ates Down Flour Bluff Thrilling Game

Robert Shivers, 125-pound quarterback, led the Pirates to a 22-16 victory over Flour Bluff Friday night as he kept fooling Flour Bluff with his faking and passing.

Fullback Billy Tower, 165-pound freshman sophomore, led the fired-underdogs to a near triumph in the South Texas "Game of the Week."

Sweeping 79 yards on a perfectly-executed pass-and-lateral play, the Pirates took a 6-0 lead late in the first quarter. Shivers threw to Monte Rouquette, who waited until the safetymen hit him and then tossed the ball back to John Abaniss.

The Pirates passed incompletely for two extra points.

Flour Bluff fought into an 8-6 lead early in the second quarter. Eddie Farris recovered a fumbled punt, and the Hornets drove 2 yards to score. Alvin Beauregard's passing set up the touchdown. He threw 21 yards to James Loper, then 14 to Steve Hill, who made a fine tumbling catch on the three-yard line.

Tower rammed three yards for the touchdown. Then he went one yard for two extra points, following an offside penalty.

Aransas County rallied for a 14-8 halftime lead. Shivers guided the Pirates 73 yards in eight plays, passing 37 yards to Rouquette to the 10.

Then Shivers called his own number on fourth down at the one-yard line. He found a narrow opening at left end.

Hill's pass interception stopped the Pirates on the Flour Bluff 15 on the last play of the first half.

Flour Bluff stormed back into the lead, 16-14, late in the third quarter. Tommy Rogers fell on a fumble to start a 40-yard drive. Tower carried the last six times from the 20-yard line, also plugging across for the extra points.

Two plays later, the Pirates scored the clincher, after John Goff recovered Flour Bluff's short kickoff.

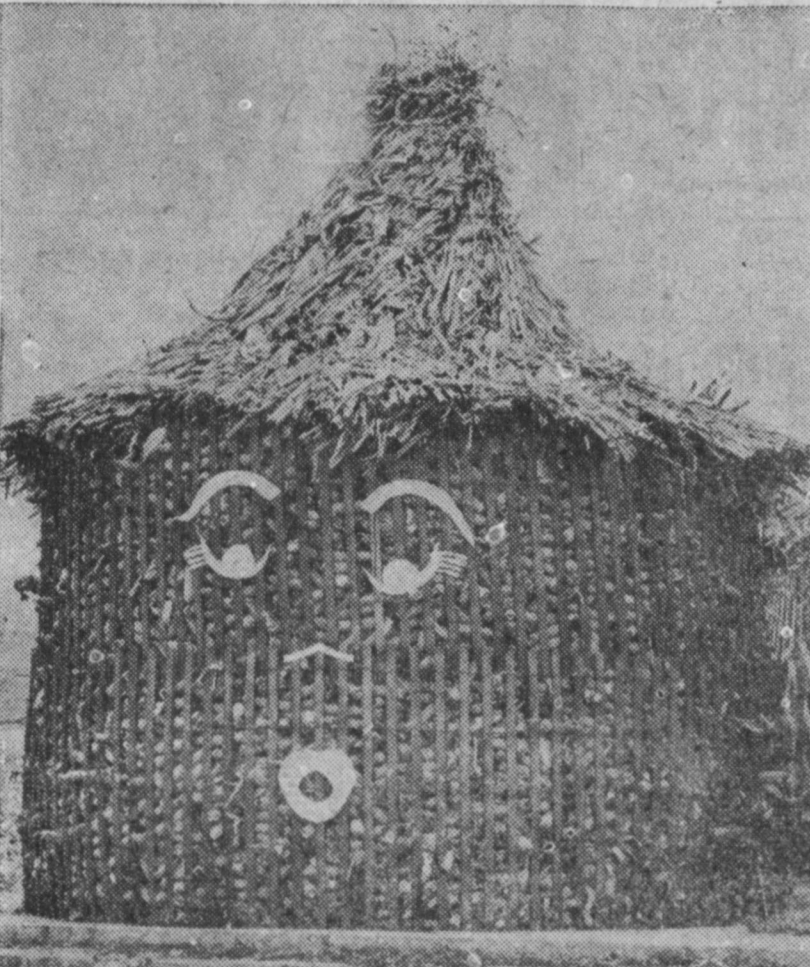

Richard Happner, around right end on the option play, shook loose and went 49 yards for the winning touchdown. Cabaniss ran for the points.

Flour Bluff fought back to the Pirate's 15 in the last quarter, but fumbled. Then the Pirates were held on downs on the Hornet 17.

Tower broke loose 44 yards on an incredible fourth-down run from his own 11. But Cabaniss intercepted a pass the next play, and Shivers ran out the clock.

BETWEEN YOU, ME AND THE LAMPROOST—The saga of six Belgians who fought for freedom when their country was ruled by Spain in the 17th century is perpetuated in iron outside an old inn in Brussels. Hidden in the inn, which dates from 1677, the leaders of the rebellion were discovered by a Spanish patrol. They ran for their lives but were captured and hanged at a nearby town.

CORNY EFFECT—It may be corny but this funny face lends a little something extra to the farm of Walter P. Schindler in New Glarus, Wis. Schindler made the corn crib out of snow fence material, using corn stalks atop as weather protection.

Miller Realty Handles Nice Deals Recently

The eight-unit Sea Gull Cottages was sold this week to O. W. Brymer, formerly of San Angelo, and K. L. Paul, Jr., of San Antonio. The courts were purchased from Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Newman, who have operated them for the past two years. The Newman are returning to San Antonio.

Brymer and Paul took possession of the courts on Oct. 1, and said that they plan extensive improvements and remodeling.

The sale was handled by Mrs. Pepper Everett, of the Miller Realty Company, who says that another transaction involving a San Antonian also passed through the office and was handled by Lawrence Miller.

This was the sale of the R. L. Coffee tract, lying between Sandra Courts and Rockport Cemetery, to M. D. Buck Jones, judge of the Criminal Court of Appeals at San Antonio. This tract, which lies on either side of Hillcrest Drive, is to be subdivided.

Jones has asked the city council for extension of water and sewer facilities to the new addition, costs to be borne by him.

Texaco Seaboard Asks Engineers For Permit Here

The Texaco Seaboard Company, Inc., has asked the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, for a permit to operate in State Tracts 124 and 125 in Copano Bay, requests a blanket permit authorizing erection and maintenance of structures to be used in drilling wells at the above location. The work at a well site would consist of sinking a drilling barge, driving six 3-pile dolphins and six single piles, erecting a drilling structure with a top elevation of approximately 140 feet at mean low water, constructing a protective structure and boat landing. Dredging would be performed and pipe lines would be placed within the area.

Help the United Fund and You Help The Red Cross Also

"Help the United Fund in Aransas County," said E. T. White, fund head, "and you help the Red Cross in this county and elsewhere."

The United Fund president then went on to give some concrete examples of what such help can mean.

More than five years ago a death-dealing tornado ripped across a midwestern city, leaving a large section of the city in ruins. Today the city bears few scars visible to the casual visitor, but there are men, women and children who have not recovered with the city's speed.

To many of these persons, a financial disaster would have been added to the tornado disaster if it had not been for the Red Cross. In that city, as in other communities across the nation that have suffered catastrophes, the Red Cross still is paying medical and other expenses for victims long after the tragedy occurred.

The tornado swept away the home of Betty and Jim Walters (not the family's actual name) killing the youngest of their three children, and injuring all other members of the family. The most seriously hurt was Mrs. Walters, with both arms and her left knee fractured plus a nerve injury to her right arm and severe lacerations which later became infected with gas gangrene. She was hospitalized for a month.

Until Mr. Walters, who had injured his shoulder in the storm, could return to work the Red Cross helped to meet the family's living expenses. The agency also provided a grant for hospital and other medical expenses.

Until their own home could be rebuilt, the Walters lived with relatives and, later, rented an apartment. The Red Cross helped build and furnish their new home and supplied money for new clothing and other emergency personal needs.

Through the years, both Mr. and Mrs. Walters returned to the hospital for treatment. The Red Cross again bore the expense. One of the children continued to react so violently to storms that he was given psychiatric treatment. The Red Cross assisted with the expenses.

In 1956, Mrs. Walters was hospitalized for extensive bone graft on her right arm. She was placed in a body cast which she continued to wear until the end of 1957. When she returned home from the hospital, she had to have a hospital bed and a housekeeper. The Red Cross paid for both.

Thus far, Red Cross expenditures for this family total $8,781.67. Included is $2,762 for building and repair; $1,150 for household furnishings; $1,959.67 for medical expenses, and $2,910 for food, clothing and other maintenance.

Helping disaster-stricken families such as the Walters is one of the primary responsibilities of the American Red Cross. In the 12-month period from July 1, 1957, to June 30, 1958, the agency carried out approximately 300 disaster relief operations.

Red Cross help includes such emergency mass care as food, clothing and shelter, and long-term rehabilitation help — help such as that received by the Walters. This latter, the most important but least known part of Red Cross disaster aid, is aimed at helping a family return to its normal way of life as quickly as possible.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

SPECIAL LEGAL REMEDIES

Sometimes you see newspaper stories telling how various courts have issued "injunctions" to protect the owner of a patent from infringement, to stop someone from putting up a building which would be a hazard to the neighbors, or to prevent some other type of activity which might harm one or more persons. Occasionally you read where a "writ of mandamus" has been directed against some public official. This column will briefly explain both of these extraordinary legal remedies.

The injunction got its name because in the old days the English king commanded ("enjoined") special action when an ordinary court action could not solve a problem at hand. Today it is an order requiring a person (or corporation) to refrain from doing a particular act.

As a rule, one would first get a "Temporary Restraining Order" which would stop someone from doing something harmful — like polluting a stream or annoying the peace of your home. By granting it the judge preserves the status quo until a hearing has been held to hear both sides of the controversy. Usually, if you want an injunction, your lawyer will take sworn statements into court to show that your grievance is one which could be taken care of only by an injunction.

Often you must put up a bond to make up for any damage you do the other side if the court doesn't see things your way.

After you've made your request, the court arranges to hear the other side. They must "show cause" why the injunction should not be issued. Because most injunctions deal with immediate problems, the court hears the merits of such a case in a very short time.

After the temporary injunction is issued, a "permanent" injunction may be obtained or either party may start a lawsuit to settle the problems which the temporary injunction has cleared up for the moment.

If the court grants an injunction, it must be served on the defendant to be effective. Then if he disobeys the order, he is disobeying the court and is subject to a fine or a jail term for "contempt of court."

"Mandamus" is a special remedy used to right wrongs or enforce proper action by a public officer.

When we elect public officers to work for us, we place a great deal of authority in their hands. Sometimes they fail to do their lawful duty. One way to make a government official do his job is to ask the court for a writ of mandamus.

Suppose you have applied for a permit to build a house under a city building code. You submit your plans which meet all the requirements of the code but the proper official won't give you the permit and you can't get one elsewhere. You can then ask the court for a writ of mandamus and if you were right and the building official had no grounds for refusal, the court will order him to issue the permit.

Before the court will issue such a strong command as this, the officer must have refused to do his clear cut legal duty—not something that he may or may not have to do as part of his job.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not advise. No person should apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variation in facts may change the application of the law.)

Den 4

Cub Scout Den 4 held its first meeting of the year at 3:45 on Tuesday, Sept. 23, at the home of the new Den Mother, Mrs. N. F. Jackson, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Willis.

Wolf Cub David Roaten led the den in the opening flag ceremony, after which the cubs answered roll call by introducing themselves to their fellow Cub Scouts. Registration blanks were distributed to five brand new cubs, these forms to be returned at the next meeting.

The den mother explained briefly the aims and responsibilities of cubbing, instructing the boys in the uniform and attendance requirements and in the means of advancement.

In the initial den election of the year, David Roaten was named Denner, Mark Johnson, assistant Denner, and Craig Taylor, Keeper of the buckskin.

The theme for Den 4 for the coming month will be based primarily on the legend of Hiawatha, in keeping with the general theme of "American Folklore" to be observed by the pack. Refreshments for the next meeting will be served by Mrs. Willis, and Craig Taylor will conduct the flag ceremony.

The cubs joined in Akela's "Grand Howl" as a closing ceremony, following which they sang "Ten Little Indians" and participated in the tossing game, "Indian Pony Corral." David Roaten was awarded first prize in this game, with second honors going to Robert Willis.

Mrs. Jackson was hostess for the refreshment period, serving Cub Scouts James Hill, Johnny Jackson, Mark Johnson, David Roaten, Rocky Rouquette, Craig Taylor, and Robert Willis, along with Den Mother Mrs. R. W. Willis and Bobby Jackson.

Future meetings of this den will be held at 4 on Tuesday afternoons at the home of Mrs. Jackson.

Pack 49

Phillip Baldwin, Cubmaster for Pack 49, was host to the first planning meeting of the new pack year on Friday evening, Sept. 19.

Cub Scout applications were screened by the leaders and the boys assigned to dens where possible. Den mothers have been secured for seven dens, with the number of boys in each den limited to eight—which means that many boys will not be afforded the opportunity of being Cub Scouts unless more mothers volunteer to serve as Den Mothers. Cubmaster Baldwin will be happy to confer with mothers who volunteer in this capacity. Fathers to serve as pack committeemen are also needed, and these men should contact the cubmaster or Dr. Homer Elliot, chairman of the pack committee.

Application blanks for boys desiring to become Cub Scouts were distributed through the schools late last week, and all boys ages 8, 9, and 10 who did not receive one of these forms should contact Mrs. Ernest Russell.

The first pack meeting of the current year will be held at 7:30 on Tuesday evening, Oct. 28, at the Woman's Club Building. The month's theme for the entire pack will be on "American Folklore" with various phases of this theme to be presented by individual dens.

Ernest Russell will again serve as Assistant Cubmaster of Pack 49, and the following mothers will serve as Den Mothers: Den 1, Mrs. Otis Rouquette, Mrs. Verle Harris; Den 2, Mrs. Don Henderson, Mrs. Ralph Matern; Den 3, Mrs. Ernest Russell; Den 4, Mrs. N. F. Jackson, Mrs. R. W. Willis; Den 5, Mrs. C. C. Crabb; Den 6, Mrs. Homer Elliot, Mrs. Merrill Swan;

PROCLAMATION

The State of Texas County of Aransas City of Rockport Know all men by these presents: Whereas, America is a nation of homes, and the home is the source of our nation's immortality and of the continuity achieved by the human race, and Whereas, only the home can build in the nation's youth the strength that is our country's greatness, and Whereas, home is a world within the world, where ways can be ways of love and all paths, paths of peace, and where our nation's children learn lessons that they will carry with them for a lifetime, and Whereas, the Parent-Teacher Association is an organization striving toward goals that mean the best possible homes, schools and communities, and its primary purpose is safeguarding our children and building for the future in such a way that in every community the lights of home may always shine out, Therefore, I, Hollis E. Collum, Mayor of the City of Rockport, Texas, do hereby proclaim the week of Oct. 1, 1958, through Oct. 10, 1958, as P-TA Membership Enrollment Week, and invite every parent and teacher to join in the tasks the P-TA has so willingly and gladly undertaken, so that all of us, working together, may make America the best possible home for all our children. Given under my hand this 24th day of Sept., A. D., 1958. HOLLIS E. COLLUM, Mayor City of Rockport, Texas

Brownie Troop 33 held its third meeting of the season Monday at the Girl Scout Little House. The members of the troop are Janice Benningfield, Connie Cortina, Susan Kline, Alice Faye Fields, Mary Jane Garcia, Sharon Hull, Patricia Lopez, Mary Ellen McLead, Susan Nava, Dorothy Pierson, Virginia Solis, Betty Sanders and Dora Lynn Wright, with Mrs. J. R. Hoaglund, leader. This fall each Brownie is keeping a notebook on the outdoor skills she is learning. These skills will qualify her to become an Intermediate Girl Scout this spring. This week the Brownies made colorful illustrations of what they learned from last week's demonstration on building a safe campfire. The troop elected Patricia Lopez as secretary-treasurer for the first four weeks and Patricia was also hostess at the second meeting serving refreshments to the troop. The Brownies will surely miss Susan Kline who moved with her parents quite unexpectedly to Tyler, Texas.

TELEPHONE TALK

by Jack Valentini, Manager

WHAT NAME DID HE SAY?

Many is the time I've said, "I can't remember the name of the place, but if I heard it I would recognize it." You may have done this same thing yourself from time to time — trying to remember where you saw that bargain, or which motel it was that had kitchenettes and air conditioning for those out of town friends.

Here in Rockport, the yellow pages of the telephone directory can give you the answer. Next time you're trying to remember who buys, sells, rents, repairs or gives that special service, turn to the yellow pages — you'll find the answer there.

LUXURIOUS — BUT NOT A LUXURY

Got a telephone for your bedroom, yet? Nothing tops a bedroom telephone for real luxury living. When I'm home using ours, I like to stretch out on the bed with the phone cradled between my shoulder and my ear. I can relax and really talk that way.

There are plenty of good, practical reasons for having a bedroom phone, too. Privacy, for example. And women often say how reassuring it is to have a phone at their bedside when they're alone in the house at night. It's much nicer to be able to "reach" to answer instead of having to dash to another room.

Here in Rockport, a bedroom extension costs only $1.00 a month plus installation. And for a one-time charge of only $10, you can have your choice of any of the nine beautiful color telephones. They're especially smart for bedrooms.

EASY WAY TO KEEP IN TOUCH

I guess at one time or another, we all remember — out of a clear sky — someone we haven't thought of in a lone time. "Whatever happened to George?" we say. Or to Ruth, or the Browns, or the Martin family. Usually it's someone we really mean to keep in touch with — like the couple who used to live next door, or old friends in faraway places. But with so much on our minds and so much to do the months fly by and we never get around to it.

The quick, easy way to make up for lost time is, of course, to use your telephone.

A long distance phone call is the personal, thoughtful way of keeping in touch with those you care about. Try a call tonight, and you'll see what I mean.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

ARANSAS COUNTY BOND QUOTA EXCEEDED

Savings bonds sales for the first eight months of 1958 totaled $75,650, Fred Bracht, Sr., chairman of Aransas County's bond committee reported today. "Our county has now reached 132.1 per cent of its 1958 goal of $58,000. August sales were $2,544."

Texas sales through August 1958 were $118,503,413 which was 5 per cent greater than the same period in 1957.

"Every American investing in U. S. Savings Bonds gets an extra dividend — the satisfaction of knowing that his savings are strengthening America's peace power," stressed Bracht.

From an attendance standpoint the State Fair of Texas is the largest in the U.S.

World's Fair Is Like Home Says Jarjory Jarboe

Although the Misses Maud and Jarjory Jarboe returned from their European tour late in August, there were so many things to see and do that we are still able to publish some of Marjory's interesting letters.

"We saw the World's Fair in hours of hard walking," she says. "We could have hired a 'push-push' to drive us around what we had wanted. A 'push-push' is a motor-bike with driver and two basket-like seats on the front, which tears through the crowds with the aid of a loud bicycle bell.

"The Fair's architecture is strikingly modern. It is clean-cut, light and airy. Some buildings had curved fronts of glass and steel, some were hexagonal or pyramidal in shape.

"There were 47 pavilions of countries or international organizations, technological exhibits, an amusement area, and the papier-mache Gay Brussels town. We saw quite a few of the pavilions and Gay Brussels in our hike around the Fair.

"On the inside many of the pavilions were rather bare, but nevertheless each gave an impression of its country. All in all, I would say customs, folklore, industries, scientific inventions, and artistic achievements were shown. Most important of all, the pavilions caught the spirit and soul of the various countries.

"The Russian pavilion was just what I expected. Their main exhibits were construction, industry, science, rockets, transportation, and agriculture. They did have some exhibits for sport and leisure, Soviet women, children, education and fine arts. The technical displays were stolid and massive, without gracefulness. There was nothing new to me. The women's clothes had little style, being heavy and shapeless. Youth camps were pictured with the children doing calisthenics. The Fine Arts section was the highlight for me. There were some beautiful paintings, sculpture, and china statuettes. I couldn't help but wonder how many of these were done before the Revolution. That was it. No displays of home or family life or religion. Just industry and work camps, and regimented study.

"Joan, my teacher friend from New York, had worked at Jones Beach during the summer when she was in college. Her boss was the gentleman in charge of the Brass Rail restaurant in the American pavilion. He took us inside, got us seats, and treated us to lunch. Mine was a hamburger and malt. Was it great! It was the first I had seen since I left home. He told us many interesting things about the Fair. He and the chef were the only Americans sent over to handle the restaurant. All the employees were Belgians. The chef had to teach them to cook American dishes. They had many hilarious times. He said that none of the Europeans were fooled by the Russian pavilion. Only a few naive Americans were impressed. He said many Europeans had commented favorably on the American pavilion. They said it was almost poetic in expressing America's way of life.

"I've heard many unfavorable comments on the American pavilion here in the States. I think Americans who fly over just to see the Fair would be disappointed because they would expect something different from what they had at home. The pavilion isn't different at all. It is just home. Coming directly from home it would be nothing to see. But to us, after five weeks abroad, it was marvelous. We almost wanted to cry, it made us feel so much at home. When we didn't feel like crying we were grinning the whole time. There were typical American rooms with breakfast sets, modern dishes, and an electric kitchen. There were barbecue sets, lawn chairs, an aluminum rowboat, a beach parasol, children's toys, including electric trains and space suits. Then there were simply different models of vacuum cleaners with a sign saying that an American housewife could choose any one of these she liked. Russians have little choice of products. There were electrical blankets, electric stoves, electric dishwashers, T.V. controls, and Hi-Fi controls. These things were not lost on the Europeans. Some of us take them for granted, but they don't.

"Another thing I liked were the screens—like T.V. screens—on which flashed pictures of typical American scenes. The screens showed natural disasters, houses, farms, streets, electric signs, and supermarkets. The shots had been taken all over the United States. One electric sign was a cowboy at Las Vegas. Only we showed our slums and city planning, natural disasters and rescue teams. Our honesty, I believe, hit home with the Europeans.

"Even our guides were good-looking. Each of the college-age boys and girls could speak a foreign language. The girls' uniforms were grey suits with a box jacket and pleated skirt. They had yellow berets, heels, and faille raincoats. It rains almost every day. Each jacket had the American shield on it, the state's name was on their sleeve. They stood everywhere, ready to answer questions.

"We didn't have fleets of our modern cars, nor piles of machinery. The world knows we have these things. So we had a ridiculously useless but charming Model T Ford. We had sketches of Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse, a redwood tree cross-section, an Indian war bonnet, a gold nugget, posters of melodramas from the wild west, and so on.

"There were many large-scale pictures of our big cities' skyscrapers. A skyscraper in Europe is about 8 or 10 stories. There were pictures of our modern homes. There was an atoms-for-peace exhibit.

"We missed the style show, but heard they change the models every month because their legs get too muscular from walking up and down the ramp.

"European children were drawing in the Metropolitan Museum of Arts creative workshop. Ford Foundation had a movie circarama, which is like cinerama except the screen is 360 degrees around; you stand in the middle. It showed New York, New England, Williamsburg, wheat fields in Kansas, National Parks, the Grand Canyon and San Francisco. It was announced in three languages. When it was over there was a hush as if the people couldn't believe what they had seen. As I looked at their faces they were all longing to see America. I realized how wonderful it is to be an American, to live there, to be free to move all across its wide expanse.

"The Norwegian pavilion is made of Norwegian wood, stone, and plastic. It is open, roomy and smells of fir. A stone is embedded in the wall with an engraved drawing from the Bronze Age.

This is a hand dwith a number of balls. It symbolizes the human forces which underlie our whole existence. This was their theme, that the same forces underlie all of mankind's existence. Miniature stage sets show scenes from Isben's play. Music by Grieg is played. Skis were fastened to the wall. The old fishing and hunting gear are shown. Power from electricity to atomic is illustrated in pictures.

"Japan had as their theme human hands. Hands rebuilding after war and making technical progress. Hands skillful enough to create delicate instruments. Hands raised in dances and laughter. The Japanese pavilion had a lovely Japanese garden.

"Every pavilion had large blown-up pictures showing their people in typical costumes doing typical occupations and enjoying typical amusements.

"In the Mexican pavilion there was an Aztec god monument with oil flowing over it, symbolizing the new wealth and rise of living standards brought to the old Aztec culture by oil money.

"The Venezuelan pavilion had orchid plants hanging from the ceiling.

"France had exhibits of perfumes, gloves, jewels, and heavy machinery.

"Western Germany had a large exhibit with many industrial displays. It had exhibits of typical rooms, with furniture. It had an actual lending library.

"All the pavilions had pictures of their Nobel Prize winners over the years.

"The British exhibit only Britain could do. It had the pageantry of the Queen's coronation, imitations of the crown jewels, robes of various professions. In another room were small T.V. screens again. They showed recent scientific inventions in operation. A plaza had signs with a map of each member of the British Empire. There was another building for heavy industry.

"Gay Brussels is like Disneyland. There we saw a Scottish kilt band performing. It was strictly for fun. Men and women in Gay 90's costumes wandered around. An organ grinder played, a side show barked winked it us, and a clown performed. The clown quoted poetry to Gretchen and me while Joan took a movie camera shot. The papier-mache buildings had stores inside filled with novelties.

FIRE DEPT. SAVES—

ing the five years just passed they totaled $34,665, and the grand total for both savings amounted to $94,985.

Fogaley made no attempt to estimate the incalculable other benefits that accrued from having an efficient department, nor did he touch upon the work of the Aransas County Emergency Corps, which is made up of the Fulton and Rockport Fire Departments.

He did point out, however, that the insurance savings, which can be calculated, are among the smallest parts of the benefits the community receives from an efficient organization of this kind.

The obligations assumed by the men of these departments are greater than most people realize, Fogaley said. Firemen are subject to call at any hour to protect the lives and property of all the men, women, and children in the community, and they serve their communities in this manner largely from a sense of civic pride. They make many sacrifices of money, pleasure and home life by serving their community.

And they do a magnificent job. Ten years ago or a little more, when a brush fire got out of hand and swept across the peninsula into the outskirts of Fulton and Rockport, it was the combined efforts of the Rockport and Fulton departments, aided by those from surrounding towns, that kept the fire loss as low as it was. Even so eight or nine houses were burned, and hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage caused by the careless action of the person that set the original fire.

Time and again, in case of emergency, the Aransas County Emergency Corps has answered the call in case of fire, automobile wrecks, and similar catastrophes, and only this year, when a Memorial Day weekend tragedy claimed the lives of seven people in a freak accident, it was the Aransas County Emergency Corps, composed of firemen from Rockport and Fulton, that helped with the rescue of some of the victims and that did everything in their power to revive the others, at the same time policing the scene of the tragedy and handling everything in an efficient and courteous manner.

At his various visits, Fogaley has addressed Rockport and Fulton civic clubs, and tonight, at the fire station, expects the mayor, aldermen and other officials of Rockport and the surrounding area.

CITY ASKS BIDS—

demnation proceedings against owners of approximately 1,640 running feet of riparian rights plus approximately two acres of land lying between the present highway and Little Bay, at a point between intersection of Wood and Austin Street and Tom O'Connor's property, half way to the northern city limits of Rockport.

The council approved payment of $5,500 to Hinton on the following basis: Costs of moving, $2,500; plumbing costs, $250; loss of business during the time needed to move the building, $750; and $2,000 to defray damages to his building and to partially reimburse him for the cost of the building he had to buy to allow room for his building to be moved.

In the case of the riparian rights, the city, only only last week, had decided to offer the half dozen or so people involved a price of $5 a running foot for riparian rights, and $4,000 on acre for the land behind this frontage, most of which was frequently covered at high tide. However, Joe Sheldon, San Antonio, and the Bell heirs, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Gray, refused this offer.

Total price for the land and riparian rights needed, as set under this appraisal, amounted to $11,985. Under the price asked by Sheldon and the Bell heirs, of $10 a front foot, the total cost would be raised to approximately $18,695. The council, unwilling to agree to this, instructed city attorney Richard Hatch to start condemnation proceedings against all the tracts in question, thus satisfying the demands of the Highway Department for a usable title.

Right-of-way for the other portion of the department's plans, widening the highway north to Copano Causeway, was long ago acquired. Hence extension of the shoulders on both sides of the present road is largely a matter of routine. Total length of this project is almost six miles.
