

Along The Waterfront

Shorty Townsend took Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kurl, of Fulton, fishing Monday, and they came in with 84 very nice trout.

Out at Rattlesnake Point last Thursday, Fred Procknow of San Antonio caught eight trout that would average around two pounds apiece, and one nice red. J. B. Brice, of Luling, strung 28 trout; J. V. Geren, Corpus Christi, landed seven big specks, wade fishing.

On Friday, Scoots Robinson of Odem, and Carter Ezell of the same place, fishing at night, strung a 7-pound red, eight more reds that weighed 38 pounds, one 3-pound flounder and a 3-pound trout.

Saturday, Glen Smith of Corpus Christi, tallied with a 4-pound drum and three trout averaging 3 1/2 pounds. Frank Conaway, San Antonio, caught four trout that would run around 3 1/2 pounds each, and one 4-pound drum.

On Sunday, Mrs. Maude Janes of Uvalde, caught two reds and one 6 1/2 pound trout. The three fish totaled 17 1/2 pounds. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris of Fort Worth, fishing both Saturday and Sunday, caught eight drum that weighed a total of 15 pounds.

Monday, Scoots Robinson, Odem, was back again and fished at night, catching two trout, one of which weighed 9 pounds, two reds, and a couple of flounder. The whole string totaled 25 pounds.

Fishing Monday and Tuesday, T. Langlin and M. O. Leggett, Dallas, caught 83 pounds of trout, which averaged slightly better than 3 pounds each. Clyde Trusty, Corpus Christi, caught two trout, one that weighed 5 1/2 and the other four pounds. Fishing together, H. T. Young, Minneapolis, Minn., and H. S. Schick, of Tarzan, Texas, caught two trout weighing 5 and 4 pounds respectively.

Fishing Monday and Tuesday, H. T. Friesenhahn, Clarence Friesenhahn, Dick Gemblar, and Dick Gemblar Jr., of San Antonio, landed 79 trout. Wednesday, Tom Studer, Corpus Christi, caught a 7 1/2-pound trout.

Over at Mills Wharf catches were picking up, also. Last Thursday, Red Lewis, Houston, fished with Harry and caught 37 trout; Saturday, Harry fished Clifton Mier, San Antonio, and they came in with 43 trout and three gafftops.

Harry said that there were two parties out Sunday that he hadn't gotten a count on, but that both brought in strings of fish.

Monday, he fished Elmer Gustafson, Gonzales, and came in with 93 trout. Tuesday they went out again and caught 63 specks and one gafftop.

Harry fished W. C. Hines, Houston, Monday, and they brought in 78 trout and three gafftops. Tuesday, Harry had Jimmy Eaton, San Antonio, and they strung 53 trout and one gafftop. Jimmy Mills fished W. C. Hines again, and they hooked 59 specks.

Last Thursday, Fred Christilles fished J. D. Smith, Hillsboro, Hayes Harper, Cleburne, and John Vance, Waco, and the party caught 41 trout. On Friday and Saturday he had a group of Singer Sewing Machine people from Dallas, and the party caught 35 or 40 fish. Sunday he fished J. L. Chambers, Temple, and H. N. Chambers of San Antonio. The party caught 21 specks. Wednesday Dr. Kelloway and party, Houston, fished with him and they caught 10 trout and 10 gafftops.

Rockport Fire Department Presented Stop Watch By Mitchell's Jewelry

The Rockport Fire Department was presented with an official timekeeper's stop watch at their regular Thursday evening drill period by Garvin Mitchell, of Mitchell's Jewelry, in appreciation of the work the department is doing.

The watch will be used in drill to determine the time necessary for equipment to get in to action, and for timing drill teams who are practicing to compete in district meets of South Texas fire departments.

Regular supervised drill on all fire apparatus is required by the state, as well as regular inspection and certification of the pumps and other apparatus. This certification is one of the determining factors in setting the city's insurance rate. Rockport enjoys one of the best in the state for the size of the town.

All active members of the department are required to learn all phases of fire fighting and rescue work by practice during these drill sessions, and their proficiency was recently demonstrated in the district meeting at Aransas Pass.

The presentation of the watch brought out another need of the department, funds to pay for the necessary coverall uniforms used to protect clothing during the drills. These are being financed by the members' entertainment fund, firemen paying the cash back in installments. Uniform caps are to be financed in the same manner.

Much of the equipment of the department has been obtained through the efforts of the members themselves.

The new $1250 siren and hose drying tower was erected at a cost of only a little over $300. Ted Little sold the framework to the department at cost as government surplus, about one-fourth the price it would have taken to fabricate the material. Minton Welding Shop did the welding at cost. Rockport Ready-Mix Concrete, Ankele Hardware, Rockport Electric Co., Western Auto, and Picton Lumber Co. all furnished labor and material at a generous discount.

However, there is one item that the department needs at this time that the boys can't make. Doors for the fire station are almost a must, to protect equipment, but at present the rear door will not close, and the front door, despite all the time and care lavished upon it, takes several men to close it. As a matter of fact, its dangerous, and Fire Chief Dick Fox broke his arm Monday night, helping with this chore.

Firemen say that they can't make the present doors work, and that the operating finances of the department are not sufficient to cover the cost of new ones.

Maybe the patron saint of volunteer fire departments needs to look into the matter.

report, amounted to $1,248,928.50; for the first quarter of 1956 they totaled $1,248,710.50. Obligations of states and other political subdivisions have risen from $273,956.65, in January, to $332,456.03 at the first of April. Loans and discounts, at the end of 1955, amounted to $440,535.11 but, by April 1, had dropped to $429,353.42.

Commissioners Designate School Temporary Court

The Commissioners' Court, at its regular meeting on Friday, designated the high school auditorium as a temporary court room, during the time the new courthouse is under construction.

After some discussion, it was also decided that surplus furnishings of the old courthouse should be sold at auction from the east door of the county barns at 2 p. m., April 24, and an advertisement covering this will be found elsewhere in this issue.

It was decided at this meeting that the county dusting plane should be sold, or traded for a smaller one of the type needed in mosquito control work, and Judge John Wendell was authorized to make the necessary arrangements for the sale and purchase.

The court then designated the Elementary School auditorium, in Rockport, as a meeting place for the Board of Equalization for oil companies.

Officials From Three Counties Attend Aransas Pass Dinner To Discuss Causeway Problems

County officials from Aransas, Nueces, and San Patricio counties, along with city officials from Port Aransas, Rockport, Ingleside, Sinton, Corpus Christi, and Aransas Pass, were guests of the Aransas Pass Junior Chamber of Commerce this week to discuss problems of constructing a new causeway between Aransas Pass and Port Aransas.

Mayor Pat Kindle, of Aransas Pass, was master of ceremonies at the dinner meeting, and Judge John Young, of Nueces County, the principal speaker.

Earlier the same day, the Commissioners' Court of Nueces County had delayed until May 14 a hearing on a $1 million bond election for construction of a new Port Aransas Causeway. The hearing, on a petition entered by residents of Road District 4 in Nueces County, was continued to allow officials of the area to consider a proposal by the State Highway Department to build the project.

Nueces County Judge Young said that this action had been taken to give all interested parties and governmental agencies to take action on the matter.

Young said he has heard unofficially that all but one of the other governmental agencies have formally accepted the state's proposal.

All Nueces County commissioners were present at the meeting, as was Aransas County commissioner J. H. Mills and Sheriff A. C. Shivers. Port Aransas was represented by Mayor Ed Tarrant and its city council; Ingleside's mayor and council were there; Sinton was represented by the press and various civic leaders; Mayor Pat Kindle and the city council of Aransas Pass represented that city; and from Rockport Mayor Chester Johnson, Aldermen Earnest Harriet and Roy Rogero, City Attorney Joe Caldwell, Arthur Bracht, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Harold Picton attended.

Tom Foster, District Highway Engineer, represented the Highway Department.

Also present was state representative Harold Parrish.

Bell Reports On Some of Area Waterway Projects

In a letter dated April 12, Congressman John Bell reports on some of the waterways projects in this area. He says:

"I received word today that the Corps of Army Engineers has completed its survey on the La Quinta Channel project. The engineers' report is favorable to deepening and widening the channel and turning basin to a 36 foot depth and a 200 foot width.

"Army Engineers' report is also favorable to enlarging the La Quinta turning basin on the south side to provide a basin 800 feet by 1000 feet with a flared entrance 1400 feet long.

"This favorable recommendation has been sent to a higher authority, the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, for approval. I have discussed the matter of the hearing before the Board of Army Engineer Corps authorities, and have been advised that there won't be sufficient time to bring this project before the board at its next meeting, April 27, 1956. It is hoped that we can bring this project before the board for hearing at their June meeting, but if that is impossible I will exert every effort to get this project set for hearing before the board during this session of Congress in time for it to be included in the Civil Functions Appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year."

Radar Site Cleared, Ready For Concrete

Access Road Cleared from Highway 35 and from Copano Bay Side; Utilities Including Power, Sewage, Water and Gas Next Steps

The site of the 813th ACW Station has been cleared of all brush, access roads have been bulldozed into the location, and cement will be poured this week on some foundations, according to representatives of the Ricks Construction Company, of Austin, who were low bidders on the job.

Next steps in the construction program will be installation of the utilities including power, gas, water, and sewage, and once these are completed, actual building will commence, with a new structure being started approximately every two weeks, until all thirteen are underway.

First on the list are the Airman's Dormitory, the Bachelor Officer's Quarters, Dining Hall and Community Building, all of which will probably be ready around November 1, and which will be followed in quick succession by the other buildings necessary to house the station.

Water for the site will be furnished by two wells now being drilled, and by a water storage tank which will be one of the first items constructed.

On the job for Ricks Construction at the present time are Buddy Hoes, of Austin, who will act as superintendent, and Bob Fritts, also of Austin, who is estimator and assistant superintendent. Dick Ratliff, Engineer in Charge, acting for C. C. Pollard of Victoria, who is Project Engineer, is Inspector for the Government.

Ricks Construction has the main contract, and will use as much local material and labor as possible, including cement from Rockport Ready-Mix. Most sub-contractors are from Corpus Christi.

Although pouring will start this week, it will probably be the first of June before work is fully underway, the superintendent said.

SEAMEN LOSE FIRST GAME

The Rockport Seamen, local semi-pro ball team, opened the 1956 season by taking a trouncing from the San Diego Owls on Sunday, April 15. The Seamen, who were just getting underway after a winter without any practice, came out on the short end of a 9-4 score.

The Owls were only tagged for three hits during the entire game, and the fourth run came in on an error.

John Chupe Jr. and Robert Garcia were pitchers for the Seamen. Valentine Flores made the best hit, with a booming triple deep into center field, with two men on base.

The Seamen still need a game for next Sunday, and are trying to get out of town, as the local field is not yet in shape.

The Seamen lineup: M. Pena, rf.; P. Flores, lb.; Pete Ramirez, lf.; J. Chupe, p.; V. Flores, c.; D. Garcia, ss.; W. Chupe, cf.; U. Chupe, 2b.; L. Falcon, 3b. Substitutes are R. Garcia, p.; J. Aleman, 2b.; and A. Pena, lf.

Oil Formations Get Strange Names From People, Places

Ever wonder how an oil-producing formation gets its name? To a layman, the news that a certain well has been completed in the "Frio" may sound puzzling. Terms like that, however, are an everyday part of the language of oilmen.

The name "Frio," which means "cold" in Spanish, comes from the Frio river. Early settlers of Texas doubtless found the river chilly, and gave it an appropriate title. Near the Frio river, excellent outcrops of a distinct formation were found many years later and named for the locale. Great Texas oil fields like Friendswood, Anahuac, Sugarland, Tom O'Connor, and Hastings, plus others in Louisiana, produce today from the Frio formation.

In like manner, many other famous producing sands and formations — Woodbine, Ellenberger, Tuscaloosa, Wilcox, Cockfield, Edwards—have received their names in sometimes unusual ways.

A number are named for towns or counties near which they occur and were first well defined by geologists. Their geographic names, in turn, come from pioneers' names, or from descriptive appellations. Many names are of Indian or Spanish origin, particularly in the South and Southwest.

A formation usually gets its name when a geologist, or someone else concerned with its nature, described it and uses his term in published matter or in some other form of work. If the name "sticks," it will soon become common usage in geological circles, and will occur in bulletins such as those put out by the United States Geological Survey.

There are often conflicting interpretations of what is to be accepted, however, and arguments lasting for years have been waged over whether or not a certain formation is of the same age as another, miles away and previously named. Even a typographical error can lead to confusion, as in the case of a formation called "Cherry limestone" originally described in a geological report as "cherty limestone."

Near the center of Texas the Edwards limestone is the formation from which several fields produce. The limestone was named for the Edwards Plateau, which in turn was named for Haden H. Edwards, an early Texan who fought in the state's battle for independence and served as a representative to the First Congress of the Republic. The Luling, Darst Creek, Salt Flat, Imogene and Charlotte fields produce from the Edwards.

In East Texas, the Woodbine sand is the most famous formation, responsible for production in the tremendous East Texas and Hawkins fields. Outcrops at the small town of Woodbine in Cooke county, Texas, are basis for its name.

Three groups of sands, shales, and limestones — Canyon, Cisco, and Strawn—are the key to much of the production in North Texas. All three are named after towns. Subdivisions of the three are among the most colorfully named strata on record.

Thrifty, a member of the Cisco series, was named after a village in Brown county. When founded in 1868, the town was named for the industrious spirit and frugality of the settlers. Gunsight, another Cisco stratum, received its name from a town in Stephens county, which in turn was named for the nearby Gunsight mountains. The mountains looked to early Texans "as straight as a gun barrel, with a projecting peak representing the gunsight," say the history books. Still another Cisco member, Nimrod, was called after a town in Eastland county where a Biblical character was inspiration for the name.

The Canyon series includes, among others, the Ranger and Wizard Wells sands. Both are named after Texas communities. The town of Ranger was so titled because it was built up around a Texas Ranger camp, and Wizard Wells because flowing mineral wells close by were supposed by the occupying Kiowa Indians to have medicinal value.

In West Texas, the Wasson and Slaughter fields produce from San Andres limestone, named for the San Andres mountains. The mountains' name is Spanish for "Saint Andrew." The Yates field produces from a sand also named Yates after the man on whose land the field was found.

A formation called Seven Rivers, the name of which originated in New Mexico, is responsible for production in the Hendricks field in West Texas. Ellenburger limestone, named for the Ellenburger Hills in Burnett county, Texas, is the producing zone in the Big Lake and Yarbrough & Allen fields.

Rocks of the Devonian period are also becoming important in New Mexico and West Texas. The Devonian period was named after the county of Devonshire in England, where formations of that time were studied more than a century ago.

In Alabama, the formations most important for oil production at present are the Tuscaloosa, Eutaw, and Selma. All three were named for towns in the state. The word "Tuscaloosa" like many another in North America, goes back to the Indian tongue. "Tuska" meant warrior in the Choctaw language, and "lusa" meant "black." Chief Tuskalusa was a gigantic Choctaw chieftain who was defeated by Hernando De Soto in 1540.

Mississippi fields also produce from the Tuscaloosa, Eutaw, and Selma formations, but another important group is the Wilcox. The group is named for Wilcox county, Ala., where it is extensively developed.

Offshore and southern areas of Louisiana produce from many sands which are often named after fossils and then numbered. In the Duck Lake field, for example, a series of sands lies within the Uvigerina Lirettensis zone, another is the Bigerina Floridana series. For convenience, geologists refer to them as UL No. 3, No. 4, or BF No. 4, No. 5, and so on. Sometimes, alphabetical classifications subdivide even the numbers.

Another important formation in Louisiana and Texas is the Cockfield, the sands of which are frequently found oil-productive in the central part of the state. Cockfield Ferry on the Red river, near Petit Ecore in Louisiana is responsible for its title.

Marine News

The Fish and Wildlife Service has issued Fishery Leaflet 434—FACTS ABOUT RED TIDE, which describes and answers questions regarding this phenomenon. Red Tide is the popular name for the colored water and mass fish kills that have occurred off the Gulf coast of Florida, Texas and Mexico, as a result of overgrowth of a microscopic marine organism known as Gymnodinium brevis.

Copies of FL-434 — FACTS ABOUT RED TIDE may be obtained by writing directly to the Division of Information, Fish and Wildlife, U. S. Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

For the 72 hours ending April 16, Rockport and Fulton produced 16,800 pounds of shrimp tails, according to a release by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. This is the first time there has been any significant production in this area since the first of the year.

However, for the week ending April 13, shrimp landings were off compared to the previous week. The total for Texas was 107,800 pounds of tails. Of this Aransas Pass produced 26,100 pounds. Brownsville accounted for 30,400, but Corpus Christi reported only 600 pounds. No production at all was reported from Freeport; Galveston landed 2,900 pounds of tails; Palacios and Port Arthur produced none, and no production was recorded from Sabine Pass.

Port Isabel listed landings of 8,300 pounds and Port Lavaca accounted for 800.

Paper, the most common basis of all printed matter, has a long and complex history. The Egyptians, followed by the Greeks and Romans, used papyrus. The Chinese, as usual, perfected a paper in 105 A.D. East Indians made books of palm leaves; Semitic races of skin. In 1000 A.D., Cairo merchants used nummy wrappings (stolen by Arabs from the pyramids) as wrapping paper. Aztecs were using paper when Cortez invaded Mexico.

Tommy Cron To Receive Degree In June at NTSTC

DENTON — Most North Texas State college students will tell you that maintaining an "A" average is a full-time job, but Tommy Cron, senior education major from Rockport, is doing that and more.

Cron, the 1952 valedictorian of Rockport High School, and the son of Mrs. C. T. Cron, in addition to keeping a high grade average in the college classroom, teaches a class of his own at nearby Northwest High School where he is a student mathematics instructor.

At college, Tommy is an active member in various campus organizations. Among these are Alpha Chi, all-college honorary scholastic society; Kappa Mu Epsilon, national mathematics honor society; Future Teachers of America, and Kappa Delta Pi, an honorary education society of which he is local treasurer.

Cron also finds time to grade papers for college mathematics classes and is one of the top four players on the North Texas varsity tennis team, the latter a task which requires everyday practice sessions.

After receiving his high school diploma, Tommy attended Del Mar College before transferring to North Texas. And it was at Del Mar that he started the practice of crowding his college schedule. While commuting daily for two years the distance from Rockport to Corpus Christi, Tommy still managed to rank second scholastically among the sophomore graduates, play number one on the conference championship tennis squad, and write for the college newspaper. He was also a member of numerous campus clubs and organizational bodies.

Last year, his first at North Texas, Cron ranked ninth scholastically among the school's 5000 students.

Tommy will receive his bachelor of science degree in June and after that he would like to someday coach tennis and teach math in a high school much like the one from which he graduated in Rockport. And just as he has managed to find time from making "A's" in college to do all sorts of work as well as engage in extracurricular activities, Tommy hopes that wherever he teaches he will be able to keep doing an A-1 job and even a little better.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The above story on Tommy Cron was prepared by his roommate, Grady Phelps, who is a journalism major at NTSTC in Denton.)

Shrimp Vessel Efficiency Subject of Study By U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service

Shrimp vessel efficiency has now been the subject of study by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service for a long enough period to justify a partial report, says the Bulletin of the National Fisheries Institute.

The survey dealt with the entire Gulf coast, and took in vessels along the shores of Texas as well as elsewhere. Says the bulletin:

"Fuel consumption is one of the leading cost factors in vessel operation. Moreover, as compared with such fixed expenses as insurance, depreciation, licenses and interest charges, it is one of the few costs over which vessel operators have some degree of control. Fuel consumption for five shrimp fishing vessels based on Key West in 1954 ranged from 57.4 gallons of diesel fuel per day to 76.2 gallons. However, the same figures expressed in terms of the vessel's shrimp catch ranged only from .32 gallons per pound of shrimp caught to .37 gallons per pound, or by about 16 per cent.

"The figures for Brownsville, Texas expressed in terms of shrimp catch ranged from 3 gallons per pound of shrimp caught to 4.8 gallons. The fuel consumption for Biloxi, Miss. expressed in terms of the vessel's shrimp catch ranged from .22 gallons per pound of shrimp caught to .29 gallons.

"This fuel consumption study is available in connection with vessel efficiency studies made by Harwell, Knowles and Associates, Coral Gables, Florida under the supervision of the Fish and Wildlife Service. The data are a part of a study made by the firm to investigate important features of vessel design and construction, vessel productivity and efficiency of navigational and fishing aids. The study was financed by funds made available by the Saltonstall-Kennedy Act to help the domestic fishing industry."

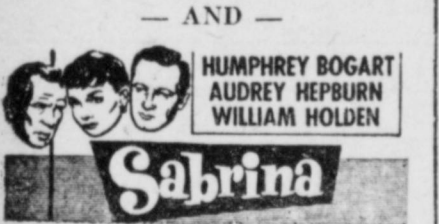

SEE YOU LATER—There's no guarantee that this is the gator the rock-and-roll addicts insist they'll see later. However, the alligator "hat" is a definite beaux chaser. A girl with a live alligator for a hat is enough to make any fellow rock back on his heels and roll in high gear for other parts. Madeline Herrmann, of Salina, Kan., is only modeling the reptilian headpiece. She prefers her alligators skinned and fashioned into shoes and handbags.

Fur, Feathers & Fins

By JACK BAUGHMAN

The big fish of the sea, the sharks, swordfish, marlins, sailfish, and similar creatures, are all so big that they will not conveniently fit into a bottle, hence are little known to the majority of biologists. This has caused considerable confusion among the scientists, as they have been unable to compare a swordfish taken in Japanese waters with another caught off the coast of Newfoundland and hence, cannot say with certainty what differences, if any, exist.

This confusion is helped along by the fact that anglers in various parts of the world tack a name on to a fish and in that part of the world the fish is always called by that name, even though it is caught elsewhere, and is known by other names in other parts of the world.

A classic example of this is furnished by the large-mouthed black bass, which has over 250 common names.

Another example is the yellowfin tuna, which has been called by many names, including Allison's tuna. This last is now known to be the adult form of the yellowfin.

Scientists at Yale University and at the University of Miami have, over the last few years, begun to unravel some of the mixups on the bill fishes.

For instance, the blue marlin of the Texas coast was long known as the "black Cuban marlin" and the species were thought to be different. Another fish, the black marlin of the Japanese and Hawaiian fishermen, was thought to be still a third kind of marlin, but it has been recently discovered that all these fish, the blue marlin, and the Cuban, Japanese, and Hawaiian black marlins are one and the same species.

The big black marlins of Cabo Blanco, Peru, were thought to be found only in that area for a long time. Now they are known to occur throughout the entire tropical and sub-tropical Pacific. They are called white marlin in Hawaii and Japan, and black Marlin in Peru, Australia and New Zealand. The Texas coast white marlin is an entirely different species.

The pleasure boating segment of the marine industry has become a major user of aluminum according to a survey conducted by one of the nation's largest producers of that versatile metal.

The survey points out that of the 76 million pounds of aluminum that will be used by the marine trade this year, recreational boating will require 47 million pounds. Going into the matter further, the study showed that castings used in the production of outboard motors would account for 70 per cent of the total poundage to be channeled into pleasure boating.

Fabricators of aluminum boats have increased in number, too. In 1955, 27 firms were engaged in aluminum boat production. There are 54 such firms now in operation. Boat builders expect a 20 per cent increase in aluminum

Choosing Your Career

Editorial By Martha Schoonover

The choice of a vocation is one of the most important questions a person will ever be called upon to consider. Much of one's future happiness and peace of mind will depend on how much he likes his career. No one should decide this vital question without a careful and deliberate consideration of all his qualities and abilities. Real success and happiness demand a perfect adjustment between the requirements of the occupation and the personal gifts of the worker.

Picking the right job from thousands of careers might seem, at first glance to be a lifetime of work in itself. Careful planning and guidance will make choosing the right field easier, and will help in finding a job which will provide happiness, satisfaction, and success in the years ahead.

So, in choosing a career, it may be said that there are two essential things. In the first place, every person should understand himself. He should know his own natural aptitudes, interests, ambitions, abilities, resources and limitation. Secondly, he must know the requirements of various occupations and the conditions under which success may be won in them. Therefore, must know what the advantages, disadvantages, opportunities for advancements, duties, and compensations are, and the probable cost of preparation.

Two-Hour Illuminated Parade Part of Buccaneer Days

A two-hour illuminated parade will wind across Corpus Christi and down its waterfront as a highlight of Buccaneer Days Saturday night, April 28. In it will march 40 bands, between as many floats. The first 11 floats will carry the theme of "Harbors of the World," which is also the theme of the Buccaneer Ball and Coronation. The King, Queen, Princesses and other members of the court will ride on these floats.

Among the floats that have been entered from other cities are the Fiesta Flambeau Float with Miss Fiesta from San Antonio; the Charro Days Float from Brownsville, and a Turkey Trot Float from Cuero with a six-foot turkey on it.

Buccaneer Days will be held April 21 through 29. Among the other events will be a boat parade, aquatic shows, regattas, fireworks, street dances, and numerous shows, musical and athletic events.

Prior to the Norman conquest, Anglo Saxons carried only a single name. Relationships were vaguely indicated by like names running through one family. After 1066, people moved about more and acquired the habit of taking on family names for more complete identification.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

They Travel "In Class"

Our high school correspondent says that Economics and Geography students are going in for "grass roots" studying. They're going to charter buses and take off on Operation See-For-Yourself—have a ten-day look at some of the things they've been studying about.

As I remember, it was hard to keep your mind on schoolbooks at this time of year. Today's kids can give in to that old urge to bust out of the classroom—with a clear conscience. Wish they'd take me along.

From where I sit, it doesn't hurt us adults, either, to get out and see how the rest of the country lives. We find the "typical American" doing everything from herding cattle to flying planes... with everything from steak to chowder for his favorite dish... everything from beer to butter-milk for his favorite beverage. And the more we study our differences the more we learn how alike everyone is underneath.

YOU ARE WELCOME

"Who Knows What We'll Find!"

Dear Friends

As a part of their work in Humble's Refining Research Laboratory, Humble scientists bombard petroleum hydrocarbons with electrons in a 2-million volt Van de Graaff Accelerator.

But if you ask one of these scientists what he expects to find, he'll answer, who knows!

For this is fundamental research. Results may be quick or they may be a long time developing. Who knows?

... Perhaps the scientists will find a way to increase the yield of useful products from a barrel of crude oil.

... Perhaps they'll be able to make improvements in the fine products already supplied you.

... Perhaps they'll develop an entirely new group of petroleum products.

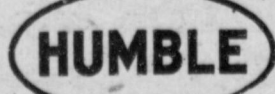

Who knows!

This much, however, is certain: Humble research scientists at Baytown use every device of physics, chemistry, mathematics and mechanics to provide you with more and better petroleum products.

Two quick examples: The specifications for Esso Extra gasoline, the formula for Humble Uniflo motor oil. These, without question, are the finest products you can use in your car.

Sincerely

HUMBLE OIL & REFINING CO.

An average of 35 tons of the famous South African blue ground must be mined and loaded into cars some 4000 feet below the surface, hoisted to the top, and then processed to obtain only four and one-half carats of diamonds. And at least two and one-half of those carats will be industrial diamonds, suitable only for use in tools.

Former Rockport Resident Dies at Granbury

A heart attack proved fatal to G. W. Leitch, a former Rockport resident, at his home in Granbury, Texas, last week.

He had suffered an attack earlier and was confined to his bed where his condition had been thought improving.

Mr. Lietch was born Oct. 7, 1891, in the Lietch Bend of the Brazos River south of Granbury. He was a rancher and farmer for a number of years and was also very fond of wolf and fox hunting. He took great pride in his dogs and hunted with them in practically every county in Texas, Oklahoma and parts of Arkansas.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Nora Tidwell, to whom he was married Nov. 5, 1908, one son, Darwin of Granbury, one daughter, Mrs. D. Butler of New Orleans, La., three grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Lawrence Norris of Dallas. He is also survived by four nephews and a niece whom he and Mrs. Lietch reared. They are Z. T. George of Bloomfield, N. J., L. C. George of Wharton, Norman L. George of Franklin, La., and Thomas W. George of Gunnison, Colo., and Mrs. J. N. Henderson of Seadrift, Texas.

Funeral services were held at the Granbury Church of Christ at 4 p. m. Wednesday, April 11, with the minister, Gilbert Allan, officiating.

Interment was in the Granbury Cemetery, the Terry Funeral Chapel in charge.

Pallbearers were Douglas and L. H. Tidwell, Darwin and Dye Walter, Norman and L. C. George.

Mr. Leitch was well known to many people here, and only last February he and Roy Holley spent a week in this city, visiting Elbert Mundine.

In 1808 the French government confiscated all copies of the Almanac de Gotha because it listed the reigning sovereigns in alphabetical order, beginning with the Anhalt Duchies. The issue was reprinted with Emperor Napoleon heading the list.

For County Attorney: WELDON CABANISS, Re-election

MILTON HARRELL

For County Commissioner, Precinct No. 3: A. L. DAVIS, re-election

Richard Arkwright lost a suit claiming infringement on his spinning machinery patent. The successful defense claimed that the wording of the patent was so vague that an infringing machine could not be made from its directions.

That was in 1778. In 1785, however, a verdict in another trial was given for the patentee on the ground that the defendants had made the machine from instructions given in the patent.
