Water Safety Classes To Be Held Here

Rotarians, at their regular luncheon and Wednesday, heard Commodore John Mitchell, of the Eighth Coast Guard District Auxiliary, speak on water safety, and to tell of classes open to the public on this important subject that will be held here for all who wish to attend.

Mitchell pointed out that Rockport and vicinity was well on its way to becoming one of the best-known and patronized tourist areas along the Texas coast. This, he said, was due to the fact that we have the clearest bay in Texas, with good boating and swimming water.

As one of the members of the Area Safety Council, which embraces the territory from Baffin Bay to Goose Island, the commodore said that a survey had been conducted to learn what caused most of the loss of life in waters of the region. Pools, pits and deep water next to areas of heavy traffic were the prime causes he said, and small craft accidents were next.

The council, aware of the growing problems because of the ever larger influx of visitors, had determined that an educational program would probably do the most people the most good, soonest. It is arranging to have Coast Guard pamphlets on water safety distributed, and attempting through talks like his and by other means to educate both the people that live along the coast and the visitors.

Mitchell said that the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, has been surveying these hazards, and that this information is available to communities which wish to make use of it. He pointed out that people along the coast know the hazards in most cases, but that those from inland points need as-

Missions Prayer Week Under Way

A home missions week of prayer is being observed by members of the First Baptist Church, with Mrs. Grady West as director.

Speakers Monday included the Rev. De La Cruz, pastor of the local Mexican Mission, who discussed Latin American missions; Mrs. Virgil Dasher, a winter visitor who told of the work of a mission church in Farmersville, Ill.; and Mrs. Wilson Brumley, who reported on a visit to the Rescue Home in New Orleans.

A meeting was held Tuesday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. McNorton, with the program being on the migrant. Wednesday night the congregation met in the church auditorium to view a film entitled "One Nation Under God."

This morning the meeting place was the Terry Moore home, and Friday the World Day of Prayer for Home Missions will be observed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Traylor.

PHASE ONE OF PROPOSED LITTLE BAY PROJECT

PART OF THE $8 MILLION DOLLARS in construction now going on in the Rockport area is represented by the first phase of the Little Bay project, on which the Loyd Richardson dredge has been working about two weeks. This will eventually consist of an entrance channel, 1800 feet long and 80 feet wide at the bottom, and an inner basin, 125 feet at the bottom, 4 feet deep, and 1340 feet long, with a 4-boath launching ramp on the east side. This ramp is reached from the road that will crown the levee separating the basin and Aransas Bay, which is being constructed from the spoil cast out by the dredge.

Copano Bay Gas Plant Is Planned

Bay Petroleum Co. plans to build a natural gas processing plant on Copano Bay near Rockport.

Construction of the stripping plant by the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. subsidiary is to begin March 15. Awarding of the contract to the O. L. Olsen Co., of Houston was announced Wednesday.

The plant will have a capacity to process 50 million cubic feet of gas daily. Daily production of propane, normal butane, iso-butane, and natural gasoline will approximate 32,800 to 42,000 gallons.

All production will be delivered to Bay's liquid hydrocarbons fractionating plant near La Porte on Galveston Bay. A 12-mile, 4-inch pipeline will be constructed from the Copano Bay site to Bay's Gulf Coast pipe line.

The new plant will be constructed on a 30-acre tract about eight miles northeast of Rockport and just off State Highway 35.

Anyone may attend, whether a member of the Chamber or not.

$62,000 Aransas County Bond Goal For 1959, Fred Bracht Says

Fred Bracht, chairman of the Aransas County Savings Bonds Committee, announced that the 1959 Savings Bonds Goal for Aransas County will be $62,000.

"During the month of January, the people of this county purchased $14,632 in Series E and H bonds which was 23.6% of our 1959 goal," Bracht reported.

The 1959 goal for Texas is $182,500,000. Sales during January totaled $16,147,649, which represents 8.8% of the 1959 sales goal.

"A part of every American's savings should be invested in Savings Bonds, to provide for his future and to add strength to the national economy," Bracht stated.

NAVIGATION BOARD HOLDS MEETING

The Navigation Board, at its regular meeting Wednesday night, transacted routine business. Homer C. Innis, of Lockwood, Andrews and Newnam, discussed some changes in the plan of the harbor at The Cove, and James F. Houlihan made a report on the audit which he is conducting.

EXTENSIVE ACTIVITY PLANNED FOR GIRL SCOUT WEEK HERE

Extensive activities have been planned to celebrate Girl Scout Week in Rockport, March 8-14, according to Mrs. George Dickey, neighborhood chairman.

As their first activity in observance of Girl Scout Week, all Rockport-Fulton Girl Scouts and Brownies will attend church services at the First Baptist Church of Rockport. Rev. Brumley has extended a welcome to the girls, and has a reserved section for the anticipated 75 who will attend. Each year the Girl Scouts attend a different church. Church services begin at 10:45 a.m.

Also participating in Girl Scout Week, Troops 43 and 52 are combining their talents in a program entitled "Whoopin' Scout Follies" to be presented at Rockport Elementary School auditorium, Saturday, March 14, 1959, at 7:30 p.m. The feature of the evening will be "An Evening With An American Girl", presenting scenes from Longfellow's Hiawatha and Courtship of Miles Standish, a scene of Revolutionary days including a minuet, and other periods up to our present-day American girl. Piano and vocal solos and recitations are planned between scenes.

These Girl Scouts range in age from 11 to 13 years and have designed and made all costumes and stage properties as work on Dramatics Merit Badges, toward attaining First Class Rank. Their leaders are Mrs. F. L. McCord and Mrs. Jerald Brundrett. The admission is 25c and 10c and will be used to defray expenses of an anticipated camp-out.

Every day is a birthday or anniversary for someone, but March 12 we think, is especially worth noting. It's the 47th anniversary of the Girl Scouts.

Since the first Girl Scout troop was formed in 1912, almost 14 million American girls and women have learned basic and important lessons of citizenship in Girl Scouting.

This is a unique achievement not only because great numbers of girls and women have been involved but because Girl Scout citizenship training has maintained its fresh and creative approach through the years.

Teaching youngsters to respect the flag, to serve their communities, and to keep themselves ready and alert for all emergencies is the chief business of Girl Scouting.

When the Girl Scouts, in their anniversary theme, say "You Can Count on Her" they mean just that.

In this community, we are fortunate that we can also count on the many men and women volunteers in Girl Scouting who make Scouting available to our daughters.

TWO FILE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Charles A. Roe, Jr., and Rob Johnson have filed to succeed themselves as trustees of the Aransas County Independent School District, Roe from Precinct 2 and Johnson from Precinct 4.

The election will be held April 4, and absentee voting starts on March 15.

C. of C. Directors Okay Committees

The Chamber of Commerce directors at their meeting Monday night, approved the report of the Committee on Committees presented by Chairman James A. Jarboe.

In other business, they moved to send a letter to Eugene Everett, thanking him for his services as chairman of the firemen's barbecue committee and for his services as a director and member of the chamber, regretting his resignation from both.

Mrs. Mary Juergens reported that approximately a hundred tickets had been sold for the Chamber's annual banquet, which will be given Saturday night in the Woman's Club. She repeated her request that tickets be turned in by directors that still had some out, so that it would be possible to determine how many people for which to prepare.

James A. Jarboe reported that the Industrial Survey prepared by Jack Baughman was in the hands of the printer, and that copies of this should be available by the middle of the month. Because of the time and money spent on this project, and because only about 200 copies will be printed through courtesy of the Central Power and Light Company, the directors voted to leave distribution of this 90-page brochure in the hands of the industrial committee, of which Jarboe is head.

Mrs. Juergens reported that one new member had been added to the Chamber's roster since last meeting. This was C. G. Morrison's Variety Store.

Discussion of the duties of the various committees then occupied a considerable time, and Cecil Cole reported that 65% of the city had house numbers now, through the work of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The directors also discussed entertainment of service men at the radar base on holidays and after church on Sundays.

Those present at the meeting then turned to an exploration of means of promoting better tourist trade.

Present at the meeting were: President Jack McCready, James A. Jarboe, J. T. Slocum, Vernon Kleypas, John Ratliff, Melvin Borchert, Alex Scott, A. C. Shivers, Norvell Jackson, Charles La Bounty, John Sutherland and Cecil Cole.

Tom Dannelly, principal of the Fulton Elementary School is the Literary Director. The following schools will be represented: Two schools from Mathis, Woodboro, three schools from Aransas Pass, George W. Fulton and Aransas County Junior High School.

The public is invited to attend the declamation event which is to be held in the cafeteria starting at 9 a.m.

MRS. H. F. ELLIOT NEW CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIRECTOR

Mrs. H. F. Elliot has been appointed a new director of the Chamber of Commerce, to replace Eugene Everett, who has resigned.

Mrs. Elliot was the alternate from the last election, having received just a few votes less than the other directors. She has served one term previously.

Guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Boggs, are Mr. and Mrs. William Anone and children of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Dewveall, of Sinton, and Mr. Dewveall's mother, Mrs. Ora Dewveall of Weatherford, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jackson and daughters, of Sinton and Mr. and Mrs. John Lansing and two children, of Gregory.

an aircraft control and warning center, and one large home. If smaller homes were added in, the total would probably be close to $9 million.

Two of these projects, the aircraft control and warning center, which will be completely activated about April 1, and a 27-unit housing development for personnel, to be ready about the same time, represent $2,650,000, a third, the Alcoa facilities for transshipment at Harbor Island, owned by the Aransas County Navigation District, went into service in January.

Over the docks at this place, until that day in the future when Port Lavaca has deep water, a million tons or more of bauxite ore will pass each year, bound for the big alumina plant at Point Comfort.

Next largest in point of size is the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company stripping plant, on Lamar Peninsula, which is estimated to cost $1 million plus, and for which material is being put on the ground. In this general price range also, is the Intracoastal Canal Cutoff, on which work was recently started. This, which runs from Rockport to Old Ingleside, cutting 17 miles off the water route between Houston and Brownsville, is tabbed at $1,628,000.

Church construction will total about $365,000. The First Baptist Church has a sanctuary projected that will run in the neighborhood of $100,000; the Schoenstatt Sisters of Mary are building a mother house on Lamar, estimated at about $125,000; the Episcopal Diocese of West Texas is starting a campsite on the shores of Copano Bay, to be used as a retreat, which will eventually cost more than $100,000; and the Sacred Heart Catholic Church is raising money for additions to the school and (continued on page 5) assistance in the matter of advice and correct information.

The commodore said that in the Corpus Christi area, signs at small boat launching ramps had proved of assistance.

He pointed out that a national survey of the causes of water accidents and deaths had shown that it was not the youngster that were the primary cause. Rather, Mitchell said, it was fishermen from 35 to 55 years old.

Even so, he continued, many of the deaths need not have taken place had the people in question had minimum Coast Guard equipment on board. The accidents he said, came from overloading or overpowering the boats, but the deaths came because there were not the necessary number of life preservers and other safety aids aboard.

Classes have been arranged for men at the radar station, Mitchell stated, largely through the help of Homer Faber, Marine land, and the public service representative at the base, and will be held for four nights starting March 30. These classes, which start at 7:30 in the evening, will be taught by members of the Coast Guard auxiliary, and will occupy two hours each Monday night on March 30, April 6, April 13, and April 20.

Everyone is welcome, the commodore said, and he particularly emphasized the fact the young people and children were wanted, as they would have a chance to absorb the rules and necessary precautions.

Mitchell also discussed, in answer to a question by Arthur Bracht, the requirements for forming a Coast Guard Auxiliary here.

Preceding Mitchell's talk, Chairman Dick Picton, of the Aransas County Navigators District, explained for Rotarians and their guests the progress of the work on Little Bay, the status of the Cove, and described the final appearance of the Little Bay project.

Visitors to the luncheon were J. D. Gray, Merritt Hulett, Bob Redell, Jess Simpson, Racine, Wisconsin; Ernest Simmons, Lovington, N. M.; E. T. Pettit, Corpus Christi; Lloyd Dean, Ingleside, and two high school seniors, Robert Shivers and John Cabaniss.

That Fragrant Air Isn't Spring, It's Just A Skunk

If the skunk plague in South Texas continues, Melvin Hull, local pest control operator, ought to be a millionaire soon, for he has figured out a way to get the black and white perfume manufacturers out from under people's houses and keep them away.

With the long-continued rains saturating the normal habitat of these animals, they have left the low ground and the brush where they normally live and have moved up on the highways and into residential areas where, up till now, they have seldom been seen.

In the last ten days, Hull says, he has averaged a call a day from some frantic householder who objects to having the space beneath his residence turned into a nursery for pregnant and dispossessed skunks.

Under one house in the region there were ten, he said.

Miss Sarah Bell Smith said that there were a number that had moved in on her before she called for help, and that they were bold enough that they were even appearing in the daytime.

Delivermen on bread, meat and milk trucks report that early in the mornings they see many of the black-and-white pests, and the roads are dotted with the sluff where someone didn't see them soon enough.

convent here, which will cost around $40,000.

One home being built is estimated in the $100,000 plus class.

The Aransas County Navigation District is at work on its fourth harbor, which will cost $122,668, and will let the contract soon on another, which will cost roughly $225,000. Another channel in the region is the Cedar Bayou fish pass, being constructed by the Kingfisher Dredging Company of Port Lavaca for the Game and Fish Commission, costing $198,300.

Streets and highways will contribute a considerable chunk to the total, also. The low bid on the Highway 35 business route through Rockport was $387,000, and this work is due to start as soon as the weather clears up. Streets and sewers in the newly opened Little Bay Shores Unit 2 will add another $50,000, and seal coating of various highways and farm to market roads within the county will up the total still more, although no figures are available on this work.

The Coastal Transmission Company is building approximately 30 miles of 6-inch pipeline in Aransas County, at an estimated cost of $360,000, and the Tennessee Gas Transmission, in addition to work on the stripping plant already mentioned, has purchased a right of way paralleling their present line from the Fulton Beach oil field to their main line in Refugio County.

At the county airport, the contract was let this week to the Yeager Electric Company of Aransas Pass for installation of lighting along the southeast-northwest runway at a cost of $16,054. In addition, another contract was awarded the Goldston Construction Company of Corpus Christi to build two T-hangers at the airport, to cost a little over $47,000.

A drive-in grocery, additions to Roe's Food Store, a new grocery for West's Red and White, a new furniture store for the Ratliff Furniture Company, and repairs and rebuilding of the Bushart and Sorenson buildings will cost close to $200,000.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company reports that new connections are outpacing the disconnects by a considerable margin, and other utility companies confirm this. Moreover, a quick check of the local lumber yards discloses the fact that house building is proceeding as rapidly as the weather will permit.

Another construction job almost completed is the Rockport Yacht and Supply building.

Jean Lafitte
Once Haunted
Coastal Bend

In the career of Jean Lafitte, pirate and patriot, it is impossible to tell where history ends and tradition begins. His story is a patchwork of lurid adventure, true historical facts, romance, and countless legends, the latest of which is now being shown on the nation's screens with Yul Brynner acting the hero.

Frank Dobie has immortalized Lafitte in "Coronado's Children." Lyle Saxon and at least a score of others have devoted whole books to him. And there have been hundreds of newspaper and magazine articles about the freebooter, but no one knows the whole truth about him—not even his pretty great-great-great granddaughter, Mrs. Jean Reve Thomas, an art teacher at Alice.

For more than 100 years Lafitte's hoard has been the goal of every treasure seeker along the Gulf Coast, and practically every cove and inlet along the shores of Texas—to say nothing of the bays and bayous of Louisiana—has its tale of chests of massy gold and glittering gems buried by this Creole buccaneer.

Only this past summer Houstonians A. C. Sorelle and sons were searching Hendricks Lake, near Tatum, for six wagon loads of silver bars and a number of hogs heads of gold hidden there by Lafitte, valued at $2 million.

Not far from Sylvan Beach is a chest waiting for some lucky finder—still guarded by the ghost of the pirate. On Galveston Island an old landmark—the Three Trees—is still pointed out as a site where Lafitte buried treasure, but the only buccaneers found there nowadays are modern missees from the Chamber of Commerce.

At Gold Point, near the mouth of the Colorado, more of Lafitte's booty was long supposed to have been hidden, but may have been found by three Austin citizens—Dr. Joseph F. Wooten, J. P. Lightfoot and Dave Harrell—just before World War I, if reports of old Port O'Connor fishermen can be trusted.

It is hoped that bureau experiments will make it possible for the fishing industry to detect every bone in the early stages of processing and to produce a completely bone-free fish for the market, thus stepping up consumption of this seafood.

The southern coast of Texas knew Lafitte also, a fact commemorated every year by the Buccaneer Days Fiesta at Corpus Christi, which this year is scheduled for May 1-10.

Cedar Bayou, a narrow, twisting pass between Matagorda and St. Joseph's islands, was a favorite haunt of the pirate. He used this as a gateway to Aransas and Copano bays, where he was protected from gunboats by his knowledge of the reefs.

Smugglers Bayou, in present Calhoun County, was a favorite resort for this shady business man, as were Copano and Barkantine creeks in modern Refugio County.

The buccaneer maintained a fort on the southern end of St. Joseph Island, not far from the present site of the palatial home of Fort Worth oil man Sid Richardson, sallying forth from there in search of prey. One of the last ships he attacked off the Texas coast, an unidentified merchantman, was supposed to have carried $500,000 in gold to the bottom off northern Padre Island, although pirates recovered some of the treasure and buried it near old Corpus Christi Pass.

And, according to old settlers in the region, the last meeting of Lafitte and his freebooters was held at False Live Oak Point, on the present Aransas Wildlife Refuge, where America's only flock of whooping cranes spends the winter. There they split the spoils before scattering, and some of the money is still supposed to be buried close by.

But Lafitte, harried by the warships of Spain, Great Britain and the United States, left the U. S. where all ports were closed to him, and took refuge in Yucatan. There, in the little village of Silan, not far from Merida, he died, unwept, unhonored, but not unup, for his name lives after him.

And there are some who say that—when the moon, like some great golden doublet or piece-of-eight, rises high over the long white beaches of St. Joseph, and the green waves break in tumbling foam along the shore—then the ghost of Jean Lafitte walks these sands again, his lean, tanned face turned towards the sea and his cape fluttering behind him in the southeastern trades.

Gary Frazier, who has been ill with pneumonia is doing nicely now.

MARCH MOVIES AT COVE ARE OUTSTANDING

The film fare at the Cove Drive-In Theatre should appeal to everyone during the month of March. According to Ed Barnard, for many years your local theatre manager, it is not often that outstanding pictures are lined up one after the other for a solid month as they are this month. Each is simply packed with entertainment! Beginning with Disney's "White Wilderness", starting Thursday, and followed with "Party Girl", "Torpedo Run", "Gigi", "Some Came Running", "Damn Yankees", "The Defiant Ones" (watch for Academy Award honors on this one), and "Home Before Dark."

For fans who have been locked in by foul weather for so long, they should welcome this opportunity for many fine evenings of outdoor entertainment. For a few of the better ones there will be a slight increase in admission, but Mr. Barnard states, this would not be necessary if only more people would attend regularly.
 Watch the Cove ad in The Pilot each week for play dates. You won't be sorry!

At Fifth Avenue and 23rd Street in New York City, in a tiny public park, is a small monument to General William Worth. Of the millions who pass by that spot, few realize that the general himself lies buried there. Fort Worth is named after this officer of the Mexican War.

Bob Hamblin has been presented with the OAS Westinghouse Plaque for Opportunity, Assistance and Security, by W. W. Trice, territory manager of Westinghouse appliance sales. The award was made for outstanding performance and distribution of Westinghouse appliances in the Rockport area, and the participation of Rockport Electric Company in the Westinghouse "Desi-Lucy Wonderama Days", a national promotion sponsored on TV Monday nights and in all national magazines and newspapers.
 Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Hamblin, owners of Rockport Electric Company, have been in business here for over 14 years.

Collum by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of Rockport hereby proclaim March 12 of this year 1959 as Girl Scout Week and March 12 as the 47th Anniversary of the founding of Girl Scouting in the United States of America. IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Property Rendering Deadlines Near

April 1 will be the deadline for most Texans to render their property to certain taxing agencies. State laws require all real and personal property to be rendered for taxes on or before prescribed dates. Those who fail to comply can blame only themselves for the money loss they may consequently suffer.

Some Texas cities set their own tax deadlines. These are the cities of more than 5,000 population which have incorporated under the "Home Rule" provisions of our statutes. All other cities are governed by the general laws of Texas.

In towns operating under the general laws property must be rendered for taxes between January 1 and April 1 each year. A number of home rule cities set up the same requirements in their ordinances, while others prescribe different periods.

For state and county tax purposes, property must be rendered to the County Tax Assessor by April 30, and homestead exemptions must be claimed by the same time.

In some localities a third taxing unit is involved—the independent school district. In other places school taxes are collected by the city or county. In addition, some localities have water, irrigation, or levee districts which assess and collect taxes. Make inquiry as to where these various taxes are assessed, and as to applicable deadlines for rendition.

What property must be rendered for taxes? If Texas laws were strictly enforced, we would be required to render to all taxing units nearly every piece of real and personal property which we own, down to the very clothing on our backs. An exception is the constitutional exemption of $250 worth of household furniture. However, no taxing unit carries their requirements this far, and it will be necessary to inquire of each tax assessor when rendering your property whether specific types of property are ordinarily rendered in that locality. Some cities and counties collect ad valorem on automobiles, television sets and other personal items, while other ignore practically all personal property. Business and professional men are generally required to render all merchandise, furnishings, fixtures, business automobiles and equipment.

If property is not rendered by the tax payer, it may be placed upon the unrendered tax roll, and the taxing agency places such valuation thereon as it considers fair. One advantage of rendering your property is that you can set your own valuation. Then, if the county or city decides a higher valuation is in order, you will be given an opportunity to appear before a board to explain why the higher figure should not be used in computing your taxes.

Thereafter, an appeal to the courts is possible in some instances. Generally speaking, however, the courts are unable to strike out a valuation unless the agency or board has acted arbitrarily and placed on the property a valuation higher than that placed on comparable property owned by others. If you do not

47 ATTEND TOURIST PARTY

Forty-seven guests attended the Monday tourist party in the Woman's Club on Texas Independence Day, according to Mrs. Joe Slocum.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. A. C. Glass, Mrs. John Cox and Mrs. Dave Tandy.

The decorations carried out the Independence Day theme, and the serving table was centered by the six flags under which Texas has had its existence.

Bridge winners were Mrs. Frank Boyle, of Tucson, Ariz., high; Mrs. Helen Mingus, Eaton Rapids, Mich., second high; and the consolation prize went to Mrs. G. R. Pennett, a new resident of Rockport.

Mrs. Daisy Stanley was high at canasta, and Mrs. H. M. Covington, of Teague, Texas, received the consolation prize.

The bingo prize was won by Mrs. Ted Giese.

render, the valuation set by the taxing agency is final.

Remember these facts: You may need to render your property at three or more different tax offices. Ask each assessor if in doubt concerning the deadline or the rendering of specific personal items.

The Declaration of Independence does not carry the phrase "free and equal" as frequently quoted. Jefferson's original draft state that "all men are created equal and independent." The last two words were deleted in the final draft. The Massachusetts constitution, as well as certain other state documents, carries "free and equal."

Early experimenters with internal combustion engines used gunpowder as fuel.

Beverly Hills, residential community of movie stars and millionaires near Los Angeles, has big game hunting right at its borders. The mountainous area nearby supports a deer population so heavy that overgrazing is a problem. Rifles would be too dangerous for the human residents, so fish and game authorities open the area to an annual bow-and-arrow hunt.

Moreover, Ingram told the chronicles, all the people wore golden ornaments and some of them pearls, and in places their household utensils were of massive silver. However much we may be disinclined to believe this, which, after all, is merely what people expected of a man that had been to the Indies, there seems little reason to doubt some of the rest of the tale, which, scholars now believe is essentially true, if we leave out the unessential embroidery.

Many of the Indians were cannibals, the seaman stated, a thing that modern historians and archeologists all say was true of the Karankawas, early Indian tribe along the coast. And he also speaks of "great plains, as large and gaye in many places as may be seen, being as plaine as a board."

An these plains "was a very great store of buffes, which are beasts as large as two oxen, in length almost twentie foot, having long ears like a bloodhound, with long hairs about their ears, their horns be crooked like a ram's horns, with haire long, blacke, rough, and shagged as a goat."

These were, of course, buffalo, and, next to de Vaca, Ingram was probably one of the first white men that ever saw them, as there is little historical evidence that they ever reached as far south as the Spanish settlements in Mexico.

Englishman Early Explorer of the Coastal Bend

Although Cabeza de Vaca and his companions were the first white men to visit the Coastal Bend of Texas, which, in those days was included in the Spanish dominion of Mexico, the next Europeans to traverse it were Englishmen — David Ingram and two companions — who traveled north along the coast only 41 years after the doughty Spaniard was cast ashore on Galveston Island.

Ingram and his friends were sailors in the fleet of Sir John Hawkins, one of Queen Elizabeth's admirals that helped whip the Spanish Armada, and a bitter foe of Spain. On his third trip to the Spanish Indies, Hawkins, his ships all sunk by Spanish treachery, except the tiny Jesus of Lubeck and the Minion, was forced to set 114 of his men ashore on the Mexican Coast, just north of where Tampico now stands.

One hundred and eleven of these men surrendered to, or were captured by, the Spaniards, who called them "English Dogs and Lutheran heretikes" and tortured and burned them, or condemned them to the galleys, through the offices of the Inquisition.

However, Ingram and the two men with him, preferring to trust the savage wilderness rather than the still more savage Spaniards, fled north through Mexico and Texas, arriving at last in the year 1569, at a port on the eastern coast of Canada, whence they returned home, to chronicle their trip in the first edition of Hakluyt's Voyages.

To those who know the country through which Ingram, Brown and Twide traveled, their descriptions may sound a little odd, but are all of a piece with the other marvelous tales of that day and age, when the wonders of the new world were just becoming known.

"The kings in those countries are clothed with painted or coloured garments, and thereby you may know them, and they wear great precious stones, which commonly are rubies, being four inches long and two inches broad. And if the same be taken from them, either by force or by sleight, they are presently deprived of their kingdoms."
