C. of C. Will Seek Funds For New Advertising Budget

PILOTING

News of vital importance to every resident of Live Oak and Lamar Peninsulas is carried this week in announcement of a start of solicitations to carry on the work of advertising this choice section of the Texas coast. While all cities and towns should advertise their assets, advertising is the life-blood of sections depending upon visitors for the greater portion of their revenue.

Spasmodic advertising won't get the job done. It is going to take consistent, planned advertising to make large numbers of people think of Rockport, Fulton and Lamar when they think of going fishing and to make them want to come here to spend their vacations. Each dollar contributed to the advertising fund will be spent only after careful consideration by the advertising committee as to its potential return. Give liberally when the committee calls upon you. Give not as a donation, but as an investment in the future growth and prosperity of Rockport from which you may expect a just return on your investment.

Many sections of the United States have been built into thriving, prosperous cities through advertising. Take Miami Beach as an example. Miami Beach did not have the many natural facilities that abound here, but was built upon wastelands through a united spirit and cleverly handled publicity. Rockport's natural facilities are far more superior to those of Miami Beach. We have everything Miami Beach had to start with—and a whole lot more. All we need is a lot of advertising and the united will of the people to forge ahead.

In connection with this year's advertising program, the Chamber of Commerce, Rio Theatre and the Pilot are sponsoring a slogan contest. Anyone may enter. Write what you think is a fitting slogan for Rockport. The entries will be judged by the Chamber of Commerce Advertising committee. The author of the slogan deemed best will be handsomely rewarded with sixteen tickets to the Rio Theatre. The second best will be given a year's subscription to the Pilot. The contest is open now and will close on November 1. Write your slogan and mail or bring it to the Chamber of Commerce, the Rio Theatre, or the Pilot.

Guard Joe Gibson at the Westergard-Rice Brothers & Company Shipyard has an old "sidekick" visiting him this week in the person of M. A. Humberson of Sweeney, Texas. Both were formerly residents of Madisonville. Gibson was sheriff of Madison county for eight years and during that

Planned Program Of Advertising Is Adopted

Efforts to Secure More Tourist Business Will be Made In Many Sections

A Chamber of Commerce plan to acquaint the people of many sections of Texas and the United States with the outstanding facilities offered vacationists at Rockport and all along Live Oak and Lamar peninsulas has been formulated by the advertising committee. The committee adopted a budget of $800 to cover the minimum expense of the 1941-42 advertising campaign, pointing out that additional funds could be used advantageously.

The Finance Committee, headed by Fred Bracht as chairman, announced that solicitations for funds would begin Saturday, October 11, and close on Saturday, October 18. He urged that business people and the operators of tourist courts and cottages study the budget as outlined in this week's Pilot, so that loss of time may be avoided when the committee calls for a contribution.

The committee is composed of business men who are not only giving their time to soliciting the funds, but who have also contributed substantially to the advertising fund.

The budget for 1941-42 as set up by the advertising committee is broken down as follows:

Newspaper Advertising—$200, to be used to defray the cost of pictures, cuts, mats and news releases mailed out to newspapers in all sections of the country. This is to be a more or less personalized service in sending news stories and pictures to the home town papers of visitors here.

Radio Advertising—$150, to be used for mailing and wiring fishing reports to radio stations in Texas. The committee plans to send reports to radio stations three times weekly during best fishing seasons. Fund will also cover incidental costs for special broadcasts.

Signs—$150, to be used in upkeep of present signs and any surplus to be used in putting up new signs. The committee favors gradual program of installing signs of special design over wide area rather than fewer large signs. The new signs are to be designed following the adoption of a suitable slogan.

Supplies, $150, to be used in purchasing stationery, folders, postage and other needed supplies.

Entertainment, $100, the committee favoring the use of a part of this amount to pay actual expenses of an outing here for newspapermen. Other miscellaneous items may also come out of this fund.

Firemen Will Attend Meet In Sinton

A dozen or more members of the Rockport Fire Department will go to Sinton Sunday to attend the last quarterly meeting of the South Central District Firemen's Association for this year.

Chief Francis Smith said that a Rockport team would be entered in the pumper contests.

Registration will be Sunday morning at the Sinton Fire Station. The business session will begin at 10 o'clock and there will be a barbecue at noon. The contests will be in the afternoon.

T. H. Pollard To Fill Pulpit Sunday At Presbyterian Church

Dr. T. H. Pollard of San Marcos will preach Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church here, it has been announced. Rev. Pollard will be accompanied here by Mrs. Pollard and they are expected to arrive Saturday afternoon.

Write a Slogan For Rockport-- And Win a Prize

Write a slogan for Rockport! In fact, write as many as you can think up. Submit one or all to the Advertising Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Your reward, if you win first place will be sixteen tickets to the Rio Theatre, or a year's subscription to the Pilot if your slogan places second.

The slogan contest is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the Rio Theatre and the Pilot. Purpose of the contest is to select a suitable slogan for Rockport and this vicinity to be used on a new design of small road signs and in other advertising. It is planned after the selection of a fitting slogan to design a small sign in keeping with the slogan and through a gradual increase every year place the slogan signs over a wide territory.

The contest is now open and will close on November 1. Anyone may enter the contest. Any one person may enter any number of slogans for judging. Entries may be mailed to the Chamber of Commerce, the Rio Theatre or the Pilot, or they may be left at any of the three places.

The sixteen theatre tickets to be given by the Rio Theatre may be used one at a time, or the winner may bring one or more friends to the show.

Put some thought into writing a good slogan. You will be helping your town and community, and at the same time if you enter the winning slogan you will receive a valuable prize.

Try slogan writing, you will find it a lot of fun. Don't wait until next week. Do it now!

Rockport Yard Bids on New Army Boats; Bids Ask For From Two to Twenty-Six 105-Foot Rescue Boats

On Vacation

On a six-weeks' vacation to the United States and Canada, the duke and duchess of Windsor are pictured on their arrival at the nation's capital. They were given a warm greeting by the citizenry, and received briefly at the White House by the President. The duke, who is governor of the Bahamas, was on his way with his wife to his ranch near Calgary, Canada.

R. R. Rice, Sr., Goes to Washington to Negotiate Contracts for New Boats

Negotiations are now underway by the Westergard-Rice Bros. Company to secure contracts for building rescue boats for the U. S. Army. It was announced today by Rob Roy Rice, assistant general manager of the Rockport boat building plant.

Rice said that his company had entered bids for from two to twenty-six of the Army boats and that negotiations were now underway to secure contracts for the local yard. The Army boats are 105 feet long with a 19 1-2 foot beam, and are similar in construction to the six patrol craft now under construction in the yard for the U. S. Navy.

R. R. Rice Sr. left Monday night by plane for La Grange, Ill., near Chicago, where he was to inspect a mock-up engine room, and then fly on to Washington in connection with the negotiations for the Army boat contracts.

At the present time work is progressing swiftly on completion of six submarine chasers under construction here for the Navy. Four of the Navy boats have been launched and are being fitted out at docks of the yard. Two others are now being built in the yard.

REWARD—Will pay suitable reward for return of rimless glasses, believed lost at Moore's Station. MRS. VERA GRAY, Capt. Davis Drive-In

Pirates Play Pettus Eagles Here Friday

The Rockport Pirates will meet the Pettus Eagles here under the lights Friday night at 8 o'clock and an exciting game is expected. The Pirates have turned in a good account of themselves in every game played and a large crowd of fans is expected out Friday night to cheer them on.

Tickets may be obtained Friday from the high school by those desiring to purchase them in advance of game time. There will be a 10 per cent federal tax, making the usual 50-cent tickets sell for 55-cents.

Recruiting Officer To Be In Rockport Friday Morning

Sergeant John L. Marx, a representative of the U. S. Army Recruiting Office in Victoria, will be in the office of the Selective Service board in the City Hall in Rockport Friday, October 10, for the purpose of interviewing young men desiring information with regard to enlistment in the U. S. Army.

Any one desiring information with regard to Army service is urged to contact Sergeant Marx at the office of the Local Board Friday any time between 100:00 a. m. and 4:00 p. m.

Rev. James F. Stanley, pastor of the First Baptist church here, was called to Dallas last week to conduct funeral services for Elmer Fisher, 51, Dallas county peace officer. He was a member of the church of which Rev. Stanley was formerly pastor. Rev. Stanley returned to Rockport last week-end.

PTA to Sponsor Father's Night October 15th

The Parent-Teacher Association will sponsor a Father's Night meeting on Wednesday night, October 15. The meeting will be held at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock and all fathers are being urged to attend.

The theme of the program will be fire prevention in connection with Fire Prevention Week. There will also be a freewill offering.

Mr. and Mrs. Fancher Archer had as guests in their new home Mr. Archer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Archer, from Amarillo. Mr. Archer and his father were business visitors to Cuero Friday.

W. B. Frost spent Tuesday in South Texas on business, being accompanied as far as Corpus Christi by Mrs. Frost and Mrs. Jack Sanders, who attended several social functions.

Rockport Shipyard Will Seek Award In Area Competition Contest

Men and officials of the Westergard-Rice Bros. Shipyard here will join hands in seeking to win recognition during the next three months as the shipyard of outstanding performance in the Eighth Naval District.

There are eleven other yards in the Eighth District and each will be rated for "overall efficiency." The scoring will be on progress and quality of work; spirit of the yard, including general spirit of workmen, attendance and safety; improvements both general and specific.

Public interest and co-operation will also help in winning recognition as an outstanding yard.

Announcements of the awards may be made over a nation-wide radio hook-up—originating an actual broadcast from each of the winning yards in all districts.

Prizes will be awarded every three months and semi-annual awards will be given to the plant which, in the judgement of the board has made the greatest contribution in the six-month period in each of the following classifications: yards building combatant vessels, yards building small naval craft, and yards building maritime commission vessels exclusively.

At the end of a 12 month period, there will be an annual award known as the "Victory" award, which will be made to the one yard in the nation making the greatest contribution for the year in each of the classifications.

Each of the prize winning shipyards will have the privilege of flying a special designed pennant, indicating its top-ranking efficiency for its classification. Every man in the winning shipyards will be given a special "Prize winner's" insignia to be worn on his lapel.

Will Have Own Contest

In order to create still greater interest between workmen and shipyards in the competitive contest, the Westergard-Rice Company has announced a contest for workmen in the local yard. At the end of three months a special award will be made the workman with the best record.

Two Charged In Car Theft Returned For Trial Here

Willie Mack Long and his wife, Mrs. Willie Mack Long, were brought back to Rockport Saturday from Menard on charges of stealing an automobile from the Heldenfels ship yard here. Deputy Sheriff M. W. Haynes brought the two back to Rockport.

Both the man and his wife waived examining trial before Justice of the Peace Wm. B. Priddy and the two were bound over for action of the February grand jury. Bond for the man was set at $300 and that of the woman at $100. The woman's bond was made immediately, while the man's bond was not.

County Attorney Emery Spencer said both Long and his wife had made statements to him, in which they absolved any others in the crime.

The automobile, a pick-up truck, was recovered in San Antonio, undamaged.

Edgar Jackman Buys Capt. Davis Drive-In

A popular drive-in and eating place in Rockport, known widely to vacationists, changed hands recently when Edgar Jackman purchased the Capt. Davis Drive-In, from —. —. Davis, who has operated the place for a number of years.

Mr. Jackman has been in this section for about 15 years and is owner and operator of the Sportsman's Haven near the Causeway.

Mr. Jackman invites the public to come in and get acquainted. He will specialize in seafoods and family dinners, serving only the best of food.

Ed Callory, Bill Johnson and Gene Blackwell were visitors in Houston last week-end.

Nazis Launch Repressive Campaign In Answer to Anti-German Revolts And Widespread Acts of Sabotage; England Claims Mastery in Air War

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Scene of U. S. army war maneuvers has shifted from Louisiana to South Carolina and this picture shows a bit of action as the "fighting" got under way. Here one side had established a bridgehead and a pontoon bridge was built for trucks and artillery. But before they could cross completely, enemy planes appeared and "bombs" exploded to "demolish" the rear units.

NAZIS: More Trouble

According to reports from Europe, German officials were busy with a repressive campaign throughout their conquered and occupied territory to prevent the spread of a vast behind-the-front anti-German movement. Acts of sabotage were reported from Belgium, France, Denmark and Czechoslovakia and the Nazis were doing everything to put down what to some observers looked like a general revolt.

The slaughter of Czechs in Bohemia and Moravia through "drumhead" courts martial instituted by the new regime had continued to keep pace with, even to surpass the killings in occupied France.

Eighty-eight were reported killed in three days, 58 in one day.

Reinhard Heydrich, former chief of Berlin's secret police, who had been made "protector" of Czechoslovakia, or what was left of it, was using the mailed fist to stamp out a persistent rebellion.

The same story was coming out of Bulgaria, with reports from Sofia of 543 persons arrested in one day in one Black sea port.

The Bulgars, blood brothers and friends of the Russians, were revolting at any efforts the Germans might make to use their country as a by-pass to get eventually at Caucasian Russian oil fields.

AIR MASTERS: Churchill

The first victory of the war of any real import to Britain had been announced in most positive terms by Winston Churchill when he told the house of commons that the Royal Air force had attained mastery of the air.

The information was given to parliament just as London celebrated its second month without an air raid alarm. The prime minister asserted that the R.A.F. was in a position to bomb Rome at any time that it seemed convenient or advisable, and reported that Cairo definitely had not been bombed, denying previous reports that this had occurred.

The reaction was swift in coming—from Berlin and from Rome. In the latter city the pope was reported to be sending a message via Myron C. Taylor to President Roosevelt asking him to use his influence with Britain to pass up the bombing of Rome.

The President, on the other hand, was said to have sent a message to His Holiness suggesting politely that he might take up his residence at a safer spot.

The Berlin answer was a quintuple bombing raid, not on London, but on five northeastern cities, with heavy casualties reported. The defense of these cities was presumably not as good as that of London.

At the same time the R.A.F. was conducting continuous and heavy raids with squadrons running as high as several hundred planes. One raid on the port city of Stettin was conducted for five solid hours by waves of bombers.

Italy made a strong attack by air on a British protected convoy in the Mediterranean, but eyewitness reports were that terrific casualties in men and planes were suffered, and the battleship Nelson, while damaged by a torpedo, "suffered only a slight diminution of her speed."

SEA POWER: Viewed by Knox

Sea power of Britain and the United States—both present and to come—will spell the end of the triple Axis, said Secretary of the Navy Knox in an address.

He also declared that once the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance had been defeated it would be up to the United States and Britain permanently to pool their forces "to stop new aggression."

Many wondered if he left Russia out of the picture deliberately.

UNCLE SAM: Starts Taking

The government had started with the first of the month the heaviest "take" of taxes in American history—$3,000,000 a day.

But it was only a small part of the whole tax program, which would nick the American pocketbooks to the tune of $13,000,000,000 a year, and when one figured that a billion is a thousand million, and that three million a day is only a little more than a billion a year—it gave some idea of what the huge burden would be.

Contrasted with the World War "take" it was 13 billion against about 7 billion, or not quite twice as much money—and there were 30,000,000 more people to share in the payment.

For instance, in 1918, the exemptions were $2,000 for the head of a family and $1,000 for single persons—as compared with $1,500 and $750 today.

That, it was figured, would bring still more of the nation's 150,000,000 people into the burden-bearing fold.

The first taxes to be levied had been the special excise taxes, and the government was taking unusual steps to prevent merchants from raising prices more than they should, so as to be sure that the burden should be placed squarely on the buyer, and that the buyer could know he or she was paying it.

There was some heavy buying in advance of the day, but not more than had been expected.

LABOR: Still Restless

A sudden strike at the Dodge division of Chrysler Motors had been settled, but there were many other strikes or threats of strikes, showing plainly that labor unrest was far from settled.

Twenty thousand had walked out at the Briggs auto body plant in Detroit, and the eight largest hotels in Pittsburgh were closed down because of a general strike of some 2,000 workers.

An ordnance strike was reported at Sandusky, Ohio, involving truck drivers and iron workers. At the same time the government decided to increase widely the steel capacity of the bigger companies, which would mean not only a heavy construction program to be financed by the government, but a further shifting of the labor population.

AMERICA FIRST: Gets Publicity

Most of the interventionist newspapers were pursuing a new policy toward the utterances of America Firsters as they held their convention in Bridgeport. The idea, apparently, was to play up the speeches with front-page headlines instead of "burying them inside the paper" on the theory that the nation was sufficiently aroused to be further aroused by hearing what the America First leaders had to say.

The speakers, including Senator Nye and others did not disappoint the editors. Nye electrified a Bridgeport audience by telling the public that by working in defense plants and to defense work they were laying the groundwork for the complete financial ruin of the city.

The North Dakotan painted a horror picture of a Bridgeport with no work, no money, hardly anything to eat after the defense boom was over, and informed them how foolish they were to throw themselves into the defense construction campaign with such enthusiasm.

Other speakers condemned critics of Lindbergh's anti-Semitic speech at Des Moines, and the new commander of the American Legion was called in one address a "Benedict Arnold," hoodwinked into being one by Frank Knox.

ICKES: On Oil

Secretary Ickes as he appeared before the senate oil committee, testifying on the oil transportation shortage. He is examining a cartoon relating to his actions in the matter.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, petroleum administrator, who had been making gigantic efforts to get Easterners to save gasoline, appeared before a senate committee, and blamed the senate for seriously hampering its efforts.

The committee had surveyed the field, and had found that "no serious shortage of gasoline existed on the Eastern seaboard." This was despite the fact that Ickes said there was, and had put curfew regulations into effect to try to save the fuel.

Ickes declared that the senate committee had been told that there were 20,000 railroad tank cars available to haul oil and gasoline to centers of need, but that he had made a subsequent inquiry and could find only 5,000 cars.

Ickes attacked the testimony which, he said, had done "incalculable harm" to his effort to conserve the East's oil and gas.

FREE PRESS: Vital—FDR

The President plainly showed that he considered freedom of the press vital to the United States as well as other freedoms when he spoke of this subject in detail before a group in New York. He said:

"Newspaper Week should awaken in the hearts and souls of all Americans a renewed determination to defend and maintain and perpetuate the priceless heritage of a free press."

"The maintenance of an unfettered press, informed by truth and guided by a courage and conscience and wholehearted devotion to the public welfare is a fundamental obligation of patriotism."

"I trust as a result of the observance that Americans will have a renewed sense of the incalculable blessing which a free press confers. It must be maintained against all assaults."

To this Secretary Hull added: "A free and informed press is essential to a successful program for national defense."

In this connection it was recalled that the navy department, having refused to permit the use of facts about British naval vessels being refitted in the United States, changed its attitude recently, and now was giving this news out whenever it occurred.

WORLD SERIES: 'Dem Bums'

World war or no world war, Americans must have their World Series of baseball, so at the Yankee Stadium, despite cloudy weather, a world record crowd had stepped into the huge stadium to watch the Brooklyn Dodgers do battle with the Yanks.

There was not the slightest indication of a lessened interest in the great series—the public having, by press and radio, followed the advent of the "Beloved Bums" into the series.

Some estimates of the numbers of Dodger fans throughout the nation ran as high as 35,000,000—an unbelievably large following for a baseball team. And the Dodgers had done their best to give their fans what they wanted for "Dem Bums"—a world championship pennant.

She sat down at the piano and as the music went on, all the children waved their arms energetically, with one exception, little Johnny.

"Come along, Johnny," said the teacher coaxingly; "why did you not imitate the newly hatched birds as I told you?"

"Please, miss," replied the small boy, "I guess I'm a bad egg!"

CHAPTER XXIV

A Texan led the packhorse back to the camp among the pines. "Couple of fellows brought some freight in for Mr. McFaddin and then lit out like the hell flies were after them," he said. "The other boys are chasin' them. They acted right funny."

McFaddin and Ellison stepped forward.

The Texan released the diamond hitch and whipped off the tarp. A body slid to the ground. Those present stood staring at what they saw.

Ellison leaned over him. "It's Jack Turley, one of our stock detectives," he said.

"By God, they got the double-crossing killer," McFaddin said bluntly.

From the coat pocket Ellison drew the note Morgan had written. "Here is yore killer," he read. "Come back to report."

"We had better move fast," Gaines said. "After being chased off the map these two fellows must suspect something."

"Let's go," McFaddin said with a sardonic laugh. "We don't have to wait any longer for Turley to guide us. He's here. A little late for his appointment with us, but I reckon he couldn't help that."

The regulators, as the invaders called themselves, looked to their cinches and mounted. From the prong they wound up through the pines into a country of open range too wild for homesteaders. The spread was too rocky and too hilly to invite settlers. Presently they would cross a mountain spur from which they would drop down into a district of gulches, rock rims, and small valleys where at not too frequent intervals a few nesters and cow thieves held the fort unmolested, except when posers from the big ranches came hunting stock that was missing. On Ellison's list were the names of a dozen men who lived in this section.

They straggled forward in no formation, Ellison and McFaddin in the van. From a long, rocky slope they came into a little mountain park, not far from the summit.

McFaddin lifted a shout of warning and whipped up his rifle. Two men had appeared on the rim and started to ride down, but at sight of the large company pulled up and turned. One of them flung up a hand in protest as the Flying V C man's gun cracked. The echoes of that shot rolled across the valley. A sorrel horse stumbled and flung his rider, then raced across the slope with reins flying wild. The man who had given the Indian peace sign called to his companion. It was almost as though the dismounted man had bounded back from the ground, so quickly was he on his feet. He ran a few steps along the hillside and vaulted to the back of the uninjured horse behind his friend. Three or four Texans fired, but the horse and its double load reached the rim and vanished.

Giving the cowboy's "Hi-yi-yippy-yi!" McFaddin brought his company to a canter and pursued. The others followed him.

A roan horse, carrying two men, was traveling fast down the side of the spur but was already showing signs of distress.

"We've got 'em!" yelled McFaddin. "Come on, boys."

Just ahead was a little clearing with a log cabin on the edge of a creek. A man had appeared from behind it driving a few cattle. He was at casual ease, in no hurry whatever. At the sound of the roaring guns he swung his head, took in the situation, and instantly forgot there was such a thing as leisure in the world. While the fugitives were still a good two hundred yards distant he jumped his horse to a gallop and vanished up a draw.

The hunted men flung themselves from the back of the horse and ran into the house. The door slammed behind them. The pursuers dragged their horses to a halt and many of them dismounted. Frightened by the firing, the horse of the men in the cabin splashed through the creek and bolted.

Ellison took command. He named four or five men to follow the cowboy who had disappeared up the ravine. The others he distributed about the place, most of them in or back of the barn, which was over seventy-five yards from the house. Several he stationed across the brook in the brush near the edge of the clearing. A steady, intermittent sniping centered on the cabin. Already its windows were shattered. The defenders had dug spaces in the dry mud between the logs of the walls, which they used as loopholes for their guns. One had a rifle. Apparently the other was armed only with a revolver.

The door of the cabin opened a few inches and a hand came out to wave a white flag. A voice called out something that was drowned in the crash of guns. Quickly the arm and the rag were withdrawn, the door shut and bolted.

"Why not let them surrender?"

rustlers had been mysteriously killed. A lot of Texas ex-peace officers have been brought in by the big ranchers to kill off rustlers. Terry objects and his ranch is offered for sale in small parcels to small ranchers. Jeff shows Gaines asked. "Save us some time and trouble."

"Let 'em surrender and then hang 'em?" McFaddin asked harshly. "No, by Jackson! I won't stand for that. If we're going to hang 'em we'll have to dig 'em out."

"We don't even know they are on our list," Collins said.

"We know damn well they are. They are the same scalawags who brought Turley's body back."

The fortified man with the rifle served notice he was not to be taken too lightly. He wounded in the arm a ranch foreman who exposed himself rather carelessly. Ellison passed the word among his men not to take any unnecessary chances. A few moments later a bullet tore through the calf of one of the Texans.

The men who had pursued the cowboy returned after a time. On account of his long start they had failed to catch him. This was disturbing. It meant that news of the invasion was bound to get out. The leaders held a consultation.

"We can't fool away the rest of the day here," McFaddin said impatiently. "To heck with this siege stuff. I move we charge the cabin and wipe 'em out."

"Losing three or four men!" Ellison scoffed. "That would be dumb of us."

Collins then made a suggestion. "You're both right. What say Clint stays here with ten or twelve men and attends to this business while I take the rest and sweep the hill pockets? I can get back before dark."

"We've got 'em!" yelled McFaddin.

After some discussion the Antelope Creek man's plan was adopted.

McFaddin said he would ride with Collins. There were some thieves in this district he had been wanting to get a crack at for a long time.

"Be sure not to let yourselves get cut off from us," Ellison cautioned. "And don't waste any time. We've got about four hours, I would guess. Five at the most. By that time we'll have to be on our way, or we may not get out of here at all. Whatever happens, don't be tempted to swing too wide a loop."

CHAPTER XXV

Ellen was making up a post-office report that had to be sent to Washington when she saw a horseman emerge from a fissure in the hills and come down the long slope to the ranch at a gallop. He was flinging his mount with a quirt. Jim Budd was at the door, leaning against the jamb, resting from the exertion of having swept the floor. It was in his horseshoe that he would go through life as easily as he could.

"Seems to be a gen'lman in a hurry, Miss Ellen," Jim drawled. A faint unease stirred in her. Men did not usually ride like that except to carry bad news.

The rider drew up in front of the post-office and flung himself from the horse. The man was Lee Hart. He spoke to Ellen, who had come out to the porch.

"Where's Lane?" he demanded. "Father is down with the men fencing a new pasture," Ellen answered. "About three miles due west from here. . . . Do you have to see him?"

Hart mopped his perspiring forehead with a bandanna handkerchief. "Never saw it fail!" he cried bitterly. "Need a man and he ain't there."

"What's wrong, Lee?" the girl wanted to know.

"Wrong! Everything." The heavy-set, bowlegged man slammed his dusty old hat on the porch floor. "A bunch of wild Injuns is raidin' this country. They came bustin' down on my place with forty guns a-poppin'."

"Indians?" the girl repeated incredulously.

the killer's note to Ellen. She thinks it's Jack Turley's writing. Jeff confronts Jack, who had posed as a rustler though really a spy for one of the big ranchmen. Jeff kills Jack and sends the body to the chief of the big ranchers.

"Well, these Texas warriors the paper was telling about. They was chasing two guys. I lit out lickety-split."

"Who were they chasing?" "I dunno. They're likely wiped out by now. They hadn't but one horse between them. When I took my last look they were making for my house to hole up."

"What do you want with father?" "Well, we got to spread the news to everybody. I'm headin' for Round Top. Someone has got to ride up the Alford road and let the settlers there know. Tell 'em to meet here. Send the cook if you haven't got anybody else."

"No," Ellen said promptly. "I'm not going to get Jim mixed up in it." "Mixed up in it? You tellin' me yore black man is too good to work with us?" Hart snarled.

"I'm telling you it is none of his business." Hart fastened his gaze on two horsemen coming down the road at a slow trot. In his eagerness to tell the news to Jeff Brand he forgot his indignation. He bowed through the dust to meet the riders as they drew up at the hitching-post.

"Have you heard, Jeff? The big outfits have done brought a bunch of Texans here to run us outa the country. Paul Valley told me this mornin'. He got it from Lane Carey who read it in the Denver Republican. Well, sir, I seen them comin' down the hill hell-for-leather and lit out just in time. They was chasin' two birds."

Brand swung from the saddle to go forward to meet Ellen. "Chasing who?" he asked over his shoulder.

"I dunno. Couldn't wait to find out. I burned the wind getting away from there."

"You don't know what became of the two men?"

"They got into my house and fortified up, but I reckon they couldn't hold out long. Must of been a hundred in that army."

"Fifty-eight," Brand corrected. "How do you know?"

"We hid on a ridge and counted them," Morgan said.

"A bunch of warriors brought in to shoot down innocent men!" Hart cried angrily. "We'll see about that. I'm on my way to tell our friends at Round Top."

"No need," Jeff said. "We've already sent a messenger. Better stay and gather a relief party to ride over to your place. We'll need every man we can get."

"When do you aim to go?"

"We've got to get right quick if we're going to save the boys they have trapped. Say inside of an hour."

"We can't get together seventy or eighty men that quick," Hart protested.

"Don't need more than ten or a dozen. We'll lie in the rocks above and shoot down at them."

"Not me," Hart answered promptly. "I just got out with my skin, and I don't aim to try it again."

Jeff looked at the man contemptuously.

"Go hide under a bed, you louse." The pale blue eyes of Brand burned into the man. "But not till you've done your job. Ride up the Alford road and send down all the men you can find. After that you can go jump in a lake."

Jeff turned away and joined Ellen on the porch. He grinned at her. "Well, sometimes a newspaper piece turns out to be true," he said.

Morgan joined those on the porch. "I'd better ride Deep Creek and warn the folks up that way. From what Lee says looks like these fellows are headed there."

"Yes. Better rope one of the horses in the corral." Jeff added casual information. "I'm going to Lee's place to see what has happened to the two trapped in his house. Maybe I can make a diversion from the rocks that will help them."

"Must you, Jeff?" asked Ellen in a low voice.

He nodded. "Can't desert two of our men without trying to help them." His manner was cheerful and nonchalant. "Dave has picked the tough job. He's liable to meet a bunch of these Texans any turn of the road. But someone has to warn our friends."

"I suppose so. But you don't have to go and attack fifty men, do you?" Brand's gaze followed Morgan as that young man swung on his horse to ride to the corral. "He'll do it, too, if they don't get him first. That guy will do to ride the river with." His attention came back to what the girl had said.

"I don't see what you can do alone."

"Can't tell till I get there. Soon as a bunch of the boys roll in tell them to hop over to Lee's place fast as their lronics will bring them."

She watched him, always spectacular, fling himself into the saddle without touching the horse. He waved his big white hat in farewell as he rode away.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRIST OUR SAVIOUR

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 20:25-28; Luke 19:1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

"I believe in God, the Father Almighty, . . . and in Jesus Christ His only Son, our Lord. . . . I believe in the Holy Ghost." How often we have solemnly repeated these words in the Apostles' Creed, and how appropriate it is that our present three month series of lessons on great Christian teachings should begin last Sunday with a study of God, the Creator and heavenly Father, and continue today with Christ the Saviour, and present next Sunday the Holy Spirit, the Comforter.

These are profound Christian truths, but at the same time they are so simple as to be grasped by the youngest child. Today we have the great privilege of presenting in our classes our Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ. He was

I. The Self-Denying Servant (Matt. 20:25-28).

Scripture clearly teaches that God's standards are not the same as the world's standards, and that His methods of operation are just the opposite of those of the world. All too often Christians and churches imitate the world both in principle and practice, with disastrous results. Consider

1. The False Greatness of the World (v. 25). "Rulers"—"greatness"—"exercise authority"—how altogether up-to-date these words sound. They are the big and swelling words of the small hearts and minds which rule after the manner of this world. They epitomize the ambitions of the great majority of mankind, but they are definitely non-Christian. We see that as we go on to consider

2. The Humility of True Greatness (vv. 26, 27). Service in the spirit of humility and self-sacrifice—this is the standard of Christ. Yes, and it is His command to His followers. To be great for Christ one must become the servant of others. This teaching appears all through Scripture (for example, see Luke 4:11; John 13:13-17; 1 Pet. 5:5, 6).

How often service in the church is rendered in a spirit of pride, self-glory, and for the commendation and reward of men. When that reward is not forthcoming or some real humbling sacrifice is required, the work is not desired or the worker becomes offended. Here is one of the roots of trouble in the church. Let us put it away as we look upon

3. Christ our Example (v. 28). He paid the price of our redemption, going to the death of Calvary for us. From the highest glory which He had with the Father (John 17:5), He graciously stooped to deepest ignominy as He became sin for us (II Cor. 5:21). Throughout both His life and His death He perfectly represented that self-denying, self-humbling service which He expects of His followers.

II. The Seeking Saviour (Luke 19:1-10).

There is much that is precious and beautiful to be said about our Lord, but perhaps nothing which brings Him so close to needy humanity as the fact that He had "come to seek and to save that which was lost" (v. 10). He was

1. Ever Interested in Sinners (vv. 1-7). Jesus was on this occasion coming up to Jerusalem for the last time. The cross was ahead. He was much taken up with His coming death and greatly straitened in spirit (see Mark 10:32 and Luke 12:50). He was passing through the great and wicked city of Jericho, yet in the midst of His deep sorrow and out of the vast multitude of that city He reached out to touch one sinner.

Zacchaeus was a man despised for his calling of tax collector, and hated for his dishonesty. He was an outcast from his own people and a stranger to God's grace, but Jesus was interested in him. Are we ready to go to seek and save the lost? Are we better (or busier) than our Lord?

2. Always Able to Save Sinners (vv. 8-10). Zacchaeus was a rich man, but he was a sinner. It is not easy for a rich man to be saved, but it can be done (see Matt. 19:23-26). Read the preceding verses of that chapter (vv. 16-22) and you learn of another rich man who was not saved, the rich young ruler. He was a far better man than Zacchaeus—honest, upright, honored in his community. How was it that the wicked and despised rich man was saved and the good and respected rich man was lost?

The answer is that the former admitted that he was a sinner and thus made it possible for Christ to save him, while the latter loved himself and his gold more than Christ and shut the door against His redeeming love.

1941's 'GREATEST TRAGEDY'
You don't have to wait for historians to record the fact that the greatest tragedy of the year 1941 as far as this war is concerned is the way the British have twiddled their thumbs, watched the Russians, and done almost nothing except cheer.

Over three months have passed since Hitler sent his mechanized masses hurtling across the Russian border, and in that time the British sent only a trickle of help.

Yet the British knew that prolonged Russian resistance was the biggest chance they had of defeating Hitler. They also knew that Hitler's tactic always has been to pick his victims one by one.

Yet realizing this, the British have done virtually the same thing Poland did when Czechoslovakia was invaded, what Jugoslavia did when Bulgaria was invaded, and what Turkey did when Jugoslavia was invaded. They have merely sat on the sidelines, sent 200 airplanes, plus a mission to Moscow, taken a good long rest—and cheered.

Second Front?

Meanwhile, the general staff advisers of both the British and American armies have bluntly warned that the Russians were sure to be defeated unless a second front was created against Hitler.

This second front against Hitler meant, of course, a British expeditionary force landing in France, Holland or Spain. This question has been discussed carefully behind the scenes, but the British have wanted two things: one was tanks, most of theirs having been demolished at Dunkirk; the second has been an American Expeditionary force to help them.

The British did not really push this idea of an A.E.F., for they knew politically it was impossible for Roosevelt. But nevertheless they did want company in attempting to land troops on the Continent. They had plenty of troops in England—in fact so many that there has been restlessness and bad morale because of inactivity.

It is true that these troops are not completely equipped and are sadly lacking in tanks. But there is considerable belief that they were equipped sufficiently to make a landing in Spain from Gibraltar; and that in France the local people would have risen up to welcome them.

However, all summer long the British have maintained an "after you, Alphonse" attitude. Meanwhile the situation in Russia has become darker and darker—as every military expert knew was inevitable.

All of which brings up the vital question of exactly who is the dominating factor in the now virtual Anglo-American alliance. We have thrown a very large pile of chips into the gamble on a British victory; yet no one seems to know whether the British are taking advice from us or whether we are taking orders from the British. President Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins may know, but if so they have not informed those closest to them.

HITLER'S OIL PROBLEM

Most of the reports from Russia look black; and to U. S. army observers they have been that way for some time. However, one encouraging factor stands out. This is the question of oil.

Without oil no army or navy can move. And despite the tremendous areas taken by Hitler in all Europe, he still faces, two years after starting the war, almost the same oil shortage as before.

Rumania, seized chiefly for her oil fields, has a capacity of 8,000,000 tons annually. However, the Russians bombed the Rumanian oil fields so badly that production is now down to about 4,000,000 tons or less.

Germany itself has a synthetic gasoline production of about 3,000,000 tons, making a total annual production today of about 7,000,000 tons. On the other hand, Germany is using oil and gas to operate its army at the rate of about 25,000,000 tons a year, most of which has come from reserves. It is estimated that Germany still has reserves on hand of 10 or perhaps 15 million tons.

All of which means that the real pinch will come next spring. In other words, Hitler has enough oil and gas to last through the winter, but by the end of the winter he absolutely must take the Russian oil fields of the Caucasus. In fact, he is sure to stage a terrific drive to take them even earlier. The tremendous Nazi sacrifices to take Kiev and Odessa all were because those two cities are the path of the Nazi march to the Caucasus.

Russian Chances.
During the coming winter, however, the Russians should be able to hold out. The Caucasian mountains are high and rugged. The Russians have a huge force in this area. The British also have rushed troops through Iran to the border of the Caucasus.

However, if Hitler's gasoline situation is even more desperate than indicated above—which may be quite possible—then he is almost sure to put the pinners on Turkey harder than ever before in order to drive on the Caucasus.

Miss Mary Vivian McMurry Weds Ensign S. R. Strong

New Bride and Groom Making Home in Rockport, Where Ensign Strong Is Assigned to Duty at Ship Yard

Laurel Heights Methodist church in San Antonio was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday night when Miss Mary Vivian McMurry became the bride of Ensign Sherman Robert Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Strong of Memphis, Tenn. Dr. E. H. Goodrich, pastor of the church, officiated.

Ensign Strong is stationed here at the Westergard-Rice Brothers shipyard where a boat on which he will be an officer is being built, and the young bride and groom will make Rockport their home. They are residing at the Vessey place on the waterfront. Ensign George W. McMurray, brother of Mrs. Strong, is also stationed here. A green and white motif was featured in the decorations with profusions of green and white smilax, white china mums and white tapers.

Mrs. A. B. Hardan, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Lovelace, organist.

White bridal satin fashioned the exquisite gown which was worn by the bride. The off-the-shoulder marquisette yoke was outlined with Venise lace and the sleeves were long and fitted. A white graceful train fell from the shirring at the waistline. Her long veil of white illusion was held to her head with a tiara of Venise lace. She carried a white Bible with white orchid and stephanotis and long sprays of white bouvardia trailing to the hem of her skirt. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Martha McMurray was her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Mary Jane Lyles, Helen Nicholson of Oklahoma, Alice Webber of Montgomery, Alabama, and Jean Davis of Fort Davis, were the bridesmaids. They were dressed alike in aqua faille taffeta with three-quarter length sleeves, fitted bodices with covered buttons down the front, sweetheart neckline and long full skirts. Their halos were of faille to match with a flat bow at the back and they carried arm bouquets of giant bronze mums tied with Talisman colored satin ribbon.

Ensign George Willis McMurray Jr., served as best man, and the groomsmen included Comamder T. A. Nicholson of Oklahoma City, Lt. U. V. Martin of Houston, Ensign Al Lyle and Capt. H. W. Underwood of Austin.

Directly after the ceremony, a reception was held in the home

Attend District WMU Meeting at Taft

The annual meeting of the Blanco District W. M. U. of the Baptist Church held in Taft Tuesday was attended by a group from the local church. Those going to Taft for the all-day meeting were Rev. and Mrs. James F. Stanley, Mrs. Mabel Bryant, Mrs. S. T. Sorenson and Mrs. Jas. G. Hooper.

of the bride's parents The stairway was entwined with white smilax and white chrysanthemums decorated the hall, living room and dining room. The double ring cake embossed with white spun sugar orchids and lilies of the valley, was placed in the center of the table and flanked by white tapers burning in silver candelabra. At one end of the table was the silver coffee service and at the other, a silver punch bowl. Pouring coffee were Mesdames George W. Lyles, Ray Whitfield, Horage Ivey, Herbert Bussa, C. W. Jones, W. L. Stratton, H. M. Van Auken, Mabel Marr, Frank Haggard and Harry Crittendon. Others assisting in the dining room were Mesdames Will Tipps, William Miller, and Misses Susan Stoer, Dot Shaw, Jani McMurray, Cornelia Crittenden and Frank Thulemeyer.

Assisting in the gift room were Misses Genevieve Hinmen, Marion Schneider, Gloria Hill and Margery Shepard and Mesdames Edgar Brown, Adele Brown and E. H. Finch.

Mrs. P. H. Swearingen and Mrs. Hugh Fitzsimon welcomed the guests at the door and Misses Alice Sawtelle and Katherine Dial were in charge of the bride's book.

For traveling, the bride wore a brown suit with gold colored accessories.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Strong of Memphis, Tenn., Capt. and Mrs. H. W. Underwood of Austin, Mrs. C. W. Jones and Mrs. W. T. Miller of Jackson, Mississippi, Mrs. Clayton Simonton of Ruston, La., Miss Johnnie Stayton of Keatchie, La., Dr. E. C. LaFean of Pittsburg, Pr., Lt. and Mrs. U. V. MISS JENA FAE SMITH MARRIED IN TULSA TO JOE T. WILLIAMS

A romance of four years culminating in marriage Monday for Miss Jena Fae Smith, popular Rockport girl, and Joe T. Williams, who were married in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The wedding was solemnized in a Tulsa Methodist church Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the bride flying to Oklahoma the past week-end.

Mrs. Williams, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, is a graduate of the Rockport High School and recently until her marriage had been employed in the Johnson Drug Store. Mr. Williams is at present assigned to laboratory work in Tulsa for the Humble Oil Company. He only recently returned from three and a half years foreign service with the company as party chief of a geophysical staff in Sumatra and New Guinea.

Romance for the happy young couple began four years ago, when Mr. Williams was stationed here. During his absence from the United States the two corresponded regularly and upon his return to the States came the happy climax to the romance.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Williams have a host of friends in Rockport, who join in extending congratulations and best wishes.

Morrison's Hosts at Bunco Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Morrison was the scene of a bunco party of five tables on Friday evening, when Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Richard Hapner, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Morrison, entertained members and guests of Circle Two of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Rockport Presbyterian Church. High score prize for the men went to Floyd Smith, while Mrs. W. S. Magness won high score for women. J. E. York won low score prize for the evening.

After the games a refreshment course consisting of assorted sandwiches and cakes, coffee and lemonade was served to the following guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Little, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cloberdants, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Norvell Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hapner and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morrison.

Texas Takes Lead In Program Of National Defense

DALLAS, Texas—Governor Coke Stevenson said upon his arrival here that official Washington considers Texas as the leader in the defense effort and that President Roosevelt himself indicated that he was highly pleased with the progress made in the Lone Star State.

The governor stopped in Dallas en route to Austin from Washington to address the annual banquet of the Oak Cliff Chamber of Commerce. He was met by officials of the Dallas delegation in the legislature and other friends.

Trip Very Pleasant
Governor Stevenson said his trip to Washington and his conference with the President were "very pleasant."

"Of course you can't quote the President," he told newspapermen, "but I believe you can say he indicated that he was highly pleased with the progress of the defense program in this State, including the support being given it by public sentiment."

The governor said a good part of his time while in Washington was taken up in discussions of the proposed extension of social security benefits to farm laborers and domestic help as a part of the national defense program.

He said this extension may call for a special session of the legislature to make the State social security program conform to those changes in the national set-up. He said the Federal changes would be inaugurated without similar action by the State.

Two Western Governors Lack Skill With Rifle

LANDER, Wyo.—The governors of Wyoming and Colorado may be big shots but they're not crack shots.

Heading teams from their states with a Texas team competing too, Gov. Nels Smith of Wyoming and Gov. Ralph L. Carr of Colorado trekked into the mountain wilds in search of antelope and the championship of the one-shot antelope hunt.

There were five men on each team; each man had one rifle bullet. The team that bagged the most antelope with their five shots won.

When the final results were posted, it was found that the governors had missed completely. The Wyoming team, however, won with three antelope downed.

'War' Region Thanked for Hospitality

BATON ROUGE, La.—Real respect for southern hospitality was expressed recently by Lt. Gen. Walter Kreuger, commander of the Third Army which took part in the recent Louisiana maneuvers.

A message conveying his thanks to the citizenry of Louisiana and East Texas was released through the office of Gov. Sam Jones.

"Upon termination of the current Third Army maneuvers, I desire to express to the people of Louisiana and East Texas my very deep appreciation of the unfailing hospitality with which they have met the members of this command," General Kreuger said.

"Public officials and private citizens alike have spared no pains to insure the success of our military training and to make our stay here a pleasant one."

Mt. Lick Honors Danish Woman

PALO ALTO, Calif.—Miss Julie Vinter Hansen, one of the most outstanding woman astronomers in the world and professor at the University of Copenhagen, has accepted a temporary position at the Mt. Lick Observatory near here pending resumption of her efforts to return to Denmark.

Miss Hansen left Europe on September 1, 1939, just 5 1/2 hours before the German blitzkrieg started rolling. She had received one of the Targa Brondts traveling prizes that are awarded to Danish women who have distinguished themselves in art, literature or science.

Her first plan had been to make a trip around the world, but political conditions changed her mind and she decided to go to Japan and return by way of the United States.

Since then she has been carrying on astronomical work in America pending the success of repeated efforts to get back to Denmark.

Finally the long-sought opportunity seemed to have arrived. Passage was booked and all formalities completed for a return by the Pacific via Soviet Russia, Finland and Sweden. A few hours after she sailed from San Francisco Russia and Germany were at war.

Miss Hansen disembarked at Honolulu and returned to the United States.

She has been awarded the 1941-42 Martin Kellogg fellowship at Mt. Lick Observatory, where she hopes the stars may tell her when she will return home.

Albert T. Oertling of Bay City is visiting his mother and sisters here.

ROCKPORT PIRATES BATTLE TO 0-0 TIE WITH BANQUETE BULLDOGS LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

By Arthur Lee Roberts

The following is a play-by-play resume' of the game played between the Rockport Pirates and the Banquete Bulldogs held last Friday night in Banquete:

1st Quarter
The Pirates kicked off to the Bulldogs, the Bulldogs taking the ball on their 25 yard line to run it back to the Pirates' 45. In four plays the Bulldogs made a first down, losing 2 yards through the line; passing on fourth down that turned out to be incomplete. The Pirates took the ball for a five-yard gain. On the second down Roger Bracht kicked a 40-yard punt. The Bulldogs picked up 6 yards on the first play and lost 5 yards on the second. On an end run the Bulldogs made 8 yards and punted on the following down, the Pirates receiving the ball on their 25-yard stripe. The Pirates made a first down on end runs, which was followed by another first down over the line by Alphonse Hattenback and Jerry Wendell. T. J. Johnson went over tackle for a gain of four yards and Charles Rowe went over guard for a 3-yard gain. Johnson passed but it was incomplete and on the next play Rowe made only 1 yard and the ball went to Banquete. On the first play Rockport was penalized for off-sides, the Bulldogs making 5 yards on the next play for first down and end of quarter.

2nd Quarter
In the first three plays the Bulldogs run a first down, picking up five yards in the following two line plays. Trying two passes, both incomplete, the ball was again in the hands of the Pirate squad. Johnson lost 6 yards on an end-run. Bracht punted to the 50-yard line. The Bulldogs took the ball over tackle for 2 yards then over center for a gain of four yards. Again tossing a pass that was incomplete, the Bulldogs followed through with a center plunge for a one-yard gain and the ball went into the hands of the Pirates. Hattenback lost two yards on a spin. Wendell bringing it back 3 yards over center. Receiving a punt by Bracht, the Bulldogs bring the ball back to mid-field. The Bulldogs ran over tackle for 6 yards, followed by a fumble which is recovered by the Pirates. Wendell went over center for five yards and the Bulldogs are penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness. Johnson angles a pass to Bracht for a 25-yard gain, putting the Bulldogs on their 8-yard line. Rowe rounded left end for two yards and Wendell went over center for no gain. Johnson threw a pass that failed to bring results and Wendell failed to score over center. The Bulldogs punted out for 40 yards and the first half ended as the Pirates went into their huddle.

3rd Quarter
Opening the second half, Banquete kicked to the Rockport 20 yard line where Bracht punts 60 yards to the Bulldogs' own 20. The Bulldogs run a first down in the first three plays and then made four yards on an end run and three yards off tackles. They then made four more over line for another first down. In two plays they gained only one yard so they punted to the Pirates and because of unnecessary roughness the ball went back to place of kick where the Pirates took over. Johnson then passed, but brought no results, so Wendell went over center for one yard. Johnson stepped back and tossed Rowe a pass that was good for 25 yards. Throwing three more passes, the Bulldogs intercepted, but were nailed at the place of interception. The Bulldogs tried end runs twice, losing four yards. The Bulldogs punted to the Pirates and Rowe ran it back for 10 yards. Wendell plunged over center for a 2-yard gain, Rowe losing three yards on an end run. Johnson threw an incomplete pass and the whistle then blew for the end of the third quarter.

4th Quarter
Bracht punted from the 40 to the Bulldogs' 5-yard-line. The Bulldogs plunged 3 yards over center and lost one yard on an end run. They followed with a punt from the 10 yard line to the 45 yard line. Johnson threw an incomplete pass, followed by a five-yard penalty when Drunzer raised the ball. Wendell plunged for one yard and Bracht punted to the Bulldog 20, they losing 2 yards followed by a nine-yard gain on a pass and a 10-yard center plunge for a first down. The Bulldogs then connected a two-yard pass and lost six yards on next play. The Bulldogs then punted 40 yards to Rockport's 30 yard line. In three plays the Pirates made only 6 yards and Bracht punted to the Banquete's 45-yard-line, the Bulldogs being penalized on the next play for off-sides. They then threw three incomplete passes and punted to the Pirates' 22-yard line. Johnson threw a pass which was intercepted by a Bulldog. The Bulldogs plunged over center for two yards and the whistle ended the game.

Score: Banquete-0; Rockport-0
The line-up for Rockport was as follows:

- |               |              |

JOBS FOR TOMORROW

The chemical laboratories of the petroleum industry are now laying the foundation for industries of the future.

Out of their research are being created new products and more efficient ways of making old ones. Synthetic rubber, plastics, explosives, basic chemicals and scores of other essentials developed in petroleum laboratories are already being made on a commercial scale.

These scientific discoveries of materials vital to peace-time needs, as well as National defense, are opening up new fields of industrial activity.

Texas as the leading oil State is playing an important part in the creation of these new American enterprises. As a result, many young Texans now preparing themselves in our schools and colleges will find places in the industries resulting from this research.

"THIS BOOK ISN'T WORTH READING . . . tear down the Library!"

One bad book doesn't make it a bad library. You wouldn't destroy the library to get rid of a few bad books.

A similar situation holds in the beer industry. The vast majority of beer retailers operate clean, decent law-abiding establishments. Now and then an occasional "black sheep" retailer turns up who violates the law or permits anti-social conditions.

The Beer Industry is now actively working to eliminate such retailers. We want to protect your right to drink good beer and our right to make it.

We also want to protect the economic benefits of beer. Right here in Texas, beer provides employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in state taxes.

This state, too, has an important stake in Beer's purchases from more than 100 industries supplying the brewing industry with materials, equipment and services.

You, too, can help the cause of moderation by (1) patronizing only the reputable places where beer is sold, and (2) reporting any law violation you may observe to the duly constituted authorities.

Things I Just Found Out About Newspaper Features

The California legislature in 1899 passed a law prohibiting publication of cartoons in newspapers.

The first serial in an American newspaper was Defoe's "A Religious Courtship," in a Pennsylvania gazette.

Early U. S. newspapers took care of "syndication" themselves. They clipped freely from each other, and anything good that appeared, for example, in Thomas Fleet's excellent Boston Post was sure to be republished throughout the Colonies.

The first popular serial writers were Horatio Alger Jr. and Mary Jane Holmes, developed by the N. Y. Sun.

Kathleen Norris Says: Time Heals All Wounds

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Ted's mother came to stay with us and ran me out. We lived at an army post and I became intimate with an army officer who was a married man.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS ONE of the hardest lessons for an American woman to learn is to leave anything to time. We are an impatient people, and whatever we do must be accomplished in a very hurry.

But happiness and character and success in marriage are things of slow growth. They are never ready-made.

Divorce is an evil. Divorce is not a solution, it is an unmitigated evil and it ought to be used sparingly, like the poisonous drugs that help pain, or the surgeon's knife that is employed only in the last emergency.

Unless this national failing is somewhat lessened, we are going to be a nation without homes; and a nation without homes is no nation at all.

It doesn't hurt children to grow up in the care of a mother who is silently enduring difficulties and injustices. It hurts them irreparably to be told by their mother that Daddy is a bad man; and by Daddy's mother that their own mother is so selfish and vain that poor Daddy had to leave her.

So she tells her how mean Daddy was to her, wouldn't give her any money, and liked another kid better than Mummy, and twisted her arm. And when they tell their paternal grandmother this she can only counter majestically.

Weather, and Its Relation To Behavior

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

SO DEFINITE is the knowledge that wet weather or an impending storm aggravate the symptoms of rheumatism that we fail to see the humor in the story of the salesman who tried to sell a customer a barometer.

In wards of hospitals containing patients with rheumatism there are always more complaining when a storm or unsettled weather approaches.

That the weather greatly affects nervous individuals and those whose family history shows evidences of strange or unusual behavior has now been shown.

The individual of normal build—not stocky nor slender—is not much affected by the weather. Also, the stocky individual when he is young is not much affected.

When the blood becomes less alkaline (nearer an acid condition) the thin nervous individual, with the blood and tissues less alkaline, becomes blue, depressed and irritable.

Removing Warts On Soles of Feet

WHEN we see an individual walking carefully, perhaps with one foot turned slightly outwards or inwards, or a slight limp is noticeable, it is due, in many cases, not to arthritis or to a fallen arch, but to one or more tiny warts buried deep in some callous.

For the past few years, radium and X-rays has been considered the best method of treatment. However, Drs. J. H. Marks and C. C. Franzen, Boston, in New England Journal of Medicine, state that while this is the best method of removal, there are some cases in which the after effects of this treatment are more or less serious.

Of six patients treated by X-rays after failure by use of radium, only two obtained satisfactory results, one had to have toe removed and three required surgical treatment to obtain results.

"If a single radiation treatment fails to cure the method should be discontinued," they report. Electrodesiccation, when properly carried out, gives excellent results. The absence of late after effects and the certainty of sure removal of the wart if done under a local anesthetic, easily make up for the slight immediate discomfort. In all cases in which radium has failed, electrodesiccation has succeeded in removing the wart."

The lesson, then, is that treatment by use of electricity under a local anesthetic is method of choice when radium and X-rays have failed.

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

AN ENTERTAINING EVENING

We had an interesting evening as we watched some short documentary films, and then two gentlemen, Mr. Charles L. Todd and Mr. Sonkin, who have been making recordings of interesting folk songs and dance music in the migratory camps on the West coast, for the Library of Congress, played some of their records.

One, a song by a boy of 14, was a gem, though he was covered with confusion and ran away when he heard it played! Many of the records, like the song written by a woman about her trip from Texas to the West, were heart-rending, in spite of the fact that one could not help laughing at certain little twists of language and expression.

These recordings are going to be historically interesting, but the inspiring thing to me is that people can live through such hardships and still have music in their souls and the ability to express themselves hopefully. Mr. Todd told me that when they have a dance, or are happy, over the prospect of work or some small event in their daily lives, these people apparently seem to be able to enjoy themselves with complete forgetfulness of the past and the future. They have learned what so many of us do not learn—that the present is the only thing we really possess.

CHINESE PHILOSOPHY

That night I read a little volume, arranged for publication by Stanwood Cobb. It is called, "The Wisdom of Wu Ming Fu," and is a collection of his translated poems and sayings. The Chinese philosophy over the centuries has come to the same conclusion as our migrants, and they would agree with Mr. Fu that "it should be our concern to make each present moment perfect."

'WE HOLD THESE TRUTHS'

The next day was most beautiful and four of us went by car to Sugar Loaf mountain and basked in the sun, with a beautiful view spread out below us. After lunch, in the shade of some trees, with the rocks as our seats, we read aloud the preface to a short anthology called "We Hold These Truths," compiled by Stuart Gerry Brown of Grinnell, Iowa.

This address impressed me, for I know two pretty good representatives of what American citizenship means, who are now in Washington and who have had close association with this same place in the past. This anthology is a collection of documents, written by our great men over the period of our whole history. Documents which all of us frequently want and should turn to, to clarify our own beliefs.

One afternoon I received Dr. Juan Carlos Blanco, the ambassador of Uruguay and Madame Blanco, and Mr. Fernand Dennis, the minister of Haiti, and Madame Dennis. They were my first diplomatic visitors for the fall, and they certainly were charming ones.

Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau dined with us that night, and the next day Mrs. Morgenthau was catching up on some of the civilian defense work on which we are going to work together in the coming months. I find a wealth of volunteers who are anxious to do something useful, but I shall not be satisfied until I begin to see people actually at work in communities all over the country. That is where the real civilian defense must have its roots.

By proxy, that day, I learned a good deal about my new job, because Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr. met the staff in the morning, and sat in on Director LaGuardia's meeting. In the afternoon, she met with another group, which discussed the complexities of the jurisdiction of work. All existing organizations will finally be drawn into a pattern where everybody will do his best with the least possible friction.

Anybody with experience knows what this can mean in the way of difficulty during the period of organization. A hundred times a day I shall wish what I have so often wished in the past, that human beings could be reconstructed overnight. If we would think only of the objectives to be achieved and never of the instruments to be used, least of all ourselves, how much more we could accomplish.

Great teachers through the ages have tried to teach us that this is the only efficient way of working and, perhaps, in the end, the only way through which any civilization can be saved. However, we do not always believe these teachers.

by GRANTLAND RICE

HERE is a matter of morbid mathematics for the country to think about. Four out of ten—four hundred out of a thousand—four hundred thousand out of a million—this is the proportion or the percentage the U. S. army, navy and air force have found physically unfit to enter national service—a nation 40 per cent physically deficient. Eyes, ears, teeth, feet, hearts, legs and bodies were all included in the physical decadence of modern youth—a terrific indictment of the nationwide methods of developing fitness and health among the younger ages, supposed to be the healthiest of all.

Just why is this so—and what can be done about it? In looking for the right answer we have gone directly to the leading football coaches and football trainers from California to Harvard, from Michigan to Tulane, from Yale and Princeton to the great Southwest with Texas in the lead, to Army and Navy.

These trainers and coaches not only know their jobs of health building thoroughly, but they give the problem more time and care than any other group in sport—Roland Bevin and Red Blaik of Army, Jim Cox and Dick Harlow of Harvard, Frank Kavanagh and Carl Snavely of Cornell, Stub Allison and Bert Jones of California, Swede Larson of Navy, Red Dawson of Tulane, Red Sanders of Vanderbilt, Matty Bell of S. M. U., Dutch Meyer of T. C. U., Dana Bible of Texas, George Mungler of Penn, Jess Neely of Rice, Tad Wieman of Princeton, Spike Nelson of Yale—these are only a few who have been more than helpful in giving complete details for athletic training for squads that altogether total more than 20,000 candidates between the ages of 18 and 22. These coaches and trainers are doing a tremendous job of physical building up.

Why It Is

Why is it that so many young fellows are in such poor physical shape? One of the best answers comes from Roland Bevin, Army's able football trainer who was with Earl Blaik through his regime at Dartmouth.

"The ordinary student at college practically chooses his own mode of living," Bevin writes. "It is rarely regular. Where a boy has meager financial resources, a couple of hot dogs may constitute his daily rations. He may sleep in a poorly ventilated room or in one poorly heated. Some are underfed—others overfed themselves. Both can lead to sickness and sluggishness.

"In modern times students with cars race around to all points of amusement in all hours of the night, then rush back trying to get their studies prepared for an early class. In this way they lose sleep and rest they will never regain. With this goes stimulants to ward off sleepiness, another health wrecker. Then when hours for recreation come the boy is too tired mentally and physically to want any exercise.

Fielding Yost once told me, "They say we should turn sport back to the boys. Well, at Michigan out of 12,000 students, I don't believe 500, left alone, would ever keep themselves in shape. There would be little sport among the majority—and worse health."

The Dope About Diet

One big national trouble is the quality and quantity of food that is eaten. Here is a suggestion from Frank Kavanagh, Cornell's football trainer who has always turned in a fine job.

"At Cornell we use a well-balanced diet," says Doc Kavanagh. "We avoid all highly seasoned and all fried foods. The diet is kept high in proteins. We try to feed our boys the best meats possible, such as steaks and roast beef, all green vegetables, whole wheat breads, light desserts and milk.

"An important point," Doc Kavanagh continues, "is the time of eating before and after a contest. This should be watched before all competitions at all ages. We feed the team about four hours before a contest. This permits time for proper digestion. I believe teams should wait from an hour and a half to two hours before eating again after a game. There must be time after a game to let the nervous system regain its normal place."

"Our players eat the noon and evening meals at the training table," says Jim Cox, Harvard trainer. "They drink punch made from fresh citrus fruits at noon, and milk at the evening meal. No pastries or coffee are served. Ice cream is the regular dessert at night. No second helpings are served at noon. No highly seasoned foods, no condiments or spice and no fried foods. Three hours before each game an eight-ounce broiled steak, mashed potatoes, new peas, weak tea with lemon, dry toast and orange sherbet are served."

PIE PERFECTION—A WINNER EVERY TIME (See Recipes Below.)

AMERICA'S FAVORITE DESSERT

Confess now, how often would you turn down a tart lemon pie, a deep-dish apple pie, or a juicy cranberry one with the bright berries peeking out of the lattice crust? Not often, I imagine, or pie wouldn't be our country's favorite dessert. So here's to pie, favorite at dessert time or at a bakery sale, made in big tins or as individual servings:

Lemon Angel Pie.
(Makes one 8-inch pie)
4 egg yolks
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Cream egg yolks and sugar together. Add lemon juice and cook in double boiler until thickened, stirring often. Add butter. Remove from heat and fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into a baked pie shell. Top with meringue and brown in moderate (325 degrees) oven for 15 minutes.

Meringue.
2 egg whites, beaten until frothy
4 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Add sugar gradually to egg whites and continue beating until egg holds up in peaks. Fold in lemon juice.

Any pie is as good as its crust, and if you've mastered the art, your pies will always be something to come back for. A good crust is tender, short, flaky, well flavored and smart enough to stand by itself. If you make a crust to be filled, cool the filling before it comes in contact with the crust so you won't have soggy pie.

Flaky Pie Crust.
2 cups flour
½ cup shortening
¾ teaspoon salt
About ½ cup ice water

Mix and sift flour with salt. Work in shortening using pastry blender, fork, knives, or fingertips, until mixture appears crumbled. Moisten with water until dough just holds together. Roll out on floured board and cut to fit pie tins. This makes enough for a double crust for a 9-inch pie tin. For a one-crust pie, use: 1 cup flour, ¼ cup shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, and 2¼ to 3 tablespoons water.

Delicious Rhubarb Pie.
1½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon melted butter
4 cups cut rhubarb
1 pie crust

Combine ingredients and let stand about 15 minutes. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry rolled one-eighth inch thick, allowing pastry to extend 1 inch beyond edge. Fold edge back to form standing rim. Fill with rhubarb mixture. Moisten edge of pastry with cold water; arrange lattice

Coconut Custard Pie.
(Makes one 9-inch pie)
2 egg yolks
1½ cups milk
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water

Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook egg yolks, milk and sugar in double boiler until thick and pour over gelatin. Cool, add vanilla, and pour over a crust made of:

3 cups oven-popped rice cereal, rolled fine
½ cup butter melted
¼ cup sugar

Combine cereal crumbs, sugar and butter and press evenly around the sides and bottom of a pie pan. Chill before filling. Pile meringue on top of filling. Use 2 egg whites stiffly beaten, to which add ½ cup sugar slowly, and ¼ cup of coconut. Brown lightly in broiler.

In making a successful meringue, beat the egg whites until stiff and glossy, then blend in sugar completely to prevent beads of syrup from forming on top of the meringue. Leave the pie on the top of the oven after it is baked. Cold air striking the meringue will cause it to fall.

LYNN SAYS:
To keep your pie crust short, have the shortening and water ice cold. If possible, have your bowl cold, too, and when handling the crust, use your fingers as little as you can, to keep the heat from the hands from getting into the dough.

Avoid rolling extra flour into the dough for this makes tough pastry. Fold the pastry over several times while rolling to help make flaky pastry. Never stretch the pastry into the pan. Make it large enough before fitting into pan.

Pie crust should be baked quickly on the lower shelf of the oven to prevent sogginess. The intense heat of the oven expands the cold liquid in pastry into steam, making the crust rise in flaky layers.

of pastry strips across top. Flute rim with fingers. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) for 15 minutes; then decrease heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer.

Apple Pie.
1 recipe flaky pie crust
2 pounds cooking apples
1½ cups sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons cornstarch

Pare, core, and slice apples. Mix with sugar, cinnamon, and cornstarch. Fill pie tin which has been covered with crust and dot fruit with butter. Lay on top crust which has been pricked with a fork, and flute edges. Bake 45 to 50 minutes in a moderate (350-375 degrees) oven.

Tang and color are this cranberry pie's delectable recommendations, so make enough to have seconds. You can have your vitamins, too, for cranberries are an excellent source of vitamin C, necessary for teeth and bones, and also a fair source of vitamin A which promotes appetite, stimulates growth, and makes for general well-being. Make it with a criss-cross crust and you'll come in with top-honors:

Spicy Cranberry Pie.
(Makes one 9-inch pie)
1 recipe pie crust
4 cups cranberries
2½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup water

Wash and pick over berries. Bring to a boil with the water, add sugar, boil gently, being careful not to break berries. Boil 5 minutes, remove from fire, cool, and add lemon juice, rind, and spices. Fill unbaked pie crust, cover top with strips, and bake 30 minutes in a hot (400 degrees) oven.

There are pies in which you bake just the crust, pies in which you bake crust and filling, and other pies which you don't bake at all. In this latter class are those pies whose crust is placed in the icebox to cool, then filled with filling and cooled until set. Here's a pie with crust, rich and crumbly, a filling that really melts in your mouth:

Coconut Custard Pie.
(Makes one 9-inch pie)
2 egg yolks
1½ cups milk
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water

Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook egg yolks, milk and sugar in double boiler until thick and pour over gelatin. Cool, add vanilla, and pour over a crust made of:

3 cups oven-popped rice cereal, rolled fine
½ cup butter melted
¼ cup sugar

Combine cereal crumbs, sugar and butter and press evenly around the sides and bottom of a pie pan. Chill before filling. Pile meringue on top of filling. Use 2 egg whites stiffly beaten, to which add ½ cup sugar slowly, and ¼ cup of coconut. Brown lightly in broiler.

In making a successful meringue, beat the egg whites until stiff and glossy, then blend in sugar completely to prevent beads of syrup from forming on top of the meringue. Leave the pie on the top of the oven after it is baked. Cold air striking the meringue will cause it to fall.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
"CAPTAINS of the Clouds" (Warner Bros.) brought the war right home to Hollywood. More than 100 pilots of the company who worked for a month in Canada are now in service overseas. James Cagney, Alan Hale, George Tobias and Dennis Morgan now would rather talk about the Royal Canadian Air force than about anything else. They have so many friends in it!

By the time the picture is released, virtually every one of the Canadian fliers who appear in it will be overseas.

Jean Phillips has finally taken it for granted that she'll have to change the color of her hair for each new picture. Naturally blonde, it's been dyed four times for her last four films. She thought she could just be herself for "Sweater Girl," but June Preisser and Betty Jane Rhodes have the other top roles, and they're both blondes. Back to the hairdresser's for Miss Phillips!

JEAN PHILLIPS

Samuel Goldwyn has acquired rights to the famous "off to work we go" song of the little men in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." It will be used as theme music for the seven droll professors in "Ball of Fire," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Gary Cooper.

Twentieth Century-Fox sort of faced a problem recently; Ginger Rogers was to make one picture for the company, and there just wasn't a good story for her. And Ginger's valuable property nowadays. So—she's going to appear in a re-make of "Chicago," which probably will be called "Roxy Hart." She's also slated to start in "Self-Made Cinderella," Lubitsch's first one for Fox.

Too bad the off-stage dialogue of Myrna Loy and William Powell can't be used in "The Shadow of the Thin Man." The other day they made a scene in which Asta, the famous dog, had to sit on Powell's chest. Asta seemed to feel sort of silly. Powell retired to his dressing room for a few minutes, and when he returned they tried it again, and Asta adored sitting on his chest.

"I changed my necktie for a few strips of bacon," Powell explained, exhibiting a neat bow.

"Do you suppose Asta was interested in the bacon," asked Miss Loy, "or in the ham?"

The fourth picture dealing with the Burma road will be Metro's "China Caravan." Columbia plans "Burma Road," Fox plans "Over the Burma Road," Universal has "Burma Convoy" all done. Evidently everybody decided at the same moment that the Burma road was news.

To make factual, uncolored news available to the people of Central and South America, one of the big radio makers is sponsoring a daily program of press association news over local radio stations throughout Latin America; it's the first special news program for general distribution there to be sponsored by a United States company.

There are more ways than one to make an excellent living and a solid reputation in radio. Alice Youngman is doing it via the dramatized commercial route; she has assignments on "Are You a Missing Heir?", "Elen's Home" and the Lanny Ross programs.

ODDS AND ENDS—Radio's Dinah Shore, singing star of the Eddie Cantor show, has a new college degree—Doctor of Blues, presented to her by Harvard freshmen. . . Monogram's going to bring "Black Beauty" back to the screen. . . And Metro will do the same for the play, "Her Cardboard Lover," which was made way back in 1932 under the title of "The Passionate Plumber" . . . Sonja Henie has signed a new long-term contract with Fox; starts work again January first. . . Olivia de Havilland escapes from hoop skirts and bustles for her role as the young wife of college professor Henry Fonda in "The Male Animal."

Remember, how you used to sit around the dining room table at night and study by the light of an oil lamp? Sort of cozy, perhaps. But hard on your eyes.

Today, your children get a better break, because they have better light. And neither you nor any other mother or father would want them to go back to the light you had to use.

We know, because parents have told us so. Six out of ten have told us that they need more light in their homes.

Nine out of ten feel that protection of eyesight is the most important reason why homes should be better lighted.

Almost all parents can understand that children who have plenty of light are more likely to get better grades than children who study with poor light.

They also realize that children who make good grades in school probably stand a better chance to get better jobs when they get out in the world.

Your electric company is helping in this good work by making it possible for people to have more light for less money. Today, for example, our household customers get about twice as much electricity for the same money as they did 10-15 years ago. And light bulbs give you twice as much light as they used to for the same amount of current. So you really get 4 times as much light today as you got 10-15 years ago for the same money.

The Sign of Good Service
ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP!
