PILOTING

With another busy thirty days yet ahead of them as hosts to a thousand or more visitors to this favorite section of the Texas coast, operators of tourist courts and guide services are already turning their thoughts to providing outstanding entertainment here during the fall and winter season. All indications are that Rockport, Fulton and Lamar will enjoy their best fall and winter season in history during the remainder of '41 and 1942. Excellent fall and winter fishing will be a major attraction.

Back from his home town Columbus came Jack Draper this week with a unique "V For Victory" sticker on his auto windshield. The Defense Committee of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce gained wide recognition for putting out the stickers in printed form that read: "— V For Victor That the Democracies Shall Not Perish." Draper brought a number of the stickers back with him for friends.

Directors for the Rockport Chamber of Commerce have been elected as follows: Norvell Jackson, Hugh Morrison, Herbie Caraway, Fred Booth, Judge B. S. Fox, Travis Johnson and Charles T. Pickett. They will meet next week and elect officers. The directors have a great responsibility that will take much thought and effort in putting across a successful program for the next year. They should have the unstinted support of every member of the Chamber of Commerce and every citizen in their efforts. With a united citizenship—all believing in the future of this section and working to accomplish all worthwhile undertakings—Rockport and this section of the coast is destined to continue to grow and prosper.

Two officials of the boat building plant here, A. M. Westergard and Judge Jas. A. Steele, spent last Sunday in Rockport, all day Monday and Tuesday in Washington, D. C., and were back in their offices at the plant here before 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. It was all accomplished by plane, and with no loss of sleep. They left Corpus Christi on a plane at 7 o'clock Sunday night and were in Washington next morning at 6:50 o'clock EST. On the return trip they left at 9 p.m. and arrived in Corpus Christi at 7 a.m. next morning. R. R. Rice Sr. accompanied Judge Steele and Mr. Westergard to Washington, but is returning by way of Mississippi and Louisiana and is not expected home until Sunday.

Three hundred soldiers from Camp Hulen will spend the week-end at Goose Island State Park, Manager Fancher. Archer, of the Chamber of Commerce reports. The local chamber is assisting with arrangements for entertaining the soldiers.

Each week for the past month and a half the Pilot has been going to a majority of the visitors here through the cooperation of tourist courts and guide services. Many expressions of appreciation and enjoyment have been received. In supplying guests here with complimentary copies of the Pilot both a courtesy and a service is being rendered. From the service standpoint the visitors may easily check the advertisements to find reliable places to go for their needs, whether it be groceries, fishing tackle, or a good meal. An appreciated note was received by the Pilot this week from Mrs. R. O. Culp of Temple, which read in part as follows:

Palm Courts
Dear Editor:—I am writing to thank you for the friendly visit of your excellent paper, which we found at our door. And, thank you for the personal about our party. We have enjoyed everything—the people, the atmosphere, the fishing, crabbing, motor boating and swimming.

(Thank you, Mrs. Culp, we are happy that you, your daughter

New Contracts Expected Soon By Local Yard

A. M. Westergard Says Boats Will Be Constructed in Series of Fours

After returning from a two-day trip to Washington, A. M. Westergard, naval architect and general manager of the Westergard-Rice Bros. and Co. boat building plant here, said that contracts for building more boats are expected soon by his firm.

Mr. Westergard said that as soon as material arrived that keels would be laid for the construction of four more boats of the same type now under construction. Two 110-foot submarine chasers being built here for the Navy have already been launched and a third will be put into the water within the next ten days.

"We are not going to stop with these boats," Rob Roy Rice Jr., another member of the firm, said. "We will be building some more." Mr. Westergard explained that new contracts are virtually assured and that material has been ordered to start construction on four more chasers without delay.

Work has temporarily slowed down at the boat works here following the launching of two of the four defense craft under construction. Mr. Westergard said that about 40 men had been laid off in the past two weeks. This, he said, is due partly to the fact that no engines are available at the present time for equipping the boats already in the water. Between 120 and 130 men are still working in the yards, he stated.

Westergard, Rice and associates have recently finished a yard at Biloxi, Miss., of approximately the same size as the Rockport works, and expect to begin building additional chasers there as soon as contracts are received.

Mr. Westergard, Judge Jas. A. Steele and R. R. Rice Sr. spent Monday and Tuesday in Washington. Westergard and Steele returned home Wednesday morning and Rice is expected to return this week-end.

Tugwell Nominated By Roosevelt To Be Puerto Rico Governor

WASHINGTON, July 30—Rexford G. Tugwell of New York, one of the original New Deal advisers in the agriculture administration, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be governor of Puerto Rico.

Tugwell will succeed Guy J. Swope, of Harrisburg, Pa., who resigned today to become director of the Division of Territories and Island Possessions in the Interior Department.

Carolyn, and sons Jamie and R. O. Jr., had an enjoyable time. It may have been the people, the atmosphere, fishing, crabbing, motor boating, and swimming that made it an enjoyable occasion for Carolyn, Jamie and yourself, but as for R. O. Jr. your reporter has different conclusions. From only casual observations we believe the young man was definitely up in rosy-hued clouds, and that he would not have been greatly perturbed had the bay gone dry. Further, we would wager that he is a strong advocate of President Roosevelt's United Americas policy. The reason: that very pretty and charming young lady, Miss Angela Valenzuela, who flew here from New Orleans to be your guest.

Mrs. Charlyne Hunt of Kingsville spent the week end with her little son, Joe Earl, and mother. Mrs. C. O. Lowery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Hoffman of O'Donnell, Texas, arrived Wednesday for a week at Forest Park. They are finding fishing good.

San Antonio Party Leads in Trout Catching With String of 300

W. W. Mahan of San Antonio led all fishermen here in catching trout the past week, according to reports reaching the Pilot. Mr. Mahan, a guest of Hunt's Courts, with two other men from San Antonio caught 300 trout last Sunday morning.

The Mahan party was out only 5 1/2 hours when it returned with the big haul of trout. They were towed out by Hank Wiginton, operator of a bait and guide service on the old Shipyard Point, and fished off Mud Island.

As if three hundred specs in one morning wasn't enough fishing, Mr. Mahan went out again Wednesday and returned with 125 more.

Big Mackerel and King Catches
Mr. and Mrs. John B. Crenshaw and two sons Jack and David spent five hours out fishing on the gulf aboard the Zephyr, Archie Brown boat, and returned with 81 mackerel and 16 kings. George Weber was their guide for the lucky trip made last Saturday. The Crenshaws are from Handy, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Layman of Victoria, R. E. Parks of Chicago, and Mrs. J. N. Sion of Victoria went out on Brown's Tarpon Saturday and caught 39 kings and 17 mackerel. Henry Camelh was their pilot. They spent the week-end as guests at Sea Gull Cottages. On Friday Mr. Layman and Mr. Sion made a trip to the gulf and returned with 14 kings and 24 mackerel.

Mrs. George Barham and Mrs. Lilly of Shreveport were among lucky women fishermen of the past week. They caught 157 mackerel in one day. They were guests at Hunt's Courts.

Temple Party Enjoys Vacation Here on Coast

"Having a big time—wish you were here," is the message that went back to friends during the past ten days from Mrs. R. O. Culp Sr. and party, guests at Palm Courts. In the party from Temple were Mrs. Culp, her daughter Miss Carolyn Culp, and two sons, Jamie and R. O. Culp Jr. They were joined here by Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Henley and their daughter Miss Margie Henley of Dallas, and Miss Angela Valenzuela of New Orleans and Mexico City.

Miss Valenzuela's parents are in the banana and cocoa export business in Vallahermosa, Tabasco, Mexico, and her sister is the wife of Leo Marechal, Belgian consul stationed at New Orleans. Miss Valenzuela spends much of her time in New Orleans and came here by plane to join the party at Palm Courts for a few days.

Almost all the vacation offerings of the coast were tried and enjoyed by those in the party, including boating, fishing on the bay and gulf, crabbing and swimming. Several pleasure cruises were enjoyed out from Mills Wharf.

F. M. ROUQUETTE ASSIGNED TO FORT SAM HOUSTON

FORT SAM HOUSTON — One hundred and forty-two men who recently arrived at this post from the replacement center at Fort Monmouth, N. J., have been assigned to the 124th Radio Intelligence Company, and have begun training.

Among the group was Private F. M. Rouquette, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Rouquette, a resident of Rockport. The company is commanded by First Lieut. A. C. Dapprich.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McNeill and two daughters of Austin will arrive on the first for a vacation at Forest Park. Mr. McNeill is a member of the University of Texas faculty. He is an energetic fisherman, going out every day and usually brings in a good catch.

Vacation Bible School To Open Here August

A daily vacation Bible school will begin on August 12 at the First Baptist church here, it has been announced by Rev. J. F. Stanley, pastor of the church. The Bible lessons will be each morning from 8:30 until 11:30 and all children of the community are invited to attend.

Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Stanley will be here to conduct the school. A meeting with those who will teach was held by Rev. Stanley on Tuesday and Wednesday night for instructions and plans.

Aluminum Drive In County Great Success

With three huge piles of aluminumware stacked in the courthouse corridor outside his office, Judge B. S. Fox, county chairman of the aluminum drive here for national defense uses, said this week that the collection had been a great success.

People in all parts of the county responded, Judge Fox said, and added that the total collection far exceeded expectations of the committee.

The aluminum will be taken to Corpus Christi for shipment on instructions of the National Committee.

"Blue Moonlight" is Newest Song By Peggy Johnson

"Blue Moonlight, a new song written by Peggy Johnson of Rockport, is now on music counters the country over, and may be purchased at music stores in Corpus Christi.

Blue Moonlight, as well as Juke Box Jerry, another song by Miss Johnson, may be heard over the air by request to stations.

Pictured above are members of a large party from Robstown who spent last week-end on an outing at Forest Park Cottages in Fulton. The group gathered under the shade of a mott of oaks for the picture after a full day of activities on the bay and seashore. Fishing was good for the anglers in the party and swimming and boating was enjoyed by others. The party was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cates of Robstown, and the party included: Mr. and Mrs. Cates, their daughter Zula Marie and son Clayton of Robstown; Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Stubbs of Robstown, Miss Zula Stubbs of Corpus Christi; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Gibb of Slaton; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stubbs Jr. of Amarillo and daughter, Jane Marie. Mr. and Mrs. Travis Eschberger and daughter Sandra of Robstown, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stubbs of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Lieut. Voorhies New Inspector In Charge Here

Lieut. Will C. Voorhies of the United States Navy has been transferred here from Orange, where he is resident inspector in charge of work at the Westergard-Rice Bros. & Company boat building plant.

Lieut. Voorhies said that he may bring his family here at a later date.

Texans Asked to Avoid Use of State Roads

AUSTIN, July 31—State police today requested civilians to avoid using a dozen west-to-east Texas highways beginning August 2, to facilitate movement of Army units to the Louisiana maneuvers.

Director Homer Garrison, Jr., announced that highway patrol units, some equipped with two-way radio, will escort the major convoys across the state.

Patrolmen under command of Capt. Jim Line of Wichita Falls will escort Fort Sill, Okla., units from the Texas line near Ringgold to Louisiana. From Abilene, Capt. Lloyd Wyatt will direct escorts for troops moving out of Abilene and Brownwood. Capt. Harry Hutchinson will command escorts for troops moving from Fort Sam Houston. Capt. E. M. Wells of Fort Worth and S. J. Gilbert of Dallas will co-operate in speeding the movement in the Fort Worth-Dallas area.

Moving through towns and cities, the convoys will be in close formation and will proceed without regard to stop signs or signal lights and civilians are requested not to attempt to break through these columns. In the country, vehicles will be spaced far enough apart to let necessary traffic pass under normal conditions. Garrison said that particular care should be used in passing on hills and curves because of the greater amount of traffic.

While the movement is to be largely by truck, there will be marching periods during which trucks will return to camps to bring up more men.

Brother to Rev. Stanley Dies At Tyler

Rev. J. F. Stanley, pastor of the First Baptist church here, was called to Tyler Saturday to attend the funeral of his brother, J. W. Stanley, 70, retired merchant and farmer of that place. Services were held Sunday afternoon with interment in the New Harmony Cemetery at Tyler, with Rev. James Morgan, pastor of the New Harmony church, conducting the last rites.

Mr. Stanley was known for his generosity and sympathy to those needing help and gave a great deal to charity.

He is survived by his wife, three brothers, J. N. Stanley, and B. N. Stanley of Tyler, and Rev. J. F. Stanley of Rockport; two sisters, Mrs. J. R. Cook of Tyler and Mrs. J. W. Meadows of Louisiana; and a young man who was reared in his home from early childhood.

Rev. Stanley had been with his brother a week before his death, going up to be with him during his illness.

Wildlife Camp For 4-H Boys Closes Wed.

After a happy and interesting time here during a four day encampment, several score 4-H Club boys returned to their home in scattered sections of the state Thursday. The club boys, all studying wild life conservation, arrived here Sunday and pitched camp in an oak grove near the Rockport Cottages.

Time was divided on the program for the boys between swimming fishing and other sports, and educational features. There were lectures, motion pictures and several highly interesting field trips.

Among the speakers on the program during the four days and nights were Dr. Daniel Russell, head of the Department of Rural Sociology of Texas A. & M. Mrs. Jack Hager, bird authority of Rockport; Gordon Gunter, marine biologist of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission; R. G. Burwell, district agent; E. C. Martin, H. H. Weatherby, L. L. Johnson and J. W. Potts of the Extension Service.

R. E. Callender, game management specialist of A. & M., was in charge of the encampment, and was assisted by County Agent R. R. Gibb.

House Explodes As Insurance Salesman Presses Doorbell

NEW YORK, July 30—An insurance salesman pressed the doorbell of a two-story dwelling in Flushing, Queens, today, and instead of the bell ringing, the house exploded.

Staggering back, William Bowman surveyed the blown-out doors and windows and saw flames eating at curtains and furniture. He smelled gas.

In the kitchen, dead of gas that still poured from four opened jets on the stove and which was believed to have been exploded by a tiny spark from the bell-ringing machinery, lay Bela Hauser, 64, and his wife, Mary, 61.

The couple left two notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chaddick and family of Bay City have arrived for a two week's outing on the coast here and are guests at Forest Park. Mr. Burke came well prepared to do some heavy fishing, bringing along a 22-foot sail boat and a 16 foot boat with an outboard motor. The Burkes have two cottages and will have guests with them during their stay.

New Beach May Be Result of Basin Deepening

Fifteen Local Men Given Employment by Contractor, Work to last Thirty Days

Work began this week on deepening Rockport's harbor and channel leading in as a part of the Intracoastal Waterway system and will continue for thirty days, when it is expected the dredging work will be completed.

J. G. McMullen of Houston and Harvey, La., has the dredging contract, which calls for a water depth of nine feet below mean low gulf. This will mean about 12 feet of water.

P. R. Olsen, in charge of operations here, said indications were that Rockport would have a new bathing beach when the work was completed. The sand from the basin is being pumped into the bay over the breakwater. Olsen said it was likely that a gently sloping sand beach would be the result.

The operator also stated that dredging work would stop 300 feet from the north end of the breakwater, giving insurance against interference with present fishing water around the pleasure pier protruding from the north end of the breakwater.

Olsen and a crew of eight men equipped in last week-end and began operations the first of this week. Fifteen local men were given employment and are now working the dredging operations.

Judges and Commissioners Ask Special Session

Gov. Petitioned to Call Legislature to Re-Enact Bond Assumption Bill

County Judges and Commissioners of the 18th Senatorial District met in Cuero last week on call of Judge B. S. Fox, member of the State County Judge Association's legislative committee, and requested by resolution that the governor call the legislature into special session to reenact the road bond assumption bill. The legislature failed to reenact the bill at its regular session, and as a result counties are faced with the necessity of increasing tax rates to meet bond obligations on roads that are now state highways.

The meeting was attended by Judge Fox and Commissioners Ted R. Little, L. V. Mester, J. H. Mills and T. E. DeForest of Aransas County.

In their resolution the county officials pointed out the following reasons why they believed the governor should call a special session:

1. The Bond Assumption Act provides payment of principal and interest due on bonds voted and issued by counties, the proceeds of which were expended on highways that are now a part of the state system.

2. That payment of the bond debts is "justly the obligation of the state to be paid out of proceeds of the gasoline tax assessed on each gallon of gasoline used."

3. "... The gasoline tax is now being collected and is accumulating in the state treasury and, without the appropriation it will be necessary for the various counties to raise the revenue for the servicing of the bonds by ad valorem taxation, resulting in raised tax rates."

The resolution asked that the bond assumption bill be re-enacted as it now exists, and copies were forwarded to the governor and lieutenant governor and to Senator Fred Mauritz and all representatives of the 18th district.

DOAN'S PILLS

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

Washington, D. C. DEFENSE INCIDENTS

Out of 26 major "incidents of damage" in defense plants last month, military intelligence authorities have evidence that 14 were caused by sabotage.

Of the 14 sabotage cases, four were fires and 10 were mechanical damage. Two are attributed to Communists; the others to Nazi agents.

Since the outbreak of the Russo-German war, the Communist party line has somersaulted. The current dictum is, no interference with defense output.

However, intelligence agents report that the party has made no change in its policy of propagandizing soldiers and sailors. This is being pushed as vigorously as before, although with little success.

Another significant development in subversive influences relates to the Japanese.

Since the expulsion of the Nazi and Italian consulates, intelligence officers have found that the Japanese consulates in Los Angeles and Seattle have become the chief clearing houses for espionage on the West coast.

The recent arrest of two Japanese spies in Los Angeles caused a flurry in Japanese quarters, and a number of Japanese rushed to Washington, apparently to place themselves under the protection of their embassy.

SECRET NEW AAA CZAR American Farm bureau and National Grange moguls are smart politicians. Although their bill to create an independent, five-man board to rule the AAA has not yet seen the light of day on Capitol Hill, they are already greasing the way by canny wooing of possible opponents.

Latest to be "propositioned" is Rudolph ("Spike") Evans, ambitious head of the AAA, who might be a vigorous foe of their scheme to gain control of his own agency.

An inner group of 11 decided on this move at a secret pow-wow during the recent conference in Chicago of the Farm bureau, Grange and National Co-op council on the defense emergency.

The master minds also accepted Walter Randolph of Alabama as the Farm bureau's selection on the boards, pledged themselves to take whomever the Grange picked, and agreed to allow this hand-picked trio to name the other two board members.

No Chance. Actually, the five-man board scheme has no chance of getting anywhere this year.

Not yet even introduced, it faces such a long battle when it does appear that months will elapse before it goes through the committee process.

According to Farm bureau insiders, Earl Smith, Illinois big-gun, and Francis Johnson, Iowa chief, secretly want to make it a political issue in next year's congressional election.

How much control he would have is shown by the fact that the boys already have made sure that they would do the controlling.

MERRY-GO-ROUND Frank Grillo, secretary-treasurer of the United Rubber Workers, is slated for membership on the anti-discrimination committee that President Roosevelt is planning to set up to eliminate bars against Negroes and other minority groups in defense industries.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

U. S. Attitude Toward Japan Changes With 'Drive to South' Viewed as Threat To Vital Supplies From East Indies; Soviet Discounts Air Raids on Moscow

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Following a half-hour conference with Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo is pictured in Washington as he expressed to newsmen the hope that the feeling between the U. S. and Japan "will become better and better."

JAPAN: A Change

Japan, following the establishment of a new government under the same premier, still rather puzzled observers as to what the new regime might have in store for Japan and the world.

Summed up by "the man in the street" in Tokyo, who commentators felt was as good a barometer of the mysterious future as any, the new government promised something like this:

- 1. A sterner prosecution of the war with China. 2. Outwardly, at least, no change in the tripartite pact with Germany and Italy. 3. A generally more placatory attitude toward the United States provided this was possible if Japan's aims were carried out. 4. A strengthening of Japan's position in Manchukuo and on the Siberian border, but no provocation or forward move against Russia unless the Germans were shown to be positively winning a decisive victory. 5. A definite "grab" in the southern portion of the Pacific front, probably in Indo-China.

This last possibility, believed definitely promised since Japan was accusing the British of a similar attempted "grab" and hence following the old Axis technique of accusing the other fellow of doing what you intend yourself to do, would, it was feared, definitely involve the United States.

U. S. Attitude

Japan's drive met some real opposition in the attitude of the U. S. government. Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles came out with a statement declaring the occupation of French Indo China was primarily in preparation for "more obvious movements of conquest in adjacent areas."

He was of the opinion that such moves have a direct bearing on the national security of the United States because they threatened supplies of strategic defense materials. He was referring here to supplies of rubber and tin now being obtained from the Netherlands East Indies.

President Roosevelt added weight to the changing U. S. attitude toward Japan. He told a civilian defense group that the United States "had" (he used the past tense) been allowing oil shipments to Japan to make it unnecessary for that nation to go to the East Indies for this supply.

VICHY: Still Sinking

The Vichy government, helpless against Germany and Italy, and equally helpless against Britain, was seen as sinking more into a position of powerlessness by the announcement that if Japan moves on Indo-China that Vichy will have no course but to submit.

This far-eastern menace of the war, threatening as it would the Burma road, found Anthony Eden warning Japan that severe steps would be taken rather than yield Indo-China to the Japanese, and this was the ever-present closest threat of the entry of the U. S. actively into the war.

The Japanese newspapers, as noted above, have been accusing the British, Free French and Chinese of being about to invade Indo-China. This was taken in London as a veiled threat that Japan plans to do just that.

R. A. F.: Pounding Away

There was some sentiment in Moscow, British reports stated, that the Russians, used to enormous land army maneuvers, were wondering why it was that the British didn't land troops on the continent now that the Russians had the Nazis busy up to their necks in the east.

The British were very frank in saying "No" to this whole proposition. In the first place, said the war office, there was still considerable doubt whether the Russians were able to put up a really successful fight against the Germans.

In the second place, war office authorities went on, the best that England could do short of landing troops on the continent would be to slash away at the Reich by air that numbers of German fighter planes would be kept busy on the west front, thus taking them away from the eastern theater of war.

These air raids by the R. A. F. were increasing in scope daily, with the bombers taking advantage of each minute of darkness that was added as the nights grew longer, to stretch their raids further and further into Germany.

Already, it was pointed out, they were hitting at the suburbs of Berlin, and the capital itself would come in for strong blitzing before long, the British promised.

NAZIS: Blast FDR

The main upshot of the attempted Nazi coup in Bolivia, and the statement by President Roosevelt that, if necessary, the Bolivian government would have the full aid of the United States in quelling the attempted coup d'etat, was that the Nazis turned their guns on the President.

The war news went flying off the front pages as the leading Berlin dailies paid their respects to the President in the most sarcastic and belittling terms.

One said: "The President of the U. S. A. is trying to bring Bolivia into the status of colonial dependence on the United States."

Another wrote: "Mr. Roosevelt's message to congress and the press constitute nothing but lies."

Still another: "President Roosevelt is a main tool of Jewish world freemasonry." This paper published a picture of the President and his three sons holding a Masonic lodge session. This picture, according to the Nazi press, was found at Masonic headquarters in Oslo, Norway.

The paper said it was taken November 7, 1935, and pictured the President as taking part in the initiation of his sons, James and Franklin Jr. According to Nazi tenets being a Freemason is almost a cardinal sin.

Reminiscent of the "Fourteen Points" of the last war settlement, Undersecretary of State Welles had issued the most definite statement so far promulgated intending to give America's post-war objectives.

The statement by Welles came at the laying of a cornerstone for a new wing of the Norwegian legation in Washington. He prefaced his remarks with the assertion that there could be no peace until Hitler had finally and surely been destroyed.

Let your wishes or needs be known. We'll do our best to please! As an added courtesy we are co-operating with the Rockport Pilot in bringing this newspaper to our guests each week. Rockport, Fulton, Lamar and adjacent areas along the 15-mile coastline of Live Oak and Lamar Peninsulas form the most ideal "family playground" on the Texas Coast. Here stretches fifteen miles of tree-lined beaches and natural beauty that comes from blending of skies, water and trees, bathed in a semi-tropic sunshine and tempered by cooling Gulf breezes. Here one can enjoy the activity of fishing, boating and swimming, or just loaf in an Eden-like atmosphere, so different from the usual highly commercialized tourist resort.

ABOUT THE MANY DELIGHTFUL ADVANTAGES TO BE FOUND FOR VACATIONING AT....

ROCKPORT, FULTON AND LAMAR

Britons Asked Not To Exploit U. S. Generosity

LONDON, July 31—The Times of London called upon British institutions Tuesday not to "exploit" the generosity of Americans.

It said that American sympathy "has found expression in a great outpouring of private benevolence," and added:

"It is unfortunate therefore that some hospitals and other charitable institutions have lately begun to circulate individual American citizens asking for help for their particular causes.

"This seems in the circumstances only too likely to cause misunderstanding and even resentment. x x x In some cases appeals are couched in terms of begging letters and suggest a degree of distress, even of starvation, to which we are far from being reduced."

Week-end guests in the C. T. Picton home included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson and family of Sinton.

Another Number

Secretary of Navy Frank Knox is shown drawing the second number in the second peacetime draft lottery. The number was 98. First number was 196.

General 'Yoo-Hoo'

This is Gen. Ben L. Laff, whose marching penalty for soldiers "yoo-hooing" at shorts-clad girls on a golf course, made him "famous" overnight.

George Washington Tied His Horse Here

Back in the days when Americans were fighting the British instead of helping them, George Washington came to Lexington, rallied the forces of the Revolution, and tied his horse to the elm tree outside the Munroe tavern. The tree flourished for over a century and a half, but today it is gone, blown down by a big wind. It is shown above.

The Marines Have Landed

This photograph was made at Jacksonville, N. C., during marine maneuvers—first time—between army-navy and marines on beach landing practice. Transport's unloaded armored cars and troops carrying equipment, etc. Photo shows marines going over the side of transport to landing boats.

More Might for Uncle Sam's Navy

Two powerful fighting ships will be commissioned on May 15, when the 253-foot submarine Mackerel (upper left), and the 25,000-ton supercraught Washington (below), are placed in service. The Washington will join her sister ship, the North Carolina, which was commissioned last month. Four other battleships will be launched within a year.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Bed sheets shorter than 108 inches will not tuck in securely at each end of an ordinary full-sized bed.

Sponges can be cleaned by soaking them overnight in warm soapy water to which lemon juice or borax has been added.

When spreading meringues on cakes, puddings or desserts dip your spoon frequently in cold water. This makes the meringue easily slip off the spoon and have a smooth surface.

To clean rhinestone pins and buckles put them in gasoline for about 15 minutes, then rub with a flannel cloth. They will look like new.

Line your cake tin with wax paper after greasing it. It will prevent cake sticking to the pan, also save it from burning.

No good soups are greasy. Skim hot soups by dropping a piece of damp cheesecloth into the liquid. The grease will quickly adhere to it.

Riders of Buck River

THE STORY SO FAR: Buck Hart, brother of Sheriff Hart, is found with a bullet in his back. He was "drugged" by the big cattlemen, said his friends, some of them rustlers. He himself was believed to be one. At the general store...

CHAPTER III

Terry tightened the saddle cinch. He caught a glimpse of a face staring at him from a grimy window of the Red Triangle Saloon. A moment later a gun roared. His hat tilted forward. Through the brim and the crown a bullet had torn its way.

Three customers were at the bar. Alford-Turley-Brand. The gaze of Terry picked them up in turn. It observed also that the back door was ajar. He had a mental vision of somebody vanishing into the alley swiftly a moment before his entry, a heavy-set, bowlegged man with an ugly, sullen face.

"By God, you take the cake, Terry," Brand said with a hard laugh. "You got away with it at Evans' store. Don't you reckon you're pressing yore luck too far?"

The cattleman ignored the question. "Didn't Lee Hart have time to shut the door when he ran away?" Terry asked.

There was a pause, too long, before Brand spoke. "Hart hasn't been here."

There was another moment of silence before Turley answered: "We heard a shot. It didn't come from here, if that's what you mean."

The cowman stretched out his left arm and laid a forefinger on the hole in one of the panes of the window beside him. "My mistake," he said.

"Fellow shot that hole in the window in a row two months ago," the bartender explained.

Terry did some swift guessing. The bullet which had passed through his hat had come from a rifle. The sound of the shot told him that. But Hart had been armed only with a revolver. Therefore he had borrowed the saloon Winchester. Since he was in a hurry to get away unnoticed, he had not taken it with him. The weapon must still be in the room, but Calhoun's searching eyes had not found it. Probably somebody had passed it to the saloon man, who had hurriedly put it under the bar.

Terry held out an expectant hand. "Give me that rifle under the bar," he ordered.

The bartender's eyes grew big. "Why, Mr. Terry, I—I don't reckon—"

"The rifle," interrupted Terry coldly.

"You don't have to give it to him, Hank," Brand told the man. "This fellow ain't cock-a-doodle-doo in this town."

Apparently the bartender was of a different opinion. He stooped down and passed a rifle across the top of the bar.

An investigation showed that it had been fired very recently. Terry laughed scornfully and handed it back to the man in the white apron.

"Somebody may want it again to shoot me in the back when I leave," he said.

Terry's gaze passed to rest on Alford. "I'm a little surprised at you, Roan. When I was your neighbor you wouldn't have stood back of a scoundrel who tried to shoot another man in the back."

Alford shifted uneasily on his feet. A flush crept up into his wrinkled face. "I don't stand back of anybody doing it now," he said.

Calhoun Terry gave him a long, keen look. He could see that the little man was embarrassed and ashamed.

"I get it, Roan. Lee took you by surprise. Didn't give you time to stop him?"

He let his cold eyes sweep the room again disdainfully, then turned and pushed through the swing doors.

CHAPTER IV Though it was not yet seven o'clock the morning sun flooded the land with light. So still was the air that even the aspen leaves did not tremble. It seemed to Ellen Carey, during that momentary impression, a country without voice and empty of life. Yet the fugitive thought had not faded from her mind before a meadowlark flung out its gay and joyous song, before she saw outlined against the horizon a file of antelope passing through the sagebrush.

INSTALLMENT TWO In Round Top, Calhoun Terry, manager of the Diamond Reverse B ranch, resents intimations that he knows about the killing. Terry was formerly a small rancher. He sold his place to the big ranch and won the enmity of the small ranch owners.

ing for her, and Lane Carey liked to have his daughter eat with him. At the top of the first rise she stopped a moment to look down into the valley where the Box 55 lay among the cottonwoods by the river. From the hollow beyond, rose a cloud of slowly moving dust. She knew what that meant. Cattle or horses were on the march.

A rider showed on the nearer lip of the hollow. While she watched, a second came out of the valley and joined him. One of the men rode a bay horse, the other a black. It was too far to be sure, but she thought she recognized the one on the bay. There was a lithe grace about the figure that suggested Jeff Brand. A faint pink beat into her cheeks. That reckless ne'er-do-well had been in her thoughts a great deal during the past two weeks. She found the combination of deference and audacity in him fascinating.

At breakfast Ellen mentioned the riders she had seen. Lane Carey took this more seriously than she had expected.

"You weren't near enough to know who they were?"

The girl's answer was delayed only a fraction of a second. She told the truth, with a reservation. "No."

Carey Lane was an honest man. He had cows himself, and no man could say he used a running-iron too freely. Though times were hard, he had made a reasonably good living because he had the post-office at Black Butte and ran the stage station. But some of his neighbors were hard pressed. Low prices and short feed had kept them impoverished. Until recently they had made ends meet by working part time for some of the big cattle outfits. But the large ranches, owing to the prevalence of rustling, had made a ruling not to employ any man who had cattle of his own. The result had been to increase rather than decrease thefts.

A moment later a gun roared.

He rose from the table and picked up a dusty, weather-beaten hat. "Wish you'd take care of the mail today, honey," he said. "I got to help Jim fix the pasture fence. May not be back in time."

Black Butte was the halfway house of the stage line. The passengers and driver ate dinner at the Box 55 every day but Sunday.

Ellen spent most of the morning at the house.

When the stage rolled up to the door Ellen was at the post-office waiting for the lean sack of mail the stage-driver flung on the table for sorting. Six passengers emerged from the Concord and streamed to the eating-house.

During the hour the stage was there Black Butte was a gathering-place for the neighborhood. Men sat on the porch and exchanged gossip. Cowboys on the bread line came here to learn who needed riders.

Snatches of talk drifted back to Ellen. She caught the name "Buck Hart" once, and two or three times that of his brother Lee. They were connections by marriage of the Carey family; rather remote, but they called her Cousin Ellen. The girl had raised no objection, though she had no great interest in them.

Through the window she caught sight of a man alighting from a sorrel horse. A faint excitement stirred in her. She heard someone walking across from the big house. Her father said, "How's everything, Jeff?" The drawing answer was, "Fine and dandy, Lane."

Carey relieved his daughter and she walked out of the post-office.

Three men lounged on the porch. One of them joined Ellen and strolled to the house with her.

"Thought I saw you this morning while I was riding," she said.

men. They regarded him as having gone over to the enemy. He had been their leader and they resented deeply an act which they somehow regarded as somehow not in accord with the interests of the smaller ranch owners.

unless you were up at Jack Turley's place," he answered. "I've been busy breaking a colt to the saddle."

"No, I was out Flat Top way." He shook his head. "Must have been someone else." He smiled at her. "I'll have to do better than that. Can't have you mistaking every bowlegged waddy for me."

"It doesn't matter, does it?" "A lot. Take a good look at me, young lady."

She did not avail herself of the offer. "I've seen you before," she mentioned.

"And you'll see me again, any number of times."

"Dear me! Is that a threat or a promise?" she asked lightly.

His cool eyes rested on her dark good looks. "It's a promise, to myself."

"You don't know how grateful I am," she mocked, with an ironic curtsy.

"Are you grateful enough to let me take you to the Sleepy Cat Ranch dance?" he wanted to know.

She considered that a moment. "No, I don't think so." She added, "Of course I'm greatly flattered."

"Why won't you go with me?" "Must I give reasons?" "Are you going with someone else?" "Since you ask—yes."

"Who?" "You'll find out in time, if you are there."

He did not like it. She saw that there was a suggestion of sulkiness in his good-looking face. "I hope he'll enjoy himself, whoever he is."

There was an implication in his manner that the unknown escort might not find pleasure in all of the evening.

"I do hope so. If he looks bored it will be a bad social start for me, won't it?"

"He won't be bored," Brand predicted. "I'll help you entertain him."

Ellen read into his words vindictive resentment. She stopped, slim and straight, dark eyes flashing. "I don't think that will be necessary, Mr. Brand."

"It will be a pleasure," he told her.

They had reached the house. The girl moved up the porch steps and turned to look down at him. She said slowly, "I can see I'm not going to like you."

Not at all abashed, he smiled up at her confidently. "Oh, yes, you are. Very much. I'll take care of that."

She felt anger stirring in her. "Some people would call it impudence," she said, a tide of color in her cheeks.

Ellen turned and walked into the house, leaving him there.

In Jeff's eyes, as he walked back to the post-office, little devils of mischief gleamed. Long ago he had discovered that one way to stir a girl's interest in him was to arouse her resentment. It kept her mind full of him while she was devising ways of satisfying it.

His quick glance picked up another horse at the hitch-rack across the road from the post-office. It did not take him a second look to read the brand.

"A gent from the Diamond Reverse B with us this morning?" he asked one of the loungers.

"His royal ribs," a young man in chaps answered. "None other than Mr. Calhoun Terry."

Terry came out to the porch, let his gaze drift around slowly, and crossed the road to his horse. There was a cool arrogance in the way he ignored Brand that got under that young man's skin. Jeff could not let it alone.

"I see you are still wearing the hat that went to the wars, Mr. Terry," he jeered. "Did you do anything about that matter you were going to take under consideration?"

Without a word Terry swung to the saddle and jogged down the road. Jeff glared angrily at his broad, flat back, then turned and walked into the office.

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

A very delightful day started, for half an hour, with Mrs. Archibald MacLeish singing us charming French and German songs. Then the whole group began to sing them with her. While they have not done much singing as a group, I found they showed signs of getting together and really enjoying it. We have several young people with very nice voices and several who play the piano.

Dr. and Mrs. David Levy lunched with us and after lunch we went back to join the students and listen to Mr. MacLeish, who read a commencement address which he delivered this spring, and his poem: "America Has Promise." To hear him read, either prose or poetry, is an unforgettable experience. It was so beautiful that I think that everyone present felt that, in applauding, they were breaking a spell of beauty which had been cast about them.

At about 3:30 Mr. and Mrs. MacLeish left and then I listened to a discussion between Justice Frankfurter and some of the students on the need for political organizations.

To my joy, when we returned to our own house, I found that our son, Jimmy, and his wife had arrived. Soon after, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr. came, having flown up from New York city under somewhat uncertain weather conditions. The fog here was thick until about five o'clock, when it suddenly began to clear and the setting sun shone through a rift in the clouds on the water, making the mouth of the river look like a pool of gold.

One evening, I read aloud some selections of rather lighter poetry, ending up with one serious group from "John Brown's Body," by Stephen Vincent Benet, after which the students began to ask for poems which were special favorites. I was interested to find how many young people read poetry for pleasure. One of them asked me to bring some poems by Langston Hughes, another would like me to read Hood's "The Song of the Shirt."

BOSTON STOP

As soon as I reached Boston one day, I was greeted by Johnny and Anne. We had a very satisfactory visit and were joined a little later by Franklin Jr. I telephoned my husband and we spent some little time catching up on news of all the different members of the family.

He had Ruth and her two children in the White House and I wished I could be in two places at once, for I would love to see her and Chandler and Elliott Jr.

All too soon, the message came that Professor Zimmerman was waiting for me downstairs and Mrs. Morgenthau, Miss Thompson and I went out with him to Cambridge.

There we had a delightful dinner at the Faculty club and I enjoyed talking to my two neighbors, Mr. Jerome Green and Mr. Mather. At 8:00, we went over to the evening session of the Institute on the Children of Tomorrow. This was the first of three days of meetings. It seems to be a very well-attended institute. They told me there was probably some one from every state in the Union present.

After speaking, I had a short talk with the reporters and then came back to the Statler hotel, where I spent some time discussing their interests with a group of students, who are planning to go to South America. They have two months at Harvard under the direction of Mr. Louis Quintavilla and then, I believe, six weeks to two months in Mexico.

STUDENT CONFERENCE

One day during the week I attended another interesting session of the International Students' Service conference in Campobello, N. E. We spent most of the meeting listening to Justice Frankfurter addressing the Summer Student Leadership institute. In the morning, he made a remarkably clear and simple statement of what law means in a civilized society and what the background of our own law is in this country.

He started out by telling us that he could not talk for an hour, since he was trained in the Harvard law school method of making the pupils do the work. Therefore, he would expect the students being trained for leadership here, to behave in the same way and to carry the burden by asking questions after he had talked briefly. This was at 10:30, and at 12:15 he suddenly looked at Dr. William Allen Neilson, president of Smith college, and asked: "What time is it?" He had been as interested as the listeners and I do not think anyone there had taken any account of the passage of time.

VISIT TO NYA PROJECT

We returned to our seats and spent an hour questioning him immediately after lunch. Then all of us got into a boat and went to Eastport, Maine, to visit the Quoddy village. Many of the young people at our institute had never seen an NYA resident project. I found some of them watching the boys at work in the aviation unit, rather enviously, I thought. Finally, one of them said: "I'd like to be here if I was not at Campobello."
