Midget Gets Insurance Policy

W. L. Wilburn of Taft, field representative and vice-president of the well-known insurance company-Cage's South Texas Benefit Association, with home office in Taft-is shown in the above picture delivering a policy to a charming midget whose home is in Aransas Pass with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver S. Cooke. The little lady is Miss Edna Cooke, who is 49 years of age and weighs 34 pounds. She is 26 inches tall. She is a pleasant and apparently happy lady. She readily and smilingly agreed to have her picture made accepting the policy from Mr. Wilburn. When Mr. Wilburn asked if she minded telling her age, she smiled and promptly answered, "Oh, not at all; I am 49 years old." Apparently enjoying the best of health, Miss Edna is witty and causes one to feel at ease in her presence. She has traveled in all parts of the United States with carnivals and circuses, and has a wonderful memory of her experiences on the road. She has an alert mind and charming manner. She is perhaps the only midget in South Texas to possess a life insurance policy. Cage's South Texas Benefit Association has policyholders in some 15 South Texas Counties. L. A. Cage of Taft is president of the company. He is one of the best known and most successful business men of this section of the

Sam's Hens Wear Spectacles!

Yes, it's a fact! Sam's brood of two dozen hens are wearing spectacles - which he bought from a mail-order house in Capitol City.

Sam says it works (and big poultry raisers say so, too). The hens see each other through soft colored glasses, and instead of fighting and picking at each other. they go around placidly, gain weight, and lay more eggs.

Makes me almost wish we could have rose-colored glasses for human beings, too. So that instead of quarreling and criticizing, like we do so much of the time, we'd live and let live in contentment.

From where I sit, the human race wastes a powerful lot of time in wrangling over minor issues . . . whether a man should drink beer or cider... whether a woman should wear slacks or skirts . . . instead of seeing each other through "spectacles" of tolerance that enable us to live-and-let-live like Sam's brood of chickens.

Molasses made from citrus pulp is a good and cheap replacement for part of the grain in fattening cattle, according to tests conduct-ed recently at College Station by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Steers fed balanced rations with 2, 3 and 4 pounds of citrus molasses respectively replacing equal amounts of ground Martin milo during the 112-day trial made about the same gain as steers fed mile without molasses. The mile was priced at $70 and the molasses at $42 per ton.

There was no trouble getting the steers to eat the molasses. It was not noticeably laxative, and it seemed to improve the hair coat.

One lot of steers made an average daily gain of 2 pounds per head on a daily ration of 11.08 pounds of milo, 1.5 pounds of cotton-seed meal and 11.9 pounds of mixed hay. Lots receiving 2, 3 and 4 pounds of molasses made average daily gans of 1.78, 1.95 and 1.96 pounds daily respectively.

The steers fed no molasses made a net profit of $10.16 per head. The steers fed 2, 3 and 4 pounds of molasses made a net profit of $7.97, $14.79 and $14.97 per head respectively. The carcasses of all 4 lots graded about the same.

Citrus molasess is a by- product of the grapefruit and orange juice canning plants. In the early days it cost around $2.50 a ton to haul away the pulp from the plant. Now the pulp is dehydrated and made into livestock feed after the citrus molasses has been extracted

> The Metasequoia, scientists believed, disappeared from the earth about the time of the dinosaur and other giant reptiles. Then in February, 1946, H. H. Hu, a Chinese forester, discovered that the species were growing in a 100-mile area of the Szechuan and Hopen provinces. Harvard joined in an expedition which confirmed the discovery, and this year obtained some of the seed, which are being distributed to recognize silviculturists for experimental

ROY HINTON Expresses Appreciation

I wish to express my appreciation for the confidence placed in me by the good citizens of the newly organized Better Government League. I think that it is badly needed here and will bring about more enthusiasm in our elections. That the organization of this league will bring better and more equitable government to the county as a whole.
