets, to the United States Naval Academy as midshipmen, or to the United States Coast Guard Academy as cadets, but only during the continuance of such acceptance; cadets of the advanced course, senior division, Reserve Officers' Training Corps or Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps; members of the Coast Guard Reserve, other than temporary members; and diplomatic representatives, technical attaches of foreign embassies and legations, consuls general, consuls, vice consuls, and consular agents of foreign countries, residing in the United States, who are not citizens of the United States, and who have not declared their intention to become citizens of the United States."

Special registrars will be provided to register men who cannot appear before the local board because of illness or other incapacity.

Every man subject to registration who is an inmate of an asylum, jail, penitentiary, reformatory, or similar institution on July 1 is required to register on the day he leaves the institution.

Falfurrias To Stage Rodeo On July Fourth

Plans for a big rodeo and Fourth of July celebration commemorating the thirteenth annual American Legion sponsored show are completed for July 3rd and 4th.

A night performance in spacious Legion Park Thursday July 3, will ring up the curtain on South Texas' biggest all-amateur rodeo and this will be followed on Friday, July 4, by the main arena attraction which each year attracts many thousands of fans and scores of the best riders and ropers of the Gulf Coast ranch country.

Supplementing the regular arena bill of fare will be the antics of Tommy Moore, world's champion rodeo clown and outdoor entertainer, with his trick mule "Toy", who for several seasons has been thrilling the rail birds and aggravating the milking stock.

A major attraction will be the "Frontier Day," parade on the morning of July 4 and the "Old West" barbecue, with all the trimmings, which will be served free of charge on July 4 with every gate ticket, has always proved popular with Falfurrias Independence Day visitors.

Band music and the colorful horse quadrille, in which the mounted boys and girls execute the intricate steps of picturesque dance, will further round out the program.

Popular prices will prevail at the gates and grandstands and two dances at Legion Hall on the nights of July 3 and 4 complete the celebration.

Newspaper Poll Shows Johnson In Lead

Lyndon Johnson, the hard-driving South Texas Congressman, jumped into the lead over his three principal opponents in the U. S. Senate race, according to all statewide pre-election polls conducted by the leading newspapers of the state.

In fourth place at the start of the race, the vigorous young Congressman, who has the endorsement of President Roosevelt and Speaker Sam Rayburn, now leads the field, with W. Lee O'Daniel second, Gerald Mann third and Martin Dies fourth. Only a comparative handful of Texas voters have indicated preference for the 20 other candidates, part of whom have withdrawn from active campaigning.

Known as a "fast finisher," Lyndon is expected to increase his lead during this last week before the election Saturday. When Johnson first ran for Congress, he entered comparatively late with nine other candidates in the race and won a clear majority over all nine in the first primary. In his two succeeding races, no opponent announced against Johnson.

"Germany's declaration of war on Russia Sunday has made the international situation even graver," declared Guy Warren, Corpus Christi independent oil man and chairman of the seven-county Johnson-for-Senator Club. "More and more the people want a man who has the full confidence of President Roosevelt and who is pledged to help the President, not snipe at him," Mr. Warren said.

As a member of the Naval Affairs Committee of Congress, Johnson played a major part in bringing the Naval Air Station to South Texas. His efforts in this direction have won the praise of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and of Congressman Maas of Minnesota, ranking Republican member of the committee," Warren announced.

Johnson has been a strong advocate of a two-ocean navy and a strong army in order to protect the United States from threats of dictator nations. "If we had followed the advice of Wheeler, Nye and other isolationists, we would really be unprepared to meet the present emergency," the Johnson chairman said. "As it is, the situation demands a strong man in the Senate, neither a snoopster nor a sniper, and who has the experience and won't have to get it. You can't train a fireman after the fire breaks out."

RAILWAY LABOR UNION DEMANDS WOULD COST 900 Million Dollars A YEAR

THE labor unions have made their demands upon the railways of the United States—and through the railways upon the PUBLIC. These demands are vastly larger in proportion than any they have ever made. The economical and efficient operation of the railways is vital to the nation's defense effort. Therefore, the Western Railways present to the public the following facts:

The labor unions representing engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen are demanding a 30 per cent increase in wages, amounting to 190 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay are the highest in history.

Other unions representing a greater number of railway employees are demanding wage increases ranging as high as 95 per cent—averaging 47 per cent—and amounting to 580 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay also are the highest in history.

Thus the wage increases being demanded by the labor unions amount to 770 million dollars a year, an average increase in excess of 41 per cent.

In addition, certain of these labor unions have demanded advances in their pay not included in the above figures, and more rules for the creation of unnecessary jobs.

The situation, then, is this: The total cost of complying with all the demands made would be approximately 900 million dollars a year!

The average weekly earnings of railway employees are now 15 per cent higher than in the peak year 1929, while the cost of living is 12 per cent less.

The demands of the railway labor unions are being made when the entire nation has just been asked to make a supreme effort for National Defense.

The railways cannot meet these demands without a great increase in the cost of transportation. They exceed by more than 700 million dollars the income that the railways had left after paying their annual expenses, taxes and charges in 1940.

The railways have a vitally important job before them. They need all their resources to continue adequately to serve you and contribute effectively toward the National Defense Program.

Registration of 21-Year-Olds On July 1

State Director of Selective Service General J. Watt Page, in announcing the second registration of young men eligible for military training on July 1, said today that local boards and their assistants would handle the registration in most sections of the State.

General Page added, however, that additional assistance will be required in some of the densely populated sections, and that all local boards are authorized to enlist and accept, if necessary, any volunteer assistance in handling their registration problems. He said:

"Most of the local organizations, as well as individuals, who assisted in the first registration last October have volunteered their services for the second registration. Texas has been fortunate in the patriotic response of both organizations and individuals in this connection."

General Page emphasized that "all local boards are authorized to make their own arrangements for registration, and permission or approval from State Headquarters in this instance will not be necessary."

Many of the counties having more than one local board will arrange for joint registration at some central point, he said. Other counties having more than one local board, but each board having a well defined geographical area within the county, will provide separate registration places.

New forms are being sent to all local boards since slight changes have been made in the procedure since the first registration last fall. General Page indicated that there would be approximately 65,000 men registered in Texas on July 1.

Registration will be conducted between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9:00 p.m., Page said.

A MOST PLEASANT STAY FOR YOU!

Rockport, Fulton & Lamar

That Is The Aim....

OF EVERY OPERATOR OF TOURIST
COTTAGES AND APARTMENTS

Your Pleasure is our business, and upon the service we render depends future visits from you, and we are always ready to do everything possible to make your stay with us the most enjoyable you have ever had on the Texas Coast. Let your wishes or needs be known. We'll do our best to please! As an added courtesy we are co-operating with the Rockport Pilot in bringing this newspaper to our guests each week. On this page, and elsewhere in the paper, you will find information that will be of assistance to you in making all your vacation hours count, including suggestions on where to go and what to do.

SPECIAL NEWS SERVICE FOR YOU

The manager of each Tourist Court, Cottages or Apartments listed on this page is an authorized news reporter for this newspaper. Tell the manager that you would like to have a news story about your stay here. He will report it to the Pilot and the news will appear in the next issue. The Pilot will in turn forward the news story on to the guests' home town newspapers. This special personalized news service also includes pictures by the Pilot photographer of unusual news events, such as big catches of fish, and other picture-worthy events.

Rockport, Fulton, Lamar and adjacent areas along the 15-mile coastline of Live Oak and Lamar Peninsulas form the most ideal "family playground" on the Texas Coast. Here stretches fifteen miles of tree-lined beaches and natural beauty that comes from blending of skies, water and trees, bathed in a semi-tropic sunshine and tempered by cooling Gulf breezes. Here one can enjoy the activity of fishing, boating and swimming, or just loaf in an Eden-like atmosphere, so different from the usual highly commercialized tourist resort.

FISHING—There is no better place to go fishing than in the waters off shore from Live Oak and Lamar Peninsulas, where Trout and Redfish are found in abundance—and where giant silvery Tarpon are ready to take the bait and give the sportsman a furious hour's battle. Aransas Bay was described in last year's official State Game, Fish & Oyster Commission report as a deep bay of uniform depth, containing unusually clear water. It is protected from inland floods to an unusual degree and as the result its salt content—so important to marine life—is unusually constant. . . . HERE is found the famous Rockport oyster, known from coast to coast.

BATHING—is unexcelled. You may either take the kiddies for a swim in the safe shallow bay right in front of your cottage, or swim at the new sand-bottomed beach outside the small craft harbor. There are no undertows and surf bathing is at its best.

NATURE STUDY—recognized naturalists know of no other place in Texas where such a variety of flora and fauna are combined for first hand study. Each year a larger number of nature students and bird lovers visit Live Oak and Lamar peninsulas.

SIGHTSEEING—visitors are always welcome at the State Game, Fish & Oyster Commission's only marine laboratory, stationed at Rockport and carrying on extensive marine experiments and study in Aransas and Copano bays and the nearby Gulf of Mexico. Beautiful state parks on Lamar peninsula, include the now famous Big Oak and the CCC improved Goose Island. The well preserved Fulton mansion is open to visitors and it takes the sightseer back to a day when Rockport and Fulton were the principal South Texas ports of call for deep sea sailing vessels. Add to all this miles of scenic drives that never fail to please the motorist's eye.

BOAT FACILITIES—have been given every attention at ROCKPORT. A new small craft harbor and channel have been completed by the Rockport Navigation District. Too, many prominent Texas sportsmen have built their own boat houses here and Rockport is becoming the home port for many palatial pleasure crafts. Boats, in which to fish or hunt, are available for rent at points all along the bay front and Fulton and Lamar. Guides are furnished for parties wishing to make one day or overnight trips to the Gulf.

Rare Shovelbill Catfish, Weighing 25 Pounds, Caught Near Wichita Falls By Interior Decorator

AUSTIN, Texas, June 25—Catching of a twenty-five pound paddle fish, commonly, but erroneously called a shovelbill catfish, by H. F. Sims, an interior decorator of Electra, Texas, in Diversion Lake near Wichita Falls, not only created much comment in that part of the state, but caused considerable interesting data to be unearthed concerning this strange-looking fish.

The paddle, or snout, of the paddle fish is shaped exactly like the bill of a duck. The snout on the fish caught by Mr. Sims was four inches long. The mouth was about six inches in diameter and the hooded gills made the head appear almost a foot wide.

Paddlefish formerly were common, but due to the fact that their eggs are used as domestic caviar and that their flesh brings the highest premium on the eastern markets the species is becoming more rare each year, the executive secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission points out. The flesh of the paddlefish, when smoked, tastes much like sturgeon. Too, the fish have no bones in their bodies, cartilage replacing bones.

Paddlefish, along with gar, sturgeon and grindle, have survived all stages of evolution. Each is still shaped exactly as it was during prehistoric days when mastodons and saber-toothed tigers roamed the world.

The unusual-appearing fish have been recorded as weighing as much as 162 pounds. One that size was caught in Indiana. It was six feet, two inches long and had a circumference of 4 feet.

Humming Birds Pick Very Unusual Nest Site For Home

A pair of ruby-throated hummingbirds picked an unusual place in which to nest, according to the Dallas Morning News. The nest is suspended upon a loop of wire three floors above a concrete patio between The News office and an adjoining building. Workers in the surrounding offices are gravely concerned over the birds.

Apparently oblivious to their surroundings, the birds are going about their business of hatching babies in a nest the size of a golf ball. No mistakes must be made by the tiny birds when they try their first flights. Under them is a drop of three stories to hard concrete. Hummingbirds, especially brave

Mountain Sheep Get Big Break

Saving the dwindling bighorn mountain sheep of west Texas is one of the problems of the Game department. These bighorn residents of the mountain peaks got a break recently when the rates ranch, which has located the best ranges of the bighorn, was leased by an interior development company which does not intend to run domestic sheep or goats on the ranch. Domestic sheep and goats are constantly introduced upon more of the bighorn ranges in the mountains.

As a result of the development company's policy of not running sheep and goats on the ranch, bighorn sheep will have two and possibly three years in which they will be free of competition for food of domestic sheep and goats and their diseases.

The bighorns, of which there are, according to a recent survey by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, fewer than 14,000 in the entire country, are far from safe. Most of the Texas bighorns frequently move from the beach mountains to the Diablo Mountains. There is now only one snep-proof fence between the two ranges and the bighorns can skirt it. However, more sheep raisers are moving into that section each year and it is feared by the Game Department biologists that snep-proof fences will stretch across the entire section. Then it will remain to be seen whether bighorn ewes and large lambs can jump it. It is very doubtful if a bighorn ram can jump a four-foot fence. A former mountain sheep inspector for the Department found a large ram dying after attempting to jump a four-foot fence. It got hung on the top fence.

Bighorn sheep are now found only in twelve western states. Encroachment of domestic stock and over-hunting have depleted their ranks until a few authorities are optimistic enough to believe that excellent game animal can ever be brought back in sufficient numbers to ever allow hunting of them.

during the nesting season, will rob spider webs and will attack birds much larger than themselves, including hawks and crows and are practically always victorious, due to their speed.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

House Construction

A CORRESPONDENT is planning to build a small house in a suburban district. Although he has had no experience in the work, he wants to do it all himself. He asks for a book giving "all details in mixing cement for the brick facing of the house, making up the plaster and applying the same, installation of plumbing, heating and hot water systems, drainage system, electric wiring and fixture installation. In other words, a book dealing with all details of house construction." He also asks whether permits will be necessary and where to get them; whether licensed men must install any or all of the work, and whether the house must be built by a licensed contractor.

Answer: No one book covers all of this information; many books will be needed. In building a house, one error may be enough to weaken the entire structure and to make it all useless. For this reason I strongly recommend that he give up his idea. All developed communities require the licensing of many of the trades, and plans and specifications must be approved by a building department. I greatly appreciate his desire for a house, but strongly advise him to put his construction in the hands of experienced people.

Bathroom in the Cellar

Question: I wish to construct a bathroom in the cellar. The room will be situated in the center of the cellar and is to receive light from one window. I intend using imitation tile which comes in sheets. These would come about 30 inches from the ceiling. Would it be possible to have the top 30 inches closed in by using frosted glass? If the glass were used, would noises be heard through it? Would it be better to have a tile or wood floor?

Answer: Two sheets of glass separated by at least one inch of air space would be better for cutting down sound transmission. For the floor use either asphalt tile or ceramic tile. Either one of these materials can be used on basement floors. Before going ahead with this idea make sure that the soil pipe line to the sewer will be below the level of the bathroom fixture outlets.

Counter Tops

Question: I have just made cabinets for my kitchen, and am puzzled at what to use for the top of the drain boards around the sink and for the counter tops. What do you advise?

Answer: The material that is in most general use for work tables and drain boards is battleship linoleum. This is cut to size, secured to the under surface with waterproof cement, and the edges bound with specially formed metal strips that make the edges waterproof, and also protect them against chafing. Experienced linoleum layers are familiar with the work. If you want to do it yourself, you should be able to get the strips at a well equipped hardware store, where you can also learn of the method of application. Cement for securing the linoleum can be roofing cement, liquefied by heating.

Old Brass Warming-Pan

Question: Is there some way to shine up an old brass warming-pan, and then put something on it to prevent tarnishing?

Answer: If the brass is badly tarnished, wash with ordinary vinegar in which salt has been dissolved—as much salt as will be taken up. Follow by rinsing with clear water and then wipe dry. If necessary, follow by a good metal polish. After polishing, wipe the surface with benzine, being extremely careful of fire, and then apply a coat of clear lacquer. A plating shop could probably do a much better job for you, and at no great cost. Inquire at your nearby garage.

Shingles Over Old Roof

Question: What is the cheapest and best shingle to use on a roof? Can it be put right over old shingles? Do they come in green?

Answer: Asphalt or wood shingles are probably the least expensive. Either type of shingle can be laid over the old shingles; in fact, most re-roofing jobs are done over old shingles. Green is a popular color in all types of roofing materials, and you should have no difficulty in getting the shade that you want.

Moths in a Mattress

Question: I have a hair mattress with moths in it. It was once demothed, but the moths came back after a year. How can we get rid of them?

Answer: Put the mattress outdoors, preferably on an overcast day to reduce the fire hazard, and soak it with naphtha or clear gasoline. This will destroy every stage of insect life.

Silverfish

Question: In the downstairs room of a very old house the wallpaper above the baseboard is being eaten off in some places as far up as the window sill. The damage seems to be the work of insects, although we have never seen any. Can you explain?

Answer: That is undoubtedly the work of silverfish, which eat starch and find it in wallpaper paste. I have written a leaflet on the control of silverfish, a copy of which is being mailed to you. This will answer your question, I am sure.

"LUCKY that was just a dream," he thinks, "or I'd lose my job." But he's wrong. No dream is "just a dream." Often it reveals something in yourself that you never knew—and perhaps should.

Dreams can really help when you take them to heart.

Instead of lightly dismissing these dreams, use them to help solve your problems. Young Meeker's wife was very vain. Which gave young Meeker quite a pain. But what could poor young Meeker do. It made him very, very blue. He stole to buy expensive clothes for wifey—so the rumor goes—And when they caught him, Meeker said: "The crime is on my vain wife's head."

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE motion picture industry turned out recently to do honor to Harry Carey in celebration of his completing a year of making motion pictures—"The Shepherd of the Hills," his latest, is his 305th. He's long been one of the most beloved men in Hollywood, because he's one of the most human. Not many people at the celebration knew of one of the nicest things he ever did. The Indians who work on his ranch (he homesteaded it himself) had never seen the sea; when he learned that, some years ago, he and his wife piled them all into trucks and drove miles to show it to them!

Red Skelton was so eager to play one of the three sailors in Metro's "Panama Hattie" that he campaigned; went around with his pockets full of cigars, and whenever he met one of the executives involved he'd hand out a cigar and say "Vote for me for 'Panama Hattie.'" Then they pre-viewed "Lady Be Good," in which Skelton's a sensation. "Panama Hattie's" producer, Arthur Freed, sent Skelton a box of cigars and a note saying, "Red, you're elected. After 'Lady Be Good' you're the one who deserves the cigars."

The producer of the air's "Stepmother" serial auditioned dozens of aspirants for the role of a two-year old. Then he happened to catch Alice Sherrie Goodkin's baby imitations on the Uncle Ezra program—and she got the part.

Ray Milland and Brian Aherne are starring with Claudette Colbert in "Skylark." Milland was a boy soprano when a child in Wales—but in 12 years of acting in pictures he's never sung a note. Aherne never would sing as a child, or even a youth—and he's always having to sing before the camera. In "Skylark" he has to sing the sea chanty, "Blow the Man Down," for five minutes—and it's during a storm at sea. Well, that's Hollywood for you!

Here's RKO Radio's list of 14 new players whom they believe you'll want to keep seeing on the screen; they'll appear in 1941-42 productions: Signe Hasso, Dorothy Compton, Ruth Warrick, Anne Hunt, Michel Morgan, Frances Neal, Ginny Simms, Joan Carroll, James Craig, Edmund O'Brien, Joseph Cotton, Dennis O'Keefe, Paul Hammond, Phillip Reed. Keep track of them, if you're interested in seeing how stellar material is developed; some may hit the heights, others won't. You'll be the real judges!

Some of these players might be called stars now, of course; James Craig, who clicked as the young doctor in "Kitty Foyle," is to become a star in "Unexpected Uncle"; Edmund O'Brien had one of the four stellar roles in "Parachute Battalion." But it's the public, not the studio, that has the final word in these things; fortunes have been lost in attempts to cram "stars" down the public's throat, when the public stayed away from the resulting pictures in droves. Let's hope RKO's choice is a good one!

After you girls see Paramount's "The Parson of Panamint" you may all be wearing your hair "a la Ellen Drew"; that's the name the actresses in the picture gave the hairdo which Ellen Drew adapted from the one the studio found was authentic for the year 1892, in which the picture is laid. Ellen agreed to the necessary pompadour, but added a small curl right in the center of her forehead, and the style was made official for the film. Charlie Ruggles stars in the picture.

Connie Boswell, of the Bing Crosby program, has invented a new game. It's called polo tennis. Connie, who is unable to walk, worked out the idea of having the players ride large tricycles, and everybody who's played is enthusiastic about it.

ODDS AND ENDS—Bess Johnson, of radio's "The Story of Bess Johnson," has abandoned the wheel chair she's used since she broke her ankle some weeks ago. . . . Rosalind Russell's re-living that the title of her new co-starring picture with Clark Gable has been changed to "They Met in Bombay" . . . Soldiers from the nearby army base turned out in force for the "sneak" pre-view of Ronald Colman's latest, "My Life With Caroline," at Riverside, Calif. . . . J. Carroll Nash tackled that "I" onto his name because fans had a way of thinking he was a woman—thanks to all that make-up.

... AND SO THEY ARE MARRIED
(See Recipes Below.)

AFTER THE 'I DO'S'
Intermittent glances at the third finger of your left hand, as you leave the church and hurry homeward to greet guests, remind you that you're a "Mrs." now . . . and you've never been so happy!

You're too thrilled and excited to even think about food, but friends and relatives and your new husband, especially, are more than likely eager to partake of the very distinctive refreshments that "Mom" has spent weeks planning.

And later when you recall the wedding reception, if details have been worked out sanely and carefully beforehand, you'll know that yours was an extra special after-wedding party.

Dainty rolled asparagus sandwiches and a luscious peach short-cake, with an iced or hot beverage, are sure to satisfy gay young appetites, as well as appeal to the elders' taste for "something different."

Deck the table with fresh flowers. A fitting centerpiece is a replica of the bride's bouquet . . . one exactly like that which she carried to the altar. A sophisticated crepe paper bridal couple will complete the table decorations.

Asparagus Rolled Sandwiches.
Remove crusts from a loaf of sandwich bread and cut in one-fourth inch lengthwise slices. Butter slices and cut in half. In each piece, place a stalk of asparagus. Roll bread carefully, pressing well along buttered edge to hold it securely. Sprinkle asparagus with a little salt and paprika before rolling bread, if desired.

The number of sandwich loaves and the amount of asparagus tips you will need will, of course, depend upon the length of your guest list.

Peach Shortcake.
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ cup butter or other shortening
¾ cup milk
1½ quarts sliced peaches, sweetened.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening; add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll one-fourth inch thick. Place half in ungreased round cake pan; brush with melted butter. Place remaining half on top and butter top well. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Separate, spread bottom half with soft butter and some of peaches. Place other half on top. Spread with butter and remaining peaches; garnish with whipped cream. Cut into individual servings. Serves 8. Other fresh fruits may be substituted for peaches.

There is an old tradition that the luckiest sort of bride's cake is one baked in a ring—symbolic, like the gold band that is slipped on her

LYNN SAYS:

In regard to after-wedding parties, plan a menu that's simple and easy to serve, yet appetizing and delicious to eat.

Since the proverbial color scheme for the bride's table is green and white, plan to use white flowers for the centerpiece; if candles are used, they may be white or green.

It is customary for the bride to throw her bouquet to her attendants prior to her departure on the wedding trip.

Since the excitement and emotional strain will undoubtedly upset the bride, she'll not be able to thoroughly enjoy her own reception. For that reason, a piece of the cake should be cut and wrapped for the couple to take with them on their honeymoon. The table decorations should be saved for her to have on her return.

NOW YOU'RE A WIFE

... And the business of cooking for two begins! Feeding your husband will be an important part of your new life—really essential to the smooth sailing of the ship of matrimony. So next week Lynn will devote her entire column to recipes that will help you "hol dyour man." They'll be simple enough for the beginner, too.

finger for the first time at her wedding, of the endless quality of true love. This cake is cut by the bride and served to the guests as part of the wedding feast, and is quite different from the rich fruit cake that is given to the guests to carry away. It is a light cake, like a white cake or sponge cake, and is frosted with all the curlicues and rosettes that the home cook can manage.

This cake brings luck to the guests, for it contains a ring, a coin and a key—signifying marriage, wealth and happiness to those who find them. If you haven't a ring-shaped pan, you can bake the cake in an angel-food cake pan or in an ordinary cake pan, with the ring outlined in contrasting frosting. The bride's and bridegroom's initials in contrasting frosting may be used for further decoration.

Bride's Cake.
1 cup sifted cake flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup (8 to 10) egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cups sifted granulated sugar
¾ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract

Sift flour once, measure and sift four more times. Beat egg whites and salt with flat wire whisk. When foamy add cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar carefully, 2 tablespoons at a time, until all is used. Fold in flavoring. Then sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold in carefully; continue until all is used. Pour batter into ungreased angel-food cake pan or ring-shaped pan and bake in a slow oven. Begin at 275 degrees F. After 30 minutes increase heat slightly (325 degrees); bake 30 minutes more. Remove from oven; invert pan 1 hour.

Marshmallow Frosting.
½ cup sweetened condensed milk
4 marshmallows
1½ cups sifted confectioners' (4X) sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cook sweetened condensed milk and quartered marshmallows in top of double boiler until marshmallows are melted. Remove from fire, add confectioners' sugar gradually, beating until smooth and creamy. Add vanilla. May be spread on cake while warm. This frosting covers tops of two 9-inch layers or top and sides of ring-shaped cake or about 18 cup cakes.

Butter Frosting.
½ cup sweetened condensed milk
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
3½ cups sifted confectioners' (4X) sugar (about)
Cream sweetened condensed milk and butter together. Add vanilla, blending well. Add sifted confectioners' sugar gradually, beating until smooth and light in color. This frosting may be tinted any color by addition of a speck of food coloring. Pale tints are most attractive. Spread on cold cake. Makes enough frosting to cover tops of two 9-inch layers or top and sides of ring-shaped cake, or about 24 cup cakes. Make the letters of corresponding or contrasting frosting by means of a pastry tube.

If you plan a wedding breakfast, instead of an afternoon or evening reception, include something hot and something cold for the main course, a beverage, ice and wedding cake, of course. Here's my menu suggestion:

- Turkey a la King in Timpale Cases
  - Potato Croquettes
  - Baking Powder Biscuits
  - Ripe and Stuffed Olives
  - Ice Cream
  - Petits Fours
  - Coffee

ORCHARDS NEED AMPLE NITROGEN

Vital Element Is Essential For Heavy Growth.

By E. F. SERR
(Extension Horticulturist, University of California)

Springtime is time for fruit growers to think of nitrogen. Fruit trees draw heavily on soil supplies of nitrogen while making heavy spring growth. Deficiencies are likely to develop, especially when most of the nitrogen is tied up in a cover crop. Consequently, early fertilizer applications are often needed to carry the trees through in good condition.

The foliage of trees suffering from lack of nitrogen is pale yellow rather than bright green in color. Usually the individual leaves are also smaller and the tree has a more open appearance, the foliage being relatively sparse in comparison with the dense growth of normal trees. The shadows cast by trees well supplied with nitrogen are noticeably darker than those of trees whose nitrogen supplies are low.

Supplies of available nitrogen in the soil vary greatly throughout the year. They tend to be high in late summer and low in early spring. This brings the low point in supply just when the trees need the largest quantities in order to make spring growth.

A late growing cover crop will increase the natural shortage of nitrogen because it will tie up large quantities used in its growth. This may not become available to the trees for a considerable time after the green manure has been turned under. When the cover crop is allowed to become mature additional nitrogen will be tied up while soil organisms are decomposing the woody material. These organisms actually take up more nitrogen from the soil. This competition for nitrogen from late growing cover crops is especially important in unirrigated orchards where summer rainfall is light or does not occur at all.

Nitrogen fertilizers applied early enough so that the nitrates are available in sufficient quantities during the period of rapid spring growth have been found effective and profitable in many areas. Peaches are especially responsive to fluctuations in the nitrogen supply in the soil.

Broody Chickens Waste Feed, Lower Egg Profits

A nest of broody birds is a sign of poor poultry management, says J. C. Taylor, associate extension poultryman at the New Jersey college of agriculture, Rutgers university. With the prevailing narrow margin of profits in the poultry business, no poultryman can afford to tolerate broodiness in his laying flock, he reminds poultry owners.

"It should be remembered that for every day a broody bird stays on the nest, it takes three days to break up her broodiness," Taylor points out. "Good management requires the removal of all birds showing any tendency to broodiness to special pens or coops," he says. "All laying pens should be inspected the last thing in the evening for broody birds. They can be readily identified by their presence on the nests. Brood coops in individual pens provide a satisfactory way of confining them, or if the number is large the use of a summer shelter for confining the broody birds is very satisfactory.

"It is not advisable to restrict any of the feed in an effort to break up broodiness. Confining the birds in small coops is all that is necessary. The important point is to remove them from the nests at the first indication of broodiness."

Sudan Safe Pasture If Caution Is Used

To farmers who are wondering whether or not it is safe to pasture cattle on Sudan grass, W. L. Boyd, chief of the veterinary division at University farm, St. Paul, advises that there is little or no danger from prussic acid (cyanide) poisoning as a result of feeding this crop.

Exhaustive tests by members of the veterinary staff have failed to develop a single case of poisoning where Sudan alone was fed to stock. With sorghum or cane, however, the situation is different. Under some conditions sorghum is a very dangerous feed and even if there is only a little of it mixed with the Sudan pasture trouble may result.

Feeding Iodine to Cattle

The most convenient method of feeding iodine to dairy cattle is to combine it with salt at the rate of about one ounce of potassium iodide to 300 pounds of salt. To facilitate mixing this small quantity of iodine, first mix one ounce with eight ounces of slaked lime or cornstarch.

Another method of feeding iodine is to use the iodine tablets that you can secure from the regular veterinary supply houses, dissolving these in water as recommended.

Mann Says Texans Will Vote As They Wish

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 26—Challenging the right of Washington politicians to "meddle in Texas affairs," Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann delivered a stern rebuff to Cong. Lyndon Johnson and his supporters in the nation's capital in an address here last night in Artesian Park.

The youthful attorney general brought his campaign for the United States Senate to Corpus Christi after campaigning in Houston. His assertions that Texas needs no interference from Washington in running its own affairs brought rounds of cheers from the enthusiastic crowd.

"The people of Texas warn those Washington politicians to keep their hands out of Texas elections," Mann said. "We fought and gained our independence in 1836 without anybody in Washington coming to Texas or sending word down here how to do it. We are still going to keep that independence by electing our own public officials without anybody in Washington telling us how to do that or how not to do that."

"I do here and now challenge the right of any congressman, any undersecretary of the interior, any executive assistant to any vice-president, any senior counsel of the CIO union, or anybody else to come to Texas or send word to Texas that any candidate must be crammed down the throats of Texas Democrats whether they like it or not," Mann said.

He asserted the men from Washington should be staying in the capital doing their jobs, keeping America safe for democracy, instead of meddling in Texas affairs.

Mrs. Carl Eschenberg had as her guest over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Dick Johnson of Corpus Christi and Miss Mary Elizabeth Wiseman of Floresville.

M. M. Langford of Uvalde and G. O. Woolverton of Long Beach, Calif., were visitors in Rockport Monday.
