Hildenbrand Takes Over Duties As Ration Chairman Friday

Herman Hildenbrand, owner of the Sea Gull Cottages, today beame chairman of the Aransas County War Price and Ration Board. He succeeds Donald C. Mc-Bride, who has been chairman of the board since January 25.

Hildenbrand is the third chairman of the Board. J. F. Bullard was the first chairman and served for a year. He was succeeded by McBride, who recently tendered his resignation, stating that his personal affairs would no longer permit him to serve.

Other members of the three-man board are Chas. Cleveland and Jack Hagar. In addition there are gasoline and price control panels. All of these members, including the chairman, serve without pay.

E. C. Morgan and Mrs. Dudley Bracht are clerks, being the only employees of the board which handles all of the rationing and price control work in Aransas county.

Hildenbrand came from, Kentucky to San Antonio in 1917 and took a position with the eves Sash and Door Company, where he worked for 20 years. Six years ago he came to Rockport and built the Sea Gull Cottages.

Before you accept any government check, ask yourself this question: "If this check is returned because of a forged endorsement. can I locate the forger and recover my loss?"

A government check is good only when it is properly endorsed by the person to whom it is issued. If you pay your good money for a government check which bears a forged endorsement, you are the loser

Remember - don't hesitate to question a stranger who asks you to cash a government check. It's YOUR money that's at stake, and most forgers are usually in a hurry. Questions make them nervous.

and sweets don't register at all. "I want to do all I can for the war effort, but with Phyllis' baby coming, and my man home for three | fare. meals a day, I can't spare the time to become a nurses' aid or give eight hours every third day to interceptor command. And so I worry, and I don't sleep, and that makes me a nervous, half-efficient sort of woman who shivers at the radio news, distrusts everyone who is conducting this war, despairs of the world's future, to say nothing of America's, and altogether is becoming a burden on herself and everyone else. I wouldn't write you," the letter ends, "if I didn't feel that thousands of other women, some of whom I know, are sinking into the same morass. Have you any suggestions as to the way out?"

The way out, my dear Mildred, is like a dose of castor oil. It takes a certain amount of courage to pour the nauseous stuff into the spoon, to open the mouth, and gulp the oily disgustingness down. But when your mind and soul are clogged and poisoned you have to take the equivalent of this dose if you are to recover.

Become World Minded

You know the cure, of course. It is to lift your spirit into a higher, less personal, less selfish zone. Instead of wanting safety, security, wealth, happiness for just the few persons you love, you must learn to want them, and to work for them, for all the men and women of the world.

We have to live in the world, in this strange little ball spinning in cosmic space, because there is nowhere else to live. There has always been plenty of food and shelter for all the peoples of the world, but thousands of years ago rulers and kings and soldiers and even the prophets and priests of the Old Testament got off the beam, to use the expressive phrase, and things began to slip away from God's law, and get under the law of man.

Civilization marched steadily ahead; houses were built, food was refined, schools and hospitals and colleges sprang up everywhere; men learned to read. But alongside of all this, evil marched as well. Bloody wars, poverty, hunger were all tolerated in their primitive degrees, and as those degrees developed, they became greater and more widespread, too.

Now, with the new help that civilization and science give us, we have to go back those long weary centuries, and begin at the beginning again. We have to brace ourselves to feel that no matter what the personal cost may be, it will be worth while if we emerge from this time have Papa get that big government apples, then let us remember that whole nations have thrived and grown strong on just such simple

War Alters Everybody

Every family you know will be affected by this world catastrophe. Every life that touches yours will be changed. With all the hope and glory of the months ahead sorrow and loss will strike too. Face it. See yourself as a grain of sand on the great beach of the world; play your tiny part so gallantly that you will never hurt others with your own grief. And pray always.

For we are going to want God's light on the peace to come. We are never going to feed the world, as the visionaries say, because that is impossible. But perhaps we may humbly help the war-torn world to reach that point where it can feed itself. Perhaps with seed and machinery and counsel and lowered tariffs and altered immigration laws we can show the world that we really mean our offers of goodwill. Russia, China, Poland, middle-Europe, these countries are quite capable of feeding themselves, after a few years of reconstruction, and after a hundred years of peace there need not be hunger or destitution anywhere. But we must have that century of peace! And it is only by strong and generous and wholly impersonal thinking that we can even dream of it.

It will not mean our enforcing our ideas, even of various freedoms. anywhere. It will mean that every nation is free to form its own constitution and adopt its own style of government, and that while mighty awakening China keeps an eye on the Orient, and magnificent Russia and England and the Nordic countries watch Europe, our men will return to an America so educated to the real possibilities of republican living that even their own beautiful country will have progressed far ahead of her own old ideals. See it that way, as you go about wheeling the baby carriage or stand at the sink washing the eternal dishes. See yourself as one tiny unit among the millions-the millions of home-making women, and officedrudging men who are resolving in their hearts that nothing but universal good shall come of this conflict, whatever their personal agonies may be. Live a hundred years ahead, when you and I will be dust; plan the world that the baby of Phyllis' baby will live in.

Prayer Constantly Needed Prayer is essential. It is as essential today as air; we can't breathe without it. Don't specialize in prayer; "bring Harry home safe and have Phyllis' baby a boy and of darkness into a peace that is order." Pray for the greater good.

"We settled that I'd come over to see this doctor daily.

"The big alarm came at noon on December 10-we'd pulled up alongside a mine sweeper for water when word came that a large flight of Jap planes was headed toward the Manila area, coming from the direction of Formosa. We pulled away zines. from the tender, out into open water, and fifteen minutes later we saw them-several formations-I counted about twenty-seven to twenty-nine planes in each-two-motor bombers - lovely, tight, paradeground formations, coming over at about 25,000 feet. But, I thought, when our fighters get up there and start rumpling their hair, those formations won't look so pretty. Only where were our fighters? The Japs passed on out of sight over the mountains, and then we began hearing the rumble of bombs-only first we felt the vibrations on our feet, even out there in the water, and we knew something was catching stomach for the job, but it had to hell. But what? Manila? Maybe Nichols Field? Or even Cavite, our own base? We couldn't know."

"I did," said Bulkeley laconically. "I was there, at Cavite. The Admiral sent us a two-hour warning that they were coming-from Formosa, and headed on down in our direction across Northern Luzon. So we hauled our boats out into the bay. They kept beautiful formations, all right. The first big V had after they had unloaded and flew fifty-four planes in it, and they came in at about 20,000, with their fighters on up above to protect them from ours-only ours didn't show! We couldn't figure it. First they swung over Manila and began to paste the harbor shipping. It was a beautiful clear day, and I remember the sun made rainbows on the waterspouts of their bombs. They were from a hundred and fifty to two hundred feet high, and it made a mist screen so dense you could the yard littered with those manhardly tell what was happening to the ships. It turned out nothing much was-they only hit a few.

oted slowly and moved over Cavite -began circling it like a flock of well-disciplined buzzards.

"They were too high to see the bomb bay doors open, but we could see the stuff drop slowly, picking up speed; only as we watched we found we had troubles of our own. Because five little dive bombers peeled off that formation, one by from the Japs, so they would be deone, and started straight down for pending on our six boats for courier us. "So we picked up from the gutters and streets a lot of cans of food we knew we would need-they were from the bombed warehousesstacked them in the boat, and set out."

"I was back there a couple of days later after the fires were out." said Ensign Cox, a good-looking yellow-haired youngster from up-state New York. "They were burying the dead-which consisted of collecting heads and arms and legs and putting them into the nearest bomb crater and shoveling debris over it. The smell was terrible. The Filipino yard workers didn't have much be done and done quick because of disease. To make them work, they filled the Filipinos up with grain alcohol."

"That raid gave me my first big shock of the war," said Lieutenant Kelly, "but it wasn't the damage they did. From over in Mariveles I couldn't see what was happening after the Jap bombers disappeared over the mountain. I got my shock over us on their way home-the same beautiful tight formations-not a straggler. Where was our air force? "From over towards Cavite we could now see that huge column of smoke rising into the sky as the Japs left the scene. "It wasn't until Lieutenant De-Long dropped in at four o'clock in the 41 boat that I knew how bad off we were. fleet doctor. The doctor took off the bandage and began to talk tough. Said he couldn't do anything, and that I was to get that arm to a hospital as fast as I could.

"I was dead set on that raid, but I decided it wouldn't be tactful to bring that up, so I said, 'Aye, aye, sir,' and skipped it. We loaded the boat with records, and then went back to headquarters, where we were told that the Jap convoy off Lingayen included eight transports and at least two battleships (one of these must have been the one that Colin Kelly later got), but that we weren't going to be sent. They were saving us for 'bigger things.' "'My God!' my junior officer said later, 'I didn't know they came any bigger! What do they think we are?' "Anyway the Admiral patted Bulkeley on the shoulder and said, 'We know you boys want to get in there and fight, but there's no sense sending you on suicidal missionsjust now.'

"So that was that, and we went on out across the bay, to our thatched village.

"You might call the next few days quiet for us, although my arm began giving me hell.

"Presently Bulkeley dropped in on us in the 41 boat, bringing us some stuff issued by the navy to replace everything we'd lost at our quarters in Cavite-a shirt each, underdrawers, a few tubes of toothpaste, and razors-two for each boat, one for the men and one for the officers. But with each razor there were only three packages of blades, so we saw beards in the offing. "Bulkeley had heard about my hand from a pharmacist's mate and asked me if I could stick it for two more days until he could relieve me. He himself had to be on call for consultation with the Admiral, while they needed DeLong and his boat for courier duty. I said 'sure.'

"But the next few days were hell. The whole arm began swelling, and my hand was the size of a catcher's mitt. The nights were worse because I couldn't lie down for any length of time. Also I had to keep my arm held up, or blood running down into it would drive me nuts, and it stiffened that way. The doctor at Mariveles kept offering me morphine, but I didn't dare. There might be an emergency where we'd have to get the boats out to sea quickly. Bulkeley had left me in charge, and morphine might make me sleep so hard I couldn't waken for an air-raid alarm. The worst thing was the flies-they kept buzzing around tryin my finger as I held my hand up (TO BE CONTINUED)

whether it be in the state, in the place of employment, in the school, or in the home. He does this for the Lord's sake (v. 13), and even when that authority is in the hands of an unreasonable man. This does not mean that the Christian is to encourage or countenance tyranny and oppression, but that he is loyal to the state and to his employer, even though the present representative be a hard, unjust man. In all well ordered society there will be proper and effective means to correct injustice. But in and through it all the Christian shows his faith by his behavior. Observe that government, in the plan of God, is for the purpose of keeping order, encouraging the good, and punishing the evil (vv. 13, 14). The powerful influence of the Christian Church should keep it in that right channel, or bring it back if it has strayed. Always loyal and obedient, the believer should use his ballot and his personal influence to establish and support good government.

III. Suffering As Christians (2: 19-25).

Christ is our "example" (v. 21). Since some have interpreted this word and the statement "that ye should follow in his steps" as indicating that we are saved by our imitation of Christ, it is well to point out that this would be quite impossible. We would have to begin where He began-He was without sin (v. 22). But we have all "sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23). We need a Saviour-not an example as far as redemption is concerned.

In the ever present problem of suffering, we as redeemed ones do have Christ as our example. He who was sinless and without fault bore the shame and suffering of Calvary without complaint. When He was reviled He did not retaliate, when He was hurt He did not threaten revenge (vv. 22, 23), but was willing to leave the ultimate judgment in the hands of God, who will have the final word.

We ought to do the same when we suffer for Christ's sake. If we suffer because of our own sin or folly, we can claim no credit for bearing it patiently (v. 20). But when we have done well and then are persecuted, we have opportunity to show whether our profession of being followers of Christ really means anything. At this point some Christians lose their testimony and influence by a bitter, vengeful spirit.

These are trying days for the souls of men. In many parts of the world Christians are forced to drink the bitter cup of persecution. To the glory of God we record the fact that they are doing it heroically and in a true Christian spirit.

At the moment, we wondered just what would have happened if Tunney, Dempsey and Louis together had entered his cage to throw right and left hooks, plus straight jabs or right crosses.

Tunney has always insisted that if you nailed a gorilla squarely on the jaw he couldn't take a punch and a quick collapse would follow. That could be true. But tangling up with 600 pounds of cat-like quickness and jungle ferocity still leaves Gargantua 1 to 3 in our book, or maybe 1 to 10.

Slow Courting

So far there is no early prospect of any little Gargantuas arriving on the scene. His mate is still in the next cage, where steel touches steel, but his trainer has been unable to detect any fondness on either side. "It may take another year," one trainer said, "to bring about their friendship, and it may take longer. There's also the chance that Gargantua might prefer his bachelor life on to the finish. We can't afford to take any such risk right now." Gargantua apparently has a disposition composed almost exclusively of vitriol and TNT.

Pilot Buries Gems After Air Crash

Thieves Dig Up Cache, Get $80,000 in Diamonds.

MELBOURNE .- Three men are being held in connection with the theft of $80,000 in diamonds from a cache of more than $1,500,000 worth of the gems buried by a wounded Dutch pilot after his plane, bringing evacuees and the precious stones from Java, was shot down by the Japanese over northern Australia last year.

The defendants, according to Aneta, official Netherlands news agency, are John Palmer, a soldier and beachcomber character, accused of stealing the diamonds, and James A. Mulgrue and Frank A. Robinson, charged with unlawfully receiving part of the loot.

Comm. Ivan Smirnoff of the Royal Dutch airlines was about to take off in one of the last planes to leave Java when he was handed a packet containing the diamonds, to be delivered to the Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

Near Broome. in northern Australia, Japanese raiders intercepted the plane and shot it down at Carnot bay. Four passengers were killed and Smirnoff, with six wounds in his body, buried the diamonds. Later attempts to find them were unsuccessful. Last May, according to the Aneta report, Palmer walked into an army recruiting office in Perth to enlist. Before he did so he produced a sugar canister containing $1,500,000 of the diamonds, which he said he found on the beach north of Broome. Authorities charge, however, that Palmer held out $80,000 of the gems. subsequently turning $7,300 worth over to Malgrue and Robinson.

Employment in the Norfolk Navy Yard, which is to be served by the Portsmouth trailer community, is due to increase about 40 per cent in the next few months. New Electron Microscope

Reveals Smoke Particles LONDON .- A new electron microscope, powerful enough to break down smoke into particles heretofore indistinguishable, has been designed by Prof. L. C. Martin of the Imperial College of Science in collaboration with Metropolitan Vickers Electrical company, it was disclosed.

The device uses a beam of electrons instead of a beam of light. For "lenses" the electron microscope uses electrostatic and magnetic fields which refract the electron beams much as glass operates in ordinary optical instruments. The image can be reproduced on a fluorescent screen or photographed.

Washington, D. C.

Back in the summer of 1940. I sat in a chair under a whispering tree and looked out over a wide and barbered lawn. The mountains were about us. We were resting in a nest carved out of the wilderness and equipped with all the luxuries that a pampered human could demand. Lovely, indolent women in sports dresses sat at tables under colored umbrellas. Handsome, indolent youths in blazers lolled beside them. Negro servants padded about with tall, cooling and expensive drinks.

I call it a "nest." I belonged there just like a cuckoo but I enjoyed it. It was all right. It helped circulate the money (I was a guest at a bankers' convention). But I thought back. Six months before I had ridden in an army transport plane over shuddering Europe. I looked about and saw the easy, harmless but useless life about me, made possible by the easy harvesting of America's riches.

I sighed (a little enviously) and said to myself: "This can't last."

It is a strange coincidence that today, at this very same spot, representatives of the United Nations are gathering to try to write the prescription for the third freedomfreedom from want.

This gathering isn't concerned with summer resorts de luxe although it meets at one. It is concerned with the proposition: We must raise the standard of living all lead him to it. over the globe so that the underfed can produce enough of their handiwork to exchange it for enough to eat-something they just never had before.

It is just too big for me to grasp, but what's a heaven for, asks Browning, if our reach doesn't exceed our States air forces have established grasp?

Wilson predicts that before the war is over, 35 per cent of America's three billion dozens of eggs will be treated for processing annually. And so the fragile egg, formerly shipped only short distances, can travel anywhere. How great the American market for dehydrated eggs will be depends on to what extent the consumer takes to the idea, undoubtedly world consumption will increase because of the excellent lend-lease sampling and the ease of shipment. You may not be able to deliver your quart of milk from the Wisconsin milk shed to the Hottentot's front porch but you can get your dried milk or dehydrated eggs there-if you can adjust things so the Hottentot can produce enough to trade for what you have to sell. This applies to many other products. At present, if everybody could buy them, all the shirts made in peacetime wouldn't produce a shirt and a half per back. It's the old story right down the line—we can invent the machinery to make anything. We are away behind in our inventions to improve the human lot. It's no harder but it takes more imagination. surpluses, shifting crops to balance supply and demand, maintaining ever-normal storehouses of non-perishable crops, adjusting processing of perishable crops, developing new markets, taking care of relief in devastated or stricken areas, advising and assisting the poorer population groups to increase their efficiency and consumption.

In other words, these people who have spent hours and months and devoted arduous labor to working out this idea are trying to furnish the plan for economic machinery to hold up the hands of the political effort of a league of nations, new style-the bone and sinew, the bread and beef to feed a society of nations joined together under one political umbrella of world co-operation.

Such an idea is laughed out of court in advance by the folk who talk of crazy dreamers, impractical long-hairs and the like. Maybe it is impossible. But a lot of people are saying: "Well, for heaven's sake, let's try it, let's try anything -nothing can cost more in blood, sweat and dollars than war."

The United States proved a lot of things were possible under the sharp lash of war which would have been sneered into oblivion if they had been blueprinted before Pearl Harbor.

Take an egg, for example. Nothing up our sleeves. Just an egg.

"Before the war," says Frank Wilson of the department of commerce, "when Biddy, the hen, laid an egg in Cole county, Missouri, her subsequent cackle of satisfaction was based on the anticipation that that egg might get as far as Sedalia, St. Louis or, on rare occasions, New York."

Then Hitler dreamed up a world war and somebody dreamed up a thing called lend-lease. Today, Biddy's product goes around the world.

If the Japs have gone by the time you read this, there will be a sigh of at least partial regret in some quarters. The reason is this. As long as the Japs are on an island like Kiska (or Guadalcanal) more Japs have to try to reach them, to bring them supplies and keep them alive. And while that goes on, the Americans have a chance to keep enemy wounds open. Japs themselves are expendable. They are cheap, the sun god has a lot of them and he's generous in spending them. But he hasn't so many ships or so many supplies. So killing Japs doesn't bother the Mikado nearly as much as sinking his ships. That is one reason the upturning of the last Jap toes on any of their stolen, far-flung bases will be a source of at least partial regret. There is another reason. Day in and day out, from Vancouver and Seattle, secret ships, loaded with supplies for our Russian ally have Adv. been calmly sailing away past the Jap-held Kiska and Attu, under the Japanese guns in the narrow waters that lead to Vladivostok. Now that was a little matter approved by Russia and Japan who hate and fear each other privately but officially are "friendly nations." The question arises now: When and if we trounce the little men out of the stronghold they have dug with their fingernails in the rocky Attu and Kiska, will they be as willing to let us keep on shipping supplies to Russia? Perhaps it doesn't matter. By that time, which may be now, the Scientists invented dehydration and situation may have changed. The does change and thanks to the cen-

Last year the possibility of growing oats for fodder was demonstrated by the yield from an experimental planting of 60 acres. Orchard trees bloom during the short Arctic summer. They are still very young and bear no fruit at present. When you see news photos of soldiers "off duty" in camp or behind the battle-lines-notice how often you'll see them smoking a cigarette. There's a good reason for that.
