We went in to see Dr. Bennet's son, who is also a doctor, and told him that there would be 30 young people in this house for five weeks. MORE ON 'HESS-MESS'

Following the outbreak of the Nazi-Russian war, European capitals buzzed with reports of a Gerlutely true.

Behind them is a story of the most audacious and astounding Nazi intrigue of the war to date. Its opening scene was the sensational Hess "flight" to Britain; its closing paragraph the "surprise" Nazi declaration of war on their ally, Red Russia.

The inner details of this brainreeling plot are not yet unraveled lose, sooner or later, we will have and all of them won't leak out until the history books are written. But authorities have pieced it together and it is now possible to get the

It was realized that they would have to be approached in such a manner that they could not doubt By Communiques the authenticity of the Nazi plan. So Hess was chosen for this mission. Not only was he the one man in was also known for his hatred of Communism. And before the war he had had contacts with the British nobility.

So Hess, not flying alone, but accompanied by several guiding planes; and not taking off from central Germany as reported, but from Norway, made his dramatic descent on the estate of the Scotch duke of Hamilton.

Hess' Message.

The message brought by Hess in substance was as follows:

(1) Britain and Germany would enter a coalition as the chief partners in a new Axis; (2) Italy would be placated with some minor possessions of France, which would be stripped of its empire; (3) Germany would retain a free hand on the whole of the continent, with Britain We have discovered up here that helping to establish that free hand

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

'Scorched Earth' and Guerrilla Fighting Is Soviet Answer to German Thrust; Revenue Bill for Defense Spending Provides Many Additional New Taxes

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this news paper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

This is the scene in the Brooklyn (N. Y.) federal court as 25 members of the huge spy ring were arraigned by the government. Called "one of the most active, extensive and vicious" spy rings in the nation's history, 26 men and 3 women were arrested throughout the country. Most of them were of German descent. They were charged with transmitting vital defense information to a foreign government. Three men in foreground are lawyers.

ORDEAL:

Following the first couple of weeks of the Russo-German war some wag of the airwaves referred to the conflict as an ordeal-for the publicby communiques.

In the absence of any possible direct war correspondence, that is exactly what it developed into, everlengthening communiques by both sides, so much at variance that the public could do little but guess.

As the German columns advanced Premier Josef Stalin urged upon his people a policy of "scorched earth" to be coupled with universal guerrilla warfare. He warned of the "grave danger" of the Nazi successes and acknowledged the forward movement of German troops. He asked his people to destroy everything that might be of value to Germany if it could not be saved behind the retreating Soviet columns.

Only at certain points did the reports of the two high commands coincide, and these were so exceptional that they were more to be honored by their absence than their

the southern front, the Germans on office and store machines. said, "We captured Lwow," and the Russians said, "We left Lwow." dence there was a variance which left much to guesswork.

Yet from the very names of places it was possible to take a map and see a picture of the German plan emerging, though it was impossible by the same token to picture the Russian defense.

The picture was that of a giant clutching hand, with the wrist to the though which way the joints of the fingers would flex themselves could not be foreseen.

Three fingers were stretching toward Moscow and Leningrad, and two were extending southward into the rich Ukraine. Two or three of they might form pincer movements, snipping off and surrounding bodies of Red troops here and there along the battlefront.

Already the Germans had claimed one such success east of Bialystok, stating that 100,000 Russian soldiers had participated in a mass surren-sians were on the run. The Red communiques stated that their lines were holding intact, and that at some points the Russians were fighting far behind the most outstretched German points, and that some of these actions might work out badly for the invaders.

Yet, military observers pointed out, such occurrences were of the very nature of the Nazi blitz technique, and that in France, in Greece and on other fronts, including the town of Tobruk in northern Africa, groups of defending troops often were left behind in the swift advance, later to be encircled.

The Greek army of the east was trapped in just such a way, and though it held out and fought for considerable time, it was forced to surrender in the end.

It was impossible, however, to see just what the Russians were accomplisning in their defense, for the "town name" reports showed continued German advances, and the capture en route of important points.

Riga, Latvia, an important Russian naval base, was reported taken; Minsk, the so-called gateway to Moscow, was said to be surrounded; and one of the Nazi "fingers" had shot past Minsk on the north to Smolensk, and on the south to the Bobruisk sector, thus tending to bear out the German contention that Minsk, if not already taken, was doomed. Also that the Nazi legions could be said, at least technically, to be two-thirds of the way from their starting point to the capital of the Soviet.

OF EVERY OPERATOR OF TOURIST COTTAGES AND APARTMENTS

Your Pleasure is our business, and upon the service we render depends future visits from you, and we are always ready to do everything possible to make your stay with us the most enjoyable you have ever had on the Texas Coast. Let your wishes or needs be known. We'll do our best to please! As an added courtesy we are co-operating with the Rockport Pilot in bringing this newspaper to our guests each week. On this page, and elsewhere in the paper, you will find information that will be of assistance to you in making all your vacation hours count, including suggestions on where to go and what to do.

SPECIAL NEWS SERVICE FOR YOU

The manager of each Tourist Court, Cottages or Apartments listed on this page is an authorized news reporter for this newspaper. Tell the manager that you would like to have a news story about your stay here. He will report it to the Pilot and the news will appear in the next issue. The Pilot will in turn forward the news story on to the guests' home town newspapers. This special personalized news service also includes pictures by the Pilot photographer of unusual news events, such as big catches of fish, and other picture-worthy events.

Rockport, Fulton, Lamar and adjacent areas along the 15-mile coastline of Live Oak and Lamar Peninsulas form the most ideal "family playground" on the Texas Coast. Here stretches fifteen miles of tree-lined beaches and natural bauty that comes from blending of skies, water and trees, bathed in a semi-tropic sunshine and tempered by cooling Gulf breezes. Here one can enjoy the activity of fishing, boating and swimming, or just loaf in an Eden-like atmosphere, so different from the usual highly commercialized tourist re-

FISHING—There is no better place to go fishing than in the waters off shore from Live Oak and Lamar Peninsulas, where Trout and Redfish are found in abundance—and where giant silvery Tarpon are ready to take the bait and give the sportsman a furious hour's battle. Aransas Bay was described in last year's official State Game, Fish & Oyster Commission report as a deep bay of uniform depth, containing unusually clear water. It is protected from inland floods to an unusual degree and as the result itssalt content-so important to marine life—is unusually constant. . . . HERE is found the famous Rock port oyster, known from coast to coast.

BATHING—is unexcelled. You may either take the kiddies for a swim in the safe shallow bay right in front of your cottage, or swim at the new sand-bottomed beach outside the small craft harbor. There are no undertows and surf bathing is at its best.

NATURE STUDY—recognized naturalists know of no other place in Texas where such a variety of flora and fauna are combined for first hand study. Each year a larger number of nature students and bird lovers visit Live Oak and Lamar peninsulas.

SIGHTSEEING-visitors are always welcome at the State Game, Fish & Oyster Commission's only marine laboratory, stationed at Rockport and carrying on extensive marine experiments and study in Aransas and Copano bays and the nearby Gulf of Mexico. Beautiful state parks on Lamar peninsula, include the now famous Big Oak and the CCC improved Goose Island. The well preserved Fulton mansion is open to visitors and it takes the sightseer back to a day when Rockport and Fulton were the principal South Texas ports of call for deep sea sailing vessels. Add to all this miles of scenic drives that never fail to please the motorist'seye.

BOAT FACILITIES—have been given every attention at ROCKPORT. A new small craft harbor and channel have been completed by the Rockport Navigation District. Too, many prominent Texas sportsmen have built their own boat houses here and Rockport is becoming the home port for many palatial pleasure crafts. Boats, in which to fish or hunt, are available for rent at points all along the bay front and Fulton and Lamar. Guides are furnished for parties wishing to make one day or overnight trips to the Gulf.

Wounded Estes Man Found In Brush

Lewis Martin, 28, of Estes, Aransas County, was found late Tuesday morning in a clump of brush near his home, his left arm almost blown off.

Martin was found by two children near their homes as they were staking a cow in the fields. They told Chief Deputy Sheriff M. W. Haynes of Rockport that they paid for sale. Phone 5372. Mills' little heed to a noise in a nearby brush clump until they heard a second call for help.

Investigating, the youths found Martin, bleeding badly. Neighbors, called to the scene, bandaged Martin's arms and called an ambulance that brought him to Spohn hospital here, where attendants said he was "resting satisfactorily" late last night. It was reported that amputation of the arm might be

Haynes quoted neighbors of Martin as saying that Martin had admitted leaving the shotgun with which he was wounded about a mile from where he was found.

Haynes said his trail could be followed for a long distance by traces of blood on the ground. The officer said he was uncertain what had happened or when the neartragedy occurred.

First Shipments of Carbon Black Are Moved From Plant Five Miles South Of Rockport

The first shipments of carbon Per Capita of $22.50 black from the United Carbon Com For Texas Scholastics pany recently completed near here, Fixed by State Board were made to eastern markets this week. Construction of the plant near here was completed April 9, and is producing almost top capacity of 50,000 pounds daily. The carbon is processed in the "pill" plant, which turns the product out in pellets making for ease in handling and storing, and economizing on transportation.

Carbon black is an important raw material in ink, paint and rubber manufacturing. According to officials of the company here, most of the production of this plant goes into rubber and synthetic rubber materials. Government sources report that current stocks in the Unit ed States amount to only about three month's supply, and with the increased demand for carbon black in defense manufacturing, the carbon black plant here is in increased

Texas Behind in USU Quota

DALLAS, July 10-Texas, one of the most favored states of all in the receipt of defense contracts tend a family reunion at Belmont and training camps, is trailing in the raising of its USO quota of $400,000, according to reports in the office of E. B. Germany, regional chairman, in Dallas. Germany is campaign chairman over four states, Texas, Oklahoma, Lougone over the top.

Due to a political campaign and other unfurmountable obstacles, the closing date of the fund-raising campaign has been extended Rockport, Texas; S-3-Melvin Kay until July 15, at which time Chairman Germany hopes to announce Texas has oversubscribed its quota. Congressional districts 2, 3, 4, 13, 14 and 15 are one hundred per cent organized and reporting their quotas practically finished. A German purge of a year ago brought out a USO worker in a Pandhandle county that went well over its quota. This worker made a patriotic speech before the student body of one of his county high schools. Later his mother was reported a victim of the German Gestapo. He had come to America several years ago. He had prospered and he was thankful to the land of his adoption for the freedom and liberty it had granted him an adopted son. His aged mother remained in Germany.

But Jody came in of her own accord, before that. She went straight to Old Joe.

"Are you terribly uncomfortable,

"I feel great," Joe said with spirit. "I been hunting for a vacation for fifteen years, and this is my first excuse!"

"I'm sorry, Joe. You'll never know how sorry I am. I tangled things up pretty badly, I guess." "You done wonderful," Joe told Jody shot Marquita a glance in which the only light was a faint contempt, but she did not comment.

"I'm riding back to Miles," she told Joe. "On the way I'll send help back, and everything you'll need. And I'll see that you're moved in a spring wagon, soon as you feel like moving. I appreciate what you've done, Joe."

"Hey, look," Bob Stokes began. "You can't be riding off like this in the middle of the night!"

"It's coming daylight, fast. I'll be all right."

Outside, in the gray light that seemed colder than the air, Jody Gordon had mounted as Bill Roper came to her stirrup.

"You mustn't go yet," he told her gently. "These boys are fixed as comfortable as they can be; there's no hurry to get help. You'll be wanting some coffee; and I have to

It was very early; the sun was only just breaking over the winterstarved prairie, that Sunday morning as Bill Roper splashed through the creek that runs by Sundance, and rode into the little town. Overhead the sky was such a clear crystalline blue as Bill Roper had not seen since he left Texas, and mud itself was predicting a spring which Roper believed now he would never see.

Without sign from the rider, Roper's pony drew up before the Palace

He knew that Lew Gordon had gone into the Red Dog Saloon, and he walked toward it now.

For a moment Bill Roper, raider, night-rider, gunfighter - dreaded name of the Long Trail-experienced a twist of the heart, terrible, unbelievably acute. Then he shrugged, and walked into the Red Dog Bar.

Lew Gordon stood at the bar of the Red Dog Saloon. The hard line of his jaw was blurred by a silver shag of whisker now, and his mustache was silver, and his hair; but underfoot his tired pony was sinking the clear blue eyes were unbelievafetlock deep in thawed mud. His hands were folded quietly, one elbow on the bar; and so greatly did this silver-haired man dominate the space in which he stood that it was minutes before Roper realized that there was a bartender there at all.

"So you came," Lew Gordon said. "Of course, Lew. Didn't you know would come?"

"In one way," Lew Gordon said, "I'm glad you came. I want to say a couple of things to you, Billy, my I done something wrong, "You was right and I was wrong. You fought him; I tried to smooth things out. I'm glad I've lived to tell you this: you was right and I was wrong!"

"Lew-" Bill began. "I should have killed him, Billy,"

Lew Gordon said. "Lew! What are you telling me?" "I know I was wrong," Lew Gordon said. Yet, somehow he did not seem unhappy. "Always I stood for law, for order-the decent thing, the thing that would build this country into something my kid could live in. But-I guess it wasn't meant to be. I should have swung with you when you tied into him in Texas, and again when you tied into him in the north! But I aim to square it all up

"You mean-?" said Bill Roper. "He's coming to meet me here." "With how many men?" Roper asked again. "What does it matter?" poured himself a drink. Outside, on the board walk of Sun-

No Seining Ordinance To Be Enforced

Mayor J. Ed Moore this week authorized publication of pictures of "No Seining" markers now established according to law at the north and south boundaries of the City of Rockport on the bay front. The markers were placed at the boundaries after proper legal surveys made by F. G. Huffman, pubic surveyor.

Mr. Huffman made pictures of the markers and affadivit to the fact that they were located at each end of the north and south boundary points.

"We put in these markers in accordance with regulations of the State Game, Fish and Oyster Department," Mayor Moore said, "and have the department's assurance that the law will be enforced. "There will be no opening for anyone to run a seine in front of the town," the mayor continued. "Establishment of these markers fills a demand to have the law en forced.

The law prohibits seining anywhere within the boundaries of the limits of the markers.

I, F. G. Huffman, surveyor of Aransas County and licensed land surveyor of Texas do hereby certify that the marker as shown by the above photograph is set on and Texas labor asks only the tools | boats, he stated that keel material | the bay share of Aransas Bay one with which to do it," the mayor had already been brought in for mile north of the city limits and further certify that the photograph is an actual photograph of the marker after it was set in all we please, so far as our constitutional rights go, but when we hear someone berating the Champer of Commerce, the City Government, The County Government, the National Government, and praccically every official and individual who may be trying to do some good civicly, it makes us want to say things to him that might be unconstitutional. We believe such an individual should have his head examined if he can't see that he's the one that is out of step, and not the whole country.

True, it would be a dull old world if everyone agreed with everything does not behoove us as citizens o this community to sit idly by and jeer at someone who si laboring to carry both his own and our part of the civic load. If we are too lazy or indifferent, to do our part, then the least we can do is keep our mouth shut and let the other guy carry on in peace.
