SEWER SYSTEM GETS FINAL APPROVAL

MEN 19 -- 45 REGISTER MON.

Construction to Start At Once On Modern Sewer System Under Grant From Defense Works

Sewer System Will Likely Be Completed
Early In Summer; Project to Cost Over
$100,000, With City Putting Up $25,000

Final approval of Rockport's proposed sewer system, long awaited by citizens since the beginning of negotiations in April of 1940, came Thursday afternoon by wire from Washington, according to City Secretary W. B. Friend.

"The system has been definitely approved," the City Secretary said, "as stated in a telegram from the Defense Works Administration."

This final word was the last hurdle to be jumped before the actual starting of construction on the modern sewage system and disposal plants.

City Engineer M. C. St. John has rented an office in the Meyer Building here, and, along with a second engineer, will begin construction at once.

The city has issued $25,000 in revenue bonds to finance the local obligations of the project, while the total cost of the project, according to St. John, will be approximately $106,000.

The City Council was advised last week by Cong. Richard M. Kleberg that the project was assured and lacked only formal approval by the President.

St. John, who left this past week to confer with officials in Fort Worth, says that plans and specifications are ready and that actual construction should begin within 30 days. He states that the project should be completed by early summer.

Air Raid Wardens Must Have Special Training

AUSTIN, Feb. 12— Three thousand police officers and air raid wardens attended schools conducted by the Department of Public Safety in 16 Texas cities last week, State Police Director Homer Garrison announced today.

The schools covered the five-hour course in duties and organization of air raid wardens prescribed by the Office of Civilian Defense, Garrison said, and were held in Tyler, Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Lubbock, Pecos, Harlingen, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, San Angelo, Abilene, Waco, Houston, Beaumont, and Austin.

State Police instructors are available on request of sheriffs and chiefs of police to assist in organizing the warden service, training the wardens, and setting up local centers. The control center is a central office which provides for coordination of all emergency services.

Boy-A-Minute Into Industry Is NYA Record

AUSTIN, Feb. 11— One every minute, day and night, Sundays and holidays included—that's the rate at which NYA trained youth are going from the national defense work experience shops of the National Youth Administration into war industries, with Texas contributing 250 a week to the national total.

In a report made public today, State Youth Administrator J. C. Kellam announced that the National Youth Administration program in Texas is geared to our war effort with 12,000 Texas youth employed on the out-of-school programs. A high percentage of these youth are getting experience and training in the metal and mechanical fields essential for jobs in war production industries and for the mechanized branches of the armed forces.

PILOTING

During the past week the Pilot has had several "pieces" sent in with the request that they be published. On the whole they are an interesting and varied lot of rhyme and verse. Here they are:

GRANDMOTHER'S DAY

(Show this to your wife after she complains she's had a hard day.—On second thought, DON'T)

Grandmother on a winter's day,
Milked the cows and fed them hay;
Slopped the hogs, saddled the mule
And got the children off to school.
Did a washing, mopped the floors,
Washed the windows and did some chores;

Cooked a dish of home-dried fruit,
Pressed her husband's Sunday suit,
Swept the parlor, made the bed,
Baked a dozen loaves of bread,
Split some firewood, and lugged it in

Enough to fill the kitchen bin.
Cleaned the lamps and put in oil,
Stewed some apples she thought would spoil;

Cooked a supper that was delicious
And afterward washed up all the dishes.
Fed the cat and sprinkled the clothes,
Mended a basketful of hose;

Then opened the organ and began to play,
"When you come to the end of a Perfect Day."

KNOWS WHEN THIS WAR WILL END

Absolute knowledge have I none,
But my aunt's washerwoman's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer on the street
That he had a letter just last week
Written in the finest Greek
From a Chinese coolie in Timbucktoo

Who said the niggers in Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Texas town
Who got it straight from a circus clown

That a man in the Klondike heard the news
From a gang of South American Jews

About somebody in Borneo
Who heard of a man who claimed to know
Of a sweet society dame
Whose mother-in-law will undertake

To prove that her seventh husband's sister's niece
Has stated in a printed piece
That she has a son who has a friend

Who knows when the war is going to end.

SOME STAY PICKLED 'TIL '92 — OTHERS DIE YOUNG

(A slightly "dampish" argument)

The horse and mule live thirty years
And nothing known of wine and beers

The goat and sheep at twenty die
Without the aid of Scotch and Rye
The cow drinks water by the ton
At eighteen is mostly done

The dog at fifteen cashes in
And never tasted Rum or Gin
The cat in milk and water soaks
And at twelve short years it croaks

The honest, sober home dry hen
Lays eggs for nogs, then dies at ten

All animals are strictly Dry
They sinless live and swiftly die
But sinful givful, rum-soaked men
Survive for three score years and ten

And some of us the mighty few
Stay pickled till we're ninety-two.

Aransas County Has Three Places To Register

Court House, City Hall and Office at Fulton to Be Open 7 to 9

All men in Aransas county between the ages of 19 and 45 years not previously registered for military service must register on Monday, Feb. 16.

Registration will be simple, as there will be only nine questions, Selective Service officials announced Wednesday.

Registration in Aransas county will be at the City Office, the County Courthouse, and at Fulton between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. and will be under the supervision of the local Selective Service Board composed of Fred Booth, A. A. Knox and W. B. Friend. There will be a number of volunteers aiding in registering the men. Men registering in previous R-days will not register Monday.

Questions other than height and weight to be asked registrants will include: 1. full name of registrant, including middle name, if any; 2. Place of residence; 3. mailing address, if other than residence; 4. telephone number; 5. Age in years and date of birth; 6. place of birth; 7. name and address of a person who will always be informed of the registrant's address; 8. employer's name and address; and 9. place of employment or business.

When a registrant has answered all questions and signed his name to the registration card, he will be given a registration certificate signed by the registrar. This certificate must be in the personal possession of the registrant at all times, it is cautioned. Failure to possess the certificate, or to show it to authorized persons, constitutes a violation of Selective Service regulations and is considered prima facie evidence of failure to register.

Governor Urges Greater Buying of Defense Bonds

AUSTIN, Feb. 11— Gov. Coke R. Stevenson announces that he has signed a proclamation designating the first and fifteenth of each month as "Defense stamp and bond days in Texas," in the hope that on those days special emphasis would be placed on selling defense stamps and bonds to help win the war.

The proclamation pointed out that on the first and fifteenth of each month most of the salaried citizens of the state receive their pay, more money is changing hands, and more could be diverted from luxuries and non-essentials to patriotic uses.

Simultaneously, two new programs to increase the sale of defense stamps were announced by the Texas Retailers Defense Committee.

On program fits in directly with Governor Stevenson's proclamation. At Galveston, on the first and fifteenth of each month six hundred women will be stationed at special booths or counters in retail

PARENTS OF DONALD MCBRIDE LEARN SON WELL ON OAHU ISLE

His many friends in Rockport will be glad to learn that Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McBride this week heard from their son, D. C. McBride Jr., for the first time since hostilities began between the United States and Japan with the sneak raid on December 7.

FITTING OUT DRAFTEES CALLS FOR MANY ITEMS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12— The wool of 20 sheep, the leather of one steer hide, the cotton from half an acre of farm land and the fur of innumerable rabbits are required to outfit just one draftee.

It costs $404.65 to feed, equip and maintain the average enlisted man during his first year in the army, not counting his weapons, ammunition and pay.

These figures have been released by the Philadelphia Quartermaster's Depot, chief purchasing agency for the army in the East.

A soldier's wardrobe for cold climates includes a three-quarter length parka, lined with white wool, and a white cloak with a fur ruff.

Traffic Course Set Feb. 23-28 In Corpus Christi

Ray J. Abbaticchio Jr., special agent in charge of the Houston office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today that two FBI War Traffic Schools for police would be held in the Houston area. The schools will run for a period of six days. One will be held in Houston at the auditorium of the new Y. M. C. A., 1600 Louisiana St., from Feb. 16 through Feb. 21.

The other will be given at Corpus Christi the week of February 23 through 28, at the City Hall Council Chamber.

A large number of duly constituted law enforcement officers of the Texas coastal counties are expected to attend. The curriculum will deal primarily with wartime traffic control, a problem of paramount importance to police under the National Defense program. Mr. Abbaticchio said that one has only to recall the chaotic conditions prevalent on the highways and roads of France when war broke over Europe to realize the importance of proper traffic control in wartime. It will be remembered that the citizens of France in their mass exodus from the battle areas created such traffic jams and tie-ups that the French Army was unable to move to the front. This contributed greatly to their defeat. The need for such training is evident.

Our country must be prepared to deal with such eventualities should its fate at sometime in the future depend upon proper traffic handling.

This school may be attended by heads of law enforcement organizations, traffic officers, members of traffic departments, officers who may assist or be in charge of convoy operations, instructors of local police training schools, police traffic investigators and auxiliary police who have entered a duty status. All duly authorized peace officers are invited and urged to attend. In addition, the following will also be welcome: heads and subordinate officials of local, county, and state highway departments and officials of city, county and state governments who are responsible for the direction and flow of traffic and executives and officers of railroad police organizations. It will not be possible to admit the general public inasmuch as

Doctor Urges Vacation Outings To Keep People Going Under War Stress

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 12— Hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation promote health and welfare of the public, according to Dr. Walter P. Taylor, head of the Fish and Game Department of Texas A. & M. College, and this is no time to give up vacationing and recreation.

"England found that maximum production of munitions could not be secured through unremitting pressure of work and overlong hours of labor," Dr. Taylor said. "The most efficient people are those who devote a reasonable amount of time to recreation to maintain mental and a dphysical poise.

"It is likely that the greatest economic value of fish and game resources are to be found in their recreational potentialities. Out in the open with rod, gun, camera, or field glass, a person secures a relaxation which can be obtained no other way, and returns to daily tasks refreshed and encouraged.

"Maintenance of adequate supplies of deer and wild turkey are the material basis for substantial income from hunting leases to Texas farmers and ranchmen. Maintaining fishing on 400 odd lakes in Texas means a great deal to recreational income to purveyors of supplies and services.

"The problem of pond fish production is of definite interest and significance to owners of the 37,000 or more farm ponds in Texas. Alabama has pioneered in the development of pond fish production. Texas has not yet fully awakened to the possibilities along this line.

"Texas A. & M. College, through the Texas Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit in cooperation with the Fish and Wildlife Service of the United States Department of the Interior, the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission and the American Wildlife Institute, is trying to do its part in the wildlife conservation effort.

Released from the ropes, the prisoner departed willingly with the sheriff, both singing. Even after being sentenced to jail for 10 days the old riverman continued singing ballads of the Mississippi.

10,000 Tires Go Into One Battleship

The irked citizen who feels like swearing because his automobile tires are worn down to the fabric and he can't obtain any more, may be pacified by learning some of the reasons for the curtailment. They follow:

A 35,000 ton battleship uses 75 tons of rubber, the equivalent of 10,341 automobile tires.

A 75 mm. gun carriage requires 175.3 pounds of rubber, a troop carrier 332 pounds, a scout car 339 pounds, and a 37 mm. anti-aircraft gun carriage 190 pounds.

Airplanes require from 33 to 96 pounds of tire rubber, plus 24 to 55 pounds for inner tubes. Pneumatic rafts carried in planes for emergency water landings contain 29 pounds.

And aside from these major uses rubber goes into gas masks, tanks, medical equipment, boots, raincoats, shoes, signal service equipment, and countless other wartime necessities.

Drunzer Vacancy on Tire Board Remains Unfilled

Until M. F. Drunzer, who recently left Rockport to go to El Paso to re-open his copper mines, enters a formal resignation to the local tire rationing board, Drunzer's vacated position will not be filled, County Defense Coordinator B. S. Fox announced this week.

Mr. Drunzer, who operates Oakshore Apartments, went to El Paso to re-open his mines at the request of the government. His home will continue to be Rockport, where Mrs. Drunzer and children will remain and manage the apartments in his absence.

Rockport Band Plays Benefit Concert Tuesday

The Rockport high school band, under the direction of Eugene Reader, gave a concert last Thursday night, Feb. 5. The purpose of this concert was to present to the public the new uniforms and music which the band had purchased, to raise money to help pay for the uniforms and music, and to entertain supporters of Rockport high school and its band.

The concert accomplished its purpose with about $24.00, excluding tax, taken in toward the uniform fund. The program not only consisted of seven numbers by the band, but Pete Becca rendered a beautiful selection on his electric guitar and Mrs. Joyner played two solos on the piano.

The band members wish to express their gratitude to Mr. Harding, director of the Aransas Pass Band, for accompanying them on the bass horn. They also want to thank everyone for the cooperation given them in making this concert a big success.

SHERIFF GETS HIS MAN WITH CHANTS

JUNEAU, Wis., Feb. 12— Sheriff Harold Hammer has a good vice and a good memory, calling both into play recently to handle a belligerent and intoxicated prisoner.

Summoned to a home where the man of the house had gone on a rampage after over-indulgence, the sheriff found that relatives had the man of the house on the floor with his hands tied behind his back.

The sheriff recognized him as an old acquaintance with a fondness for river songs. Hammer commenced a chant which he knew was a favorite of the man, and the prisoner unclenched his fists to join in the song.

Released from the ropes, the prisoner departed willingly with the sheriff, both singing. Even after being sentenced to jail for 10 days the old riverman continued singing ballads of the Mississippi.

Wheelbarrow Tire Is Board Puzzler

PORTLAND, Ore. Feb. 12—The tire rationing board here found itself facing a neat problem when an applicant came in seeking a certificate to purchase a rubber tire for his wheelbarrow.

The board looked up the regulations, but found nothing about wheelbarrows. So they turned the request down as out of their jurisdiction.

New York Heartbeat:

It costs a lot to win a war, but it costs more to lose one. Traditionally, an American balks more at inconvenience than he does at sacrifice. But let's not fool ourselves. There is a difference between civilian discomfort and military sacrifice.

An empty sugar bowl is one thing, and an empty ammunition belt is another. An old second-hand car is a nuisance, but there is no such thing as a second-hand navy. Priorities are harsh, but remember that the marines ask only that they be the first to fight. Living quarters may be cramped, but American sailors are living in submarines.

Men who fly in high altitude bombers are giving more to their country than those who pay high income taxes.

You can't buy Liberty in a bargain basement, and the theater of war has no reserved seats. Peace will restore sugar and tires. But not even Victory can bring back the Colin Kellys.

United Nations Rush Reinforcements To Far East Battle Fronts in Effort To Check Spreading of Jap Attacks; Nazis Again Take Offensive in Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Somewhere in the Pacific ocean, this dramatic picture taken of a U. S. navy offensive patrol plane carrier being circled by a navy dive bomber as it begins its anti-submarine duties. Note in the picture that on both the side and underpart of the plane there have been deletions of certain parts and insignia which might give information to the enemy. Also on the top rigging of the carrier you will notice further deletions for the same reason.

LUZON:

Epic Battle

Hailed as an epic of warfare that would live in all history, the defense of Bataan peninsula and of the fortresses holding the entrance to Manila bay had been diverting large Jap forces needed elsewhere than in the Philippines.

The adding to MacArthur's embattled and smoke-begrimed army of a battalion of bluejackets and marines was welcome news and showed that perhaps not all of the men of Cavite and Olongapo had been withdrawn, but that they had been given a post of honor with the defenders.

Up on the Mariveles mountains they were entrenched, and no matter what strength the Japs hurled against them they were holding firm. On one moonlit night a whole regiment of small boats moved down the coast, using the same tactics that had hurled the British back on Malaya.

The effort was to get in on MacArthur's flank and confuse the defenders, at the same time signalling for an offensive on the central front. But the shore defenders and artillery opened up on the Jap invaders, left scores of them struggling in the water, and the few that made shore were quickly mopped up by the Filipinos.

There was apparently at least one Japanese warship which managed to run through the eight-mile strip of water between the fortresses at the entrance of Manila bay.

One of the United States' intrepid torpedo boat skippers, piloting his tiny craft at close to 80 miles an hour, swept down on her in the moonlight, and launched two torpedoes which struck the ship. She is believed to have been sunk.

The attack was carried out directly into the glare of the warship's searchlights, and under the full power of her guns, but so skillfully did its skipper maneuver that she was not struck, and escaped with all hands to tell the tale.

WAVELL:

And Reinforcements

The statement by General Wavell that "great reinforcements" were to arrive, and calling on the Singapore defenders to "defend the city as Tobruk was defended" was more than a little significant.

Tobruk was the bastion that held out for months despite being surrounded on three sides by Axis forces anxious to wipe it out, and finally was relieved by the allied winter drive.

Wavell's statement to the Singapore army smacked of a situation which might see sufficient reinforcements sent to Malaya to do the same thing, not only to relieve the garrison, but send the Japanese on the run again.

Whether this reinforcement was going to be sent to Singapore itself, or whether a method was to be found of striking at the Japanese rear, which might be lightly held, was not revealed, but either method, it was pointed out, might work.

No British commentators felt that the war in the South Pacific would be lost utterly if Singapore was to fall, but the ability to hold the East Indies would immeasurably be weakened if this was to happen, hence Wavell's strong appeal to the city's defenders to hold out at all costs.

Washington: A Portland, Ore., college president, Dexter Keezer, and a former editorial writer, has been made assistant administrator of the Office of Price Administration, directly under Henderson.

London: It was announced that Darian, Vichy government head, had agreed to send two shiploads of aid to General Rommel in Libya weekly, putting the supplies ashore at Tunis.

GERMANS:

Not Out Yet

Reading endless stories of Russian successes in battles on the east front, and the continuous hammering back of Rommel's forces in north Africa had brought many over-optimistic souls to feel that the war was over, and that all which remained was some sort of mopping up process.

The turning of the tide in north Africa, and the success of German counterattacks in the Crimea showed that with favorable weather conditions the Nazis were still very much to be reckoned with.

The Crimea was a much warmer battlefield than the 40 below zero northern sectors, where the Russians, undiscouraged by the cold, and more at home in such weather, were able to hurl the Nazis back constantly on a wide front.

But the minute the weather moderated in the Crimea, they found themselves more or less up against a stone wall.

On the British and American forces was falling the brunt of the Japanese blitz, and its successes on Malaya and in the Philippines showed that this was no minor war, but an effort against powerful antagonists.

Therefore events generally pointed to what Washington had assured the people was coming—a long and bloody war, not to be lightly won.

Though, generally speaking, the news was not as unfavorable as it might have been, there was much to be cheering about, and the seriousness of the situation was apparently keenly appreciated by all those in power, including the President, his cabinet and the congress.

RUBBER:

Keeps Coming

Although tire rationing was apparently here to stay, the rubber situation was relieved somewhat when it was announced that shipments from the East Indies were continuing at almost a normal pace.

A glance at the map showed that considerable areas of the Dutch East Indies were still technically out of the active war zone, and the defeat of the Japanese armada in the Makassar straits halted a Jap threat which might have halted much of the rubber shipping summarily.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and Federal Loan administrator, was author of the statement that rubber shipments continued to be received.

He said enough had come in materially to increase the United States' reserve supply. For instance, since the war started, on December 7, he asserted that 114,000 tons of raw rubber had been received, truly a considerable amount.

He said: "We are unloading some every day, and rubber is being shipped every day from the Dutch East Indies. We will continue to get it as long as we can keep the lanes open, and as long as they can load it."

"Some rubber is still coming out of Singapore."

This was even after the city had gone under siege. The Japs had launched an air attack on Sourabaya, which was the only major Javanese port to undergo such a war blow, but it was recalled that it would take more than an air blitz to put a huge port like this out of normal action.

Worry Gets A Person

Do you sit and think, or lay awake nights, worrying? Maybe you aren't eating because you're too worried to eat. Worrying is a bad habit. It makes you nervous and weak. It makes you lose your appetite. It makes you lose your sleep. It makes you lose your interest in life. It makes you lose your ability to do your work. It makes you lose your ability to enjoy life. It makes you lose your ability to love. It makes you lose your ability to live. It makes you lose your ability to be a person.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of their value. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who have testified to the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good, direct treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys may be kept in good health, they would be better understanding why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling weak, nervous—all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has a world-wide reputation than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Another Score to Settle With Adolf Hitler

Above is shown some of the crew of the ill-fated Norwegian freighter, Varanger, which went down at almost within sight of the New Jersey coastline after being hit by a torpedo from an enemy submarine. New York Heartbeat:

It costs a lot to win a war, but it costs more to lose one. Traditionally, an American balks more at inconvenience than he does at sacrifice. But let's not fool ourselves. There is a difference between civilian discomfort and military sacrifice. An empty sugar bowl is one thing, and an empty ammunition belt is another. An old second-hand car is a nuisance, but there is no such thing as a second-hand navy. Priorities are harsh, but remember that the marines ask only that they be the first to fight. Living quarters may be cramped, but American sailors are living in submarines. Men who fly in high altitude bombers are giving more to their country than those who pay high income taxes. You can't buy Liberty in a bargain basement, and the theater of war has no reserved seats. Peace will restore sugar and tires. But not even Victory can bring back the Colin Kellys.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

United Nations Rush Reinforcements To Far East Battle Fronts in Effort To Check Spreading of Jap Attacks; Nazis Again Take Offensive in Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Somewhere in the Pacific ocean, this dramatic picture taken of a U. S. navy offensive patrol plane carrier being circled by a navy dive bomber as it begins its anti-submarine duties. Note in the picture that on both the side and underpart of the plane there have been deletions of certain parts and insignia which might give information to the enemy. Also on the top rigging of the carrier you will notice further deletions for the same reason.

LUZON: Epic Battle

Hailed as an epic of warfare that would live in all history, the defense of Bataan peninsula and of the fortresses holding the entrance to Manila bay had been diverting large Jap forces needed elsewhere than in the Philippines. The adding to MacArthur's embattled and smoke-begrimed army of a battalion of bluejackets and marines was welcome news and showed that perhaps not all of the men of Cavite and Olongapo had been withdrawn, but that they had been given a post of honor with the defenders. Up on the Mariveles mountains they were entrenched, and no matter what strength the Japs hurled against them they were holding firm. On one moonlit night a whole regiment of small boats moved down the coast, using the same tactics that had hurled the British back on Malaya. The effort was to get in on MacArthur's flank and confuse the defenders, at the same time signalling for an offensive on the central front. But the shore defenders and artillery opened up on the Jap invaders, left scores of them struggling in the water, and the few that made shore were quickly mopped up by the Filipinos. There was apparently at least one Japanese warship which managed to run through the eight-mile strip of water between the fortresses at the entrance of Manila bay. One of the United States' intrepid torpedo boat skippers, piloting his tiny craft at close to 80 miles an hour, swept down on her in the moonlight, and launched two torpedoes which struck the ship. She is believed to have been sunk. The attack was carried out directly into the glare of the warship's searchlights, and under the full power of her guns, but so skillfully did its skipper maneuver that she was not struck, and escaped with all hands to tell the tale.

WAVELL: And Reinforcements

The statement by General Wavell that "great reinforcements" were to arrive, and calling on the Singapore defenders to "defend the city as Tobruk was defended" was more than a little significant. Tobruk was the bastion that held out for months despite being surrounded on three sides by Axis forces anxious to wipe it out, and finally was relieved by the allied winter drive. Wavell's statement to the Singapore army smacked of a situation which might see sufficient reinforcements sent to Malaya to do the same thing, not only to relieve the garrison, but send the Japanese on the run again. Whether this reinforcement was going to be sent to Singapore itself, or whether a method was to be found of striking at the Japanese rear, which might be lightly held, was not revealed, but either method, it was pointed out, might work. No British commentators felt that the war in the South Pacific would be lost utterly if Singapore was to fall, but the ability to hold the East Indies would immeasurably be weakened if this was to happen, hence Wavell's strong appeal to the city's defenders to hold out at all costs.

GERMANS: Not Out Yet

Reading endless stories of Russian successes in battles on the east front, and the continuous hammering back of Rommel's forces in north Africa had brought many over-optimistic souls to feel that the war was over, and that all which remained was some sort of mopping up process. The turning of the tide in north Africa, and the success of German counterattacks in the Crimea showed that with favorable weather conditions the Nazis were still very much to be reckoned with. The Crimea was a much warmer battlefield than the 40 below zero northern sectors, where the Russians, undiscouraged by the cold, and more at home in such weather, were able to hurl the Nazis back constantly on a wide front. But the minute the weather moderated in the Crimea, they found themselves more or less up against a stone wall. On the British and American forces was falling the brunt of the Japanese blitz, and its successes on Malaya and in the Philippines showed that this was no minor war, but an effort against powerful antagonists. Therefore events generally pointed to what Washington had assured the people was coming—a long and bloody war, not to be lightly won. Though, generally speaking, the news was not as unfavorable as it might have been, there was much less to be cheering about than there was to be worrying about, and the seriousness of the situation was apparently keenly appreciated by all those in power, including the President, his cabinet and the congress.

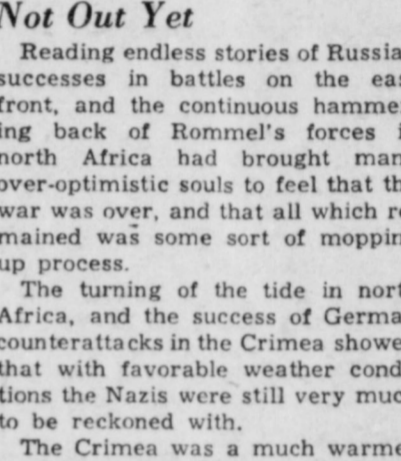

RUBBER: Keeps Coming

Although tire rationing was apparently here to stay, the rubber situation was relieved somewhat when it was announced that shipments from the East Indies were continuing at almost a normal pace. A glance at the map showed that considerable areas of the Dutch East Indies were still technically out of the active war zone, and the defeat of the Japanese armada in the Makassar straits halted a Jap threat which might have halted much of the rubber shipping summarily. Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and Federal Loan administrator, was author of the statement that rubber shipments continued to be received. He said enough had come in materially to increase the United States' reserve supply. For instance, since the war started, on December 7, he asserted that 114,000 tons of raw rubber had been received, truly a considerable amount. He said: "We are unloading some every day, and rubber is being shipped every day from the Dutch East Indies. We will continue to get it as long as we can keep the lanes open, and as long as they can load it. "Some rubber is still coming out of Singapore." This was even after the city had gone under siege. The Japs had launched an air attack on Surabaya, which was the only major Javanese port to undergo such a war blow, but it was recalled that it would take more than an air blitz to put a huge port like this out of normal action.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

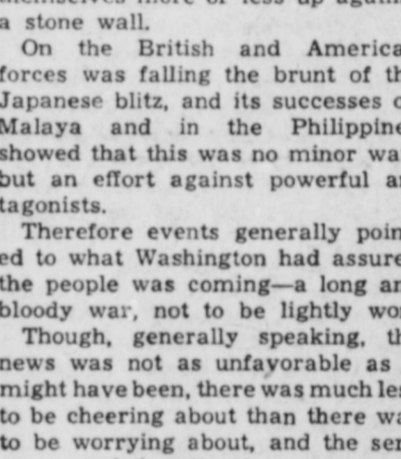

Washington: A Portland, Ore., college president, Dexter Keezer, and a former editorial writer, has been made assistant administrator of the Office of Price Administration, directly under Henderson. London: It was announced that Darlan, Vichy government head, had agreed to send two shiploads of aid to General Rommel in Libya weekly, putting the supplies ashore at Tunis. New York: Tommy Manville, asbestos heir, to whom war was a side issue, announced he would take his sixth bride April 9, and would stay married this time. No. 6 would be, he said, Madge Lowe of Toronto, 23. She had been divorced. Washington: Capital circles were stirred by reports that American aid to Russia had fallen below 50 per cent of the amount promised.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste from the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination, sometimes with disturbed kidney function, You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

52 Billions in '42 for our way of life

...and that's just the way!

Great industrialists, professional, financial and commercial men, together with America's masses, gasped and then applauded when our Chief Executive announced National Defense plans and how the staggering budget of "52 Billions in '42" would be used.

All agreed that while it was a "big order," it could and would be filled. We can expect and will willingly accept any extra burdens or inconveniences this vast program demands. Our only release is in doing the job thoroughly and quickly. In so doing our burdens will not long endure, then we, all of us, may return to our accustomed, normal routine of life. To this end we pledge our full effort.

DEEP WATER ISLAND
by ALAN LEMAY

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN
THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterston, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterston, comes with Colt to Honolulu and meets Tonga Dick or Richard Wayne, a member of the Wayne family which has been in control of the property since her grandfather's disappearance. Dick's uncle, James Wayne, manager of this island, Alakoa, dies from overwork and Dick attempts to work out a compromise settlement of Karen's claim. This is refused. Meantime Karen has learned that both Colt and Dick are in love with her. On the island, one day, Dick reveals that Karen is not heiress at all, but that Garrett Waterston is alive and is on his way to Alakoa. He and Karen discuss what attitude the old man may take toward her claim to the island.
New continue with the story.

"But you don't know that you've lost the island."

"I've been perfectly sincere. Dick, you just have to believe that!"
"I do. But Garrett Waterston may very possibly believe, by this time, that the Waynes took unfair advantage of him when they bought Alakoa."
Karen seemed strangely shaken. "Then nothing is settled at all, is it?"
"Nothing. They key has passed into other hands—that's all."
"And this fight has to go on, and on—"
"Are you tired of this fight, Karen?"
"Something's changed it for me. I don't know what it is. At first it seemed such a glorious adventure; it promised to open up a whole new world. But that's all gone. I don't know what's the matter. Somehow I'm not sure, any more, that I want Alakoa."
"Neither," said Dick Wayne, "do I. You know that."
She turned a little to look at him; and the young stars made her face a pale oval, mysterious and lovely, but her expression he could not see.
"You don't want your island?" she asked quietly.
He took her hands, and made her turn toward him. "You know what I want. You've known it all the time."
"But—the island—your brothers—"
"Haven't you?" he asked.
"There isn't—there isn't any way—"
"Haven't you?" Dick insisted.
The resistance seemed to go out of her; she swayed forward, and rested her cheek against his chest.
"Yes," she admitted; "I know."
"There isn't any time to lose," Dick said. "I've had a radio from Waterston. He'll drop anchor in less than two hours. By that time it will be too late."
"What are we going to do?"
"We're going to run out on this show. We'll be married in Hilo. I don't care what happens after that. They can go on with this infernal squabble until they eat each other's last shirt."
"It's impossible! I can't!"
"Why? If you're still going to let John Colt—"
"Don't you see what position I'm put in? Do you think I've so little pride that I'd try to seize your island, and fail, and then edge in by marrying the very man I tried to bankrupt—"
"I don't believe you care any more about the island than I do."
"You don't now. But some day you'd remember, and perhaps begin to doubt; and nothing could ever be—"
"But you don't know that you've lost the island. Nobody will know until Garrett Waterston shows his hand."
"Dick—if my grandfather takes the island, I'll marry you then, if you want me to."
"No," he said. He released his hold, and she moved a few inches away from him. "No," he repeated. "I'm not going to marry an island either, Karen."
"Then you see—it's hopeless, Dick."
"In another hour or so it will be completely. This is the last time we'll ever have any choice. Because now we don't know. Right now one of us is as good as broke—but we don't know which. Perhaps neither one of us will ever have anything in the world again."
"Maybe," Karen said, "that would be best of all. Only—we can't make that choice either, Dick. Neither one of us has any choice whatever, in anything, it seems."
Dick said gravely. "The choice is yours, Karen; and you have to make it now, tonight—before I leave this boat."
"What is it you want me to do?"
"I want you to come with me, now, on the Holokai. I'll throw the Holokai over the bar, and run to sea."
"If only," Karen said, "I had a little time—"
"Time? Good Lord, Karen!"
"Even a few hours—"
He saw that she was frightened; and he was pleased, because it told him that she wanted to come with him.
"You have a few hours," he said; "you have days, if you want. I'll stay at sea as long as you want me to. Or, when we've talked it over, I'll put back. Or I'll take you any place you want to go. But now we've got to get out of here—quickly—if there's ever going to be any hope at all."
She turned away from him and her hands gripped the rail hard; her eyes were on the Holokai, a dark tall shape, with her trucks showing against the stars. The moments ticked by, and the outrigger glided past twice, standing on and off, and it seemed to Dick that she was never going to speak.

Dick picked Karen up lightly and lowered her over the rail into the moving outrigger; then himself vaulted the rail in time to light upon the canoe's stern as it swept past. The little craft reeled, and the canoe's whole outrigger lifted out of the water; then she steadied, and her sail flapped lazily as she came about and pointed for the Holokai.
Karen stood beside Dick Wayne as he piloted the Holokai to sea. He was handling the wheel himself, as he always did in these reefs; but even while he was narrowly back-sighting his markers, the sense of her presence there had hold of every part of him, changing the meaning of the vessel, and the harbor, and the night. The salt spray that he loved had never, in all his life, been so welcome in the air he breathed.
The Chinese mess boy poked himself into the wheelhouse and plucked at Dick's sleeve. He was in a white mess jacket, this time.
"Captain Tonga, something is wrong, I think. Somebody is in your cabin, I think. You send somebody in cabin?"
"Well, who is it?"
"Captain Tonga, the door is fastened."
"Oh, bunk! What's the matter with you. Seeing akua?"
"No, Captain. Somebody is—"
"Go tell the cook to make dinner for two—and make it good. Get out of here and do as I tell you."
The big combers that lashed over the snag-toothed coral were closed on the Holokai's bows, but Dick seemed sure of his way. He fired the Holokai at the channel like a shot; the big Diesel had small range of speed, so that under power the Holokai went full out or not at all. He spoke from the side of his mouth to the Japanese who served as first officer, bosun, and copper-smith.
"Inyashi, get the night glasses out of my bunk."
"Yes, Captain."
"We'll very likely sight the Sarah coming in—that's your grandfather's other ship," Dick said to Karen, raising his voice over the roar of the shoals. "She's a good little vessel, but much slower than this. She must have started north no more than twelve hours after the Holokai, and you see how late she is. Did you know that 'Sarah' was your grandmother's name?"
The Japanese quartermaster was back, bursting into the wheelhouse in the quick nervous way that marked everything he did. "Captain Dick, I cannot get the night glasses—you have left your cabin locked."
"Locked? You're crazy—the door's stuck, that's all. Give it a boot."
Inyashi showed extreme embarrassment. "Captain Dick, I did. The panel split. I think it was poor wood, but I can fix it. It is locked—it is locked, I know."
"Let it go. I'll send up the glasses. Get a Kanaka boy for the wheel—we'll be in clear water in a minute. Set a course for Kalae; watch for a ship—any ship—and report all vessels to me."
"Yes, Captain!"
"That last is for you," Dick told Karen. The wheel was kicking crazily, but he let go with one hand, and pulled her close against him. "I thought you might want to see the ship that's bringing him in, out of the south."
"Out of the south," Karen repeated; "out of the sea, out of the past itself—"
"You'll like him, Karen; I promise you that."
"You and I have so much to talk about," Karen said. "I'm terribly eager to know more about my grandfather. I want to know where he's been, and what he does, and how he lives. I want to know what he's really like, and if you think he'll approve of me."
"And," Dick said, "why he disappeared, and hid his name?"
"Did he run from something, Dick?"
"Only from his own pride. I understand it; I understand it well.

by GRANTLAND RICE

LIEUT. COM. GENE TUNNEY has rounded up a first-class set of ring men for the navy. But the army still has the top champ in a fellow by the name of Joe Louis.
Many have said that the next world's heavyweight champion would come from this war assemblage—which is a dead-sure bet. It's my guess that his name will be Joe Louis, if some unlooked for fate doesn't crowd in on the main act. Or if army life doesn't pack too much extra weight on the Bomber's frame. It took him only a few days to add an extra ten pounds after he'd cleaned out Buddy Baer.
Army life can put on weight as well as take it off. The ring has never had a champion before who spent so much time in a training camp, who nicked off more miles in road work, year after year, than Jolting Joe. It will be interesting to see how much Louis weighs some three months from now.
Louis called the turn in his last fight long before the fight was ever made. He was training for Lou Nova at the time. We were talking about his first Buddy Baer meeting and the Billy Conn fight. Always ducking anything that looked like an alibi, the Bomber finally admitted that he was stale and well below par in both contests.

"Before I fought Buddy Baer in Washington," he said, "I was dead tired. I trained in a hot place and I began to see black spots before my eyes. I didn't have no pep left. I hit Buddy plenty that time, but there wasn't much steam back of my punches."
It was all different in the second Buddy Baer party after Joe had gotten his rest and had recovered his lost steam. Quite different.
Louis also admitted on the same occasion that he wasn't any too keen before the Billy Conn round-up.
"He's a fast boy," Louis said, "but I wasn't right. I was too slow. Maybe he made me look slower, but I can be faster than I was then. I was still stale. I'll be different for Nova."
Conn is the challenger picked for the next Louis start, if there is another heavyweight battle soon. At least, the slender Pittsburgher is the only one given a chance.
As fine a boxer and as game a kid as Conn is, I still think he got a break in catching Louis below form. Louis also got a break, on the odd side.
"Here's a funny thing," Conn told me, "the best punch I threw cost me that fight. I'll tell you how and why. I had hoped and expected to outbox him. I was doing that through the middle of the 12th round. But near the end of that round I nailed Joe on the jaw with a good punch. I saw his knees buckle and his eyes roll. I knew I'd hurt him. I thought he was about through. So I decided at that spot I'd knock him out."
"I wasn't content any longer to win a decision. I got rough instead of getting smart. If I hadn't landed that punch I'm pretty sure I wouldn't have taken the chance I took—wading in and swinging flat-footed. I gave him a still target to hit in place of a moving target. And I wasn't hurt at the time. Don't let anyone tell you his body blows had worn me down. They hadn't."
"It was that belt on the head in the 13th when I was trying to out-punch him that turned the trick. It isn't often that your best punch costs you a fight. But that's what happened to me."
At His Best
It is my guess that Louis was only keyed up in something like four contests. One was against Max Baer. The other was the second Schmeling fight. The third was against Tony Galento. The fourth was his final shot against Buddy Baer.
I know Louis was strung to the top pitch in his second meeting with Max Schmeling. He came near killing the Black Uhlan in less than a round. You can also gamble that he was all set to wipe out Buddy Baer quickly with his title at stake just before entering army ranks. Louis had made up his mind to put his army uniform on the heavy-weight champion of the world.
He had no such personal feeling against Buddy as he had against Schmeling and Galento. But his fighting pride was riding high.

Mrs. Stephen Bettley
Hostess to Bridge Club
Mrs. Stephen Bettley was hostess to the Women's Bridge Club at an extra meeting Friday afternoon, with Mrs. Hugh Compton of San Antonio, mother of Mrs. Alfred Bettley, as honor guest. Mrs. J. P. Hanway was awarded high score honors for the party, with Mrs. Fred Booth taking second prize and Mrs. Harry Ingersoll guest honors. During the afternoon a beautiful and delectable salad course was served to the several tables of club members and guests. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Anderson have returned from Houston where they have been for the past two weeks.

BETTY SUE KANE WEDS SUNDAY IN CEREMONY AT BROWNSVILLE

Of great interest to Rockport was the lovely afternoon ceremony in which Miss Betty Sue Kane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Kane of Rockport, became the bride of O. W. (Buff) Williams of Rockport and Kingsville, on Sunday at 4:30 p.m. in Brownsville. The simple rites were performed at the Methodist parsonage in Brownsville by the Methodist minister, Rev. Ray, and were witnessed only by members of the bride's and groom's families, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Williams Sr. of Kingsville, parents of the groom, Mrs. U. L. Kane, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Arthur Kane, sister-in-law of the bride. Miss Kane was beautiful in a brown afternoon ensemble, with which she wore brown and white accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. Sunday's bride was a graduate of the 1941 class of Rockport High School, and has been employed in the immediate past with Archer & Archer, attorneys, and the Rockport Abstract Company, while the groom is with the Brownsville Shipbuilding Corporation. The young newlyweds will make their home in Brownsville.

Couple Wed at Otis Yeats Home

At a simple ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Yeats of Lamar, Miss Marie Cope of Asher, Okla., became the bride of Chas. W. Anderson on the evening of February 7. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Wm. B. Priddy of Rockport, and was witnessed by a small gathering of friends. The groom is stationed at Camp Hulen, Palacios, in the Medical Department, and has made his home in Galveston in the past.

Dance Honors Selectees Here Tuesday Night

Johnny Hawes and His Orchestra sponsored a dance at the Rockport Pavilion Tuesday evening honoring the men leaving this month for duty in the United States Army. These selectees were admitted without charge to the festivities.

W. M. U. HEARS PROGRAM ON "HONESTY"

At a meeting at the Baptist Church on Thursday, Feb. 5, the Women's Missionary Union held its bi-weekly missionary study on the theme for the month, "Whatever Things are Honest." Taking part in the program for the afternoon, which was under the direction of the program leader, Mrs. Simon Lee Sorenson, were Mrs. Bessie Rooke, Mrs. Roy Mullinax, Miss Ruth Lipscomb, Mrs. James F. Stanley, Mrs. Mabel Bryant, Mrs. L. A. Sheffield, and Mrs. Sorenson. The program was as follows: Theme for the Year "Thy Will Be Done on Earth;" Topic for Month, "Think on These Things: Whatever Things are Honest;" Hymn for Year, "The Light of the World is Jesus;" Watchword, "Oh Send Out Thy Light and Thy Truth," Psalm 43:3; Bible Study, "Joseph and His Brethren;" Prayer; Hymn, "Loyalty to Christ;" "Honesty," "Honesty and Stewardship;" "Honesty With God;" Hymn, "Truth Try and Prove Me;" Denominational Honesty and Paying Honest Debts; These Are Honest; Training Youth in Honesty; Hymn, "I Gave My Life For Thee;" Discussion of Federated World Day of Prayer Program for February 20; Song "Happy Birthday," sung to two members and a baby; and the closing prayer.

Mrs. Beatrice Bough of Corpus Christi became the bride of A. H. Bough, also of that city, on Feb. 7, at the office of Justice of the Peace Wm. B. Priddy.

Mrs. John Haseman and Mrs. George Lee Brundrett returned Tuesday night from a visit in Dallas and Fort Sill, Okla., where they accompanied Lieutenant Haseman, stationed there. Mrs. Haseman will make her home here in Rockport for a brief time in the near future.

"NUTRITION" and "CHINA" SUBJECTS OF PARENT-TEACHER PROGRAM

Rockport's chapter of the Parent Teacher Association met in regular session Wednesday afternoon, February 4, at the High School Auditorium. Opened with a Song, "The Eyes of Texas," sung by the entire assembly, the repeating of the Lord's Prayer by the same group, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. James C. Herring. An educational talk was given by Mrs. Lawrence on the subject, "Nutrition and Our Lunch Room," opening the program for the afternoon. A unique and thoroughly interesting discussion on China was the next feature, directed by Mrs. Isabel Joyner, a former resident of China and a new member of Rockport's faculty. A study course begun several weeks ago was continued with the discussion of "Tightening Up the Belt," given by Mr. Jim Mobley. During the business session the first grade was awarded the attendance prize for the afternoon. At that time it was also announced that the following meeting's program would be in commemoration of National Congress Founder's Day, to be held on February 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Black and daughter Leah were called suddenly Monday afternoon to the bedside of Mrs. Black's mother in Houston, who is seriously ill. Mrs. Black and daughter remained, but Mr. Black returned home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans Corbin and son left early this week to make their home in Taft, where Mr. Corbin is located in business.

Miss Anne Wood and Marie Johnson and Mrs. Isabel Joyner visited in San Antonio, San Marcos and Austin over the past week end.

Mrs. Ernest Silberisen returned to Rockport Sunday from an extended visit with her sister and family in Brownsville, Mr. and Mrs. Putegnat and family. Mrs. Silberisen was with her sister during a recent operation.

W. B. Friend was feeling much better and able to sit up for awhile Wednesday morning after a week's illness with a sore throat.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hanway have as guests in their home their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Terry of San Antonio.

Dr. M. W. Sherwood of the staff of Scott and White hospital in Temple, and Clyde McDavis of San Antonio are guests in Rockport at Hunt's Court, also visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Booth.

Blueprints For Making Paper Baling Machine Now Available from A. - M.

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 12—Here's good news for communities and organizations which are taking part in the waste paper collection campaign!

Blue prints showing how to build a portable, hand operated waste paper baler are now available. The machine will compress paper to bales 14 by 18 by 18 inches which will weigh around 30 pounds.

"Baling waste paper in the hand press is comparable to baling cotton at the gin for convenience of handling and storage," M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service who drew the plans, pointed out. "Later waste paper trade will compress the small bales into high density bales, such as cotton bales are handled at the compress."

Bentley worked out the design at the request of J. C. Yeary, county agent at LaGrange, who said Fayette county organizations were having trouble handling the large volume of waste paper collected by 4-H Club boys and girls, vocational students, Boy Scouts and others.

The demand for the drawing became so great that it is to be issued in blue print form in the future.

A hand operated waste paper baler in use at A. & M. since 1915 served as the model for Bentley's design. The 27-year-old press is still in first class condition.

Cost of the materials for building the baler will run to around $4. The blue print may be obtained free through county agents or by direct request to the Extension Service, Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Texas.

Rockport Cagers Lose to Mathis Friday Night; Gregory Game Put Off

A hard-fighting bunch of Rockport Cagers went down 26-34 before a lightning fast five from Mathis in a game played in Mathis Friday night.

With three of their players pacing the scoring attack that landed them in a deadlock for high individual tally honors, the Mathis Pirates were led by Dickey, forward, Fox, center and Porter guard, each parting the mesh for 10 points for the Pirate five, and tying for top scoring honors in the evening's contest.

Stewart, a guard, stood out for Rockport and led that club's point-making with nine tallies. Close guarding Porter limited Center Willie Schuster, one of Rockport's leading shot makers to one field goal.

Rockport's game with Gregory, scheduled for this week, has been postponed.

Time Changes Cause Confusion in Rockport School Schedule

War time change in the clocks made the student really show consternation last Monday, Feb. 9. Lunch was eaten an hour earlier and many busses were missed. In regard to the school schedule beginning Tuesday, Feb. 10, school starts at 9 o'clock and ends at 4 o'clock. The only changes in classes will be the third period classes which will be combined with the last period classes.

The sophomore class of Rockport high presented a patriotic assembly program to the student body. Talks on "What to Do in an Air Raid" were given by Claude Roberts and Roy Mullinax. A song was presented by Shirley Johnson. The assembly was opened by the whole student body singing "America."

Sixth Grade Gives Patriotic Program

The sixth grade gave a patriotic assembly program in memory of Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. The first number was a song, "Lincoln and Washington" sung by a group of sixth grade pupils. Next was a story of Lincoln by Wanda Stewart. The following number was a poem, "Washington and Lincoln" by Shirley Lassiter. Next was "Texas, Our Texas," sung by a group of students. Wilbern Hamlin read the American's Creed. Next, Peggy Miner, dressed in red, white and blue, gave a reading, "Hooray for Free America." Following was a clarinet solo by Wilbern Hamlin. The closing number was "The Star Spangled Banner", sung by the audience. Mrs. Joyner accompanied the musical numbers.—Lucille Haynes.

Eclipse of the Rising Sun!

• CHALLENGED in two hemispheres, America faces a tremendous test. But the bombers that will blot out the Rising Sun and smash the Swastika are pouring off our production lines.

The biggest industrial job in all history is being done because America has the electric power for the job!

The electric industry was ready when the crisis came. The business men who manage the nation's electric companies had built up power reserves in advance. They were ready, too, to meet new demands with new construction. They added enough power in 1941 to light one-fourth of all the nation's homes.

We of Central Power and Light Company are glad that the electric industry has been able to help make Uncle Sam so powerful. We'll stick to the job until the blood-red sun has set and a new day follows darkness!

My Week

by Eleanor Roosevelt

DELIGHTFUL STORY
Mr. Rex Stout has sent me a delightful story, for which his sister is responsible. I am going to give it here, exactly as he has written it to me:

"Jim, the young man who used to sell me eggs, dropped in last evening and I asked him how he was making out in his new job at the tool factory. 'Fine,' he said. In spite of the expense of the baby he and his wife were saving money every week.
"I said: 'Of course, you're buying defense bonds with it?' 'No,' he said, 'guess I ought to, but with the baby to think of—such a responsibility, our first baby—we just feel we can't afford it until we've got maybe a thousand dollars put away—then we can start buying defense stamps every week."
"And Jim isn't dumb by any means, he's a very intelligent young man. I wonder how many Americans have the same understanding he had—thinking that when they buy defense bonds or stamps, they are giving something, making a contribution? I explained to Jim that defense bonds are the safest investment in the world today—the best and safest way for people like him and his wife to save money."
Someone suggested to me that defense bonds might well be given a new name and come to be known as freedom bonds, for they will not only pave the way for freedom now, but they may help us to economic freedom in the post-war period.

REAL OBJECTIVES FOR YOUTH
In spite of rather gray looking skies, I left Washington one afternoon, hoping to land in New York about 6:45. But we came down at an unfamiliar airport, and I found we were in Philadelphia and the flight was cancelled. I drove to the station and caught a train almost immediately and reached my house at 9:15, so I might just as well have taken a five o'clock train out of Washington.
I talked to some army boys on the way over, who had just had their orders. One youngster in a sailor's uniform sat just a few seats ahead of me. When he turned around, I felt sure he must have added a few years to his age, for he looked 14 instead of 18. They tell me that the boys coming over here from England to get their training in flying, are very young, ranging from 16 to 20. Some of our own pilots are 20 to 22. It is a curious thing to me, that older people seem so often to accept with complacency these young armies. I rebel, and yet I know an army must be young.
I have a great desire to see our fighting forces organized in the most efficient possible way, by putting each individual in the place where he will serve best, because only in that way shall we shorten the horrible period through which we are living. I want to see everyone in civilian life at the present time, doing the job he is best able to do, and doing it as well as he possibly can.
If women are able and skillful enough to go into factories, I hope they will. I hope that all men, young or old, who work in factories in defense industries, will do the most efficient job that can be done. Whatever the jobs are that people are doing, I want them done by the right people and in the best possible way, because that is the way to win this war.
Every day that goes on, means more young men in every land are dying. I am confident that our cause is just, but I want to see youth free again to fight a different kind of war, a war to find a way by which we all live more decently and happily together.
All of us know that, at the end of this war, that other war has to be fought, and we shall need youth to fight it. I hope that, in every factory today, and in every service camp, young people are discussing the kind of a world they intend to build after the fighting is over.
It may not be the kind of a world in which my generation has lived, but if it achieves the ends for which we are fighting—real freedom for every individual regardless of race, creed or color, economic freedom for every individual who is willing to put his capacities to work of some kind—then these horrible days will have obtained good results. We have to live through them and I accept the necessity, but at the same time I hope we do our share in civilian life to prepare for a different and better future world.
U. S. AIR PILOTS AND THEIR JOBS
Traveling by airplane these days, is extraordinarily interesting, because there is nearly always a quota of pilots aboard returning from having ferried planes to some place. Some of these men are doing a great many hours of flying, more hours than we would have thought constituted real safety in ordinary times. I wonder if, in our communities, people are aware of the fact that these boys from all over the country, are dropping in and out, delivering planes or picking them up.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

DREW PEARSON & ROBERT ALLEN

Washington, D. C.
WARY GRAVY-TRAINER
You can write it down that Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard is going to be very chary about using that gravy-train veto power the farm lobby voted him in the price control bill.

He knows that the White House is still sputtering over his unauthorized endorsement of this lobby scheme at a crucial moment in the senate fight over the legislation. Also, that if he attempts to exercise the power he is liable to be slapped down even harder than when he fronted for the lobby.
Actually, under cover, Wickard has promised in effect to be a good boy.
It didn't leak out at the time, but during the secret deliberations of the joint senate-house conference committee on the bill, he wrote the committee a letter repudiating his previous endorsement and saying he didn't want the veto power over farm prices.
Wickard wrote this letter under White House pressure. He knew he was in bad and he tried to square himself.
But for the administration, the backdown was too late. The damage had been done, for the amendment was in the bill and the lobby's pals on the joint committee were in a powerful position to stand pat.
In this final bitter fight, two Alabama Democrats and a Michigan Republican were responsible for the retention of the gravy-train provision. They were Sen. John H. Bankhead and Rep. Henry B. Steagall of Alabama, and Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan.
As the amendment originated in the senate, under the rules, it was necessary for the house conferees to propose deletion. Steagall, chairman of the house group, publicly makes a great show of being a red hot Administrationite. But behind closed doors of the committee room he adamantly refused to heed Roosevelt's pleas for elimination of the lobby amendment.
Backed by Wolcott, who fought the vital war bill from the start, and with Bankhead running interference in the senate group, Steagall forced the retention of the provision.
Note: The administration's fight was made by Sen. Prentiss Brown, Michigan Democrat, and Sen. John Danaher, Connecticut Republican.
Another Row.
Wickard's fronting for the farm lobby in the price control bill isn't the only row he's had on this score with inner administration leaders.
The papers are full of stories about a big crop expansion program this year to meet the food needs of U. S. war allies. Frequent press releases issue from the busy publicity staff of the agriculture department about grandiose plans.
The real inside is that Wickard didn't get busy on these plans until he was practically ordered to do so by Vice President Henry Wallace as head of the Economic Warfare board.
Wallace sent Wickard two sharp letters demanding prompt action to expand crop production and only then did Wickard bestir himself.
Certain farm elements are against crop expansion, on the ground that scarcity makes for better prices. Working through politically minded Triple A officials, who have a lot of influence with Wickard, the anti-expansionists kept him on the fence until Wallace jarred him off.
Note: Secretly, the AAA politicos also had a lot to do with Wickard's endorsement of the gravy-train amendment in the price bill. The AAAs are jealous of Price Administrator Leon Henderson's authority, want to elbow their way into the war set-up as big shots.

F.D.R. AXES LEWIS
The inside reason why John L. Lewis was not named a member of the three-man C.I.O. peace committee was because President Roosevelt personally blocked it.
When he and C.I.O. President Phil Murray discussed the counter plan that scuttled Lewis' blitz scheme, Roosevelt advised that the new A.F.L. and C.I.O. peace committees be limited to three members each. That would avoid turning the joint committee into a "mass meeting," he explained, and also make it easier to keep hostile Lewis out of the picture.
"If you have too large a committee, Phil," the President added with a smile, "you may appoint Lewis."
"I guess you're right, Mr. President," laughed Murray.
Note: Lewis intimates say he would not have accepted appointment to the committee if it had been offered him.

GENERAL MARSHALL
You weren't seeing things if you saw the news picture of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, attired in the uniform of an air corps officer.
It was him all right and he had on an air corps uniform.
Marshall is not a flier. He is an infantryman. But outside of the air corps, he is the flyingest officer in the army. Whenever possible Marshall always travels by air and is an authority on planes and aerial tactics.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Women's Share of War Is Service
(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Mary has knitted more than one hundred helmets. The small girls knit, too. They are knitting those all-service garments that reputedly are most popular in any cold-weather camp.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS
THE American woman is going to come of age in the next few years. She is going to put aside the grabbing, boasting, playing, unthinking ways of a child, and develop her own consciousness and her own soul.
She is going to waste less food; buy fewer things that she doesn't want; stop throwing aside perfectly good garments for newer garments; stop flocking to poor shows that she doesn't care much about seeing anyway.
She is going to learn the value of the things she has always taken for granted; things she has felt that everyone has and she must have as a matter of course. Money is going to look quite different to her in the next few years, and such commonplace as a good dinner, a safe home, freight and books and friendly faces, suddenly are going to appear to be the miracles they are.

DOING THEIR SHARE
Mary Cates might be someone you know. She might be one of your friends or neighbors. She might, in fact, be you yourself. She is a typical American mother, poorer than some, richer than many. With three children to take care of, neither she nor her husband has much money to spend on entertainment or luxuries. But they manage to buy defense stamps—not just once in a while, when they think of it, but every week. Mary knits, and her little girls are also learning to knit. Her stepson wants to join the Marines. Simple, average, everyday Americans, they do their share to help our country win the victory which may, at long last, mean a permanent peace.

All One Now.
And since immigration has stopped short, and may not begin again for a decade, we're gradually going to unify ourselves into a strong, nationally leveled people. Not Irish-American any more, not Italian-American, not belonging any more to the varied lands that gave our forefathers birth, but all one now, devoted solely to our own country, and the immortal principles that have made her what she is.
We will not buy it cheaply, the world-peace that must come out of all this. There will be no nation in the world that will not be bled white before it arrives. But when it does arrive, if it finds us understanding ourselves and our neighbor and our social obligations better, it will not have been in vain.
This is the story of Mary Cates. I know there are many women like her, but she happens to be the example that has come to my personal knowledge and I want the women who "would love to do something but don't know how to get at it," to hear about her.
Mary is 34, the wife of a man whose income is $2,400 a year. She has daughters 8 and 10 years old, and a stepson who has just volunteered for service in the Marines.
To begin with Mary saves two dollars a week, and takes two more out of the paycheck each month, to buy government stamps. She puts these in her daughters' names. She made a house-to-house canvass of her entire neighborhood—a rather humble one—to pick up games and packs of cards for the boys' club in the nearest camp. She had printed at her own expense a list of things, often thrown away in the household, that would be acceptable gifts for soldiers. At Christmas time she had six soldiers to dinner, and a small present for each was on her tree.
Mary knits helmets steadily; she has knitted more than a hundred altogether. The yarn is given her, but she does the knitting.
Children Help.
The small girls knit, too; they are knitting those all-service garments that reputedly are most popular of all in any cold-weather camp. These are first simply oblongs of knitting about 24 by 22 inches. They are sewed into tubes, to be pulled up the armpits to protect the entire body from cold, or to be drawn over the head to keep throat, chest and shoulders warm.
An old and faithful Red Cross worker, Mary keeps up this obli-

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ONE day recently Marlene Dietrich was called back to Columbia studios for special scenes for "The Lady Is Willing," her new comedy with Fred MacMurray. One bit of action had her being besieged by autograph hunters in front of a theater. As one little girl thrust forward her book the star looked at her closely, saying, "Haven't I seen you before?" She had; "Before I became an actress," said the youngster. "I got your autograph in front of the studio." The "actress" is 11-year-old Carol Anne Lever.

CECILIA PARKER

In the two pictures that were subsequently made, she was referred to as "visiting in New York." The first day that she came back to work, she walked on the set with her baby girl in her arms; shooting couldn't start until every member of the cast had held the infant.
"Here Comes Mr. Jordan," which a lot of people thought was the best picture of 1941, is to have a sequel, known at the moment as "Hellbent for Mr. Jordan." Let's hope that it won't be as disappointing as sequels usually are.

"Able's Irish Rose," heard coast-to-coast over the NBC network every Saturday, has been enacted in every country in the world. The late Will Rogers saw a full production of the play in China, with Chinese "Murphys" and "Levys."
Edward G. Robinson has sold his home studio, Warner Bros., the idea of starring him in "The Death of Jim Gower," which was presented on his "Big Town" radio program recently; it deals with an idealistic but drunken newspaper man.

A drop of water proved to be the most temperamental "actor" in the cast of Columbia's "The Adventures of Martin Eden," the Jack London classic. Representing a tear, the drop of water required seven "takes" to sizzle on a hot iron held by Claire Trevor, the most "takes" of any scene in the picture.
Oona Munson can't get rid of that jinx that's been pursuing her. Her nose was broken when a make-up mask was being fitted to her at Warner Bros.; then she showed up at the "Big Town" broadcast with bandages on four fingers and one leg, from injuries received while she was making a jungle picture at Universal.

Virginia Payne, star of radio's "Ma Perkins," declares that it's the programs with the family background that pay dividends. "Ma" has been on the air for more than 2,500 consecutive performances; "Amos 'n' Andy," "Bachelor's Children," "Pepper Young's Family"—they all go on forever, seemingly. They make stars, too; Don Ameche and Tyrone Power are just two who've graduated to film stardom from them.
When he finished work as "Mr. Cugat," Ray Milland left with Mrs. Milland for a vacation at Sun Valley. Veronica Lake and her husband also headed for Sun Valley, when she finished "This Gun for Hire"; two pairs of skis were fastened to the top of their car. But after a few days of winter sports they yearned for Florida; made the trip in such a rush that, when they reached Miami, the skis still rode the car top. Passers-by stared, thinking them slightly mad, or maybe just ignorant of the fact that they were headed the wrong way.

ODDS AND ENDS—Chester Morris spent two days in a laundry hamper for scenes in Columbia's "Confessions of Boston Blackie" . . . Joe E. Brown's costumes for "Shut My Big Mouth," in which he impersonates a woman, were designed by the creator of Rita Hayworth's screen wardrobes . . . Lew Ayres and Laraine Day, separated in the "Dr. Kildare" series, are to be reunited in a murder mystery film, "Fingers at the Window" . . . Thornton Edwards swears that he got a ticket for speeding when he was on his way to work in "Torpedo Boat," to make a scene in which, as a speed cop, he gives Richard Arlen a ticket for speeding!

This Valentine Cake Goes Straight to Your Heart!
(See Recipes Below)

Cupid's Day

Hearts are king for a day and with these magic little symbols you can do up some magic tricks that will make small entertaining a triumph. You can have a party if you like in the Valentine theme, or you can work in the decorations of hearts, Cupids, red-and-white or pink-and-white color schemes in just serving refreshments.

The idea is to be festive and just gay enough to put you and your family in a good mood. So plan to be on speaking terms with Valentine's day with the star selections I'm including in today's recipes.

If you're really planning a party, any number of ideas offer themselves as a gracious part of the entertainment. For instance, if you're far enough north to have ice, an ice carnival is fun. A masquerade in which the guests come dressed as some of Cupid's famous victims goes over well. A card party featuring games such as "Hearts" or "Old Maid" might answer your needs, or perhaps a dance with heart and cupid decorations in crepe paper.

St. Valentine's Day Cake.
3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add lemon extract. Fold in egg whites quickly and thoroughly. Bake in heart-shaped pan, 9 by 9 by 3 1/4 inches in a moderate (350-degree) oven 65 minutes or until done. Spread rose-tinted Seven Minute frosting on top of cake. Sprinkle moist sweetened coconut on sides of cake while frosting is still soft. Decorate top with cardboard arrow and a heart of cocconut.

Seven Minute Frosting.
2 egg whites, unbeaten
1 1/2 cups sugar
5 tablespoons water
1 1/2 teaspoons light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
Rose vegetable coloring
Combine egg whites, sugar, water and corn syrup in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary beater and cook seven minutes or until frosting stands in peaks. Remove from boiling water; add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. Tint with vegetable coloring.

Valentine's Day Salad.
(Serves 6)
Pimiento
1 1/4 teaspoons gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water

Combine egg whites, sugar, water and corn syrup in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary beater and cook seven minutes or until frosting stands in peaks. Remove from boiling water; add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. Tint with vegetable coloring.

Lynn Says:

Valentine ideas are practical for the celebration of anniversaries even after St. Valentine's day is past.

Recently I saw an anniversary celebration at which a cranberry mold was used. Cranberry jelly cut in heart shapes was placed around the big mold. The number of small hearts corresponded to the number of years the couple had been married.

The heart-shaped cakes and molds of ice cream are much in use for anniversary celebrations and carry out the idea effectively. Heart-shaped candies may also be used to decorate whipped cream or desserts.

- Ice Cream or Sherbet
- *St. Valentine's Day Cake
- *Recipes Given.

1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
Salt and pepper
Dash of cayenne pepper
Lettuce and other greens

Place a border of thin strips of pimiento around the bottom of heart-shaped molds. Place small hearts cut from pimiento in center. Dissolve gelatin in cold water and finish dissolving over hot water. Add cottage cheese, mix well, then celery and seasonings. Fill molds, chill, and when firm unroll on lettuce.

Extra special describes some dishes perfectly, and such is my verdict for this chicken loaf:

Chicken Loaf With Mushroom Sauce.
(Serves 10 to 12)

1 4-pound chicken, stewed, meat diced
1 1/2 cups chicken broth
1 cup milk
3 eggs
Salt and pepper
1/2 cup bread crumbs
Pimiento
1 cup rice

Cook rice in boiling salted water until done. Do not rinse. Beat egg yolks slightly, add to rice. Then add chicken, bread crumbs, chicken broth, milk, stiffly beaten egg whites and seasonings. Butter a loaf pan and dredge with extra bread crumbs. Lay strips of pimiento all along bottom of pan diagonally. Add chicken mixture. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven 1 1/2 hours in a pan of hot water. Allow to stand 1/2 hour in pan after taking from oven before attempting to unroll.

For mushroom sauce, canned mushroom soup may be used. Flavor with the juice of a half lemon and a dash of nutmeg. If you desire to make a mushroom sauce, make 2 cups of medium white sauce, add 1 cup sauteed, chopped, canned or fresh cooked mushrooms. Season this with lemon juice and nutmeg.

Meringues, crisp and chewy, are unexcelled for desserts when main courses are on the heavy side. They lend themselves to all types of decorations and in this instance, you can serve them filled with strawberry ice cream or one of the reds.

Meringues.
(Makes 10 shells)
6 egg whites
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Add salt and vinegar to egg whites, then beat until foamy. Add vanilla, then add sugar, two tablespoonfuls at a time, beating steadily all the while until whites are very stiff. Spoon onto ungreased sheet in a slow oven (250-degree) on an ungreased cookie sheet for 1 hour. Cool.

Heart-Shaped Sandwiches.
Use whichever kind of bread you prefer, and cut into heart shapes with a large heart cutter. Butter and fill with desired filling.

Two choice fillings which carry out the Valentine theme are these: Ham put through the grinder or finely chopped fine and mixed with finely chopped celery and pickle, moistened with mayonnaise. Jellies or jams in red blended with cream cheese are also attractive.

Old Feud Goes On; Cause Forgotten

It All Concerns Great and Little Snoring.

NORFOLK, ENGLAND.—Between two apparently peaceful villages—Great Snoring and Little Snoring—there exists a deep and bitter feud. Set in the heart of the green fields of Norfolk, these villages, only a mile apart, each has its own Saxon church, a huddle of ancient cottages, and the population of each for the most part, comprised of farmers and farm laborers.

The population of Great Snoring numbers approximately 370, while that of Little Snoring is about 150 less.

The only link between the two villages is the parson that they share—the Rev. L. A. Williams who is the rector of both parishes. He lives in the larger village and cycles to and fro between them.

Even the older members of the villages (known for the longevity of its men and women) are at a loss as to what the feud is really about or when it started, but despite this there is no inhabitant of either village who will speak readily to the other.

"It is a feud such as one imagines existed between the Montagues and Capulets," the rector said. "It makes things very difficult for me. Not only do the older members of the villages refuse to co-operate over church and parish affairs, but the younger ones refuse to co-operate in games and sport.

"I have never known a case of a Great Snoring boy falling in love with a Little Snoring girl or vice versa—they seem to be too feud-conscious to think of it."

The rector had hoped that the war and the start of war organizations in the two villages would bring the two communities together. But it hasn't. Great Snoring has joined forces over A.R.P. work and home guard duties with the villages in the north, and Little Snoring with the villages to the south.

And now, Little Snoring—getting ahead of its rival—raised $12,500 during its war weapons week, and, in comparison, Great Snoring raised only $2,800, and so the feud goes on.

'Sleeping Beauty' to Wed 'Prince' Who Kept Vigil

PHILADELPHIA.—The story of Philadelphia's sleeping beauty soon will have the traditional happy ending.

For 23-year-old Ruth Stevenson asked and answered her own question for friends.

"What's the first thing I'm going to do when I'm completely well? Why, I'm going to marry Edward."

Edward is Edward Carney, the sweetheart who kept vigil while she lay in a coma for three months. Ruth was injured Christmas eve, 1940, in an automobile accident. Day after day she lay in a hospital, eyes closed, alive, yet "dead."

Twice surgeons opened her skull and drew off excess fluid under the outer brain covering.

Last Easter the first flickering signs of consciousness returned, and she has improved steadily ever since. Except for a slight paralysis about the mouth, she has virtually recovered.

Joe Is the Only Name This Prisoner Knows

MONTICELLO, N. Y.—One of the prisoners at the county jail travels light—even so far as his name is concerned.

He is called Joe—nothing more. Sheriff Henry Borden determined that the 74-year-old prisoner was not an amnesia victim, but persistent questioning could exact no family name.

Finally the officer got a Russian interpreter and here's the story that came out:

It had been so long since anyone called him anything but Joe, explained the prisoner, that he had just forgotten the rest of his name.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 15

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE HEALING MINISTRY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 2:1-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.—Matthew 14:14.

Man is more than a body. He is made up of body, soul, and spirit. In a physical world where he is so much in touch with physical nature, and the needs of his body are so much before him, he is prone to forget that there is within, a spiritual nature which is his real self.

God is interested in both the physical and the spiritual side of man. He provides all that we need for our bodies, and above all, He meets the all-important spiritual hunger of man's inner being. We find the Lord Jesus in our lesson graciously touching both spirit and body of the palsied man in response to the faith of his friends.

I. Faith Brings a Double Need to Christ (vv. 1-4).

This faith-stimulating story faces us first with

1. An Impossible Situation. Incurably afflicted and helpless physically and far more deeply afflicted spiritually, this man had no one who could heal his body and restore his soul. Apart from the power of God in Jesus Christ his situation was hopeless, and thus he may well typify every one of us except for the grace of Christ.

Furthermore, his circumstances were such as to make it impossible for him to get to Jesus, who was there in his city. Even when his four friends came to his help and bore him to the house where Jesus was, they could not enter because of the crowds. So a journey begun in hope was evidently to close in despair. But wait, these men had

2. An Undeniable Faith. "Where there's a will there's a way." Where there is faith the obstacles may be surmounted. Having begun a good work they persevered in it.

Had these men been bound by convention or custom they would never have put their friend at Jesus' feet. They did try to make a proper entry through the door, but it was blocked. The way to Jesus is often closed, by some custom, a vain philosophy, or a religious ceremony. Let us, like these believing men, open the roof if necessary to bring our needs and our needy friends to Him.

Although mention is made only of the palsy of this man, it is probable that both he and they knew that his need was for a double cure, for he was yet in his sins.

II. Faith Receives a Double Reward From Christ (vv. 5-12).

Immediately Jesus "saw their faith" (v. 5), just as He always does. God is on the lookout for faith and is quick to reward it. The twofold need here brought a double-blessing.

1. Spiritual Cleansing. The man's physical affliction thus proved to be his greatest blessing, for it brought him to Jesus, who cleansed him of all unrighteousness. If he had not been palsied he might never have met the Lord. Suffering, then, may be a means of grace. That is more than a pious platitude, for it has been proved repeatedly in the experience of men and women.

Certain scribes "sitting there" (they were not doing a thing to help) began to reason in their hearts that Jesus was blaspheming because only God can forgive sin. Their theology was faultless and their reasoning was logical, but the premise of their argument was wrong. Only God can forgive sin, but Jesus is God, something which they in their wisdom did not realize or accept.

We (especially young people in school) should be careful that the fluent smoothness of some unbelieving philosopher's logic does not lead us astray, and away from God's truth.

Note also the solemnizing thought that Jesus knew what they were thinking in their hearts. Let us remember that "all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do" (Heb. 4:13). What does He see when He looks into our hearts?

The challenge of these questioning scribes is met by

2. Physical Healing. Forgiving sins was harder than healing the body, but these enemies of Jesus lived so much in the realm of the physical that He had to give them a demonstration of His almighty power which they could see. It was a gracious thing for Him to do, and perhaps necessary in those early days of His life and ministry.

Today, with all the light of history upon the work of God, we need to beware that we do not sit in the seat of the scornful and demand a physical sign before we will believe. God is doing great things in the spiritual realm even in our day, in which Christian men and women may share by faith.

IT'S UP TO YOU TO JUDGE...

Q Most large organizations today have skilled men whose job it is to create a public opinion favorable to the organization and its products. This is known as the creation of good will — one of the most necessary ingredients in business.

Q But the peculiar thing about good will is that it only comes to those who deserve it. In other words, asking the public for good will isn't enough; the business must be worthy of that good will through giving good service, through selling good merchandise, through maintaining fair prices.

Q One of the chief services of advertising to you as a consumer has been in pointing out the manufacturers and merchants who deserve your good will. It has done this by telling you the story of their goods and their policies — and then letting you judge for yourself if they are worthy of your support.

Q Advertising shows you exactly where you can buy, with perfect assurance that here you will find a man who is worthy, a product which is honest, a price which is right.

MEMORIAL
To Army, Navy and Civilians Who Died of Gangsters' Hands
Pearl Harbor—We Won't Forget!

War's destructive pangs have caught us,
We tried so hard to shun;
The yellow termites of Hitler's crowd
Have fired their fatal gun.
Now America, we'll stand united,
Won't stop till we do our best;
Till we show old murdering Hitler
How to clean out termites' nests.
Hitler, the blood thirsty maniac,
His gang we'll wipe out too;
We'll forget all else we have to do
Till gangster murderers are banished too.
Kaiser Bill we wanted not long ago
How had no one can tell;
But this time, Germany, we don't stop,
Till your brands are safe in h-l.
There's goose-stepping Mussolini too,
On our side in seventeen,
Who now aids Hitler's murdering gang.
With their murdering war machine
Who wants to dominate the earth
Have all people under their rule
But America will take no time off now
Till Italy is in h-l's hot pool.
Two thirds of the earth are America's friend
Our way of life won't die;
We won't tolerate murderous dictators
Neither now nor by and bye
Our Nation is free and peaceful,
Let's be sure every American man,
Before America stops Old Glory will wave
Over Germany, Italy and Japan
Pearl Harbor—3000 murdered!
We challenge that Yellow race
Who stabbed that dagger in our back,
Makes the Devil hide his face.
But America's God will lead us out
Of this war with winnings great,
Japan's act December 7, thirty-one,
Great destruction will be her fate.

forces. Others are preparing for occupations essential to the public health and to civilian defense.
"NYA youth learn a job by doing it, in workshops using production methods corresponding to those in private industry. These young people acquire experience and dexterity in the handling of tools and machinery, familiarity with trade terms and mechanical processes, proper work habits, and general shop and safety practices, and, in addition, they also regularly attend related training classes provided by the local school systems in cooperation with the State Board for Vocational Education," Kellam said.
There are now 60 defense work experience centers and projects in operation by the NYA in Texas in which out-of-school youth between the ages of 17 and 24 are given work experience and training in such occupations as lathe operation, welding, radio, sheet metal, forging, foundry, machine shop, ground aviation, and power sewing machine work.
Out of school youth are paid a small monthly wage to enable them to pay their own way while they are employed by the National Youth Administration in Texas getting practical experience and training for industrial jobs.

stores to sell defense stamps. These women, organized by the American Women's Volunteer Services and directed by Mrs. Daniel Kemper, will see that every customer entering the store has an opportunity to purchase the stamps. Galveston is the first city in the United States in which this plan has been adopted. It was selected for the test by the U. S. Treasury, and if the plan increases the sale of stamps it will be inaugurated elsewhere.
The Retailers Defense Committee also announced that it was expanding its organization to include an additional 210 towns in Texas. Forty-four cities with the largest population were first organized for the sale of defense stamps at retail stores, and this campaign has been so successful that it is now being expanded.

Rockport Swings Into Line On Wartime, One Hour Nearer Victory and Peace

The nation turned its clocks one hour ahead at 2 a.m. Monday morning—one hour nearer victory, one hour near peace!

The indecisiveness which marked Rockport's attitude toward the new daylight saving time schedule last week is gradually disappearing, and the majority of the citizens falling into line with the nation and the President in conserving time and power for government use.
But this transposition was not made without mishaps. Miss Ethel Friend, postmaster, realizing that time was at stake, arrived not one hour earlier Monday morning, but two. It was all a mistake, she assures, but she was just too flustered and confused to get everything straight all at once.
And don't forget, Rockport, that the mail still leaves at 9:30 and 4:30 War Time. That means all of you last minute correspondents will have to start those letters earlier than you have in the past.
Eddie Barnard had quite a time getting straight with the new time. His picture show clock, two and a half hours slow since the blackout, at last was set right—with great difficulties involved in climbing up around the clock—but he forgot the new time schedule. So, after a gentle reminder or so from various sources, he again climbed up to the roof this week-end and set it up another hour. He'll be a regular Tarzan soon.

The public schools, changing a policy previously discussed, began classes this week at 8:55 War Time—twenty-five minutes earlier by the sun than in the past. The noon hour comes at 12:00 war time, too, to coincide with the majority of Rockport's citizens new lunch hour. Westergard-Rice Bros. & Company are observing war time on a strict basis, also, it was announced this week.

The new time is designed to get the maximum war production from the daylight hours, and to build the one hour lost Monday morning into a million hours of electrical energy saved.
In the South, the Southwest, the Midwest and the mountain areas where the working day for the laborer and business man is from sun up to sundown, daylight saving time had been ignored since World War I, but city and hamlet all over the nation swung into line on War Time.
The time change came while most of the nation was asleep. Most of the people just set their clocks up an hour Sunday night before going to bed, and got up Monday morning yawning and groaning for the loss of an hour of sleep. But that sleep was missed only for a fleeting moment, and America has awakened even more to wartime needs and sacrifices that must be made for winning our ultimate victory and peace as quickly as possible.

Teacher Deficit In Texas Grows Acute

AUSTIN, Feb. 12—The need for more teachers in Texas is so urgent that some schools may have to curtail programs.
Miss Miriam W. Dozier, secretary of the teachers' appointment committee at the University of Texas, announced that in December there were more than 2,200 calls for teachers almost 100 per cent increase over December, 1940. Some schools "desperately" need instructors, with a few asking for as many as eight new teachers, she said.

Training Course For Defense Age Lowered to 17

Announcement was received this week from Civil Service authorities in Corpus Christi that the age limit for Helper Trainee Classification for employees at the Naval Air Station Assembly and Repair Shops has been lowered to 17. With this announcement, age required for entrance into the National Defense Training classes was lowered to 17 at the time of entrance, or 17 before the completion of the ten weeks training course.
Courses are now offered in welding, boat building, machine shop, aircraft sheet metal, aircraft engines, and aircraft ignition. A supplementary course is given in blueprint reading for machinists and mechanics or anyone employed in a related trade.
During the month of January, 192 new enrollees were received into the defense classes; 124 completed their training. There were 360 in the classes at the end of the month with nearly 1,300 men in training in supplementary classes run for employees at the Naval Air Station.
Application for the defense courses may be made through the United States Employment Service, 402 Lower Broadway, any day from 8 to 5 or through an agent of the Employment Service at Northside Junior School from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday night.

It's Dangerous To Neglect Minor Colds, Ills

AUSTIN, Feb. 12—Carelessness in the treatment of a respiratory disease is not only foolish but very hazardous, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, who warned Texans today to be on guard against such illnesses as lead to pneumonia.
Dr. Cox pointed out that pneumonia can and does strike with little or no warning, and in many instances its forerunner is a simple cold, an attack of influenza, or some other respiratory infection.
"A cold or any infection of the breathing passage which makes one constitutionally weak, especially if accompanied by fever, demands the immediate attention of the family physician," Dr. Cox said. "To self-treat and fight on one's feet a condition of this kind is to endanger life unnecessarily. It is advisable to take all possible steps to avoid respiratory illnesses since they so frequently lead to that most dangerous complication—pneumonia."
Dr. Cox stressed the fact that it is important to build up normal, physical resistance by sufficient indoor ventilation, adequate, nourishing food, outdoor exercise, and sufficient sleep, but added that the family physician should be called immediately if, in spite of such care, a respiratory illness develops.
"Guard against pneumonia which is a communicable disease," Dr. Cox urged. "It may be acquired by direct or indirect contact with a pneumonia patient. Reduced bodily resistance resulting from habitual disregard for normal physical requirements makes pneumonia doubly hazardous," he added, "and I cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of consulting a physician immediately upon the appearance of a respiratory ailment."

NEW PLEASURE CRAFT IS BERTHED AT MORRISON'S
